Emma St. Onge lost a $5 bill on Sunday. If the finder will return it a reward will be given.

William Andrews and Fred Edwards, who are at work for the Springfield Union, spent Sunday in town.

Howarth's Hibernica and panorama, with a company of 15 people, will be exhibited here next Friday evening.

There have been two or three deaths from measles during the past week, and many are confined to their houses with the malady.

Mrs. John Foster died at her home on Saturday after several months' illness, and leaves a family of six small children. Mr. Foster has the sympathy of the community in his sad affliction.

Thomas Murphy met with an accident in the cloth room of the mill on Saturday. While at work cleaning a fellow workman started a machine known as the shearer, and Murphy was cut about the arm and one foot.

The Columbian Minstrel entertainment [illegible] on Wednesday [illegible] next, and promises to be well attended. The proceeds are to be used to purchase instruments for the band. A social dance will follow, with music by the Palmer Orchestra, and Ben. Chadwick will prompt. The company has made arrangements to play at Belchertown the following night.

This being the last week of Lent, called Holy week, Stations, or Way of the Cross, will be held at 7 this evening at St. Mary's Catholic church, and to-morrow morning the blessing of the Easter water will take place at mass at 7 o'clock. On Sunday there will be two masses, celebrated by the pastor, the first at 8 and the second at 11. The following progamme will be given under the direction of Organist J. F. Luman:

Vida Aquem ..... Arr. Luman
Kyrie Eleison, Eb. ..... Leonard
Gloria ..... Bach
Credo ..... Curto
Offertory—Regina Cælia ..... Luman
Sanctus, Bb ..... Leonard
Benedictus ..... Leonard
Agnus Dei ..... Leonard

At 3 p. m. vespers and benediction, at which the following programme will be given:

Dixit Dominum ..... Gregorian
Confitabor ..... Gregorian
Beatus Vir ..... Gregorian
Laudate Pueri ..... Gregorian
Laudate Dominum ..... Gregorian
Offertory Solo ..... Selected
Magnificat ..... Gregorian
O Salutaris ..... Rosewig
Tantum Ergo ..... Fischer

THREE RIVERS.

Frank Tarbox is ill with the measles.

Bert Barker is spending his Easter vacation at home.

Henry Ferrill is the latest to appear on the pneumatic wheels.

Mrs. Henry Burr spent Sunday in Springfield with friends.

Louis Auger has provided himself with one of the best pneumatic bicycles.

Miss Carrie Towne of Northampton is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Heman Fish.

John F. Twiss has purchased a handsome pair of horses for use on his new hack.

Walter Trickett is slowly recovering from the injury he received a few weeks ago.

J. K. Knox, who has been suffering from erysipelas for some time, is slightly better.

Mrs. Talmadge is quite ill this week and is attended by her sister, Mrs. Grant of Springfield.

John R. Clark of Buffalo, N. Y., is to lecture in the Union church about the middle of April.

The Ladies' Society has elected Mrs. Lavine treasurer and Miss Etta Ruggles secretary.

Mr. Provost of Springfield addressed the French people in the Union church Sunday afternoon.

William Thompson of Saco, Me., a former resident here, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gannan.

F. A. Upham has had a two-wheeled steed made to order, through the agency of E. A. Buck & Co. of Palmer.

Mrs. George Orcutt intends soon to leave for a Western trip, including Denver, Col., and other places of interest.

The superintendents and teachers of the Union church met at the home of Mrs. Lavine Wednesday evening to complete the arrangements for the concert that is to be given in the church a week from next Sunday.

Shaw Brothers are selling round-trip tickets to the World's Fair. The price of the ticket is $54, this guaranteeing first-class accommodations en route, lodging at a reliable hotel, and free admission to the grounds for seven days, which makes the trip much cheaper than most people have supposed.

While Messrs. N. K. Nichols and F. W. Lavine, with their wives and Miss Nettie Thayer, were returning from the Sunday school convention at Bondsville last Friday night, when about midway between the villages one of the wheels of the carriage broke down, tipping the vehicle over and spilling the party into the mud of road. Fortunately the horse was secured before any damage was done.

On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haynes were pleasantly and completely surprised by about fifty of their friends and neighbors, the occasion being the fifth anniversary of their wedding, and they were presented with a fine extension table and an easy chair. Coffee and cake were partaken of, and a really social time indulged in, after which the party took their leave, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Haynes many such anniversary days.

BORN.

At Thorndike, 30th, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. JAMES LOFTUS.

At Pittsfield, 28th, a daughter, (Mildred Gertrude) to WILFRED and GERTRUDE NOBLE.

MARRIED.

At Palmer, 25th, by Rev. S. T. Frost, ARTHUR S. LEMAR of Palmer and LOTTIE WEEKS of Hingham, Mass.

At Three Rivers, 25th, by Rev. S. S. Butler, HUGH HENRIHSON and JULIA BRESSETTE.

DIED.

At Palmer, 25th, LEON, 3 m. 18 d., infant son of Ernest and Lena Buffington.

At Three Rivers, 27th, SARAH A. JONES, 83 y. 5 m. 27 d.

At Monson, 28th, SUSAN E. WILLIAMS, 70.

At Warren, 30th, Miss ANN BLAIR, 95 y. 10 d., aunt of Mrs. S. Smith, Mrs. S. Brown and W. H. Hitchcock of Palmer.

WANTED—Farm horse.
2-52 MRS. G. H. FAY, Palmer.

SQUARE PIANO—For sale cheap for cash or installments. W. E. STONE.

TO RENT—Tenement corner Park and Maple streets. Inquire of W. W. LEACH. tf-41

TO RENT.—Three tenements—two lower, one upper.
2-53 H. D. CONVERSE.

WANTED—Salesmen; salary and expenses from start; steady work; good chance for advancement. BROWN BROS. CO., Nurserymen, 4-52 Rochester, N. Y.

NEAT STOCK FOR SALE—One pair oxen and several Jersey and high grade milch cows.
GEORGE ROBINSON.
Palmer, July 27, 1892. tf-18

TO RENT.—House of ten rooms on Maple street. Good orchard on the lot. Inquire at Central Street Restaurant, or of tf-53 JAMES HENIGHAN.

BICYCLE FOR SALE.

Century Columbia Light Roadster Safety, '92 pattern, pneumatic tires, in A No. 1 condition.
CHANDLER BROS., Palmer.

TO RENT—My late residence, corner Church and Pleasant streets; 9 rooms and furnace. Also two smaller tenements. Inquire of
E. J. WOOD,
tf-6 or MRS. O. M. WOOD.

FOR SALE—Village farm in Monson, Mass. Farm of 41 acres, cuts 13 to 14 tons of hay, with machine. Good fair house painted white, large new barn 36x40 with cellar, spring water in house and barn. Land in excellent condition. Ten minutes walk to R. R. station, church, stores, schools, etc. A very desirable location.
4*53 ROSE P. WALLACE, Monson, Mass.

WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS.

I have three commodious comfortable rooms in my own home, which I will rent at $1.50 per day for each room. With a cot three persons can occupy a room. Within easy access of the Exposition grounds. Cool, quiet, clean, cheap. Write at once for dates. (Rev.) G. S. ROLLINS, 4*51 7231 Union Ave., Chicago.

FIRE DISTRICT MEETING.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. To the qualified voters in Fire District No. 1 in Palmer:

You are hereby notified to meet at the Eastern Hampden District Court-Room in said Palmer on Tuesday, the eleventh day of April next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, to act on the following articles, viz:

ARTICLE 1. To choose a Moderator to preside at said meeting.

ART. 2. To choose a clerk, treasurer, prudential committee and board of engineers and all other officers and committees that may be necessary for the ensuing year and give them instructions.

ART. 3. To hear the report of the treasurer, prudential committee and board of engineers and act on the same.

ART. 4. To raise such sums of money as may be necessary to pay the expenses of the fire department and annual rental of the Palmer Water Company and Palmer & Monson Electric Company and appropriate the same.

ART. 5. To see what action the district will take towards paying the board of engineers, firemen and treasurer for their services for the ensuing year.

ART. 6. To see what action the district will take towards authorizing the collector to add intefest to taxes paid after Sept. 1st of the ensuing year.

ART. 7. To see what action the district will take towards lighting its streets and whether it will authorize the prudential committee to make a contract with the Palmer & Monson Electric Company or any company and party therefor and raise money for the same.

ART. 8. To raise a sum of money to pay the expenses of the annual inspection.

Given under my hands this thirtieth day of March, A. D. 1893.

WILLIAM W. LEACH,
3-53 Clerk of the Fire District.

Note the date.

MARION HARLAND,

Author of "Common Sense in the Household," writes, February 5, 1892: "After long and careful trial of others, I prefer Baking Powder. Cleveland's is a pure cream of tartar and soda mixture, not containing alum or ammonia or any other substance deleterious to the human stomach."

Cleveland's

MARION HARLAND.

CEMETERY MEETING.

To the Proprietors of the Cemetery in the Depot Village of Palmer, Mass.

You are hereby notified to meet at the Eastern Hampden District Court room, in said Palmer, on Thursday, the sixth day of April next, at seven o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of organizing a corporation under the provisions of Chap. 82 of the Public Statutes, and in pursuance thereof to choose a moderator to preside at said meeting and to choose a clerk, treasurer, collector and such committees and other officers as may be thought necessary for the management of the affairs of the corporation, and to adopt a code of by-laws.

This notice is issued pursuant to a warrant this day dated and directed, to me issued under hand of William W. Leach, Esq., a justice of the peace.

Given under my hand this 22d day of March, A. D. 1893.
H. G. LOOMIS,
2-52 One of the applicants for the meeting.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN, ss. PROBATE COURT.—To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Daniel Hartnett, late of Palmer, in said county, deceased. Greeting:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said court, for probate, by Daniel J. Hartnett, of said Palmer, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to Catherine Hartnett, of said Palmer, the executrix therein named, and that she may be exempt from giving a surety on her official bond as such executrix.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Springfield, in said county of Hampden, on the first Wednesday of May next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Palmer Journal, published at Palmer, the last publication to be two days at least before said court, and to mail a copy of such notice to each of said next of kin fourteen days, at least, before said court.

Witness, WILLIAM S. SHURTLEFF, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.
3-52G SAMUEL B. SPOONER, Register.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John K. Knox and Elthina M. Knox, both of Palmer, Mass., to the Palmer Savings Bank, a corporation duly established by law, and having its place of business in said Palmer, dated April 22d, 1889, and recorded in the registry of deeds for the county of Hampden, libro 455, folio 6, will be sold at public auction, at the dwelling house on the premises, on Monday, the seventeenth day of April, 1893, at two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely: A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate in said Palmer, on the road leading from the Depot Village to Palmer Center, and bounded easterly by land formerly of A. N. Dewey, Samuel Shaw and the estate of Azel Brakenridge; southerly by lands formerly of P. W. Webster, John A. Squier, Michael O'Neill, John M. Converse and Peggy Knox; westerly by the old Boston turnpike, and northerly by land formerly of J. W. Weeks, containing one hundred and eighty-six acres of land, more or less, and is the farm formerly occupied by said John K. and Elthina M. Subject to the rights of all parties in the aqueducts thereon and to the rights of the public in all highways passing through the same.

$300 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK,
Mortgagee.
By W. W. LEACH, its Attorney.
Palmer, Mass., March 21st, 1893. 3-52

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. PROBATE COURT.—To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Joseph W. Fitton, late of Palmer, in said county, deceased. Greeting:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said court, for probate, by Joseph W. Fitton of Worcester in said Commonwealth, who represents that one of the executors named in said will has deceased, and that the other refuses the trust, and who prays that letters of administration, with the will annexed, may be issued to him, without the giving of surety or sureties on his official bond pursuant to the statute.

You are hereby cited to appear at a probate court to be held at Springfield, on the first Wednesday of May next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Palmer Journal, published at Palmer, the last publication to be two days at least before said court.

Witness, WILLIAM S. SHURTLEFF, Esquire, Judge of said court, this twenty-fourth day of March in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety three.
SAMUEL B. SPOONER,
3-53 Register.

TO THE HONORABLE THE JUSTICES OF THE SUPERIOR COURT.

Humbly shows that Emily F. Rawson of Holland, in said county of Hampden, that she was lawfully married to Albert K. Rawson of parts unknown, at Putnam, in the State of Connecticut, on the 26th day of November, A. D. 1881, that they have since lived together as husband and wife in Putnam, Conn., and Worcester, in said county of Worcester, and your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, yet the said Albert K. Rawson, being wholly regardless of the same, on divers occasions has cruelly and abusively treated her; that he has contracted gross and confirmed habits of intoxication; and that being of sufficient ability he grossly and wantonly and cruelly refuses and neglects to provide suitable maintenance for her; and has on divers days between her said marriage with him and this date committed the crime of adultery with divers lewd women to your libellant unknown.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bond of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Albert K. Rawson, and for such further orders and decrees in the premises as to law and justice may appertain.

EMILY F. RAWSON.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. Superior court at Springfield. March 17th, A. D. 1893.

On the libel aforesaid it is ordered that the libellant notify the said Albert K. Rawson, to appear before the justices of this court, at Springfield, aforesaid, on the first Monday of May next, by publishing an attested copy of said libel and this order, once a week, in the Palmer Journal, a newspaper printed in Palmer, in said county, three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of May; and also by causing an attested copy of said libel, and this order, to be sent by letter, registered, if practicable, to the last known residence of the said libellee, fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of May, that he may then and there show cause why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest: ROBERT O. MORRIS, Clerk.
A copy of the libel as amended and order of notice.
3-52 Attest: ROBERT O. MORRIS, Clerk.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss.

March 20th, A. D. 1893.

By virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment recovered in the District Court of Eastern Hampden at Palmer, in said county, on the 18th day of February, A. D. 1893, in favor of Clarence A. Brown and Ebenezer Brown, both of Palmer, in said county, co-partners in business under the firm name of C. A. Brown & Company, and against Lucy Anna C. Bloomingdale, of Brimfield, in said county aforesaid, I have this day seized and taken all the right, title and interest which the above-named Lucy Anna C. Bloomingdale had on the twenty-seventh day of September, A. D. 1889, the day when the same was attached on mesne process in said action, in and to a certain tract of unincumbered real estate, with the buildings thereon, situate in Brimfield, in said county of Hampden, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit: In the westerly part of Brimfield, beginning at a rock with stones on it and a corner bound of Eli Gardner land; thence N 24° west 18 rods to a stake and stone; thence N 68¾° west 12 rods to a stake and stone on the west side of the road; thence N 10¾° west 25 rods on the road to a stake and stone; thence N 89½° E 29 rods to a stake and stone; thence S 65½° E 46 rods to a rock and stones east side of the brook; thence S 87° E 39 rods to Fay's corner; thence N 14° E 65 rods on Fay's line to Bacon's corner; thence N 65° W 85 rods on Bacon's line to a stake and a stone on the east side of the road; thence N 63½° W 5 rods to a stake and stone; thence S 88½° west 30 rods on road to a rock with stones on it; thence S 85½° W 15 rods to a stake and stone; thence S 86½° W 37 rods on the road to J. Nichols' corner; thence S 6° E 138 rods on said Nichols' line to Eli Gardner's corner; thence N 71° E 45 rods to the first mentioned bound, containing 88 acres and 104 rods, more or less, reserving to the public the right to passing over the highway through said premises, being the same premises conveyed by Lambert E. Ferry by deed dated February 8th, 1879, and recorded with Hampden Registry of Deeds, book 355, page 513, to which deed and deeds therein referred to reference is hereby made; also the same premises described in a deed thereof recorded in said registry of deeds, book 416, page 253. And on Saturday, the 29th day of April, A. D. 1893, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, in front of the court house in said Palmer, I shall offer for sale by public auction, to the highest bidder, said right, title and interest in and to said unincumbered real estate, to satisfy said execution and all fees and charges of sale. W. H. BRAINERD,
3-52 Deputy Sheriff.

C. W. CROSS,

DENTIST.

OFFICE HOURS,
8.30 a. m. to 12 m. 1.30 to 5.30 p. m.

New Process—Use of "Odontunder" for the extraction of teeth without pain.
LAWRENCE BLOCK. tf-5

C. H. HOBBY,
PIANO TUNER.
Orders for tuning may be left at O. P. Allen's drug store, Palmer; or may be sent to me by mail to Mansfield, Ct.

HERSEY & SON,

GENERAL

House Furnishers.

385 MAIN STREET, - SPRINGFIELD, MASS.,
(Opposite Haynes Hotel.)

One of the largest and best equipped house furnishing establishments in Western Massachusetts.

Five Floors packed with Goods!

Including everything necessary for successful housekeeping, and all connected by our safety elevator.

OUR AIM IS

That our goods shall be reliable. Our prices low and our terms as easy and liberal as any house furnishing establishment in New England and we are confident that a personal inspection of our goods and a comparison of prices will justify our claim.

DON'T FAIL TO EXAMINE IT.

"SCHEPPS' PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD,"

A beautiful book containing over 250 views from all parts of the world.

One of these beautiful $5 books free to every purchaser of $50 worth or more of goods any time beetween this and Sept. 1st.

HERSEY & SON.

MILLINERY.

SPRINGFIELD AS A TRADE CENTER.

Where to buy millinery is a very easy problem in this city.

S. Levison

has the latest styles and largest assortment. His

HATS AND BONNETS

are correct in every way. Do you know that it would pay you to come here to trade? We'll warrant a saving of an extra expense and more too. Try it.

350 Main Street.

GRAND

OPENING

April 1st

OF LOTS OF NEW THINGS IN SHOES

FOR EASTER.

IF YOU HAVE A NEW HAT OR BONNET FOR EASTER DON'T BE WITHOUT A NEW PAIR OF SHOES.

SEE OUR WINDOWS

AND THE NEW THINGS IN

FFFFFFF
FF ULLER'S
FF LEXIBLE
FFFF INE
FF ITTING
FF OOTWEAR.
FFFF

Monson, - - Mass.

SALESMEN!

We want more AGENTS

at home or to travel. Salary or commission. Cash advanced for expenses. Good territory for those who apply early. Write for terms.
R. G. CHASE & CO.,
8-52 23 Pemberton Sq., Boston, Mass.

NOTICE is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of Elijah E. Tarbell, late of Brimfield, Mass., in the county of Hampden, deceased; and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bonds as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to MARY H. TARBELL, Exc.

Brimfield, Mass., March 20, 1893. 3-52

WE CLOSE TUESDAY AND THURSDAY EVENINGS AT 6.30.

150° Water White Oil 10c Gallon.

STONE, THE GROCER.
Palmer.

CARRIAGE WOOD WORK.

Having returned to Palmer, after an absence of thirty years, I w

The Journal.

EVENING, MARCH 31, 1893.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

MONSON.

Miss Rachel McMullen is quite ill.

Capt. Foskit is quite sick with the grippe.

Mrs. Seth Bradway is ill with the grippe.

Mrs. John Bucklin is sick with the grippe.

Mrs. Chas. Stebbins is ill with rheumatism.

Prof. D. M. Dustan is in Hartford this week.

Master Dwight Ellis is riding a pneumatic safety.

Drunkenness is quite common in the streets.

Lizzie Walcott is sick at the home of J. C. Adrich.

Miss Mabel Anderson is visiting friends in New York.

Arthur Robinson is ill in Albany with typhoid fever.

Thomas Sault is to move into Frank D. Beach's house.

Winnie Thayer has returned from a visit at Wilbraham.

Edward Donovan is breaking his mustang colt to harness.

Frank Briggs of New London is visiting A. E. Maxwell.

Henry Morris spent Sunday with frisnds in Belchertown.

Asa Smith of Belchertown spent Sunday with R. C. Miller.

Mrs. Peter Ward is making some stylish dresses for Easter.

Miss Hattie F. Cushman spent a few days in Boston last week.

John Moriarty has hired the old Burke farm on Moulton Hill.

Miss Alice Darling has sold her bicycle and bought a later pattern.

H. E. Alger is soon to move into the house with Rev. James Tufts.

Wilbur Fay is having considerable trouble with a sliver in his hand.

The new curate at St. Patrick's church is Mr. Mullen of Worcester.

Mr. Paterson is breaking E. F. Morris's three-years-old colt to harness.

Timothy Coughlin now serves E. J. Hughes, the tea merchant.

A new platform has been laid in front of Danforth's block this week.

Susan E. Williams, aged 70 years, died at her home last Tuesday night.

Nellie Morgan of Wilbraham is visiting her sister, Mrs. Fred Thayer.

Justin Carew has purchased of W. Carroll his bay mare "Maud Muller."

Miss L. A. Wiswell of Quincy is spending a few days with Mrs. John Cross.

Mrs. E. L. Wales has been spending a few days with her sister in Worcester.

The Dorcas society will hold its last meeting for the season next Wednesday.

Eugene Fosket is shingling his newly-purchased house on North Main street.

Connolly the tailor leaves next week for a visit to his sisters in Montreal, Can.

E. R. Bates is once more a resident of this town, and all are glad to see him back.

Mrs. W. N. Flynt has spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Foster, in Pittsfield.

Henry Newton of Amherst is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Newton.

"Christ's resurrection, the focal point of interest," Rev. Mr. Marble's Easter sermon.

Rev. Alexander Dight, a former pastor, will preach in the Methodist church April 8th.

Capt. G. H. Foskit is sick with a cold, also E. J. Osborne, Henry Bugbee and John Sault.

The subject of Col. Conwell's lecture April 26th will be "The Angel's Lily," a new lecture.

The M. E. Sunday school will give an Easter concert next Sabbath evening at seven o'clock.

Mrs. Bates died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Crosby, on South Main street Sunday.

Norcross Bros. are out with a newly painted delivery wagon and a silver-mounted harness.

Edwin Bates and family have returned to Monson, having lived at Amherst for several years past.

The body of Mrs. Timothy Feather, a former resident, was brought to town for burial Wednesday.

Charles Merrick is making extensive repairs on his residence, and is to remove the fence in front.

McFarland of the Central market is out with a newly-purchased gray horse for his delivery wagon.

Lynde Miller has invented a valve which is being used at Heimann & Lichten's shop, and is a success.

Miss Alice Morris returned to Monson Wednesday, and is to spend the Easter vacation with her parents.

Miss Mabel Anderson will spend next week in New York, and later visit friends in Milford and Worcester.

Miss Mary Gage's Sunday school class called on her Wednesday evening and presented her with a book.

Marcius Lull, who has recently left the employ of Norcross Bros., has taken a position with Howe & Pease.

On Sunday evening a horse—"Old Dan"—owned by Mrs. Mary Squier broke his leg, and was shot by H. C. Norcross.

Solomon Squier is to bring water from a spring on Charles King's property to the house occupied by Frank Tobey.

A daughter, Mildred Gertrude, was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noble of Pittsfield, formerly of this place.

The gas refused to burn Sunday evening at the Universalist church, but lamps were brought in and the service continued.

The registration of voters was completed Wednesday night, there being 723 names on the list, 7 less than for the fall election.

Con. Sullivan, who has been spending the winter South, is home owing to the severe illness of his mother, Margaret Sullivan.

In the fourth quarterly conference of the M. E. church Mr. Marble received a unanimous call to return to his present charge.

Special services will be held Easter morning at the Congregational church. In the evening at six o'clock a concert will be given.

Mr. Fiske of North Main street is to move his family to Westfield next Tuesday, and there are many who regret their departure.

Some of the roads leading out of the village are in bad condition. In one place a man was seen shoveling snow into the road.

Mary Smith was called to Fitchburg a few days ago by the sickness of her two brothers, Horace and Arthur Field, formerly of this town.

The following pupils at No. 2. school were present each day last term: Bertha I. Gould, Arthur K. Howe, Charles A. Parker and Hector Aldrich.

One of the plate glass window in Davis's block was broken by boys some evening of last week, and efforts are being made to find the guilty ones.

Artist Gaouette took a ride to Palmer on his safety Wednesday. He says the roads were pretty muddy, but thinks he was the first to venture through.

Poles are being set on the road to Brimfield from the quarry bridge to the road to the Catholic cemetery, and two lights are to be placed in that locality.

Harry Merchant left Wednesday for the west on a business trip. He is now with a boot and shoe firm of Worcester, and his many friends here wish him success.

A party of 15 is already formed to visit the World's Fair. They are to leave Boston May 6th in a special car. Other parties are contemplating going in the same way.

There seems to be some misunderstanding about the meetings of the Woman's Relief Corps. They are held on the second Wednesdays and fourth Fridays of each month.

W. H. Horton and wife, formerly of this town, but who have had charge of the county home at Rockville for some time, are to return to Monson to live in the early spring.

It is reported that Henry Robbins is to leave town and make his home in New Haven in the near future. Mr. Robbins has many friends here who will regret his departure.

The town meeting day dinner served by the Woman's Relief Corps at Grand Army hall is to consist of baked beans, brown bread, oysters. pies, doughnuts, tea, coffee, etc.

Next Tuesday the Epworth League will hold a conference and reception in Holyoke, representing the Springfield district. The society of the M. E. church here will be represented.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Flynt, Miss Myrta Fiske, Miss Myra Fiske, Miss Mabel Gates, C. A. Bradway and others attended the Paderewski concert at Springfield last Friday evening.

Charles Buffington has an arrangement for fitting up hot air furnaces and coal stoves with pipes to carry hot water and steam to any part of the house, in connection with the regular heat.

Many will regret that C. L. Stiles, the agent of the New London Northern road, is to leave Monson early in April. Mr. Stiles has lived in Monson nearly 12 years, and has made many friends.

Marvin Bradway has received several large shipments of furniture from the factory this week, and Monson people would do well to visit his store before going out of town to buy what is kept here.

The Woman's Relief Corps has 74 members, has been organized 17 months, and has given $75 to soldiers' families in town, besides paying all running expenses and having quite a bank account.

Miss Whitney's room at No. 1. school, Miss Walker's and Miss Collis's at No. 15 are overcrowded. The extra seats at Miss Collis's have been put in. Esther Stebbins and Gertrude Bennett assist at No. 15.

The M. E. church has appointed a committee to consider the feasibility of either buying or building a parsonage. The building now used as such is rented from a stock company composed of the officers of the church.

In consequence of a severe illness Miss Mary Peck was obliged to return to her home from Chicago. Her friend, Miss Godfrey, accompanied her as nurse. Miss Godfrey intends to leave Monson for Chicago in a few days.

It will pay any one to visit the store of W. N. Flynt & Sons and see the new scales recently put in use there. They weigh the article and at the same time indicate the cash value. It is necessary to see them to understand the method.

The financial reports of the various societies of the M. E. church show a year of marked temporal prosperity. Every bill has been paid, although the financial year has not yet closed. A new year will be begun with a clean sheet.

The town report is out and has been examined by many. The selectmen give a most excellent showing. Miss Wood's report on the conditon of the schools is brief but to the point, and she is to be congratulated on the good work she has accomplished.

Many Monson people will be pleased to learn that Lawyer H. A. King, a former Monson boy, and who had a successful law practice in Troy, N. Y., for the past ten years, has decided to locate in Springfield and is to move his family there the first of May.

At the Universalist church next Sunday the following musical programme will be rendered:

Organ Voluntary.....
Anthem. "Christ, Our Passover, is Sacrificed for Us".....Hewitt
Selection. "Hail the Day that Sees Him Rise."
Anthem. "Magnify and Praise Him; Glory be to God".....Perkins
Selection. "Lift Your Glad Voices".....

In the evening there will be an Easter concert by the children of the Sunday school, at which the carol anthem, "Easter Bells are Ringing," by Brackett, will be sung.

The Millinery Openings.

WITH APOLOGIES.

How dear to this heart is the sweet Easter bonnet,
The love of a bonnet presented to view;
With jet and with lace and with delicate violets,
And all the fresh fancies the milliner knew.
The wide-spreading bow with the buckle upon it,
The straps and the pins to fasten it well,
The look of my father when I asked him to buy it—
Oh, the small Easter bonnet so bewitchingly swell!
The sweet Easter bonnet, the love of a bonnet,
The dear Easter bonnet my heart loves so well.

M. & M. Gavin's spring opening of millinery and fancy goods was well attended and was worthy the attention it received. Fancy split and lace braids predominated for brims of both hats and bonnets. Some had flower crowns, some gilt crowns, and some no crowns. Green and white was a favorite combination; pink had a good showing, but violet in its various shades reigned supreme. Buckles seemed to have taken a firmer hold than ever before—were seen on every hat, in fact. A pretty little bonnet was of fancy violet straw, violets filled in the top of the crown and were mingled with the violet ribbon bows. Another was an imported pink lace braid with an open crown; a cluster of pink lilies of the valley and bunch of green leaves formed the trimming. Another was of tan milan—with ties of resida satin ribbon and trimmed with wheat and bows of palm. And still another of lace straw and pink chiffon, edged with a braid of pink beads, with black velvet ribbon ties and bows and black aigrette, received favorable comment. Among the hats were several lace ones, one with jet and immense black gros grain ribbon bows for trimming. Another had yellow roses and satin ribbon bows. The most striking hat, perhaps, had a foundation of violet chiffon held in place by rolls of violet and olive changeable split braid, and trimmed with olive ribbon.

L. & E. Williams had their spring opening Tuesday and Wednesday, and although their display of trimmed goods was not so large, their styles well deserve mention. Among the prettiest hats was one of petunia crepe, edged with a roll of braid of the same popular color and trimmed with ribbon and palm. A neat little bonnet had a fancy woven crown, brim of black lace over velvet, and a bunch of fine pink flowers with fan of lace for trimming and black velvet ties. A green and white hat was much admired, also a very striking large black one, with pinkish violet chiffon bows.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Clark of Charlton visited relatives in East Wilbraham this week.

Rev. N. Vanderpyle, pastor-elect of Grace church, made a short visit here the first of the week.

Messrs. G. L. Gates and H. E. Tupper have bought out the stock in trade and good will of King & Rindge.

The youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. James Canty, which died Friday night, was interred in Chicopee Sunday.

WILBRAHAM.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church met at the house of Mrs. W. R. Newhall Wednesday evening.

Wesleyan Academy.

Wesleyan Academy has opened the spring term with nearly 200 students.

The senior class has elected the following officers: President, A. Spellman; vice president, Carrie Brown; secretary, Bertha Gould; treasurer, J. E. Enman.

The base ball team has made arrangements to play the following games: April 8th, Boston University Law School; 29th, Connecticut Litary Institution; May 6th, Williston; 13th, Wesleyan freshmen; June 3d, Williston; 10th, Amherst college freshmen. All the other Saturdays through the term are open dates. W. C. Hull and B. G. Barton compose the base ball committee. If the weather is suitable a game will be played with the North Wilbrahams on Saturday.

LUDLOW CENTER.

C. E. Chapman has moved from Chicopee back to his farm this week.

There was a Christian Endeaver social at Dea. Clark's Wednesday evening, and the King's Daughters met with Ella Fisher Thursday afternoon and evening.

The church at Ludlow Center was well filled last Sabbath to hear Rev. Mr. Dickey's last words to his people, members from Granby and Belchertown churches being present. The responsive reading was the 91st Psalm, after which "Greenville" was sung. Then was read the 14th chapter of John. Mr. Dickey chose for his text the first clause of the first verse, "Let not your hearts be troubled." At the close of the sermon seven were received into the church, and a Bible given to Mark Dickey in recognition of infant baptism. At the close of the Sabbath school the superintendent, Mr. Sprague, in behalf of the church presented Mr. Dickey with $30. It is expected that Rev. E. H. Knight of Springfield will preach next Sabbath.

BRIMFIELD.

Louis S. Brown leaves for Boston Saturday.

There are a great many sick in town just now.

Mrs. Mary Webber of Springfield has moved into town.

Frank Porter of Rhode Island is visiting his uncle, Mr. Porter of this place.

Clifton Gould is traveling salesman for a wholesale oil house in Springfield.

John Noyes of New York city is in town with his family for a two-weeks' vacation.

Dr. R. V. Sawin was called to Worcester last week by the sudden illness of his father.

Dr. Sawin attended the Eastern Hampden Medical Society meeting in Springfield Thursday.

The Hitchcock Free High School closed its winter term of school to-day. The seniors give an entertainment in the town hall this evening. A fine programme has been carefully selected.

Silas H. Ellery, who has been studying in Baltimore, Md., for the past year, fitting himself for a veterinary surgeon, came to town Wednesday to spend the summer, returning next October to finish his studies.

WEST WARREN.

Mrs. Thomas McElroy is visiting her parents in Woonsocket, R. I.

Mr. Harrington closed his singing class with a concert Thursday night.

Mrs. Nue and son Edward have been stopping a few days with Mrs. A. E. Watts.

Mrs. David Kennedy opened her branch millinery store in Warren Wednesday afternoon.

An Easter concert will be given in the Methodist church Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Ethan T. Hall and children spent Sunday in Worcester with her brother, Adelbert Bemis.

Miss Agnes Welch has moved her millinery goods into the Allen store, and will be open for purchasers Friday and Saturday of this week.

Rev. H. G. Haile of the Warren Congregational church will speak on the license question in the Methodist church Sunday evening at 7.

The weavers and card room hands of No. 4 mill struck for higher wages Monday. Satisfactory prices were given, and all hands returned to work.

Albert E. Watts will move his family to New London, Ct. Mr. Watts has been a citizen of the town for 22 years, and much regret is expressed at losing so good a townsman.

WALES.

Mrs. Davis Perry, who has been quite sick, is fast recovering.

Miss Anna Burly is home from Smith College for a two-weeks' vacation.

Miss Alice Pepper has returned from Springfield to spend a few days at home.

The annual meeting of the Wales Savings Bank will be held next Tuesday at 2.30 p. m.

The timber is being drawn for Shaw's new block to replace the one burned three months ago.

Nathan M. Bradley, who has been quite sick, is much better and will soon be out again.

Robert Lewis has sold his home on Church street to C. M. Thompson and is preparing to move to Monson, where he will build a house.

Rev. H. P. Smith preached a temperance sermon last Sunday morning, and in the evening a union temperance service was held by the Baptist and Methodist churches, in which the pastors discussed the subject of license or no license, and it was counseled that no was the right thing to vote next Monday. A large chorus sang temperance songs, and on the whole it was a wide-awake meeting.

Postmaster Charles Davis died very suddenly March 19th after a sickness of 36 hours. He was stricken down in his office Friday evening with severe pain in the right side, which could not be relieved. He had long thought his heart was affected, and a post mortem examination showed that organ had long been diseased, as well as his liver and stomach. It is a wonder that he kept around as long as he did. He leaves a wife, a mother 87 years old, and a brother.

HOLLAND.

Mrs. Salisbury is quite sick and under the doctor's care.

Miss Abbie J. Wallis has been spending her vacation at home.

The hotel is still waiting for the new landlord to put in an appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Webber had a daughter born to them the 17th inst.

Lemuel E. Howlett has bought the R. A. Blodgett farm and moved to the premises.

Rev. Mr. Bissell's son and daughter are home from Monson Academy on a vacation.

William M. Webber of Worcester and Wiles Williams of Leicester were in town last Sunday.

The selectmen have posted the names of William L. Webber, Horace E. Wallis and Baxter C. Bennett to serve as jurors the coming year if no objection is made by the inhabitants at the annual meeting.

The sociable last week Wednesday evening at the parsonage proved a failure on account of the storm. There was another appointed for Tuesday evening of this week, which passed off very satisfactorily, the weather being more favorable.

The following officers of the Congregational society for the ensuing year have been chosen: Moderator, G. L. Webber; clerk, G. L. Webber; prudential committee, G. L. Webber, H. J. Switzer, William S. Wallis, treasurer, Francis Wight; collector, William Lilley.

Lyman H. Howlett left town this week for South Amherst, where he has purchased a farm. Mr. Howlett's home has always been in town, and both he and his wife's ancestors for several generations have lived and died in town. Mrs. Howlett's great grandfather was the settled minister here probably over 100 years ago.

WARREN.

Miss Kate Chadsey has returned to Wickford.

Miss Alice Demond has returned to town for the Easter vacation.

Miss Emma Ramsdell is spending the week in Boston and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and daughter of Fitchburg were the guests of Lyman Powers last week.

The funeral of the late Faulkner Hill was held at the residence of Nathan Moore Tuesday afternoon.

Henry B. Blackwell of Boston gave an address on Woman's Suffrage at Brigham's Hall Monday evening.

Much sympathy is felt for the family of Mr. Early, whose youngest son was taken to the insane hospital at Worcester Saturday.

The cooking school was held at the town hall Saturday afternoon under the patronage of the Grange was largely attended and proved very pleasing and instructive.

A service consisting of a short sermon, followed by the communion service, will be held in the the Congregational chapel tonight in commemoration of Good Friday.

The new editor of the Herald has the heartiest congratulations and cooperation of the citizens in his new field. He has long wielded the pen of a "ready writer," and by his liberal education and extensive reading is eminently fitted for the position.

Mrs. J. W. Hastings of Maple street gave a "pink tea" to about 150 of her lady friends Saturday afternoon from four to six. Mrs. Houghton of Roslindale received with Mrs. Hastings. Mrs. P. W. Kimball, Mrs. Hale, Mrs. Fred Barlow, Miss Ramsdell, Miss Florence Holman and Miss Emma Ramsdell assisted in the dining room, while a pleasing musical programme was rendered by Mrs. Gay, Mrs. De Laval, Miss Holman and Miss Emma Ramsdell.

The annual parish meeting of the Congregational society was held at the chapel Wednesday evening and the following officers were chosen: Executive committee, J. W. Chadsey, Edward Fairbanks and Dr. J. W. Hastings; clerk and treasurer, Joseph G. Hastings. The society is $300 in debt for the past year, and Messrs. Charles Walker, Fred W. Kimball and Joseph Hastings were appointed a committee of ways and means for cancelling the debt.

There is much local interest over the coming election, and it is sincerely hoped by the people that at this opening period of the town's prosperity a strong no-license vote may be polled; that each citizen, putting aside personal issues, may vote for the well-being of the town as a whole. It seems as though a comparison between ourselves and some of the license towns about us might teach a lesson as to the paralyzing effect of the rum traffic on local enterprise.

It was decided at the Choral Union Tuesday night to hold a concert if there be a guarantee of a sufficient number of tickets to cover expenses. The union will be assisted by a fine quartette from Springfield and accompanied by the Severn string quartette, and promises a very pleasing and varied programme. It is hoped the public will show a cordial interest in the enterprise and respond to the call for a sale of tickets, thus showing its musical taste and its appreciation and support of the work of the union. Let it not be said that a variety show can draw a good house while a first-class entertainment must fail for lack of public patronage.

WARE.

There was an alarm of fire Sunday afternoon at 3.30, caused by fire in a waste room in the yard of the Geo. H. Gilbert Mfg. Co. The damage was slight.

A special meeting of the East Congregational parish will be held to-morrow afternoon to fill vacancies in the parish committee caused by resignations.

H. P. Cummings & Co. of Ware have the contract for building the new Ware high school building for $38,480. The nearest to Cummings & Co's. bid was $488 above them.

The "Ware Rambling Club" has been formed by some who wish to explore the country hereabouts. The officers are: President, E. D. Howard; vice president, C. H. Lee; secretary, J. H. Schoonmaker.

Rev. Mr. Cote will preach in the French Evangelical church on Sunday, Rev. P. N. Cayer, the pastor, having gone to Montreal to attend the 25th anniversary of Dr. McVicker's connection with the Presbyterian College of Montreal.

The Unity Club of the Unitarian society is just commencing the publication of a little paper called "Character," to be issued once a month, price 50 cents per year. Rev. V. E. Southworth is editor, Dr. Geo. M. C. Barnard and Mrs. E. D. Howard associate editors.

At the parish meeting of the Unitarian society Wednesday evening C. E. Stevens, J. W. Robinson and E. D. Howard were elected parish committee; treasurer, C. E. Stevens; clerk, Geo. M. C. Barnard. The pledge card and envelope system of raising money was adopted, Dr. Barnard and F. R. Cunningham, collectors.

The Epworth league of the M. E. church is to tender a complimentary reception and banquet to the pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Hall, at the church parlors next Monday evening. The society is also to have with it on this occasion the members of the quarterly conference and their wives. A unique souvenir program and menu is being printed for the occasion.

The officers elected and appropriations made at the town meeting on Monday were as follows: Moderator, Lewis N. Gilbert; clerk, Almer F. Richardson; treasurer, Fred Gilmore; selectmen, John J. Kidgell, E. D. Howard, John H. Storrs; overseer of the poor, John Brosnahan; assesssors, B. F. Davis, E. P. Morse, M. W. Buckley; school committee, Dr. D. M. Ryan, John W. Cummings, H. C. Davis; auditors, James E. Clark, W. N. Newcomb; constables, Maurice Fitzgerald, William Murray, Myron Ramsdell, P. D. Sullivan; water commissioner, H. P. Cummings; road commissioners, H. M. Barnes, M. Prendiville, C. P. Morse. Appropriations: Town officers, $3600; schools, 13,500; library, 1000; paupers, 7000; highways and bridges, 5400; sidewalks, 1425; police, 3000; care of cemeteries, 1000; street lights, 3360; public use of water, 350; interest, 3620; Memorial Day, 150; contingent account, 4200; enforcing liquor law, 500. Liquor license, yes, 466; no, 421. In the town report there is some interesting reading, especially that of the selectmen on the liquor traffic; also that of the chief of police, 179 arrest in eleven months. Of these 132 are for drunkenness, 15 for disturbing the peace (no mention of what caused it), 39 intoxicated persons sent home.

CARD.—To those who by words and deeds expressed their sympathy for us in our recent bereavement we would return our heartfelt thanks,

MR. AND MRS. E. C. BUFFINGTON.

Fail to Do Their Duty.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty towards themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herlechter, Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from nervous prostration and sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night, and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks' use of the Nervine for headache, nervous prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. Sold by LeGro & Lynde. Trial bottle free. 52-17

Fell Dead.

These words are very familiar to our readers, as not a day passes without the report of the sudden death of some prominent citizen. The explanation is "heart disease." Therefore beware if you have any of the following symptoms: Short breath, pain in side, smothering spells, swollen ankles, asthmatic breathing, weak and hungry spells, tenderness in shoulder or arm, fluttering of heart or irregular pulse. These symptoms mean heart disease. The most reliable remedy is Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which has saved thousands of lives. Book of testimonials free at LeGro & Lynde's, who also sell the New Heart Cure. 52-17

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

There is no reason why children should be allowed to suffer from loathsome scrofulous sores and glandular swellings when such a pleasant, effective, and economical medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla may be procured of the nearest druggist. Be sure you get Ayer's.

Hall's Hair Renewer enjoys the confidence and patronage of people all over the civilized world who use it to restore and keep the hair a natural color.

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See ad. 8-53

Don't Give up.

because you feel blue and are troubled with that tired all-gone feeling. Do as I did, use a bottle of Sulphur Bitters, it will make you feel like a new person; it did me.

JENNIE HOLMES, 354 Tremont Street, Boston.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Be Your Own Doctor.

It won't cost you one half as much. Do not delay. Send three 2-cent stamps for postage, and we will send you Dr. Kaufmann's great work, fine colored plates from life, on disease, its causes, and home cure. Address A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

"For a long time I have suffered with stomach and liver troubles, and could find no relief until I began to use Ayer's Pills. I took them regularly for a few months and my health was completely restored."—D. W. Raine, New Berne, N. C.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., March, 1893.

Next Sunday will be Easter, and if the weather is as fair as it is at this writing, what an Easter it will be!

There's more in Easter trim than fine goods and new raiment; there's the freshness of a new season just begun; there's something in the air of spring days that makes us feel young and kittenish.

It's Easter for everybody; and here are Easter goods for everybody.

Easter millinery, complete or in fragments. Those already hatched and plumed are ready to put on, and everything that makes the accumulated one ready for your skillful fingers, is here. There's no such variety of strictly fashionable millinery anywhere in this region.

Second floor.

Since we are doing an unexpectedly large trade in spring jackets and capes, hadn't you better come before the throng is greater?

There is no doubt about our colitction. It is the largest stock ever seen in this region; not alone largest in quantity, or number of pieces, but largest in variety of materials; largest in styles of trimmings; largest every way. It is a feast for the eyes.

Capes $2 to $55.

Jackets $3.75 to $40.

Second floor.

Rainbow striped silk; gorgeous to behold. Suitable for waists or garniture; rather strong for whole dresses. $1.35. Samples sent.

Left aisle.

Plain granite cloth slightly brightened with little daisy and leaf figures in relief. Seven choice colors. 75 cents. Samples sent.

Soleil cords; fine satin-like cords, so fine as to be almost lost. Seven choice colors; $1.25. Samples sent.

Left aisle.

Black and white striped mohair, worth 50 cents for 29; seven styles of the stripes. Samples sent.

Striped cashmere worth 35 cents for 19; four styles of the stripes, six to ten colors of a style. Samples sent.

Left aisle.

Scotch zephyr ginghams at 25 cents; styles without limit. Samples sent.

Right aisle.

FORBES & WALLACE

Main and Vernon streets.

ROYAL

BAKING

POWDER.

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. —Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

Fac Simile of Ballot to be used at the Town Election, Monson, April 3d, 1893.

To Vote for a Person, mark a Cross X in the Square at the right of the name. X

| TOWN CLERK, | Vote for ONE. | |
|---|---|---|
| CARLOS M. GAGE, Main St., | Republican and Democratic. | |

| Selectmen and Overseers of Poor. | Vote for THREE. | |
|---|---|---|
| OMAR E. BRADWAY, East Hill, | Democratic. | |
| WILLIAM H. BUGBEE, East Hill, | Democratic. | |
| RALPH CLIFFORD, North Main St., | Republican. | |
| GEORGE H. FOSKIT, Bridge St., | Republican. | |
| ALVIN A. GAGE, Main St., | Republican. | |
| JOHN P. HERLIHY, JR., Main St., | Democratic. | |

| ASSESSORS, | Vote for THREE. | |
|---|---|---|
| LYMAN C. FLYNT, High St., | Republican. | |
| ARTHUR D. FOSKIT, Palmer Road, | Democratic. | |
| GEORGE H. FOSKIT, Bridge St., | Republican. | |
| JOHN P. HERLIHY, JR., Main St., | Democratic. | |
| EUGENE S. HOWLETT, Bridge St., | Democratic. | |
| O. C. McCRAY, Pease Ave., | Republican. | |

| TREASURER, | Vote for ONE. | |
|---|---|---|
| EDWARD D. CUSHMAN, Main St., | Republican and Democratic. | |

| TAX COLLECTOR, | Vote for ONE. | |
|---|---|---|

| SCHOOL COMMITTEE 3 Years, | Vote for THREE. | |
|---|---|---|
| LEE BLANCHARD, Moulton Hill, | Democratic. | |
| HORACE BUMSTEAD, Stafford Road, | Democratic. | |
| CHARLES W. JACKSON, Main St., | Republican and Democratic. | |
| N. W. RAND, Main St., | Republican. | |
| W. M. TUCKER, Quarry Road, | Republican. | |

| Cemetery Commissioner 3 Years. | Vote for ONE. | |
|---|---|---|
| GEORGE C. FLYNT, High St., | Republican. | |
| TRUMAN WATROUS, North Main St., | Democratic. | |

| CONSTABLES, | Vote for FIVE. | |
|---|---|---|
| SAMUEL CLOSSON, Quarry Road, | Republican. | |
| CHARLES J. LYONS, Hampden Avenue, | Democratic. | |
| DAVID D. MANEY, Washington St., | Democratic. | |
| DAVID B. NEEDHAM, Lincoln St., | Republican. | |
| EDWARD P. NEWTON, Main St., | Democratic. | |
| GEORGE W. SEYMOUR, Main St., | Republican and Democratic. | |
| JOEL H. THOMPSON, Main St., | Republican and Democratic. | |
| WILLIAM H. UNDERWOOD, Lincoln St., | Republican. | |

| FENCE VIEWERS, | Vote for THREE. | |
|---|---|---|
| LEE BLANCHARD, Moulton Hill, | Republican. | |
| THADDEUS G. CAREW, South Main St., | Democratic. | |
| LESTER HOWE, East Hill, | Republican. | |
| CLAYTON P. LYON, Hampden Road, | Democratic. | |
| WARREN R. SHAW, South Main St., | Democratic. | |
| HENRY A. RINDGE, Quarry Road, | Republican. | |

| AUDITORS, | Vote for TWO. | |
|---|---|---|
| RUFUS P. CUSHMAN, Main St., | Republican. | |
| NICHOLAS P. HANLEY, Main St., | Democratic. | |
| CARLOS L. PECK, High St., | Democratic | |
| WILLIAM J. RICKETTS, | Republican. | |

To vote on the following mark a Cross in the square at the right of the YES or NO:— X

| "Shall licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors in this town?" | YES | |
|---|---|---|
| | NO | |

1881. WE ARE HERE TO STAY. 1893.

ONE PRICE TO ALL.

DON'T PAY $3.50 for snag-proof boots when you can buy THE BEST Woonsocket or Boston Pure Gum Boots for $2.75.
LADIES' BOSTON RUBBERS 35c a pair. GENTS' (Boston or Woonsocket) 50c a pair.
LADIES' HOLDFAST SANDALS (will not come off in the mud) 50c a pair.
MEN'S RUBBER BOOTS, all sizes, $2.00 a pair. LADIES' FOOTHOLDS (Boston) 35c a pair.
GET MY PRICES before trading elsewhere and COMPARE QUALITY.
All Goods Sold as Represented, or Money Refunded.
Thanking the public for past favors,
Respectfully, E. GOODES.

E. LUTHER & CO.

Strangers say, "You have a tremendous stock of goods here," and we have. Our advertisements are not mere exaggerations, and we simply ask you to call and see us. No trouble to show you through the store, whether you purchase here or elsewhere.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Chamber Sets, | $18.50 to | $100.00 |
| Parlor Suits, | 40.00 to | 150.00 |
| Lace Curtains, | 1.00 to | 10.00 |
| Portieres, | 6.50 to | 12.00 |
| Ranges, | 20.00 to | 50.00 |

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE, 13-51 SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

PAINTS AND OILS.

The Sherwin & Williams Ready-Mixed Paints

AND PASTE COLORS

Are the BEST and CHEAPEST PAINTS on the market. Get one of our Color Cards. We keep a full line of

COLORS GROUND IN OIL. COLORS GROUND IN JAPAN
VARNISHES. JAPANS. DRYERS.
HARD OIL FINISH. SHELLAC.

TRY A CAN OF——

READY-MIXED CARRIAGE PAINT

ON YOUR OWN VEHICLE

And save at least four-fifths of the usual cost. ALL COLORS.

E. A. BUCK & CO

CARRIAGES.

ALL KINDS AND PRICES.

I carry one of the largest and finest stocks to be found. SPRINGFIELD IS THE CARRIAGE CENTER of Western Mass.

When you have looked all the carriage stocks over, before you buy, come to my Repository and save from $10 to $30 on any kind you want. You can find nearly everything in the wagon line with me at a great saving to you. Also, Harness, Robes, Blankets, and all kinds of Horse Goods. My expenses are small, do my own work, and save you the expense of help. I can and will sell. Come and satisfy yourself at 60 Dwight Street, Springfield, Mass. 13-51

D. N. BUTTERWORTH.

Lazelle, Dawes & Estey.

MILLINERY PARLORS

358 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

An early Easter is auspicious of an early Spring.

Ladies desiring a suitable Hat or Bonnet for a Spring Costume will be pleased with our large and varied assortment both of original and imported designs. 4-52

Ripans Tabules assist digestion.

CORSETS.

The F. P. Cutaway $1 and $1.25.
Dr. Ball's H. P. Corset $1.
Dr. Warner's Health $1.25.
Dr. Warner's Coraline $1.
Double Bust, No. 666, 50c.

W. E. STONE.

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

F. F. MARCY, PALMER, MASS.
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER AND SHINGLES
Windows, doors, blinds, mouldings. Carpenters' and joiners' work done to order.
Also FIRE BRICK and CLAY for sale.
Yard and shop at junction of B. & A. and N. L. N Railroads—west of Depot.

SPRING OPENING

——AT——

H. C. Williams & Co's. EMPORIUM OF FASHION

Wednesday and Thursday, March 22 and 23.

The Choicest Novelties.—DO NOT MISS IT.—The Finest Display.

H. C. WILLIAMS & CO., 311 Main street, Springfield, Mass.

We are now filling orders for Easter. 4-51ks

H. C. MOORE.

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHER,
GILL'S ART BUILDING,
SPRINGFIELD.

Largest and finest gallery in the city. Everything first-class. Instantaneous pictures of children a specialty.

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY
AND MACHINE SHOP.

At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads. West of Depot.

MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE

At short notice and reasonable prices.

52-35 R. B. FRANCIS.

Cleaned out, as well as in every thing that is cleaned with Pearline. Nothing does its work as well, as easily, as quickly, or as cheaply. It divides the labor with you, and doubles the result. With it, you can wash the finest clothes harmlessly; without it, you will want to do the roughest housework carelessly.

Never peddled. 235 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

INTERESTING FACTS IN THE LIVES OF PEOPLE WE ALL KNOW.

Haskell Dodge, Edwin Thorn, J. E. Palmateer and Mrs. Edwin Myers.—A Thrilling Recital.

As a matter of course, every one who takes medicine watches closely for beneficial effects therefrom. But some people who have been sick for months seem to expect a permanent cure in a few days. This is unreasonable. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cannot accomplish unreasonable or impossible things. But for all diseases for which Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is advertised, it will positively cure; if in the power of medicine to cure, all we ask is to take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy according to directions, giving it a fair trial, and it will eradicate from the system old and deep-seated maladies which may have become chronic, and produce a permanent and positive cure.

Mr. Haskell Dodge, of Boston, formerly of Pittsfield, one of the largest contractors in the United States, who built most of the public buildings in Dalton, Mass., nearly all of Williams College at Williamston, Mass., and who recently finished the large addition to Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in talking to a reporter said: "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is an excellent medicine, it regulates my bowels delightfully and to my knowledge has made some wonderful cures; for instance here's a letter from one of the best known men in Greene Co., Mr. Edwin R. Thorn, of New Baltimore Station, in which he says: 'Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has been a great blessing to me, I was troubled with indigestion, constipation and bladder difficulty. I was in almost constant pain. The very first bottle of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy helped me, and to-day I am a perfectly healthy man and never know a sleepless night. In fact, I don't think this simple statement does the medicine justice, for I feel that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy saved my life, for I was weak, nervous and tired of living, and it made a well man of me again.'"

Mr. A. J. Palmateer, of Athens, N. Y., a prominent member of the I. O. O. F. of that place, was equally as enthusiastic in speaking of this great medicine. "I was a great sufferer for years with pains in the small of my back; my legs felt as if they were asleep, sharp, tickling, numb pain constantly present. My physician prescribed, as he said, for gravel, but his medicine did not help me, for I kept growing worse. It was at this critical time I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and the effect was marvellous. The pain ceased, I felt better every way, I could rest all through the night, a thing I had not been able to do for years. One day I voided a substance the size of a cherry pit, and from that on I improved rapidly. But let me tell you Favorite Remedy did not stop there with our family, my little grand-daughter had eczema the worst way; she was a mass of sores, my wife gave her Favorite Remedy and the sores disappeared entirely and her skin today is smooth and clear and she is as fat and rugged a child as you can find."

While on this subject let us say there is no greater living monument to the merit of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy than Mrs. Edward Myers of Athens. We all know that she was so poisoned with erysipelas that her life was despaired of and that by taking Favorite Remedy all poison was driven out of her blood and she is alive and well to-day.

"What I like about Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy," said one of our physicians to-day, "is that it goes to the root of the trouble, it dissolves the excess of uric acid in the blood, which is the cause of so many diseases, for instance: rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney and liver complaints, scrofula, urinary troubles, and the ills peculiar to women, all arise from this cause, and I prescribe Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for these and other similar troubles when I find them, and have never known it to fail. That's the reason the stores are selling so much of it."—Hudson, N. Y., Register.

MRS. LOVINA PHILBRICK.

Still Another Victim of La Grippe cured by . .

Leon's Sarsaparilla!

Only one case among a thousand.

To Leon Sarsaparilla Co.:

Gentlemen:—After a very severe attack of La Grippe, I was much reduced in strength. My stomach was out of order, I had no appetite, and a severe cough set in. People told me that with the coming of warm weather I should get better, but as the summer passed, I found that unless I got relief, I should soon be a confirmed invalid. I became despondent, and entirely without energy. Early in the autumn I commenced to use Leon's Sarsaparilla regularly, and occasionally took the Liver Granules. After two months, I find their use has changed me completely. I now have a good appetite, my food digests well, my cough is all gone, my strength has returned, and I am helped in every way. I am well and able to work.

Yours very thankfully,
MRS. LOVINA PHILBRICK.

The Kind that Never Fails

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.

Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.

WANTED.

RELIABLE PARTIES TO ACT AS AGENTS.

WE PAY SALARY OR COMMISSION.

Address at once,
THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
16-47tfrm Rochester, N. Y.

Ripans Tabules cure torpid liver.

Hidden Things.

In the heart of the stone
The statue is hiding;
But this secret is shown
From the heart of the stone
To the sculptor alone,
That is worth the confiding:
In the heart of the stone
The statue is hiding.

In the leaves of the rose
A romance is in wating;
Till the summer wind blows
From the leaves of the rose
To the page of pure prose,
What's so well worth relating:
In the leaves of the rose
A romance is in waiting.

In the air all around
A coy song is delaying;
There's a faint sighing sound
In the air all around
And sweet love-words abound,
Hidden music betraying:
In the air all around
A coy song is delaying.

In the heart of the sea
There's a symphony sleeping;
There is wafted to me
From the heart of the sea
A divine melody,
Mingled laughter and weeping:
In the heart of the sea
There's a symphony sleeping.

In this commonplace age
Lives the hero obscurely;
But the elements rage
In this commonplace age
And Death flings down his gage,
In the end quite as surely:
In this commonplace age
Dies the hero obscurely.

In this world of the mart
Rises sometimes a poet;
All unenvied his part
In this world of the mart,
For he labors for art,
But the world will not know it;
In this world of the mart
None the less thrives the poet.

—Elizabeth C. Cardoza, in Home and Country Magazine.

AMONG THE PARAGRAPHERS.

Taddles (as he takes his seat at a restaurant table)—"I'm hungry enough to eat fried bark." Waiter—"I'm sorry, sir, but we have no sausage to-day."—Detroit Free Press.

Father (coming home)—"Is Carrie out?" Hopeful—"No, but the lamp is. That Spitkins feller's here again."—Boston Transcript.

Dick (translating into French)—"Say, Tom, what is the French of war horse?" Tom—"Why, er-er-hors de combat, I think."—Harvard Lampoon.

Watts—"What is the matter with Thompson? He has got so he stammers all the time." Potts—"His wife made him stop swearing."—Indianapolis Journal.

An exception.—Snooper—"There is nothing perfect on this earth." Swayback—"You forget Gilley." "What about Gilley?" "He's a perfect ass."—Life.

"Garsong!" cried Chappie, "keserkersay le temps?" "I cannot understand ze jontilman," returned the waiter. "Well I'll be hanged! What kind of a blooming Frenchman are you?" said Chappie.—Harper's Bazar.

Clergyman—"Well, Mr. O'Rafferty, what do you think about Dr. McGlynn?" O'Rafferty—"I think, your reverince, that it was very koind in him that he has consinted to forgive the pope."—Texas Siftings.

Pater—"It's singular that whenever I want you to marry a man you object, and whenever I don't want you to marry one you straightway insist on it." Filia—"Yes; and whenever we are agreed, the man objects."—Life's Calander.

"Mr. Gingham," said Taper, "I would like a fortnight's absence to attend the wedding of a very dear friend." "It must be a very dear friend, indeed, to make you want that much time. Who is it?" "Well, sir, after the ceremony she will be my wife."—Tit-Bits.

Father—"You seem to look at things in a different light since your marriage." His Newly Married Daughter—"Well, I ought to after receiving fourteen lamps and nine candelabras for wedding presents."—Brooklyn Life.

First Little Girl—"Has your sister begun takin' music lessons yet?" Second Little Girl—"She's takin' somefin on th' piano, but I can't tell yet whether it's music or typewriting'."—Good News.

A brewer to his pupils—"The hops and the malt being properly mixed, what else is necessary in order to make the beer a success?" Pupils—"A good thirst."—Fliegende Blatter.

A distinguished Philadelphia lawyer asked by his wife in company when the question was going round, "Who would you rather be if not yourself?" made the gallant reply. "Your second husband, dear."—San Francisco Argonaut.

"How did you like the sermon?" asked the minister of the drummer. "Oh, I liked some parts of it first rate," was the reply. "Your remarks about sins of omission didn't hit me, but when you talk about those of commission I must say you were getting pretty close."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Dillingam (grass widow, glancing coquettishly up from book)—Do you know I have just made such an odd mistake. I have just written it window instead of widow." Mr. Brown (crusty old bachelor, peering over his paper)—"Quite right, madam, for whenever I see a widow I always look out."—Life's Calendar.

M. Lefever (in agonized whisper)—Vill madam kindly introduce me to ze lady on my right? I vish to speak to her." Hostess—"Certainly—I thought I had presented you. Has your fair neighbor made an impression on your heart?" M. Lefever—"Oh, non, madame; on my foot, and she have been sitting on eet efer since we came to ze table."—Puck.

"You'll be sorry for this some day!" howled the son and heir as his father released him from the position he had occupied across the paternal knee. "I'll be sorry? When?" "When I get to be a man!" "You will take revenge by whipping your father when you are big and strong and I am old and feeble, will you, Tommy?" "No, sir," blubbered Tommy, rubbing himself, "but I'll spank your grandchildren till they can't rest!"—Chicago Tribune.

NO USE FOR A GUN.—A certain doctor in Northern Maine is noted for his love of hunting, and he is reckoned a pretty good shot. During an epidemic not long ago a well-known lumberman (now deceased) had the misfortune to have several of his men quite sick, and one of them being in a dangerous condition the lumberman started in haste for this doctor. Now are medical friend is sometimes quite moderate in getting ready for his trips, and on this occasion, after being called, he was unusually slow making his preparations. Suddenly the thought came to him that as he was to go so far into the woods he might see some game, and stepping to the door where the nervous lumberman was impatiently waiting he inquired: "Say, don't you think I better take my gun along?" "Gun? no!" was the excited reply, "the man will be dead enough before you can get there."—Lewiston Journal.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co. Props., Toledo. O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Testimonials free.

Mr. Geo. G. Henry
Montague, Mass.

Rheumatism

Man's Worst Enemy—How to Conquer Him.

"Last spring I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my right shoulder, causing me intense pain, and at times it was impossible for me to raise my arm without the aid of my left hand. I had read of many cures of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla, so I bought a bottle. After using about one-half of it the

Pain Entirely Left Me

and I have not been troubled with rheumatism since. I hope that some one else may receive benefit through this statement." GEO. G. HENRY, Supt. Co-operative Creamery, Montague, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, prevent constipation.

IF YOU RECEIVE NINE-TENTHS OF a gallon of paint, you should only pay nine-tenths of the gallon price. The United States standard gallon is one of the many good points about the Chilton Paint. You can rely on the correct measure always. And, as you get more quantity in goods, so also you get better quality. They are made only with pure linseed oil and the best turpentine driers, no ill-smelling benzine. They cover more surface—properly cover it, mind you—than any other paint known, and they are more durable, for the oil and pigments are mixed and ground together seven times by machinery.

Sold by LeGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.
Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S
COUGH and LUNG BALSAM
SURE CURE. PRICE 35 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LeGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.

If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half-mile in public in stud season in 1.07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2.52 1-2, trial 2.44.

For Speed! Speed! Speed!

Bred to "LENOX B." son of ALCYONE and IDLEWOOD, 2.29 1-4, trial 2.18. ALCYONE sired Martha Wilkes 2.08, McKinnay 2.12 1-2. Alcyon 2.15 Bush.

For particulars see or write to

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

Farm of 75 acres with house and two barns, running water at house and barn, fruit in abundance, farm will keep 10 head of cattle, cream taken at door, best of neighbors, short distance from two manufacturing villages. Price $2000. $500 down and balance on mortgage.

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

House and barn with seven acres of good productive land in a village. $1600.

Pastures from 20 to 30 acres in Palmer for $300 to $600.

Lot of manure for sale cheap.

D. F. HOLDEN,

Palmer, Mass.

DO YOU BUY, SELL
OR USE
WALL PAPER?

If so, you can buy your Spring Stock, or can stock up on "SHORTS" in Springfield at New York rates F. O. B., with cash discount. We are authorized Jobbers and Great Retailers and carry ready to ship. Will send samples or salesman. Get our figures and compare.

110,000 ROLLS IN STOCK

The Old Corner Wall Paper Co.

(Successors to W. F. Adams Co.)
CORNER STATE AND MAIN STREETS,
SPRINGFIELD. 9-51

NEW STORE! NEW GOODS!

PAPER HANGINGS.

Browns, White Blanks, Flats, Satins, Bronzes, Gilts, Borders, Friezes, etc.

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE PAPER HANGING, PAINTING, ETC.

All orders filled in a thorough and workmanlike manner. F. S. MASON, Commercial Block

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,
THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY.
OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.
TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.
W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by
21-41 R. J. HENRY, MAIN ST., PALMER.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
BICYCLES.

—o—

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

BICYCLES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| The Rambler, | Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Toledo Dauntless, | Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Warwick, . . | | $150 |
| Road King, . . | | $150 |
| New Mail, . . | | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, . | | $115 |
| Duke, . . . | | $115 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | | $40 |

—o—

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

PALMER, MASS.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
PALMER, MASS.

BEST THING YET.

INDIVIDUAL
Grave Vaults
For each Grave.
The Earth Cannot Cave in.

No more depressions—lots always in order.

CALL—EXAMINE.
See for Yourselves.

McGREGORY & CASMAN,
531 Main St.,
Springfield, Mass.
52-1 Telephone 9-5.

WOODHEAD & WOOD
(SUCCESSORS TO GEO. W. WILCOX)
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTISTS,
COMMERCIAL ST., PALMER.

Call and see samples of our $3 Cabinets. They are having a large run. Everybody satisfied. Now is the time to get your picture taken. tf-46

JAPANESE
PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. Call for samples. 52-17

SOLICITORS OF PATENTS.

CROSBY & GREGORY.
GEO. W. GREGORY,

Formerly Principal Examiner in U. S. Patent Office

31 SCHOOL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

918 F ST., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Patents obtained in the United States and other countries on all subjects of invention. Applications prepared with greatest care to secure broadest possible claims. 4-50

Rupture

To obtain the best knowledge of how to be cured send for J. A. Sherman's new publication, illustrated with photographic likenesses of American and English patients before treatment and after cure, with particulars of each case. No work so convincingly interesting has ever before been published. Sent by express on receipt of 25c. Plain book of information sent for 10c. Sherman recently returned from London, England, where the result of his treatment surprised the most eminent surgeons, and may now be consulted at his former offices, Address J. A. SHERMAN, Hernia Specialist, 294 Broadway, New York. 4-52

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

The Consumptive and Feeble and all who suffer from exhausting diseases should use Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Cough, Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Female weakness, Rheumatism and Pain. 50c. & $1.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15 cents. at Druggists.

TREES. THE BEST the largest collection in the country

Wise buyers universally favor the

SHADY HILL NURSERY CO.,
Cambridge, Mass.

See catalogue of Novelties only offered by us. 4-50

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell NURSERY STOCK. We grow all the best varieties, old and new, replace all stock that dies, and guarantee satisfaction. Highest salary or commission paid from the start. Write for terms. H. E. HOOKER CO., NURSERYMEN, Rochester, N. Y.
Established 1835. 4-50 Incorporated 1883.

TRUE, EVERY WORD.

A Realism Terrible in Its Intensity.

A Story which is Without an Equal in The World.

The Exact Facts Told Exactly as They Occurred.

LEBANON, N. H.—As your correspondent I communicate the following remarkable story exactly as it came from the lady's own lips. Everybody in Lebanon, N.H., knows Mrs. S. R. Berry well; indeed she is a most highly respected resident here. The story is one which particularly interests everyone at this season.

"I was in a very bad way; such trembling in my arms and limbs, and my heart was just frightful, and those terrible sweeping chills and trembling in my limbs made me expect a shock or to lose the use of them completely.

"I could not sleep nights because my heart would palpitate and the chills or shaking would follow, and I could do but very little of anything.

"I could not sit up all day, but had to lie down a great deal, and my nerves were very weak and of no use. Why, I could not bear any noise.

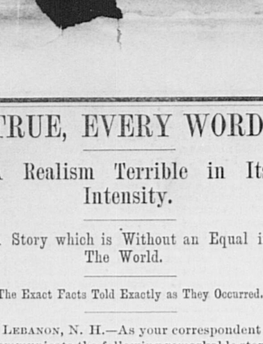
"There was a terrible pain in my head, and I was almost a complete wreck of my former self.

"No one had any hopes of my being better. My doctor ordered a change of everything, but I was not equal to moving anywhere, indeed could not walk any to speak of, only drag about from one room to another.

"And such dull, heavy feelings, as if I was about to meet some awful doom. All the time I was depressed in mind and spirits and could not cheer up.

"My liver was swollen so I could not rest unless hot application were used on my side, and my kidneys were very bad.

"In my despair, I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I will say that this wonderful medicine is the greatest blessing that ever came into a family.



MRS. S. R. BERRY.

"It has done perfect wonders for me. I was soon on the right road to health and strength by its use, and I am gaining every day. After taking two bottles I could do more work than I had for over a year, and now I do all my housework and all my sewing. I can walk vigorously, indeed have walked as far as five miles in an afternoon. Yes, it is true, you can ask anyone here.

"I can now eat better than ever, am strong again and have got back most of my former looks and good color.

"I am a wonder to everybody who knows how weak and low I was before using this remedy. Our doctor met me a few days ago and said I was doing wonderfully, that my eyes were brighter and that I looked well.

"Oh, words are useless! I cannot tell how much I prize this great and blessed medicine. All my family join me in one loud chorus in saying, God bless this great health-giving remedy! I have told every one of my friends far and near, and you see they cannot help believing, for here I am a living witness to show what has been done for me."

Can anything be added to this?

The sick and suffering should certainly use so marvellous a health-giver as this great remedy appears to be. Especially should all use it now, for it is the most excellent of all Spring medicines to invigorate the blood, strengthen the nerves and regulate all the organs. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and druggists keep it for $1 per bottle.

Doctors recommend and prescribe it because it is the discovery and prescription of an eminent physician, Dr. Greene, of 34 Temple place, Boston, Mass., the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

LANE'S MEDICINE

All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1.00 per package. Buy one to-day. LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE MOVES THE BOWELS EACH DAY. In order to be healthy, it is necessary.

SULPHUR BITTERS

ARE YOU low spirited and suffering from the excesses of youth? If so, Sulphur Bitters will cure you.

Is your Urine thick, ropy, cloudy, or high-colored? Don't wait! Your KIDNEYS are being ruined. Use Sulphur Bitters.

One bottle of Sulphur Bitters will do you more good than all the Latin prescriptions of drugs and mineral poisons which will remain in your system, destroy your bones, and make you a poor, weak, and broken down invalid. No person can remain long sick who uses Sulphur Bitters. If is covered with ugly sores, and festering Pimples, give her Sulphur Bitters. Ladies in delicate health, who are all run down, should use Sulphur Bitters. None better.

YOUR DAUGHTER'S FACE

Try Sulphur Bitters TO-NIGHT, and you will sleep well and feel better for it.

Sulphur Bitters will make your blood rich and strong, your flesh hard. One bottle now.

ARE YOU nervous and fretty, or in DELICATE health? Sulphur Bitters will make a new person of you.

Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., for best medical work published.

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

A Lost Chord Found.

We stood alone in the choir loft,
By the organ tall and grim,
While over the keys her fingers
Followed their own sweet whim.
I spoke of the coming parting,
And plead for one farewell kiss,
But her modest wish forbade me
Lest the sexton old might list.
Then I struck on the organ a strong, full chord,
And ere its echoes died
In the twilight dim of the old gray church
I kissed my promised bride.

We stood again by the organ
When many years had fled,
But she thought me grown cold and heartless,
And I thought her old love dead.
I spoke of our last fond parting,
Of the chord and its tender tide,
And how like the sound of the music
Our love had throbbed and died.
Then my heart leaped up with a great, glad bound
And forgot its recent pain,
For she blushed, and drooping her lashes said,
"Could you find that chord again?"

—Willard Holcomb, in N. Y. Advertiser.

THE RAT'S OWN FAULT.

The boy sat on the big box, kicking his heels against the sides. He was a short, stumpy boy, with an abundance of freckles held over from summer. The box was an ordinary packing box. It stood on the sidewalk in front of the Walton building in Frankling street, near where the Sixth avenue elevated road crosses. Underneath the box a long, lean, gray bewhiskered rat had taken up temporary quarters.

The rat was in bad luck. In the first place a sneaky looking dog, droopy as to tail, a mongrel of the kind termed "yaller," was lounging about, nosing in the gutter and yearning for an opportunity to display the deviltry common to his kind. Behind the rat's refuge in a doorway a pretty young woman was talking to a much infatuated "George." An elderly and important looking personage, wearing gold-mounted eyeglasses and carrying a gold-headed cane, had just made an imposing descent from the elevated station and was promenading leisurely toward the box. A cart horse attached to a truck stood in front of a saloon near by waiting for the driver to come out. All was calm and peaceful. Then the rat came on the scene.

The first to see him was the boy. He jumped off the box, and the rat started out toward the station with the boy in hot chase. This aroused the dog, who, with a howl of anticipated sport, joined in the pursuit. The furgitive made straight for the elderly personage. The boy was a fairly good second and the dog a close third. The personage, becoming aware that something was coming his way, glanced over the top of the gold mounted eyeglasses.

"Hi, there!" yelled the boy. "He's comin' your way. Head 'im off. Swather 'im one with th' stick."

The old gentleman "swathered." He missed the rat and hit the boy on the shins. The boy gave a shrill whoop, lay down on the walk and wept.

"Did it hurt you?" inquired the owner of the cane.

That made the boy so angry that he stopped crying.

"Did it hurt me?" he howled in righteous wrath. "Did it hurt me? You ol' gold headed snooper. How'd you like it ef I clubbed yer bloomin ol' shins with a waggin spoke? What'd you say ef a fat-headed cove—Hi! Here he comes back! Grab 'im! Turn 'im back! Hit 'im when he goes by!"

The rat had doubled on his track and was flying up the street again with the dog several paces behind. In between the feet of the personage dodged the rat. The dog essayed to follow by the same route and got tangled up with the feet. Down came the personage, his gold-headed cane flying in one direction and gold-rimmed spectacles in another. Then and there he offered a few remarks that wrung from the boy an admiring tribute. "Gosh," said he, "you can cuss."

In the meantime the rat was on his way up the street, and the pretty young woman who with her "George" had emerged from the doorway, was walking down the street engaged in conversation.

"Yes, he was just as nice about it as he could be; said it wasn't any trouble at all. He said—Oh! O-w-w-w-w! George! E-e-e-e-e-e-e! It's a rat! Help! It's coming this way. E-e-e-e-e-e! Help me up on this box. Yes, I'm all right now, but—Oh, George, do you suppose he can climb up here? E-e-e-e-e-e! Don't let him climb up here or I shall d-d-d-die!"

George let out a terrific kick that landed in the stomach of the pursuing dog. By way of retaliation the dog took off part of one leg from George's trousers and fled across the street howling dismally until it came to the cart horse. Apparently connecting that animal with his misfortunes, the dog nibbled at its hind leg. The horse snorted and ran down the street with the truck clattering after. The rat, instead of taking this chance of escape, rushed frantically across the street and back again, with the boy, who had come up, followed by the personage, hot on the trail. The personage was regarding with undisguised admiration the pretty girl, who, with garments gathered and held up lightly in one hand was standing on tiptoe on the box viewing the chase. George was looking at his trousers.

The owner of the truck came out of the saloon in time to see his property rattling down the street. As he started after it, leaving a trail of profanity behind him, a gaunt cat sauntered out of the saloon. Before the teamster had caught his horse the cat had pounced upon the rat and put an end to him. Then the dog avenged his woes by catching her by the back of the neck and shaking the life out of her. The boy hit the dog with a brick on general principles. Then he returned to the personage, the box, George, and the pretty young woman. The latter was saying:

"Oh, dear! I was scared. I hope I— Oh, George, did I hold my dress up so very high? Please say I didn't! That horrid old man with the eyeglasses!"

"Why, of course you didn't," said George promptly. The girl descended and walked away with him, her fears alleviated.—New York Sun.

AYER'S
Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires. Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston. A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send Two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."
M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.
Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

A FLOATING ISLAND.

Sable Island is about an hundred miles nearly east of Halifax. Sailors never know whether last year's chart is a safe guide for navigation in the adjacent waters. Many a ship has been wrecked upon its treacherous coast. It has been called the cemetery of the ocean, and it deserves the name. It would have no population if the Canadian government did not find it necessary to support a score or so of people there to look after the lighthouse and care for castaways who are thrown upon the island.

If the French maps of two centuries ago told the truth, Sable Island has since that time lost more than half its area. Maps of the island made at intervals since 1818 show remarkable changes in its form and position. Its western end is now about twenty miles further out to sea than it was a century ago. The highest sand dune, which was formerly about 200 feet above sea level, is now only about eighty feet high. The shifting sands are constantly changing the outlines of the curious little lake in the interior, just as they do the contour of the coast. Sometimes this lake is wholly cut off from sea, and at other times a wide channel joins it with the Atlantic. Years ago two small vessels took refuge in this lake from a storm, only to find that they were prisoners, unable to put out to sea when ready to pursue their voyage. In a single night the Atlantic eats up many acres of the great sand heap, only to build it up in some other direction. Its present form is a crescent, with its convex side to the south. Two of the three lighthouses built since 1880 were undermined by the invading ocean, and a while ago the third was badly damaged, and will probably have to be replaced.

Sable is only an exaggerated type of moving islands in various parts of the world. Winds, storms and currents are continually changing the outlines of not a few low, sandy islands in the Pacific.—New York Sun.

Among the strange superstitions that effect southern negroes is a belief that it is dangerous to approach closely to or stay long near a dead body. A colored servant in Washington who went to a funeral was asked on her return if she saw the corpse. She replied, "Deed, honey, d'you s'pose I'd go near enough to take that dead man's breff?"

THE KIND THAT CURES

JOHN A. CORSON,
Freedom, N. H.

Smothering Asthma!

SLEPT IN A CHAIR 40 YEARS!

Now Goes to Bed and "Sleeps Like a Child!"

We Challenge the World to Show a Parallel Case!

TO ANYONE WHO DOUBTS THE TRUTH OF MR. CORSON'S STATEMENT WE WOULD SAY, "INVESTIGATE." WE COULD NOT SET FORTH SUCH INVESTIGATION OF ALL OUR TESTIMONIALS.

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.:

GENTLEMEN—I have been troubled with ASTHMA for 40 YEARS, suffering so badly as to be unable to lie down in bed for my length of time, being compelled to obtain what sleep I could sitting in a chair. Have tried Doctors and every medicine I could hear of, but without obtaining much relief. Last Spring I saw advertised and concluded to try it, though without much faith, but after taking a few doses, feeling much relieved, I continued, and at the expiration of a few days COULD SLEEP IN A HORIZONTAL POSITION AS WELL AS A CHILD. Have never had any sleep since. In consequence of which my general health has improved wonderfully. Have only taken two bottles.

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

Remain, yours respectfully,
Freedom, N. H. JOHN A. CORSON.

GENTS—I am personally acquainted with J. H. Corson and can assure you of his PERFECT RELIABILITY. Yours truly,
CHAS. W. HICKS,
Wolfboro, N. H. Druggist.

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatuleney. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown
— MONSON. —

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of

The Palmer Journal.

PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 7, 1893. NUMBER 1.

RIDAY EVENING

E & CO.

RIPTION.—Two dollars a year. nts to those who pay in advance. three months, 50 cents; single RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines d) one week, $1; each subsequent ts. One inch one year, $10; one- ek, 75 cents; each additional week. r advertisements, "Wanted," cents per line, cash; no charge ts. Notices in local column, 15 iberal rates to yearly advertisers. f all kinds executed in the best d at reasonable rates.

L. E. CHANDLER.

Office as second class matter.]

SINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

olesale and Retail Druggist aler in Watches, Clocks and et.

and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham,

N L. Graduate Optician. With sweler, Main street.

S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jew- d Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, ves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Orders box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, MRS. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and Hay's supplies, Main street.

HOOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agt for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

HOYT, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Furniture. Main street.

KING, W., Attorney at Law.

LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Dealers in Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

MAHER, Dealers in all kinds of House Furnishings and Burial Caskets.

MANN, Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., Wholesale and Retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MANN, C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear Warehouse.

MFG. CO. Office Lawrence Block. Open October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., and 2 to 4 p. m.

MOORE, W., Auctioneer.

MORIARTY, Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes. Depot.

NOYES, at Law. Office in Allen's Block.

PALMER Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

PALMER, Manufacturers of Ridge's Native Paper Hanger, Dealer in Coal and Oil Stoves, Church street.

PALMER, Manufacturers of Ridge's Patent Shoulder Braces, Main street.

THORNDIKE.

, Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture.

, and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Grain and Baled Hay.

WARDSVILLE.

Livery, Board and Feed

Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.

Goods, Groceries, Boots, Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

E., Carriage and Sign

WARE.

, J. A., Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Confectionery. Low prices.

SURANCE AGENCY represents the panies and gives lowest rates.

Y, J. E. Stoves, Plumbing, Heating system or hotwater a specialty.

Job and Fine Art Printer.

MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed promptly.

J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Ranges. Repairing promptly done. North St.

A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

KATE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

TH, G. H. V., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

TH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

RNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and Dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

TER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

T, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

N, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

& CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings.

WARREN.

W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Cushing Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

, No. 107, G. A. R.

Wednesday evenings of Hall, Central street. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

190, I. O. O. F.

ning in Commerce

M. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

Ladies and fine place to buy should visit Mon St., just off ure, good service, and F. BLACKMAN, formerly

OL

SINESS

ITS

ey will be

NISHING

OODS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and re to suit you.

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will good to ca

ONYIA HOBBY H

Prices

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

Has no equal for the prompt relief and speedy cure of Colds, Coughs, Croup, Hoarseness, Loss of Voice, Preachers' Sore Throat, Asthma, Bronchitis, La Grippe, and other derangements of the throat and lungs. The best known cough cure in the world, it is recommended by eminent physicians, and is the favorite preparation with singers, actors, preachers and teachers. It soothes the inflamed membrane, loosens the phlegm, stops coughing, and induces repose.

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

Taken for consumption, in its early stages, checks further progress of the disease, and even in the latter stages it eases the distressing cough and promotes refreshing sleep. It is agreeable to the taste, needs but small doses, and does not interfere with digestion or any of the regular organic functions. As an emergency medicine, every household should be provided with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"Having used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, I can confidently recommend it for all the complaints it is claimed to cure. Its sale is increasing yearly with me, and my customers think this preparation has no equal as a cough cure."—S.W. Parent, Queensbury, N. B.

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

PROMPT TO ACT, SURE TO CURE.

D. W. FOSKETT,

Grain Dealer

FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance H." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

CUSTOM SUITS

—:FROM:—

$17.00 to $27.00

Pants from $4.50 to $8.00.

Our full line of SPRING SAMPLES now on exhibition.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

-:- SPRING HATS! -:-

LADIES'

SPRING DRESS GOODS.

The most complete line we ever carried.

We are the CHEAPEST CARPET HOUSE in the state.

Yours truly,

S. H. Hellyar & Co.

Engraved Address Cards

Are the correct thing for ladies or gentlemen.

Correct sizes—latest styles of letters.

Call and see samples.

The PALMER JOURNAL.

1893—SPRING—1893

CARPET : :

Department

(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN

65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN

35c to 50c.

HEMP

15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS

25c to 60c

(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS

15c to 40c

(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS

$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS

50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.

Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.

TINNERS, AND

STEAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls, Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers, Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business. Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS, VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices. Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

NEW UNDERTAKING ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

Ripans Tabules prolong life.

JAPANESE SOAP

The leading Soap in this market. For the Laundry, Bath and Toilet it has no equal. Is made of the Purest, Cleanest and Best Materials known for making soap. It positively cures and prevents chapped hands. Works equally as well in hard water. For Printers, Machinists, etc., it has no rival. Ask for

Fisk's Japanese Soap

and take no other. Manufactured only by the

FISK MANUFACTURING CO.,

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 52-50

Ripans Tabules—gentle cathartic.

PAPER : :

HANGINGS

New Designs.

Latest Patterns.

Bottom Prices.

LARGEST STOCK TO SELECT FROM ! ! ! !

and will furnish a good man to hang it for you. Don't neglect to

PAPER YOUR CEILINGS!

and let us show you something pretty to do it with—at

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,

BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,

ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,

BEEF, IRON AND WINE,

GREENE'S NERVURA,

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,

and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POLISH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT'S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LEGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.

WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,

NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.

CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S Opera House Drug Store.

SPRINGFIELD'S

CLOAK AND FUR HOUSE.

—:—

Opening of : : Spring Novelties

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY,

March 22d and 23d.

YOU ARE INVITED TO INSPECT.

In the meantime we are receiving daily all the latest productions.

JACKETS with and without Capes, both are good, and Butter Long CAPES are the prevailing styles for Spring. We have a choice assortment of these capes both in velvet and cloth.

Ladies' Suits and Silk Waists, separate skirts to be worn with silk waists. Underskirts in different materials.

Bolero Jackets to go with Silk Waists, in fact, all the latest fancies for in doors and out.

We are always glad to exhibit our styles. Call and see us.

Jas. McKeon & Co

309 MAIN ST., SPRINGFIELD, MASS. tf-51

NEW

OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental C office former

The Two Mysteries.

We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still;
The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale and still,
The lids that will not lift again, tho' we may call and call,
The strange white solitude of peace that settles over all.

We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart pain,
The dread to take our daily way and walk in it again,
We know not to what sphere the loved who leave us go,
Nor why we're left to worship still, nor why we do not know.

But this we know: Our loved and lost, if they should come this day,
Should come and ask us, "What is 'ife?" not one of us could say.
Life is a mystery as deep as death can ever be,
Yet, oh, how sweet it is to us, this life we live and see.

Then might they say, those vanished ones, and blessed is the thought:
"So death is sweet to us, beloved, though we can tell you naught."
We may not tell it to the quick, this mystery of death,
Ye may not tell it if ye would, this mystery of breath.

The child that enters life comes not with knowledge or intent,
So those who enter death must go, as little children went.
Nothing is known, but I believe that God is overhead,
As life is to the living, so death is to the dead.

—Mary Mapes Dodge.

A POSTAL EPISODE.

It was a pretty room, this cell 29, as Katherine Gray called her parlor and alcove suite in The Norman, Cedar street, Blank City. There was a piano; there were books, easy chairs, pictures. Besides the furnishings that in these days are called necessary, there were the countless small things that make a room something more than mere shelter. In the open grate the gas-log burned with irritating regularity and precision, flaunting its beauty in the face of the useful but ornamental steam-coil. Behind a gay screen, slightly ajar, there was a tiny gas-stove, and a singing kettle; a half-open door of a cabinet revealed odd pieces of china and shining silver.

This is what the sun shone upon through the big east bay window on New Year's morning. This and Katherine Gray at her breakfast-table. The postman had made his one round for the day. Some business house had sent her a calendar, and there was one letter. This she was reading. She made a pretty picture as she sat thus. The domestic signs and symbols were becoming to her; they gave her an air of homeiness that made one wish for a cup of the fragrant coffee, just for the sake of seeing her pour it out.

She had a wealth of brown hair, sincere hazel eyes, and a most expressive mouth. She was tall, slow of motion and of speech. No one would have spoken of her as a pretty woman; yet any observing person would have seen that she had not stopped at prettiness, but had passed on to something finer.

With the rest of the world she was having a holiday. So she had arrayed herself in a becoming house-gown, and was enjoying it just as much as though she was not, every day in the year—Sundays and holidays excepted—engaged in the real estate and life insurance business.

"I wish," she said—she had a fashion of thinking aloud when alone—"I wish that this letter could have been delayed until to-morrow. I don't like being so disturbed on New Year's Day. There is a saying, that as the first day goes, so goes the whole year." Then she laughed; and she looked very pretty when laughing. "I wonder if I'm to have a proposal of marriage every day in the year, and feel as bad about every one as I do about this?"

Then she rose and walked to the mirror. The reflection was not unpleasant; she smiled as she looked at it. But she said: "There's no use in being flattered by the glass, Katherine; the fact remains that this is your birthday and that you are thirty-four years old to-day, and from this time right along you are not going to grow any younger. Here in your hand is an offer of marriage from an eminently worthy and respectable man, who would take you away from Cell 29 and its 'kitcheny-parlor' air, and set you in a handsome home, where you wouldn't have to hide your bread in a bureau drawer, bake and boil in a single dish, or eat 'boughten pie'—who would make a lady of leisure of you, and who, best of all, or what aught to be the best of all, would love you and be good to you. And yet," she continued, "you hesitate. With the little lines coming around your eyes and mouth, with work and worry and weariness stretching out indefinitely before you—you hesitate. I am surprised. You don't show your usual good business sense, your keen appreciation of a good bargain. You are ungrateful, also. You ought to fall on your knees and thank the Lord for such a piece of good fortune. That is, I suppose you ought according to the world's way of looking at such things."

Then she sat down before the fire and fell into silence. Truly, she was not insensible to the material advantages that were offered to her in this letter from Mr. Browne, wholesale grocer and dealer in canned goods. She loved ease and beauty and luxury; she could use them to the adorning of any position that might be offered her. She was tired of work and the continuous struggle for bread. She had achieved some success in a business way, and that, too, in the face of every instinct of her being. She had made something approaching a home in this little suite of rooms. Her friends drifted in of a Sunday, or now and then of an evening, and, sipping tea from a dainty cup, would pronounce it all "so cozy and delightful." It certainly was a great improvement on the gregariousness of the boarding-house, but in Katherine's secret soul she felt it to be a narrow and lonely life. She despised the makeshifts of light house-keeping, and, being of a very social nature, she often found her solitary roll and coffee lacking in flavor.

As she sat thus, with her hands clasped above her head, she thought: "If it were not for that letter received and answered ten years ago to-day—the first day of the year is a fateful day to me, surely—I know what my reply would be to this one. If I could only forget—but I might as well start my life anew to-day as any time."

Then she went to her desk and took down the old calendar. "You've had your day, and may as well go with the rest. One nail drives out another. Your successor is here, with his ready-made wisdom. By the way, I'll see what sort this is," she said. "It's some advertising scheme, no doubt; but it may have a message for me just the same."

She read: "'Be more afraid of the companionship that enslaves than of the solitude that leaves you free.' Use the Highflyer Bicycle. Best in the world."

She read the quotation twice, smiling as she did so, and hung the new calendar in its place. Then she proceeded to set

After this she proceeded to do what nine out of ten business women do on their holidays. She took numberless stitches here and there; she "did up" a bit of lace too fine for the aggressive laundress's hands; she regulated sundry boxes and drawers, and set in fair array her store of feminine finery.

At three o'clock she made a careful street toilet and went out for her dinner. Determined not to dine alone, she invited little Joe the newsboy who brought her morning paper and who did small errands for her and other occupants of the Norman, to go with her.

To be sure, when she asked him if he had been to dinner, he admitted that he had been "wid de gang to de mission. But dat," he said, "don't cut no figger. I kin eat jes' as well fer all dat."

He verified hisassertion. Katherine never had a more satisfactory guest.

"Yer bet it was bully," he said the next day to a properly envious crowd of boys. "None o' you fellers ever seed anything like it. 'Twas a way-up restrent, where dey have chany wid flowers onto it, an' silver an' glass things wot I don't know der names of. An wite table-cloths and napkins wot I used just like a genlem does, and a waiter wot stood behind my cheer an' waited on me jes like he did de rest. He didn't dast do nothink else with Miss Gray's eyes lookin' right at him. An' dere was soup an' turkey, an' inguns, an' jell, and ice cream, and pie, an' puddin'—an' I was on'y sorry I filled up so at de mission."

Katherine sat in the early winter twilight at her piano, singing some sweet old song of her early youth.

She loved music, and not even the demands of the real estate and insurance business had kept her from study and practice.

Then there came a vigorous ring at her door. It flashed across her mind that possibly Mr. Browne was going to forestall the postman and know his fate by word of mouth. Before going to the door she lighted the gas and went to the mirror. Standing there she said, "Statistics show, Katherine, that women over thirty"—

Then the bell rang again. As if wavering a little, she glanced at the calendar. Bravely the words shone before her eyes: "Be more afraid of the companionship that enslaves than of the solitude that leaves you free."

"Ah! that helps," she said.

Then she opened wide the door.

It certainly was not Mr. Browne who stood there. Mr. Browne was short and rotund; florid also. This man was tall; of fine proportions, with clear-cut features, and a fine moustache.

"Miss Gray?" he said, interrogatively.

"Yes."

"My name is—but perhaps you remember my name;" and the tall man stepped uninvited into the room.

"Yes," she said, her eyes blazing; "I remember your name. It is the name of the only man who ever treated me with disrespect. Go back into the silence that has covered you for ten years!"

"Not yet," he said. "The morning mail brought me this letter that you wrote me ten years ago. You accepted me then; you said that you loved me. I've the proof in my hands," and he opened a letter yellow and stained. "You say:—

"'Dear Everil—I'—"

"Oh, don't!" she cried.

"Listen, dear," he said; "sit down beside me while I tell you. The post office in the city where we both lived ten years ago has recently undergone repairs. A package of letters has been exhumed by the gasfitters or plumbers. This is one of them. I only hope the others have been forwarded to as happy a destination. For the words in the letter,—they are true now as then; are they not, Katherine?"

"Oh, I don't know!" she said.

"Find out, dear, as quickly as you can. The years have been long and hard; but these last hours have been torture. I had no idea where to look for you"—

"What do you think I must have endured?" she asked.

"I don't dare think of it." Then he added, as ninety-nine men out of a hundred would have done: "We won't talk about it or think of it. We will forget the sadness of the past, and plan for our future."

"How did you find me?" asked Katherine.

"I saw you at the restrurant where you were entertaining that little hoodlum. I knew you at once. There's no woman in the world like you. I, too, had a guest with me, and could not follow you. But an hour later I caught the boy on the street, and by my silvery eloquence and a dollar learned your name, and where you lived."

"My name?"

"Yes. You might have changed it—and then—I should not be here."

Then Katherine told him of her father's death; of the reverses that drove her into earning her own livelihood; of the circumstances that set her in the business she was following; of her modest success: and then of Mr. Browne.

"That is all past," he said emphatically, especially Mr. Browne. You are going to retire from business, and let me set you in the dearest, sweetest spot on earth, a happy home. I don't fancy this spirit of independence that possesses the women of the present day."

But Katherine said: "Don't talk of a subject you evidently do not fully understand. It's too large for our discussion to-night. It was this spirit of independence that made it possible for me to be true to my heart for so many years. Except for it, I might not have been able to obey the message the New Year brought to me. This has been New Year's Day, you know."

"This is New Year's Day," he said. "It shall be, God helping, the beginning of love, and hope and happiness that shall last through all the years to come. It shall be the beginning of a companionship that means, not enslavement, but the liberty wherewith love sets us free. And as for that blessed calendar, it shall never be deposed."

So they sealed their vows after the sweet manner of lovers since the world was.

Then some friends dropped in, and after a while Katherine lighted the tiny gas stove behind the gay screen, and soon there was a singing kettle and a dainty little feast, which the friends pronounced "just lovely," but which Katherine and her lover knew was the feast of betrothal.

A month later little Joe was dividing a box of wedding cake with a number of his friends.

"Dey looked as happy as kings and queens," he said, "when dey rode away. An' I don't s'pose 'twould ever have happened if it hadn't been for me."—Carlotta Perry, in New Orleans Times-Democrat.

IF HE LIVED LONG ENOUGH.—Gen. Rufus Ingalls, who died in New York a few days ago, was an intimate friend of General Grant and served on his staff during the Virginia campaign. Ingalls, who was a good deal of a character in his way, had among his attendants a spotted dog, which he prized very highly, but which was regarded at headquarters as about the most worthless of the

WOMAN'S CORNER.

THE SAINT AND THE SINNER.

Heart-worn and weary the woman sat,
Her baby sleeping across her knee,
And the work her fingers were toiling at Seemed a pitiful task for such as she.
Mending shoes for the little feet
That pattered over the cabin floor,
While the bells of the Sabbath day rang sweet,
And the neighbors passed by the open door.

The children played, and the baby slept,
And the busy needle went and came,
When, lo, on the threshold stone there stept
A priestly figure, and named her name;
"What shrift is this for the Sabbath day,
When bells are calling, and far and near
The people gather to praise and pray?
Woman, why are you toiling here?"

Like one in a dream, she answered low:
"Father, my days are work-days all:
I know not Sabbath. I dare not go
Where the beautiful bells ring out and call.
For who would look to the meat and drink,
And tend the children and keep the place?
I pray in silence and try to think,
For God's love can listen, and give me grace."

The years passed on, and with feast and prayer
The good priest climbed to the gate of rest,
And a tired woman stood waiting there,
Her work-worn hands to her bosom pressed.
"Oh, saint, thrice blessed, mount thou on high,"
He heard the welcoming angels say.
When meekly, gently, she passed him by,
Who mended shoes on the Sabbath day.

—Madeline S. Bridges, in Ladies' Home Journal.

COLLEGE SETTLEMENT, ST. MARY STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

In Philadelphia the work of the College Settlement is entirely different from the work in Chicago and New York. The people in St. Mary street and vicinity are anything but hard-working; the need is not for pleasure and rest, but for employment and the self-respect begotten of honest labor.

"Will you come to St. Maay street with me?" says Miss Scudder in the Wellesley Magazine. "You can do so quite safely now. Ten years ago you could not have gone at all unless you were a man, and then you would have been obliged to seek the company of a policeman.

"Thirty years ago St. Mary street, like the old Five Points of New York, was a terrible region, a center of crime and disorder. To-day it is safe for young women to live in the street and to receive their friends there. The change has been largely brought about by a small company of devoted people who have bought and controlled tenement-houses, have organized a circulating library of good books for children and a carpenter's shop for the larger boys, and have forced the most unruly element to leave the street. Something over a year ago these people—the committee of the St. Mary Street Library—asked the College Settlements Association to help, and when the Association agreed they made ready for us a little house so charming and so cheery it is a delight to live in it, and still more to offer its hospitality to the neighbors. The people around are very poor. One learns what poverty means for the first time in living among them through the bitter winter weather. They live huddled together, whole families, sometimes with lodgers thrown in, and occupying a single room. They have few clothes to wear, little fuel, often nothing to eat for days at a time, seldom steady work. They are the left-over, the submerged tenth.

"One realizes that they have sunk to the region of the picturesque as one climbs the sharp curves of an out-door staircase, steps past the red washtubs on the balcony into a room whose blue plastering has largely fallen down, showing the timbers above, and interviews the occupants—an antique woman, Sphinx-faced, inscrutable, and a group of half-breed children of strange, startling, uncanny beauty. Negroes, Jews, Italians live together indiscriminately in the neighborhood. When they have a job and are paid for it, they work; when they have none they go without. Are they not shiftless? you ask. Very. Are they not unstable? In the extreme. Might they not get work if they wished? Some could not, but some could. Is their misery their own fault? The answer to this question would carry us far afield. Perhaps a little story will make you know our neighbors better.

"'Mrs. Meadow has taken a start,' was the announcement made at the dinner table. 'I found her washing her mattress because it looked that dirty.' What can we do to encourage her?' Consultation follows. It is not advisable to give anything to Mrs. Meadow, as her possessions are already in the pawnbroker's hands, but a judicious loan, followed by repeated personal friendly visits, with frank advice on subjects of personal cleanliness, may do wonders. We are taken over and introduced to Mrs. Meadow—a young black woman with a merry face, arrayed in one limp garment. The furniture of her one room is that which etiquette demands in St. Mary street—a range, a bed, a broken chair and a baby. Mrs. Meadow is highly delighted with the offer of sheets, and when the coarse, unbleached cotton is spread over the wide bed she regards the scene with a satisfied 'Well, now, them's grand.' Seeing that nothing is apparently to follow, I ask with rather hesitating politeness, 'Have you no bedclothes, Mrs. Meadow?' 'No, miss,' smiling. 'And have you no coal?' 'No, miss.' 'Aren't you pretty cold these winter nights?' 'Well, miss, you see I've got the baby, and I hold her close and she is good and warm, with which image of contentment and new suggestions as to the use of babies, I withdrew, silent.

"Constant visits, interspersed with severe and encouraging remarks, make Mrs. Meadow live up to her sheets like the bride to her teapot. The room, the baby, and Mrs. Meadow herself are in decent condition, at least half the time. To be sure the father has no work and no visible means of subsistence, but he and the little woman—she is only nineteen—are as gay as the day is long, and life is one huge joke, interspersed with moving and prayer-meetings.

"Once I became aware that Mrs. Meadow's large black toes were protruding, plump and bare, under her one garment; inquiry elicits the fact that she has but one pair of stockings, which she has cut down "for him," and that all her shoes are in pawn.

"'Most of our things are in pawn,' says Mr. Meadow, regretfully, and he brings out a large pile of dirty, yellow tickets; he and she explain them to me, convulsed with laughter. 'A table, a white spread, blankets, her dress, her flannel skirt, her hat, the baby's clothes, all but what she's got on; and'—mournful climax from Mr. Meadow—'Even all my pictures. I paid forty cents for the framing of 'em and I only got fifteen cents off 'em.' The cloud is short-lived; amusement at my consternation gives them a delightful half-hour; and when I return with the shoes redeemed and a present of a pair of stockings, no words can describe the glee of the couple. I wish I were as happy as Mr. and Mrs. Meadow; I wish any other friend of mine were as happy.

"Yet let me take care! I have see happy; I have also seen them deepest woe. I went there the No fire; floor covered with dirty t made; Mrs. Meadow sitting open window, the keen a

'Why do you do it?' 'There wasn't no money to buy milk.' 'How long since the baby had any milk?' 'Day before yesterday, miss.' 'What has it had between then and now?' 'Tea, only yesterday Miss Hilton she give me a bit of soup for it." "Mrs. Meadow, you sweep this room out clean as quick as ever you can, while I go and get some milk for the baby out of this money that I'll advance your husband on a job for me.' Half an hour sees a greedy, happy baby, a clean little room and a radiant young mother cuddling a sleeping child.

"But the problem of the Meadows is not solved by redeeming a pair of shoes, heating a bottleful of milk for the baby, giving Mr. Meadow occasional jobs, or paying the wife fifteen cents a day to nurse a sick neighbor. What shall be done with them? They are not bad. It is not the slightest use to attribute their destitution to moral depravity. They are no lazier than many a fashionable young couple; they are no more incompetent to earn their living. Mrs. Meadow will keep herself and house clean if she has some one to gently remind her of it at stated intervals. Mr. Meadow will work—if he can find a job. He is not skilled; no one ever taught him anything. He is not stable; he does not inherit stability. He is not prudent; what force of example or teaching should have made him so? He is a child, with the childish virtues of docility, sweet temper, joyousness, readiness to work under direction. Has the world no place for him and his foolish little wife? Seemingly not. Has the world a place for their numerous prototypes in polite society? Seemingly yes.

Such are the people among whom is place the Philadelphia Settlement. What can house mean to them? What can it do to them? Little and much. Little relatively pitifully; tragically little in proportion t their tragic and unbounded need. Much absolutely, when we consider that a settleme means only half a dozen simple lives, li sincerely in the spirit of love.

"It means presenting to the people a of life and a standard of morality w would otherwise never see at firs means bringing them in many cas material help. It can often find employm for the men and women, and by constant moral suasion keep them at it. It can give industrial training which shall enable the people to get better work by and by. A carpenter shop for the boys, cooking classes for the girls, a sewing industrial society for the women. It can furnish all kinds of wholesome amusement and occupation to keep the young people off the streets. A library, penny concerts, military drill for the boys, a hall open for games and for reading, a stamp savings bank to encourage thrift, a hero club, a choral class. Better still, because less official and more human, it can hold open to the people constantly the hospitality of a real home, a center of beauty and friendliness." SELECTED BY F. V. D.

THE GARRET AT GRANDFATHER'S.

The rooms at grandfather's house had been used so long they were almost human themselves. Each room had a look of its own, when you opened the door, as expressive as a speaking countenance.

But of all the rooms in that house, up stairs or down, not one had the strangeness, the mysterious nod and beck and whisper, of the murky old garret.

"Hark, what was that?" it would seem creak; and then there was silence. "H I'll tell you a story," it sometimes answe

Some of its stories were true, but I shou not like to vouch for all of them. What number of queer things it kept hidden aw under the eaves that spread wide a broad winged cloak of shadows! What a strang eye it had: it's one half-moon window peering at you from the high, peaked fore-head of the gable.

It was the younger children's business to trot on errands, and they were not consulted as to when or where they should go. Grown people seem to forget how early it gets dark up garret in winter, and how far away the house-noises sound with all the doors shut between.

When the children were sent up garret for nuts,—for Sunday dessert with mince pie and apples, or pass around with cider in the evening,—they were careful to leave the stair door open behind them; but there was little comfort in that, for all the people were two flights down and busy with their own concerns.

The autumn nut harvest was spread upon sheets on the garret floor to d then it was garnered in the big, gree tub which had stood, since the childre remember, over against the chimney, t right of the gable window. This tub wa for size and weight the father of all b tubs. It was used for almost anythi the purpose for which it was intende

In summer, when it was empty dren played "shipwreck" in life-boat, and they were cast away high seas. Some rowed for dear umbrellas and walking-sticks, and made believe to cry and call for help.— that was their idea of the behavior of a ship wrecked company; and some tramped on the bulging tin bottom of the tub, which yielded and sprang back with a loud thump, like the clank of oars. It was very exciting.

In winter it was the granary. It held bushels and bushels of nuts, and its smooth, outsloping sides defeated the clever little mice, who were always raiding and rummaging among the garret stores.—Mary Hallock Foote, in March St. Nicholas.

LAW OF DRIVING.—A driver of a vehicle who attempts to pass another on the same road does so at his own peril, for if any accident occurs to the man he is passing the rear driver is responsible.

This does not mean that the man in advance is not obliged to yield a part of the road when notified, but the burden of care rests on the rear driver, who is in a position to see and avoid danger while the other is not.

If injury to the leading vehicle results from the attempt to pass, whether on a crowded thoroughfare or on a country road, the rear driver will be held responsible.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"You don't call on Miss Cutting any more, I hear, Blobber?"

"No."

"Did she reject you?"

"Not exactly; but when I first began calling there was a mat at the d word 'Welcome' woven in it the wall that read other.' Later was changed feet,' and bed

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 7, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.

Any one who is not now a subscriber to the paper, it will be sent three months on receipt of 25 cents.

LOCAL NOTICES.

For sale—Two tenement house on Converse avenue. Apply to L. A. Conant.

PALMER NEWS.

The Appropriations and Votes of the Adjourned Town Meeting.

The adjourned meeting of the town Monday was an unusually harmonious affair, and was well attended. The voters were quite liberal in the matter of appropriations, and also in following the suggestions of the committee of fifteen, everything being carried as reported with one exception. The amounts to be raised and appropriated are:

| | |
|---|---|
| Railings | $ 300 |
| Contingencies | 3500 |
| Highways | 4500 |
| Bridges | 1000 |
| Culverts | 600 |
| Salaries of school teachers | 12000 |
| Text books | 1100 |
| Care of school houses | 1000 |
| Repair of school houses | 1000 |
| Fuel | 1200 |
| Contingencies | 1700 |
| Public library | 500 |
| Transportation of scholars to high school | 1600 |
| Memorial Day | 100 |
| Cemetery fence at Depot village | 200 |
| Cemetery fence at Four Corners | 100 |
| Soldiers' aid | 400 |
| Support of poor | 5000 |
| Contingencies | 300 |
| Total | $36,100 |

It was voted to appropriate $1000 of the license money for the suppression of the illegal sales of liquor, the matter to be left in the hands of a special committee, the chairman being C. W. Johnson, S. B. Barnes and C. J. Houston. The balance of the license money up to $6300 is to be appropriated for the two items in the support of poor; if the amount received should be above $6300 then the balance up to $9800 is to go for contingencies, and any amount above that sum for school expenses. The town voted to instruct the school committee to employ a superintendent of schools, there being very little opposition. It was voted to allow a discount of 6 per cent on all taxes paid before Sept. 1st, interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum to be added to all paid after that date, and all must be collected before Jan. 1894, the salary of the collector being fixed with the selectmen. In the matter of a committee of five was appointed to consider the matter of sewers for the entire town and report at a future meeting. It was voted to issue bonds payable in ten years for the debt of the town, which is now $20,000, interest not to exceed 4 per cent. The question of lighting the streets of the town brought out some discussion, the question being as to what was the best system, but it was finally voted to light the villages at a cost not to exceed $5000, and make a contract with the Palmer and Monson Electric Company, a committee of six in addition to the selectmen to be appointed to consider the best system, the number of lights and their location. The matter of schooling the children of residents of other towns was left with the school committee, and the matter of claims against the town and the procuring of a fire-proof vault for the town records was left with the selectmen. The old committee,—James Loomis, C. L. Alexander and L. E. Moore—was appointed to consider the need for new land for cemetery purposes at the Depot village, and report at the next annual meeting. In reference to the preservation of shade trees a committee of two from each village and one from each of the outlying school districts was appointed to look after the trees. A committee of three was appointed to recommend a uniform system of keeping accounts for the several officers of the town, and it was voted that the assessors publish the valuation of the town in the next annual town report, also that the superintendent of roads publish an itemized statement of his expenditures. It was also voted as the sense of the meeting that the licenses be sold to the highest bidders, but this cannot be done, as the law says that the selectmen shall fix the price of the licenses.

The officers chosen by nomination and the committees appointed are as follows:

Surveyors of Lumber and Measurers of Wood and Bark—H. P. Marcy, R. L. Bond, H. T. Bishop, C. P. Haynes, G. W. Lyman and J. A. Lamb.

Field Drivers—Dennis Mahoney, E. E. Ryther, Maurice McCormick, Patrick F. Hurley, J. R. Wellman, W. A. Lawson.

Sealer of Weights and Measures—James B. Shaw.

Sewers—E. P. Ball, L. H. Gager, A. M. Bond, A. P. Trudeau, C. F. Armstrong.

Electric Lighting—H. P. Holden, C. E. Getchell, J. F. Twiss, R. C. Newell, C. L. Holden, C. H. Hobbs, H. T. Bishop, L. E. Moore, Dr. Wm. Holbrook.

Shade Trees—R. C. Newell, Horace Paine, C. E. Getchell, Rufus Bond, C. H. Hobbs, J. F. Luman, Herman Kendall, Frank Hamilton, G. W. Ely, H. Stimson, C. R. Shaw, W. H. Stowe, D. W. Black.

Town Accounts—R. C. Newell, C. B. Fiske, J. B. Shaw.

D. Nicholson has moved to Rutland, Vt.

C. W. Cross returned from his Florida trip this afternoon.

The pews in the Universalist church were rented last evening.

T. Huntington is adding a piazza to his street residence.

has been appointed town in for the coming year.

s Mabel and Myrtie McQuade spent with friends in Warren.

Selectman Twiss will probably have the care of the roads during the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Burch of Dubuque, Iowa, have been guests of C. B. Fiske a part of the week.

Charles Kempton takes the place in the post office made vacant by the resignation of C. G. Harrison.

The school committee has organized with W. A. Breckenridge as chairman and L. E. Moore as secretary.

The Ladies' Society of the Congregational church held a social in the church parlors Wednesday evening.

Miss A. F. Canfield has opened hair dressing parlors for ladies in the second story of the Lawrence block.

Howorth's Hibernica company gave a good show to a fair audience in the opera house Wednesday evening.

T. J. Dwyer is moving from the Cross block on Main street to the house on the corner of Park and Maple streets.

Mrs. H. B. Knox and daughter Gertrude are spending a couple of weeks at Mrs. Knox's home in Wakefield, N. H.

Rev. Frank L. Ferguson, president of Chadd Academy, Chadron, Neb., will preach in the Congregational church next Sunday.

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the parlors of the Congregational church next Tuesday afternoon at 3 ices were held in this village ls and banks were the stores closed

cksmith

Principal H. B. Knox of the Palmer high school was one the judges at the prize speaking contest of the high school in Holyoke Tuesday evening.

Mrs. S. H. Hellyar entertained a number of friends last evening in honor of Mrs. Jennie Hellyar of Warren, who has been her guest for a few days.

The Flynt Building and Construction Company has the contract to build a $20,000 foundry for the Pettee Machine Works at Newton Upper Falls.

The first meeting of the board of selectmen for the transaction of business was held Tuesday afternoon, but nothing was done beyond the drawing of orders.

The engagement of James P. Galleher of this place and Miss M. A. Cashin of Springfield is announced, the wedding to take place in the cathedral at Springfield the 18th.

A large audience witnessed "Placer Gold" at the opera house Tuesday evening under the auspices af the Natural History society, and about $90 will be netted for the shelving in the library rooms.

The Young Men's Union of Thorndike is arranging for a concert and ball in the opera house on the evening of the 27th, with music by the Marlboro Orchestra of 10 pieces, and promise a rare treat to all who attend.

The seleetmen have appointed the following special police: Michael Collins of Bondsville, Frank W. Lavine of Three Rivers, E. B. Williams, M. M. Thomas, A. B. C. Deming and Moses LaFar of Thorndike, G. H. Justin of Palmer.

At the Baptist church next Sabbath the pastor will preach in the morning on "The Strength and Glory of the Church." In the evening at 7 o'clock he will preach on "The Baptism of the Eunuch," and will baptise several candidates.

The ladies of the benevolent society of the Baptist church will have a social at the church next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mrs. L. G. Parkhurst, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. A. E. Fitch and Mrs. A. W. Weeks will entertain.

The annual meeting of the fire district will be held in the court room next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Now that the town has voted to pay for the electric lights the only money to be raised is that for the payment of the Palmer Water Company, the firemen, and if the voters see fit a small amount for the expenses of inspection day.

The management of the opera house would no doubt confer favor a on the lady patrons of the place if smoking in the lobby between the acts was prohibited. The circulation of air is such that the smoke is carried directly into the audience room, greatly to the annoyance of those who do not like smoke in any form, and also to those who do not object to the odor of a good cigar but have not stomachs strong enough to stand the cigarettes which are mostly used there.

At the probate court in Springfield Wednesday administration was granted in the estate of Elias F. Keyes, late of Longmeadow Ira G. Potter administrator. The will of Samuel Frost late of Hampden, was approved, Mary E. Frost, executrix. Accounts were rendered in the estates of—Maria F. Beebe, late of Wilbraham; Anson F. Lull, late of Hampden. Inventory was filed in the estate of Freddie E. Lamson, late of Wilbraham, personal $28, and a widow's allowance granted in the estate. Leave to compromise a claim was granted in the estate of Sophia Knowlton, late of Wilbraham.

The firemen met at the engine house Wednesday evening and nominated the following ticket to present to the voters at the meeting of the fire district next week: Prudential committee, C. E. Fuller, W. E. Stone F. F. Marcy; chief engineer, W. H. Hitchcock; first assistant, L. W. Caryl; second assistant, J. W. Brainerd; clerk and treasurer, F. D. Barton. The change in the prudential committee is made at the request of Dr. Cross and Mr. Wing, who declined to serve longer. Mr. Leach, who has been clerk of the district since it was organized, also declined further service, and the offices of clerk and treasurer will probably be held by one person.

The meeting which was called at the court room last evening for the purpose of organizing a cemetery association which should become incorporated under the laws of the state brought out a good number of those interested in the movement. W. A. Breckenridge was chosen moderator and L. E. Chandler clerk. These officers were chosen: President, W. A. Breckenridge; vice president, Dr. William Holbrook; secretary, L. E. Chandler; treasurer, H. G. Loomis; directors, in addition to the other officers, Mrs. E. L. Davis, Mrs. L. M. Burleigh, Mrs. J. B. Shaw, L. E. Moore, William Merriam. The following committee was appointed to solicit funds for the continuance of the work on the grounds this year: Mrs. L. M. Burleigh, Mrs. E. L. Davis, Mrs. L. M. Shaw, Mrs. J. F. Hhlbrook, Mrs. C. E. Dewey. The directors were instructed to take the steps necessary for the incorporation of the association.

A matter which is likely to come before the voters of the fire district at an early date is that of providing a bell for the fire alarm signal. There is considerable feeling that the apparatus as now located in the tower of the Universalist church does not benefit the working of the town clock, and while it is not probable that the district will be asked to remove it, no objections would be made if it were to be placed elsewhere. The place for the signal is on the engine house. A bell weighing about 2400 pounds can be placed on top of the hose tower of the building, the cost of the bell and making the necessary change in the tower to accommodate it probably not exceeding $500. If this was done the bell could stand by itself, not enclosed in any tower, making it more easily heard, especially a different toned bell from the others in the village were procured. As it now is the difference in the striking of the alarm and the town clock is so slight that many are unable to detect it.

These civil cases were entered in the district court last Saturday: B. L. Bragg & Co. of Springfield, and John Wilson and W. F. Fillmore & Co. of Three Rivers against A. Pinard & Co. of Three Rivers; Charlotte Naylor of Palmer against John LeClare for rent; H. T. Huntington of Palmer against Lambert E. Ferry of Holland, action of contract. In the criminal court Monday Frank and Angelo Allen of Monson were fined $5 and $1 for an assault, and Dominique Allen and Rea Polto were bound over to the superior court in $500 each for assault with intent to kill. Tuesday the case of J. Pinkoffsky was further continued. This morning Leopold Desmaris of Three Rivers was charged with dispensing drugs and medicines without being a registered pharmacist, and his case was continued until next Thursday. William Ready of North Monson was probated for drunkenness, and James R. Marley of the same place was sent to the house of correction for two months for the same offense.

"Arizona Joe," whose right name is John M. Curtis, and who has wealthy relatives in New Haven and other places, came to town Tuesday with $1100 in his pocket, which fact somehow became known to two strangers who thought it would be a good thing if they could handle that roll of bills. Accordingly they sat out to drink "Arizona" [illegible] and when they thought he was in [illegible] condition suggested a little [illegible] But he of the plains was [illegible] little scheme and declined, [illegible] they concluded that he wasn't [illegible] enough, and [illegible] sum—so [illegible]

A Sabbath school concert will be given in the Union church next Sunday evening.

A company of eight from this place attended the concert at Monson Sunday evening.

Mr. Warriner and family are now occupying the tenement lately vacated by Stephen Gauthier.

S. Sharp had the misfortune to dislocate his shoulder a few days ago. He is attended by Dr. Desmarais.

Mr. Wells of Amherst College preached in the Baptist church last Sunday. Mr. Lockwood, also of Amherst, will supply the pulpit next Sunday.

Mr. Hillman, depot agent for the New London Northern road at this place, is to be married about the 22d, the bride being Miss Mabel Ryther of Bondsville.

William Franklin, the man who was hurt by the cars a few weeks ago, is not dead, as has been reported, but is out and doing well under the care of Dr. Desmarais.

Mrs. Wheeler's Sunday school class presented her with a silver soup ladle last Monday evening. Miss Lena Lavine confered the token with a few appropriate words.

Mrs. Thayer and daughter, Miss Nettie Thayer, have moved to Lowell, where the former will keep house for her son, and Miss Thayer is to take a position in the cloth room of the Tremont and Suffolk mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles LaDuke of Providence, R. I., on a wedding tour to Vermont, stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lavine a few days this week. The couple left yesterday morning for their destination, where they will spend part of the summer.

A warrant in insolvency has been issued against the joint and several estates of A. Pinard and E. Durand, of Pinard & Durand, and the first meeting of creditors will be held at the court of insolvency at Springfield a week from next Saturday, at 2.30 p. m.

During the summer Shaw Brothers will keep on hand Fairbanks's ice cream, and will be prepared to supply it to customers in quantity when desired. The cream is made on a new system, is of a superior quality, and is sure to be satisfactory to those who give it a fair trial.

Last Monday a very pretty wedding took place at St. Ann's church, the contracting parties being Miss Bouly of this place and Fred Louis of Springfield. Following the ceremony the couple and a few of their intimate friends were pleasantly entertained at the parsonage, after which they left for an extended wedding tour.

The Arion Concert Company has been giving lessons in vocal music in the vestry of the Union church during this week, and about 35 persons embraced the opportunity offered to receive such instruction. The convention will end this evening, when a grand concert is to be given by the company, which will doubtless delight every one who attends.

About 30 of Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler's friends pleasantly surprised them Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lavine. As Mr. Wheeler and family intend to take their departure to-morrow for their new home in Rhode Island, the object of the party was to present them with a token of the esteem in which they are held by this community. Accordingly F. A. Upham, in an appropriate speech, presented Mr. Wheeler with a valuable rocking-chair, and bestowed upon Mrs. Wheeler an elegant silver cake dish as souvenirs of their sojourn in this town.

MARRIED.

At Palmer, 25th, by Rev. S. T. Frost, ARTHUR SHERMAN of Palmer and LOTTIE WEEKS of Hingham, Mass.

At Three Rivers, 3d, FRED DAVIS of Springfield and Miss BOULY of Three Rivers.

At Warren, 3d, by Rev. Fr. Madden, EDWARD VENEUX and MATTIE ROGERS.

DIED.

At Palmer, 2d, HENRY ATKINS, 73y., 8m., 14d.
At Palmer, 3d, GEORGE EVANS, 55.
At Thorndike 31st, MARY MATERA, 19.
At Thorndike, 6th, JOSHUA D. SAWYER, 75.
Funeral at the house Sunday at 12 M.
At Monson, 3d, DANIEL J. HANAFIN.
At Monson, 4th, MARY PUFFER, 67, wife of D. W. Ellis.
At Monson, 5th, LIZZIE H. WALCOTT.
At Ludlow, 3d, WILLIAM H. PEASE, 56, son of the late Pliny Pease.

WANTED.—A housekeeper. Address A. B. W., Box 348, Palmer, Mass. 3*1

TO RENT—Tenement corner Park and Maple streets. Inquire of W. W. LEACH. tf-41

TO RENT.—Three tenements—two lower, one upper. H. D. CONVERSE. 2-53

HOUSE CLEANING and washing done. Mrs. G. C. SESSIONS, 1-1* Near Shearer's corner.

WANTED—Salesmen; salary and expenses from start; steady work; good chance for advancement. BROWN BROS. CO., Nurserymen, 4-52 Rochester, N. Y.

NEAT STOCK FOR SALE—One pair oxen and several Jersey and high grade milch cows. GEORGE ROBINSON. Palmer, July 27, 1892. tf-18

TO RENT.—House of ten rooms on Maple street. Good orchard on the lot. Inquire at Central Street Restaurant, or of tf-53 JAMES HENIGHAN.

TO RENT.—Farm of 200 acres in the south part of Belchertown, at Walker's crossing; or will rent the pasturing for 25 head of cattle for the season. Inquire of 3*1 MICHAEL O'CONNOR, Palmer.

BICYCLE FOR SALE.

Century Columbia Light Roadster Safety, '92 pattern, pneumatic tires, in A No. 1 condition. CHANDLER BROS., Palmer.

TO RENT—My late residence, corner Church and Pleasant streets; 9 rooms and furnace. Also two smaller tenements. Inquire of E. J. WOOD, tf-6 or MRS. O. M. WOOD.

S. H. ELLERY, BRIMFIELD.
VETERINARY SURGEON AND DENTIST.

Late of Maryland Veterinary Hospital and Chicago Veterinary College. Treatment of all domesticated animals promptly attended to. tf-1

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.

I wish to call the attention of the horsemen of Palmer and the surrounding towns to the fact that I have opened a blacksmith shop in the rear of E. Goodes' shoe store, corner of Main and Thorndike streets, Palmer, where I am now prepared to do all kinds of wagon work, wood and iron. Particular attention will be given to shoeing difficult horses. I will do my work as cheap as any one in town, and as to the quality I shall let the work speak for itself. Give me a call. tf-1 JAMES HEALEY.

FOR SALE—Village farm in Monson, Mass. Farm of 41 acres, cuts 15 to 16 tons of hay, with machine. Good fair house painted white, large new barn 36x40 with cellar, spring water in house and barn. Land in excellent condition. Ten minutes walk to R. R. station, church, stores, schools, etc. A very desirable location. 4*53 ROSE P. WALLACE, Monson, Mass.

WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS.

I have three commodious comfortable rooms in my own house, which I will rent at $1.50 per day for each room. With a cot three persons can occupy a room. Within easy access of the Exposition grounds. Cool, quiet, clean, cheap. Write at once for dates. Rev. G. S. ROLLINS, 4*51 7231 Union Ave., Chicago.

LADIES' CAPES!

Spring styles direct for the factory this week.

$4.00 to $11.00.

Ladies please examine.

STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

FIRE DISTRICT MEETING.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. To the qualified voters in Fire District No. 1 in Palmer:

You are hereby notified to meet at the Eastern Hampden District Court-Room in said Palmer on Tuesday, the eleventh day of April next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, to act on the following articles, viz:

ARTICLE 1. To choose a Moderator to preside at said meeting.

ART. 2. To choose a clerk, treasurer, prudential committee and board of engineers and all other officers and committees that may be necessary for the ensuing year, and give them instructions.

ART. 3. To hear the report of the treasurer, prudential committee and board of engineers and act on the same.

ART. 4. To raise such sums of money as may be necessary to pay the expenses of the fire department and annual rental of the Palmer Water Company and Palmer & Monson Electric Company and appropriate the same.

ART. 5. To see what action the district will take towards paying the board of engineers, firemen and treasurer for their services for the ensuing year.

ART. 6. To see what action the district will take towards authorizing the collector to add interest [illegible] paid after Sept. 1st of the ensuing year.

ART. 7. To see what action the district will [illegible] ards lighting its streets and whether it [illegible] the prudential committee to mak[illegible] th the Palmer & [illegible]

THORNDIKE.

Miss Theresa Larkins of Worcester, who has been visiting friends in town for the past week, returns to her home to-morrow.

A petition has been in circulation during the past week for the retention of A. P. Adams, the present postmaster.

Howorth's Hibernica company will appear this evening at Union Hall, and as the company is wellknown there will no doubt be a crowded house.

The carpenters who were at work building the new hall for Mr. Hale quit work one day this week, there being some grievance between the parties.

The town's new prosecuting committee made a call Wednesday evening on the Clinton House and the place of William Conley, but found nothing.

Home for Easter—Dennis Dailey and Daniel Hartnet from Holyoke, Fred Edwards from Springfield, John Dawson from Hartford, Ct., William Gerald from Lawrence.

Harry F. Sanford, formerly of this place, captain of Co. M., 40th Missouri Infantry, is one of the officers of the western branch of the National Home for D. V. S., at Leavenworth, Kan.

There is to be a grand ball given at the opera house in Palmer on the 27th by parties from this place, and Brigham's fine orchestra of Marlboro will furnish music for concert and ball.

The minstrel entertainment on Wednesday evening by local talent was a grand success financially and otherwise. The parts were all well taken. The same company played to a crowded house at Belchertown last evening.

The people of this place have been informed that several special police have been appointed for this place by the selectmen during this week. Many think there is no need of any more than we have had, and are wondering what it means.

The Strike of the Weavers.

The weavers who went out on a strike at the No. 2 mill last Friday have decided not to return to work until some concession is made by the agent. They claim that 10 yards per cut have been added to the 36-pick work, and a certain number of yards to the 42- and 44-pick work. They claim that they have not been used fairly, as they received no notification of the increase in yards with no increase in the price per cut for weaving. They state that after the strike last June the agent promised that he would make it all right with them in a short time, and would raise their wages if they were being raised anywhere else. They declare that they will not return until their demand of an increase of two cents per cut on all kinds of work is granted.

Mr. Hobbs, the agent, in answer to the claim that the cuts had been increased in length told the weavers last Friday to send a committee of three to the office at 9.30, when they would be given a clerk from the office and an opportunity to measure any style of goods made last year which is being made now, and if there was found to be any average increase in the length of the cuts it would be made right immediately, but that no advance in wages would be made. This the weavers did not see fit to accept. As to the matter of wages, the mill claims that the weavers are at present averaging better pay than those in many other places, Lewiston, Biddeford, Saco, Lowell, and says that under no consideration whatever will the price per cut be advanced. This morning the weavers were notified that all who did not go to work Monday morning would be considered as having left the employ of the company, and all such have been notified to vacate the tenements of the company occupied by them.

THREE RIVERS.

Rev. G. H. Butler spent this week in Somerville.

Mrs. Ward of Palmer spent yesterday with Mrs. C. Ruggles.

Miss Crane spent yesterday with Miss Cora Clark of Thorndike.

Watson Holman of Boston spent Fast D[illegible] with friends in town.

Frank W[illegible]

One ROUNDED teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a HEAPING teaspoonful of any other. A large saving on a year's bakings.

The best known writers on domestic science, as Marion Harland, Mrs. McBride, Mrs. Parker and Emily Hayes, and teachers of cookery, as Mrs. Rorer, Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. Dearborn, use and recommend Cleveland's Baking Powder.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN, ss. PROBATE COURT.—To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Daniel Hartnett, late of Palmer, in said county, deceased, Greeting:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said court, for probate, by Daniel J. Hartnett, of said Palmer, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to Catherine Hartnett, of said Palmer, the executrix therein named, and that she may be exempt from giving a surety on her official bond as such executrix.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Springfield, in said county of Hampden, on the first Wednesday of May next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Palmer Journal, published at Palmer, the last publication to be two days at least before said court, and to mail a copy of such notice to each of said next of kin fourteen days, at least, before said court.

Witness, WILLIAM S. SHURTLEFF, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

3-52G SAMUEL B. SPOONER, Register.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John K. Knox and Elthina M. Knox, both of Palmer, Mass., to the Palmer Savings Bank, a corporation duly established by law, and having its place of business in said Palmer, dated April 22d, 1889, and recorded in the registry of deeds for the county of Hampden, libro 455, folio 6, will be sold at public auction, at the dwelling house on the premises, on Monday, the seventeenth day of April, 1893, at two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely: A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate in said Palmer, on the road leading from the Depot Village to Palmer Center, and bounded easterly by land formerly of A. N. Dewey, Samuel Shaw and the estate of Azel Brakenridge; southerly by lands formerly of P. W. Webster, John A. Squier, Michael O'Neill, John M. Converse and Peggy Knox; westerly by the old Boston turnpike, and northerly by land formerly of J. W. Weeks, containing one hundred and eighty-six acres of land, more or less, and is the farm formerly occupied by said John K. and Elthina M. Subject to the rights of all parties in the aqueducts thereon and to the rights of the public in all highways passing through the same.

$300 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, Mortgagee.
By W. W. LEACH, its Attorney.
Palmer, Mass., March 21st, 1893. 3-52

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. PROBATE COURT.—To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Joseph W. Fitton, late of Palmer, in said county, deceased, Greeting:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said court, for probate, by Joseph W. Fitton of Worcester in said Commonwealth, who represents that one of the executors named in said will has deceased, and that the other refuses the trust, and who prays that letters of administration, with the will annexed, may be issued to him, without the giving of surety or sureties on his official bond pursuant to the statute.

You are hereby cited to appear at a probate court to be held at Springfield, on the first Wednesday of May next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Palmer Journal, published at Palmer, the last publication to be two days at least before said court.

Witness, WILLIAM S. SHURTLEFF, Esquire, Judge of said court, this twenty-fourth day of March in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety three.

SAMUEL B. SPOONER, Register.
3-53

TO THE HONORABLE THE JUSTICES OF THE SUPERIOR COURT.

Humbly shows that Emily F. Rawson of Holland, in said county of Hampden, that she was lawfully married to Albert K. Rawson of parts unknown, at Putnam, in the State of Connecticut, on the 26th day of November, A. D. 1881, that they have since lived together as husband and wife in Putnam, Conn., and Worcester, in said county of Worcester, and your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, yet the said Albert K. Rawson, being wholly regardless of the same, on divers occasions has cruelly and abusively treated her; that he has contracted gross and confirmed habits of intoxication; and that being of sufficient ability he grossly and wantonly and cruelly refuses and neglects to provide suitable maintenance for her; and has on divers days between her said marriage with him and this date committed the crime of adultery with divers lewd women to your libellant unknown.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bond of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Albert K. Rawson, and for such further orders and decrees in the premises as to law and justice may appertain.

EMILY F. RAWSON.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. Superior court at Springfield. March 17th, A. D. 1893.

On the libel aforesaid it is ordered that the libellant notify the said Albert K. Rawson, to appear before the justices of this court, at Springfield, aforesaid, on the first Monday of May next, by publishing an attested copy of said libel and this order, once a week, in the Palmer Journal, a newspaper printed in Palmer, in said county, three weeks successively, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of May; and also by causing an attested copy of said libel, and this order, to be sent by letter, registered, if practicable, to the last known residence of the said libellee, fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of May, that he may then and there show cause why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

Attest: ROBERT O. MORRIS, Clerk.

A copy of the libel as amended and order of notice.

3-52 Attest: ROBERT O. MORRIS, Clerk.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. March 20th, A. D. 1893.

By virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment recovered in the District Court of Eastern Hampden at Palmer, in said county, on the 8th day of February, A. D. 1893, in favor of Clarence A. Brown and Ebenezer Brown, both of Palmer, in said county, co-partners in business under the firm name of C. A. Brown & Company, and against Lucy Anna C. Bloomingdale, of Brimfield, in said county, aforesaid, I have this day seized and taken all the right, title and interest which the above-named Lucy Anna C. Bloomingdale had on the twenty-seventh day of September, A. D. 1889, the day when the same was attached on mesne process in said action, in and to a certain tract of unincumbered real estate, with the buildings thereon, situate in Brimfield, in said county of Hampden, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit: In the westerly part of Brimfield, beginning at a rock with stones on it and a corner bound of Eli Gardner land; thence N 24° west 18 rods to a stake and stone; thence N 68½° west 12 rods to a stake and stone on the west side of the road; thence N 10½° west 25 rods on the road to a stake and stone; thence N 80¼° E 20 rods to a stake and stone; thence S 65½° E 46 rods to a rock and stones east side of the brook; thence S 87° E 29 rods to Fay's corner; thence N 14° E 65 rods on Fay's line to Bacon's corner; thence N 65° W 85 rods on Bacon's line to a stake and a stone on the east side of the road; thence N 63½° W 5 rods to a stake and stone; thence S 88½° west 30 rods on road to a rock with stones on it; thence S 85½° W 15 rods to a stake and stone; thence S 86½° W 37 rods on the road to J. Nichols' corner; thence S 6° E 138 rods on said Nichols' line to Eli Gardner's corner; thence N 71° E 45 rods to the first mentioned bound, containing 89 acres and 104 rods, more or less, reserving to the public the right to passing over the highway through said premises, being the same premises conveyed by Lambert E. Ferry by deed dated February 8th, 1879, and recorded with Hampden Registry of Deeds, book 355, page 513, to which deed and deeds therein referred to reference is hereby made; also the same premises described in a deed thereof recorded in said registry of deeds, book 416, page 153. And on Saturday, the 29th day of April, A. D. 1893, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, in front of the court house in said Palmer, I shall offer for sale by public auction, to the highest bidder, said right, title and interest in and to said unincumbered real estate, to satisfy said execution and all fees and charges of sale. W. H. BRAINERD, Deputy Sheriff.
3-52

Live Geese feathers, 75c lb.
Hens feathers, 20c lb.
A. C. A. ticking for feathers, 18c yard.
Straw ticking, 10c yard.
Fancy ticking for awnings, 18 and 20c yard.
Cotton batting, 12½ and 15c roll.

STONE.

[illegible] ARTIST. OFFICE HOURS, [illegible]

New Spri[illegible]

HAVE JUST OPENED A FULL LINE OF

Fashionable Millinery

AT MODERATE PRICES.

Please call and inspect. Always a pleasure to show goods.

Ordered Work a Specialty!

MOURNING OUTFITS LOANED.

MARY E. SHEA,

MAIN STREET, - - - PALMER.
3-1

BEANS. Large Lima, 30c quart.
Black wax, 25c quart.
Horticultural pole, 25c quart.
Boston favorite or cranberry, 25c. quart.
Golden wax, (dwarf) 25c quart.
Six weeks, (dwarf) 20c quart.

Peas. Stratagem, 25c quart.
Bliss American Wonder, 25c. quart.
Champion of England, 15c quart.
Daniel O'Rourke, 15c quart.
Little Gem, 15c quart.
Black-Eyed Marrowfat, 10c quart.

Garden seeds in packages—Rice's and Lyman's.
Flower seeds—Mandeville & King's, and Rice's.
Sweet peas, 10c per ounce.
Grass seed, Clover, Timothy and Red Top.

STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - - PALMER.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
BICYCLES.

—o—

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

BICYCLES.

The Rambler, Ladies and Gents, $150
Toledo Dauntless, Ladies and Gents, $150
Warwick, . . $150
Road King, . . $150
New Mail, . . $125
Lovell Diamond, . $115
Duke, . . . $115
Boys' Pneumatic, $65
Boys' Pneumatic, $40

—o—

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

PALMER, MASS.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
PALMER, MASS.

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 30 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz.
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5 lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 30c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 25c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 17c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

DO YOU USE

WALL PAPERS

If so, you can buy your stock or can sort up on specials for a single room in Springfield at New York rates.

We are jobbers and great retailers and carry in stock

One Hundred Thousand —ROLLS—

READY TO SHIP.

Will mail samples on receipt of TEN CENTS for postage which may be deducted from amount of first order.

Get our figures and compare.

The Old Corner Wall Paper Co.

(Successors to W. F. Adams Co.)

CORNER STATE AND MAIN STREETS, SPRINGFIELD. 9-51

CORSETS.

The F. P. Cutaway $1 and $1.25.
Dr. Ball's H. P. Corset $1.
Dr. Warner's Health $1.25.
Dr. Warner's Coraline $1.
Double Bust, No. 666, 50c.

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.

If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half-mile in public in stud season in 1.07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2.52 1-2, trial 2.44.

For Speed! Speed! Speed!

Breed to "LENOX B." son of ALCYONE and IDLEWOOD, 2.29 1-4, trial 2.18. ALCYONE sired Martha Wilkes 2.08, McKinnay 2.12 1-2, Aleryon 2.15 Bush.

For particulars see or write to

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

Farm of 75 acres with house and two barns, running water at house and barn, fruit in abundance, farm will keep 10 head of cattle, cream taken at door, best of neighbors, short distance from two manufacturing villages. Price $2000. $500 down and balance on mortgage.

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

House and barn with seven acres of good productive land in a village. $1600.

Pastures from 20 to 30 acres in Palmer for $300 to $600.

Lot of manure for sale cheap.

D. F. HOLDEN,

Palmer, Mass.

HERSEY & SON,

GENERAL

House Furnishers.

385 MAIN STREET, - SPRINGFIELD, MASS.,

(Opposite Haynes Hotel.)

One of the largest and best equipped house furnishing establishments in Western Massachusetts.

Five Floors packed with Goods!

Including everything necessary for successful housekeeping, and all connected by our safety elevator.

OUR AIM IS

That our goods shall be reliable. Our prices low and our terms as easy and liberal as any house furnishing establishment in New England and we are confident that a personal inspection of our goods and a comparison of prices will justify our claim.

DON'T FAIL TO EXAMINE IT.

"SCHEPPS' PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD,"

A beautiful book containing over 250 views from all parts of the world.

One of these beautiful $5 books free to every purchaser of $50 worth or more of goods any time beetween this and Sept. 1st.

HERSEY & SON.

MILLINERY.

SPRINGFIELD AS A TRADE CENTER.

Where to buy millinery is a very easy problem in this city.

S. Levison

has the latest styles and largest assortment. His

HATS AND BONNETS

are correct in every way. Do you know that it would pay you to come here to trade? We'll warrant a saving of an extra expense and more too. Try it.

350 Main Street.

LITTLE THINGS.

Toothpicks 5c per box, 6 boxes 25c.
Toilet Paper 10c per package, 3 packages 25c.
Broom Brushes 10c, 3 for 25c.
Pins, 3 papers for 5c, 15c per package.
Glass Lemon Extractors 10c.
Heavy Iron Mixing Spoons 10c.
Dover Egg Beaters 20c.
Wall Brushes 25c.
Whitewash Brushes 50c.
Hand Brushes 5c.
Dust Pans (steel edge) 25c.

STONE, Palmer.

CARRIAGES.

ALL KINDS AND PRICES.

I carry one of the largest and finest stocks to be found. SPRINGFIELD IS THE CARRIAGE CENTER of Western Mass.

When you have looked all the carriage stocks over, before you buy, come to my Repository and save from $10 to $30 on any kind you want. You can find nearly everything in the wagon line with me at a great saving to you. Also, Harness, Robes, Blankets, and all kinds of Horse Goods. My expenses are small, do my own work, and save you the expense of help. I can and will sell. Come and satisfy yourself at 60 Dwight Street,

The annual sale and supper of the Dorcas Society will be held in the Congregational church next Tuesday evening.

The fence in front of Charles Merrick's house on Main street has been removed, much to the improvement of the premises.

The old Adolphus Homer place, now owned by Mark Noble, is undergoing extensive repairs. George A. Harvey is doing the work.

It was a surprise to many that W. M. Tucker ran behind his ticket for school committee, Lee Blanchard securing the most votes.

The exhibit of penmanship and drawing at the school committee's room was again open town-meeting day, and many interested visitors were seen.

Dea. E. P. Keep will accompany the pastor of the Congregational church as delegate to the council called to examine and install Rev. F. R. Jenkins over the Palmer church. Rev. Mr. Tufts is also invited to attend.

The first presentation of the "Drummer Boy" last evening was given before a crowded house. The play is exciting, and the parts well taken by the different actors. A crowded house awaits them to-night and to-morrow tight.

The annual parish meeting of the Congregational church will be held in the vestry next Monday evening. Among the articles for consideration is to see whether the church will light its building by electricity, and provide means for the same.

L. W. Sargent, assistant supervisor of drawing, will give a talk to the teachers of Monson in the Green street school to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. He will take for his subject "Color and Design."

The music at the Congregational church last Sunday was exceptionally fine. F. H. Blake of Worcester, who recently gave the organ recital here, presided at the organ. Mrs. Norcross's solos, both in the morning and evening, were much appreciated by all.

Deacon A. H. White lost a horse and wagon last week Friday evening. The horse was tied in front of the Congregational church and Dea. White was attending the prayer-meeting. When he came out he was unable to find anything of his team. The wagon was a light, two-seated open one, containing two horse blankets, a lap robe, and halter. The horse was black with a white strip on the head. No clue has yet been found as to the whereabouts of his property.

According to the license vote another year will see our town for license—only 18 more "no" votes than "yes," this year, against 100 in former years. The farmers think we could just as well have a revenue of $2000 or $3000 from license fees as not. There are a few farmers however who sell cider by the quart and gallon,—and desire to be put behind the bars,—who are not in favor of granting licenses. They are being watched, however, and may in some way be taught a good object lesson.

Mrs. Mary P., wife of D. W. Ellis, died Tuesday evening, after a brief illness, of pneumonia. She was born in Brimfield 67 years ago, and was the daughter of George Puffer, who was long a resident of that town. For many years she had been an invalid, and at times a great sufferer. For this reason she was largely withdrawn from society, but was greatly beloved and respected by those who knew her. She had quiet, refined tastes, an exceedingly tender heart, and was devoted to her family. The world has been greatly enriched by her life, and is a sad loser by her death.

There will be a grand Easter concert and ball in Memorial Hall next Wednesday evening. F. H. Bacon is floor director, and H. F. Miller and F. E. Severy aids. The Philharmonic Orchestra of Springfield will furnish music, with W. H. Ryan as prompter. Refreshments will be served in the ante-room. The following is the concert programme:

Overture. "Orpheus" ..... Offenbach
"At the Fountain" ..... Eilenberg
Selection from "The Grand Duchess" ..... Offenbach
Piccolo solo. "Bobolink" ..... White
Mr. Holmstrand.
Grand American Fantasia ..... Bendix

A convention of secretaries and other representatives of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a convention in connection with the Congregational and Methodist churches, beginning next Friday and extending to Sunday evening. About twenty young men from other towns will be in attendance, and the gathering promises to be of unusual interest. The programme of topics will be duly announced. The places of meeting are as follows: Friday afternoon and evening, and Saturday morning and afternoon at the Congregational church; Saturday evening at Memorial Hall, this service to be an evangelistic service with gymnastic exhibition; Sunday morning at 9.30 there will be a consecration meeting in the M. E. church; at 10.30 the pulpits of both churches will be occupied by delegates; at 3.30 p. m. there will a men's meeting in Memorial Hall, a boys' meeting at the Methodist church, and a women's meeting at the Congregational church; at 6 there will be a union meeting of the Christian Endeavor societies at the Methodist church, and at 7.30 a mass and farewell service at the Congregational church.

BRIMFIELD.

The town meeting Monday resulted in the election of the following officers: Moderator, Oscar F. Brown; clerk and treasurer, George M. Hitchcock; selectmen, M. H. Baker, F. R. Newton, F. E. Brown; overseers of the poor, F. E. Cook, P. Burns, Orrin Q. Moore; assessors, S. Booth, A. L. Bacon, E. H. Walker; school committee, Dr. R. V. Sawin; tax collector, A. L. Bacon; constables, F. E. Cook, C. E. Bacon, road commissioner for three years, C. E. Bacon. Liquor license: Yes, 20; no, 51. Adjourned to April 10.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

These officers were elected at the town meeting Monday: Moderator, F. E. Clark; clerk and treasurer, Charles E. Stacy; selectmen and overseers of the poor, Henry Clark, Jesse L. Rice, W. Franklin Morgan; assessors, Earl M. Scott, Alvin Chilson, Calvin G. Robbins; school committee for 3 years, Jason Butler; auditor, Frank A. Gurney; constables, Earl M. Scott, Calvin G. Robbins, Merrick H. Cooley, A. D. Seaver, John W. Baldwin; library trustee, H. Willis Cutler. Appropriations: Contingencies and town officers, $1500; schools, 2800; transportation of pupils, 50; library, 50; repairs on school buildings, 200; paupers, 1000; highways and bridges, 1500; care of cemeteries, 25; resetting stone in old yard, 50; street lights, 200; Memorial Day, 50; miscellaneous, 800. Liquor license: Yes, 32; no, 103.

WALES.

The result of town meeting Monday was as follows: Moderator, H. E. Shaw; clerk, O. P. Royce; treasurer, W. A. Lyon; selectmen and overseers of poor, O. P. Royce, W. E. Needham, W. A. Lyon; assessors, O. P. Royce, Zeno Farrington, Geo. S. Rogers; constables, W. W. Eager, LeRoy Squier, Wm. Cook; school committee for 3 years, W. E. Needham; agent to prosecute illegal liquor selling, H. A. McFarland. Appropriations: Roads, $600; paupers, 700; schools, 700; officers, 200; miscellaneous, 200; school books, 100; discount on taxes, 125; snow-paths, 50; prosecuting illegal liquor selling, 300; engine men, 200; superintendent of schools, 125. The town voted to employ a superintendent of schools, uniting with other towns.

The Wales Savings Bank held its annual meeting Tuesday and elected officers, which will be announced as soon as all are qualified.

Auctioneer McFarland goes to Holland next week Saturday to sell the personal property of L. Dimmick, including a meat market and fixtures, teams, etc.

HOLLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Glazier have just returned from Worcester, where they have been spending several days with their sick daughter, Mrs. George F. Hunt, whom they left improving.

The following is a list of town officers elected at the annual meeting Monday: Moderator, H. E. Wallis; town clerk, W. L. Webber; selectmen and overseers of the poor, G. L. Webber, J. S. Glazier, H. E. Wallis; assessors, W. L. Webber, F. B. Blodgett, W. A. Webber; treasurer, W. L. Webber; school committee for 2 years, W. A. Webber; school committee for 3 years, H. Vinton; constable, B. C. Bennett; fence viewers, W. L. Webber, B. C. Bennett; surveyor of wood, bark and lumber, H. E. Wallis; field drivers, G. L. Webber, G. E. Lyon, William Lilley; pound keeper, F. A. Webber; sealer of weights and measures, W. L. Webber; collector, W. L. Webber; road commissioner for 3 years, H. Vinton; library trustee for 2 years, H. E. Wallis; library trustee for 3 years, F. Wight; sexton, S. Webber; auditor, F. B. Blodgett. License: no, 21; yes, 13.

HAMPDEN.

Dr. E. E. Abercrombie left Tuesday for Conference, which convenes at Holyoke. It is hoped and confidently expected that he will return here.

It was remarked by many that they never saw so much drunkenness at town meeting as Monday, and it is no uncommon sight to see men staggering in the street.

Rev. N. J. Parsons of the Baptist church Sunday evening delivered a discourse on "Town Talk and Town Meeting," and there was not an uncertain note in it. It was an earnest plea for the best citizenship, calling upon voters to lay aside partisanship and vote for the best men, which meant the best interests of the town.

At the town meeting Monday the following officers were chosen: Moderator, George Allard; clerk and treasurer, James Kelley; selectmen and overseers of the poor, George T. Ballard, Charles H. Burbank, A. Peck; assessor for three years, Albert A. Burleigh; for one year, Albert Bissell; school committee for three years, Mortimer Pease; constable, C. V. Chaffee, J. Twohig, T. W. Sibrary trustee, Rev. E. E. Abercrombie. Appropriations: Town officers and contingencies, $600; schools, $1200; library, $50; text books, $100; paupers, $700; highways and bridges, $700; prosecutions of violations of the liquor law, $500; repairs of schoolhouses, $75; street lights, $50; interest $100; conveyance of school children, $200; total $4275. Liquor license—Yes, 25; no, 58.

WEST WARREN.

Mrs. Dr. Phelps has returned from New York, and Brattleboro, Vt.

William Canfield is painting his dwelling house on the hillside at Quaboag.

Rev. Putnam Webber left Tuesday for the New England Conference at Holyoke.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barton have been visiting friends in Worcester and Millbury.

Mrs. Agnes Nevins of Lewiston, Me., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bearce.

Howorth's Hibernica gave a good entertainment in Washington Hall Thursday evening.

The wedding of Miss Selma Heidel and Albert B. Cutler is announced for Tuesday, the 11th.

There is soon to be added to the M. E. church Sunday school library $75 worth of new books.

Misses Mary Ann and Nancy Hannon are visiting Mrs. Thomas Dumphy in Providence, R. I.

There will be no preaching in the M. E. church Sunday, on account of the absence of the pastor at conference.

Miss Estella B. Watts was given a party Saturday by her young friends, and presented with a gold-headed silk umbrella.

Miss Mattie Rogers and Edward Veneiux were married Monday afternoon by Father Madden. In the evening they gave a party in Washington Hall.

Last Saturday night five bloods from the Street, after getting somewhat the worse for wear, started over to the Patch, and while there became so happy that they tore away the doorstep and kicked in the door of a young man's house. It may take some money to settle the scrape.

WILBRAHAM.

The Monday Club met this week with Miss Edith Holman.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Bruner are spending a few days in New York.

Miss Lillie Phelps has accepted a position in the public schools of Epsom, N. H.

Rev. Mr. Howard preached a Fast Day sermon in the Congregational church.

The trustees of Woodlawn Dell Cemetery met in the Congregational church on Wednesday.

Miss Idele Pease has accepted a position as assistant matron at LaSalle Seminary, Auburndale.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church held a meeting at Mrs. Bosworth's Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Nesmith's daughter and two nieces, Misses Clara and Helen Prentice, have returned from New York to their house on Faculty street.

The remains of the late John Markham were removed from the Woodland Dell Cemetery to Worcester, New York, by a Springfield undertaker, Monday.

The remains of Mrs. Kidder of Milton were brought here for burial and funeral services were held at the home of her father, Mr. Dane, Tuesday afternoon.

An entertainment was given in the chapel of the Congregational church last evening, in which the following talent assisted: Miss Nellie Bowen, reader; Miss Annie Folmer, whistler; Miss Hattie Myrick, soloist; Miss Nettie Wright, accompanist.

Among townspeople home for the Easter vacation are Miss Mary Phelps from Moody School, Northfield; Wesson Phelps from Harvard College; Harry Clark, Edwin Howard, Frank Howard, Fred Reid of Amherst Agricultural College; Charles S. Merrick, teacher of mathematics in the Worcester high school; Luther Bruner, principal of Salmon Falls, N. H., high school; Miss Mary Seavey, teacher of science at the Milton high school, as the guest of Miss Fannie Merrick.

Wesleyan Academy.

The base ball team this year will be chosen from the following men: Catchers, Grover '95, Lombard '95; pitchers, Lombard, Clow '95, Judson '95; 1st base, Smith '95, Grover; 2d base, Powers '93, Squires '94; shortstop, Shares '94, Eggleston '94; 3d base, P. Clark '95, Huntress '95; left field, R. Clark '95, Barton '94; center field, Griswold '95; Davis '95; right field, Radoslavoff '94, Wigmore '95. Lombard is captain and W. C. Hull manager.

WARREN.

Mr. Joyce has sold his restaurant business to Edward Fairbanks.

The Woman's Board met with Mrs. Hale Wednesday afternoon.

Union Fast Day services were held in the Congregational chapel.

The organist and singers have been reëngaged at the Congregational church.

The Tuesday Club met with Mrs. D. G. Hitchcock Tuesday, the gentlemen being invited to tea.

The snow storm Thursday disappointed a good many young men who had their fishing tackle all ready for a day's sport.

There is much gratification felt that Warren has again voted no license, so neighboring towns may expect Warren's lovers of the "ardent" to give them a call.

Easter services were observed in all the churches with appropriate sermons and the decorations were all very fine. The display of Easter lilies, smilax and palms at the Congregational church, was unusually good. After the service the lilies were sent to those who were shut in through the winter.

A woman who has always lived in town, having become feeble by reason of old age and with no means of support except that supplied by the town, has been cared for by a few of our benevolent ladies, who have found a home for her and pay her board. Surely we can say the world is not growing more mercenary, when such charity is done.

A curious incident happened to a lady in this place the other morning. She awoke with a strange fluttering in one of her ears, but nothing could be seen. After an hour or so she happened to stoop over, when a bug dropped out, which was soon killed. On examination with a magnifying glass it was found to be of a species that had never been seen by any one and is preserved as a rare specimen.

Wilson Fairbanks has sold to Mr. Foskit and James Hill his land bordering on Pleasant and Elm streets. Mr. Hill will build a house for himself, and it is expected that Mr. Foskit will erect some pleasant houses to rent. The land is sold with restrictions, and as every house is to be two stories high it will add much to the beauty of the village to have this land occupied, as it is in a very conspicuous place.

The business part of the annual meeting Monday was postponed until to-morrow at 2 p. m. The officers elected are: Town clerk and treasurer, Charles B. Blair; selectmen, William B. Ramsdell, Amory Crossman, William E. Patrick; assessors, Isaac E. Moore, Frank E. Gleason, Albert H. Converse; overseers of the poor, George Bliss, Henry Greene, Frank A. Keith; auditors, William L. Curtis, Harvey S. Ellis, Charles S. Hitchcock; board of health, Alfred L. Converse, Dr. Charles A. DeLand, Dr. Olney W. Phelps; school committee for three years, Julia M. Hitchcock, Joseph G. Hastings, O. W. Phelps; for two years, Charles A. DeLand, Dr. Olney W. Phelps; for one year, Joseph G. Hastings; tax collector, William H. Kelley; constables, Walter A. Putnam, Hosea B. Smith, Thomas Cunningham, Frank Tomlinson, C. L. Thompson. License—Yes, 274; no, 308.

GRADE CROSSINGS,

AND THEIR RELATION TO HUMAN LIFE.

What is the Public Interest in This Notable Problem?—Where Should the Power Lie in Deciding It?—Some Features of a Very Interesting Subject.

The roads and highways of Massachusetts cross the steam railroads of the state upwards of 2200 times, or, in other words, there are more than that number of "grade crossings" now in existence within the limits of this commonwealth. This condition of things has been productive in the past of almost myriad accidents, terrible in their features and results, and the cause of death in hundreds upon hundreds of instances, with often the loss of large amounts through the destruction or injury of property. Ever since the establishment of the railroad commission in this state that body has, in all its reports, called attention to the existence of this evil, the nature and extent of its consequences, the absolute necessity that it should be remedied as far as possible in the present, while efforts should tend toward its final "wiping out" in the near future.

In response to these reports and recommendations the matter has from time to time been considered by the legislature of the state, and some progress has been made towards the end desired. It has been decided that the number of grade crossings in the commonwealth shall not be increased by new establishment, and that, as fast as may be, those already existing shall be abolished, whenever and wherever this can be done without too great detriment to the public and private interests involved.

Meanwhile methods and appliances in transportation have change greatly in character and form, and conditions have arisen in connection with these matters that were not even dreamed of at the time of the establishment and during the early building of railroads within this commonwealth. Street railways have been adopted as a means of local travel in every section of the state; and upon these the cable has succeeded horse power in the movement of their cars, and electricity is now replacing both horse and cable as a motive power upon these railways. The street lines are laid in all directions within and about the cities and towns of the state, and it happens in a multitude of instances that these lines are laid upon highways that cross the steam railroads at grade, and that their cars are made to pass and repass freely over those crossings.

As a matter of course this order of things greatly enhances dangers and possibilities of disasters that were a constant menace before it took place; and it might go without telling that a situation productive of death and destruction to a most lamentable degree originally, has not been rendered more tolerable or desirable by the addition of new and even more powerful and dangerous elements. Electricity as a motive power is difficult of control, of tremendous possibilities for calamity and disastrous happening whenever it becomes an ungoverned force, and withal it is as yet very imperfectly understood in all its relations by humanity which employs it.

It has already occurred that the cars of street railways, wherever it is in use as a motive power, have come to a full stop upon the crossings of steam railroads; that terrible disaster has with great difficulty been averted under such circumstances; and that at least in one instance, in Brockton not long ago, serious injury was inflicted upon eight persons among the passengers of a street car thus halting upon an Old Colony R. R. crossing.

In view of these facts the steam railroads of the state have petitioned the legislature that more and better control of street cars run by electricity shall be had in connection with the crossing by these cars of steam railroads at grade. In other words, they have petitioned that, if a street railway company uses electricity as a motive power for its cars, "it shall not hereafter be constructed across the tracks of any steam railroad at grade, without the consent of the railroad commissioners."

It would seem that no argument whatever is necessary to establish the desirability of some such provision for the safety and well-being of the public, but only a fair presentation and understanding of the situation as it actually exists. This presentation was offered in the most thorough and complete manner by the representative of the steam railroads, at the hearing before the legislative committee on street railways, in March last, when the situation as above outlined was clearly stated.

As the case now stands the statutes of Massachusetts admit of the granting of a location of a street railway within the limits of a town or city, its cars to be run by electricity, and the railway to cross the tracks of a steam railroad at grade, the authority for such grant being vested in a majority of the board of aldermen or of the selectmen of such city or town. Thus it is entirely competent for two members (the usual majority) of the selectmen of a town to empower the continual crossing at grade of steam railroads under such circumstances, notwithstanding the fact that the selectmen in question may be the owners, promoters or interested directors of the street railway thus located. Also, under same statute they may give notice of a hearing in relation to such grant by simply and solely posting a writing to that effect upon a few trees or lamp-posts in their town; and the hearing may be concluded, the location granted and operations in relation to it be far under way before the parties most interested discover that any such enterprise is even contemplated; in fact such results have actually attained within the past year or two, and in very important connection.

The attention of citizens has been called critically to this matter by the legislative hearing above alluded to and through the general discussion that has arisen under it; and the conviction seems general that the railroads are not asking too much and are in no way unreasonable in demanding that authority and control in this form of grade crossing be vested in future in the railroad commissioners. Too many deathsand injuries have already resulted, the risks to life and property altogether too great, the interests affected are too various and too large to allow of the loose and grossly inadequate exercise of authority at present sanctioned by the state law. This case should be dispassionately and fairly settled, and authority placed where the public will get the best by its exercise.

Strong Witnesses.

Among the thousands of testimonials of cures by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, is of Nathan Allisons, a well-known citizen of Glen Rock, Pa., who for years had shortness of breath, sleeplessness, pain in left side, shoulders, smothering spells, etc.; one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and one box of Nerve and Liver Pills, cured him. Peter Jaquet, Salem, N. J., is another witness, who for twenty years suffered with Heart Disease, was pronounced incurable by physicians, death stared him in the face, could not lie down for fear of smothering to death. Immediately after using the New Cure he felt better and could lie down and sleep all night, and is now a well man. The New Cure is sold, also Free Book, by LeGro & Lynde. (2)

A Great Benefactor.

"Educators are certainly the greatest benefactors of the race, and after reading Dr. Franklin Miles' popular works, we cannot help declaring him to be among the most entertaining and educating of authors."—New York Daily. He is not a stranger to our readers, as his advertisements appear in our columns in every issue, calling attention to the fact that his elegant work on Nervous and Heart Diseases is distributed free by our enterprising druggists, LeGro & Lynde. Trial Bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine are given away, also Book of Testimonials showing that it is unequalled for Nervous Prostration, Headach, Poor Memory, Dizziness, Sleeplessness Neuralgia, Hysteria, Fits, Epilepsy. (2)

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

All Records Broken.

The people of New England decided some years ago that THE BOSTON GLOBE was the most enterprising newspaper in this section, and gave it a much larger circulation than any of its contemporaries enjoy. The big Boston fire and other stirring news in March, with the natural increase, contributed to make THE GLOBE circulate an average of 201,054 copies per day. This average is not only many more thousand more than any other Boston newspaper ever reached, but it beats the highest record THE GLOBE has ever made. It also shows a gain of 29,124 copies per day over the same month of last year.

THE SUNDAY GLOBE has had a larger circulation than any other Boston Sunday newspaper for more than seven years, and for more than seven years it has lead its leading rival by more than 40,000 copies per Sunday. In March, THE BOSTON SUNDAY GLOBE exceeded all records and showed the magnificent average of 185,828 copies, the highest in our history, and 29,715 copies per Sunday more than that published during the same month in '92.

THE GLOBE also printed more advertising in March than any other Boston newspaper. It leads in both circulation and advertising, because it meets the wants of the people as a newspaper, and sells more goods for merchants than any of its rivals.

"Beauty" may be "only skin deep;" but the secret of a beautiful skin is pure blood. Those coarse, rough, pimply complexions may, in most cases, be rendered soft, smooth, and fair by the persevering and systematic use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Languish. "Tired! Oh, so tired all the time!" Mrs. Smart. "Well, so I used to be until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine, and now I don't know what it is to have that tired feeling. Try it, my dear; only be sure you get Ayer's."

Happy and Hungry.

For over five years I was a constant sufferer with that most terrible and annoying disease, dyspepsia. After paying out hundreds of dollars, the only medicine I found that would do me any good was Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. Now I can eat well and am happy and hungry.—[EDITOR.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

She Blushed

awfully when I told her what to do for those horrid pimples with which her face was covered. She now says if you want a pink and white complexion with a nice clear smooth skin, you must use that best of all blood purifiers, Sulphur Bitters.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. —Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106

OUR ENTIRE STOCK

—OF—

Men's, Boy's and Children's Spring Clothing

Is here and on dress parade.

We are a Clothing House for the people.
We are exclusive in nothing.

We carry the finest qualities as well as the lowest grades; and you can always expect the best for the price, no matter the price.

There is no safer house in Springfield to trade with because we protect you against all errors—yours as well as ours; and we always do as well by one as another. We are strictly first-class, and one man's money goes as far as another's.

Men's spring overcoats, $6 to $25.
Men's spring suits, $6 to $25.
Men's spring pants, $2 to $7.50.
Boys' spring overcoats, $6 to $12.
Boys' spring suits, $5 to $15.
Boys' spring pants, $1 to $4.
Children's spring overcoats, $4 to $7.50.
Children's spring suits, $2 to $10.
Children's spring pants, 50c to $2.

Keep close watch of us if you want to know everything that's new in the clothing business.

THE D. H. BRIGHAM CO.,

Makers and Retailers of Good Clothes for men and boys.

399—401 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Something Good for Little Money!

SPRING STYLES IN SHOES!

Russia Calf Shoes FOR EVERYBODY. All the popular styles in stock.

The greatest variety of low cut shoes and Oxfords ever shown in Springfield.

Ladies' French kid button boots, Laird, Schober & Mitchell's, also Cousins' make—some hand-sewed. Former price $6.00; to close, $4.00.
Ladies' and misses' cloth top spring heel button always in stock.
A nice russet Oxford for ladies at $1.25.
Gent's patent leather shoes a specialty.

HALL'S SHOE HOUSE,

294 MAIN STREET, NEXT TO POST OFFICE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Hall's Hair Renewer is pronounced the best preparation made for thickening the growth of the hair, and restoring that which is gray to its original color.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., April, 1893.

We had more orders for trimmed millinery last week than we could complete. That's a better advertisement than we can make.

Second floor.

Out of such a trade in jackets and capes as we have enjoyed this season, we appropriate a most emphatic tribute to the judiciousness shown in our buying, and to the taste shown in our choosing.

The supply is renewed and brightned by fresh arrivals constantly. Out of thirty styles received this week at $10, we mention eight.

At $10—jaunty, broadcloth cape, with Sir Walter Raleigh collar, handsomely trimmed; all colors.
At $10—black diagonal cloth cape, nicely embroidered; suitable for elderly ladies.
At $10—broadcloth cape with butterfly overcape of velvet, and ribbon streamers; all colors.
At $10—handsome broadcloth triple cape, trimmed silk braid and ribbon streamers.
At $10—fine kersey jacket with fan back, butterfly cape, front lined, pearl buttons; all colors.
At $10—fine cloth jacket with fan back and Florentine cape, pearl buttons; all colors.
At $10—black clay diagonal jackets with high tapering sleeves and fan back, all silk lined.
At $10—black, clay diagonal jacket with butterfly cape, front lined, fan back.

Second floor.

There's no end to the novelties in high class dress fabrics; or at least the end isn't yet. Shall we send you samples of something or other?—any of these for instance?

Epingle, a fine dress fabric with dainty cords, about forty or 50 to the inch; seven choice colors; $1.
Soleil cords; and the cords are so fine as to be almost lost; seven colors: $1.
Granite cloth with little figures in relief; 75 cents.
Diagonal crystallette, a peculiarly rich and chaste dress fabric of silk and wool; $1.25.
Hop sack cloth, the rage of fashionable folk, $1.25; 48 inch two-toned diagonal, $1.25; 30 inch.

Left aisle.

Very fine Scotch ginghams indeed for 25 cents; better than any before—decidedly better; worth 37½ cents, most of them.

Right aisle.

FORBES & WALLACE

Main and Vernon streets.

DRAPERIES.

Fancy Pongee Curtains.
36 inches wide.
3½ yards long.
Fringe top and bottom.
Printed in cross bar figures
And in a variety of colors.
Ecru and white grounds.
Very stylish and inexpensive.
$2.50 per pair.
STONE, Dry Goods.

F. F. MARCY, PALMER, MASS.
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER AND SHINGLES
Windows, doors, blinds, mouldings. Carpenters' and joiners' work done to order.
Also FIRE BRICK and CLAY for sale.
Yard and shop at junction of B. & A. and N. L. N Railroads—west of Depot.

H. C. MOORE.
ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHER,
GILL'S ART BUILDING,
SPRINGFIELD.
Largest and finest gallery in the city. Everything first-class. Instantaneous pictures of children a specialty.

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY
AND MACHINE SHOP.
At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads, West of Depot.
MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE
on reasonable prices.
R. B. FRANCIS.

NEW SPRING SHOES.

We would call special attention to our lines of ladies' and mens'

- $3.00 SHOES! -

Russet shoes of all kinds are going to be worn this spring, and as we all know they are the most economical shoes you can buy for children. Why won't the be for grown people?

FOR COMFORT

Fit your feet with a pair of

FFFFFFFF
FF ULLER'S
FF LEXIBLE
FFFF INE
FF
FF ITTING
FF
FFFF OOTWEAR.

Monson, - - Mass.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R.
SOUTHERN DIVISION
(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT, JUNE 26, 1892.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 7.00, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.23 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 7.00 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.
FOR Worcester—7.00, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 7.00 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.28, 4.50, 6.25 p. m.
FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—7.00, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 7.00 a. m.
FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook—7.00, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 7.00 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43, 7.57 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.57 p. m.

THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILROAD.
NEW LONDON DIVISION.
MONDAY, OCTOBER 3d, 1892.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Leave Brattleboro, 5.45 and 10.25 a m and 4.25 p m for New London, connecting at Millers Falls with Fitchburg R R. at Belchertown with Central Massachusetts R R, and at Palmer for Worcester Boston, Springfield, etc.
Leave Amherst, 7.05 a m, 12.14 and 5.53 p m.
Leave Palmer, 6.40 and 8.40 a m, 1.55 and 7.10 p m.
Leave Willimantic for New London, 8.00, 10.17 a m 3.25, 6.35 and 8.45 p m.

GOING NORTH.

Leave New London, 5.25 and 7.45 a m, 2.30 and 5.20 p m.
The 5.25 and 7.45 a m and 5.20 p m run through to Brattleboro and make connections for the north.
Leave New London for Palmer, 2.30 p m.
Leave New London for Willimantic and intermediate stations, 10.05 a m.
Leave Palmer for Brattleboro, 8.35, 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m, the 11.00 connecting with express for Montreal and the White Mountains. Also Grand Trunk R. R. for the West.
Leave Palmer for Amherst, 8.35 and 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m.

D. MACKENZIE, Supt.,
New London, Ct.

WANTED.
RELIABLE PARTIES TO ACT AS AGENTS.
WE PAY SALARY OR COMMISSION.
Address at once,
THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
16-47nrm Rochester, N. Y.

NEW STORE! NEW GOODS!
PAPER HANGINGS.
Browns, White Blanks, Flats, Satins, Bronzes, Gilts, Borders, Friezes, etc.
PLAIN AND DECORATIVE PAPER HANGING, PAINTING, ETC.
All orders filled in a thorough and workmanlike manner. F. S. MASON, Commercial Block.

DEAFNESS and Head Noises cured by Peck's Invisible Tubular Ear Cushions. Whispers heard. Comfortable. Successful where all remedies fail. Illustrated book and proofs free. 4-1 Address F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York.

SALESMEN WANTED
To sell NURSERY STOCK. We grow all the best varieties, old and new, replace all stock that dies, and guarantee satisfaction. Highest salary or commission paid from the start. Write for terms.
H. E. HOOKER CO., NURSERYMEN,
Rochester, N. Y.
Established 1835. 4-1 Incorporated 1883.

NEW SPRING DRESS GOODS!

New Pampas Cloths.
New Foulards.
New Puritan Shirtings.
New Ginghams.
New Prints.
New Cottons.
New Groceries.

∴ ∴ ∴ J. B. SHAW.

PAINTS AND OILS.

The Sherwin & Williams Ready-Mixed Paints

AND PASTE COLORS

Are the BEST and CHEAPEST PAINTS on the market. Get one of our Color Cards. We keep a full line of

COLORS GROUND IN OIL. COLORS GROUND IN JAPAN
VARNISHES. JAPANS. DRYERS.
HARD OIL FINISH. SHELLAC.

TRY A CAN OF——

READY-MIXED CARRIAGE PAINT

ON YOUR OWN VEHICLE

And save at least four-fifths of the usual cost. ALL COLORS.

E. A. BUCK & CO

WON'T YOU NEED US DURING THE SPRING OF 1893?

——: WE HAVE :——

Every Thing to Sit on,

Lounge on—Sleep on—Walk on—Stand on—Hang on—Cook on—Eat on!

THINGS

For convenience, comfort, adornment or necessity required for home or home furnishing.

SETS.

In this line it is timely to look at parlor, library, chamber and dining-room sets.

We have them in all makes, woods, styles and finish. They are splendid in looks and are built to stand a life of service and moving. You can afford them at our prices and on our liberal terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

NOTICE.

After a thorough, careful, painstaking and practical investigation, we, the undersigned, hereby certify to the public that the

Morrell Liquor Cure Co.,

a corporation located at Westfield, Mass., is now prepared to cure all persons afflicted with the LIQUOR, OPIUM AND TOBACCO HABITS, and to guarantee a cure or money refunded.

The features of this cure are:—

Absolute Privacy.
Treatment at Home.

No Unpleasant Effects.
No Loss of Time.
No Sore Arm.

Of more than 3000 patients treated, not one has failed of permanent cure.

Address all correspondence to MORRELL LIQUOR CURE CO., or Box 403, WESTFIELD, MASS.

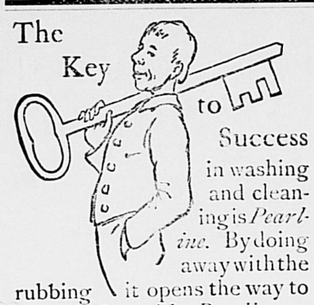
JOHN R. REED, President The H. B. Smith Mfg. Co.
JAS. NOBLE, JR., Vice President Hampden National Bank.
W. A. LINCOLN, Treasurer Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Co.
REV. JOHN H. LOCKWOOD, Pastor First Congregational Church.
H. N. KINGSBURY, Secretary and Treasurer Odd Fellows Fraternal Accident Association.
A. S. ATKINS, President Vitrified Wheel Co.
R. W. PARRS, Secretary Bay State Association.
F. F. VAN DEUSEN, of E. R. Van Deusen & Son.
FRANK BOWLER, Director V. W. Crowson Waste Co.
GEO. W. WINSLOW, Principal School of Observation.
H. W. ELY, ESQ., Attorney-at-Law. 13-53

SPRING OPENING

——AT——

H. C. Williams & Co's. EMPORIUM OF FASHION

Wednesday and Thursday, March 22 and 23.



The Key to Success in washing and cleaning is Pearline. By doing away with the rubbing it opens the way to easy work; with Pearline, a weekly wash can be done by a weakly woman. It shuts out possible harm and danger; all things washed with Pearline last longer than if washed with soap. Everything is done better with it. These form but a small part of the—Why women use millions upon millions of packages of Pearline every year. Let Pearline do its best and there is no fear of "dirt doing its worst."

Beware of imitations. 223 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

HOW THEY FEEL IN ALBANY.

The Best Test of Character of Man or Article Is, What Good Have They Done? What Is Their Standing Among People We All Know?

There is good reason to doubt the truthfulness or endorsement of a preparation from persons living thousands of miles from where the same is published. How different we look upon an article which has stood the strain of 20 years' test right in our midst, and increased in popularity and use every year until to-day it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession in general. Such an article we find in Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

"It is not a common thing," remarked one of our prominent doctors the other day, "for physicians to endorse and recommend medicines other than those of the materia medica, but in the case of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I most unhesitatingly endorse it for diseases that arise from excess of uric acid in the blood, such as rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney, liver or urinary troubles and the sicknesses from which women suffer. I prescribe it with always satisfactory results. In fact, my mother has used it for years. It regulates her bowels nicely and acts as a nerve tonic with elderly people."

Mr. Robert A. Male, foreman of Van Slyke and Horton's tobacco manufactory, Broadway, said he could not speak too enthusiastically of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. "About ten years ago," said Mr. Male, "I had a great deal of trouble with stone in the bladder. My physician insisted upon crushing the same, which he did, but in a little while the old trouble re-appeared, and I feared another operation would be necessary.

"It was suggested at this time that I take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. It did me good from the first, and I have never felt any symptoms of the old troble since. For kidney or urinary troubles of any kind I have implicit faith in its curative power."

There is hardly a person in this city who does not know genial John Fraser, who for years was one of the West Shore railroad's popular conductors. Not long since Mr. Fraser came out in a public letter in which he said: "For six years no man on earth ever suffered more than I did with dyspepsia, pains all over my body so severe at times that I could hardly turn myself in bed. Favorite Remedy was recommended by some friend and made a marvelously rapid change in me for the better. Last November I met with an accident on the New York and New England Railroad and my old trouble reappeared. I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy again, and after the second bottle I began to improve, and I am as well and hearty as I ever was, and weigh 225 pounds.

"I recommended Favorite Remedy to Mr. William Huston, engineer on the West Shore railroad, who was suffering similar to myself, and it cured him as well."

The neighbors and friends of Mrs. Jay Sweet well recollect how she was at death's door with disease of the kidneys. Her case was practically abandoned by her attending physician. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was resorted to, not because any hope was placed in it, but because nothing else remained. The effect was little short of a miracle. At the second bottle she had regained strength, and continuing the treatment, fully recovered.

Mr. Fletcher Barber of Barber & Bennett, commission merchants on Broadway, in conversation with our reporter said that he had used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with excellent results. "It gives me a good appetite and makes me sleep well."

One of the officers of the Albany Hospital told me that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had been used to his knowledge with always satisfactory results. Personally he had used it for rheumatism and kidney troubles and has not known either of these troubles since.

Such plain, straightforward statements from our own citizens, people whom we know and meet daily, speak volumes for the merits of this famous medicine.

As another physician told me: "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy stands to-day as the recognized treatment for excess of uric acid in the blood, which is the source of kidney, liver, dyspepsia, rheumatism, urinary and many other similar troubles."—Albany Evening Journal. 3

E. R. PACKARD.

La Grippe has Slain Thousands

LEON LAYS THE MONSTER LOW.

The Kind that Never Fails

During the winter of 1890 and 1891 I had a severe attack of La Grippe. It left me with a bad cough, and greatly reduced physically. I took two bottles of Leon's Sarsaparilla. It loosened my cough immediately. I began gaining in flesh, and in a short time I was cured.

E. R. PACKARD.

In almost every family some one is still suffering from the effects of La Grippe. The fatality

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.

Crinoline.

Rumor whispers, so we glean
From the papers, there have been
Thoughts of bringing on the scene
This mad, monstrous metal screen,
Hiding woman's graceful mien.
Better Jewish garbardine
Than, thus swelled out, satin's sheen!

Vilest garment ever seen!
Form unknown in things terrene;
Even monster pliocene
Were not so ill-shaped, I ween.
Women wearing this machine,
Were they fat or were they lean,—
Small as Wordsworth's celandine,
Large as sail that's called lateen,—
Simply swept the pavement clean;
Hapless man was crushed between
Flat as any tinned sardine.

Thing to rouse a bishop's spleen,
Make a canon or a dean
Speak in language not serene.
We must all be very green,
And our senses not too keen,
If we can't say what we mean.
Write in paper, magazine,
Send petitions to the Queen,
Get the House to intervene,
Paris fashions transmarine—
Let us stop by quarantine
Catastrophic crinoline!

—Punch.

THE ONLY DUEL OF ITS KIND.

The strange-looking man sat in one corner of the smoker and hadn't much to say while the drummer and the western real estate man were telling their stories. He roused, however, after a peculiarly peculiar one by the drummer.

"That reminds me," he said, "of something that happened once in a mining town in the Rockies, during the good old times when everything was new out there. Like every other mushroom municipality, we had among us gamblers and greenies, toughs and tenderfeet. One of these tenderfeet was the most cowardly fellow, in some ways, I ever saw, and how he had ever come to such a place I couldn't understand. He was afraid of everybody and a boy could bulldoze him; but he was bright-minded, with a fine turn for business, and was honest. A pistol was a horror to him, and he wouldn't take a drink of whisky under any circumstances, which by the way, required considerable courage. In his case it did at least, as it afterward turned out, for one day he refused to drink with the ugliest, most dangerous man we had, and a row ensued. The tough whipped out a pistol and would have killed the fellow, but some one caught his arm, and the other man went down on his knees and begged for his life. It was no good, however; the tough was drunk and was determined to kill him, and to prevent an open murder some one suggested that they fight it out in the street and a revolver was put into the hands of the tenderfoot. He didn't know how to handle the gun at all, and, while one man showed him what to do, four or five more held the tough. Then they were put at 10 paces, and a more abject, scared specimen I never saw than that tenderfoot. He could hardly stand up, and his pistol wabbled about as if it were swung to a string. The tough enjoyed it more than anybody else, for he felt sure of his victim. After he had watched the shivering wretch a moment, he pulled up his gun, and at the same time the tenderfoot pulled his up and tried to aim it. Then bang went the tough's gun, and almost simultaneously followed the report of the tenderfoot's. The tough dropped like a shot ox, and the tenderfoot threw up his right hand and howled with pain and fear. We rushed up and found the tough dead, with a bullet through his heart, and the tenderfoot with his fingers and hand bruised and bleeding but not seriously injured. The bullet from the tough's pistol had struck the trigger of the tenderfoot's and discharged it with fatal results."

The strange-looking man had apparently no more to say, and his listeners looked at each other questioningly.

The drummer coughed suspiciously.

"May I ask," he said, "how it happened that the tough's bullet didn't take the tenderfoot's finger off before it reached the trigger of his pistol?"

"Simple enough," replied the strange-looking man, frankly, "he didn't have his finger on the trigger; he had it on the trigger-guard, and he would have been pulling on it yet to make the gun go off if luck hadn't been against the tough." The strange-looking man relapsed into his former silence, and nobody had the cheek to try to tell any more stories.—Detroit Free Press.

WELL ANSWERED.—A rather vulgar personage, who had been created a marquis a few months previous to our story, managed to get himself invited to a court ball. The newfledged marquis could not contain himself for joy and exhaled proud satisfaction at every pore. Casting an Olympian glance around the room, he chanced to spy among the ladies the tall, angular figure of an elderly matron, with compressed lips, as though afraid of wasting her breath, and lean as a lath. She was leaning on the arm of a young gentleman.

"Who is that nannygoat?" said the noble lord to a gentleman who was standing beside him.

And the latter replied, with a knowing smile, "That nannygoat is the embassadress of S——, the mother of the kid who is giving her his arm and the wife of the old buck who has the honor of speaking with your excellency!"—Giovedi.

SHE ACKNOWLEDGED HER DIFFICULTY.—With the fashionable craze for tailor-made getups, shirts, waistcoats and scarfs, there is nevertheless an occasional girl who cannot master a four-in-hand or tie a black satin scarf as it should be. One of these went into a gentlemen's furnishing store the other day to buy a scarf to wear with her boyish costume. After she had looked at them she said:

"Oh, dear me, I shall never be able to tie this! Why can't I have one that is already tied, with hooks behind?"

Very firmly the answer came to her. "But, madam, no gentleman would think of wearing a ready-tied scarf."

"Oh, but," said she, "I am afraid I never shall be a perfect gentleman."—Christian Advocate.

YOUNG MAN, GAZE ON THIS.—What it costs a man to smoke three five-cent cigars a day, principal and interest, for ten years is $745,74; for 25 years $3,110.74; the expense of three ten-cent cigars at the end of ten years is $1,471.56; for 25 years $3,382.47; at the end of 50 years it is $54,162.14.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. Why suffer from this [illegible] Given cured? [illegible] issued by [illegible] Palmer, 52-17

Mass.

A Boston Dressmaker

Quickly Cured of Sour Stomach

All Who Suffer Similarly, Remember, HOOD'S CURES.

Mrs. F. W. Barker
Boston, Mass.

This lady is a well-known and popular dressmaker. She says:

"There is no mistake about Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want to tell how quickly it cured me of sour stomach, which had troubled me for over a year. I could not even take a swallow of water but what I suffered from distress and acidity. When I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla I could see good effects from the first three doses. I continued until I had taken three bottles and have been entirely cured. I give this statement for the benefit of others who are suffering similarly." MRS. F. W. BARKER, 41 Chester Park, Boston, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after-dinner Pills assist digestion, cure headache. Try a box. 25c.

AGENT FOR

G. W. SIMMONS & CO.

—AND—

Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.

CLOTHING TO ORDER.

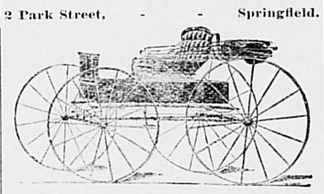
☞ Spring samples ready for inspection.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

W. H. SMITH,

2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a large and complete line of fine and medium priced carriages. Fifty different styles in family carriages, top and open buggies, Concords, etc.

Good variety of top and open delivery wagons, road carts and farm wagons.

Novelties in buckboards and traps.

100 second hand carriages, all prices.

15-1 alt.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.

No matter in what position you place yourself, DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers

AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,

And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR.

BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

WE ARE IN IT! * * * * * * * * * *

* * * * * * SMITH & CO., PALMER.

PAINT AT $1.25 PER GALLON.

Ten gallons of paint at $1.25 per gallon is $12.50. Labor for painting $40. The $1.25 paint is short measure, one gallon must be added therefore to make ten full gallons of paint. Total cost $53.75. This paint may last three years, not longer. In twelve years you will have painted your house four times at a total cost of $215.00, which is $17.91 per annum.

PAINT AT $1.60 PER GALLON.

Ten gallons of paint at $1.60 per gallon is $16.00. Labor for painting $40.00. Total cost $56.00. This $1.60 paint, if it is the Chilton, will last six years. In twelve years you will have painted your house twice at a cost of $112, which is $9.33 per annum. Chilton paint, as we have said, costs you a little more per gallon at the start than some other paints, but it is cheaper in the end; on ten gallons the extra cost is $2.25. The saving to you in twelve years is $103.00.

Sold by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.
Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY.

OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by [illegible]

21-41 R. J. HENRY, [illegible]

AYER'S
Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires.
Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston.
A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."

M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.

Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

Rupture

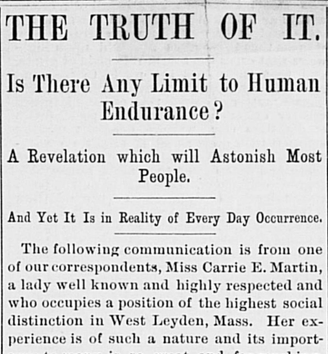
To obtain the best knowledge of how to be cured send for J. A. Sherman's new publication, illustrated with photographic likenesses of American and English patients before treatment and after cure, with particulars of each case. No work so convincingly interesting has ever before been published. Sent by express on receipt of 25c. Plain book of information sent for 10c. Sherman recently returned from London, England, where the result of his treatment surprised the most eminent surgeons, and may now be consulted at his former offices. Address J. A. SHERMAN, Hernia Specialist, 294 Broadway, New York. 4-52

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by [illegible] agents. Pal[illegible]



AGENT FOR

G. W. SIMMONS & CO.

—AND—

Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.

CLOTHING TO ORDER.

☞ Spring samples ready for inspection.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

W. H. SMITH,

2 Park Street, - - Springfield.

Has in stock a large and complete line of fine and medium priced carriages. Fifty different styles in family carriages, top and open buggies, Concords, etc.

Good variety of top and open delivery wagons, road carts and farm wagons.

Novelties in buckboards and traps.

100 second hand carriages, all prices.

15-1 alt.

THE TRUTH OF IT.

Is There Any Limit to Human Endurance?

A Revelation which will Astonish Most People.

And Yet It Is in Reality of Every Day Occurrence.

The following communication is from one of our correspondents, Miss Carrie E. Martin, a lady well known and highly respected and who occupies a position of the highest social distinction in West Leyden, Mass. Her experience is of such a nature and its importance to many is so great and far-reaching, that we give it to our readers in her own words.

"Last summer I was all run down, had chills, no appetite, very little sleep nights and none days, faint spells, trembling feelings, and was so weak I could hardly walk around the room. I continued to run down in health and strength until I feared utter nervous prostration with its untold miseries.

"I sent for our town physician and he came a good many times. I soon had to give up work entirely, still his medicines did me no good. I tried to ride out one morning, but went only a few rods and had to come home. My husband then went to church, leaving me with the hired help and my children. Such a terrible day as I spent tongue cannot describe. I could scarcely get from the couch to a chair.

"When my husband came in from church I told him I was worse and that I would die if I did not get help soon; that I would not take any more of the doctor's medicine but try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, if he thought best.

"He advised me to try it and went immediately and got a bottle, which I began to take: up to this time we knew nothing of its value except as we had seen it advertised.

MRS. CARRIE E. MARTIN.

"In the course of two days our family physician came in and, saying that he found me about the same, finally told me that he concluded to ask for counsel. He informed me that I might choose any doctor I preferred to meet him in consultation.

"I said to him, 'then you consider me pretty badly off?'

"He answered, 'I certainly do, and shall not prescribe for you again until some other doctor sees you, as I do not know what to give you next.'

"I then said to him, 'perhaps you will be offended, but I have not taken any of your medicine for two days, but am taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.'

"He answered, 'I am not offended; if it will help you I shall be very glad. You may continue its use a week and if no better, then we will have counsel.'

"But at the end of a week I was better. In two weeks I was a good deal better, no chills, no faint feelings, I could eat some and sleep quite well. In three weeks I was around and about the house. In four weeks my hired girl left me and I went to doing my housework alone, and have since continued to do so, with seven in the family.

"Since that time our family physian has advised its use from time to time, saying that it would keep up my strength better. He has advised others to take it, telling them of the good it did me, and to-day I have reason, yes good reason, to thank God for my recovery, and through the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I am only too glad to testify to its merits. God bless Dr. Greene and his wonderful medicine."

This remarkable remedy is purely vegetable and harmless, and can be procured at any drug store for $1 per bottle. Like the above able and excellent physician, all doctors of high standing recommend the sick to use it, for it cures. It is especially recommended to take as a spring medicine. Everybody needs a spring medicine, and both physicians and the people unite in pronouncing this the best of spring remedies. Use it now, sure. Doctors prescribe and recommend it because it is not a patent medicine but a physician's prescription, the discovery of the eminent specialist, Dr. Greene of 34 Temple place, Boston, Mass., who is so wonderfully successful in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, and who can be consulted free, personaly or by letter.

DO YOU COUGH DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM THE BEST COUGH CURE

Its Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1.00.

SULPHUR BITTERS

Cleanse
The Vitiated
Blood
When you see
Its impurities
Bursting through
The Skin
In Pimples,
Blotches
And Sores.

Rely on Sulphur Bitters and Health will follow.

[illegible] stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., [illegible] for best medical work published

HER IDLE WORDS.

It was a sultry June day, the sky high with thunder clouds, a yellow heat-mist brooding over all the meadow flats, and John Gilchrist, leadjng the big gray work-horses down to water, breathed in the hay-scented air as if every inhalation were a separate luxury.

"Hullo!" he exclaimed, with a start, as something alive rose out of the long, sedgy grass at his feet. "You here, Bill Donley? For no good, I'll wager."

"Good or bad, it don't matter much," was the half sullen reply, "so long as there ain't no fish to be caught. I say, Gilley, let's go down to Schuyler's to-night and have a look at the billiard playing. The New York champion's to be up. You'll see some tall strokes."

"I don't know's I care for the billiard playing," said Gilchrist, leading his horse knee-deep into the cool tide.

Donley laughed hoarsely. He was a red-faced, untidy lout, with lowering brows, an unshaven chin, and small, furtive eyes.

"How pious we've growed all of a sudden," jeered he. "Goin' to take a Sunday-school class next week? But you may 's well save yourself the trouble, John Gilchrist. Do what you will, you won't be nothin' but the boy of the Island when all's come and gone. These folks despise you in their hearts—Miss Rosie an' all."

Gilchrist reddened, but he made no reply.

"I'll be at the sunstyle at eight. Will you come?"

"No."

"Better. The circus agent is to be there engagin' men for the full parade."

Still Gilchrist watched the gray horses drinking long draughts among the lily pads, and answered nothing.

"It's good pay, and not such very hard work. Live business, too," shrewdly added Donley.

"I'm suited very well where I am."

"You be, eh, Goody-goody? Well, go your own way!" sneered Donley.

John Gilchrist, leading the big gray horses up the lane, watched the standing figure disappear under the drooping river willows, and smiled to himself, mentally repeating the formula:

"I'm suited very well where I am."

* * * * * *

"Hush, Rosie, what's that?"

A sweet young girl voice sounded overhead in the hay-loft, as Gilchrist tied his horses below.

"Only Old Gray stamping in the stall. How many eggs have you found, Grace?"

"Three!"

"There must be more," said Rosamond, decisively.

"It's so hot," sighed Grace Milmar. "Why don't you send the hired man to hunt 'em, Rosie—your lover of low degree?" And she laughed a shrill, derisive laugh. "Oh, Rosamond, is it true? Tell me, honestly."

"True! That I would look at a farm-hand?" scornfully spoke the farmer's pretty daughter. "Why, Uncle Martin took him off the Island."

"Off the Island!" Donley's very words.

A sharp pang shot through John Gilchrist's heart. He staggered back against the cellar door. Yes, it was true, then. All those years of patient work and frank, honorable dealing counted as nothing against the slur on his name. A farm hand! Yes, he was that and nothing more! And Rosie Bowers despised him. Rosie, the far-off star of his dearest hope and aspirations!

* * * * * *

Widow Walkill trudged over the next day to have a gossip with Grandmother Bowers.

"So your hired boy has cut and run?" said she. "Well, I sort o' mistrusted some such thing would happen when I see Bill Donley lurkin' round and heered the circus agents was to the corner tavern last night. It's as Scripter says—'ye can't gather grapes off thistles nor figs off thorns.'"

Rosamond Bowers sat looking very pale.

"I'm sorry," she murmured, in a low voice—"I'm very sorry. Father said he was the best hand he'd ever had. Uncle Martin told the minister he had the making of a hero in him. Are those circus people gone, Mrs. Walkill?"

"Not's I knows on," said the widow, with a side-long vicious glance. "Do you want to engage with 'em, too?"

"Mother, couldn't Uncle Martin go and talk with him?" pleaded eager Rosamond. "It's Bill Donley's influence—I know it is. Oh, couldn't father do something?"

Gentle little Mrs. Bowers shook her head.

"I'm as sorry as you are, Rosie," said she. "I got to be real fond of Johnny, and I was main sure he was goin' to be a man we should all be proud of. But we hain't no certainty he's gone with the circus folks, after all, but even if he has, Rosie, we've no legal right to prevent it, you know."

Rosamond left the room. Mrs. Bowers wiped her spectacle glasses.

"Rosie's real soft-hearted," said she.

"Humph?" commented the widow. "Folks has talked a lot, but I did s'pose your Rosamond held herself a peg above John Gilchrist. Why, your brother took him off the Island' did't he?"

"I don't see what difference that makes," said Mrs. Bowers, secretly remembering that Mrs. Wilkill's stepson was at present exiled from his country on account of a bank defalcation, and that old Hiram Foxley, her father, had been intimately acquainted with the inside architecture of Sing Sing at one period of his life. "He was only a little fellow then, friendless and alone. It wan't no crime he was took up for—only bein' a vagrant in the streets. And I'm sure he's been as good as gold ever since. I wish that meddling Donley fellow had been in Jericho!"

The tarnished hour-hand of the old clock in the square church tower in the valley pointed to the figure three as Rosamond Bowers met Grace Milmar face to face on the wood path above the old stone quarry.

"Why, Rosie!" she exclaimed.

"Yes, it's me!" impatiently spoke the girl. "Let me pass!"

"But, Rosie, you can't get by here. The bridge is broken—two planks gone."

"I know it. I can climb along the side. Don't stop me, Grace—don't, I tell you—I'm in a hurry!"

"There is no use, Rosie. The circus agent and his party are gone. I just met Will Atkins, and he told me."

Rosamond utter a low cry.

"Rosie, Rosie! you told me you didn't care for John Gilchrist!"

Grace had caught her friend's arm, and stood confronting her.

"I told you a falsehood. I do care for him. I love him!" cried Rosamond, trying vainly to escape. "And he liked me—I know he did! Do you think I am going to let him go to ruin like this?"

"Rosamond!"

"There!" excitedly spoke the girl. "Don't you hear? He's calling me! I know it!"

"Rosie," gasped Grace, "you are losing your mind!"

"I'm not, Grace! Listen—listen, I tell you!"

And once more the low, piteous voice seemed to rise out of the fern-garlanded depths below them.

"Rosamond! Rosamond!"

For poor John Gilchrist was lying in the old quarry with a broken leg.

"I fell last night," said he. "I must have slipped where the rail was broken; and I lay senseless a while, and when it all came back to me I didn't much care whether I lived or died. I tried to get up but I couldn't, and no one passed his lonely way since the bridge was broken; and, after all, I thought to myself, what did it matter? Until—until I heard what you said, Rosamond!"

"Does it matter now, John?" she whispered.

Grace could not hear the answering words. She had hurried back to the Bowers farmhouse for help and succor. But she could guess very well what the reply would be.

"She loved him," she said to herself. "She loved him all the time, and I don't wonder. He's as handsome as Apollo, and as good as gold. I could almost love him myself, if—if, it wasn't for Robert Penrylin!"

While Rosamond, kneeling among the tall ferns, sprinkled water from the brook on the pale face, held the limp hand, and whispered honeysweet words of encouragement.

"No," he said, "I never would have gone off with that circus gang. I wasn't meaning to mix myself up with Bill Donley, and his set. But I was fully minded to run away to sea, or get a place with the fellows going out West to work on the Wilraven railroad, after what I heard you say when you and Grace were hunting eggs in the barn."

"Did you overhear that nonsense, John," she faltered.

"Every word of it."

"But I didn't mean it," wailed Rosamond, "It was only because—because Gracie teased me so, and I wanted to throw her off the track. I was weak and silly and deceitful. Oh, I know it all, now! and I shall never, never forgive myself for those idle words!"

"Not if I forgive you, Rosie?"

The welcome which John Gilchrist received from the family at Bowers farm was such as entirely to reassure him.

"Well," said the old farmer, "I never thought of our Rosie having took a shine to you, Johnny. But I don't know where she could find a better husband than you'll make."

"Even if I did come off the Island," said John, smiling.

And old Mrs. Walkill gathered up her knitting-work, and said "she guessed she'd be going!"—Saturday Night.

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S

COUGH and LUNG BALSAM

SURE CURE. PRICE 35 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

What

CASTO

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's [illegible] and Children. It contains neither [illegible] other Narcotic substance. It is [illegible] for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing [illegible] It is Pleasant. Its guarantee [illegible] Millions of Mothers. Castoria [illegible] feverishness. Castoria prevents [illegible] cures Diarrhœa and Wind [illegible] teething troubles, cures constipation [illegible] Castoria assimilates the food, [illegible] and bowels, giving healthy [illegible] toria is the Children's Panacea [illegible]

Castoria.

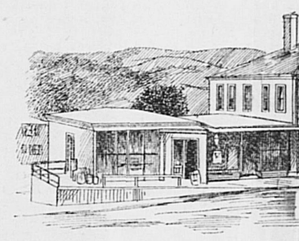
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray



Largest Line of Dress [illegible]

— MON

Just received from the celebrated BROA[illegible] N. Y., 30 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM [illegible] two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SER[illegible]

GORDON D[illegible]

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hos[illegible] purity of dye and wearing quality ever offe[illegible] Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls [illegible] colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARR[illegible]

Men's and Boys' Clo[illegible]

The Columbus Boys' Suit goes ahead of eve[illegible] every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black [illegible] FINE ASSORTMENT OF SPRING SUITS [illegible]

☞ LATEST NOVELTIES IN NECK[illegible]

BOOTS A[illegible]

Have added to our large stock the late[illegible] you purchase don't fail to see the novelties we [illegible]

Headquarters for [illegible]

W. N. FLYNT[illegible]

Consu[illegible]

That [illegible] What shall [illegible] say Scott's [illegible] cod liver [illegible] and soda has cured [illegible] stages. Have you [illegible] to consumption? M[illegible]

Scott's Emulsion cures C[illegible] Colds, Consumption, [illegible] and all Anaemic and [illegible] Diseases. Prevents w[illegible] children. Almost as p[illegible] milk. Get only the ge[illegible] pared by Scott & Bowne, [illegible] York. Sold by all Drugg[illegible]

The Palmer Journal.

PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 14, 1893. NUMBER 2.

VOLUME XLIV.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVE[NING]
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. A discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents. Single copies, 5 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or two lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, [illegible]; half inch one week, 50 cents; each additional week, cents. Short advertisements, [illegible] cents. "To-Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; notisers less than 25 cents. Notices in local colo best nts per line. Liberal rates to yearly adv

FOR PRINTING of all kinds executed in [illegible]ER. B. FISKE. L. E. CHAN[illegible]or.]

Entered at Post Office as second class m[illegible]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTOR[illegible]

PALMER.

[illegible]N, O. P., Wholesale and Retail D[illegible]s and Bookseller.

[illegible]ON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Cloc[illegible] Ham, [illegible]ry, Main street.

[illegible] G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork[illegible] With [illegible] Tripe, etc.

[illegible]S, EDWIN E. Graduate Optici[illegible]n, Jewelry, [illegible]Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

[illegible] E. S., Dealer in Watches, C[illegible]hcases, [illegible]Silver and Plated Ware, Main [illegible] & CO., Hardware, [illegible] piano [illegible]Ranges, Pa[illegible], Cuts and Glass[illegible] streets.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut Orders can also be left at Smith's store. Fancy

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods of all

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycl[illegible]s in Ar[illegible] kinds. Main St.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealer[illegible]turer to [illegible]mour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, [illegible]s.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufac[illegible]URNAL Order, and Dealer in Leather and finding[illegible]nd Job

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publish[illegible]ers PALMER[illegible] and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book [illegible] Machine Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and [illegible], Hats, Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-ma[illegible] Clothin[illegible] Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc. [illegible]ounsellor

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney [illegible] C[illegible], corner at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe S[illegible]eed and Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, [illegible] of Coal. mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kin[illegible] of steam-[illegible] Agent for National and White Star lin[illegible] rates. ers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowes[illegible]

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undert[illegible]ker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law. [illegible]ealers, [illegible]res.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and New[illegible] House Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Pi[illegible]

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds [illegible] etc., Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets. [illegible]epot.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shing[illegible], rear wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R[illegible]

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed S[illegible] Block. of Converse House. [illegible]a. m.,

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawre[illegible] Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 [illegible] from 2 to 3 p. m.

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer. [illegible]ceries,

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Good[illegible] etc., opposite the depot. Allen's TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Offic[illegible] No. 1 Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite W[illegible] Dealer Thorndike street. [illegible]eet.

[illegible] E. Decorative Paper Hange[illegible] in Wall Paper [illegible] Stoves, Church [illegible] Ridge's WOOLRICH & CO., [illegible]nufacturers of Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Article[illegible] Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardwar[illegible] Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Good[illegible] Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled H[illegible]ay.

BONDSVILLE.

[illegible]OSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board a[illegible]nd Feed [illegible]ible.

[illegible]EN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, [illegible]Clothing, [illegible] Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc., Boots, [illegible]RY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries [illegible] & Co's [illegible]al. Agt White Star and Anchor[illegible]l Sign

[illegible] CHARLES E., Carriage a[illegible]

WARE.

[illegible]BERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, T[illegible]accos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

[illegible]VIS INSURANCE AGENCY represe[illegible]s the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing, [illegible]ating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer. [illegible]nting

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil [illegible]leted and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work co[illegible] to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, F[illegible]nces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. N[illegible]n St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instan[illegible]eons process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete [illegible]e of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, [illegible]nts' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glass[illegible]are. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel P[illegible]er. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank st.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. C[illegible]et cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes [illegible]d Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing [illegible]e chines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Far[illegible] Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultur[illegible] plements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materi[illegible]

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clock[illegible] Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. [illegible] able Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instru[illegible] and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Saddlery, and every[illegible] for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clock[illegible] Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public[illegible] Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street. H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street. G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

Cures Others

Will cure You is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend and try to impose upon you as "just as good as Ayer's." Take AYER'S Sarsaparilla and AYER'S only, if you need a blood purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation and made a record for cures that has never been equaled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and in a short time the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William street, New York city.

Will Cure You

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

D. W. FOSKETT, Grain Dealer

FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance II." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

CUSTOM SUITS

—:FROM:—

$17.00 to $27.00

Pants from $4.50 to $8.00.

Our full line of SPRING SAMPLES now on exhibition.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

-:- SPRING HATS! -:-

LADIES'

SPRING DRESS GOODS.

The most complete line we ever carried.

☞ We are the CHEAPEST CARPET HOUSE in the state.

Yours truly,

C. H. Hellyar & Co.

Egraved Address Cards

Are the correct thing for ladies or gentlemen.

Correct sizes—latest styles of letters.

Call and see samples.

The PALMER JOURNAL.

1893—SPRING—1893

CARPET : : Department

(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN
65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN
35c to 50c.

HEMP
15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS
25c to 60c
(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS
15c to 40c
(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS
$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS
50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.
Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.
TINNERS, AND
STEAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls,
Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers,
Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business.
Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS,
VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices. Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

NEW UNDERTAKING ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

Ripans Tabules prolong life.

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 20 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz.
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5 lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 30c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 35c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 17c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

PAPER : : HANGINGS

New Designs.

Latest Patterns.

Bottom Prices.

LARGEST STOCK TO SELECT FROM ! ! ! !

and will furnish a good man to hang it for you. Don't neglect to

PAPER YOUR CEILINGS!

and let us show you something pretty to do it with—at

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POLISH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT'S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LeGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.
WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,
NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.
CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

SPRINGFIELD'S CLOAK AND SUIT HOUSE.

—:—

JACKETS

In every color, shape and price. One of the styles, "The Butterfly cape" jacket, we have at $7.50, $8.50 and $10. The "Mecca" jacket comes with a very wide collar which makes a cape. This is the very latest Parisian cut. It comes lined fancifully and has the "Umbrella" back. Ask to see the "Mecca."

CAPES

For all ages and sizes. They come in lengths and sizes appropriate for all. The assortment is unsurpassed in this city. We have excellent ones for elderly ladies, more in the wrap shapes that tie in the back, and many imported styles you won't find elsewhere.

LADIES' WAISTS AND SUITS. This department is complete with every variety and style of waist and suit for travelling or house wear. See them.

Jas. McKeon & Co

399 MAIN ST., SPRINGFIELD, MASS. tf-51

NEW DENTAL OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental Office formerly occupied by Dr. Hill, I should be pleased to see any who are in need of my services.
All operations performed in the best possible manner.

E. S. BRYANT, D. M. D.
HATCH BLOCK, PALMER. tf-29

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $[illegible]—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any[illegible]e do better for goods made to order? Our line of s[illegible]ings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to [illegible]it you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS In all [illegible]e latest styles and novelties. Stock all new withi[illegible] few days, so you may be sure of getting the very [illegible]est things in the market. It will do you good t[illegible]all and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

The March of Company A.

"Forward, march!" was the captain's word,
And the tramp of a hundred men was heard
As they formed into line in the morning gray,
Shoulder to shoulder went Company A.

Out of the shadow into the sun,
A hundred men who moved as one;
Out of the dawning into the day,
In glittering files went Company A.

Marching along to the rendezvous,
By grassy meadows the road ran through,
By springin, cornfields and orchards gay—
Forward, forward, went Company A.

And the pink and white of the apple trees,
Falling fast on the fitful breeze,
Scattered their dewy, scented spray
Straight in the face of Company A.

A breath like a sigh ran through the ranks
Treading those odorous blossom banks,
For the orchard hillsides far away,
The northern hillsides of Company A.

Forward, march! and the dream was sped;
Out of the pine wood straight ahead
Clattered a troop of the Southern gray
Face to face with Company A.

Forth with a flash in the Southern sun,
A hundred sabres leaped like one.
Sudden drum-beat and bugle-play
Sounded the charge for Company A.

Halt! What is here? A slumbering child,
Roused by the blast of the bugle wild,
Between the ranks of the blue and the gray,
Right in the path of Company A.

Nothing knowing of North or South,
Her dimpled finger within her mouth,
Her gathered apron with blossoms gay,
She stared at the guns of Company A.

Straightway set for a line of truce
Whitely a handkerchief fluttered loose;
In front of the steel of the Southern gray
Galloped the Captain of Company A.

To his saddle bow he swung the child,
With a kiss on the baby lips that smiled,
Whi'e the boys in blue and the boys in gray
Cheered for the Captain of Company A.

Forth from the ranks of his halted men,
While the wild hurrahs rang out again,
The Southern leader spurred his way
To meet the Captain of Company A.

Out of the arms that held her safe
He took with a smile the little waif;
A grip of the hand 'twixt blue and gray,
And back rode the Captain of Company A.

Up there in the distant cottage door
A mother clasped her child once more,
Shuddering at sight of the smoke cloud gray,
Shrouding the path of Company A.

A little later and all was done,
The battle was over, the victory won.
Nothing was left of the pitiless fray
That swept the ranks of Company A.

Nothing left, save the bloody stain
Darkening the orchard's rosy rain;
Dead the chief of the Southern gray;
And dead the Captain of Company A.

Fallen together the gray and the blue,
Gone to the final rendezvous;
A grave to cover, a prayer to say,
And—Forward, march! went Company A.

—The Century.

WHAT HAPPENED TO HALLIE.

Nothing had ever happened to Hallie Burt. At least, that is what she claimed.

"Fourteen years is a very long time to pass away without anything happening to a body," was what her father had gravely remarked, when she persisted in the assertion; and Phil, her grown-up brother, had quizzically asked if she would be satisfied with anything less than lassoing a crocodile in one of the Colorado mountain lakes, or shooting a dodo in the canon below.

"I don't expect the impossible," she had retorted; "but I do want something that might be called a 'happening.'"

The hunting excursions with the boys, the round-ups on the plateau, the mountain climbing, and the agate hunting,—all these she refused to consider in the category of "happenings." They were expected things; and "happenings" were—well—something that she had not looked for,—very long, at least, she explained.

But according to her own definition, several things happened very soon. In the first place, her father and mother, who went every year at the time of full moon in September to Pueblo, had promised to take her with them on this trip; but the day before they started her mother called her aside for a private talk. At its close, Hallie emerged from the room with suspiciously swimming eyes.

"Try not to mind it this time, dear," said her mother. "You know that we are to bring your Aunt Catherine; and if you think how ill she has been, and how much she will suffer from the discomfort of being crowded, and how necessary it is that her poor nerves be not annoyed in any way, I am sure that you will find some pleasure in the unselfish sacrifice of your long-looked-for trip."

So she watched them depart, only heaving a great sigh as they disappeared from view.

"I should say that here is a happening with a vengeance," remarked her twin brother, Hall, by way of consolation. "But I wouldn't mind it, though; and we will go after agates. Maybe we will find one as a mate for the one you want set for a button;—that will be another kind of a happening."

But even that favorite amusement had lost its charm.

"It is bound to be poky the best way you can fix it," she replied, gloomily. "Then, too, it would not be right to go off. There is nobody here but Phil and us; and Phil isn't to be depended on to stay."

"You forget Garcia and Manuel," said Hall.

"They are never left alone."

"That is so. Heigho! I don't know; but I wish with you that something would happen."

Hallie was right about Phil. That noon one of the boys came down from the upper ranch to tell of the stampede of the cattle, and their suspicion that it was caused by a mountain lion. Instantly Phil was alert. He had long wanted a mountain lion's skin; and it did not take long for him to convince himself that his presence was indispensable at the other ranch.

"Si, Senor." The man showed a glistening row of teeth as he answered.

"And I am sure that Garcia is to be depended on." The woman bowed her head without hearing; for she was as deaf as a post.

"And I don't like it a bit," said Hallie, as Phil rode away.

As for Hall, had he not secretly wished to go with Phil he would have thought it just the thing to be left in charge. As it was, he was discontented, and roamed about, leaving Hallie to her own devices.

It was dull enough for her, as Garcia was no company at all. But company came. At night two men—Mexicans—rode up from the mountain road and stopped to talk with Manuel.

"They want to stop all night," said Hall. "Manuel says that they are all right."

"And that would be a good reason why I would not have them stay," Hallie demurred. But Hall laughed at her.

"Pshaw! Here is a girl that is always wanting something to happen, and is afraid it will at the same time."

"I am not," was the indignant reply. "Only it might not be what I wanted."

"They can stay in the adobe part, and Manuel is all right to look after them."

So they stayed; though Hallie kept wishing in her heart that something would bring Phil back. But he did not come; and Hall sleepily declared [illegible] for a few minutes.

Then a bough broke somewhere up on the mountain, and Phister stopped to raise his ears. A low wail sounded again almost at her right. The grassy slope had been passed, and she could see below. Just over there was the cut through which her father must come; but no one was in sight. There was a crashing of limbs nearer, as if some creature were bounding from tree to tree. Phister broke into a trot, rough as it was at this point. She saw nothing, but she felt the presence of something. Once she thought of firing her revolver; but she hesitated.

She did not know how far on the other road the men might be; and if they should hear it! No; perhaps she could outrun it—whatever it might be.

Then came another thought that fairly made her heart stand still. Suppose that the men had been mistaken, after all, and her father was not coming up that night. Hallie had never fainted in her life; but for a second everything reeled before her. Still she pressed on.

Was not that a rattling of pebbles? She drew up Phister to be sure. There was a descent of the opposite side where the broncho's hoofs might loosen the pebbles and send them down. But all was still. Then there was another crash, and the moon, which shone right into the depths, showed a long, dark body on a swaying limb overhanging the canon road some twenty feet below. Phister saw it, too, and trembled. A low, panting, purring sound came from the beast, teetering there at length, its eyes fixed on the road beneath.

There was a rattling; she was sure of it. There was a murmur of voices, and the wagon train emerged from the opposite trail. If the beast had followed her, it was evident that its attention had been suddenly drawn to the newcomers, and it lay with angry, quivering body and lashing tail, ready for a leap into their midst.

Like a flash Hallie saw it all. Her father or mother might be killed in that unlooked-for spring; or, if this did not happen, what a terrible shock it would be to her aunt's nerves! Her own seemed to become steel at the thought. She slapped Phister smartly. The broncho stepped tremblingly forward. The lion turned its head at the sound. As Phister stopped short again Hallie raised her revolver, took deliberate aim, and fired.

There was a snarl, a convulsive bound; then the beast sprang out, clutching at the limbs, and rolled down the canon's side.

With the report, Phister gave a terrified snort, dashed frantically forward, fairly leaping over the stones, whirled around the turn in the path, and bore her straight into the midst of an astonished group.

"It is our Hallie!"

With Mrs. Burt's exclamation, everything was confusion for a few moments; and it was some minutes before Hallie herself could recover self-possession enough to tell of her ride and its cause.

"My brave girl!" was all that her mother could say, as she looked at the lion, stretched dead across the road.

But her father held her firmly by the hand, as he decided upon the course to pursue in regard to the Mexicans. If Hallie could ride down the old trail they could ride up it; so the women, with Mr. Burt and another man, took the bronchos, and slowly rode back, Aunt Catherine rising equal to the occasion, declaring that her comfort was not to be thought of longer.

It was daylight when the ranch was reached. They found old Garcia in a state of terror. Hall and Phil had returned late that night, and, taking Manuel with them had immediately set off on the upper road after the Mexicans. Before noon they returned with jaded horses, but with the men as captives, having surprised them in their waiting.

Manuel solemnly affirmed that he knew nothing of their design; but whether he did or not, Mr. Burt thought it best to rid himself of him soon after.

"Well, Hallie, you can never again complain that nothing has ever happened to you, I am sure," said Phil, when all had heard of that ride with that cry resounding in her ears.

"And I think I am cured of ever again wishing anything to happen," she replied, with a shudder.

But her "happenings" had begun. Aunt Catherine learned how Hallie had given up the trip to Pueblo for her sake, and the next announcement made was that her niece was to go back to the East with her. And when they went, Hallie carried the mountain lion skin with her.

"She has earned it all, too," said Phil, proudly. "Not many girls would have done what she did. And think of that shot right in that animal's temple!"

But Hallie has always persisted that that was the most extraordinary happening of all. —Sarah Bierce Scarborough, in the Independent.

WOMAN'S CORNER.

THE COLLEGE SETTLEMENT IDEA APPLIED IN COUNTRY TOWNS.

There are comparatively few utterly destitute people in country towns,—people who do not, after a fashion, take care of themselves and those who belong to them,—and there is rarely physical suffering for want of shelter, food or clothing. The churches, the benevolent organizations, the King's Daughters, the Woman's Relief Corps and the like, the fraternities, the doctors,—who are a sort of picket guard,—and other private friendliness, one or another, see to it that those whom misfortune has brought low are relieved as they need, either temporarily or permanently. Such work is done about as well as it can be in the present stage of human development. But the manner of living, the social life of many of those whom we call the poorer classes, ought to be improved; there should be worthy subjects given them to exercise thought and stimulate intellectual life.

A few years ago I accepted the agency for several useful books, and canvassed twelve villages, the boom of whose Fourth of July cannon can be heard at the Palmer JOURNAL's office. As a business enterprise the undertaking was not disappointing, as an opportunity to study social life its advantages were unrivalled, and I suppose no other book agent ever canvassed so thoroughly. My business took me to the best houses, where I was courteously, often kindly received; my inclinations took me into house after house on the poorest streets, and at length it became more my purpose to get at the heart of people than to sell books. I do not believe the people of wealth and culture, nor even the people of simple means and pleasant homes know "how the other half live." The people, women I will say, since I am writing for women; but they may find out if they will, as I did.

You will find many a young girl who works in a shop or mill who has longings for intellectuality and culture, but who not knowing what to read for improvement devours the lightest or most sensational [illegible] from which she receives only [illegible] life. You will find many [illegible] leaves several small children [illegible] room all day, day after day, [illegible] away from home for the supp[illegible] the home needs her work and her control, and who does not know that by the wise use of her husband's income she could have more than her labors could gain. Then you will find many a woman who has married unwisely, whose husband and sons are sources of perpetual dismay and disappointment, who is over-patient or who is over-impatient as her circumstances have acted on her temperament. You will find many a young mother with her arms full of babies who is sinking beneath the double burden of too much child-rearing and too much housework. You will find some of these women rude and densely ignorant, and some of them well-trained, cultured and well-educated as you are yourself. You find some in homes too meagre and filthy to be called homes, some of them where everything is bare but neat, and some in sunny rooms, home-like and plant-filled. How will you find them? If you have the love and sympathy they need, and tact, you will find them and the way to their hearts. If there is sickness then is your chance, and it is well to be hand-in-hand with your physician on this subject. When he knows you as sincere and discreet he will give you points, and your minister, also, will advise you. If you are to be a mover in this social evangelization you must, of course, give up what some one has called "the society nonsense," the idea that you can associate only with those of "my set" who are "congenial," and in giving up these ideas do not pose as a martyr. Do not call upon some one less fortunate than yourself in your best silk with the air of saying, "Now I am going to do all the good I can in the world, what can I do for you?" but abandon yourself to the grand selfishness of doing all you can for others for the sake of the good it will do you and the pleasure it will give you, and your giving and your getting will be far greater than if you adopt the self-sacrifice theory.

You will find many a [illegible] her children run wild upon [illegible] she works out, in the blind [illegible] family needs the money she [illegible]

If a dozen or fifteen of you would organize, and that is the best way, let the organization be a secret one. Cover your purposes, because the people whom you wish to help will resent the idea that they need help. Begin with the kindergarten. Get subscriptions to cover expenses; then find your kindergartner and set her to collecting the children. You may make a charge of so much per week, or better still have it understood that this is a subscription kindergarten. You can thus secure all the children more easily, and after the enterprise proves its worthiness parents will contribute. Be sure to get all the poor little children who have to stay alone, and do not be afraid the children of the poorer will contaminate the children of the better classes, for they are all continually under the eye of the kindergartner. A day nursery should come next, where the mothers who must leave their babies can leave them in good hands. A kindergarten and a day nursery are as much needed in Palmer, Monson, Warren, Gilbertville and Ware as anywhere in the world.

A working girls' club should be organized. In every country village there are many well-educated young women living at home who work in stores and the shops where neat work is done. These young women are the ones to start the club. The reading classes, history and literature classes, cooking and dress-making classes will be most popular. Into these classes the poor and ignorant are drawn and work side by side with their more fortunate sisters. You all become acquainted at the club, and you call upon the poorer girls and they upon you. If the classes are not too large they meet around at the houses, going to the wealthier and to the poorer homes in their turn. Ministers, professors, teachers, ex-teachers, college graduates and the occasional learned visitor lecture in turn to the literary classes. The good cooks and fine housekeepers in town take turns in teaching cookery and the best ways to do housework, and the dress-makers and milliners lend skillful hands to the classes in their departments.

There will be mothers' clubs and mothers' meetings, where the wise mothers will give hints to the unwise mothers about home and children.

Then you will have little teas and lawn parties, to which you will invite those who cannot return the favor with those who can, and the latter will in their turn entertain.

So you will give all these ignorant and discouraged souls something to live up to in your friendship and your home. Not for their good alone; you may well say to them, "It gives me the greatest pleasure," for the noblest soul is not so noble that it is not helped by knowing that another reveres it and aspires to its nobility.

Such social work is already being done successfully in cities, but the country village offers a much better field. There are great difficulties, of course, but the greatest difficulty is the beginning. Once such a movement is under way it is a success.

In all this I have said nothing of religion. It is not a religious work. All the religion in it you take into it with your lives; yet its outlook is toward religion, because the highest life is spiritual life.

This work is the plow and harrow to break the rocky, the thorny, the shallow soils and change them into good ground upon which the seed of truth may be sown for harvest.

FRANCES VIRILLA DOANE.

DO WATER WHEELS RUN FASTER AT NIGHT?

For years the question whether water wheels ran faster at night than during the day has been catalogued among the things which no man can find out. They do if they are so geared as to be affected by the varying fulness and speed of the current in which they are set. There is no doubt that all streams are fuller and all streams carry more water at midnight than they do at noon. In the first place, the increased coolness of the air prevents evaporation and subsequent drying up of the smaller tributaries; and, in the second place, the condensation of the moisture in the air in the shape of dew is always sufficient to add something to large streams and their branches. Heavy dews are often so copious as to be almost equal to a small shower of rain. We often hear dew drops falling from the overloaded leaves and find all exposed objects as wet as if they had undergone a shower during the night. A large portion of this moisture must get into the minute channels which, of course, conduct it to the mill streams "Often," says Humbolt, "the effect upon a shallow stream is very noticable indeed." If it is at all "noticeable," a wheel turned by such a stream would "go faster by night than by day."—Indianapolis News.

The Rev. Dr. A. G. Lawson, of Philadelphia, when once sitting next to Dr. Edward Everett Hale at a banquet, asked the great Boston divine why Boston is called the Hub. With one of his subtle flashes of wit Dr. Hale replied: "Boston is the Hub because out of it go spokesmen to the wheel of mankind who never tire of doing good to their fellows."

An old Englishman, the story goes, had [illegible] three times married, but as many times [illegible] design in [illegible] leaves several small children [illegible] room all day, day after day, [illegible] the C[illegible] away from home for the supp[illegible] [illegible] rumor was circulated as to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 14, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.

To any one who is not now a subscriber to this paper, it will be sent three months on trial on receipt of 25 cents.

PALMER NEWS.

REV. FRANK E. JENKINS.

The New Pastor at the Congregational Church—Sketch of His Life and Work —Programme for the Installation Next Wednesday.

Rev. Frank E. Jenkins, the pastor-elect of the Congregational church, who is to be installed next Wednesday, was born in Walton, N. Y., November 26th, 1854, and is therefore a little over 38 years of age. He graduated from Walton Academy in 1874, from Williams College in 1878, and from Hartford Theological Seminary in 1881. During his senior year at the seminary he supplied the pulpit of the church at Charlton, Mass., and was ordained at that place May 18th, 1881, where he remained as pastor until August, 1892, when he went to South Coventry, Ct., remaining there until December 1886, when he entered the service of the American Missionary Association. While in the service of this association he did missionary work among the mountain whites of the South, acting as pastor of the Congregational church and principal of the Williamsburg Academy at Williamsburg, Ky.; was field superintendent of the A. M. A. schools and churches in the southern states; was pastor of the People's Congregational church in New Decatur, Ala., from Jan. 1st, 1890 to the beginning of the Palmer pastorate. He has a wife and one child, a daughter, about seven years old.

When Mr. Jenkins became pastor of the church in New Decatur the membership was 20 and the attendance at the Sunday services was from 17 to 30, the Sunday school numbering about eight. As there was no church building services were held in a store room. Since that time the membership of the church has been increased to 66, but is now only 59, six having left town and one being removed by death. During the pastorate of Mr. Jenkins 28 were received by letter and 18 on profession of faith. The attendance at the services is now from 50 to 80, sometimes more, and the Sunday school has increased to an average attendance of 65. The financial condition of the church is good; there is a fine church building, which was partly built by the A. M. A., but which through the efforts of Mr. Jenkins has been much improved, a fine bell, tower, gas fixtures, etc., having been added, he having placed the church on a firm basis in every way. A member of the church writes to the JOURNAL:

"You probably will think that the increase in membership is not a great deal, but you must bear in mind that Congregationalism is not well known in the South; many of the people here never heard of this denomination until this church was established, so it requires hard, earnest work to get such a one started. Mr. J. thinks this will be the leading Congregational church in the South; it is acknowledged by many to be the most progressive church of the two Decaturs, all credit being due to Mr. J. for his thorough management. Mr. J. is not only a fine minister and pastor, but an ideal citizen, always ready to help in all good movements, whether connected with his church or not. He is ardently admired by all, and it has been said by one of our best citizens, before there was any thought of his leaving this place, that if Mr. Jenkins were to leave town it would be a greater loss than the removal of a factory employing 300 hands. It was very hard for us to give him up, and I do not think we would under any other circumstances."

The reason for Mr. Jenkins's resignation is best explained in his own words, taken from the March issue of the church paper at New Decatur:

Circumstances which are unmistakably Providential have compelled the present pastor of this church to resign. Although this is one of the best climates in the world and many have found health in it, the physicians say that Mrs. Jenkins must, for the present, at least, keep out of the South. The writer had hoped to spend his life here and see both the town and the church increase in size and importance. He believes in the New South, whose resources and possibilities are boundless. He believes in New Decatur, and in the People's Congregational church. He asks for no better field for a life-work.

A singular coincidence is that the church has called Rev. George R. Hewitt of Springfield, Mass., to be its pastor.

The church at Palmer is fortunate in securing Mr. Jenkins, as a church in Michigan, without having heard him, had given him a call at a considerably larger salary than was offered here, but the church and parish here were unanimous in their votes, and he decided to accept. He is expected to reach Palmer next Tuesday evening.

The following churches and persons have been invited to the council, which will meet next Wednesday at 2 in the afternoon: Congregational churches of Wilbraham, North Wilbraham, First, South and Eastern Avenue of Springfield, Waltham, Somersworth, N. H., Thorndike, Union Evangelical of Three Rivers; Prof. C. S. Beardslee of Hartford Theological Seminary, Rev. Thomas Wilson of Eaton, N. Y., Rev. James Tufts of Monson. The public exercises will be held at 3 o'clock, with the following programme:

| | |
|---|---|
| Anthem | |
| Invocation | Rev. J. S. Butler |
| Scripture Lesson | Rev. E. B. Blanchard |
| Hymn. Choir and Congregation | |
| Sermon | Prof. C. S. Beardslee |
| Solo. Mrs. A. D. Norcross | |
| Prayer of Installation | Rev. S. G. Buckingham, D. D. |
| Installation Hymn | |
| Charge to the Pastor | Rev. M. S. Howard |
| Right Hand of Fellowship | Rev. F. S. Hatch |
| Anthem | |
| Charge to the People | Rev. H. W. Pope |
| Closing Prayer | Rev. C. H. Hanks |
| Doxology | |
| Benediction | Rev. F. E. Jenkins |

Annual Meeting of the Fire District.

The annual meeting of the fire district, which was held Tuesday afternoon, was an unusually harmonious affair, as the questions which has heretofore caused the most discussion,—the lighting of the streets,—had been removed by the town's voting to light the streets of all the villages. Dr. William Holbrook was chosen moderator. The report of the treasurer showed that there was a balance in the treasury of $251.78 after all bills against the district were paid, and the chief engineer reported that the apparatus was all in good order and would need little done to it this year with the exception of painting the jumper or small hose carriage. The tax collector announced that but $30.30 of last year's taxes were uncollected, but the legality of a portion of this amount is in dispute. It was voted that interest at the rate of six per cent [illegible] annum be added to all taxes paid after [illegible]st. The matter of a parade [illegible] of the fire department [illegible] On motion of [illegible] was appointed [illegible] the dis[illegible]mer Water [illegible] purchasing [illegible] purpose of [illegible] with water, or renew[illegible] Palmer Water Com[illegible] and the chair[illegible] George [illegible] Stone.

| | |
|---|---|
| First assistant | $ 25 |
| Second assistant | 20 |
| Contingencies | 50 |
| and $150 of the balance in the treasury | |
| Salary of clerk and treasurer | 25 |
| Total | $1876 |

This is $1565 less than last year, and reckoning the valuation the same as last year will make the tax rate in the fire district about $1.93 on $1000, instead of $3.60 a year ago, a condition which the tax-payers will appreciate.

The report of the treasurer in full:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Cash on hand April 1st, 1892 | | $ 525.98 |
| Received taxes of 1892 | | 3469.25 |
| | | $3995.23 |
| Paid orders of prudential committee | $3277 18 | |
| Outstanding bills | 469.27—$3743.45 | |
| | | $251.78 |

The prudential committee's report:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Palmer Water Co. | $1000.00 |
| Street lights | 1349.61 |
| Chief engineer and firemen | 539.02 |
| Engineer of steamer | 50.00 |
| Janitor | 96.00 |
| Coal | 45 85 |
| Printing | 9 38 |
| Supplies for batteries | 26.80 |
| Sundries | 29.00 |
| Music for inspection day | 34.72 |
| J. F. Holbrook, teams | 20.00 |
| H. D. Converse, teams | 16 00 |
| T. Blanchard, teams | 3.00 |
| J. M. Allen, teams | 37.50 |
| O. C. Marcy, teams | 11.00 |
| Treasurer's salary | 15.00 |
| Postage, etc | 2.15 |
| Total | $3277.18 |

The department was called out during the year as follows:

Mar. 30.—Fire in store of Oliver Thompson on Main street.
Apr. 13.—Two fires in woods on Knox Hill.
16.—Fire in woods at Blanchardville.
July 2.—Fire in G. W. Lyman's house on Pleasant street.
Sept. 28.—Grass fire at Wire Mill.
Fire at Warren.
Nov. 23.—Fire in wood yard of New London Northern Railroad.

The following officers were elected: Prudential committee, C. E. Fuller, W. E. Stone, F. F. Marcy; clerk and treasurer, F. D. Barton; chief engineer, W. H. Hitchcock; first assistant, L. W. Caryl; second assistant, J. W. Brainerd.

Mrs. E. N. Fay has been quite sick the past week.

Henry Holbrook was home from Tufts over Sunday.

Mrs. E. P. Moore of Springfield is visiting friends in town.

E. G. Hastings is painting his house on West Main street.

W. R. Milligan is doing the local work on the Palmer Herald.

Mrs. F. H. Caryl and daughter are visiting friends in Worcester.

James Stevens has left his place as clerk at the Nassowanno House.

Mrs. E. Leach and son are visiting at Mrs. Leach's home in Greenfield.

Mrs. Edna Sweet of Northampton spent last week with Mrs. E. N. Fay.

Mrs. A. G. Ruiter and family of Melrose are guests of Mrs. D. O. Taplin.

The Natural History Society will elect officers at the meeting next Monday evening.

John Hennessey sold a horse, "Albert W.," to New York parties the other day for $1050.

G. H. Justin and Mrs. G. O. Henry are adding piazzas to their houses on School street.

The J. K. Knox farm on the road to Thorndike will be sold at auction next Monday at 2 p. m.

W. C. Hitchcock and wife of Bennington, Vt., spent Sunday and Monday with friends in town.

The exterior of the house of Dwight Mason, on the road to Thorndike, is receiving a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brothers of Poquonnock, Ct., spent Sunday with Mrs. J. P. Eastman.

Mrs. Hancy Burr has moved to the upstairs tenement in Mrs. Blanchard's house on Park street.

Fred Hovey, formerly employed by C. D. Holbrook, is traveling for a firm which makes crayon portraits.

The board of health is formulating a set of rules and regulations for the observance of the citizens of the town.

G. M. Atkins & Co. have the contract to build the abutments for bridges at Richmond Furnace and Richmond.

The 3.36 train east Monday afternoon was made up entirely of new cars, which will hereafter be run on this train.

The dust has been quite thick on Main street this week, and it will not be long before the sprinkling cart will be needed.

The deaths in town for the first three months of the year have numbered 50, 12 in January, 16 in February and 22 in March.

A special train bearing the officers of the New London Northern road arrived at Palmer from the south last Friday evening.

The firm of Woodhead & Wood, photographers on Commercial street, has been dissolved, Mr. Woodhead continuing the business.

F. F. Marcy has the contract to build the new house at Thorndike which the Thorndike Company is to erect this year for the use of its agent.

Station Agent Fish of the New London Northern road was confined to his house the latter part of last week and the first of this with the grippe.

J. A. Palmer has bought of B. F. Emery of Thorndike a tract of about 12 acres of woodland near Whipple's crossing on the Ware River road.

William Whitcomb, who some years ago was proprietor of the restaurant on Central street just vacated by Mrs. Hatch, will run the same place again.

At an adjourned meeting of St. Paul's parish Monday evening O. W. Studley was chosen one of the parish committee, in place of E. P. Ball, resigned.

A few sprays of arbutus are being found in warm sheltered spots, but the ground has not yet warmed sufficiently to make the blossoms very plentiful.

A stairway has been built from the front room of Robinson & Taylor's grocery store to the cellar beneath, greatly improving the convenience of the place.

G. W. Ely is compiling a complicated stallion pedigree for a horse owner in Brookfield, and has done quite a little of this work for parties in different parts of the country.

Efforts are being made to have "Priscilla," the opera which was recently presented by Springfield talent with good success, given in the opera house here by the same persons.

The first hard electrical storm of the season came last Saturday afternoon, with vivid lightning and heavy thunder. So far as heard from no damage was done in this vicinity.

The annual meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association will be held in the court room next Tuesday evening at 7.30, and the firemen are especially requested to be in attendance.

The house of Dr. J. J. Flynn of Pittsfield, formerly of this place, was struck by lightning during the electrical storm of last Saturday, but no one was hurt and but little damage was done.

Mrs. Maria Hatch, who has conducted the restaurant on Central street for some time, has bought the Manley House at Warren, and will run it as a hotel, under the name of the Glendon House.

The [illegible] issue of the special delivery stamps have [illegible]eir appearance. They are the same [illegible] as formerly, but printed in [illegible]d of blue, to distinguish them fro[illegible]nbian one-cent stamps.

[illegible] a painter employed by F[illegible] house of E. G. Hastings, f[illegible] from a ladder this forenoon, [illegible]s shoulder, but at this writing [illegible]his injuries are not known.

The trustees of the Palmer Savings Bank met Monday and considered the applications for the position of treasurer, of which there are not a few, but adjourned until to-morrow afternoon without action.

The vacant store in the Nassowanno House block is to be occupied by Buck & Co. as a bicycle room, and a doorway is to be cut between the two rooms. The firm will also rent bicycles by the hour, day, week or season.

Owners of colts who intend to enter them for the colt-stake races of the agricultural society in the fall should remember that the first payment on the entrance fee must be made by May 1st, and that the time is not far distant.

At the Baptist church Sabbath morning the pastor will preach on "Christian Consolation." In the evening at 7 o'clock the pastor will preach on "The Power of Choice, or Man a Free Agent." A praise service will precede the sermon.

It is said that dealers in the ardent at Thorndike had ample notice of the intended raid last week, the matter having somehow leaked out, and that two teams went from here to that village half an hour before the searchers, carrying the warning.

Mrs. Kate Tryon gave her lecture, "An Hour with the Birds," in the opera house Tuesday afternoon under the anspices of the Natural History Society to a large audience. The lecture was accompanied by stereopticon views of birds, and was very entertaining.

The ladies of the Congregational church are making active preparations for their annual May breakfast, which will be held Saturday, the 29th, this year, as the first of May comes on Monday and the work which must be done the day before cannot well be done on Sunday.

The appropriations at the annual town meeting were $42,100, but $6300 of this is to be taken from the license money, leaving only $34,800 to be raised by taxation, against $37,326 last year, which should make the rate of taxation even less than that of 1892, which was $12.30.

The King's Daughters have arranged for a CC supper in the parlors of the Universalist church this evening, followed by a social and entertainment. Tea will be served from 6 to 7, and twenty-five cents will admit to both supper and entertainment. The proceeds will be used for the benevolent work in which the society is engaged.

District Deputy Grand Master Mrs. A. M. Whitaker, accompanied by the Grand Marshal, Mrs. Nichols, both of Springfield, paid an official visit to Good Cheer Rebekah Degree Lodge Tuesday evening, installing one officer and initiating one candidate. A collation was served after the exercises, and a most entertaining evening passed.

A session of the probate court was held at Springfield last Saturday, and business of importance to this part of the county was transacted as follows: Administration granted in the estate of Joseph Taft, late of Palmer, William Merriam administrator. Accounts filled in the estates of Ruby Blanchard, late of Monson; Abial Bottume, late of Hampden.

While making repairs in the Congregational parsonage this week a fireplace in one of the rooms was removed, and it was found that the hearth was only one thickness of brick, laid on the boards of the floor, and that one of the boards had burned nearly in two by the heat. It is a wonder that the structure was not burned at some time when the fireplace was in use.

Work is now progressing rapidly on the plant of the Palmer & Monson Electric Company at Blanchardville. The preparation of the building for the machinery is about completed, and the painters are at work on the outside. The work on the dam has been greatly delayed by the continued high water, but is now well under way again, and the section of the dam on the Monson side of the river is being put in.

A relay bicycle race from Boston to Chicago will leave the former city at 5 o'clock p. m. on the 30th. These members of the Springfield bicycle club will be the riders in this vicinity: R. S. Williamson and W. H. VanWagner from Warren to Palmer, and E. A. and Charles Nelson from Palmer to Springfield. The riders will probably pass through this place about 11 o'clock at night, so Palmer people will not see much of them.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Baptist church held its monthly meeting Wednesday. A very large company attended and appreciated the excellent supper provided by Mrs. L. G. Parkhurst, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. A. E. Fitch and Mrs. A. W. Weeks. A pleasing entertainment of recitation and song followed the supper, and the large company departed for home feeling the evening had been well spent in the development of the social element.

The selectmen met Monday and fixed the prices of a first and fourth calss license at $1700, the same as last year. No applications have been made yet, but the selectmen announce that all must be handed in by next Wednesday. There will be some new applicants, but the probability of a material shake up in the personnel of those who now hold the licenses is not great. It would not be surprising if there were but one change, and that in the Depot village, one of the present holders being dropped and a new one being taken on.

Extensive repairs are being made at the Congregational parsonage, preparing it for the occupancy of the new pastor. A bath room and water closet have been put in up stairs, the house piped for hot and cold water, and entirely new plumbing put in throughout. The work has been done by Hitchcock & Blanchard, and is thoroughly sanitary, being probably the best job of plumbing in the place. New floors are being laid all over the house, and a new heating apparatus is to be put in. Fresh paint and paper and new carpets will brighten the interior before the work is completed.

Frank Ellis of New Bedford was before the district court last Saturday for being a vagrant, and was sent to the state farm at Bridge water for one year. Ralph Allen, the Italian wanted for an assault at Monson, was bound over to the May term of the court in the sum of $500, and gave bail. The case of J. Pinkoffsky, for disposing of clothing by lottery, was heard Tuesday, and he was bound over to the May term of the higher court in $300 bonds, which were furnished. Leopold Demarais of Three Rivers was tried yesterday for disposing of drugs without being a registered pharmacist, and was fined $20, but appealed.

At the annual conference of Methodist churches held at Holyoke this week the following appointments for this vicinity were made: Belchertown, to be supplied, Bondsville, E. J. Hale; Hampden and Glendale, J. H. Pillsbury; Ludlow Center, G. W. Simonson; Monson, W. H. Marble, reappointment; Wales, W. C. Blackmer; Ware, A. M. Osgood; Warren, H. B. King, reappointment; West Warren, Putnam Webber, reappointment; Wilbraham, Fayette Nichols. W. R. Newhall, principal of Wesleyan Academy, F. A. Ellis, professor in Wesleyan academy, and Benjamin Gill, professor state college, members of Wilbraham quarterly conference.

George Evans, who died very suddenly last week at the residence of Mrs. Michael Kinnevan, of hemorrhage of the lungs, was born at County Kerry, Ireland. He was a member of the 10th Massachusetts Volunteers, Company E, enlisting at Palmer June 21st, 1861, at the age of 24 years. He was wounded at Malvern Hill July 1st, 1862. When the Tenth's term of enlistment had expired Mr. Evans reënlisted December 21st, 1863, and was transferred June 19th, 1864, to the Thirty-seventh Massachusetts, Company K, transferred June 21st, 1865, to the Twentieth Massachusetts, Company K. He was honorably discharged July 16th, 1865. Mr. Evans leaves a widow, who is aninvalid.

The dangerous crossing of the Boston and Albany tracks at Blanchardville has ceased to be, the new road under the tracks having been opened yesterday. The change will be much appreciated by drivers, as in addition to doing away with the dangerous crossing the present road has a more gradual grade than the old one. While the new road is a great improvement over the old, it is likely to cause the town some annoyance and expense in winters when there is any amount of snow, as the cut on the north side of the tracks is in a good location to fill with snow if there is any wind, a fence running the length of it on the west side, and in storms such as prevailed this winter the west wind will sweep the snow over that fence into the cut, which will probably have to be shoveled out at times.

A small boy who has the reputation of being rather a "tough nut" was seen creeping behind the counter of one of the grocery stores in the village yesterday afternoon when all in the place were busily engaged in conversation and he thought were paying no attention to his movements. He was seen, however, by the proprietor, who was letting him alone to see what he would do when one of the clerks spied him and brought him out. He denied any wrong-doing, and an examination of his pockets showed that he was right, but from his close proximity to the boxes of oranges and the sharp watch he kept on the occupants of the store there was no doubt of his intentions. The lad is not yet a dozen years old, but has gained the reputation among local merchants of being quite a "sharper," and may get into trouble if his career is not checked.

Tickets for the entertainment of the Firemen's Relief Association at the opera house the 26th will go on sale to-morrow, and will be on a new plan. Orders for tickets, accompanied by the money and a stamped envelope, are to be mailed to A. L. Hills, the treasurer of the association, not earlier than to-morrow, specifying first, second and third choice of seats. These applications will be numbered as received, and the seats assigned in order without preference. Orders mailed before to-morrow will lose their turn. The entertainment is one which will be sure to draw a large audience and please all. Col. Russell H. Conwell, who has several times before lectured in Palmer and always to crowded houses, will be sure to entertain every attendant; Miss Lillian Pierce will make her fourth appearance as a reader, and will be sure of a warm welcome, as will also Henry F. Trask of Springfield, the popular tenor; the Philharmonic Orchestra of Springfield, nine pieces, is too well known and liked to need comment. Following the entertainment there will be a social hop from 10.15 till 1, with W. G. Ryan as prompter. The tickets are 50 cents, which includes everything, even a vote for the most popular person in Palmer, which the association will send free of expense to the World's Fair at Chicago, the polls being open from 10.15 to 11.

THORNDIKE.

Cornelius Healey, an old resident of this place, is to move with his family to South Hadley soon.

Several of the help in the No. 2 mill have left town during the past week, including some families.

Eugene DeCoteau, who has been quite ill during the past week, has recovered so as to be about again.

John F. Murphy left here on Tuesday for Norwich, Conn., where he is to work as clerk in a hotel.

Class No. 5 of the Congregational Sunday school have formed a society to be known as the Daughters of Ruth.

E. Paradise, clerk for D. J. Lawler, has returned with his family from a visit with friends in North Adams.

George Wilson, formerly of this place, oldest son of a former agent of the mills, was in town on Wednesday.

T. J. Clifford of the Clinton House returned this week after spending a few days with his parents in Millbury.

Joseph Labonte, who has been in the wood business for the past four or five years, moved with his family to Ware on Tuesday.

The weavers will hold a ball at Union Hall this evening, with music by a local orchestra. Tickets are $1. A large number will no doubt be present.

The Young Men's Union of this place will hold a grand ball at Holden's opera house, Palmer, on the 27th, with music by Brigham's Orchestra of Marlboro.

J. D. Sawyer, one of our oldest citizens, died at his home last week and was buried on Sunday. Mr. Sawyer was well known in town, having been in the soap business for a number of years.

The Conditions of the Strike.

Nothing new has developed this week in the strike of the weavers in the No. 2 mill. None of them returned to work Monday, and the company does not consider them longer in its employ, they having been paid off. The looms in the weave room have been moved and a new floor is being put in, which will take some time. Other repairs are also being made, and the company appears to be in no hurry to start up. The strikers insist that the gears on the "slasher," which regulates the length of the cuts, have been changed, adding to the length thereof, and maintain their ability to prove it. A large meeting of the weavers of both mills was held Wednesday evening, and it is understood that unless some settlement is made before Monday that the weavers in the No. 1 mill will be called out, though many claim to believe a settlement will be made before that time.

THREE RIVERS.

Miss A. L. Pease of Wilbraham visited friends in town Wednesday.

Charles Russell has exchanged his pacer for a handsome black Canadian mare.

Mrs. Nathan Johnston has returned from Norwich, Ct., after an extended vacation.

Misses Hattie and Ella Warriner of Monson spent Sunday with their parents here.

Miss Mamie Pratt has gone to New York city, where she intends to spend the summer.

Miss Jennie Kendrick of Amherst spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kendrick.

Miss Lizzie Korff, who has been ill for some time past, has recovered sufficiently to be out again.

H. D. Geer has sold over 2200 dozen bottles of his horse radish this season, and is still rushed with business.

Miss Inez Hunt, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Alden, has returned to Brimfield, where she is engaged in teaching.

Some of the owners of bicycles in this place have suggested the organization of a bicycle club, and the idea seems to meet with unanimous approval.

Mrs. F. A. Ruggles has a choice selection of pinks for sale. Some of these plants are a rare species of Andalusias and Hectors, and are sure to please anyone who sees them.

Mrs. L. M. Fairbanks of Ware spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Talbert, and Mrs. G. M. C. Barnard, also of Ware, is now their guest and intends to spend the sabbath with them.

Misses Ella and Addie Brierly of Beaver Falls, Pa., and Miss Knott of Brighton, Pa., have returned to Mt. Holyoke College after spending a few days with Miss Jennie Kendrick.

Professor Richardson of Amherst College, assisted by Dr. Harris, also of the college, will deliver another of his famous lectures, in the Baptist church this evening on "German Peasant Life." All who attended the last lecture are aware that this is an occasion when all who can ought to be present.

A certain young man in this community, who is doubtless desirous of entering the matrimonial state, has communicated with a matrimonial agency of Chicago, and is now furnished to find that photographs of ladies from different parts of the country are reaching his residence every day by the mails.

Rev. G. H. Butler has nearly completed setting the parsonage in order, and intends to move into the building immediately. On Tuesday evening he was pleasantly surprised by finding in his study an elegant easy chair, a gift to him from the young men of his Sunday school class, as a token of their regard.

The item announcing the approaching marriage of Station Agent Hillman and Miss Byther of Bondsville was an error as far as the lady's name was concerned, for the bride-elect is Miss Alice I. Squiers of Belchertown. Miss Ryther is a member of the high school at Palmer, and it is hard to find how such a report started, for it came to the JOURNAL's correspondent from at least half a dozen reliable persons, though who first originated the coupling of the two names has not been traced yet.

BONDSVILLE.

Mrs. Richard Russell made a short call in Holyoke Saturday.

Thomas Shea of Springfield spent Fast Day with friends here.

Their are one or two cases of measles here, in John Carmody's family.

Otis Sedgwick was home from Andover with his father over Sunday.

C. S. O'Regan, who was home from Tufts Fast Day, returned to his studies Sunday.

Emma and Albert Marsden from Montreal are visiting their uncle, Edward Marsden.

The Bondville base ball club have received their new suits of gray, trimmed with brown.

O. A. Parent and E. E. Ryther attended the Methodist conference in Holyoke Monday.

Mrs. J. B. Belcher of Chicopee made a flying visit to her brother, W. O'Regan, Monday.

Samuel Sharratt, who bargained for a farm in West Ware last week, has concluded not to take it.

Miss Carr, who has been visiting her uncle, C. E. Getchell, returned Sunday to her home in Palmer.

Mr. Bedall, who works for R. L. Bond, lost his little child with diphtheria Saturday. This makes four deaths from this disease since Feb. 8th in this place.

The summer schedule of time in the mill went into effect Monday, the help going in at half-past six in the morning and working Saturday till noon, having the afternoon for a holiday.

Miss Mary L. Johnson of Three Rivers will be at Miss B. O'Leary's fancy goods store in O. A. Parent's block Tuesday and Thursday evenings with a fine line of spring millinery of the latest styles.

The mill hands as they were going to work Tuesday morning were treated to a free fight near the agent's house between a Frenchman and a Polander. They made their fists fly in each other's faces until a woman stepped between them and parted them. The men looking on all seemed to enjoy the fight.

In the year book of the Methodist church, just issued by the retiring pastor, Rev. J. A. Day, the following statistics are given: Number of Sundays preached this year, 46; exchanged, 1; vacation, 1; camp meeting Sunday, 1; administered sacrament, 6; average Sunday morning audience, 86; Christian Endeavor prayer meetings attended, 37, average attendance at their meetings, 38; Sunday evening services attended, 44, average attendance, 61; Tuesday evening meetings attended, 41, average audience, 25; Thursday evening meetings attended, 43; average audience, 14; extra religious meetings attended, 9; number of families visited, 81; calls made, 254; special calls on sick, 50; total number of calls for the year, 304; funerals attended—Axseph P. Vinton, Chas. L. Cleveland, George M. Alexander, Albert M. Akers, Sadie Waterhouse; marriages solemnized—Leon G. Bartlett and Hattie F. Aldrich; James J. Archambault and Lillie O. Capen; William Booth and Mrs. Jane M. Beveridge; Charles White and Sadie A. Weld; baptisms, 6. The amount paid for church work during the year was $2355, divided as follows: Ministerial support, $945; current expenses, $249.52; benevolent collections, $168.55; Sunday school, $107.47; ladies' society, $236.70; Christian Endeavor, $23.64; extra meetings, $22.95; trustees' expenses, $604.53.

BORN.

At Thorndike, 30th, a son to B. F. and SARAH J. EMERY.
At Warren, 8th, a son to Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES L. CONVERSE.

DIED.

At Three Rivers, 5th, ADELAID VIENS, 25.
At Ware, 8th, JOHN MALONEY, 82.
At Wales, 6th, Mrs. PIERRE PALMER, 81.
At Malden, 10th, ALVIN HITCHCOCK, 74, a former resident of Ware.

FOR SALE.—New Milch cow.
1*2 ISAAC RAMSDELL, Palmer.

WANTED.—A housekeeper. Address A. B. W., Box 348, Palmer, Mass. 3*1

TO RENT—Tenement corner Park and Maple streets. Inquire of W. W. LEACH. tf-41

TO RENT.—To a small family, tenement of five rooms on South Main street, Palmer.
1*2 K. FEENEY.

LOST—A cuff containing cuff-button with initial "W." and fastener. Finder please leave with C. K. GAMWELL. 1*2

WANTED—Salesmen; salary and expenses from start; steady work; good chance for advancement. BROWN BROS. CO., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y. 4-52

NEAT STOCK FOR SALE—One pair oxen and several Jersey and high grade milch cows.
GEORGE ROBINSON.
Palmer, July 27, 1892. tf-18

TO RENT.—Farm of 200 acres in the south part of Belchertown, at Walker's crossing; or will rent the pasturing for 25 head of cattle for the season. Inquire of 3*1 MICHAEL O'CONNOR, Palmer.

BICYCLE FOR SALE.
Century Columbia Light Roadster Safety, '92 pattern, pneumatic tires, in A No. 1 condition.
CHANDLER BROS., Palmer.

TO RENT—My late residence, corner Church and Pleasant streets; 9 rooms and furnace. Also two smaller tenements. Inquire of
E. J. WOOD,
tf-6 or MRS. O. M. WOOD.

S. H. ELLERY,
BRIMFIELD.
VETERINARY SURGEON AND DENTIST.
Late of Maryland Veterinary Hospital and Chicago Veterinary College. Treatment of all domesticated animals promptly attended to. tf-1

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.
I wish to call the attention of the horsemen of Palmer and the surrounding towns to the fact that I have opened a blacksmith shop in the rear of E. Goodes' shoe store, corner of Main and Thorndike streets, Palmer, where I am now prepared to do all kinds of wagon work, wood and iron. Particular attention will be given to shoeing difficult horses. I will do my work as cheap as any one in town, and as to the quality I shall let the work speak for itself. Give me a call.
tf-1 JAMES HEALEY.

FOR SALE—Village farm in Monson, Mass. Farm of 41 acres, cuts 13 to 14 tons of hay, with machine. Good fair house painted white, large new barn 36x40 with cellar, spring water in house and barn. Land in excellent condition. Ten minutes walk to R. R. station, church, stores, schools, etc. A very desirable location.
4*53 ROSE P. WALLACE, Monson, Mass.

LADIES' CAPES!
Spring styles direct for the factory this week.
$4.00 to $11.00.
Ladies please examine.
. . . . STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.
GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING
A SPECIALTY.
Rates reasonable.
4*2 F. H. ABBEY, Monson, Mass.

C. W. CROSS,
DENTIST.
DR. H. H. EAYRS as associate.
OFFICE HOURS,
8.30 a. m. to 12 m. 1.30 to 5.30 p. m.
PAINLESS DENTISTRY.
LAWRENCE BLOCK. tf-5

C. H. HOBBY,
PIANO TUNER.
Orders for tuning may be left at O. P. Allen's drug store, Palmer; or may be sent to me by mail to Mansfield, Ct.

"Purity, Strength, Perfection."
CLEVELAND'S
One ROUNDED teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a HEAPING teaspoonful of any other. A large saving on a year's bakings.
BAKING POWDER
A pure cream of tartar powder.
Cleveland's is the standard, it never varies, it does the most work, the best work, and is perfectly wholesome, as it contains no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration.

New Spring Millinery.
—:o:—
HAVE JUST OPENED A FULL LINE OF Fashionable Millinery
AT MODERATE PRICES.
Please call and inspect. Always a pleasure to show goods.
Ordered Work a Specialty!
MOURNING OUTFITS LOANED.
MARY E. SHEA,
MAIN STREET, - - - PALMER.
3 1

BEANS. Large Lima, 30c quart. Black wax, 25c quart. Horticultural pole, 25c quart. Boston favorite or cranberry, 25c. quart. Golden wax, (dwarf) 25c quart. Six weeks, (dwarf) 20c quart.
Peas. Stratagem, 25c quart. Bliss American Wonder, 25c. quart. Champion of England, 15c quart. Daniel O'Rourke, 15c quart. Little Gem, 15c quart. Black-Eyed Marrowfat, 10c quart.
Garden seeds in packages—Rice's and Lyman's. Flower seeds—Mandeville & King's, and Rice's. Sweet peas, 10c per ounce. Grass seed, Clover, Timothy and Red Top.
STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
BICYCLES.
E. A. BUCK & CO.,
BICYCLES.
The Rambler, Ladies and Gents, $150
Toledo Dauntless, Ladies and Gents, $150
Warwick, . . $150
Road King, . . $150
New Mail, . . $125
Lovell Diamond, . $100
Duke, . . . $115
Boys' Pneumatic, $65
Boys' Pneumatic, $40
WE HAVE ADDED TO OUR STOCK
BICYCLE SHOES, CAPS, STOCKINGS AND SWEATERS.
BICYCLES RENTED by the hour, day, month or season.
E. A. BUCK & CO.,
PALMER, MASS.
E. A. BUCK & CO.
PALMER, MASS.

CORSETS.
The F. P. Cutaway $1 and $1.25.
Dr. Ball's H. P. Corset $1.
Dr. Warner's Health $1.25.
Dr. Warner's Coraline $1.
Double Bust, No. 666, 50c.
W. E. STONE.
LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

YOU ought to see the UNLAUNDERED SHIRTS Stone is selling at 50c each or 6 for $2.75.

Horses! Horses! Horses!
Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.
If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half-mile in public in stud season in 1:07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2:52 1-2, trial 2:44.
For Speed! Speed! Speed!
Breed to "LENOX B." son of ALCYONE and IDLEWOOD, 2:29 1-4, trial 2:18. ALCYONE sired Martha Wilkes 2:08, McKinney 2:12 1-2, Alcyon 2:15, Bush 2:16.
For particulars see or write to
D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

Farm of 75 acres with house and two barns, part running water at house and barn, fruit in abundance, farm will keep 10 head of cattle, cream taken at door, best of neighbors, short distance from two manufacturing villages. Price $2000, $500 down and balance on mortgage.
D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

House and barn with seven acres of good productive land in a village. $1600.
Pastures from 20 to 50 acres in Palmer for $300 to $600.
Lot of manure for sale cheap.
D. F. HOLDEN,
Palmer, Mass.

HERSEY & SON,
GENERAL
House Furnishers.
385 MAIN STREET, - SPRINGFIELD, MASS.,
(Opposite Haynes Hotel.)
One of the largest and best equipped house furnishing establishments in Western Massachusetts.
Five Floors packed with Goods!
Including everything necessary for successful housekeeping, and all connected by our safety elevator.
OUR AIM IS
That our goods shall be reliable. Our prices low and our terms as easy and liberal as any house furnishing establishment in New England and we are confident that a personal inspection of our goods and a comparison of prices will justify our claim.
DON'T FAIL TO EXAMINE IT.
"SCHEPPS' PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD,"
A beautiful book containing over 250 views from all parts of the world.
One of these beautiful 25 books free to every purchaser of $50 worth or more of goods any time between this and Sept. 1st.
HERSEY & SON.
13-53

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. April 11, 1893.

By virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment recovered in the Superior Court at Springfield, within and for the County of Hampden, on the sixth day of March A. D. 1893, in favor of the Palmer Savings Bank, a corporation duly established by law, and having its usual place of business in Palmer, in said county, and against Mary Hanley, of said Palmer, in said county, I have this day seized and taken all her right, title and interest in and to the following described unincumbered real estate situate in Three Rivers, in said Palmer, and bounded and described as follows, to wit: beginning on the road leading to Thorndike, at land now or formerly of one Eugene Lynch, thence running westerly on said road forty-six feet; thence northerly at right angles to said road parallel to said Lynch's west line one hundred and fifty feet; thence easterl yat a right angle forty-six feet to land of said Lynch, and thence southerly on his land one hundred and fifty feet to the point of beginning, being the same premises described in a deed thereof, recorded in Hampden County Registry of Deeds, Book 386, Page 455. And on Saturday, the twentieth day of May next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, in front of the District Court House, at Palmer, in said county, I shall offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, said right, title and interest in and to the above described real estate to satisfy said execution and all fees and charges of sale.
3-2 W. H. BRAINERD, Deputy Sheriff.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. PROBATE COURT.—To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Joseph W. Fitton, late of Palmer, in said county, deceased, Greeting:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said court, for probate, to Joseph W. Fitton of Worcester in said County, wealth, who represents that one of the executors named in said will has deceased, and that the other refuses the trust, and who prays that letters of administration, with the will annexed, may be issued to him, without the giving of surety or sureties on his official bond pursuant to the statute.

You are hereby c

Newsp[illegible]
Sunday paper route of William [illegible]
F. W. King of Chicago spent [illegible] town with his father, William King.
Mrs. Carlos M. Gage, who has been i[ll]
a couple of weeks, is able to be out again.
A. E. Maxwell will leave the employ [illegible]
Rogers & Co. May 1st and move to Pa[ssaic]
Rev. F. S. Hatch exchanged pulpits [with]
Rev. Mr. Howard of Wilbraham last [Sab-] bath.
Wilbur M. Fay and George L. Keeney [left] tended the M. E. conference at Holyoke last [week].
Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hitchcock of Benni[ngton,] Vt., have been the guests of A. D. E[llis] this week.
Mr. Walcott has been quite ill since the [death] death of his daughter a week ago, but is n[ow] improving.
Miss Carrie Tuthill of Andover Semina[ry] has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. G. [Farrington.]
Farrington.
Plumber Leary has been making necessa[ry] repairs on the tower belfry at the Congre[gation-] tional church.
Postmaster Farringtown has had a sev[ere] attack of pleurisy this week, but is n[ow] more comfortable.
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coltman of W[ilbra-] ham have been visiting Henry Rogers [dur-] ing the past week.
Capt. G. H. Foskit is once more able t[o be] out and attend to his duties as selectman [and] overseer of poor.
Lewis Freitag has leased the John F[reitag] farm at Silver Street and will engage [in] market gardening.
C. C. Keep has purchased his father's [farm] and stock for about $4600. He will call [the] place "Granite Hill."
Mr. Fuller, who has spent the past [two] winters in town, leaves to-morrow [for his] summer home in Maine.
Miss Tucker, who has been spending [the]
Easter vacation with her parents, returned to Smith College to-day.
Launcelot Howard, whose finger [was so] badly injured in his bicycle, has returned work for Miller & Reynolds.
Fast Day was not generally observed in this town, some of the mills and Ingham
& Lichten running as usual.
R. Clifford has removed the carriage in front of his barn, thus giving a better look and improving the surrounding [view.]
The Howorth Comedy Company [had a] large audience at Memorial Hall last [Tues-] day evening, and the play was well [received.]
The concert and ball Wednesday evening was a success socially and financially. [The] new and exceedingly pretty gowns [worn] seen.
Chas. McKernan has his house on [Dwight] ham street nearly framed, and expects to have it ready for occupancy by the [first of] July.
The Methodists are contemplating [building] a parsonage, and William Underwood's house is mentioned as being a suitable one for the purpose.
The many friends of Mr. Jewett, for [many] years teacher of the Green street grammar school, will regret to learn that he is [critic-] cally ill at his home in Lowell. [Again in] Miss Alice Darling and her bicycle came [in] collision with a team at the turnout Tuesday evening, badly injuring the wheel and [slightly]
Miss Darling quite a shaking up.
There has been a great run recently [upon] local merchants and millers on meal. [The] price is stated now to be below cost, and [it is] said on good authority that it will be [still] lower.
W. H. Marble spent the week at Co[nway] ence the pulpit being filled Sunday by Alexander Dight a former pastor who many friends were glad to see his genial and hear him preach again.
George Burdick, who has been employed der & Reynolds during the past season, e to work as tool-sharpener for ld company. Will Burdick has th the same firm.
s Society held its annual [supper]
st Tuesday evening with a the supper was excellent, [and] fancy articles were sold. [The] ared between $40 and $50.
Keeney attended the Methodist [Con-] e at Holyoke as delegate from the [local]
Rev. W. H. Marble will return to urch here another year, much to [the] ification of many Monson people.
Deacon A. H. White's team, which was stolen from the sheds near the Congregational tional church two weeks ago, was found at a livery stable near Willimantic last Friday.
The stealing was done by a professional.
The "Drummer Boy" was well attended each night last week, considering the weather.
er. The music and the play were very much better Friday and Saturday nights than on Thursday. The G. A. R. cleared about $[illegible]
The item in last week's paper referring to Edward Donovan's colt as being a mustang s wrong, as he is quite the contrary. He ng one of the best bred colts in town, and ith his exceptionally fine breeding should e fast.
The abutments of the bridge over the brook at the saw mill of Seneca Conant on the road to Wales were washed out Tuesday by the high water, and a gang of men and a derrick have been at work repairing the damage.
The boarders at Mrs. Inez Ferrell's had a masquerade dance and literary entertainment ment at the house Tuesday evening. Ice cream and cake were served. A number of invited guests were present, and all report a fine time.
Some of the boys, to be smart, loaded their guns with an extra charge of powder for the battle scene in the play Saturday evening. That no one was hurt does not prove that it was not an exceedingly dangerous ous thing to do.
W. N. Flynt & Sons have recently received a large consignment of special prepared food for horses and cattle, composed of ground hay and grain, which is being used extensively sively on many of the large stock farms and is said to be the coming food.
Col. Russell H. Conwell, who was to have lectured in Monson the 26th, will lecture in Palmer instead on "Acres of Diamonds."
There is some talk of running a special train to Palmer for the benefit of those who wish to attend from this place.
Samuel Rockwell of Stafford and Horace Moulton of this town have many teams at work hauling logs from 50 to 75 feet in length, which they are loading on cars at Flynt's "turn-out" and shipping to Boston, where they are to be used for piles.
As W. H. Crocker was driving down the hill from his home a few days ago the horse stumbled and fell, breaking both shafts of the buggy and throwing Mr. Crocker out.
He received some scratches on his face and several bruises, but was not seriously hurt.
That the efforts of the JOURNAL to give its Monson readers the largest possible amount of news from their town is appreciated is shown by the adding of over 55 names to its list of subscribers in this town during the past week. Such an increase is naturally gratifying, and will tend to a still closer gathering of the news by the JOURNAL'S correspondents.
At the annual meeting of the Universalist parish, held Monday evening, the following officers were cohsen: Clerk, W. L. Ricketts; treasurer, G. W. Farrington; parish committee, mittee, A. D. Ellis, W. J. Ricketts, C. R.
Buffington, E. W. Hatch and E. H. Tryon.
The parish year closes with all debts paid and a balance of $225 in the treasury. The annual rental of pews will occur next Tuesday day evening at eight o'clock.
Methodist Conference appointments which are of interest to Monson people: W. H.
Marble, Monson; R. H. Howard, Newton
Lower Falls; Nathaniel Fellows, Newton
Upper Falls; J. H. Emerson, Coral Street, Worcester; Alexander Dight, West Fitchburg;
burg; Henry Lummis, Prof. in Lawrence University, Illinois; W. J. Pomfret, Lawrence; rence; T. C. Martin, Trinity church, Lynn;
W. H. Adams, Enfield; E. S. Best, Spencer;
F. Woods, Westfield.
Bicycles are so numerous this season that they almost monopolize the sidewalks, pedestrians being of small account. A rider was recently heard to shout to a little girl:
"Get out of the way or you'll get hurt!"
Furthermore, some of the wheelmen, not satisfied to be permitted to ride unmolested—
"Monarch of all they survey" fashion—on the sidewalks, whirl around and around on lawns where there are no fences, much to the annoyance of property owners.
Adjourned town meeting next Monday.
The committee chosen to look over the Green street school house with a view to enlarging it is expected to report. It is understood stood that the committee will recommend raising the whole structure and building one large room beneath. This is done on account of the roof being so constructed that it would not be safe to raise the same, the timbers being so light and framed in such a way as to make the addition of another story above unadvisable.
At the annual parish meeting of the Congregational gregational church Monday evening the following officers were chosen: Clerk, Charles E. Keep; treasurer, F. E. Morris; prudential committee, Dr. P. W. Soule, Dr. G. E. Fuller and W. M. Tucker; auditor, D. M. Dustan;
music committee, Dea. E. P. Keep, W. M.
Tucker and Lyman C. Flynt. The sum of $1600 was appropriated for pastor's salary, and $675 for music. The other expenses were left in the hands of the prudential committee.
The school commitee has organized as follows: Chairman, Dr. N. W. Rand; clerk,
C. W. Jackson; text book committee,
F. F. Ellis and Rev. J. F. Lee; prudential committee, for No. 1, F. E. Morris; 2, 3
10, A. M. Beebe; 4, 6 and 14, William
Cliffe; 7, Willard Leach; 8, Dr. Ellis; 9
11, Lee Blanchard; 12, Dr. Rand; 5 and
Dr. Jackson; committee on repairs, Dr.
Jackson, Rev. J. F. Lee and William Sutcliffe.
cliffe. Meetings will be held on the Friday evening preceding the first Monday of each month.
At the meeting of the cemetery commissioners sioners Wednesday evening Dr. G. E. Fuller was chosen chairman and George C. Flynt secretary. Directors were appointed for the different cemeteries, and much improvement ment work was laid out for the coming year.
A new and very important feature which was decided to adopt is the printing of blank forms of contract, when, by any one paying $5 per year they may have their lots properly cared for, as to mowing, trimming, trimming of same, etc. This fills a long-felt want, and many will avail themselves of this opportunity. A man is to be kept at the cemetery every day during the summer months, and much good work can thus be accomplished.
The eighth district Young Men's Christian Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island is holding a district conference in this place, the exercises commencing this afternoon and continuing through Sunday.
The programme is:

FRIDAY EVENING.

7.15. Praise Service.
7.45. Address—"The Value of the Young Men's Christian Association to the Community." W. M. Mick, Boston

SATURDAY.

(Congregational Church.)

9.30 a. m. Devotional Service.
10.00 a. m. The Success of an Association Dependent on Effective Committee Work. Emil Weissbrod, Greenfield
10.45 a. m. Reports from Local Associations and Corresponding Members.
11.30 a. m. The Possibilities of District Work," E. T. Bates, Holyoke
2.00 p. m. Bible Reading.
2.30 p. m. Opportunities for Personal Work, C. F. Dowlson, Springfield
3.00 p. m. Phases of Association Work:
(a) Spiritual, E. N. Huntress, Westfield.
(b) Intellectual, Geo. H. Hale, Northampton.
(c) Social, James Vinson, Springfield.
(d) Physical, T. P. Bond, Springfield.
4.00 p. m. A Boy's Paper on Boys' Work, Lucius E. Ladd, Jr., Springfield
4.10 p. m. College Work, F. S. Hoyt, Mass. Agricultural College, Amherst.
4.50. p. m. How to Solve the Financial Problem in Association Work, J. H. Wylie, Jr., Holyoke

(Memorial Hall.)

7.15 p. m. Praise Service.
7.40 p. m. Question Drawer.
8.20 p. m. The Value of Physical Work Exemplified—Gymnasium Exhibition by class from the Springfield Association.

SUNDAY.

9.15 a. m. Consecration Service. (Methodist church.)
10.30 a. m. Addresses by Delegates in the churches.
3.30 p. m. Men's Meeting. (Memorial Hall.) Women's Meeting. (Congregational church.) Boy's Meeting, (Methodist church.)
6. p. m. Union Meeting of Young People's Societies, (Methodist church.)
7.30 p. m. Mass Meeting and Farewell Service, Congregational church.)

BRIMFIELD.

The following appropriations were made at the adjourned town meeting held Wednesday: Highways, $1500; bridges, $100; snowpaths, $150; schools, $1400; school committee, $50; conveyance of pupils and text books, $200; salary school superintendent, $225; schoolhouse repairs, $150; poor, $1100; officers salary, $500; debt and interest, $800; miscellaneous, $800; Memorial Day, $50; military aid, $50; total, $7075. The cost of breaking roads the past winter was over $800. Several old roads were discontinued, and the dog fund was voted to supply books for the library.

BELCHERTOWN.

A. D. Randall has been appointed road commissioner.
Mrs. Ransome Morse has bought the buildings and home lot of the Merrill Williams farm.
The Baptist society has voted to retain the present pastor, Rev. F. F. Thayer, another year.
Timothy S. Kenfield, the well-known violinist, celebrated his 73d birthday Monday. Mr. Kenfield's mother is still living, and will reach her 93d birthday in June.
The following persons have been appointed fire wardens for the year: Edwin Randall, E. F. Kimball, George A. Keith, A. H. Bartlett, M. S. Barton, W. M. Goodell, Henry Paine, R. E. Fairchild and H. A. Hopkins. Albert Geer, E. S. Snow and F. L. Stebbins have been chosen forest fire wardens.

WILBRAHAM.

Prof. Newhall has returned from the conference.
The Luther Markham estate on Main street has been sold to C. E. Peck for about $2000.
Rev. C. A. Littlefield of the Asbury Methodist church, Springfield, preached an excellent sermon from Luke 2:15 in the Methodist church Sunday morning.
The missionary society of the Methodist church met at the parsonage Monday evening. After the meeting the Ladies' Aid Society held a business meeting.
Rev. A. H. Herrick, who for the past three years has been pastor of the Methodist church, has been appointed to the Wakefield Methodist church. Rev. Fayette Nichols of Medford will supply the pulpit here.
A Demorest silver medal prize speaking contest will be given in the Congregational church this evening. The speakers are: Anna Richards, Stella Green, Mary Logan, Ernest Moseley, Maud Baker and Arthur Stevens.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Augustus Friend has taken a position with the Collins Mfg. Co.
Rev. W. F. Newhall will preach in Grace chapel next Sabbath.
Miss Minnie Morgan has taken a position with Mrs. L. E. Hawley.
A number from here attended "The County Fair" in Springfield Tuesday evening.
Fred Tupper leaves next Monday for Hartford, Ct., where he goes to other employment.
Miss Frances Breckenridge was the guest of Miss E. Eva Cunningham a few days this week.
Ms Isabelle Cutler, who has been visiting at Mrs. J. M. Perry's this week, has returned to school.
A lawyer episode, so the boys say, occurred one fine night this week. No doubt "sign" has been the motto of the young man in question since '93 began. Well, now, who can blame him? It is merely the outcome of monopoly.

WALES.

Miss Ann Burly returned to Smith College Wednesday.
Mrs. Joseph Royce, and Andrew J. Royce and three children are sick with pneumonia and grippe, also Mrs. John Belcher. Several others have more or less of the grippe.
Merrit Converse had a narrow escape a few days ago as he had just passed over the Coun[illegible] bridge when it fell. He was hardly [illegible] rods away when he heard the crash.
H. A. Garland has gone to Waltham and Boston for the body of A. C. Streeter, who died in the hospital at Boston. The burial will be in Sturbridge. He was the youngest son of Marion Streeter, late of Sturbridge, and brother of Mrs. George L. Webber of Holland.
Mrs. [illegible] Palmer died the 5th after an illness of [illegible] hours with apoplexy. She was 81 years [illegible] and leaves a sister, Mrs. Betsy Luther, who is 83 years old, with whom she was living. She had lived in town most of her life, [illegible] or more than 50 years in the house in which she died. She was a member of the Methodist church and a devoted Christian, [illegible] she will be greatly missed. Her husband Nathan Palmer, died 10 years ago in about the same manner. Her funeral was attended [illegible] riday. In her will she leaves the church $[illegible].

WARREN.

J. W. Cha[illegible] and family spent last Sabbath in Bost[illegible]
Mrs. Luke [illegible]shburn has been the guest of her brother [illegible] week.
The choral [illegible]on will give a concert in the town hall a[illegible] from next Monday.
Mr. and M[illegible]rown of Salem have been the guests of [illegible] Harris Hale this week.
Miss Gertr[illegible]ameson is spending a few days with he[illegible]t, Mrs. Albert Whitney.
Miss Fann[illegible]ckland has returned from an absence of [illegible]ral weeks in New York.
Harry Pos[illegible]nd family of Worcester were the gue[illegible] Lyman Powers last week.
Mrs. Julia [illegible]n gave a very enjoyable whist party [illegible] friends Thursday evening.
The Christi[illegible]deavor society held a sociable in the [illegible]h parlors Tuesday evening.
There was [illegible]vice at the Methodist church last S[illegible] on account of the pastor's absence.
The village [illegible]ement society will meet in Grand Arm[illegible] next Tuesday evening. A large attendan[illegible] desired, as there are many improve[illegible] the village needed.
The commissi[illegible]ppointed in the matter of changing [illegible]rade crossing of the railroad on the [illegible]road from Warren to the West Brimfi[illegible]ion and Palmer, and known as the Cri[illegible] crossing, have filed their report in th[illegible]ior court. They report it necessary that alterations should be made, and recommend that the grade of the public way be lowered and a suitable bridge built over it to support the railroad tracks. The railroad company shall build the bridge and its abutments, and all the work ordered to be done.

WARE.

There are 15 applications for liquor licenses.
At the meeting of the East Congregational parish last week it was reported that over $200 more than the estimated expenses for this year had been pledged.
The store of Collett & L'Heureux has been entirely made over, besides being enlarged. They are having a grand opening this evening, to which all are invited.
There were heavy thunder showers last Saturday. A pump and post at the residence of Thomas Moriarty were struck by lightning; not much damage done.
Work has already commenced on the excavation for the new high school building. There is special rejoicing in town that H. P. Cummings & Co. are the contractors.
The New York Life Insurance Co. has sent a check for $1000 to Mrs. Isidor Pereault in settlement of a policy on the life of her late husband, who was recently insured.
The East Congregational choir was without its leader last Sunday, Henry B. Anderson having gone to Hot Springs, Ark., for his health, expecting to be gone several weeks.
J. R. Lawton fell down cellar last Friday night and was so severely injured that at the time of writing he is unable to sit up or to feed himself. It is feared that he is injured internally.
Rev. A. M. Osgood is to be the new pastor of the Methodist church, and he is expected to preach in Ware next Sunday. His last place was Marlboro, and he comes with the highest recommendations as an earnest Christian worker, and altogether the man for this place.
The Ramblers' Club, recently organized, seems to be for Sunday rambling, as they took a trip over the hill to Ware Center two weeks ago, and last Sunday to the east over the Warren hills, where a magnificent view of the surrounding country is to be had.
The town of Ware has sent out invitations for proposals for a $40,000 loan for building the high school building. Coupons will be issued in denominations of $1000 each, payable in from one to ten years from date, $4000 each year at 4 per cent. All bids must be in by April 25th.
P. J. Pero is to commence at once to build a new foundry on land secured for that purpose which is owned by the Boston and Maine Railroad. The business of manufacturing his chimney caps, for which he has applied for patents, has grown to considerable proportions, and that with other work will make a good business.
The consumption of gas in Ware is being greatly increased since the company has been so liberal in doing the piping of houses at actual cost and guaranteed to be as low as if it had been done when the house was built. They also furnish meters free of charge. The street lines are being extended to reach many who have never used gas before.
Notices which have appeared in reference to the Otis Company's new building have been unauthorized. There has been, however, some talk of removing several old buildings back of the finishing department and erecting a new building about 100 by 175 feet, three stories, doing under one roof all the work, that is now much divided. Plans are being made, but it is not yet decided whether it will be built this season or not.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

BOSTON, April 12, 1893.

If the people only realized it they could exert a powerful influence upon the Legislature to remove some of the evils that are commonly complained of. A comparatively small number of constituents could do this, and so I am disposed to put upon the people some of the blame for legislative shortcomings which the people are disposed to put upon the members alone. A few timely words to a legislator to show that the eyes of his constituents are upon him and that his virtues are appreciated as well as his errors criticised, will spur him up to more faithful performance of his duty. He will be more regularly in his seat in the committee room and in the House, and will be more careful in his votes. We have a pretty good Legislature this year, as far as can be judged at this date, and it is to be devoutly hoped that they will not do anything before they go home which will make us all ashamed of them.
Several members of the House are setting up their rods for the speakership lightning which they suspect may be gathering on account of Barrett's candidacy for Congress.
The investigation into the doings of the Addicks gas companies in Boston promises to be long. It has already brought out the fact that the cost to make the gas is only 32 cents per 1000 feet. The story which was told by George Fred Williams as counsel for Mayor Matthews in supporting his charges was connected, and the several points in it are supported in the main by documentary evidence of a public and official nature which is on file in the various offices where the Addicks syndicate has had dealings. The story is long, but the substance of it is that the laws of Massachusetts have been evaded and that an excessive over-capitalization has been used as the basis of paying enormous dividends. The defense of the gas company is strong in legal talent, for it includes ex-Senator A. B. Coffin of Winchester, who wss formerly chairman of the state board of gas commissioners, W. E. L. Dillaway, who was one of the most active participants in the old fight of the Addicks company against the Boston Gas Light company, and Parker C. Chandler, one of the leading lawyers of Boston. Charges are made against Mayor Matthews that he is acting from political motives, but of course the question is not what Matthews's motives are, but what has the Addicks ring actually done. One of the serious allegations made is that Commissioner Barker tore out a leaf of the record which contained the statement that the actual cost of gas to the makers was 32 cents per 1000 feet.
The insurance committee has reported unanimously in favor of the bills to wind up the business of the assessment endowment orders. It is the second time the same report has been made, but the shrewd and unprincipled men in these orders have improved the time while the bill has been in the committee to gather some $30,000, so it is said, and put it into their own pockets, whereas if the bill had been pushed through and become a law, the money would have been divided pro rata among the whole number of certificate holders. Again it is proved that the managers of these companies, as a class, are unworthy of the confidence of the people. It looks now as if the bills would have an easy passage, for few people now dare to defend the swindling endowment orders.
The moderation of the House was put to a test on Wednesday afternoon over the proposition to send a large delegation to the Chicago fair on Bunker Hill day. The friends of a large company rallied in all their force, and one of them said there ought to be a parade down Michigan avenue that day "In all the panoply, circumstance and pomp of war." Much was said about the need of upholding the dignity of the state. But the reply was that this would be done effectively by the smaller delegation it was proposed to send, while the large crowd would be nothing but a junket. In this connection may be quoted the words of one of the members who went as one of the committee to the opening of the building last October, "For ten days you get your skin as full of fun as you can hold, and that is all there is of it."
The Legislature shows that it appreciates the compliments which have been given to it, and that it proposes to continue to be worthy of its good name. This is as it should be, but the mass of business is great and a speedy adjournment should not be expected. LANDON.

How to Become Fleshy.

Dr. Miles' Nervine not only cures all nervous diseases, headache, blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits and hysteria, but also builds up the body. "I am pleased to say that after years of intense suffering with nervous disease, headache and prostration, I tried Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and in two weeks gained eight pounds in weight. I could not lie down to sleep, but now sleep perfectly easy, and am still improving wonderfully. Cannot say enough for the Nervine.—Mrs. L. B. Millard, Dunkirk, N. Y." "One customer used Nervine and gained fifteen pounds in flesh," say Brown & Mayhury, Cortland, N. Y. Trial bottles and elegant book free at LeGro & Lynde's. (3)

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. —Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

Admitted the Facts.

Newspsper editors have to be very careful in opening their columns for statements. But aware that the Dr. Miles Medical Co. are responsible we make room for the following testimonial from R. McDougall, Auburn, Ind., who for two years noticed a stoppage or skipping of the pulse, his left side got so tender he could not lie on it, his heart fluttered, he was alarmed, went to different doctors, found no relief, but one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure cured him. The elegant book, "New and Startling Facts," free at LeGro & Lynde's. It tells all about heart and nervous diseases and many wonderful cures. (3)

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See adv. 8-53

Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers does its work thoroughly, coloring a uniform brown or black, which, when dry, will neither rub, wash off nor soil linen.

The confidence that people have in Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood medicine is the legitimate and natural growth of many years. It has been handed down from parent to child, and is the favorite family medicine in thousands of households.

"Six days shalt thou labor," says the great lawgiver. To do good work man must be at his best. This condition is attained by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It overcomes that tired feeling, quickens the appetite, improves digestion, and makes the weak strong.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Happy and Hungry.

For over five years I was a constant sufferer with that most terrible and annoying disease, dyspepsia. After paying out hundreds of dollars, the only medicine I found that would do me any good was Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. Now I can eat well and am happy and hungry.—[EDITOR.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

She Blushed

awfully when I told her what to do for those horrid pimples with which her face was covered. She now says if you want a pink and white complexion with a nice clear smooth skin, you must use that best of all blood purifiers, Sulphur Bitters.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., April, 1893.

Winter is letting go its icy grip on the softening earth, and the sun is warm in the cheerful sky. But the breeze is the breath of departing winter, the ground is damp with its shadow, and the very stars threaten as they shine. The winning days to come will be trying days, and the glorious nights will be trying nights. It is time to be cautious.

The thick jacket or wrap will soon be an enemy. It will be a burden. Its warmth is heat, and heat weakens. Adapt your clothing to the changing season; avoid extremes. Wear a spring jacket or cape. It is even safer than it is comfortable.

Now we should stop here, if good advice were all we had in mind. We know very well that you'll take some risk rather than put on your old wrap again. The new one is ready; and it is just to your liking, and just to your purse also. Now do you be just to yourself.

JACKETS.

At $3.50—plain cloth jackets, with fan back and high tapering sleeves.
At $5—plain cloth jacket, with fan back and bischop's sleeves.
At $5—cloth jacket, with double cape, coat back, high sleeves.
At $6—cloth coat, silk faced, with fan back and high sleeves, pearl buttons.
At $7.50—handsome cloth coat, with leg o' mutton sleeves, plaited to elbow, fan back.
At $10—fine cloth coat, half lined, with butterfly cape, pearl buttons.
At $10—Florentine cape coat, similar to the last.
At $10—black diagonal jacket, silk lined throughout, fan back, full sleeves, pearl buttons.
At $10—butterfly cape jacket, plain or diagonal cloth, coat back, full sleeves, pearl buttons.
At $10—plain cloth coat, with round plaited cape and jabot front, velvet collar, high sleeves, fan back.
At $12.50—jacket of plain or fancy material, half lined with silk velvet, butterfly cape, coat back, pearl buttons.

CAPES.

At $5—ten styles or more.
At $7.50—cloth cape, with velvet butterfly overcape, trimmed with plaited satin ribbon and ribbon ties.
At $7.50—cloth cape, with butterfly overcape handsomely embroidered.
At $7.50—fine cloth cape, (suitable for elderly lady), with butterfly overcape, trimmed with embroidery and ribbon.
At $10—cloth cape, with overcape, trimmed with narrow ribbon bows and streamers.
At $10—elderly ladies' cape, trimmed with ribbon, side pockets.
At $10—cape, with box plaited overcape and ribbon trimmings.
At $10—fine cloth triple cape, with Sir Walter Raleigh collar and ribbon trimmings.
At $12.50—new feature in shawl capes, handsomely trimmed with embroidery.
At $12.50—cape of ladies' cloth, with velvet butterfly overcape, trimmed with jet and ribbon.
Second floor.

FORBES & WALLACE

Main and Vernon streets.

$1.25

BUYS

—:A PAIR OF:—

Misses' Russet Shoes

either button or lace, sizes 11 to 2. You can see them in our window.

OXFORD TIES

Never were worn so much by ladies as they are now.

We Have a Large Assortment

—:IN BOTH:—

Russet and Black,

RANGING IN PRICE FROM $1.00 TO $3.00.

—:o:—

☞No goods are too good for us to carry in our stock of

FFFFFFFFFF
FFFFFFFFF
FF ULLER'S
FF LEXIBLE
FFFF INE
FF ITTING
FF OOTWEAR.
FFFF

Monson, - - Mass.

OUR ENTIRE STOCK

—OF—

Men's, Boy's and Children's Spring Clothing

Is here and on dress parade.

We are a Clothing House for the people.
We are exclusive in nothing.

We carry the finest qualities as well as the lowest grades; and you can always expect the best for the price, no matter the price.
There is no safer house in Springfield to trade with because we protect you against all errors—yours as well as ours; and we always do as well by one as another. We are strictly first-class, and one man's money goes as far as another's.

Men's spring overcoats, $6 to $25.
Men's spring suits, $6 to $25.
Men's spring pants, $2 to $7.50.
Boys' spring overcoats, $6 to $12.
Boys' spring suits, $5 to $15.
Boys' spring pants, $1 to $4.
Children's spring overcoats, $4 to $7.50.
Children's spring suits, $2 to $10.
Children's spring pants, 50c to $2.

Keep close watch of us if you want to know everything that's new in the clothing business.

THE D. H. BRIGHAM CO.,

Makers and Retailers of Good Clothes for men and boys.

399–401 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

RUSSELL H. CONWELL,

THE FAMOUS ORATOR.

Holden's Opera House, Wednesday Evening, April 26,

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE FIREMEN'S RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

FAVORITE READER, MISS LILLIAN PIERCE, 4TH PALMER ENGAGEMENT.

POPULAR TENOR, HENRY F. TRASK.

This association desires to be represented at the World's Fair, and will present a free round-trip ticket, Palmer to the World's Fair Grounds, Chicago, to the most popular person as indicated by the votes deposited at the opera house April 26. Polls open 10.15; close at 11 P. M. "Free for all."

SOCIAL HOP, 10.15 to 1. Philharmonic Orchestra, W. G. RYAN, PROMPTER.

R. S. Hitchcock, director and 1st violin; F. P. Nutting, 2d violin; R. E. Hildreth, viola; A. F. Jacobs, contra basso; J. S. Holmstrand, flute; T. C. O'Brien, clarinet; G. H. Southland, cornet; S. Greene, trombone; T. Carr, Jr., drums, etc.

Subscription sale next Monday, April 17.

Tickets, 50 cents each, (all seats reserved) including social hop. Mail your orders with price of tickets desired and stamped envelope with first, second or third choice of seats not earlier than Saturday, the 15th. If sent in advance of that date orders will lose their turn. Orders complying with these conditions will be numbered and filled strictly without preference, strictly in order of receipt. Address, by mail only, TREASURER, Firemen's Relief Association, Palmer.

MILLINERY.

SPRINGFIELD AS A TRADE CENTER.

Where to buy millinery is a very easy problem in this city.

S. Levison

has the latest styles and largest assortment. His

HATS AND BONNETS

are correct in every way. Do you know that it would pay you to come here to trade? We'll warrant a saving of an extra expense and more too. Try it.

350 Main Street.

THE BEST BICYCLES ON EARTH are COLUMBIAS.

SEE THE GUARANTEE MADE ON THEIR TIRES.

FROM $110 TO $150.

SOLD BY

CHANDLER BROS.,

PALMER.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R.

SOUTHERN DIVISION
(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)
CORRECTED TO MARCH 26, 1893.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.18 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.
FOR Worcester—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.25, 4.45, 6.25 p. m.
FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43, 7.52 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.52 p. m.

THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

Live Geese feathers, 75c lb.
Hens feathers, 20c lb.
A. C. A. ticking for feathers, 18c yard.
Straw ticking, 10c yard.
Fancy ticking for awnings, 18 and 20c yard.
Cotton batting, 12½ and 15c roll.

STONE.

TEETH FILLED WITHOUT PAIN.

Absolutely true. Don't suffer any longer when you have your teeth filled. Artificial plates that we warrant. Teeth extracted without pain. No gas, ether or chloroform. Absolutely no pain. Reception room 17. Lady assistant. Take elevator.

DR. W. L. ROBERTS,
Court Sq. Theater block, 4-2 Springfield, Mass.

WANTED.

RELIABLE PARTIES TO ACT AS AGENTS.

WE PAY SALARY OR COMMISSION.

Address at once,

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
16-47orm Rochester, N. Y.

F. F. MARCY, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in PALMER, MASS.

ALL KINDS OF LUMBER AND SHINGLES

Windows, doors, blinds, mouldings. Carpenters' and joiners' work done to order.

Also FIRE BRICK and CLAY for sale.

Yard and shop at junction of B. & A. and N. L. N Railroads—west of Depot.

H. C. MOORE.

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHER,

GILL'S ART BUILDING,

SPRINGFIELD.

Largest and finest gallery in the city. Everything first-class. Instantaneous pictures of children a specialty.

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY

AND MACHINE SHOP.

At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads. West of Depot.

MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE

At short notice and reasonable prices.

52 35 R. B. FRANCIS.

Piano Stools! Variety of styles and colors. $2.00 to $4.00 each. New lot just received. STONE, Palmer.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS!

Good Quality! Choice Variety!

—:x:—

MAINE SEED POTATOES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Early Norther, | Newest and Best, | $6.00 barrel. $2.50 bushel. |
| New Queen, | . . . | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Clark's No. 1, | . . . | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Pearl of Savoy, | . . | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Beauty of Hebron, | . . | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Early Rose, | . . . | $4.00 barrel. $1.75 bushel. |

—:x:—

PLOWS, WHEEL HARROWS, CULTIVATORS.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS, FULL LINE.

Galvanized Barb Wire, 3 cents per lb.

Come and see us.

E. A. BUCK & CO

NEW SPRING DRESS GOODS!

New Pampas Cloths.
New Foulards.
New Puritan Shirtings.
New Ginghams.
New Prints.
New Cottons.
New Groceries.

∴ ∴ ∴ J. B. SHAW.

WON'T YOU NEED US DURING THE SPRING OF 1893?

—:WE HAVE:—

Every Thing to Sit on,

Lounge on—Sleep on—Walk on—Stand on—Hang on—Cook on—Eat on!

ALL THINGS

For convenience, comfort, adornment or necessity required for home or home furnishing.

SETS.

In this line it is timely to look at parlor, library, chamber and dining-room sets.

We have them in all makes, woods, styles and finish. They are splendid in looks and are built to stand a life of service and moving. You can afford them at our prices and on our liberal terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

DO YOU USE

WALL PAPERS

If so, you can buy your stock or can sort up on specials for a single room in Springfield at New York rates.
We are jobbers and great retailers and carry in stock

One Hundred Thousand —ROLLS—

READY TO SHIP.

Will mail samples on receipt of TEN C

Give Ear to the plain facts about Pearline, and then give Pearline a chance to prove them, by giving it a fair trial. Nothing else will give the same result. It washes safely, as well as surely; it cleans carefully, as well as easily. It is as cheap as soap and better. Anything that can be washed, can be washed best with Pearline. It lightens labor and does lightning work. As nearly as we can figure, about eight millions of women use it. Do you? You will sooner or later.

Beware of imitations. 287 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

PROVIDENCE HEALTHIER.

DR. HOLLAND'S ADVICE FOLLOWED BY MRS. A. J. F. LINCHESTER OF THIS CITY WITH THE HAPPIEST RESULTS.

George L. Claflin & Co. and Messrs. Blanding & Blanding nteIrviewed.

We believe it was the eminent Dr. Holland who once said there were many proprietary preparations to be found upon the shelves of a drug store that would cure the diseases for which they were prepared better and quicker than could be found in the Materia Medica for the same complaints.

Many articles have appeared of late in the medical journals and daily papers about the success Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has met with in the cure of those diseases brought about by excess of uric acid in the blood. So many of the common sicknesses of to-day such as rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney and liver complaints, and the sicknesses women suffer from, come from this one cause, that we determined to investigate the subject and much to our surprise found we were totally ignorant as to the good Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has been doing right in our very city.

Perhaps Providence does not hold a more grateful person to-day than Mrs. A. J. F. Manchester, but it did not take us long to learn that Mrs. Manchester had every reason to feel that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had saved her life—to use Mrs. Manchester's own words, "I suffered terribly with my kidneys and I had from my childhood a bad humor that had caused great inflammation all through my body. I had used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy but a short time when the inflammation began to heal, my kidney trouble disappeared and it made a new woman of me."

Inquiring among Mrs. Manchester's friends shows she states nothing but facts regarding her case. Many other instances of the kind are widely talked of here in Providence where Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has effected cures after physicians had given up hope. In speaking with a member of the firm of Messrs. George L. Claflin & Co. and Messrs. Blandin & Blandin as to the merit of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy they confirmed what we have already said. "It has an enormous sale, increased no doubt from the fact that so many physicians were prescribing it in cases of rheumatism, dyspepsia, nervousness and other diseases instead of the old method."

A well known Providence physician said, "I obtain better results from Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in cases of rheumatism, scrofula, dyspepsia, nervousness and general tired feeling so often experienced in the spring—than from any known remedy. Any man, woman or child suffering from the diseases I have mentioned or any other brought about by impure blood or excess of uric acid, or aectic acid in the blood can be cured if they will but use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy according to directions." —Providence, R. I. Telegram. 4

There are more things to be learned about paint than are dreamed of in your philosophy. One thing you will easily believe, the cheapest is not the best. This applies with equal force to every thing put on the market, yet some people think it does not matter when applied to paint. It costs more money, time and labor to make good paint than to make bad. That is why the good is higher priced, and also why it gives greater satisfaction, and does more and better work. By these points are the Chilton Paints known. Regarded from the standpoint of value they are really the cheapest paints, because two coats will completely cover where it will often take three of any other, because you get a full gallon and not nine-tenths of one, and because if put on a dry surface it will last for years and years. Ask any one who has ever used Chilton Paints and see what they say.

Sold by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.
Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

Z. L. DOWNS.

Another Prominent Citizen Cured

After Trying every other Remedy

BY USING

Leon's Sarsaparilla.

The Kind that Never Fails

Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.:

Gentlemen:—Last winter, like many others, I was attacked with the grip, from which I have never fully rallied. I lost my appetite and strength, felt weak in the legs, and was generally "used up." I tried various remedies, but received no benefit therefrom.

A short time since I was induced to try a bottle of Leon's Sarsaparilla, and its effect has been wonderful. I have no weakness in my legs, and my appetite is good, and my general health is improving as rapidly as I could hope for. My improvement has been so marked that my wife, who is troubled with a weak back, is now trying your medicine, feeling confident that it will help her. I take pleasure in recommending Leon's Sarsaparilla to all who are suffering from the grip.

[Signed], Z. L. DOWNS.

Swanville, Me., Dec. 13, 1892.

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.

Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.

Job Printing of all kinds at the Jou[illegible] Office

I Wonder.

A child ran laughing on the beach,
The sun shone warm and bright,
Upon her waving golden hair,
Her tiny form so slight;
"I wonder why the world's so fair,
So full of sun and song.
I wonder why big folks don't laugh
And play the whole day long."

A maid was walking on the strand,
She gazed far out to sea
Where, o'er the sunlit waters rode
A bark so gallantly.
"Ah, love is coming o'er the waves,
Is coming soon to me,
I wonder how, in this sweet world,
Old folks such shadows see."

A woman stood upon the shore,
Her eyes with weeping red,
Looked sadly on the cruel sea
That ne'er gives up its dead,
"I wonder why the world was made
So dark and full of care,
No wonder that life's burden seems
Too great for one to bear."

Near by the window's ledge there sat
A granddame old and gray—
The window looking out to sea
Where ships at anchor lay.
"I wonder when mine eyes shall see
Life's ship at anchor lie
Within God's harbor peacefully
For all eternity."

—Carol Keith.

CHICAGO LETTER.

Chicago is in the throes of a municipal campaign, but before the JOURNAL readers look upon this issue we shall know the result. Four tickets are in the field. The regular Democratic headed by Carter Harrison, the Citizens'-Republican led by Samuel W. Allerton, United Labor by DeWitt C. Cregin, an ex-mayor, and the Socialistic party, whose mayoral candidate has an unspellable, unpronounceable name. Harrison, who has been anything but a loyal Democrat, poses as the only, only Democrat. He gained the nomination by the most corrupt primary methods known to politics. He has been four times mayor. The early part of his official career was praiseworthy, but his last term was unutterably corrupt, and the city vomited him up. He dies hard. In fact the prospects are that he will be elected to be Chicago's World's Fair mayor. And this notwithstanding that he has against him as Citizens'-Republican candidate, a man of high character and ability, the united press of the city, save his own paper, the Times, the clergy, the mass of business men, and two bolting candidates. With all these against him he is making a most vigorous campaign. The fact is he caters to the very worst elements in the city. He is master of the black art of politics, and, like the late Gen. B. F. Butler, has unbounded confidence in himself. In this part of the country there is a sort of sneaking kindness even among respectable people for a man of check and fair promises.

Many inquiries are coming from all parts of the world as to accommodations for World's Fair visitors. The papers recently stated that there are accommodations for 300,000 visitors daily. But it is safe to say that these are not all of the best. In the vicinity of the exposition grounds 278 hotels and lodging houses have been built for visitors. Of course they are all money-making schemes. They are built in the roughest manner and flimsily put together. I would not stay in one of these hotels one night for—well, for anything less than the face of my life insurance policy. The fact] is these buildings are like big pasteboard boxes, and next summer when one of those big wind and electric storms characteristic of this region strikes Jackson Park the dwellers in those pseudo hostleries will sigh for home. They are great kindling wood boxes, with inadequate fire defense, with scarcely no sanitary arrangements, and divided up into seven by nine rooms, which in the hot season will be literal sweat boxes. The insurance companies will take no risks on these structures save for about three months, and then at such rates as scarcely to be called risks. The big Christian Endeavor hotel is not much better than the others. All these schemes have realized a neat sum simply from the advance registration fees. The wise fair visitor will secure lodgings either in the regular hotels or in private families in the suburbs. The means of transportation will be so ample that one can easily lodge miles away from the grounds in quiet sections of the city, where he will be safe from thieves, fire, heat and noise, and get a refreshing night's rest, which he will need after a day at the Fair.

Some have asked, "will this show after all be much bigger than the centennial?" Those competent to judge say that there will be no comparison. This exposition will eclipse anything hitherto conceived by the human mind in the line of exhibitions. What about the actual cost to see the whole thing? That depends. To one living here in the city the actual cost to see the whole business will be $25. The railroads have fixed the fares, and board and lodging will range from $1.50 to $15 per day according to the taste of the individual. Above all things let no one suppose he can see the World's Fair for nothing. The plea to keep the Fair open Sundays was based on the statement that it would be a boon to the poor "laboring man." Bosh! A boon that will cost him $25. He will pay dear for the education he gets from the Fair. How much the managers care for the toilers was demonstrated last fall at the dedication exercises, when thousands of tickets were sent to nabobs all over the earth, while the working man of Chicago did not even have a crack in the fence. G. S. ROLLINS.

GOOD LEMONADE.—"I learned a new thing," said a woman recently, "while visiting last week an English friend who is living in this country. We had a small dance one evening of my stay, and my hostess served the most delicious lemonade I ever drank. I spoke of it the next day, and she told me it was made of freshly boiled water—the secret, she said, of thoroughly good lemonade. 'I have a regular rule,' she further informed me, 'which insures success if I am making a quart or a gallon. For a quart I take the juice of three lemons, using the rind of one of them. I am careful to peel the rind very thin, getting just the yellow outside; this I cut into pieces and put with the juice and powdered sugar, of which I use two ounces to the quart, in a jug or jar with a cover. When the water is just at the tea point, I pour it over the lemon and sugar, cover at once, and let it get cold. Try this way once and you will never make it any other way.'" —New York Times.

BIRTH, MARRIAGE, DEATH.—A most remarkable case is reported from Kentucky. Rev. O. H. Morrow, a prominent Baptist minister of Simpson county, reared a family of six daughters. He received all of them into the church, baptized them all, said the marriage ceremony for each of them, and buried them all. He survived the last daughter several years.—Marshall (Mo.) Democrat.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

[illegible] Toledo, O.

Saved His Life

Scrofula—Impure Vaccination—Beyond Hope

But Hood's Sarsaparilla Effected a Perfect Cure.

Joseph Harper
Trenton, N. J.

"We are as sure that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved our son Joseph's life as that the sun shines. Five years ago on board ship our three boys were vaccinated. Joseph had a very sore arm, so bad at one time that we were afraid it would have to be taken off. At length it seemed to get well, but about two months after, he began to complain of soreness and pain in the vaccinated arm. He had occasionally shown some signs of scrofula, but nothing serious. His arm, however, grew worse and worse and became swollen and covered with sores. The inflammation and sores also spread all over his body, and he was a mass of corruption,

Pitiable to Behold,

A misery to himself and almost breaking our hearts with anguish over his dreadful condition. Many a time did I wish he was dead and out of his misery.

"The eruption was especially severe back of his ears and over his head and the lower part of his face. We had to cut off all his hair we could, as it was impossible to comb through the mass of hard crust and matter. Physicians did him no good, and three specialists at the Eye and Ear Hospital said

Nothing Could be Done.

They said it was a blood disease caused by impure vaccination. One night I happened to be reading in a paper about Hood's Sarsaparilla, and decided to try it.

"While taking the first bottle, Joseph did not grow any worse; on the second, we noticed that he was improving, and, slowly but surely, the medicine drove away the disease and won a complete victory. The scales and scabs began to fall off; the sores gradually healed up, and new, smooth and healthy skin formed in place of the disease and corruption. Of course it took time, but improvement was steady until at the end of the year the disease had entirely disappeared, and Joseph stood a strong and healthy boy. He is at school and progressing rapidly in his studies.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

"We and all the neighbors regard his cure as a perfect miricle." JAMES HARPER, healer in Roebling & Son's Rolling Mill, residence, No. 814 Division Street, Trenton, N. J.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

AGENT FOR

G. W. SIMMONS & CO.

AND

Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.

CLOTHING TO ORDER.

☞Spring samples ready for inspection.

W. E. STONE,

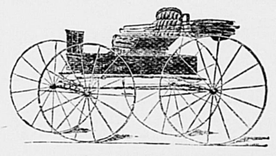
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

WE ARE IN IT!

SMITH & CO., PALMER.

W. H. SMITH,

2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a complete line of family carriages, road wagons, delivery wagons, road carts, farm wagons, etc., etc.
Novelties in buckboards and traps.
Open buggies from $35 up.
Top buggies from $50 up.
100 second hand carriages. 15-1 alt.

Score Cards,

CORDS and PENCILS
For card and other parties, at
The JOURNAL office.

Embossed Programmes

In original and special designs are made to order at the JOURNAL office.

Samples cheerfully shown.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.

No matter in what position you place yourself, DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers

AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,

And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR.

BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,
THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY.
OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.
TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.
W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by
21-41 R. J. HENRY, MIAN ST., PALMER.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by [illegible] Gro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, [illegible]ss. Call for samples. 52-17

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

Rupture

To obtain the best knowledge of how to be cured send for J. A. Sherman's new publication, illustrated with photographic likenesses of American and English patients before treatment and after cure, with particulars of each case. No work so convincingly interesting has ever before been published. Sent by express on receipt of 25c. Plain book of information sent for 10c. Sherman recently returned from London, England, where the result of his treatment surprised the most eminent surgeons, and may now be consulted at his former offices. Address J. A. SHERMAN, Hernia Specialist, 294 Broadway, New York. 4-52

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

The Consumptive and Feeble and all who suffer from exhausting disease[illegible] Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst [illegible] digestion. Female w[illegible] it.

HINDE[illegible]
Sto[illegible]

A NEWSPAPER MAN

Connected With the Great Paper, the Albany Express

Makes Statements Which the People Should Know and Understand.

They Will Interest Not Only the Newspaper Fraternity but Everybody.

The popular and well-known Thomas A. Lindsay, who is connected with Albany's (N. Y.) leading morning paper, the Albany Express, makes an interesting revelation.

Everybody connected with the newspaper has known of the facts for some time, and can vouch for their truth in every particular.

"For many years," said Mr. Lindsay, "I have been subject to severe spells of headache and nervousness, at times almost enough to drive a man to insanity from loss of sleep, etc.

"Medicines, narcotics, patent and prescribed, did not give relief, and the ailment increased continually. Having read in the Albany Morning Express, at different times, the advertisements of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I concluded to try this remedy, and after the use of six or seven bottles, found not only relief, but almost a radical cure.

"The headaches are a thing of the past, while the terrible nervous spells have gradually become less and less until now I have little or none of them left and my sleep is natural and refreshing.

"I do not hesitate in saying that this remarkable change is entirely due to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I heartily recommend it for ailments like my own, no matter the cause of them."

It is a fact that our great business and professional men are fast finding out the wonderful invigorating and strength-giving powers of this most valuable discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the medicine for the weak and nervous. It restores health to the sick.

Its remarkable cure of Mr. Lindsay, after everything else had failed, makes another conspicuous person, restored to health by its use, to add to the long and constantly-increasing list of prominent and well-known people who are almost daily publishing in the papers statements of their cures by this grand medicine.

It is beyond all question the greatest curer of disease known at the present day, and is the very best spring medicine for blood and nerves. Everybody needs a spring medicine, and this is just the remedy to take. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and is sold by druggists for $1.

This great remedy is the discovery and prescription of the famous physician, Dr. Greene, of 34 Temple pl., Boston, Mass., who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases in this country. We would add that the doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

LANE'S MEDICINE

All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1.00 per package. Try one to-day. LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE MOVES THE BOWELS EACH DAY. In order to be healthy, this is necessary.

SULPHUR BITTERS

THE BEST AND
PUREST MEDICINE
EVER MADE.

Don't be without a bottle. You will not regret it. Try it to-day.

What makes you tremble so? YOUR NERVES are all unstrung, and NEED a gentle, soothing TONIC to assist nature to repair the damage which your excesses have caused. Sulphur Bitters to be taken by the glass like other preparations which stimulate only to DESTROY. If you have FAILED to receive any benefit from other medicines or doctors, do not despair. Use Sulphur Bitters immediately.

IS NOT A CHEAP RUM OR WHISKY DRINK

In all cases of stubborn, deep seated diseases, Sulphur Bitters is the best medicine to use. Don't wait until to-morrow, try a bottle to-day.

Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., for best medical work published

AYER'S Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires. Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston. A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."

M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.

Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

DRAPERIES.

Fancy Pongee Curtains.
36 inches wide.
3½ yards long.
Fringe top and bottom.
Printed in cross bar figures
And in a variety of colors.
Ecru and white grounds.
Very stylish and inexpensive.
$2.50 per pair.
STONE, Dry Goods.

ALL ABOUT A HORSE.

One day last autumn, a miner, whose home is an adjoining county, and who lives alone in a small cabin situated in the foot hill, several miles from his nearest neighbor, reached home about dusk from an extended prospecting tour, almost worn-out and sick. He removed the saddle and bridle from his horse and turned him loose to graze, and, entering his cabin, threw himself down upon his cot and soon fell into a restless slumber, from which he awoke late in the night with a raging fever. Almost delirious, he knew not what to do, being alone and without medicines. It might happen that some neighbor would pass by in the morning, but there was no certainty that any person would call for days or possibly weeks. A realization of his helpless condition aggravated his disease, and the poor man grew worse. Morning came, and he was unable to leave his bed. His horse, his one faithful friend and companion, could be heard near by, evidently waiting for his coming. All day long the animal remained within hearing distance, and during the long, tedious hours of the second night could be heard moving about with restless tread, as though conscious that some misfortune had befallen his master. Daylight appeared at last, and the sick man made an effort to speak. The horse, hearing the welcome voice, went to the door of the cabin, and pushing it open, thrust his head into the sick man's presence, at the same time giving a low whinny, as much as to say, "What is the matter?" to which kindly inquiry there was no response save a moan of distress. For a moment or two the horse stared strangely about, seemingly bewildered, then quickly withdrew, and in a few moments galloped rapidly away. As the sound of the horse's feet died away, the sick man felt as though his only friend and means of relief were now lost to him, and he shuddered at the thought that he might fall into that never waking sleep before any person could know that he was ill.

The nearest neighbor of the sick man was a ranchman, whose home was located on the river about six miles distant. Once in a while this neighbor rode over to the miner's camp for a short visit; but these trips were made at irregular intervals, and there was no certainty when he would be there again. The ranchman, on the river, had finished his breakfast and was just coming out of his house, when his attention was attracted to a riderless horse coming down the mountain road at a tremendous gallop. The horse did not slacken his speed until he reached the corral, or enclosure, near the house. He was flecked with foam and short of breath, showing that he had come from a distance and at unusual speed. The ranchman, knowing the horse, spoke to him gently, which the animal acknowledged by a loud whinny, at the same time running restlessly up and down the road by the corral. The ranchman approached the horse, which, however, would not suffer itself to be captured, but galloped off toward its home, stopping at a short distance, and looking back with evident anxiety. The ranchman returned to the corral, when the horse again galloped down the road, and moved uneasily about, as if determined to attract attention, whinnying and occasionally giving a loud snort, as though frightened. Another attempt to capture the horse, which, usually, was a very gentle creature, succeeded no better than the first, the animal avoiding the man in a manner hitherto unknown. The horse ran up the road again, and called to the man to follow—called to him by every dumb sign, almost as plainly as though he were possessed of the power of speech. These unusual proceedings so impressed the ranchman that he felt that something was wrong. Could it be that Galena George—as the miner and owner of the horse was called—had met with some mishap? Maybe he had been murdered in his lonely cabin by "rustlers," or had accidentally fallen into the shaft of his mine without the means of escape.

The strange conduct of the horse indicated that something unusual had happened, and that was enough to prompt the ranchman to speedy action. Calling one of his assistants, the men quickly saddled two of the best horses on the place, and securing their revolvers to guard against danger, and providing some medicines and stimulants to use in case of emergency, they rode rapidly away in the direction of Galena George's cabin.

George's horse, observing this movement, manifested great pleasure, and started on a gallop toward his home. The horsemen followed at a lively pace, but the free horse kept well to the front, now and than looking back, as if to be shure that the chase had not been abandoned. On they sped, and in about forty minutes from the time of starting the men reached the cabin of their friend, which appeared to be deserted. The men dismounted, and entering the cabin found George upon his couch, wasted in form and apparently dead, and at the door stood the faithful horse, which, having tried to save his master, was patiently waiting for some sign that he yet lived. The sad sight was so touching as to force tears to the eyes of the men who had been guided by the noble brute to the rescue.

A hasty examination disclosed the fact that life was not extinct, and while one of the men set about preparation for the relief of the sick man, the other remounted his horse, and galloped away for a physician, the nearest of whom lived some twenty miles away. Before sundown of that day the doctor reached the miner's cabin, and found the sick man conscious, through the skillful ministrations of his kind neighbor. Within a fortnight he was able to walk about. When told of the remarkable conduct of his horse, the man wept like a child. He said he had always known that his horse was unusually intelligent and affectionate, but he could scarcely believe the story of his wonderful sagacity.

George is in good health again, and the care and attention which he bestows upon his horse are like the care of a devoted mother for a favored son. Not long since, a gentleman, having learned of the incident related above, expressed a desire to purchase the horse, but George informed him that no amount of money could tempt him to part with the animal; that it was his intention to keep him as long as he lived, upon the very best that the land could produce, and when he died to bury him decently and erect over his grave a monument with the inscription, "To my best friend."

The persistently destructive effect of water on the habitable land is dwelt upon by a writer in the Engineering Magazine. There is not a hill on earth, he says, that has not been shorn of something of its altitude by this subtle force, and there is not a mountain on earth, if not fitfully renewed by volcanic action, that has not been compelled to lower its peak before this universal leveler of the exalted. It may be a dreadful thought, indeed, but we do not know absolutely that we are not dependent on the earthquake and the volcano for keeping our continental habitat above the level of the ocean; for water not only destroys, but it has the persistency and force to carry off to its burial place in the sea all that it has caused to perish. It may take a long time at its task; but working either in its gaseous, its liquid, or its solid form it seems to be the most persistent thing on earth, never perishing, and, however divided and invisible at times, always ready to unite its forces for a supreme effort at the degradation of a continent.

BABY'S FACE WAS CLEAN.—A rather precocious infant had its christening unfortunately deferred until it was able to talk, and at the font was lifted in his father's arms for the ceremony. After the minister had dipped his fingers in the water, and made the sign of the cross on his forehead, the unawed child leaned down, and catching up the sleeve of his white gown, wiped the water away, calmly remarking, "Baby's face clean, don't want wassin; dot it wassed 'fore us tummed out."

AN ABSENT MINDED PROFESSOR.—One of the most amusing of the anecdotes illustrative of absent-mindedness is that told of Prof. Wilkie, of St. Andrew's University, Scotland.

The professor, whose mind was more intent upon problems in natural philosophy than upon the events of the town, met on a certain occasion, one of his former pupils.

"I was sorry, my dear boy," he said, to hear you have had the fever in your family. Was it you or your brother who died of it?"

"It was I, sir," replied the young rogue, enjoying the exhibition of the professor's failing.

"Ah! dear me, I thought so! Very sorry for it!" and he resumed his walk.

MATRIMONIAL ITEM.—A young Texas [illegible] of a violent temper, just about to be married, was found weeping by a friend.

"Why do you weep, Fanny? Your future husband is one of the most kind-hearted men in the world."

"I know it; but I can't help feeling sorry for the poor man. I have such a kind heart that it makes me cry to think how I'll [illegible] him around. The poor man has no idea he is going to suffer at my hands," and [illegible] more the eyes of the kind-hearted woman filled with brine.

An old woman was praising in rather enthusiastic terms the sermons of a Scottish minister who had acquired a great name for depth and sublimity. The suspicions of her auditor were a little roused, and she ventured to propose a question to her: "Well, Jenny, do you understand him?" Undertstand him!" ejaculated Jenny, holding up her hands in astonishment at the question "me understand him! Wad I hae the presumption?"

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S
COUGH and LUNG BALSAM

SURE CURE. PRICE 25 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

MISS GERTIE S. COWLES,
Montgomery, Mass.

TWO YEARS OF AGONY.

FIVE Remedies and :: ::
FOUR Physicians Failed. ::

"DANA'S CURED ME."

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.,

GENTLEMEN—I wish to tell you of the wonderful cure DANA'S SARSAPARILLA has done for me.

For two years I suffered agony with my back and side, also my stomach, caused by the excess of La Grippe. My stomach would retain no food and I could not lie down for the terrible pain in my back and side—was reduced to [illegible] lbs. My friends despaired of my recovery. One of your papers containing [illegible] of the wonderful cures came to my hands. I resolved to try DANA'S. From the first I began to improve. Have taken two bottles and am well, and in five weeks I gained 15 lbs. Pain every atom is now gone—now perfectly well. Thank the Lord! I know

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

cured me as I had tried five different remedies and four Physicians without any benefit.

Yours respectfully,
MISS GERTIE S. COWLES.
Montgomery, Mass.

The truth of the above is certified to by E. W. PETTIS, School Committee; LEWIS T. ALLYN, Town Clerk and Treasurer; L. O. MOORE, Chairman of Selectmen and Assessors, and MRS. H. C. KELSO.

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

[illegible]uio Stools! Variety of styles and colors. $2.00 to $4.00
New lot just received. STONE, Palmer.

[illegible]s Tabules cure torpid liver.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's [illegible]scription for Infants and Children. It contains neit[illegible]r Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It [illegible]s a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothi[illegible] Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarante[illegible] is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria [illegible] destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria preve[illegible]s vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind[illegible]olic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures co[illegible]tipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the fo[illegible] regulates the stomach and bowels, giving health[illegible] and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Pana[illegible]a—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to chil[illegible] I recommend it as superior to any p[illegible] known to me."

H. A. ARCH[illegible]
111 So. Oxford St., Brook[illegible]

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opiu[illegible] morphine, soothing syrup and other hurt[illegible] agents down their throats, thereby send[illegible] them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELO[illegible]
Conway, [illegible]

"Our physicians in the children's dep[illegible] ent have spoken highly of their exp[illegible] ence in their outside practice with Casto[illegible] and although we only have among [illegible] medical supplies what is known as regul[illegible] products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 7[illegible] Murray Street, New York City.

Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown in —— MONSON. ——

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of Jamestown, N. Y., 30 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM SERGE. Also 25 pieces (8-yard lengths—no two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SERGE.

GORDON DYE HOSIERY.

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hosiery to our customers as the best article for purity of dye and wearing quality ever offered to the public. A complete line of "Gordon Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls and Infants in black and all the fashionable colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED STAINLESS.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Now Complete.

The Columbus Boys' Suits go ahead of everything. A Columbus Medal given with every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black and Fancy Cheviots and Black Worsteds. FINE ASSORTMENT OF SUNG SUITS FROM $8 TO $20.

☞ LATEST NOVELTY IN NECKWEAR.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Have added to our large stock the latest styles in Ladies' and Gent's Shoes. Before you purchase don't fail to see novelties we are offering.

Headquarts for Trunks, Bags, Etc.,

—— AT ——

W. N. FLINT & SONS, Monson.

You and Your Children

It is a wonderful remedy, which is alike beneficial to you and your children. Such is Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It checks wasting in the children, produces sound, healthy flesh. It keeps them from taking cold and it will do the same for you

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula and all Anaemic Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

Scott's Emulsion

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 21, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 3.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year with discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 3 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $10; one-half inch one week, 75 cents; each additional week, 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," "To-Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; no charge less than 25 cents. Notices in local column, 15 cents per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best styles, promptly and at reasonable rates.

C. B. FISKE. L. E. CHANDLER.

[Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m.

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street. H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street. G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. MRS. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

Ayer's Pills

Are better known and more generally used than any other cathartic. Sugar-coated, purely vegetable, and free from mercury or any other injurious drug, this is the ideal family medicine. Though prompt and energetic in their action, the use of these pills is attended with only the best results. Their effect is to strengthen and regulate the organic functions, being especially beneficial in the various derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ayer's Pills

are recommended by all the leading physicians and druggists, as the most prompt and effective remedy for billiousness, nausea, costiveness, indigestion, sluggishness of the liver, jaundice, drowsiness, pain in the side, and sick headache; also, to relieve colds, fever, neuralgia, and rheumatism. They are taken with great benefit in chills and diseases peculiar to the South. For travelers, whether by land or sea,

Ayer's Pills

are the best and should never be omitted in the outfit. To preserve their medicinal integrity in all climates, they are put up in bottles as well as boxes.

"I have used Ayer's Pills in my Family for several years, and always found them to be a mild and excellent purgative, having a good effect on the liver. It is the best pill used."—FRANK SPILLMAN, Sulphur, Ky. *

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowe'l, Mass. Sold by Druggists Everywhere.

Every Dose Effective.

D. W. FOSKETT,

Grain Dealer

FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance H." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

CUSTOM SUITS

—: FROM :—

$17.00 to $27.00

Pants from $4.50 to $8.00.

Our full line of SPRING SAMPLES now on exhibition.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

-:- SPRING HATS! -:-

LADIES'

SPRING DRESS GOODS.

The most complete line we ever carried.

We are the CHEAPEST CARPET HOUSE in the state.

Yours truly,

S. H. Hellyar & Co.

Engraved Address Cards

Are the correct thing for ladies or gentlemen.

Correct sizes—latest styles of letters.

Call and see samples.

The PALMER JOURNAL.

1893—SPRING—1893

CARPET : :

Department

(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN

65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN

35c to 50c.

HEMP

15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS

25c to 60c

(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS

15c to 40c

(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS

$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS

50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.

Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.

TINNERS, AND

STEAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls, Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers, Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business. Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS, VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices. Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

NEW UNDERTAKING ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

Ripans Tabules prolong life.

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 30 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5 lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 30c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 35c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 17c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

Written for the PALMER JOURNAL.

The Two Loves.

Love came to me in the garb of April,
Flouting and pouting, smiling and gay;
Kissing the tips of her fingers in laughter,
Flirting and dancing in gaudy array.
But her eyes, only blue in the warmth of sunshine,
In trouble turned to sombre gray,
And the rosy lips grew sullen and drooping,
As the smiles and laughter fled quickly away;
And I said to my heart, "Tell me heart, is this lady,
With her transient, petulant, fickle grace—
With her lips made for kisses when sunshine surrounds her,
But in sorrow a dark, sullen, tear-stained face—
The one whose soft hand will pour into your pulses
The rich wine of Love with its rapturous dream?"
And I knew by the calm steady beating which answered,
This Lady of April ne'er would reign my heart's Queen.

Love came to me like the Indian Summer,
Calm and restful and holy-eyed;
With a soft dreamy grace, and a voice so tender,
It seemed as if angels walked close by her side.
And breathed to her soul just the words of sweet comfort
Her lips loved to utter in Sorrow's sad ear;
Bringing peace to their pain-burdened heart in the utt'rance,
And to sin-hardened hearts words of pity and cheer.
And I knew her! Ah me, no need now to ask questions
Of the heart fiercely throbbing, all its pulses aglow
At the thought of a future made blessed and holy
With her by my side, both in joy and in woe.
For, for life to attain to a perfect fulfillment
One must hold to their heart—not an April dream,
But a love like the richness of Indian Summer,
Which I wooed and won in my violet-eyed Queen.

L. L. B.

A PIRATE SURPRISED.

Did you ever cruise among the West Indies?" asked my friend Captain Pendleton, after I had lighted a cigar and he had refilled his pipe and lighted it to his satisfaction.

I shook my head in the negative.

"It's not a very pleasant place at certain seasons of the year, for there are earthquakes and hurricanes and calms and rains in abundance. A man can't lie down and be certain that he's not going to wake up with his masts over the side or his ship on her beam ends, and forked lightning playing round the maintopsail sheets like dandies round a ballroom belle.

"In the year 1849 I was master of a brig bound from the West Indies to Boston. I think that I was a day's sail from Santa Cruz on the night that I am about to tell you of. The wind was very high, and we were going through the water no faster than two knots an hour. I left the deck at 10 o'clock in charge of my mate, a Salem bred boy named Cooper, and a smart fellow he was. I told Cooper to keep a sharp lookout for squalls and suspicious-looking vessels, for we were directly in the track of homeward bound slavers, and as I had met them a number of times without any good result, I was not anxious to see them again, and I preferred giving them a wide berth.

"I hadn't been napping more than two hours when Mr. Cooper called me.

"'Captain,' he said, 'the moon is just rising through a black cloud, and directly in its wake I can make out a vessel braced sharp up and standing across our bawse, as though she wished to speak to us.'

"I went on deck and took a squint at the vessel that had somewhat alarmed my mate. I must confess that I did not feel quite satisfied with her looks, for she was a large topsail schooner, with tremendous hoist to her sails, and they set as though made for her by a master hand. The craft was low in the water, and as black as a pocket is reported to be. I saw that the schooner was jammed tight in the winds and that she would be likely to pass our bows at the rate which she was going at about 100 yards' distance; but while I was examining her through my glass I saw her sails were shaking and that her headway was materially deadened. It seemed to me that her skipper wanted my vessel to draw ahead, in hope of not being noticed, and possibly he would have succeeded had not Cooper's eyes ferreted him out.

"I examined the stranger for a few seconds, and then I came to the conclusion that the chap was either a slaver, uncertain of our character, or a pirate. But at all events I determined to be prepared for either, for I thought that I had guns enough to stand something of a tug before consenting to walk the plank.

"'Mr. Cooper,' I said, 'just call hands in a quiet way, and let's get these guns ready for business. Don't make a fuss and seem frightened, as there is no occasion for it.'

"'Ay, ay, sir,' he answered, and in a few seconds the men were on deck and casting loose the twelve-pounders, all of which had been loaded two days before with canister and round shot, and all that we had to do was to get up ammunition and place it handy, and then load our muskets and take the boarding pikes out of the racks.

"'We are all ready, captain,' my mate said in less than five minutes after he had received the order. 'The men are all stationed at the guns and ready to light at command.'

"'I hope that there'll be no occasion for the use of the bulldogs,' I replied, 'but there's no telling what that vessel's intentions are. He still keeps his luff, for his sails are shaking and he don't draw ahead any.'

"'Perhaps he wants us to pass by and not notice him,' my mate remarked, and I did not know but that such might be the case, for the brig did look very much like a man-of-war, and, to tell the truth, I had no objection to being taken for one of Uncle Sam's vessels, as it rather flattered my pride.

"By this time the stranger was off our beam, and when I began to think that he cared nothing for us, he filled his sails and steered so as to just run under our stern. I did not know but that the fellow was determined to rake us. If he had there would not have been anything left of us. However, I resolved to let him know that we were not asleep, so I sprang into the main rigging and hailed:

"'Schooner, ahoy!'

"There was no response, but I could hear a bustle as though there was some confusion at being spoken. I fancied that there was some scuffling on deck, but I could not make out anything distinct. I thought that I would give them another chance to reply, so I hailed again:

"'Schooner, ahoy!' and this time there was an attempt at an answer.

"'Hello!" came in gruff tones over the water.

"'What schooner is that?' I demanded.

"'The ——'

"There was a moment's hesitancy, and then some one in the waist of the schooner shouted in startling tones:

"'Help! Treachery! Murder!'

"'Gag the fool!' cried the man who was answering my hail. 'Gag him and throw him overboard.'

"There was another scuffle and many suppressed mutterings, and then I heard a woman's voice raised in imploring tones.

"'Have mercy, gentlemen,' she cried, 'and spare his life. He did not mean anything, I am sure. Oh, let me entreat of you to spare his life.'

"I put my glass to my eye, and as the moon had got clear of a black cloud I was able to see what I had to deal with. I could make out only half a dozen men on deck, and I concluded that was all the schooner had on board. There was something wrong going on, and I made up my mind to investigate it, even if I was exposed to some little peril. I determined on a bold stroke, although I had some little fear of the result.

"'Schooner, ahoy!' I shouted, just as she was directly astern of us.

"'Well, what is it?' was the answer.

"'Send a boat on board immediately and let me see what you are,' I commanded.

"'Who in thunder are you?' was the impudent question.

"'The United States brig Perry, bound to Santa Cruz.'

"There was a breathless silence for a moment, when I suddenly heard a shrill whistle on board of my own brig such as is used by boatswains of a national vessel when the crew are to perform any work. The trick was Cooper's and was intended to aid me in the deception.

"'Brace up the head yards!' I shouted, and then the men left their stations and performed the work without the usual accompaniment of noise.

"I put my helm hard a-starboard, and the brig came quickly to the wind and remained stationary, with her maintopsail to the mast. Then we were heading in the same direction as the schooner, but the latter did not seem to be in a hurry to obey my orders and send a boat on board. I could hear some loud talking on the quarterdeck of the stranger, as though the officers and crew were debating the feasibility of attempting to escape or fight. I sincerely hoped that we should be spared the latter alternative, for I knew that at the very first fire they would discover our imposition and rage for revenge.

"In the meantime the schooner continued to draw ahead slowly, as though to get beyond the reach of our guns; but I determined to prevent that by bracing up and maintaining my position. The instant, however, that we had boarded the maintack and were making some headway through the water I again hailed the schooner.

"'Hello!' was the gruff answer.

"'Do you intend to send a boat on board and give some account of yourself?' I demanded.

"'Ay, ay, sir; as soon as we can make her tight.'

"The answer I did not deem satisfactory, for it seemed to me as though the crew were attempting some job that was dangerous to our welfare, and I determined to prevent it if possible by taking them by surprise.

"'Mr. Cooper,' I said, 'bring one of the port guns to bear on the fellow's bow, and see how near you can come to him. Don't miss if you can help it.'

"'We are all ready,' Mr. Cooper said, blowing a josh stick, with which we used to touch off our guns.

"I looked toward the schooner, and saw that there was no movement for lowering a boat, and, after listening quietly for a moment became satisfied that a desperate quarrel was raging on board, but what it was all about I could not guess.

"'Give them the gun, Cooper,' I said; I had not much more than spoken when there was a stunning report, and the brig shook from truck to keelson.

"I heard a crushing sound as the iron hail struck the schooner, cutting the halyards of the jib and letting that sail down by the run, and I could see numerous rents in the foresail, through which the grapeshot had passed.

"'Get the other gun ready, Cooper,' I said. 'You have done splendidly with the first one. Keep the brig well to the wind, so that the stranger shan't get away from us,' I continued, to the man at the wheel.

"'The gun is all ready, sir,' my mate replied.

"'Well, don't fire until I give the word. I don't want to kill the poor chaps if I can help it. I'll try with another hail, and see if they have found their senses.'

"'Schooner ahoy,' I shouted; 'do you intend to send your boat on board or must I sink you with a broadside?'

"Again I could hear the angry discussion going on, for we were just abeam of the schooner and were holding our own with her, no attempt having been made to hoist their jib. Suddenly I saw a man spring upon their bulwarks.

"'There is treachery and murder on board; don't desert —'

"His speech was cut short by a blow on his head, and with a loud splash he fell into the water. But the poor fellow had strength to swim, for I saw him strike out toward our brig, although we were moving about three knots an hour.

"'Clear away the boat, Mr. Cooper, and pick up the man. Mind and do it in shipshape fashion. No confusion or fear, for we should have had a gun from the schooner if she had been armed.'

"It was only the work of a few minutes to clear away the starboard quarter boat and to send four men in it for the swimmer. I could see that the crew of the steamer was watching the proceedings from the vessel, and I managed to count twelve men, which I supposed was all they could muster. The boat soon reached the swimmer, and took him on board, and then returned to the brig. The stranger was helped over the rail, for he was quite weak from the effects of a cut upon his head, which bled profusely.

"'Sir,' he said, grasping my hand and speaking with a Spanish accent, 'you have saved my life, and I owe you a thousand thanks. My gratitude, however, shall be more substantial than words. I have a brother and sister on board, prisoners and in the power of a desperate man. Save them and we are your debtors for life.'

"'I'll do what I can for you,' I replied, 'but my force is small, as you can see.'

"'Is this not a United States vessel?' he demanded, looking over the deck in astonishment.

"'It's a United States vessel, but not a naval one,' I answered.

"'Then, for heaven's sake, keep up the deception, for the schooner is armed, and the crew will fight desperately. They suppose that you are a brig of war, and the reason why I hailed was because half of the ruffians were advising a surrender and the other half wanted to fight you at all hazards.'

"Here was a pretty kettle of fish, and no mistake. I had supposed all along that the schooner was unarmed, and that a few discharges from our guns would be sufficient to compel a surrender. If the scamps should discover the deception that we had practiced before we secured them our lives and our property would pay for it. Impudence was the only thing to carry us through, and I determined to exercise a little of that which sometimes answers as well as courage.

"'Schooner ahoy!" I once more shouted, 'if you don't send a boat on board I will blow you out of the water. Pipe the men to the guns, Mr. Cooper, and aim so as to sweep the vessel's deck.'

"The latter part of my remark was intended to be heard on board the schooner, for I spoke loud enough.

"Instantly the mate commenced a series of toots with his whistle that would have done honor to the oldest boatswain in the navy. The effect was beyond my most sanguine expectations, for I heard the pirates clearing away their boat in sullen silence.

"'For the love of heaven, sir,' my new passenger pleaded, 'order them to bring my brother and sister, for I fear every minute that they will be murdered by the desperate ruffians. They have already threatened to do so half a dozen times.'

"I saw that the crew of the schooner were piling into the boat, so I just told them to bring the woman and the gentleman, and that if they were ill treated I would hang every one of them at the yardarm. It was loud talk, but you see I had got my hand in and it came natural to speak big.

"The fellows muttered something that I couldn't understand, but I saw a white dress going over the rail, and it made my heart jump that the lady was soon to be out of danger. I counted seven persons in the boat, including the girl and her brother, and, as the boat was pulled by four oars, it did not take long for it to get alongside. I knew that the instant the yawl touched the brig's side the cheat would be discovered, but I was prepared for the scamps and allowed them no opportunity to escape. I stationed Mr. Cooper and five of the crew with loaded musket's on the vessel's rail, while another hand held a small grappling iron for the purpose of throwing it into the boat for the purpose of preventing the men from pushing off and returning to the vessel to reveal our true character.

"Things worked just as I expected. No sooner had the pirates shipped their oars when they got alongside than one of them said:

"'Dis is no man de war. It's nothin' but merchantmans.'

"'Sacre!' cried a Frenchman.

"'Diablo!' muttered a Spaniard.

"'We are deceived. Shove off,' cried a man in the stern sheets.

"'Not as you know of,' cried Cooper. 'The man who offers to lift an oar dies instantly. I'll trouble you to walk over the side one by one,' Mr. Cooper said addressing the pirates. 'The least noise or resistance will cost you dearly. Walk up like men and settle your accounts.'

"'It's a mean Yankee trick,' muttered the man in the stern sheets, who I afterward found out was the captain of the schooner and an Englishman by birth. 'If I had known for sure you were nothing but a merchantman I'd have blown your tub out of the water.'

"'But as you didn't know anything about it we have saved you some trouble. So just walk up and quit grumbling, for it will do you no good.'

"Mr. Cooper's advice was followed, for the skipper came slowly over the bulwarks and as soon as he struck the deck his arms were seized and a nice pair of handcuffs was thrust upon his wrist. Hands were also thrust into his pockets and a pair of pistols and a huge bowie knife were found. After this fellow was disarmed he was shoved down the after hatch with a gag in his mouth to prevent his shouting too loud. Every man was served in the same manner, and then I assisted the lady on deck, and very happy I was to do so. I told her folks to take her into the cabin and give her something to eat if she desired it, for I wanted to be polite, but she said that she wasn't hungry and should have no appetite until the rest of the pirates were secured. But how to get them was a question I had asked in my mind half a dozen times and no satisfactory answer had been returned. I had the skipper and half of his crew, but there were six more that I wanted, or my work would be incomplete, for it was evident that the schooner was faster than the brig, and that she could fight us a running race I had no relish for, for you know that it doesn't take many shots between wind and water to send a vessel and crew to Davy Jones's locker.

"'Captain,' said Mr. Cooper, while I was meditating, 'I know what you are thinking about, and the only way it can be done is to send me on board in the boat, with half a dozen of the crew, and take possession of it. We can go well armed and still make them think that we are Uncle Sam's men.'

"I didn't like to run the risk, but Cooper was so positive that I consented to let him undertake the job. For the purpose of carrying out the deception, I lent the mate a cap and a coat with brass buttons, and hung a sword at his waist, while the six men he took with him put on white duck trousers, so as to appear as uniform as possible. Well armed, the crew started in the schooner's boat, although for the sake of seeming all right, it was piped away in man-of-war style.

"I watched the course of the boat with considerable anxiety, for I feared every minute that the pirates would let one of their guns fly and send boat and men all to the bottom. But fortune favors the brave, they say, and in this instance I can swear to it. The boat got alongside without trouble, and the next instant the men had tumbled on deck. There was no sound of fighting or scuffling, but I knew that the mate was at work. At last I had the satisfaction of hearing him hail and say that the schooner's crew were all his prisoners and under hatches, where they could do no harm.

"Then I began to breathe freer. I told the mate to stay close by the brig until daylight, when we would see what could be done, for I didn't know as yet on what grounds we had taken the schooner. I asked the brothers to give me an account of their adventures, and they did so. They belonged to Santa Cruz, where they owned a large plantation, and were looked upon as A1 in rank. They had bought the schooner for the purpose of trading among the islands, and I guess for running a few cargoes of negroes, but that they said nothing about. They had hired a man who called himself Smith, an Englishman, as captain, and he shipped his crew, and a bad lot he got hold of. One day, when the vessel was already for sea, the brothers and sister were invited on board; while they were enjoying themselves in the cabin the cable was slipped, the schooner put to sea, and before the owners knew where they were or what was going on they were out of the bay and the mask was thrown off. The skipper made no secret of his intention to visit the coast of Africa, and by way of making things pleasant offered to make the lady his wife. If we had not fallen in with him just as we did I don't think that he would have waited for a priest to perform the ceremony. However, we took the schooner into port and she was condemned and the crew imprisoned, and I made $10,000 by the job." San Francisco Call.

AN UNNECESSARY CLAUSE.—A man who was preparing a series of recipes for a cookery book engaged the services of a celebrated chef as a critic and to revise his work.

One day he submitted to the chef a recipe for lemon pie which ended with the direction, "Then sit on the stove and stir constantly."

The chef twirled his thumbs and said, "It strikes me that's rather a useless direction, for if you sit on the stove you're bound to stir constantly."—Spare Moments.

A SOFT ANSWER.—Auntie—"Oh, you naughty boy! What are you doing? Smoking? Why, you'll never grow!"

Artful Nephew—"That's just it, auntie. I don't want to grow. I want to keep the same size always, so that I can sit on your lap, an' love you."—Punch.

Paris opened her first post-office during the year that America was discovered. This was probably a great convenience to Americans residing abroad.—New Orleans Picayune.

The Courting-Stick.

["In the early New England days there was in most houses a large assembly room, and there the family and all the guests and chance callers gathered on winter nights about the blazing fire-logs. For the convenience of young lovers, since there was no "next room," courting-sticks were used; that is, long wooden tubes that would convey from lip to ear sweet and secret whispers."]

Sunshine bathes in a golden tide
Tumbled treasures of satin and lace;
Grandmother's chest stands open wide;
Over it bends a blossoming face.

Here is a girdle of sylph-like span,
Stomacher studded with jet and pearls,
Gay little shoes that the dance began—
Grandmother was a rose of girls!

Margery's curious eyes are bright,
Margery's fingers are deft to suit;
What does she bear to the wondering light?
A silent reed?—or a stopless flute?

Grandmother reaches a faded hand,
Never a word do her old lips say;
Close to her ear the hollow wand
She holds, with her dim eyes far away.

Fainter, more vague to the dulling sense,
Margery's laugh with its silvery flow!
What is it harkens, alert, intense,
To tones of seventy years ago?

"Darling, I love you!" O share, dear eyes,
Glances the broidery cannot miss!
Whisper! I hear, though a breath replies!"
"No one is looking—sweetheart, one kiss!"

Creepeth a flush to her faded cheek,
Murmurs her voice like a dreaming shell:
"Love, I am here! Canst thou hear me speak?
Living or dying, I love thee well!"

* * * * * *

Grandmother's hair is as white as snow—
Brown the curls which the grasses hide;
Bent her form with its burden slow—
A shattered pine-tree—her lover died.

Margery read the riddle plain!
Sleepeth the lighter, or life or death?
Free, at love's call, to their tryst again
Flying on wings of an echoed breath!

—Mary A. P. Stansbury, in New England Magazine.

INDIAN STRATAGEM.

I saw Geronimo and a dozen of his Apaches do something in Arizona in 1887 which I never would have believed possible had I not witnessed it with my own eyes.

The Apaches are unquestionably the most dreaded tribe of Indians on the continent. They are tougher, more enduring and unconquerable than any other of their race. An Apache can lope up the side of a mountain with the thermometer marking 120 degs., and when he reaches the top he won't show a drop of extra perspiration, nor will he breathe a whit faster than when he started.

He will go for days without a morsel of food or a drop of water; he will live on snakes mice and refuse, or, if the worst comes to the worst, will shoot his horse and eat what he wants of him raw. Set out to pursue a band of Apache raiders, and if they are hard pressed they will separate, each for himself, so that the only way to keep up the pursuit is to follow them individually, in which case the Apache is sure to have the best end of the contract. When the hunt is over the dusky miscreants will come together at some point twenty or thirty or more miles away.

There were twenty-five of us cavalry-men returning from one of our fruitless pursuits of the terrible Geronimo. Our horses were worn out, and so were we. It was one of the hottest days I have ever known in that thobbing furnace of a country. We had several miles of baked alkali plain still to traverse cefore reaching the fort, where we could secure shade and water, and what we needed most of all—rest.

Whew! but it was hot! Had not the air been perfctly dry neither man nor beast could have stood it. The metal work on our guns was so heated that no one could bear to touch it with the naked hand. The air shimmered and throbbed as it does over a newly plowed field at noontide of a summer day.

North, east, south and west was one level stretch of plain, on which not a tree, shrub or even a blade of grass grew. Far to the westward could be seen the outlines of the fort, oddly distorted through the quivering atmosphere, but in every other direction was the naked, burning desert.

We were strung along for a distance of several hundred yards. In fact there was a squad of five horsemen much farther than that in the rear. All the animals wers plodding slowly through the sand, which it seemed to me was hot enough to roast eggs, their heads drooping, while we were simply enduring it, grimly closing our teeth, holding out to reach the post.

Was there anything to be apprehended from Geronimo? Could we old campaigners be entrapped? Low, level sands on every hand. Well, right there in the midst of that flaming plain, with its horrible sandy waste, in which no spear of grass could find root, that frightful chieftain and his Apaches ambuscaded us. It sounds incredible, but it is a fact.

Suddenly I heard rifle firing at the rear. It had a dull, odd sound, but it was close at hand, and as I turned in the saddle I saw that the squad farthest away was engaged in a desperate fight with a party of Indians, who were on foot, shooting, striking, and darting hither and thither like so many demons.

We instantly wheeled and hurried back as fast as we could to the help of our comrades, but before we could reach them three saddles were emptied, and Geronimo and his warriors were scurrying across the plain at a greater speed than any to which we could force our exhausted ponies, who sank to their fetlocks at every step. We gave them a parting volley, which wounded several, but they managed to limp off with the help of others, and all were soon beyond danger. I don't know how far they traveled off over that burning desolation, but it may have been many miles, for they were capable of doing it if they chose.

These Apaches must have discovered our approach while we were a good way off. Knowing we were on our return to the post they could easily calculate where we would pass. Then they burrowed in the sand, covering themselves entirely with the blistering particles, so that only their snakelike eyes peered forth. Thus we passed within a few rods of them without suspected their presence.

In conversation with General Crook about the extraordinary incident, that old campaigner smiled and replied:

"I am not surprised. I have seen them do the same thing myself, but the Apache is the only Indian that can do it."—Chicago Mail.

Justice—"How do you explain your being found inside Colonel Ginger's chicken-coop last night?"

Leftover Jackson—"De truft is, Jedge, I made all my arrangements ter git up 'arly in de mohnin', and I wanted ter sleep whah I cud heah de rooster crow."—Puck.

"I have good news for you, Cousin Emily. My uncle has just settled all my obligations."

"Is that so? Then he must have married all the girls to whom you have engaged yourself."—Fliegende Blatter.

Mr. Figg—"Why, Tommy! Don't you know any better than to declare that a terrapin can outrun a hare?"

Tommy—"Well, anyway, that's what the teacher tortoise."—Indianapolis Journal.

ETIQUETTE OF VISITING CARDS.

Provincial folks of the uninitiated find no phase of fashionable social life in a big city so sadly perplexing as the strict and elaborate card etiquette at present observed. Very great stress is laid upon the receiving and distributing of these bits of pasteboard, and deflections from rules laid down are regarded as proof of unpardonable ignorance.

Two inexcusable but very common affronts to form is for a man to have his name engraved simply "John Jones." "Mr." should invariably precede it; the other blunder is for a young woman to forego the Miss. It has a bold crude look to be set down as Mary or Nancy without the courtesy's prefix. A third stupid mistake often made is for a girl to have a card separate from her mother's. As long as Mary and Nancy are really youthful, they should only appear under their mamma's wings on the same square of pasteboard, a trifle lower down. If there are several sisters then the older ones gradually graduate to having cards of their own, and the younger girls appear with mamma's. So strictly is this rule observed by well-informed persons, that if two of the daughters are in society and two more are to be introduced as debutantes, the cards go out, "Mrs. Jones," below "Misses Jones." And still lower down, Misses Geraldine and Amethyst Jones. If under the chaperonage of a married woman, all the foregoing rules are carefully observed by young women.

When leaving a neighborhood for an extended absence P. P. C.'s are in order; and upon returning, the simple visiting card is immediately posted. After a woman has met a man once or twice, it is customary to signify her willingness to have him call by sending her card. This is also done when she visits a strange city and happens to court acquaintances there of either sex. Upon returning home in the autumn after moving to a new house, in moments of rapture and in depths of despair the personal card is ever to the fore.

Those used by matrons are always slightly larger and thicker than the ones effected by maids; but all alike are written in decidedly heavier lines than of old. Script of every description is bad form, and only the delicate copperplate can be tolerated by smart people. The old-fashioned habit of bending a card through the centre, or creasing its corners to signify for whom and how many a call was intended is wretchedly bad style to-day. It is supposed that visitors are superior to such small economies, and are willing to honor each individual separately. A pretty and rapidly increasing custom is for those with a wide acquaintance to send especially designed cards for Christmas. For example, "Mr. and Mrs. Jones send Christmas greetings, 1892, to—"; and engraved, as the ordinary car

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 21, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.
To any one who is not now a subscriber to this paper, it will be sent three months on trial on receipt of 25 cents.

PALMER NEWS.

Death of Alonzo V. Blanchard.

In the death of Alonzo V. Blanchard, which occurred at his residence at Blanchardville a little after 5 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, the town loses one of its oldest residents, and one who at one time was one of its most prosperous business men and foremost citizens, actively engaged in all that pertained to the welfare of the town.

Mr. Blanchard was the eldest son of John B. and Silence Blanchard, and was born in Sutton, what is now Millbury, Dec. 2d, 1805, being 87 years and four months old at the time of his death. His education was obtained in the common schools of his native town and at Dudley and Harrison Academies. During this time he was also learning the trade of scythe-maker, in which business his father was engaged. At the age of 19 Mr. Blanchard came to Palmer with his father, and soon after entered into partnership with him in the manufacture of scythes at Blanchardville, where the business grew to large proportions, the tools being acknowledged the best made in the country, and having an almost world-wide reputation. His father soon withdrew from the business, and his brother William J. was admitted, he being compelled to withdraw on account of ill health. Another brother, John D., was then taken into the firm, and a little later another brother, Franklin, the works being conducted successfully by them for years until the sudden death of John D. in 1872, when the business was dissolved, having in the meantime survived three fires. In addition to the manufacture of scythes, plow and shovel-handles, ox-yokes and other bent wood articles were made, this department of the business alone reaching the sum of $20,000 yearly.

Mr. Blanchard has held many town offices, including that of selectmen, overseer of the poor, and school committee, the latter of which he held for ten years, his excellent judgement, tact, discrimination and foresight making him a valued member of the board. He was a member of the Legislature in the years 1836, 1845 and 1847. Always a Democrat, he was several times a candidate for high honors on that party's ticket, running for congress twice and for state senator several times, on one occasion only lacking 8 votes of an election in a district strongly Republican. He was also one of the first inspectors of what was then the state almshouse at Monson, now the state primary school, holding the position for several years. Mr. Blanchard was a member of the Second Congregational church in this village, active and prominent, giving largely of his means toward the various church expenses, and filling offices of responsibility in its business affairs.

Mr. Blanchard was married, October 25th, 1827, to Elvira Ann Shearer of Palmer. One child, a daughter, Mary King, was born to them, who married Albert P. Chapman October 25th, 1847, and died April 8th, 1865. Mrs. Blanchard died June 26th, 1883, and Mr. Blanchard again married, Dec. 24th, 1885, Mrs. Cornelia H. M. Merrick of Wilbraham, who survives him.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, there being a prayer at the house, followed by public services in the Congregational church, Rev. A. W. Weeks officiating. The bearers were H. P. Holden, J. H. Gamwell, E. G. Hastings and S. R. Lawrence, a quartette composed of W. A. Weld, Mrs. J. F. Lyman, Miss Ida Weld and W. R. Milligan singing. The burial was in the family lot in the Thorndike street cemetery.

A Well Managed Institution.

Accountant May made a call on the Palmer Savings Bank a few days ago, and his report, which is given below, shows that the institution stands at the fore among those of its kind in the state. Mr. May stated that with an experience of over 25 years in banks and banking it was his belief that few institutions could make a more favorable statement with reference to its collections and present condition of accounts.

PALMER, MASS., April 5, 1893.

Messrs. Chas. H. Hobbs, Chas. E. Getchell, and E. C. Newell, Committee:—

According to your verbal instructions, and introduced by your President, Mr. James B. Shaw, I visited the Palmer Savings Bank Monday afternoon, April 3, inst., and made a careful examination of its affairs; counting the cash on hand and verifying the various items embraced in the statement attached hereto, which agrees with the trial balance made up from the ledger balances, as shown at the close of business that night.

The bank stock as scheduled is evidenced by the proper certificates made out in the name of the Palmer Savings Bank; the municipal, water and railroad bonds appear with proper interest coupons attached thereto; while the town notes and the Bank Certificates of Deposit are found; also the current balance of cash on deposit in the Palmer National Bank as stated.

The real estate loans appear to have been carefully looked after, as is shown by the endorsements of interest paid on all the notes, with three exceptions, up to the date of the last maturing interest period; while the insurance, where it is called for, in each case appears to have been kept in force as shown by the existing polices found in the files. The loans on personal names and collateral security were examined with the collateral as specified, and found to correspond.

The items "Real estate," "Taxes and Expenses," "Rents," "Due Depositors," "Guaranty Fund," "Undivided Profits," and "Interest" accounts appear to be verified and sustained by proper entries and vouchers as far as it is possible to follow them out without the presence of the pass books and an exhaustive examination.

The fact that a trial balance could be so promptly made, and everything check up correctly therewith, shows of itself that the books of the Bank are well kept up, and that they are in good shape.

RESOURCES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Loans—On Real Estate | $569,201.37 | |
| Personal and Collateral | 127,796.45 | |
| Bank Stock | 5,538.00 | |
| Town Loans | 22,500.00 | $725,035.82 |
| Real Estate—Banking House, Foreclosures, etc. | | $27,788.71 |
| Bonds at Par—Municipal | $80,000.00 | |
| Rail Road | 70,000.00 | $150,000.00 |
| Bank stock at par | | 39,500.00 |
| Taxes and expenses | | 696.43 |
| Rent account | | 120.82 |
| Bank certificates of deposition interest | | 40,000.00 |
| Cash on hand and in Palmer National Bank | | 24,597.42 |
| | | $1,007,639.20 |

LIABILITIES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Deposits | $964,929.47 | |
| Guaranty fund | 32,000.00 | |
| Undivided profits | 8,488.69 | |
| Interest | 2,221.04 | $1,007,639.20 |

GEORGE MAY.

The above-named committee, who were appointed by the trustees to make an examination of the bank, thought it advisable to have the work done by an expert before turning affairs over to a new treasurer, and accordingly engaged Mr. May. His report is a pleasant send-off for Treasurer Moore, though it was only what was expected by those who are acquainted with the affairs of the bank and with Mr. Moore's clean-cut methods of work. In their report to the trustees the committee say: "Our instructions to Mr. May were to make the most thorough examination possible without calling in the depositors' passbooks, which we understand was not contemplated in the appointment of this committee. The report of the examiner would seem to be a sufficient answer to any criticism which may have been made with reference to the management of the bank."

Sermon by Rev. S. T. Frost.

At the Baptist church last Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Frost preached a most excellent sermon on "Christian Consolation," taking for his text Deut. 32:31—"Their rock is not as our rock, even our enemies themselves being judges." The speaker said:—

When Moses desired to behold the glory of God by looking at the face of God he was told, "Thou canst not see my face; for there shall no man see me and live." But we may describe God by the use of metaphors. We call him a sun and a shield, but no more striking figure can be used than that of a rock.

This metaphor refers to Himself and also His attitude towards His children. The rock is ever the emblem of strength; the giant tree of the forest appears to be as strong, but the wind roots it up and the storm levels it in its fury. Not so with the rock, the foaming waters of the ocean may dash against it in all their fury, but they are hurled back into the sea, and the rock remains and rears its head in defiance. How true of our God; He is the perfection of strength, all power belongs to Him; as He has manifested in the works of creation, "he speaks and it is done, he commands and it stands fast."

The rock is an emblem of stability. The traveler to ancient cities is directed to relics of former greatness, but science and art cannot stand the effacing influence of time. How many cities, palaces, monuments and temples have perished, but the rock Horeb remains the same as when the chosen tribes encamped around it, and out of its sides gushed the cooling stream when smitten by the rod of Moses. So God is distinguished for His stability. He is of one mind and never changes; as He said by the mouth of the Prophet Malachi, "I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed." Of God the Son we are assured, "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today, and forever."

The rock is an emblem of perpetuity, a faint representative of eternity. Every earthly thing with which we have to do is subject to change and decay. Earthly kingdoms, family relatives pass away and are known only as facts of history, but not so with the rock. "The Old Man of the Mountain," so called, has looked down on the Pemigewasset valley during the past centuries, long before the red man gazed with awe at his rocky profile or the pale faces found the beauties of his surroundings. How much like our God. He must ever endure, for, "before the mountains were brought forth, or even thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God."

If such be a glimpse of the character of God, we naturally ask what must He be in regard to His children.

He is a rock of defence. The security of Gibralter as a fortress is the fact of its being a rock; and properly provisioned, its garrison may smile at every effort made to disposess England of it. What perfect security to the Christian is his God. Paul may well ask the question, "If God be for us who can be against us?" God is also the foundation upon which every Christian is building his hope of Heaven. As the rock is the solid foundation upon which we erect our dwellings, that they may be secure in time of flood and storm, so the promises of God's word, which are founded on the immutability of his character, are the basis of a good hope of eternal life.

God is ever a rock of shelter and shade to His children. In this world they are pilgrims, and as such they are exposed to storms and great heat, as says Peter, "Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you." In the sorrows of life which come to us there is no true refuge but God, who becomes as "the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

God is also the rock of supplies to every believer. Israel in the desert was ready to perish with thirst but Moses smote the rock and the cooling stream issued forth. Out of the fissure of the rock they gathered wild honey for food. Our spiritual wants will be many and must be supplied or we perish, but in the end we have an abundant supply, for "every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of Light."

But our text makes a comparison. I suppose there are two classes of characters, the friends and enemies of God, and the enemies of God are to be the judges, and how shall they judge? By experience. What a change has been that of the child of God, "from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God." What new principles have been implanted in him by conversion and what evils have been removed. To such an experience the unbeliever is a stranger.

We may judge by enjoyments. The peace, comfort, hope and bliss that comes into the life of the child of God, which gives him a foretaste of heaven, is all unknown to the ungodly.

The final test is the trying honr of sickness and death. What perfect security in God, what hope for the future, what calm resignation to the Divine will. The ungodly are satisfied of this and admit there is no hope like that of the Christian. When the wicked Balaam, for hope of gain, stood up to curse Israel, God gave him a view of the future of his people and he exclaimed, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his." This confession holds good to-day, and may the Lord help us all to live the life of the righteous, so that the words of the text may be the true language of our heart.

Who Will Get Them?

The applications for licenses have been filed with the selectmen, and are 17 in number, including five druggists. Of the remaining twelve four are hotels,—two in Palmer and one each in Three Rivers and Thorndike. The list is: Palmer—L. W. Caryl & Co., John Madden, M. D. Sullivan, T. J. Chalk & Bro., E. R. Pierce & Co.; Three Rivers—Honora A. Dunn, Mary Hanly & Co., John F. Hartnett & Co.; Thorndike—T. J. Clifford & Co.; William Lawton & Bro, Michael Roche; Bondsville—Jerry Shea. The druggists are LeGro & Lynde and O. P. Allen at Palmer, Thomas Ln. Deslauriers and Chas. E. Mason at Three Rivers, and A. P. Adams at Thorndike. The applicants outside of the present holders in this village are John Madden and Chalk & Bro., the former for a license in the Feeney building on the corner of Main and Central streets, and the latter for one in the place in the Cross block now occupied by M. D. Sullivan & Co., who are to go to the Nassowanno House.

---

Paul Fisher has moved his family to Fitchburg.

Mrs. A. E. Hills is painting her house on Squier street.

Fred Winter of Boston is making his parents a visit.

Dr. John Wilbur, a former resident, was in town Monday.

H. P. Longley and wife of Westboro are guests of W. A. Weld.

Cold soda is now on draught at the drug store of LeGro & Lynde.

The Mission Band of the Baptist church is arranging for a fair in the near future.

Deputy Sheriff Brainerd has had his residence connected by telephone this week.

O. P. Allen is suffering with a lame arm, the result of a fall Wednesday morning.

LeGro & Lynde have a new drug clerk in the person of Edward C. Gould of Ware.

The Palmer Tailoring Company is to remove its business to the Lawrence block.

Mrs. H. B. Knox and daughter have returned from their visit to Wakefield, N. H.

Miss Mabel McQuaid is doing the bookkeeping in Thompson's Central street market.

Dr. H. H. Eayrs will remain with Dr. Cross at his dental office through the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Flynt start May 4th for a visit of a couple of weeks at the World's Fair.

Mrs. Avery of Syracuse, N. Y., has been spending a part of the week with Mrs. C. E. Fish.

F. E. Sedgwick and wife of Boston are spending a vacation of several weeks in town.

The ice cart of H. A. Northrop has commenced its visits to some of the business places.

Alanson Whitcomb of Keene, N. H., spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Maria Lawrence.

H. E. Wilkins of Milford, N. H., was the guest of his brother, Dr. G. H. Wilkins, the first of the week.

The Woman's Relief Corps has sent a box of supplies valued at $30 to the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea.

The J. K. Knox farm on the road to Thorndike was sold at auction Monday to Wilson Lawrence for $3100.

C. A. Brown & Co. have the contract to heat the Congregational parsonage, and will put in a hot-air furnace.

Rev. Mr. Jenkins and family have secured rooms and board in the family of Dea. George Hastings on Pleasant street.

G. A. Moore was called to Norwich last Friday by the severe illness of his mother, who is now better, however.

The annual meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association, called for Tuesday evening, was postponed for two weeks.

Mrs. Anna Barlow and daughter of Worcester are visiting Mrs. Barlow's mother, Mrs. Susan Hunt on Pine street.

Saunder's harness shop on Main street has been closed on account of financial difficulties, the second time in its existence.

Marcus D. Sullivan & Co. have bought the furniture of the Nassowanno House and have taken a lease for a term of years.

M. E. Purrington of Shelburne Falls, a recent graduate of Childs' Bussiness College, is employed in the office of F. F. Marcy.

The pulpit of the Congregational church was occupied last Sunday by H. B. Knox, who preached a very acceptable sermon.

An absolute divorce has been granted Mary Decker of Palmer from Charles Decker of Brandon, Vt., for excessive intoxication.

D. B. Collity has been on the sick list a part of this week, and the transfer of the mails has been attended to by F. E. Cady.

G. M. Atkins & Co., stone contractors, have been awarded extensive contracts near Wellesley by the Boston and Albany road.

Conductor Sedgwick was in Boston three days the first of the week to have his throat examined, and was told that it is doing well.

A company of college boys entertained the waiting crowd at the passenger station Monday morning by a variety of college songs.

Rev. F. W. Betts of Syracuse, N. Y., a former pastor of St. Paul's Universalist church, was the guest of C. E. Fish Tuesday night.

Miss Marsh, one of the assistant teachers in the high school, has been sick this week, and Miss Helen Cobb has been taking her place.

The frogs have begun to peep in the marshes, and all that is now needed to make a genuine spring is a hand-organ man and a monkey.

Miss Julia Allen has been teaching Mrs. Leach's scholars in the grammar school building this week, she having been ill with the grippe.

Two large snakes were killed on the hill near Blodgett's greenhouses Wednesday by James Dewey, the largest measuring 5 feet and 2 inches.

"Uncle" Dan Matteson, who a few weeks ago was reported as dead of pneumonia, is once more about the streets apparently as hale and hearty as ever.

The Worcester Technology ball team took supper at the Converse House Saturday evening on its way from Amherst after beating the college team there.

George Lee, the painter who fell from a ladder last Friday forenoon, was not seriously hurt, and was at work again with the loss of only one day's time.

The ball of the Young Men's Social Union of Thorndike will be held in the opera house next Thursday evening, with music by Brigham's Orchestra of Marlboro.

The annual meeting of the fire department will be held at the engine house next Wednesday evening, at which time every member is expected to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hastings have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Mary E., to William H. Mason, which will occur Tuesday evening, May 2d, at 7.30.

Frank Peck of Watertown, N. Y., has a position as clerk with E. A. Buck & Co., and will move his family to the house on Maple street owned by Mrs. Maria Hatch.

Improvements have commenced at Overlook Farm, the fence next the highway in front of the dwelling having been removed and the grading of the grounds commenced.

Yesterday was a day which would have delighted Mark Twain in his search for specimens of New England weather. There was rain, snow, hail and sunshine mixed, though very little of the latter.

Lieut. Peary's Esquimo dogs were at the passenger station for some time Tuesday morning waiting for their transfer from one train to another, and attracted considerable attention as they were tied on the platform.

The county tax for 1893 has been apportioned as follows: Brimfield, $567; Hampden, $510; Holland, $113; Ludlow, $1106; Monson, $2581; Palmer, $3346; Wales, $369; Wilbraham, $1021. Palmer pays $515 more than last year.

At the Baptist church Sabbath morning the pastor will preach on the "Christian's Marching Orders." In the evening at seven o'clock he will preach on "Angelic Joy Over the Conversion of Sinners." Praise service preceding the sermon.

The school committee is considering the applications of several candidates for the position of superintendent of schools, and hopes to engage a satisfactory person before long, so as to get the new system into working order as soon as possible.

Mrs. Charles Robinson, formerly of Belchertown now of Kansas, spent Sunday at the Converse House on the way to her old home. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were among the early settlers of Kansas, and Mr. Robinson was the first governor of that state.

The Odd Fellows will celebrate the seventy-fourth anniversary of the founding of the order next Sunday, and in the afternoon Rev. S. T. Frost will preach to them in the Baptist church, the public being invited to the services. Music will be furnished by a quartette.

James P. Galleher of this place and Miss Mary A. Cashin of Springfield were married Tuesday at the cathedral in that city, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Fr. Conaty with a high nuptial mass. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

A New York mail bag which was thrown off the 1.13 east-bound express at this station last Saturday afternoon was badly chewed up by striking a post and falling under the wheels of the train, the contents being scattered along the track for some distance toward Blanchardville.

A new grocery store will be started next week in the south store of W. H. Hitchcock's block on Central street by Thompson & Bannister, the members of the firm being W. H. Thompson and Charles H. Bannister, both young men, the latter for some time past in the employ of W. E. Stone.

Mrs. O. F. Benedict of Glendale is the first to come forward with curiosities in the shape of spring hen fruit. She has a hen noted for producing eggs of large dimensions and brings one to the JOURNAL office this week measuring 8 by 6 3-8 inches in circumference and 3 inches long. However, hens are liable to make mistakes, as Mrs. Benedict shows another egg laid by the same hen measuring 2 11-16 by three inches, and only one inch long.

The King's Daughters did not have a very large attendance at their CC supper in the Universalist church last Friday evening on account of the weather, but will met about $15. After the supper there was an entertainment consisting of music and recitations, and a social time. The supper menu was:

| | |
|---|---|
| Cold Clapper | Tongue. |
| Cordial Cheer | Coffee. |
| Crystal Clear | Water. |
| Cereal Compounds | Bread. |
| Cucumbers Cured | Pickles. |
| Cambridge Clams | Beans. |
| Colored Crystal | Cocoa. |
| Churned Cream | Butter. |
| Cuisine Compounded by Competent Cooks | Cake. |
| Country Cousins' Comfort | Doughnuts. |
| Chicago Critter | Ham. |

A good story is told of two young men who attended the Galleher—Cashin wedding in Springfield Tuesday. They spent the day in Springfield and arrived at the station at night just in time to hear the train crier call out something about a train for Worcester and Boston. As it was just the leaving time of the train reaching here at 8.36 they naturally supposed that it was their train which was in waiting, and got aboard, only to find after starting that it was the belated express and did not stop at Palmer. They went through to Worcester and reached home at 1.45 the next morning.

Palmer's lovers of horseflesh are naturally sharp, and the story of one of them is too good to lose. He commenced about six years ago, losing $175 in the first venture he made. Since then he has been buying and selling, trading at times, never having but one animal, the one he drove, on hand, and a few days ago concluded that he would do without a horse longer, selling the one he had. He has kept a strict account of his transactions, and found on reckoning up that he was about $57 better off than when he started, besides having had the use of a horse for six years, and still he does not consider himself a horse sharp, either.

At the adjourned meeting of the trustees of the Palmer Savings Bank last Saturday afternoon Henry W. McGregory of Springfield was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the present treasurer, L. E. Moore, and it was voted to keep the bank open until 4 p. m., an hour later than at present. Mr. McGregory, the treasurer-elect, is now connected with the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., but was for many years in the Springfield Institution for Savings, and comes with the highest recommendations as to character and qualifications for the position. He expects to enter upon his new duties next Wednesday.

The tickets for the entertainment of the Firemen's Relief Association at the opera house next Wednesday evening are selling well, and the entertainers will be greeted with a large audience. The programme will be:

Overture—"America," ..... Bendix
Philharmonic Orchestra.
Song—"Yes, Let me like a Soldier Fall," From Maratana ..... Wallace
Mr. Henry F. Trask.
Xylophone Solo ..... Muller
Mr. T. Carr, Jr.
Reading—"Country Sleighing." Orchestral Accompaniment.
Miss Lillian Pierce.
Gavotte—"Beauty's Cunning." ..... Czibulka
Philharmonic Orchestra.

"The Angel's Lilly," Rev. Russell H. Conwell, L. L. D.

Trombone Solo—Air Varie ..... Legendre
Mr. S. Greene.
Reading—"The Innocent Drummer ..... Adams
Miss Lillian Pierce.
Tarentella—"Farosette" ..... Arkili
Philharmonic Orchestra.

At the meeting of the Natural History Society Monday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. W. H. Stowe; vice president, O. P. Allen; secretary and treasurer, George W. Cross; directors, Miss Flora Studley and Byron Shanks. These votes of thanks were passed: To Mr. Holden of Springfield for his lecture on geology; to the people of the town for their generous support of all enterprises of the society; to the district court of Eastern Hampden for the use of the court room; to the retiring secretary, Miss Addie Rogers, for her services the past year, and VOTED:—That the Natural History Society extend its sincere thanks to the members of the Palmer Dramatic Club, under the direction of Mr. A. W. Weld, for its artistic rendering of "Placer Gold," and to the members of the orchestra, under the management of Mr. M. D. Nicholson, for the very acceptable music furnished on the same occasion. And that a copy of this action of the society be published in the Palmer JOURNAL and Palmer Herald.

BONDSVILLE.

O. A. Parent has a Columbia.

Mrs. Henry Hobson is on the sick list.

Willie Mellen has a new bicycle, the Hartford.

Rob Shumway is out after a seige with the measels.

Mrs. John Carmody has been very sick with measels.

Harry Ryther made a flying visit to Northampton Tuesday.

The Wilbraham team plays Saturday with the Bondsville team.

Mrs. Hobson of Ludlow is the guest of her brother, Henry Hobson this week.

Miss Jessie Ryther has returned from Springfield, where she has been stopping the last few months.

The Bondsville grammar school base ball club defeated the Thorndike intermediates last Friday 14 to 10.

George Aldrich, who went to Lowell Saturday to be married, is expected home this week with his bride.

A young child of Arthur Glaster died Tuesday with lung fever and another one is very sick with typhoid fever.

Mrs. E. A. Newell of Springfield, who has been spending a few days with her cousin, Mrs. E. E. Ryther, returned to her home Tuesday.

The Bondsville grammar school base ball club and the Thorndike and Three Rivers clubs are trying to form a league to play this summer.

The best joke of the season happened Tuesday night, when John Moriarty arrested a fellow near the depot whom he thought was one of the Ware tramps. The man told him he was at work on the road for Tim Clifford, but Moriarty would not believe him, so he took him to Clifford and made him show papers from the roadmaster in Springfield to prove that he sent him here to work.

THORNDIKE.

James McKelligett and family are to move to Warren this week.

A base ball club has been organized by the scholars of the grammar school.

The new schedule of working hours for the summer months went into effect two weeks ago.

A few sporting people from this place will attend the athletic exhibition at Monson this evening.

Jerre Flynn and wife and the Misses Mary, Joe, Maggie and Katie Flynn are to move to Florence.

The prosecuting committee is making things quite hot for suspected liquor sellers in this place.

Walter McIntire left here on Monday for Northfield, where he is to learn the carriage painting trade.

A new well is being sunk near the halfway house by the Thorndike Co. Mr. Fortune is doing the work.

The Columbian brass band is contemplating purchasing a new set of instruments in the near future.

The Young Men's Union will hold its dance at Palmer next Thursday evening, with music by the Marlboro Orchestra.

The Misses Murphy and Miss Mary Moynahan returned Tuesday after a visit with friends in Holyoke for a few days.

John Fay and Michael Holden have new arrivals in their homes in the persons of baby boys, which came to them during the week.

It is rumored that John Bedford, formerly of this place, but who moved away some time ago, is to return and take charge of the No. 2 mill weaving room.

The Thorndike Company is to build a new house for its agent. It is said it will cost about $10,000. If this is erected it will be the first house built here in two or three years.

Eddie Veniaugh of this place, who is now at Hinsdale, N. H., and who at one time was considered dying from the effects of a cancer, is recovering, and it is thought will be restored to health again.

M. J. Walche, proprietor of Walche's Scenic Opera Co. of Boston, was in town on a short stay Wednesday, visiting his sister, Mrs. Samuel Sargent. The company may possibly appear here some time in May.

Joseph Lucier and Miss Mungo were married by Father Marchand at the French Catholic church at Three Rivers on Wednesday morning. Both are well known here, and their friends wish them much happiness.

Parties from South Hadley and other places were in town recently after help for mill work. Thorndike has always had a reputation of having first-class mill help, and they will find no difficulty in securing employment.

The outlook for a first-class ball club in this place for this season is rather gloomy. As it now stands Thorndike is getting a deserted appearance, and it will in all probability be some time before it will recover from its present state.

Noca Olia, a Frenchman who had been employed to run the elevator at the No. 1 mill and who had only been at work a few days, fell with the elevator from the third or fourth story to the bottom this morning and was badly shaken up. It is thought he is injured internally. Dr. Bliss attended him.

At a recent meeting of the Thorndike Drum Corps the following officers were elected: Leader, M. Lontine; president, M. J. Roache; vice president, I. J. Gay; recording secretary, M. F. Kelliher; financial secretary, M. I. Longtine; treasurer, Jeremiah Sugrue; sergeant-at-arms, H. A. Gay; assistant sergeant-at-arms, E. Longtine; board of directors, E. Longtine, H. A. Gay, M. J. Roache, John Roache and William Laplant.

The Strike Unsettled.

There remains no change in the state of affairs between the strikers and the Thorndike Company. The strikers are leaving town and are going to work in other places, and should a settlement be brought about even at this time it would be impossible to start up the machinery in full, not only in the weaving department but in other rooms, the help having gone away. The outlook is very dubious, especially for the business men. Thorndike for the past few years has not advanced one per cent in valuation; there has been no building; on the contrary it has decreased in valuation.

THREE RIVERS.

Alice Warriner is quite ill with the measles.

Mr. Chilson is making extensive repairs on his premises.

Louis Auger spent Sunday in Ware with his brother, Dr. Auger.

Miss Jennie Kendrick visited friends in Springfield last Monday.

Thomas McDougal is negotiating for a large farm in Belchertown.

Edward Milliken, a former resident, visited friends in town last Friday.

Miss Rosa Blanchard intends to spend the Sabbath in Springfield with her sister.

John Barker, who is now residing in Boston, spent Sunday with his parents here.

Rev. Mr. Cayer of Ware was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Forte a few days this week.

Charles Clark of Thorndike has accepted a position in the machine shop in the mill here.

F. A. Upham visited friends in Ware last Sunday, making the round trip on his bicycle.

Mrs. Fred Burlingame of Springfield spent a few days this week with her mother, Mrs. N. K. Story.

A large number of young people from here are planning to attend the entertainment at Palmer the 26th.

Louis Warriner has resigned his position in the beaming room in the mill, and will probably leave town.

F. W. Lavene has been appointed an officer to look after illegal liquor sellers, as a substitute for Mr. Barnes, who declined to serve.

M. P. Conway of Holyoke, dealer in pianos and organs, has been canvassing the town this week, and has sold several instruments.

Walter Trickett, who has been confined to his room for several weeks with an injured knee, is able to be out again, to the satisfaction of his friends.

Louis Percy has purchased a new carriage and harness this week from Springfield parties, and is now in possession of a team which is second to none in town.

Yesterday fifteen bodies were taken from the tomb in the French cemetery, where they had been laid during the winter, and interred in their respective resting-places.

Dr. Demarais wishes it understood that he and Leopold Demarais, who was before the court last week for dispensing drugs without being a registered pharmacist, are altogether two different persons.

Rev. Father Chenignay of Quebec, an ex-priest, lectured in the Union church Wednesday evening, and in the Baptist church yesterday. His talks were very interesting and were appreciated by large audiences.

Mr. Auger, who has been a clerk in Brown & Co's. store for some time, has resigned and is to occupy a more lucrative position in the store of G. C. Roberts at Holyoke. Mr. Auger is to spend Sunday with friends in Worcester and go direct from there to Holyoke to assume his new duties.

S. E. Coleman & Co. of South Framingham have opened a millinery and dry goods store in Wilson's block, and have a grand opening to-day and to-morrow, which will be well worth attending. The firm own and operate many large stores in other places, and are men of high business standing.

The girls of Miss Walker's school have organized a sewing club which is to be known as the "Bee and Butterfly Society," its object being to obtain instruction in sewing and fancy work, and also to be benefited by the sociability which the meetings will afford. The girls are to meet with Miss Walker Saturday afternoons at 3 o'clock, at her residence on East Main street.

F. E. Hillman, agent of the New London Northern road at this place, and Miss Alice I. Squiers of Belchertown are to be married at the home of the bride to-morrow afternoon. After the ceremony they will leave for Northampton, spending the Sabbath at Mr. Hillman's home. Mr. and Mrs. Hillman will go to housekeeping at once in the tenement on East Main street recently vacated by Daniel Buskey.

While two young ladies were walking home from church last Sunday evening they were much annoyed by being accosted by some drunken men in front of the post office, and are indignant that such a state of affairs prevails Sunday evenings. Many of the people of town are frequently discommoded in such ways, and all, especially the ladies hope the newly-appointed officers will be prompt in putting an end to such unseemingly conduct on Sabbath evenings.

Mr. McInnes, a student of Amherst College, who has supplied the pulpit of the Baptist church for about two years, has resigned his pastorate, his services terminating about the 16th of May. During Mr. McInnes' ministry here he was generally esteemed by the people of the town, and has always been very energetic in promoting the interest of the church. He was especially desirous to accomplish good things among the young people, who sincerely regret that he is about to sever his connections with this place.

Mrs. Louis A. Hodgerny received a visit last week from her father, whom she had not seen for nine years. He has just been appointed game and fish warden by the state commissioner of Vermont. Last fall he set apart five hundred acres of his own estate for a fish and game reservation, and aside from this he has eight hundred acres in one town and seven or eight farms in different parts of Vermont and New Hampshire. The care of all this land, besides his business of raising blooded horses, cattle and sheep, makes him a very busy man.

MARRIED.

At Palmer, 15th, by Rev. T. S. Donoghue, MICHAEL MANNING of Springfield and MARGARET WALLACE of Wilbraham.

At Three Rivers, 18th, by Rev. Fr. Marchand, JOSEPH LUCIER and Miss MUNGO.

At Springfield, 18th, by Rev. S. B. Conaty, JAMES P. GALLEHER of Palmer and MARY A. CASHIN of Springfield.

DIED.

At Palmer, 14th, Mrs. JOSEPH MERRIAM, 58.
At Palmer, 15th, ALONZO V. BLANCHARD, 87.
At Ware, 17th, CATHERINE BOYLE, 27.
At Ware, 16th, JANE M., wife of VIRGIL GUILD.
At North Wilbraham, 16th, JOHN SHEA, 17.
At North Wilbraham, 16th, MARY LYONS.

WANTED.—A housekeeper. Address A. B. W., Box 348, Palmer, Mass. 3*1

TO RENT—Tenement corner Park and Maple streets. Inquire of W. W. LEACH. tf-41

TO RENT.—To a small family, tenement of five rooms on South Main street, Palmer. 2*2 K. FEENEY.

WANTED—Salesmen; salary and expenses from start; steady work; good chance for advancement. BROWN BROS. CO., Nurserymen, 4-3 Rochester, N. Y.

NEAT STOCK FOR SALE—One pair oxen and several Jersey and high grade milch cows. GEORGE ROBINSON. Palmer, July 27, 1892. tf-18

TO RENT.—Farm of 200 acres in the south part of Belchertown, at Walker's crossing; or will rent the pasturing for 25 head of cattle for the season. Inquire of 3*1 MICHAEL O'CONNOR, Palmer.

BICYCLE FOR SALE.
Century Columbia Light Roadster Safety, '92 pattern, pneumatic tires, in A No. 1 condition. CHANDLER BROS., Palmer.

TO RENT—My late residence, corner Church and Pleasant streets; 9 rooms and furnace. Also two smaller tenements. Inquire of E. J. WOOD, tf-6 or MRS. O. M WOOD.

S. H. ELLERY, BRIMFIELD.
VETERINARY SURGEON AND DENTIST.
Late of Maryland Veterinary Hospital and Chicago Veterinary College. Treatment of all domesticated animals. Colts castrated. tf-1

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.
I wish to call the attention of the horsemen of Palmer and the surrounding towns to the fact that I have opened a blacksmith shop in the rear of E. Gaudes' shoe store, corner of Main and Thorndike streets, Palmer, where I am now prepared to do all kinds of wagon work, wood and iron. Particular attention will be given to shoeing difficult horses. I will do my work as cheap as any one in town, and as to the quality I shall let the work speak for itself. Give me a call. tf-1 JAMES HEALEY.

JUST ARRIVED!
A Carload of Seed Oats
Price 55 cents per bushel.
C. D. HOLBROOK,
PALMER.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE.

To the Inhabitants and other Persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Palmer for the Year 1893:

The Assessors of the Town of Palmer hereby give notice to the inhabitants of said town, and all other persons liable to pay taxes therein, that they will receive at the Town House, Monday, first day of May next, the valuation of estates, and all persons liable to be taxed in said town are hereby notified to bring in to us true and perfect lists of all Polls (males twenty years old and upwards), and schedules and estimates of the Personal and Real Estates for which they are liable to pay taxes in said town, possessed by them on the first day of May next.

MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE.

Any Mortgagor or Mortgagee of Real Estate situated within this town may bring in to the undersigned Assessors, within the time above specified, a statement under oath, of the amount due on each separate lot or parcel of such Real Estate, and the name and residence of every holder of an interest as a Mortgagor or Mortgagee therein. When only a part of the property described in any mortgage is situated within this town, an estimate of the amount of the mortgagee's interest in such part; or when a recorded mortgage includes for one sum two or more estates or parts of an estate, an estimate of the amount of the Mortgagee's interest in each estate or part of an estate shall be given in such statement.—Chapter 175 of the Acts of 1882.

CHAPTER ELEVEN OF THE PUBLIC STATUTES.

SECTION 14. "When any person has an interest in taxable real estate, as holder of a duly recorded mortgage, given to secure the payment of money, the amount of which is fixed and certain, the amount of his interest as Mortgagee shall be assessed as Real Estate in the place where the land lies; and the Mortgagor shall be assessed only for the value of said Real Estate after deducting the assessed value of all such Mortgagee's interests therein. When such property is situated in two or more places, the amount of the Mortgagee's interest to be assessed in each place shall be proportioned to the assessed value in the respective places of the mortgaged Real Estate, deducting therefrom the taxable amount of prior mortgages, if any, therein."

SECTION 15. "If any holder of such a mortgage fails to file in the Assessors' office a statement under oath of all his estate liable to taxation under the preceding section, including a statement of the full amount remaining unpaid upon such mortgage and of his interest therein, the amount stated in the mortgage shall be conclusive as to the extent of such interest; but the Mortgagee's interest in such Real Estate shall not be assessed at a greater sum than the fair cash valuation of the land and structures thereon or affixed thereto; and the amount of a mortgage interest in an estate that has been divided after the creation of such mortgage shall not be required to be apportioned upon the several parts of such estate, except as provided in sections eighty-one to eighty-three inclusive."

SECTION 16. "Mortgagors and Mortgagees referred to in the two preceding sections shall, for the purpose of taxation, be deemed joint owners until the Mortgagee takes possession; and until such possession is taken by the first Mortgagee, the Assessors or the Collector of Taxes, upon application to any one of them, shall give to any such Mortgagee or Mortgagor a tax bill showing the whole tax on the mortgaged estate and the amount included in the valuation thereof as the interest of each mortgagee and of the Mortgagor respectively. If the first Mortgagee is in possession he shall be deemed sole owner; and any other mortgagee in possession shall be deemed joint owner with prior mortgagees."

When a statement in conformity to the law above quoted is brought in, the Real Estate therein returned will be assessed under sections 14, 15 and 16 of Chapter Eleven of Public Statutes. But in cases where the Mortgagor of the Real Estate has agreed in writing to pay all taxes assessed thereon, no statement or return is required from either Mortgagee or Mortgagor, unless requested by the Assessors in writing.

H. T. BISHOP, C. S. SMITH, JOHN O. HAMILTON, } Assessors of Palmer.

Palmer, Mass., April 19th, 1893. 2-3

THE BEST
BRADLEY FERTILIZER.
C. D. HOLBROOK, Palmer.

| | |
|---|---|
| BEANS. | Large Lima, 30c quart. |
| | Black wax, 25c quart. |
| | Horticultural pole, 25c quart. |
| | Boston favorite or cranberry, 25c. quart. |
| | Golden wax, (dwarf) 25c quart. |
| | Six weeks, (dwarf) 20c quart. |
| Peas.

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 21, 1893.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

MONSON.

The Y. M. C. A. Convention.

The Y. M. C. A. of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, comprising the eighth district, held a district conference here from last Friday morning till Sunday evening, inclusive. The convention was of unusual interest, and a great deal of personal work was used which led to good results. The convention was characterized by the united and earnest work of each delegate. The meetings Friday morning were poorly attended, but nevertheless were very interesting. In the evening there was a very interesting talk on "The value of the Young Men's Christian Association to the Community," by Mr. Alexander Millar of Boston. Saturday morning an able paper was read by Emil Weissbrod of Greenfield on "The success of an Association Dependent on Effective Committee Work," also a paper by E. T. Bates of Holyoke on "The Possibilities of District Work." In the afternoon "Opportunities for personal work" was discusssed by C. F. Powilson of Springfield, and "The Different Phases of Association Work" were discussed by E. N. Huntress of Westfield, Geo. N. Hale of Northampton, James Vinson, Springfield, and T. P. Bond of Springfield. F. S. Hoyt of the Amherst Agricultural College read an interesting paper on "College Work," and Lucius E. Ladd, Jr., of Springfield, one on "Boy's Work." In the evening at Memorial Hall the question drawer was handled by Mr. Lotze, after which there was a gymnastic exhibition by students from the training school at Springfield, consisting of club and torch swinging, exercises with dumb-bells, wands, etc. Sunday morning the pulpit at the Congregational church was occupied by E. N. Huntress of Westfield, and G. E. Lotze, at the Methodist Messrs. E. P. Dyer and G. E. Day, at the Universalist, Messrs. Bond, Hoyt and Stevens. In the afternoon simultaneously there was a woman's meeting at the Congregational church led by Mr. Dyer, a boy's meeting at the Methodist church led by Mr. Day, and a young men's meeting in Memorial Hall. At six in the evening there was a union consecration meeting at the Methodist church, led by Mr. Bond, and at 7.30 at the Congregational church the final service. At this service the large auditorium was packed, and the meeting opened with a praise service conducted by E. Porter Dyer; then the meeting was given into the hands of Asst. State Secretary G. E. Lotze, who called on each delegate present for a few words, after which Rev. W. H. Marble and Rev. F. S. Hatch each made short addresses. The meeting closed in the manner customary in the Y. M. C. A. meetings, the young men taking hold of hands and singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds. About 15 conversions have been brought about, and much general good accomplished.

Adjourned Town Meeting.

The adjourned town meeting Monday was called to order by J. P. Herlihy, Jr., and the following business was transacted: The committee, consisting of Rev. J. F. Lee, George C. Flynt and A. D. Ellis, to see about enlarging the Green street school house, after careful consideration thought it advisable not to raise it at present, as it would involve an expense larger than that of the original cost of the building; $250 was appropriated for the transportation of scholars to the public schools; all the money received from the state and corporation taxes not appropriated for other use was voted to be added to the miscellaneous fund. The following town officers were chosen: Surveyors of lumber, A. H. Danforth, J. N. Graves; measurers of wood, Charles W. King, H. C. Norcross; field driver, W. G. Meacham.

Miss Rose Pease has a new bicycle.

Marcus Beebe is driving a fine new horse.

Harry T. Chapin is out with a new bicyle.

Mrs. George Burdick has gone to Troy to work.

Salena Orcutt is recovering from her recent illness.

Labor is reported scarce in town this spring.

Robert McMaster was ill with the grippe last week.

Miss Nellie Taft is visiting her uncle, Rev. James Tufts.

Arbutus has begun to bloom in warm, sunny places.

Senator Cushman is slowly recovering from his illness.

Superintendent Wood spent Sunday at her home in Springfield.

Albert Gould is employed in E. J. Hughes's store on Main street.

Mrs. Harriet Rogers is having serious trouble with her eyes.

Mrs. Nettie Lyman returned to her home in Vermont this week.

Henry Morris has gone to Wilbraham for a year's job on a farm.

It is reported that Mrs. Darling is to engage in tomato raising.

Rufus Stebbins of Boston has been in town for a few days this week.

Murdock McPherson has taken a position cutting stone at Worcester.

Miss Hattie Shumway, employed at the south shop, has the measles.

Miss Grace Blackford is visiting her uncle, L. P. Blackford, at Waltham.

W. G. Meacham is to have charge of a part of the roads in town this year.

P. S. Anderson has taken a position as gardener for Miss E. R. Holmes.

Myron E. Wright has taken a position as clerk in G. L. Keeney's drug store.

Marcus T. Wood has sold a piece of land near Silver Street to Francis .

Marcus Keep Post, G. A. R., will hold it in Memorial Hall next Monday evening.

Stamp collecting seems to be very popular in town at present by both old and young.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bradway of Willimantic spent Sunday with friends in town.

The W. N. Flynt Granite Co. will furnish granite for the Ware high school building.

Frank Thompson intends building soon on his lot recently purchased on Wales street.

A. T. Robinson, who has been seriously ill at college at Albany, is much improved.

Mrs. W. N. Flynt has been seriously ill with the grippe this week, but is improving.

The W. N. Flynt Granite Co. has commenced building its large barn at the quarry.

Station Agent Stiles's successor, Mr. Thompson, assumed his new duties this week.

Miss Fannie Marshall has left the south shop and returned to her home at Silver street.

George Harvey has commenced on the woodwork of Robert Lewis's house on Pearl street.

David Maney has finished his duties as juror and has resumed his work at the quarry.

Trainer Peterson, formerly with E. F. Morris, is now employed driving for Arthur Fosket.

Miss Roach of Springfield was the guest of her father, Thomas Roach of North Monson, this week.

Geo. E. Tucker's milk cart presents a fine appearance, having just come out of the paint shop.

Many of the townspeople attended the installation of Rev. F. L. Jenkins at Palmer Wednesday.

Mrs. C. H. Bruce has been engaged as soprano at the Universalist church for the coming year.

Mrs. Horace Squier has been spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. William Best, in Boston.

Mrs. A. D. Norcross was unable to lead the Congregational choir last Sunday on account of illness.

Rufus Stebbins, who has been studying physical culture in Boston for the past few months, is at home.

Edward Bates has taken a position with Ralph Clifford, having charge of Mr. Clifford's team work.

Miss E. Bliss of Norwich spent Sunday with her brother Frank, who is employed at Heimann & Lichten's.

The Young Ladies' Working Club has sent $20 to Miss Virginia Dox for missionary work in the New West.

All the flags on the schoolhouses were flung to the breeze Wednesday in commemoration of the battle of Lexington.

Arrangements are being made for another dance to take place in the near future. Brigham's orchestra will furnish music.

A letter from George Brainerd, who is at Clarcona, Fla., for his health, announces that he will soon start for his home.

Mrs. E. M. Nelson, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Bruce, has returned to her home in Palmer.

George A. Harvey is building Alice Darling's henhouses, which are quite commodious, one being 30 by 15 and the other 40 by 15.

The many friends of Mrs. Asa Leonard will be pleased to know that she has so far recovered from her long illness as to be out doors.

Owing to Mrs. R. C. Millar's illness with grippe, Mr. Millar's place on Gage's order cart was filled by D. B. Needham for a couple of days.

Miss Mabel Anderson, who has been spending the past three weeks in New York, Brooklyn and Springfield, has returned to Monson.

Mrs. C. H. Bruce's class in vocal music will furnish the singing at the regular service in the Universalist church next Sunday evening.

Solomon Squier now has the waterworks mentioned in a previous issue in running order, much to his own convenience and that of his tenants.

There will be a supper at the Universalist church this evening, consisting of hot biscuit and maple syrup, followed by an entertainment at 8 o'clock.

Liveryman Clifford is constantly adding to his already large stock. His last purchase is a pair of fine greys, five and six years old, own brothers.

Arthur Maguire of Brooklyn, who was so very sick with rheumatism this winter, has so far recovered that he is now visiting relatives at Stafford Springs.

Rev. F. S. Hatch attended the conference of the Eastern Hampden churches at Indian Orchard. Rev. James Tufts and Mr. Hall also attended as delegates.

Robert Wills has gone to Worcester, where he is employed as a barber on Front street, and would be pleased to see his many Monson friends there when in the city.

Efforts are being made to secure Flynt's Park for July 6th, for a union picnic of the Universalist Sunday schools of Monson, Palmer, Springfield and Westfield.

As carpet bugs have made their appearance, housekeepers will do well to begin sprinkling their woolens with turpentine, as a preventive against the marauders.

C. G. Thompson of Watertown is the new agent at the New London Northern station, taking the place of Agent Stiles, resigned. Mr. Thompson comes highly recommended.

G. C. Flynt has removed the fence in front of his new residence, which adds greatly to the appearance of the surroundings. Others on the same street are contemplating doing the same.

F. E. Handy is erecting a 10 by 40 foot henhouse, to which he proposes to add a structure 10 by 60 feet in the fall. He is to make a specialty of Plymouth Rocks and Brown Leghorns.

Many wonder why the rocks or boulders cannot be removed from the road across the Fay bridge at Palmer. It is dangerous to walk a horse through them, much less trot at even a dog pace.

It is expected that the pane of glass so long broken in the door at the Congregational church leading from the audience room to the Sunday school room is to be replaced by a new one early next month.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church had a very pleasant sociable Wednesday evening. The supper was excellent, and was folllowed by a short entertainment—reading, singing and games.

The ringing of the Congregational church bell last evening for fire brought out quite a crowd, but the blaze was only an old chimney in Green's block which had caught on fire, and did not amount to anything serious.

The Windsor Club as yet have not been successful in securing Denman Thompson to appear here in the "Old Homestead," but it is to be hoped that they will before the season closes. A full house would be given him.

Subscriptions for the care of lots in the cemetery have already been received by the secretary, and a goodly number is looked for. The commissioners suggest early contributions, so that they can better prepare for the season's work.

Tuesday evening at the Grange was called Patriot's night, and included several talks by the members, among them being a paper on "My trip to the G. A. R. encampment at Washington, and personal reminiscences of the late war," by G. M. Severy.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church held its monthly meeting Monday evening with Miss Augusta E. Fay. This society numbers 20 members, and its work is to raise $60 each year for the support of a Bible woman in India.

The concrete walks furnish a fine field for decorators in tobacco saliva, and the efforts of these artists are highly appreciated by the ladies. A beautiful and unique design in front of Fuller's store attracted the admiring attention of many passersby Sunday evening.

Owing to some dissatisfaction in regard to the appraisal of the seats at the Universalist church the sale which was to have taken place Tuesday evening was postponed one week, and the following committee chosen to readjust the prices: Arthur D. Ellis, Charles G. King and George Seymour.

Green's Hall has been suggested as a very proper place for a grammar school. It is well lighted and sufficiently large to accommodate all the scholars, and could be rented for a very low sum. Put up with some inconvenience for the present, and let us enjoy being out of debt for a season.

Sault Bros. will give an athletic exhibition in Memorial Hall this evening, consisting of weight-lifting by Sault Bros., sparring by McGavern and Root, Indian club swinging by J. Mack, boxing between White and Sullivan, bantam weights, and also between the twin brothers Owen and Frank Sisk.

In the death of James Gallivan, which occurred last Saturday, Monson loses one of its most respected Irish citizens. Mr. Gallivan came to Monson a poor boy, but by hard and faithful work he accumulated considerable property. A wife and three children and many friends mourn his departure.

Monson people have reason to feel proud of their prosperous condition, and at present everything points towards a bountiful year. Factories, straw shops, quarry, and in fact every industry in town running to its full capacity, and the hotel men never making so much money as at present. The farmers are ever contented, and when they can buy meal for less than cost they can make money.

HOLLAND.

Henry C. Brown has bought of Ellen M. Webber the Deacon Goodell farm, and now occupies the premises.

Only one school in town this term, and that in charge of Mrs. William L. Webber, who has taught in town for several years.

Christopher Vinton died last week Friday quite suddenly, it is supposed from dropsy. He had been out of health for several months.

Seven families have moved from near the center within the space of about six months, nearly all of them this spring, and no one has taken their places. Frank E. Dimmick, who has been engaged in the meat business for about two years, went this week to West Boylston.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Blodgett were very pleasantly surprised on the fifth inst., being the fortieth anniversary of their marriage, by seeing all their children and their only grandchild at home. Their stay was necessarily short, but they did not forget to leave tokens of their love and respect in the form of handsome presents, which were highly appreciated.

WEST WARREN.

Ethan T. Hall's drug store has been closed for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw have been visiting friends in Wales.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Barton are stopping for a few weeks in Millbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Cutler returned from their wedding trip Friday.

Misses Belle Howe and Bessie Sagendorph of East Brookfield spent Sunday with Miss A. E. Dodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Cambridge Moulton, and Mrs. Susan Smith and daughter, have been visiting at Mrs. Rufus Baker's.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McCrea gave a party Saturday evening, the occasion being the second anniversary of their marriage.

Peter Belare, while riding his bicycle in the mill yard at No. 4, lost control of it and brought up, man, wheel and all in the canal, but timely aid soon rescued him.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Lynch of Warren, while visiting at Mrs. Lynch's parents, Saturday, administered morphine tablets instead of glycerine by mistake to their infant child, which caused its death in a short time.

A young son of Mr. LaPlant, who worked in the cloth room of No. 1 mill, while trying to slip on a belt Monday morning had his sleeve caught in the belt and his hand twisted off and the arm torn from the shoulder.

WARREN.

Miss Fanny Strickland is spending the week in Burlington, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Clark and daughter have returned from Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Chadsey and daughter are spending a few days in New York.

Miss Ella Holman has resigned as teacher in the West Warren primary school.

The King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Albert Whitney next Thursday afternoon.

The ladies of the Congregational church met in the chapel this afternoon for the purpose of forming a ladies' auxiliary.

Prof. Sawyer of Easthampton will deliver an address on "Village Improvement," next Tuesday evening. It is hoped a large audience will be present.

The Choral Union gives its concert Monday evening in the town hall. It will be assisted by Mr. Sheehan of Boston, a noted tenor, the Severn stringed quartette of Springfield, and other soloists from Springfield, promising a very fine entertainment.

The community has been much saddened this week by the death of Carlotta, only child of Mrs. E. C. Morgan. Funeral services were held at the residence of Dr. J. W. Hastings, and the burial was in the family lot. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved mother, who is left quite alone.

The Village Improvement Society held its annual meeting in Grand Army Hall Tuesday evening and elected the following officers: President, Dr. J. W. Hastings, vice presidents, Mrs. A. J. Whitney, Miss Mary S. Hitchcock; secretary, D. G. Hitchcock; treasurer, Mr. Ward; with an executive committee of ten.

WILBRAHAM.

James King has recently received a gift of a fine gold watch.

Mrs. Olmstead and daghter have moved to Chicopee Falls this week.

C. E. Peck has purchased the Markham homestead for about $2000.

Mary Warner is spending a few days with her sister Clara in East Longmeadow.

Miss Chloe Hitchcock is spending some weeks with Mrs. Walter Hitchcock of Hampden.

Report says that Postmaster Pease is negotiating for the John M. Merrick homestead.

Dr. Horace Webber is recovering from his recent illness, and is able to resume his office practice.

Misses Helen and Mary Beebe have recovered from their recent severe attack of tonsilitis.

Dr. Damon of North Wilbraham has been attending Dr. Webber's patients during the illness of the latter.

The Grange quartette led the singing at the praise service in the Congregational church last Sabbath evening.

Irving Weatherbee started Thursday for Chicago, to attend the World's Fair, where he will remain untill July 1st.

Several Wilbraham people attended the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Calkins of Glendale, Wednesday.

Miss Baker was awarded the prize at the Demorest Silver Medal Contest in the Congregational church last Friday evening.

The Wilbraham Grange will have a Dickens Evening in the chapel of the Congregational church next Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Edwin Brewer has returned from a visit of several weeks with her daughter Emma in Chelsea, and son Avery in Worcester.

Rev. Mr. Herrick and family left for their new field of labor at Wakefield, Wednesday. Rev. Fayette Nichols, the new pastor of the Memorial church, is expected with his family the last of the week.

The Monday Club met with Miss Carrie Moody Monday evening. The next meeting will be with Mrs. M. S. Howard. Subject for discussion: "Orators of the Revolutionary Period of American History.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Mrs. G. Mitchie has been visiting Mrs A. L. Bell for a few days.

Fred Fletcher spent the Sabbath with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fletcher.

Miss Mary F. Fitzpatrick has severed her connection with the Collins Mfg. Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGrath are happy over the appearance of a fine baby girl.

The new issue of special delivery stamps have made their appearance in this place.

Miss F. Bassett of New Britian, Ct., visited Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Gates last Sabbath.

The Ladies' Society meets this evening in the church rooms, in charge of the young ladies.

The lecture which was to have been given Tuesday evening has been postponed till April 25th.

D. J. Cahill leaves Saturday for Holyoke, having given up his position with the Collins Mfg. Co.

Michael Manning of Springfield and Miss Margaret Wallace of this place were married Tuesday morning.

A number of the Masonic fraternity attended the exemplification of the work in Springfield Wednesday.

Favorable reports are heard from C. R. Merier, who is in Springfield city hospital. It is hoped a few weeks will see him out once more.

Miss Mary Lyons, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lyons, died Sunday at 3 p. m., after an illness of only a few hours. On Saturday the young miss was visiting at at neighbor's, and was taken with a slight chill. The death coming so sudden was a severe blow to the family. The interment was in Springfield Tuesday.

Johnnie Shea, aged 17, died last Sunday evening of bilious fever after two weeks' illness. The young man had only been in this country a short time and made his home with his two sisters. He was a general favorite with all, and had made numerous friends during his residence here. The interment was in Palmer on Tuesday.

The town has been for the past week overcrowded with tramps. It is about time the town fathers devised some scheme for the disposal of such persons, of a far different method than that now in vogue. A person is hardly safe to walk alone after dark, not knowing when or where they will run against a crowd of rough-looking and usually dissipated lot of toughs, and who are far from being at all reserved in their demands upon those they meet, resorting to all sorts of tramp tricks to satisfy their longings.

WARE.

The Merriam houses on Chestnut and Union streets are advertised to be sold at auction.

A few more liquor licenses have been applied for. There will no doubt be some disappointed ones.

The poor house is to be shingled and some remodeling done inside. Daniel G. Smith has the contract.

The "Joshua Simpkins" Company drew a big house on Monday evening. Good music and a good play are reported.

The Gas Company has a handsome portable gas tub and heater combined on exhibition at its store with Marsh Brothers.

The Ware Cadet Band, Eli Phaneuf, leader, has been engaged to furnish music for the G. A. R. post at Enfield Memorial Day.

William E. Stewart, who has been a long resident of the town, died on Thursday morning. He had been out of health for a long time.

Three auctions to-morrow — The John Kelley farm at 10 o'clock, the Mooney house on Maple street at 2, and the James O'Connor property at 4.

Rev. A. M. Osgoood occupied the Methodist pulpit for the first time on Sunday, and in the afternoon led the meeting at the Ware Christian Worker's room.

The Odd Fellows of Ware will celebrate the anniversary of Odd Fellowship next Tuesday evening with a musical and literary entertainment, to be followed by a dance in their lodge room.

The fire alarm rung in Tuesday afternoon was caused by the upsetting of a lamp in Rohan Bros.' cellar, and there was a lively scramble for a minute or two to get it out doors. There was but little damage done.

Catherine, aged 25, sister of Rev. James Boyle, died Monday at the home on Bank street. The funeral was held on Wednesday at 10 o'clock, a large number of priests and relatives from out of town being present.

John F. Robinson has taken a partner, F. J. Browning, in the furniture and hardware business, the firm being known as John F. Robinson & Co. The many friends of Mr. Browning are pleased to see him permanently located here.

Mrs. Jane M., wife of Virgil Guild, and mother of Dr. E. H. Guild, died suddenly of heart failure at her home on Pleasant street Sunday morning. She was a member of the East Congregational church, and the funeral was held Wednesday, Rev. A. B. Bassett conducting the services.

Chief of Police Shot.

The whole community was thrown into a state of great excitement last Saturday forenoon by the report that Chief of Police Maurice Fitzgerald had been shot by tramps at the barn of Austin Cummings on South street. A Frenchman at work for Mr. Cummings reported to the chief that there was a drunken man in the barn that he wanted removed. On going to the place the chief found a man whom he took outside, leaving him in charge of the Frenchman, while he returned to see if there were any others. On entering the barn he was met by a second man armed with a revolver. Fitzgerald knocked the man down, and immediately three shots were fired in quick succession by a third man. The Frenchman outside, when the first shot was fired, let his man go, who at once returned to assist his comrades in the barn. The three desperate men being more than a match for the chief knocked him down and kicked or jumped on him until he was helpless. They then left by the railroad track towards Palmer.

Chief Fitzgerald was taken to the office of Dr. D. M. Ryan, where Drs. Ryan, Auger and Yale dressed his wounds, after which he was taken to his home. It is not sure even yet that any of the bullets took effect on the chief, as none have been found, and the wounds on the head might have been made in some other way.

Immediately on the news of the assault reaching the street the selectmen had several special policemen sworn in, who started with about fifty volunteers to scour the surrounding country for the desperadoes. Dispatches were sent to all the neighboring towns, and Detective Munyan of Northampton was summoned and the case placed in his hands. The searchers returned and about 4 o'clock in the afternoon a fire alarm was rung from the engine house and a large force of able men was enlisted and taken out several miles from town, and the search was kept up to a late hour Sunday night without any satisfactory results, but little if any trace of the men being found. The selectmen have offered a reward of $300 for the arrest of the men.

The men were then heard of in Brimfield Sunday night. It is evident that they next went to Warren and, owing to their fear of being caught, were afraid to call at any house and must have become very hungry. This was probably the cause of the bold step taken Monday evening when one of them confronted the fireman of the Knowles steam pump works with a loaded revolver at about midnight and demanded his money or his life. The fireman had no money but the burglar did not take his life, but contented himself by taking his well-filled dinner pail instead. As soon as the man was gone the fireman rang in a fire alarm, and a large number of the Warren citizens turned out and made a hunt, but with no success.

The next heard of the trio was at West Brookfield Monday. Michael Long, who works for W. E. Rockwell, had commenced his daily labor when he saw a man standing near the barn in the field where he was engaged. Mr. Long went to the barn and said, "Good morning." The man responded in a similar manner. Just then two more men came out of the barn, brushing themselves to remove the hay from their clothing. The man who had spoken first said that he and his partners had been out during the night and had lain down in the barn for a couple of hours to rest themselves. They were told that there was no harm done. Mr. Long went back to the house, which is about an eighth of a mile from the barn. As soon as he described the men and told of the bruises on their faces, it was at once known that they were the assailants of Officer Fitzgerald. The alarm was given, and it was not long before the barn was surrounded with armed men. Nobody wanted to be first to enter, but finally Wm. Allen and Alonzo Gilbert entered. It was found that the birds had flown. In the meantime the news of the finding of the men had been telephoned and telegraphed to all the surrounding towns. Delegations from Ware, Warren, Palmer and all the Brookfields were soon in pursuit, and all the roads leading out of West Brookfield were patroled. All the high hills had watchmen stationed on them to overlook the surrounding country. Large forests surround West Brookfield, which gave the men their only hope of escape. They were last seen by a farmer who resides on the road from Brookfield to North Brookfield. They were then running in single file toward the northwest.

CARD.—To those who so kindly rendered us aid, by word and deed, especially Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, during the sickness and death of our mother, Mrs. Joseph Merriam, we would return sincere and heartfelt thanks.

MRS. W. J. EASTER.
N. R. HULETT.

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

Physicians Puzzled.

Many persons are unable to sleep on their left side. The cause has long been a puzzle to physicians. Metropolitan papers speak with great interest of Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent Indiana specialist in nervous and heart diseases, who has proven that this habit arises from a diseased heart. He has examined and kept on record thousands of cases. His New Heart Cure, a wonderful remedy, is sold at LeGro & Lynde's. Thousands testify to its value as a cure for Heart Diseases. Mrs. Chas. Benoy, Loveland, Colo., says its effects on her were marvelous. Elegant Book on heart disease free.

Recovers His Speech.

Alphonce Hemphling, of Summit township, Butler Co. Pa., made an affidavit that his twelve-year-old son, who had had St. Vitus Dance for twelve years, lost his speech, was completely cured after using three bottles of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and also recovered his speech. Thousands testify to wonderful cures from using it for nervous diseases, dyspepsia, nervous debility, dullness, confusion of mind, headache, etc. Four doses of this Nervine cured Mrs. W. E. Burns, South Bend, Ind., who has been suffering with constant headache for three months. Trial bottle and elegant book at LeGro & Lynde's. (4)

Thin or gray hair and bald heads, so displeasing to many people as marks of age, may be averted for a long time by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

It would be worth while for the ladies to bear in mind that if they take a gentle course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the spring, they will have no trouble with "prickly heat," "hives," "sties," "boils," or "black heads," when summer comes. Prevention is better than cure.

Many rise in the morning with a headache and no inclination for breakfast. This is due to torpidity of the liver and a deranged condition of the stomach. To restore healthy action to these organs, nothing is so efficacious as an occasional dose of Ayer's Pills.

For Over Three Months

my son suffered night and day with rheumatism; so much so that he was unable to feed himself. Your Sulphur Bitters cured him, and I am truly thankful to say they are an honest medicine.—MRS. W. H. CARLTON, wife of Deacon Carlton, First Baptist church, Winchester, N. H.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

The Postmaster

Winchester, Mass., says: "I am personally acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Carlton, and was astonished at the remarkable effects of your Sulphur Bitters in curing their son, and its large sale is undoubtedly due to the fact it is an honest medicine. I know of many others who have been cured by its use, and I do not think too much can be said in praise." Yours truly,
GEO. P. BROWN, P. M.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See adv. 8-53

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

At Palmer Grain Store.

—:CARLOAD OF:—

Coarse-Fine Salt.

PRICE LOW.

NEW STORE! NEW GOODS!

PAPER HANGINGS.

Browns, White Blanks, Flats, Satins, Bronzes, Gilts, Borders, Friezes, etc.

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE PAPER HANGING, PAINTING, ETC.

All orders filled in a thorough and workmanlike manner. F. S. MASON, Commercial Block.

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY AND MACHINE SHOP.

At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads. West of Depot.

MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE

At short notice and reasonable prices.
52 3m R. B. FRANCIS.

Piano Stools! Variety of styles and colors. $2.00 to $4.00 each. New lot just received. STONE, Palmer.

Ripans Tabules assist digestion.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. —Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

WALL PAPERS, Ceiling Decorations, —AND— PICTURE MOULDINGS In Good Style and Variety.

5,000 ROLLS OF WALL PAPER!

It is going fast but we want it to go faster and have just the styles and prices that will do it.

Can furnish a good paper hanger and house painter.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists,

Next to P. O. - - - PALMER, MASS.

DON'T EXPOSE YOURSELF

These deceitful spring days by going without an overcoat of some sort. Buy one of our spring overcoats as a safety guard against doctor's bills and perhaps death. Many a man has met an untimely end by being "Penny wise and pound foolish."

OUR SPRING OVERCOATS

are beautiful in design and material, fit well, stylish, and beyond all they are inexpensive.

| | |
|---|---|
| Spring Overcoats, | $ 6.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 7.50 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 10.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 12.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 13.50 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 15.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 18.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 20.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 25.00 |

You needn't pay any more for the best than the latter, nor you needn't expect to get anything that'll please you at any less than the former.

THE D. H. BRIGHAM CO.,

Makers and Retailers of Good Clothes for men and boys.

339—491 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., April, 1893.

Every color in velvet that ladies or dressmakers have occasion for in matching and in combining, even the choice shades of purple and green that are now so ungetable in the general market. We have nine distinct shades of purple and twenty-two of green, and we don't take into account the number of each in millinery velvets. Left aisle.

Three staple black dress fabrics, beautiful in texture, finish and in the shade of black, are being sold at prices too low to last. They are worth from 20 to 30 cents more a yard.

46-inch henrietta cloth, 65 cents a yard.
46-inch serge cloth, 69 cents a yard.
42-inch taffeta veloute, 79 cents a yard.

If you want samples sent you must write promptly. Left aisle.

Last week we sold more table linens, towels and napkins than ever were sold in a week before. It wouldn't be worth the telling only how could we otherwise emphasize the bigness of the fact.

This week we shall sell more than we did last week; for the simple reason that it is more widely known what we are doing.

To say that we are selling these staples at least twenty-five per cent below the best effort of anybody is putting it quite mild. We simply tell you the facts and leave you to act on your own notions. Right aisle.

This spring we wish to go on record as having made the lowest prices on bed spreads ever quoted in the history of Western New England.

Exaggeration is bad, but it is worse to tell truth, literally or conservatively, that appears exaggerated. That's our case with this sale.

What a story we might tell about it. The merits and cheapness of the quilts might be large, very large, and yet fall far below the truth.

The simple fact is that about 3000 bed spreads are going this week at prices that will cause many a good and conservative woman to hold up her hands in surprise. Right aisle.

Either flower or vegetable seeds, 3 cents a paper. List on request—list of bulbs with cultural directions, also. Basement.

FORBES & WALLACE
Main and Vernon streets.

FOR SALE.

GRASS SEEDS

OF ALL KINDS,

By the bag or bushel.

Palmer Grain Store.

BUILDING LOTS GIVEN AWAY.

For particulars inquire of

C. S. RUGGLES,
13-48 Three Rivers, Mass.

DRAPERIES.

Fancy Pongee Curtains.
36 inches wide.
3½ yards long.
Fringe top and bottom.
Printed in cross bar figures
And in a variety of colors.
Ecru and white grounds.
Very stylish and inexpensive.
$2.50 per pair.
STONE, Dry Goods.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell NURSERY STOCK. We grow all the best varieties, old and new, replace all stock that dies, and guarantee satisfaction. Highest salary or commission paid from the start. Write for terms. H. E. HOOKER CO., NURSERYMEN, Rochester, N. Y.
Established 1835. 4-1 Incorporated 1883.

AT HELLYAR'S.

CARPETS from 12½c to 63c per yard.

The cheapest carpet house in the state.

AT HELLYAR'S.

OIL CLOTHS at 25c, 35c and 50c

PER SQUARE YARD.

AT HELLYAR'S.

THE LARGEST LINE OF

NECKWEAR

TO BE FOUND.

AT HELLYAR'S.

A SUPERIOR LINE OF

Men's Working Shirts,

All sizes from 12 to 20.

AT HELLYAR'S.

AN OPAQUE SHADE

With a 12-inch flocked dado and good spring fixture, 35 cents.

AT HELLYAR'S.

A beautiful line of

New Spring Overcoats

Very Cheap.

AT HELLYAR'S.

YOUMAN, MILLER, DUNLAP, KNOX AND LAMSON & HUBBARD

SOFT and STIFF HATS.

AT HELLYAR'S.

THE MOST ECONOMICAL LINE OF LADIES'

Cotton Underwear

TO BE FOUND.

AT HELLYAR'S.

A NEW SPRING LINE OF

: : PANTS. : :

AN ELEGANT ASSORTMENT.

AT HELLYAR'S.

AS FINE A LINE OF

Wash Goods

AS CAN BE FOUND IN THIS SECTION.

AT HELLYAR'S.

A LARGE LINE OF

Trimming Silks, Velvets,

PASSAMENTERIES,

and all shades in percaline dress linings.

AT HELLYER'S.

Curtain Poles in ash, walnut, cherry and ebony, 19 and 25c.

RUSSELL H. CONWELL,

THE FAMOUS ORATOR.

Holden's Opera House,

Wednesday Evening, April 26.

TICKETS AT ALLEN'S DRUG STORE.

NEW SPRING DRESS GOODS!

New Pampas Cloths.

New Foulards.

New Puritan Shirtings.

New Ginghams.

New Prints.

New Cottons.

New Groceries.

∴ ∴ ∴ J. B. SHAW.

WE CLOSE TUESDAY AND THURSDAY EVENINGS AT 6.30.

150° Water White Oil 10c Gallon.

STONE, THE GROCER.
Palmer.

CARRIAGE WOOD WORK.

Having returned to Palmer, after an absence of thirty years, I wish to inform my old friends and the public generally that I am located in A. S. Campbell's Carriage Shop on South Main street, where I am prepared to do Carrriage Wood Work in all its branches.

13*50 G. W. CLARK.

SALESMEN!

We want more AGENTS

at home or to travel. Salary or commission. Cash advanced for expenses. Good territory for those who apply early. Write for terms.
R. G. CHASE & CO.,
8-52 23 Pemberton Sq., Boston, Mass.

COTTONS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Brown. | 42 inch. |
| Bleached. | 45 inch. |
| Half Bleached. | 46 inch. |
| 36 inch. | 9 quarter. |
| 40 inch. | 10 quarter. |

W. E. STONE,

DRY GOODS. CARPETS. NOTIONS.

There is no place like home —when Pearline is used in it. There is no place about home where Pearline can't be used. Pearline takes the hard work and drudgery out of—keeping a home clean. It is next to having the washing and cleaning done for you, and well done at that.

It washes everything that can be washed. It cleans paint, marble, carpets, hangings—in fact everything cleanable. It is a luxury in the bath. It is emphatically without harm to person or things. With Pearline you have rest; it rests with you to have Pearline.

Beware of imitations. 288 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

Rheumatism's Awful Work.

RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY DISEASE AND DYSPEPSIA BEING CURED DAILY.

Many Residents of Springfield and Vicinity Benefited.

Few people outside of the medical profession have any idea how many of the diseases we hear people suffering from are traced to the one source, excess of uric acid in the blood. "To find a dissolvent for this acid" said one of Springfield's most conservative physicians the other day, "seems to have been left to that hard and patient student, Dr. David Kennedy of Rondout, N. Y. In his preparation, Favorite Remedy, he has solved the mystery and to-day Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is being used by physicians and practitioners of medicine the world over for rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney, liver and urinary troubles, scrofula, eczema and the sicknesses women suffer from. Favorite Remedy dissolves the excess of acid in the blood, thus curing these dreadful and often times fatal diseases."

Perhaps no man ever suffered more with rheumatism than Mr. E. P. Tayer of East Nassau, N. Y. In a letter written by Mr. Tayer he says, "I was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for fifteen years so severe that I was supposed to be a cripple for life. I took many different remedies, and the best physicians I could find prescribed for me, but I grew worse, and I had about given up all hope of ever being cured, when Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was brought to my notice. I began its use with little faith that it would do me any good, but how different was the result, for I began to grow better slowly but surely and it was but a little while after I began its use that I was a well man. I have never had a pang of rheumatism since."

Mr. Tayer's recovery fairly electrified the little village of East Nassu, and to-day there is hardly a home there in which Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cannot be found.

No more glowing tribute was ever written of the merit of a preparation, than that of Lyman Crawford, our popular Main street druggist. In writing of Favorite Remedy, Mr. Crawford says, "For years I was afflicted with kidney disease in its most acute form. I tried different kinds of treatment and spent a great deal of money, only to find myself worse than ever. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy—I say it with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me—is the only thing that did me the slightest good. It gave me permanent relief. I am now well and strong. I have recommended this medicine to many people for kidney and urinary troubles and they all agree with me in saying that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has not its equal in the wide world for these distressing and often fatal complaints."

Scores of prominent men and women everywhere are as equally enthusiastic as Mr. Crawford. Commander James S. Dean of General Grant Post G. A. R., Rondout, N. Y., was declared to have chronic dyspepsia, and was cured by Favorite Remedy.

Rev. T. W. Hill, pastor of the Methodist church, Accord, N. Y., lends his name and testimony to its curative powers.

W. H. Morse, M. D., of New York city, and the Sisters of Charity, St. Mary's Female Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., say that they have realized the most satisfactory results from its use.

One of Dalton's most prominent physicians wrote that "in cases of persons recovering from the effects of la Grippe and for that run down and tired out feeling so often experienced in the spring, I have found no better tonic for brain, muscle and nerve, than Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy."

No more forcible remark was ever uttered as to the merit of an article than that of Mr. J. T. Harris, of Southboro, this state, at the Massasoit House the other evening in which he said, "I have struggled with dyspepsia for nine years. Up to the time I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, I tried any number of sarsaparillas, nervines and compounds, but they were no good. From the first dose of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I felt better, and it knocked dyspepsia right out of me, and I've not felt a trace of it since."—Springfield, Mass., Republican.

Did it ever occur to you that the judicious use of good paint on the outside of a house can materially increase the value of the building? Most of the increase is in fancy, of course—just in the appearance of the house—that's all. But what a difference one or two coats of paint can make, to be sure! Perhaps you have property you want to sell or rent and are thinking of painting it. You would like it to be a good and permanent job, but you don't want to spend any more money than you can help. Here is where the Chilton Paints prove themselves the most economical, as they are also the most enduring and weather-defying. They are well ground in pure linseed oil and turpentine drier, have a good solid body, and will be found to do as much work as twice the quantity of some paints, and do it better, too. Get estimates on one coat, two coats, and three coats of Chilton Paint. You rarely will need more than two coats, and where the house is in good condition and the color about the same as formerly used; you will be surprised to see how well one coat will look.

Sold by LeGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.
Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

YOU ought to see the UNLAUNDERED SHIRTS Stone is selling at 50c each or 6 for $2.75.

Them Flowers.

Take a feller 'at's sick and laid up on the shelf,
All shaky, and ga'nted and pore—
Jes all so knocked out he can't handle hisself
With a stiff upper lip any more;
Shet him up all alone in the gloom of a room
As dark as the tomb, and as grim,
And then take and send him some roses in bloom,
And you can have fun out o' him!

You've ketched him 'fore now—when his liver was sound
And his appetite notched like a saw—
A-mockin' you, maybe, fer romancin' round
With a big posy-bunch in yer paw;
But you ketch him, I say, when his health is away,
And he's flat on his back in distress,
And then you can trot out your little bokay
And not be insulted, I guess!

You see, it's like this, what his weaknesses is—
Them flowers make him think of the days
Of his innocent youth, and that mother o' his,
And the roses that she used to raise;
So here, all alone with the roses you send,
Bein' sick and all trembly and faint—
My eyes is—my eyes is—my eyes is—old friend—
Is a-leakin'—I'm blamed if the ain't!

—From Green Fields and Running Boooks.

MAKING HER WAY.

It did not exactly rain on that dull autumn day, but the air was full of driving mist, and the clouds hung like a leaden drapery almost to the hilltops.

It was a day when fairyland itself would scarcely appear at its best, and so, perhaps, it was not surprising that the "Tabitha Home" wore rather a cheerless aspect.

It was a long, low brick house, with rows of square windows, curtained with white cotton hangings, floors covered with matting, and drear, white-washed walls, broken by no cheerful pictures or panels.

The fire in the stove sputtered and smoked and declined to burn. Two or three blue-nosed old women huddled around it; another was bemoaning herself over the face-ache; and the matron, standing in the middle of the room, was scolding because fault had been found with the morning meal of scorched oatmeal.

"It ain't as if you were ladies," said she, "but you as has no home at your time of life, you hadn't ought to be pickin' flaws in this, that and the other thing. And the oatmeal was good enough for anybody, that it was! And if you don't like the style of cooking here, you're every one of you at liberty to go elsewhere!"

All this Janie Sevier heard, as she stood in the hall with old Mrs. Ball leaning nervously on her arm.

The young girl was tall, resolute, and lovely as a wild poppy blooming in a field of corn.

The old woman was withered and colorless, her face all woven over with a network of tiny wrinkles, her toothless jaws uneasily moving, while her eyes, that had once been so blue and bright, were now dim and dull.

"Oh, Janie! oh, Janie!" faltered Mrs. Ball, clinging to the girl's soft, young arm, "take me away—don't leave me here!"

"But you wanted me to bring you," said Janie, soothingly.

"Yes, I know; but I didn't think it was such a place as this!" cried the old woman. "Take me away, I say!"

"Where am I to take you?"

"I don't know," said Mrs. Ball, beginning to tremble. "Anywhere away from here! Oh, quick, Janie—quick!"

Janie Sevier looked pityingly at the poor old crone.

Was this to be the end of all kind Mrs. Montague's canvassing, and visiting, and wire pulling? Now that the admittance to the "Tabitha Home for Old Ladies" was finally obtained, and a refuge secured for Mrs. Ball which should shelter her to life's end, and was it all to be thrown up for a whim?

Nevertheless, thus it proved. Nothing would induce old Mrs. Ball to cross the threshold of the dreary room where the fire smoked and the matron scolded; so Janie took her home again.

"What else could I do?" said Janie.

"You were very foolish, Miss Sevier," said Mrs. Montague angrily. "After all I have done to secure the poor childish creature a good home! And I can tell you vacancies in the 'Tabitha Home' do not occur every day!"

"I cannot help it," said Janie. "She would not stay there."

"But what do you expect to do with her now?" sharply interrogated Mrs. Montague.

"I don't know," sighed Janie.

"You can't keep her?"

"I must, if no one else will."

"That is absurd nonsense!" said Mrs. Montague. "She is no relation of yours!"

"No," said Janie—"only an old neighbor."

Mrs. Montague shrugged her shoulders.

"I have done all that I can do," said she.

And so she departed, shaking the dust of the old mill off her Paris-booted feet.

The old mill was all that belonged to Janie Sevier. Long since the wonderful power of steam had taken all the custom away from the old wheel, which is now mouldering away in the ceaseless rush of the water.

Most of the buildings had fallen to decay, as buildings do when the tenants can't afford necessary repairs.

But there were still two or three habitable rooms in the south wing, and there Janie lived, with the rest of tender mercies of blue mold and rats.

"Queer she don't live with her brother's wife!" said the neighbors. "But those Seviers were always queer; and Mrs. Mark Sevier ain't easy to get along with."

As poor Janie knew to her cost, Mrs. Mark Sevier's final oration was yet ringing in her ears.

"I've left off being astonished at anything now, Janie Sevier," said she. "A college-educated girl like you to go and shut yourself up in an old owl's nest, with a half-crazy creature like Mrs. Ball!"

"You won't have us here?" said Janie, half smiling.

"Of course I won't!" said Mrs. Mark. "There are mouths enough to feed without you, let alone Mrs. Ball, 'who is nothing to nobody.'"

"But some one must take care of her!"

"There was a good place found for her in the 'Tabitha Home,' if she'd have stayed there. But you've chosen to assume the care of her; now let us see how long it will last."

"And you needn't think, she added, viciously, "that Stephen Ball is coming back from Manitoba to reward you, like the faithful lovers in story books. He can't take care of himself, much less of you."

"I don't expect him to come back," said Janie, calmly. "I would not marry him if he did. A man who leaves his grandmother to the cold charity of strangers is scarcely the man who would make a good husband. Because I was engaged to him once, it doesn't follow that I care for him now. I don't! But old Mrs. Ball is helpless and alone, and I am not going to desert her."

"Very well," said Mrs. Mark, "do as you

(Continued on sixth column.)

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Ripans Tabules—gentle cathartic.

Mamie Adams
Waterbury, Vermont.

Wonderful and True

Totally Blind with Scrofulous Sore Eyes

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Back Her Sight, and Joy to Her Father's Heart.

"Waterbury, Vt., Nov. 19, 1892.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"In April, 1889, my little girl Mamie, who was then 3 years old, commenced having ulcerated eyes, also had sores back of her ears. Her sight began to grow dim, and I feared she

Might be Blind.

I then lived in Jericho, Vt. In the early days of June I went with her to the Mary Fletcher hospital in Burlington, and there she was treated four different times—a surgical operation each time, one of which left the scars now visible on the eye balls. She recovered from this treatment each time, a slight improvement for a few days, was soon worse than ever. She could discern daylight from darkness, but could not see to walk across the room.

"I next went to a large hospital in Hartford, Conn. At this hospital no surgical operations were performed, but medicine was dropped into her eyes and given her to take. She was at this hospital about ten weeks, continually growing worse, and when I took her in November

Was Totally Blind.

"I arrived at my station in Jericho with the child, sad in spirit and impoverished in pocket completely discouraged. On our way to the house from the station we stopped at the store of Capt. McKinnan, who was an old sea captain, to warm ourselves. The captain had known the child before we went away. While we were warming ourselves Mamie said:

"'Papa, it's dark, where are you? I can't see you, come to me.'

"The captain's heart was touched, and with tears in his eyes he said:

"'Charley, you go and get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and give it to her, and if it don't help her I will pay for it.'

"That very afternoon I got Hood's Sarsaparilla and commenced giving it to her according to directions. The first beneficial result was a brightening of the eyes, which continued steadily improving until, under the treatment of Hood's Sarsaparilla, on the ninth day she could see to pick up a pin on the floor without its being pointed out to her, and before the first bottle was all used

Her Sight was Entirely Restored.

I keep Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house always, and when the child gets a little cold, if her eyes appear inflamed, a few doses settles it. I thank God first, Hood's Sarsaparilla second, and Capt. McKinnan third. Many of the first families in Jericho can vouch for the facts given above. I am glad to give this testimonial of what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me, which is good and lots of it." CHAS. A. ADAMS.

C. L. SMITH, C. M. GRIFFITH,
Witnesses to above signature.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

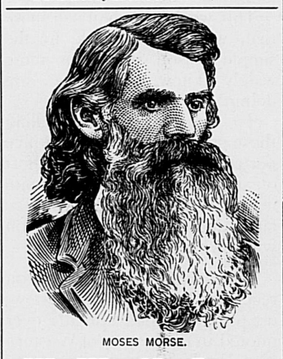
HOOD'S PILLS cure all Liver Ills, Biliousness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Sick Headache.

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S
COUGH and LUNG BALSAM
SURE CURE. PRICE 35 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LeGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.



MOSES MORSE.

We Will Not Quarrel

As to what causes RHEUMATISM. A good many people have it, and

LEON'S SARSAPARILLA
WILL CURE IT.

Before this Court Adjourns we want the Jury to hear the Testimony of Mr. Moses Morse.

For 20 years I have had Rheumatism. During the time I have found it almost impossible to do my farm work, and have been confined to my room for weeks at a time, and I have hardly seen a day without pain. I had tried doctors and medicines almost without number. I concluded I would give up trying to get better, but one of my neighbors who had been cured, advised me to take Leon's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and before long I began to get straightened out. My pain left me, and I became comfort. I am not so young as I was once, but rode the mowing machine in the forenoon and the horserake in the afternoon, and the boys said I was a pretty good man in haying yet. I know Leon's Sarsaparilla is a good medicine.

The Kind that Never Fails

Respectfully, MOSES MORSE.

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.

Ripans Tabules cure indigestion.

AGENT FOR:

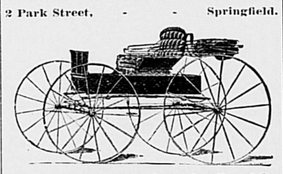
G. W. SIMMONS & CO.
—AND—
Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.
CLOTHING TO ORDER.
☞ Spring samples ready for inspection.

W. E. STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

WE ARE IN IT!

SMITH & CO., PALMER.

W. H. SMITH,
2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a large and complete line of fine and medium priced carriages. Fifty different styles in family carriages, top and open buggies, Concords, etc.

Good variety of top and open delivery wagons, road carts and farm wagons.

Novelties in buckboards and traps.

100 second hand carriages, all prices.

15-1 alt.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. Call for samples. 52-17

AYER'S
Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires. Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston. A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."

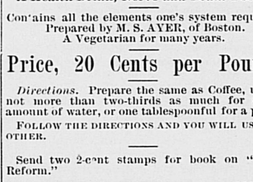
M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.
Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

THE CAROLINAS.

ASHEVILLE, HOT SPRINGS,
HICKORY, HENDERSONVILLE,
Etc., in North Carolina.

CAMDEN, AIKEN,
SUMMERVILLE, CHARLESTON,
Etc., in South Carolina.

Printed matter and full information as to reaching any of these points, including circulars and pamphlets of the hotels and time-tables of the railroads or steamer lines you could use from Palmer, may be had free, by special arrangement with the Recreation Department of The Christian Union, New York, by addressing the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.



For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

PIANOS on easy payments

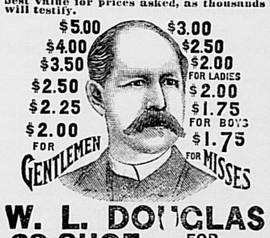
Twenty-five dollars cash will place one of our Upright Pianos in your home within, say 300 miles of Boston, balance $10 a month.

You are not to assume any risk of damage in transit and the piano is to be entirely satisfactory to you or you need not keep it. Will explain everything fully if you write us. Slightly used pianos at reduced prices.

IVERS & POND PIANO CO.,
183 TREMONT STREET. BOSTON, MASS.

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.



W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN, THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY. OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by
21-41 R. J. HENRY, MAIN ST., PALMER.

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Coughs, Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Pain, Take in time. 50c. & $1.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists, or HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

Her Neighbors Know.

And All Her Friends Know About the Matter.

And now She Wishes that Everybody Should Know all the Facts.

For that Reason She Makes a True and Straightforward Statement.

The friends and neighbors of Mrs. Ira Henderson, who resides at Armada, Mich., know all about the matter, and she now wishes that everybody should know all the facts just as they occurred.

"For nearly four years," she says, "I had suffered. I was so nervous that I could not write or read, could not even bear my children's company. I would have such a strange freling in my head it seemed as if I should lose my mind.

"I was very weak and nervous and would get all in a tremble and my heart would beat so hard that it would almost take my life. I could not eat anything that tasted right. It did seem as if everything had changed. I was greatly depressed and thought if only the Lord would enable me to keep my mind until I could get help.

"I doctored for two years without benefit, and then I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I received help right away and I could see that the first bottle was helping me. I cannot be thankful enough. I have recommended it to others and they have been helped by it.

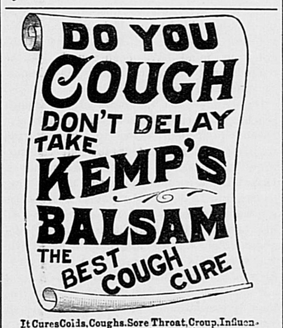
MRS. IRA HENDERSON.

"It has also cured my little girl of a nervous trouble. She would get up in her sleep and be out of her head. At such times she would talk strange and it would be some time before she would know where she was. She is all right now and we praise Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for the cure.

"My neighbors and friends know how I have suffered from weakness and nervous disease. I have lived here forty years and am known to all. I do wish I could help every sufferer to a bottle of this wonderful medicine so that all might be cured."

It is by the wide-spread publication of facts like these that the great curative powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy can be made known to every invalid and sufferer in the land. It is true that this medicine performs astonishing cures, and all who are ailing should avail themselves of its wonderful powers.

Almost everybody needs a spring medicine and this is the best and surest remedy to put you in perfect health. It is purely vegetable and harmless and is kept by druggists for $1.00. Physicians and druggists recommend it highly because they have seen it cure numberless sick people and because it is the prescription and discovery of a well-known physician, Dr. Greene, of 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor may be consulted free, personally or by letter.



It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. Acertain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1.00

SULPHUR BITTERS

THE BEST BLOOD PURIFIER IN THE WORLD.

WHY SUFFER with that chronic disease? Do you want to die? Sulphur Bitters will cure you as it has thousands.

WHY do you suffer with that

FOUL, OFFENSIVE BREATH?

You need not if you use Sulphur Bitters. They never fail to cure.

Operatives who are closely confined in the mills and workshops; clerks who do not have sufficient exercise, and all who are confined indoors, should use Sulphur Bitters. They will not then be

WEAK AND SICKLY.

Is your Breath impure. Your Stomach is out of order. Sulphur Bitters is the best medicine to take. Sulphur Bitters will build you up and make you

STRONG AND HEALTHY.

At the dawn of womanhood, Sulphur Bitters should be used.

Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., for best medical work published

SOLICITORS OF PATENTS.

CROSBY & GREGORY.
GEO. W. GREGORY,
Formerly Principal Examiner in U. S. Patent Office
34 SCHOOL ST., BOSTON, MASS.
918 F ST., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Patents obtained in the United States and other countries on all subjects of invention. Applications prepared with greatest care to secure broadest possible claims. 4 1

Score Cards,

CORDS and PENCILS
For card and other parties, at
The JOURNAL office.

Embossed Programmes

In original and special designs are made to order at the JOURNAL office. Samples cheerfully shown.

(Continued from second column.)

please. But, mind you, don't expect any help from Mark."

So Mrs. Ball sat before the wood fire in the old mill, and knitted and darned.

Thank fortune there was plenty of wood in the pine thicket, and Janie was strong and active to bring it in.

And Janie herself cogitated what was to be done, as she watched the dancing blaze.

"If the house wasn't all tumbling down, I'd take boarders," said Janie. "Since the silk mills have opened there are plenty of women and girls who would be thankful for a good home. Or, the Grove seminary isn't far from here—I could board the young ladies who find the distance from the village too great. But the roofing is out of repair, and—" Just then there came a tap at the door.

It was one of the seminary girls, her blue eyes sparkling from beneath the border of her scarlet hood.

"Oh, if you'd please, Miss Sevier, don't be vexed," said Aurora Atkins. "But if you'd sell me one of those lovely mince pies, and a bottle of your home-made root beer, I should be so glad. Lucy Smith had a piece of pie here yesterday, and she says it was too utterly delicious for anything! Please, Miss Sevier."

Janie's first impulse was to give the little mince pie to the plump schoolgirl, but she remembered that it was the last in the larder, and that their slender stock of money was nearly gone.

"I don't know how much it is worth," said she.

"We give a quarter for them at the bakery," said Aurora. "Miserable, dried-up, tasteless things, too! A quarter for mince, and fifteen cents for the squash and apple pies. And fifteen cents for lemon soda and ginger pop."

"I should like to make you a present of it," said Janie, coloring a little; "but—"

"Oh, we don't want you to give it to us," said Aurora. "We're not such greedy monsters as that. We shall be only too thankful if you will sell it to us," dear Miss Sevier!"

So Janie packed the plump, raisin-studded pie into a box, with a bottle of birch beer beside it, and took the forty cents with a curious sense of embarrassment.

"What a goose I am!" she thought. "Does the artist turn red all over when he pockets the check for his picture? Does the author feel ashamed when he receives the payment for his story or poem? The pie is mine—the work of my own hands. Why should I hesitate to sell it for all it is worth! This forty cents will buy more than one thing which we need, and I am thankful that I have been able to earn it."

At dinner there was nothing but the remains of yesterday's chicken pot pie. Poultry was not an expensive luxury since Janie raised her own fowls.

"Ain't there no mince pie?" said Mrs. Ball, wistfully.

She was only a seventy-year-old child after all, and she missed her tidbit.

"I have sold the pie, dear," said Janie. "I will make some more to-morrow. But here is a little paper of rose-scented snuff, and some more blue yarn for you to knit."

And old Mrs. Ball forgot her troubles and chuckled over the snuff and the yarn.

That afternoon Janie went out into the fields and gathered a great yellow pumpkin and a store of juicy red apples. And the next day she baked all manner of pies, finishing them high and early before the stream of school girls and factory workers began to flow past. And she then put them in the front window, labeled "For Sale."

"Bless me!" said old Mrs. Ball, when Janie led her down stairs in a clean cap-border and a clean calico gown, to begin her day's work of knitting, "what be ye goin' to do!"

"I'm going to make money," said Janie, cheerfully.

It was quite an artistic window. There were the pies of divers and sundry sorts, the bottles of lemon and birch beer, with a suggestive coffee pot placed in their midst, and a glass pitcher of milk. There were fresh-fried doughnuts and shining gilliflower apples, and light, home-made cakes; and there was a little wire basket of boiled eggs, looking like monster pearls as they hung there in the sunshine.

The schoolgirls, with the flavor of yesterday's treat yet in their mouths, came trooping in to buy their lunches; the factory girls followed suit.

Old Mrs. Ball sat smiling by the chimney corner, while Jane Sevier wrapped up neat little parcels and made change with swift alacrity.

"It makes the place a deal livelier," said the old lady. "I always did like company."

At the day's end Janie counted the contents of the till.

"So far as I can see," said she, "we have made three dollars clear profit. Three dollars a day is not bad for a woman. And I think I can improve upon the business after a little experience."

At the expiration of a month Mrs. Mark Sevier would not believe that her sister-in-law had actually opened an account with the Silverdale savings bank and deposited twenty dollars.

"Twenty dollars?" she screamed. "Mark, there is some mistake!"

"No there ain't!" said Mark. "The cashier told me so himself."

"But how did she ever make twenty dollars? I can't do it—not with all the butter and cheese and the dried fruit," persisted the woman.

"Earned it, I suppose," Mark answered drily.

"The business," as Janie called it, grew apace. The village carpenter was called in to patch up the old wing and build on a new room, and when, three years afterward, Mrs. Ball died peacefully, sitting in her chair, Janie sold the old mill and opened a ladies' lunch room in Silverdale village, now a thriving young town.

"Nobody ever heered o' such a thing," said Mrs. Mark Sevier.

That's the very reason that I think it will succeed,' said Janie.

And she hung the windows with Madras muslin, papered the walls with a pattern of green and gold peacock's plumes, and made the little place as beautiful as possible.

It succeeded.

And when Stephen Ball came home from Manitoba, poorer than when he went, he found that Janie Sevier was one of the richest women in Silverdale.

"Lucky for me!" said Stephen Ball. "I don't believe I can do better than to marry her. She's prettier than ever."

But Janie Sevier had very decided opinions of her own on the subject.

"Marry you?" said she. "Why should I marry you! I neither love or respect you, Stephen Ball!"

"We were engaged once," whined the poor fellow.

"Once!" echoed Janie. "But that was before I understood your character. Do you think I would marry a man who would leave his old grandmother to starve, without even troubling himself about her fate?"

And Stephen Ball was required to retire from the field.

"How could I ever have loved that man?" said Janie to herself. "Dear, dear! how people change! Once I nearly broke my heart about him! but now—now I may perhaps marry some day, if the right man comes along. Just at present I am a great deal too busy to think of such things."—Helen Forrest Graves.

"I thought the Miltons were going to give a party." "They were, but a water pipe broke in the house." "Couldn't it be mended?" "Yes, but the plumber took the house as part pay."—Inter-Ocean.

"What do you think will be the biggest thing you will see at the World's Fair?" said Mrs. Fucash. "My hotel bill," replied her husband, gloomily.—Washington Star.

EARLY RAILROADING.

The reference lately, in the Bulletin's "Bits of Old Boston," to the earliest trains on the Boston and Worcester Railroad running to West Newton, reminded the writer of having often traveled on those trains to and from the Boston station, west of Washington street.

Late in the fall of 1834 he made a trip to Westboro, by train, to oversee the delivery of snow shovels to residents along the line of the railroad who had contracted to clear the road of snow, and a note book used for recording the deliveries is a reminder of those days of small things in railroad working.

In the winter of 1834-5, the two or three locomotives, the road's whole stock, broke down, and for two or three weeks the passenger cars were run by horse power to Westboro, and the writer has a vivid recollection of making the run in that way, perched in the outside seat in front and being interested in seeing how finely Truckman Tirrell's string team did the job of about 32 miles, by making some changes, in not much over three hours.

The Boston and Worcester Railroad reached Worcester in July, 1835. The removal of its Boston station to the newly-made South Cove lands was in the summer of 1836, and the road's connections by the Western railroad from Worcester to Albany a few years later, made traffic relations so extensive and promising that the late Mr. Degrand, impressed with their importance, issued an elaborate lithograph illustrating his views, entitled "Long Wharf Extended to Buffalo."

Since then, not only Long Wharf but all the Boston wharves have been by the expanded railroad system extended far beyond Buffalo and to the Pacific coast, and up and down this continent. If a copy of the Degrand lithograph could be found it would be well worth a further notice.—S. N., in Commercial Bulletin.

MENTAL ARITHMETIC.—"What hymn did I understand you to say?" inquired the Sunday school teacher of the young lady who presided at the melodion, and who had just asked him to close the service, the superintendent being absent. "Sing half of 246," she answered, smiling at his nervousness and confusion. "We will now close by singing," he said, addressing the school—"by singing hymn 123."

THE KIND THAT CURES

DAVID K. HILL,
Newburyport, Mass.

From 160 to 204 lbs. IN 3 MONTHS.
KIDNEY TROUBLE AND Rheumatism Cured!!

Read the following wonderful statement from David K. Hill, Newburyport, Mass.

"I was taken with 'La Grippe' one year ago last February, and had been sick about two weeks when I began using and in four days after I began I had a good appetite and commenced gaining in flesh. In three months I increased in weight from 160 to 204 pounds. I was also troubled with Rheumatism affecting my hips so that I would be unable to sleep at times, and I am happy to say, gentlemen, that I am entirely cured of the effects of 'La Grippe', Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism by the use of DANA'S SARSAPARILLA."

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

Job Printing
of all kinds
at the Journal Office

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS!

Good Quality! Choice Variety!

MAINE SEED POTATOES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Early Norther, | Newest and Best, | $6.00 barrel. $2.50 bushel. |
| New Queen, | | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Clark's No. 1, | | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Pearl of Savoy, | | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Beauty of Hebron, | | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Early Rose, | | $4.00 barrel. $1.75 bushel. |

PLOWS, WHEEL HARROWS, CULTIVATORS.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS, FULL LINE.

Galvanized Barb Wire, 3 cents per lb.

Come and see us.

E. A. BUCK & CO

It Will Build You Up

Are you all run down? Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will build you up and put flesh on you and give you a good appetite.

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

Scott's Em

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 21, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 3.

New Grocery Store on Central Street!

Thompson & Bannister will open a new grocery store next week in the south side of W. H. Hitchcock's block on Central street, and hope to be ready for business on Monday.

Our stock will be entirely new and fresh, and we shall take especial pains to see that every customer is satisfied.

A share of your patronage is solicited, and orders will receive immediate attention.

Give us a trial.

Thompson & Bannister.

H. W. THOMPSON.
C. H. BANNISTER.

Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown in MONSON.

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of Jamestown, N. Y., 30 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM SERGE. Also 25 pieces (8-yard lengths—no two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SERGE.

GORDON DYE HOSIERY.

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hosiery to our customers as the best article for purity of dye and wearing quality ever offered to the public. A complete line of "Gordon Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls and Infants in black and all the fashionable colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED STAINLESS.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Now Complete.

The Columbus Boys' Suit goes ahead of everything. A Columbus Medal given with every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black and Fancy Cheviots and Black Worsteds. FINE ASSORTMENT OF SPRING SUITS FROM $8 TO $20.

☞ LATEST NOVELTIES IN NECKWEAR.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Have added to our large stock the latest styles in Ladies' and Gent's Shoes. Before you purchase don't fail to see the novelties we are offering.

Headquarters for Trunks, Bags, Etc.,

—AT—

W. N. FLYNT & SONS, Monson.

Economy is Wealth.

Now is the time to have one of these heaters. One cent an hour is all it costs to be comfortable. Steam boilers and furnaces are too expensive at this season of the year.

——FULL LINE OF——

PLOWS, CULTIVATORS, HARROWS, SHOVELS, FORKS, RAKES.

BEST LINE AT BOTTOM PRICES.

☞ We shall offer Monday morning 82 nickle-plated tea kettles for $1.25.

C. A. BROWN CO.

☞ NOTICE.

After a thorough, careful, painstaking and practical investigation, we, the undersigned, hereby certify to the public that the

Morrell Liquor Cure Co.,

a corporation located at Westfield, Mass., is now prepared to cure all persons afflicted with the LIQUOR, OPIUM AND TOBACCO HABITS, and to guarantee a cure or money refunded.

The features of this cure are:—

Absolute Privacy.
Treatment at Home.
No Unpleasant Effects.
No Loss of Time.
No Sore Arm.

Of more than 3000 patients treated, not one has failed of permanent cure.

Address all correspondence to MORRELL LIQUOR CURE CO., or Box 403, WESTFIELD, MASS.

JOHN R. REED, President The H. B. Smith Mfg. Co.
JAS. NOBLE, JR., Vice President Hampden National Bank.
W. A. LINCOLN, Treasurer Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Co.
REV. JOHN H. LOCKWOOD, Pastor First Congregational Church.
H. N. KINGSBURY, Secretary and Treasurer Odd Fellows Fraternal Accident Association.
A. S. ATKINS, President Vitrified Wheel Co.
R. W. PARKS, Secretary Bay State Association.
F. F. VAN DEUSEN, of E. R. Van Deusen & Son.
FRANK BOWLER, Director V. W. Crowson Waste Co.
GEO. W. WINSLOW, Principal School of Observation.
H. W. ELY, ESQ., Attorney-at-Law. 13-53

PAPER : : HANGINGS

New Designs.

Latest Patterns.

Bottom Prices.

LARGEST STOCK TO SELECT FROM ! ! ! !

and will furnish a good man to hang it for you. Don't neglect to

PAPER YOUR CEILINGS!

and let us show you something pretty to do it with—at

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POLISH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LeGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.
WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,
NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
BICYCLES.

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

BICYCLES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| The Rambler, | Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Toledo Dauntless, | Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Warwick, | . . | $150 |
| Road King, | . . | $150 |
| New Mail, | . . | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, | . | $100 |
| Duke, | . . . | $115 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | | $40 |

WE HAVE ADDED TO OUR STOCK

BICYCLE SHOES, CAPS, STOCKINGS AND SWEATERS.

☞ BICYCLES RENTED by the hour, day, month or season.

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

PALMER, MASS.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
PALMER, MASS.

A PASTOR INSTALLED

OVER THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH OF PALMER.

A Full Account of the Exercises—With the Sermon of Professor Beardslee—And Portraits of the First and Last Pastors of the Church.

Rev. Frank E. Jenkins, the new pastor of the church, was born in Walton, N. Y., November 26th, 1854. He graduated from Walton Academy in 1874, from Williams College in 1878, and from Hartford Theological Seminary in 1881. During his senior year at the seminary he supplied the pulpit of the church at Charlton, Mass., and was ordained at that place May 18th, 1881, where he remained as pastor until August, 1882, when he went to South Coventry, Ct., remaining there until December, 1886, when he entered the service of the American Missionary Association. While in the service of this association he did missionary work among the mountain whites of the South, acting as pastor of the Congregational church and principal of the Williamsburg Academy at Williamsburg, Ky.; was field superintendent of the A. M. A. schools and churches in the southern states; was pastor of the People's Congregational church in New Decatur, Ala., from Jan. 1st, 1890, to the beginning of the Palmer pastorate.

The council which had been called by the Second Congregational church of Palmer to examine and install Rev. Frank E. Jenkins as pastor of the church met at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the following churches being represented: Congregational of Wilbraham by Rev. M. S. Howard, pastor, and Dea. F. E. Clark, delegate; Congregational of North Wilbraham by H. W. Cutler, delegate; Congregational of Monson by Rev. F. S. Hatch, pastor, and Dea. E. P. Keep, delegate; First Congregational of Palmer, (at Thorndike) by Rev. E. B. Blanchard, pastor, and H. E. W. Clark, delegate; Union Evangelical of Three Rivers by Rev. G. S. Butler, pastor, and Dea. O. B. Sikes, delegate; South Congregational of Springfield by Rev. S. G. Buckingham, D. D., and Rev. E. G. Selden, pastors, and A. H. Kirkham, delegate; Eastern Avenue Congregational of Springfield by Rev. C. H. Hanks, pastor, and W. J. McCleary, delegate; Congregational of Great Falls, N. H., by Rev. H. W. Pope, pastor. There were also present Rev. C. S. Beardslee, D. D., of Hartford Theological Seminary, and Rev. James Tufts of Monson.

The proceedings of the church and parish were read and voted satisfactory. Mr. Jenkins then presented papers showing his church membership, association connection, and the minutes of the council dismissing him from his last charge, all of which were voted satisfactory. Mr. Jenkins then presented a paper concerning his personal religious experience, and a short statement of his theological belief, which is as follows:

1. I believe in the atonement, but have no very satisfactory theory of it. I believe in it as a fact. It is more than a moral influence upon man. It has a God-ward as well as a man-ward side, and a man-ward side because it has a God-ward first. Whatever there may be in the Divine nature to oppose a full and free forgiveness of the sins of man is satisfied by the atonement of Christ. Whatever there may be in the moral government of God in all His universe opposed to such forgiveness is provided for by the atonement.

The atonement is for every human being and for all sins except the complete and final rejection of the Holy Ghost. It applies to infants, idiots, and those who have never heard of Christ, so that infants and idiots are saved by the blood of Christ, and whoever among the peoples without the Gospel uses the light he has and seeks God as revealed by the things that are made will have the benefit of it.

The work of the atonement began with Christ's incarnation and extended all through His life of humility, and culminated on the cross when His spirit left His body.

2. I believe that man's probation is all this side of death. I am constrained by revelation, against which I have no voice of reason that gives a certain sound, to believe in the eternal consequences of eternal sin. I get no reliable hint anywhere of a remedy for sin that can be applied on the other side of death. I wish that universal salvation were true, but I can find in God's revelation in His word and in nature no universalism broader than that of opportunity and provision for the salvation of all on condition of the acceptance of Christ.

3. I welcome every form of honest criticism of the books of the Bible. There is no article of my creed which says "I believe in the inspiration of the books of the Bible, in its chapter heads, in its marginal chronology and in all the traditions of men." Neither does any article say "I believe in the latest guess of the latest critic." Whatever certainties reverent scholarship shall arrive at I am willing and glad to accept. Whatever probabilities that same scholarship may disclose I am ready tentatively to accept. If scholarship shifts about the date when a book is supposed to have been written it does not trouble me. If Isaiah is proved to be a legion, I care not, so long as Christ has quoted from each with approval. If Moses has had an editor who called him the meekest man and explained and modernized his language, I shall not give up my religion as long as Christ "beginning from Moses and from all the prophets interpreted in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself." The Old Testament which Christ read and quoted and believed is a part of my Bible and ever shall be, if scholars reverse every date and remove every title and chapter head. How much scholars have proved I do not quite know but they have not proved all their claims, nor a hundredth part; far more than ninety-nine theories out of a hundred have been set aside by other theories.

I have the feeling, backed up by what study I have been able to give to these matters, and in part at least by scholars the peers of any, that when a riper scholarship shall declare its results the Books of Moses will still be called by his name and with truth; that the Song of Solomon and possibly Ecclesiastes will have a different place in Christian thought than they had in 1611, and a better one; that the book of Job will go back again to an early period; that David will not be robbed of all his psalms, even if it be shown that hymn-books called after him were edited after his death; that Isaiah will still foretell of Cyrus and not prove a pious fraud; that even the history and geography of the Bible will all prove to be exact when we know just what was written and all the facts. I believe that "holy men of old spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit," and that we have the result in the sixty-six books beginning with Genesis and ending with Revelation. In these books are minor errors of transcribers. In the Hebrew of Moses and other early writers is language modernized by Ezra or some other inspired editor, and explanations and additions by other inspired hands than the original writers. But the Bible as we have it in the Hebrew and Greek manuscripts is the inspired word of God,—the only and sufficient rule of faith and practice.

The council then voted to be by itself, and unanimously pronounced the examination satisfactory and voted to proceed with the installation.

A little before three o'clock, the time set for the public services, the audience began to assemble, and the large auditorium was soon filled to its utmost capacity. The pulpit platform, choir rail, and the space on either side of the platform had been handsomely decorated with blooming household plants and greenery. A choir composed of Miss Abbie Wallis, Mrs. Oare, Mrs. C. A. Brown, Mrs. John Lyman, Mrs. A. D. Norcross of Monson, Mrs. Rufus Flynt, Mrs. H. E. Huntley, Miss Addie Rogers, Luther Cobb, G. M. Coney of Ware, C. A. Brown, W. R. Milligan and George Hastings furnished music, Mrs. W. A. Weld presiding at the organ.

After the rendition of the anthem, "The Lord is My Light and My Salvation," by the choir, came the invocation by Rev. G. S. Butler of Three Rivers, in which Divine help was asked for the conducting of the services of the hour, thanks were rendered for the sending of a pastor to this people, and the presence of the Holy Spirit during the exercises was invoked, that all might be blessed thereby, and a blessing was asked on all who took part therein. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. E. B. Blanchard of Thorndike, who selected the twenty-fourth Psalm, and Isaiah 52: 7-12. The scribe then read the minutes of the council, after which the congregation joined with the choir in singing the 763d hymn.

The sermon was by Prof. C. S. Beardslee of Hartford Theological Seminary, his text being Acts 22: 8:—

"And I answered, 'Who art thou, Lord?' And he said unto me, 'I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest.'"

This passage affords a glimpse of an impressive and instructive scene in the history of the early Christian church. It introduces us to a glorious disclosure of the person of our Saviour and a critical experience in the career of Saul of Tarsus. The picture may be entitled "A Revolution Wrought by a Revelation." In the revolution Paul's character, conviction, decision and career are all utterly reversed. And this momentous transformation is effected by the revelation in which the sublime majority of Christ is for a brief moment unveiled before the eyes of the persecutor of God's saints.

Let us examine the revolution transacted in Saul, and then the revelation unfolded by Christ, noting their bearings the one upon the other, and then draw one or two lessons for to-day.

And first, reproduce Saul, the persecutor. Behold him before the vision and the change. See him. Whatever his stature or visage or mein, whatever the hue of his hair or cheek or eye, whatever the culture of his manner or gesture or speech, he is unmistakably a powerful nature. Of that little band he is the acknowledged leader. They have become inspired with his zeal. They partake of his passion. His enthusiasm feeds theirs. His courage is their confidence. His patience is their support. As he gathers them about him and moves among them and rushes on before them, it is clear to see that among them all he is predominant in strength.

He is on fire with religious zeal. His bosom is like a furnace. He rages. He breathes threatenings and slaughter. He is exceedingly mad against the supposed heretics. His whole being is hot with fervid passion. This zeal feeds on a deep and firm conviction. He feels bound in conscience to antagonize the Christians. He is under bonds. He avows to himself that he is veritably right in his crusade. He deems it pleasing to God. And this fervid faith is enduring. His soul's energies are tensely drawn in the task. He is able to overcome tenderest sentiments and holiest scruples as he imprisons women, overrides conscience and even reddens his hand with murder, so fierce and furious is his hate.

He deems all this a credit Hereby he strives to work out his own righteousness and secure a valid and ample claim on heaven. He would surpass his companions in virtue, and in his valorous achievements for the honor of ancestral traditions he deems himself attaining most honorable attire and renown, not alone in the sight of men, but before God as well. His hope of future favor with God was founded upon the onslaughts against the Saints of Christ. Hereby his salvation was to be made secure.

He had already gained good success. Village after village within the range of Jewry had been searched and cleared. Many had been compelled to blaspheme. Many had been bound in jail. Some had been slaughtered. The rest had fled. And now, flushed with success and eager to complete what had been so nearly done, he was pressing over the borders to capture even the refugees who had thought to find a safe asylum in strong cities. He was exalted with the confidence that rises in hours of triumph, when he encountered Christ.

He was strongly backed. His attendants must have been trusty and tried and proven worthy and able to be his aids. Much of his conviction, enthusiasm persistance and capacities of intolerance and rough savagery, as well as religious zeal and native strength, must have possessed and characterized them as well as their leader and been his continual confidence and help. They were capable of being his adjutant. With such subordinates he was well reënforced. Then the Sanhedrin rendered them efficient aid. By official letters, which no true Jew could hope to gainsay or would dare to disobey, the highest Jewish Court had attested Saul to be their deputy in these deeds. This was the most sacred zeal which in the eye of every Jew affixed to Saul's endeavors a sanction which none might dare to profane.

Such was Saul when confronted by the Lord. Thus inspired, equipped and enforced he was sweeping on. One would say that no power could stay the momentum of that onset.

Now contemplate Saul, when subdued. See him as he lies prostrate on the soil of Syria before the Lord. It was the Lord that brought him to the ground. And in that posture there is renewing evidence that Saul concedes that he has met his Master. However dominant his nature or temper or gesture or behest may have been hitherto, now for once he wholly submits. Of challenge he utters not a word. Of any such response he has no thought. Patiently and mightily has the heavenly visitor challenged him, but he makes no motion of appeal either to his conscience or his record or his authority from the priests. He is as dumb as he is dismayed. He is silent as well as subdued. He confronts a tribunal higher than any in his own bosom or in the Temple of the Jews, and he only lies prostrate and still.

But further, henceforth he defies the courts he formerly had besought. The authority of the Sanhedrin he now ignores and denies. He dismisses all his former aids. He brands as erring and preverse the convictions that formerly had held and bound him as the laws of God. His own consience he corrects. The basis of his future hopes he transfers to other grounds. The hope or thought of gaining merit by any form of personal endeavor he once for all forsakes. His own personal character, which up to this date he esteemed fair and true, he now describes as corrupt and unreliable. Thus he forsakes past hopes and claims and titles and filiations and endeavors. From all that past he cuts entirely loose. Of all that past his estimate has become and remains essentially diverse. Of all those grounds of confidence he retains not one. For all his former pride he now experiences only penitence, remorse and shame. So completely does he dismiss his former confidence.

Henceforth he worships Christ. In letters and oral doctrine and life he employs his best powers to heap honor upon him he had formerly despised. He labors to laud the Nazarene. He is proud of the Crucified. He glories in the Cross The summit of his future bliss is to be with Christ. In him he finds all grace and truth, all loveliness and praise. He vies with angels to magnify the Saviour of sinners. Whereas before his reliance had been wholly in self, he now counts all that but loss and an offensive thing. He esteems himself a sinner for whom Jesus died, who was redeemed by Jesus' blood, who is anointed, renewed and hallowed by the Holy Ghost, the Saviour's choicest gift. Thus henceforth his innermost longing and his ultimate hope are to be with Christ and to be clothed with his righteousness. Thus he trusts, adores and loves him whom formerly he rejected, hated and despised.

So, too, with Christ's followers. Before his revolution he hunted them with hate in his heart, a curse on his lips and death in his hand. After this scene he consorts with them in cordial good will and delight. He loves them. He lavishes for them his best gifts. He toils like a Titan for their profit. And as they thrive and flourish in the graces of the Holy Spirit, he finds in their growth and peace his full reward. He calls them his joy and crown.

And now, after the transformation of this supreme scene, he turns the full tide of all his splendidly gifted nature, so regally furnished and so superbly inspired and refined, into untiring endeavors for Christ and His church. All the former strength and zeal and power of conviction and conscientiousness, and self-reliance, and leadership, and courage, and patience, he now devotes to indicate the faith and replenish the ranks he had before as earnestly striven to disparage and reduce. And this new endeavor, too, he pressed to magnificent triumphs. He shrank from no peril, fainted under no burden, was disheartened by no obstacle. He halted nowhere. He wavered nowhere. He rested nowhere. And his ambitions were no less than before, but rather greater. In his new undertaking his desire encompassed the world. Such was the revolution wrought in Saul by this revelation of Jesus the Nazarene.

Now turn your eye aloft and contemplate that revelation in the skies.

It is gloriously bright. Its light outshone the Syrian sun at noon, The Syrian air is passing pure, the Syrian sky surpassing clear and the Syrian sun, therefore, far more dazzling and blinding than the sun of our moister northern clime ever becomes. And it was high noon. Then the blaze that beat upon that Syrian plain was most intense and fierce. But even that, Saul says, the Saviour's glory outshone. So splendid was the Christophany which burst upon Saul.

But not merely did those rays from the brow of the glorified Nazarene amaze the human sense. They had power to wound. They smite the persecutor with blindness and thus in an instant reduced the leader and fanatic to the humbled suppliant, begging for the kindly hand to guide him in the path. But the power that eclipsed could also illumine. And ere long from the same Nazarene there came again the gift of sight. Thus did Jesus testify right coyently to Saul that it lay in his powers to remove or restore the action of a most essential bodily sense. Hereby was wrought in Saul a new but stout conviction of his utter dependence upon the leader of the sect he presumed to suppress.

Thus by two infallible signs, the veiling of the Syrian sun by a superior light, and the closing and opening again of the eyes of Saul, coupled with the general effect of the glorious display in which the Saviour appeared, was Saul convinced that he was in the presence and under the spell of a person of supernatural glory and dignity and strength.

But further revelation was made. In reply to Saul's inquiry after the identity of the person who had thus arrested his course, Christ replies, "I am Jesus of Nazareth." This is a supremely important phase of the scene. Jesus of Nazareth Saul despised. His followers Saul proposed to utterly encompass and confound. Here that very Nazarene confronts him in a blaze of infinite authority and honor and light. By this sign he whose influence he thought to erase and whose very name he was striving to make a by-word was evidently supreme in honor and power. Jesus, who had been crucified and buried, had eluded their watch and been exalted to the skies and been enthroned there with a power equivalent to the defeat and overthrow of any human assault. Jesus of Nazareth, the despised, the hated, the crucified, was Jesus the glorified, enthroned in honor, authority and power wholly superhuman and unassailable.

But to reverse the statement. He who so mightily amazed and confounded and subdued Saul is Jesus the Nazarene. The transition to glory has wrought no change in the person. He is still Jesus. He upon the throne above the sun is still the Nazarene. He still adopts and claims full share in that lowly earthly career. To all the teachings then enunciated, He, the glorious One, still devotedly adheres. This is a marvelous word. And it completely outflanks every position of Saul and routs him from the field. If the source of all the teachings of the Nazarene is now as the Nazarene enthroned in glory and strength, then all attempts to undue his work or restrain his influence or defeat his plans are futile. His teachings about sin, his provision of redemption, his proffer of grace, his messages from God, his entreaties to men, his warnings and promises and predictions are by his coronation on high all forever and impregnably confirmed. Jesus the Nazarene is enthroned. He who holds the throne is Jesus the Nazarene.

But this is not all. He who is thus enthroned identifies himself with his saints, "Why persecutest thou me," he says to Saul. They whom Saul so ferociously assails and afflicts are all owned and befriended in this word of the glorified being. He who sits above the sun is omnipotent champion of those Christian refugees. Here is a message that may well palsy Saul. In his persecution of the saints he has been besieging heavenly ramparts and pressing to a fight with the heavenly King.

Yet again, this revelation unfolds to Saul his deep-dyed sin in the immediate presence of the Saviour of the world. We cannot doubt that the face of the glorified Christ was sad and strong with rebuke. Saul was wrong, sadly wrong. Jesus' revelation set that sin in a blaze of light. All his zeal now is shown to be profane, and all his relentless pursuit of Christians a blasphemy. He sees that his hands are red with his brother's innocent blood and that his rejection of the holy Christ has been most groundless and perverse. In that blaze of revealing light he finds himself the chief of sinners.

But at the same moment he stands in the presence of the world's great Saviour. And soon he sees the meaning and the value of that cross, the preciousness and the need of his proffered mercy. That midday revelation disclosed to Saul his Redeemer and Friend.

Such was the revelation of Christ which wrought the revolution in Saul.

As we contemplate this scene let us learn some lessons.

And first, the Gospel of Christ is a Gospel of Light. Its message and doctrines all center in and radiate from Christ. And Christ, as brought to view in this scene, is enthroned in light. It is sin and the kingdom of Satan that are confusing and dark. But Christ and all his messages of reverence, righteousness and love, of redemption, forgiveness and anointing, of repentance, meekness and faith, of character, judgment and final awards are luminous and clear as the noon. Let us get clear visions of a Saviour enthroned in glorious light, uttering words for all men radiant and pure; and then let us plainly proclaim what we have plainly seen in the conviction that our declarations of the Gospel will be easily comprehensible and clear to all who will open their eyes to see. We hold up the Light of the World. Let His light shine. Thus can men be conquered and won. Thus Saul was subdued. This is the method of Christ. Let Him be our teacher.

Secondly, Be not afraid. The Saviour is on the throne. Whatever betides here, He reigns. Wait thou His time in patient, fearless trust. He knows our sighs. He counts our tears. He keeps a constant watch above His own. No Saul can overstep the bounds of our Lord's permission. In due time all opponents will be subdued and we shall be released. Over trials, as in joy, Jesus reigns. And in His reign He identifies himself with every suffering saint. Hide in this pavilion. Jesus reigns. Let this be the solace of every afflicted saint and the strong tower of every sin-besieged fellowship of saints.

Thirdly. In every churchly endeavor have high ambitions. Partake of the high and confident daring of Christ. Measure the force energy of Saul. But measure also the valorous quality in Christ as He presents Himself to receive and defeat the attack of Saul. Fail not to confront, fail not to subdue, fail not to win your most strenuous and doughty foe. Turn against the enemy his own best soldiers and arms by converting their energies to the ranks of Christ. Mark out the Sauls that lead so freely the ranks of sin and set them as new men in Christ to lead more grandly the fellowship of saints. So may the church fulfill her work, reducing the power of sin, increasing the company of believers and multiplying the trophies and magnifying the name of her risen and glorified Lord.

At the close of the sermon the solo "Come Unto Me" was finely rendered by Mrs. Norcross.

In his prayer of installation Rev. Dr. Buckingham of Springfield returned thanks for the promises that "whosoever will may come," and that "whosoever cometh shall not perish," and in this faith would consecrate anew the people of the church to the service of God; for this church and the institutions of religion here, and for the Divine presence through all vicissitudes; for its influence in the community and neighborhood. He invoked a blessing on the word to be preached from the pulpit, by whoever it might be spoken, and the fullest of blessings on the newly-called pastor, that he might have the heartiest coöperation of the people of the church.

The choir then rendered the installation hymn, which is given in full:—

Joyful in thy courts we stand,
Thankful for thine open hand;
Take we now thy living gift,
And to thee our voices lift.
To our waiting souls draw nigh;
Consecrate this tender tie;
Gird our Pastor with thy might;
Count him faithful in thy sight.

Through him cheer the fainting heart,
To the feeble strength impart;
Soothe the sorr'wing, guide the meek,
To the contrite comfort speak.
In the pastures of thy flock,
And beside the shad'wing rock.
Let thy sheep and lambs be fed,
And to grateful shelter led.

Joyful in thy courts we stand.
Thankful for thine open hand;
Take we now thy living gift,
And to thee our voices lift.
Gather wand'rers to thy fold;
Sweet communion with us hold;
Bring us all thy face to see—
Pastor, people, one in thee!

In his charge to the pastor Rev. M. S. Howard of Wilbraham warned him that he had entered upon a service the weighty responsibility of which no man or angel could appreciate or measure. He was reminded to make the cross of Christ the central point around which all his teachings and labors were to gather; Christ and Him crucified—the hope of the world, the hope of the church, the hope of lost men—was to be the sum and substance of his instruction. His duties would be two-fold—those relating to himself and those relating to his people. The former called for an exhibition of true religious character; the cultivation of piety, not as an art, but as a deep, pervading principle; derivation of light and strength from the unfailing sources of the Divine word. "At the same time be a man in all the completeness of that word; do not sink the man in the minister, nor forget that while you are a minister you are also a man." He was to watch the advance of error and fortify himself to resist its inroads. He was adjured to present the truth in an attractive, forcible, convincing way, not repudiating the ancient methods because they were old, nor groveling in modern eccentricities for the sake of being considered original. The maxim, "To have prayed well is to have studied well," was never to be forgotten. As a minister of the Gospel take heed to thyself; let no hope of pecuniary or even social gain conflict with a faithful discharge of duty. One of the first duties was that of loving his people. They had expressed a preference for him as their pastor above all others, saying in substance that they were ready to receive him into their hearts, to confide in him their sorrows and joys, to trust in him as their spiritual guide, and he should become acquainted with every family, making the people believe that he loved them. The old New England idea in which the minister owned his people and the people owned their minister was not without its advantages, though it was sometimes carried too far, yet it implied that there were ties which held the minister and people in a way which made him something more than a "hired man." He was not a hireling, he was a shepherd whose duty it was to care for the sheep. In the second place he was to instruct his people in the principles and doctrines of religion, and they would be better pleased with the presentation of plain, substantial truth than with sentimental pyrotechnics. He was charged to preach tenderly and distinctly the great truths of the Gospel, the truth which the Puritans loved, which was the defense and at the same time the sword of the Reformers, because it was the wisdom and power of God. He was not to fear the opprobrium of being called a doctrinal preacher, for it is always safe to hold up principles. He was reminded that the services of the sanctuary were his chief care, and that the Word of God was the source of his instruction. Thirdly, he was to direct his efforts with the great end in view of saving men's souls, and especial attention toward the young under his charge was recommended.

Rev. F. S. Hatch of Monson extended the right hand of fellowship and bade the newcomer welcome. It was only one word, but a great one, and packed full of meaning on this occasion, for all wanted him—the church, the people, the council and the churches it represented. He was welcomed to Massachusetts, for no man on earth was exactly like a Massachusetts minister; it was a great state, and in it were great places which only great men could fill. To the glorious New England climate, to the town, to the various departments of church work he was welcomed, but best of all to a warm place in the loving hearts of his people.

A duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd," was next sung by Mrs. Norcross and Mrs. Flynt.

Rev. H. W. Pope of Great Falls, N. H., the last pastor of the church here, gave the charge to the people, in which he offered congratulations, and urged them to confide in the man of their choice as the natural one to go to in their religious troubles or perplexities. They were recommended to confide in one another, the speaker deploring the lack of sympathy along spiritual lines among the male members of the churches; they might be friends and members of the same church, but were not brethren in that deep spiritual sense so much to be desired. It was his wish that the people of this church might live such lives as would render it a power in the community for the spread of the Gospel to all parts of the earth.

The closing prayer was by Rev. C. H. Hanks of Springfield, who asked for guidance in all parts of this life, and invoked a blessing on the union of pastor and people.

After the singing of the doxology by the congregation the services closed with the pronouncing of the benediction by the pastor.

Rev. Thomas Wilson of Waterville, N. Y. the first pastor of the church, was unable to be present at the installation, but sent the following letter:

MR. H. B. KNOX, Chairman Church Committee.

My Dear Sir:—While highly appreciating the kind and thoughtful invitation of the committees of the church and society of the Second Congregational church in Palmer, to participate in the meeting of the council for the examination and installation of Rev. Frank E. Jenkins as your pastor, on the 19th inst., I sincerely regret that I shall not be able to attend.

It would, indeed, give me great pleasure to be present and assist in the induction of your pastor-elect into the sacred office which it was once my privilege to hold among you, when I first girded on the Gospel harness. The memory of those early and distant years of service is still very precious. To that people of my "first love" I gave the freshness and the fervor of my youth. While there were many crudities and imperfections in my early ministry, there were also the earnestness and energy of one who then primarily assumed the sacred functions of the ministerial office, after long years of patient preparation.

I still cherish a warm regard for your church and people, though there are but few left who were there forty-five years ago when I began my ministry. Having now reached the Scriptural age of "three score years and ten," I have retired from the active pastorate, and have made Waterville, N. Y., my home for the rest of my days on earth.

My oldest son, Claude, "a Palmer boy," resides here in the practice of medicine. Wishing you and your new pastor all the prosperity that heart could desire, and praying that God may abundantly bless you all in both temporal and spiritual things, I remain with sincere affection,

Your old pastor and friend,
THOMAS WILSON.

The council called to examine Mr. Wilson met on the 29th of February, 1848, and was composed as follows: Rev. Alfred Ely, D. D., senior pastor, Rev. Charles B. Kittredge, junior pastor, and Dea. A. W. Potter of Monson; Rev. Thomas Snell, D. D., and Samuel Whiting of North Brookfield; Rev. L. S. Parker and Moses Harris of West Brookfield; Rev. John Bowers of Wilbraham; Rev. Lyman Whiting of Lawrence; Bro. Linus Homer of Brimfield; Rev. Moses K. Cross and Dea. W. Foster of the First church of Palmer; Rev. D. N. Coburn and Jesse B. Wetherbee of the Ware West church; Bro. Edward Ingersol of the Springfield First church; Rev. Charles Smith and Dea. Asa Patrick of Warren. The examination proving satisfactory it was voted to adjourn until the next day, April 1st, for the ordination and installation, at which time the following was the programme: Reading of Scriptures and introductory prayer, Rev. Charles Smith; sermon, Rev. Lyman Whiting; ordaining prayer, Rev. Dr. Ely; charge to the pastor, Rev. Dr. Snell; right hand of fellowship, Rev. Moses K. Cross; charge to the people, Rev. C. B. Kittredge; concluding prayer, Rev. L. S. Parker; benediction by the pastor.

The Second Congregational church of Palmer was organized April 1st, 1847, by the withdrawal of fifty-four members from the church at the Center. In its forty-six years it has had only five pastors—Rev. Thomas Wilson from April 1st, 1848, to July 1st, 1852; Rev. Joseph Vaill, D.D., from Dec. 7th, 1854, to Feb. 12th, 1868; Rev. B. M. Fullerton from Feb. 12th, 1868, to July 6th, 1881; Rev. Pleasant Hunter from June 7th, 1883, to July 25th, 1886; Rev. H. W. Pope from Nov. 3d, 1886 to May 23d, 1892. The present membership of the church is 198.

HOW A DRUNKARD REFORMED.

"I had noticed that men who made a business of buying and selling wines in large quantities sampled them and ascertained their quality and bouquet by taking two or three mouthfuls in succession, rolling it around their tongues, as one might say, bathing their palate in it—in short, subjecting it to the severest test by the organs of taste—and then ejecting it from the mouth without swallowing any. The remembrance of this came upon me one day when I was perfectly sober but terribly despondent. I resolved to try it. I did, and have met with the most gratifying success. You may laugh, but it is the solemn truth. I took a large drink of liquor, but instead of letting it pass into my stomach, I checked it in my throat and gargled it for a minute and then spat it out. To my joy I found my thirst for it almost as much appeased as though I had swallowed the liquor. I tried it again and again with the same effect. I was not made drunk. I have followed this plan ever since, and have not been drunk since, although I have gargled the liquor, never swallowing a drop, as many as a dozen or more times a day—the same number of drinks I used to take. The plan is a very simple one, and is, I believe, the only one for a slave to the cup."

"Has your appetite increased?"

"On the contrary, it has decreased. By the means I adopted my brain has become clear and strong again, and my will power is as good as it ever was before I became a hard drinker. In gargling the liquor I get all the benefit of the flavor and all the satisfaction to my appetite without losing my senses."—Selected.

APHORISMS.

When thou art obliged to speak, be sure to speak the truth; for equivocation is halfway to lying, and lying is the whole way to hell.—Penn.

The real use of all knowledge is this, that we should dedicate the reason God has given us to the use and advantage of man.—Bacon.

Three things are known only in the following way: A hero in war, a friend in necessity, and a wise man in anger.—Arabic.

Diligence, persistence, strength, perception and courage—a god even stands in awe of him who possesses these.—Hindoo Maxim.

Give me the liberty to know, to think, to believe and to utter freely, according to conscience, above all other liberties.—Milton.

Silence is the wit of fools and one of the virtues of the wise.—Bonnard.

Every duty we omit obscures some truth we should have known.—Ruskin.

No true and permanent fame can be founded except in labors for the happiness and good of mankind.—Charles Sumner.

A Very Good World, Altogether.

"'Tis a very good world that we live in,
To lend, or to spend, or to give in;
But to beg, or to borrow, or get a man's own,
'Tis the very worst world that ever was known."
—Old Quatrain, often quoted.

I am tired of this twaddle provoking,
Of this arrogant, impudent croaking,
In which manhood (so-called) all divinity shelves,
And monkeys proceed to make gods of themselves.

'Tis a very good world, altogether,
To those with brains weighing a feather;
To those who that something called "conscience" can claim,
And with manhood or womanhood worthy the name.

What seer from the far worlds has told us
That God's providence, though it enfold us,
Would best keep us from weakling and idle complaints
By surrounding our lives with the bliss of the saints?

Who gave us the right to defame it—
This "bad world" that glibly they name it?
Because something may jar with the wish or the will
Of some ant of the dust-heap, some grain in the mill?

Because fruits need the labor of growing,
And all knowledge the learning and knowing,
And both money and power need a trifle of toil,
And in action itself there is conflict and spoil?

Who has shown us all this contravening,
The Allfather's beneficent meaning?
Or who gave us the license, with nostril upcurled,
To decide on its rank as "a very bad world"?

Do you think, Oh! my arrogant brother,
That to nurse from the breast of a mother
For the whole of the years of our three-score-and ten
Would be likely to make either "women" or "men"?

Would the arm, without labor or tussle,
Ever grow to the vigor of muscle?
Would the sleeper on rose-leaves grow ready to spring
To the race that could make him a hero or king?

Do the mountains have only eye service?
Or a mission to strengthen and nerve us
In the effort far upward to struggle and climb,
For those needs that may come in a moment of time?

Which is grander, the pool or the ocean—
One stagnant and one in commotion;
One but dabbling the foot of the veriest child,
And one strengthening men with its hurricanes wild?

Shame, shame on that half-hearted mortal
Who would enter eternity's portal
Through the back-way of sluggish and indolent ease,
With no check that can teach him the use of his knees!

Those who reckon this world a reverse one
In the next may need look for a worse one;
For 'tis part of God's plan, blending justice and wrath,
That the grumbler is stripped of the little he hath.

To the children the heirship is given,
Content is a link toward Heaven,
And beware how that world is too freely reviled
O'er which God has so tenderly sorrowed and smiled.

A LEGAL MORTGAGE.

The place is yours by good rights, ain't it, Jason?"

The woman that asked this question, though past her girlhood, was still young, and there had been a time when Jason Sands, in the infatuation of youth, had thought her pretty; but her mouth to-day had a shrewish look, and there was a vindictive snap in her small black eyes. Her hair was twisted so tightly that the wind was powerless to ruffle it, and in her starched calico gown and gingham apron there was a grim tidiness unrelieved by collar or ribbon. She had been to the garden, and she held in her hand a stalk of rhubarb, from which she was pulling in a preoccupied way the silky red peel.

"Oh, I've got a sort of a lien on it, but that ain't ownin' it," said the man, without looking up. He was raking the front yard.

"You hol' the mortgage, don't you?" said the woman, biting off a bit of the rhubarb.

"S'pose I do?"

"Why, the int'res' ain't be'n paid for three years. You know that 'thout my tellin' you."

"Well?" said the man, indifferently.

"Well!" repeated his wife, sharply, "how long you goin' to let it run on so?"

Jason stopped raking and looked at her uneasily. "You don't mean, Mirandy, that you want me to foreclose on my own father and mother?"

"Why not? Business is business, relation or no relation; an' if you did that, the place 'd be ours to do what we please with."

"I ain't so sure about that. It's down in black and white that, whether the int'res' is paid or not, father's al'ays to have a home here. Uncle Richard use' to hold the mortgage; and when he died, some five or six years ago, father got me to take it, so's it wouldn't go out o' the family; but 'taint ever been changed."

"Then 'twas made out 'fore he married agin?" said Miranda.

"Well, what o' that?"

"Nuthin'; only in that case she ain't counted in. An' she ain't your mother, any way."

"She's the only mother I ever knew anything about, Mirandy. She's been a mother to me ever since I was three years ol'—a right-down good one, too; and as for her not bein' counted in, she's just as much right here as if she was; 'cause after father got hurt in the brick-kiln, there was a good many years that he wasn't able to do much, an' all that time she kep' the int'res' paid out of her own pocket. Uncle Richard tol' me so."

Miranda, who had stood nervously nibbling the rhubarb stalk, made haste to change her tactics. "Oh, of course, Jason, I'd al'ays expect you to be good to her. But you know yourself 'taint very pleasant havin' two heads to a house; and so long as Mother Sands thinks she owns it all, I dasn't say a word even if everything goes to rack an' ruin. Besides, she's gittin' too ol' to have the care."

Jason listened with a sort of helpless patience. He was an easy-tempered man, ready to yield almost any point for the sake of peace, and his wife was well aware of his weakness. It was to please her that he had sold his farm; and though at the time he fully intended to buy another, before he could decide on one she had persuaded him to take a place that had been offered him by a city friend as drummer in a wholesale grocery store. It was a business that seemed to her much more "genteel" than farming.

Meanwhile he had accepted his mother's invitation to bring his family home for a visit. "Jus' till I can get time to look up a house," he said.

But Miranda had always coveted the pretty cottage, and before they had been in it a week she had determined to get possession of it. Jason had never told her of the mortgage. Knowing that the place would eventually belong to him, he had not been troubled by the fact that the interest was not always promptly paid; neither did he want the old folks troubled, and it vexed him that Miranda had chanced to find the papers. But her reasoning in regard to the housekeeping seemed very plausible. His mother was past seventy, it was time she had a rest, and she could have it as well as not if she would only consent to let "Mirandy" take charge of things for a while.

"I wish you'd speak to her 'bout it," said Miranda. "She'd be a good deal more likely to do it if you perposed it 'an if I did."

Jason did not covet the task, but he knew the penalty of refusing.

"She's in the kitchen," Miranda remarked, with another nibble at the rhubarb stalk.

"No hurry about it," grumbled Jason. But presently with an air of forced surrender, he laid down his rake and went into the house. He found his mother making bread.

"You see, mother, you're gittin' kinder along in years," he argued, and you'd ought to let somebody else do the heft of the work. Why don't you let Mirandy, long as she's here? She's a firs'-rate housekeeper, an' she'd ruther do it an' not."

The old lady lifted her head with a troubled look. "Why, I shouldn't know what to do with myself, Jason, if I hadn't something to keep me busy. I've al'ays be'n use' to it, you know. But," she added, drawing in her lip, and slowly patting the loaf she was kneading, "if Mirandy wants to take a turn at it for a while, she can. I won't hinder her."

The daughter-in-law accepted this concession with a secret triumph, and she so soon managed to get entire control of the kitchen that the deposed housewife, missing the homely cares that for so many years had occupied her hands and thoughts, would have been in a sad strait had it not been for the children.

"I loves gramma," said little Della one day, as she mounted her grandmother's knee.

"Me do, too," chimed the baby, clambering up beside her sister.

"Makes me think, Hesba," said her husband, a sudden mist dimming his glasses, "of the times you use' to sit holdin' Jany an' Ruth."

Hesba's eyes also grew misty, for there were two little graves in the far corner of the garden; but the prattling children on her lap left her no time for reminiscence.

"Do you put 'em down, an' let 'em muse 'emselves. You coddle 'em too much," fretted Miranda.

"Oh, I like to have 'em 'round me," said Hesba.

But Miranda frowned. "They're gittin' 'mos' as bad as Jason," she complained to herself. "They think there's nobody like that ol' woman."

But Hesba was beginning to tire of the new order of things. Miranda was an excellent housewife; she kept everything trim and orderly, and let nothing go to waste; but her vigilant ways made Hesba feel like a prisoner in her own house, and at last the meek spirit rebelled. The occasion was Miranda's interference one morning when Hesba had gone into the kitchen to make a cup custard for her husband, a dish that no one else could make quite to the old man's taste.

"I can't endure havin' other folk putterin' roun' my kitchen," said the younger woman, with a marked emphasis on the possessive pronoun.

"No more can I," retorted Hesba, her blue eyes flashing.

But she hated wrangling, and though quivering with anger, she walked away without saying anything more.

"She'll find out some day who's mistress here," snapped Miranda to herself.

Jason's new business often took him from home for weeks at a time, and it was while he was off on one of these expeditions that Miranda improved the opportunity to carry out a long-cherished project.

"Seems to me, gran'ma," she began, warily, having joined her mother-in-law in the sitting room, armed with her knitting-work, "you're looking kinder peaked. If I's you I'd take a little trip somewheres. Jason says you've got a brother livin' over in Connecticut. I should think it'd be nice for you to go an' visit him. Why don't you, now?"

"Well, I don't know. I never was much of a han' to go visitin'," said Hesba, as unsuspicious as a baby. "And though I don't doubt brother William 'd be glad to see us; he's got such a family of his own, I should feel as if we's imposin' on him."

"Might as well impose on him as on folks that's no relation to you." And Miranda's needles clicked viciously.

Hesba looked at her in wonder. "What do you mean, Mirandy? I didn't know's I was imposin' on anybody."

"I don't know what else you can call it," said Miranda, with merciless deliberation. "You know well enough that the int'res' on the mortgage ain't be'n paid for years an' Jason could turn you out to-morrer if he wanted to."

"Turn us out!" repeated Hesba. "Oh, no, Mirandy, he could'nt do that, 'cause father's to have a home here as long as he lives; he's got that down in writin'!"

"Yes; but you an' father's two different persons. Your name ain't put down on the paper, and I's only sayin what we could do if we wanted to. But I'm expectin' comp'ny from the city next week an' 'twould obleege me consid'rable if you'd jus' go over to your brother's an' stay a spell, 'cause while you's away father could sleep on the cot in the hall bedroom."

"Go an' leave father! Is that what you mean, Mirandy?"

It was pitiful to see how white and tremulous she grew.

"Why, you wouldn't want to take him with you when your brother's got such a large family already? What'd be the use?" said Miranda. She was very willing to have the old man stay; she depended on him to bring all the wood and water.

Hesba turned to the window to catch her breath. Outside, gray clouds were lowering, and spiteful gusts were sending little coveys of brown leaves scurrying through the air, but Hesba saw only the tall gaunt figure in the potato patch, and throwing a shawl over her head, she hurried out. The old man dropped his hoe and went to meet her.

"If you go, Hesba, I go too, you can depend on that," he said, hotly, when she had told her trouble.

But after talking it over, they decided that unless Miranda herself brought up the subject, they would not mention it again. Perhaps before the week was out Jason would be home. And by-and-bye Miranda, who had taken Hesba's place at the window, saw them coming up from the potato patch hand in hand, the old man walking very erect, his hoe across his shoulder, and the little old wife clinging to him like a child.

"I s'pose they think they've got it all settled," muttered the woman; "but—we'll see."

Two days later a letter came to Hesba from her brother.

"She's been a-writing to him," blurted the old man clinching his fist.

Hesba took no notice of the remark. "He says," she began, following the lines slowly with her dim eyes, "that he'd like very much to have a visit from me, an' he hopes I'll come right away, 'fore col' weather sets in. But he's 'fraid I'll have to put up with sleepin' with one o' the children, they're so short o' room."

"Then o' course that puts an end to father's goin'," said Miranda, coming in noiselessly from the kitchen, the door having been left ajar.

"An' to her goin', too, I guess," answered the old man.

"Oh, you shouldn't say that, father," said Miranda. "It'll be a real nice little trip for her, and do her lots o' good."

The old man scowled, and thumped the floor with his cane. "She ain't goin' to stir a step, not with my consent," he cried, angrily.

"Sh-sh, father," whispered his wife. "Don't let's have any words about it."

Miranda put her apron to her eyes. "I'm sure I don't want to have no words," she whimpered.

Hesba stood up with her hand upon her husband's shoulder. "We wont say anything more, Mirandy. I'll go to William's as soon as I can get my things ready, an' stay till your company's gone."

Miranda walked out of the room without answering. She had gained the day, and there was nothing more to be said, but she still held her apron to her eyes.

The old people had seldom been separated even for a day, and during the time that intervened they would sit hand in hand, by the hour, trying forlornly to find some way of escape from Miranda's plan.

"It's no use, father," sighed Hesba. "She's made up her mind to have me go, an' to go 'fore Jason comes home, an' she won't res' till she gets me out o' the house."

"Well, she'll repent it," saie the old man, shaking his head.

"Don't father," entreated his wife. "Tain't for us to make her repent it."

It was not until the time came to say good-by that the chiidren began to comprehend that she was going away.

"Gramma mustn't do," cried little Della, clinging to Hesba's skirts, and then the baby set up a wail, and refused to be comforted.

Hesba strained the little creatures for a moment to her bosom. "I don't want any harm to come to you, Mirandy," she said, turning to her daughter-in-law, "but I can't help fearin' that separatin' father an' me as you're doin', the Lord may see fit to separate you from some o' them you love."

That was her farewell word.

When Jason came home the following week, it was an easy matter for Miranda to make him believe that his mother had gone of her own free will to visit her brother, the old man, obedient to his wife's entreaty, keeping silent. She took much credit to herself for having managed it so well. Her visitors came and went, but she said not a word about Hesba's coming home. Not even the old man's pleading eyes could move her.

One morning in November, while Miranda was busy in the kitchen, little Nan wandered into the yard and amused herself for half an hour chasing the chickens. The ground was covered with slush, and that night the child was seized with diphtheria.

For three days she lay tossing and moaning, and almost the only words that passed her lips were, "Gamma! I ont gamma."

"Baby can't have gran'ma. Gran'ma's gone," said Miranda. "Mommer's here to take care o' Nan."

But she was not skillful at nursing, Nan grew rapidly worse, still moaning for "gamma"; and death came with the suddenness characteristic of the disease.

Jason reached home the day before the funeral. He was almost heart-broken. "You'd ought to sent for mother," he said at once.

"I don't know what for," Miranda protested, in an injured voice. "The doctor an' me did everything that could be done, an' there wouldn't be any earthly use sendin' for her now."

A day or two later little Della came and leaned against her knee as she sat sewing. "I want my gramma," said the child, with a long-drawn sigh. "I want her to tell me stories."

"Della seems to think she-hol's a mortgage on mother," said the old man; "an' I guess it's legaler 'an the one some other folks hol'."

Miranda winced, but she was too wise to make him any answer. "Go to gran'pa," she said to Della. "He'll tell you 'bout Jack the Giant-killer."

"I doesn't want to hear 'bout Jack 'e Giant-killer," said the child, perversely. "Gramma she telled me stories 'bout little chillen love one anuver."

Her grandfather took her on his knee. "That was said for grown-up folks as well as for little children, he remarked, looking furtively at Miranda, "an' it means that everybody ought to be lovin' an' kind to each other."

"Gramma was lovin' an' kind," said Della.

The old man laid his cheek against hers, but he drew back with a startled face.

"Why, Mirandy, this child's sick!" he exclaimed. "She's got a ragin' fever."

Miranda threw down her sewing, and snatched the child away from him. Della was her idol.

"I want gramma," repeated the little one, drowsily. Just then Jason came in.

"Go telegraph for mother," cried Miranda. "Tell her not to wait for anything."

When the doctor came the next afternoon, he found his little patient nestled in Hesba's lap, while close beside them, his chin on his cane, and his face beaming like a lover's sat the old man.

"Ah, she is better," said the doctor. "She is getting on finely."

"We're all better," piped the old man, blinking behind his glasses.

"We've got our grandma back," said the child, contentedly.—Mary B. Sleight, in Salem Gazette.

THE SPIRIT MOVED.

The scene is painted by the clever word artist of the Editor's Drawer in Harper's Magazine. Mrs. Mullany had gone to sleep in her chair; her ball of yarn had fallen to the floor, where the cat was knitting cobwebs with it between the chairs.

Pat Mullany was smoking his old clay pipe and trying to get last week's news into his head by means of reading aloud very slowly and spelling the hard words. Oblivious to his wife's nap, he said: "Biddy, do ye mind that? Moi, but he was the foine man! Listen, will yez? 'The percession moved along wid th' gallent Siventh actin' as guards on each side of the c-a-i-s-s-o-n.' Phat th' divil's that? C-a-i ki, must be th' carcass. 'Th' streects were lined wid a mul-ti-tude of people.' "

Here he was interupted by a knock at the door, to which he paid no attention, save to glance at the door. The knock was repeated.

"Who's thare?"

"Sure it's us."

"Who the divil's us?"

"Shure it's me, Tim Ryly, Billy Muldune, Mister Maguire, and the rist."

"Phat do yez be wantin' here? It's most nine o'clock, and Biddy's ashlape be the fire."

"Pat Mallaney, will ye open the door and let us be after comin' in? We've come to pass the time wid yez. Barney Rooney's got his fiddle, and we could have a sthip or two."

"Go 'way wid yez."

"Here's Mrs. O'Hay, wid a foine sthewed rabbit, and Mrs. Flynn, wid some foine pays."

The door opens an inch.

"Come, now, it's Larry Quinn has his pocket full of pipes and tobacco, and it's mesilf that has sugar and limons; that, wid the aid of a little hot wather, and a drap of the crathur will put a heart in yez."

"Ye spalpeen! where do yez think I'd be after gettin' the crathur at this time of night?"

"Shure its just Tim Ryly as can tell ye. Haven't I got the bottle under me arm and lively wid me heart's throbbin'?"

"Tim Ryly, shure it's a fool ye are! Why didn't ye tell me an hour ago? Come in and see Biddy; shure she's wearyin' for a sight of yez. Biddy, me dear, here's Mr. Ryly an' the rist come for a bit of supper they've brought along wid 'em. Shure here they've been standin' widout, and we waitin' widin, hours."

Parson Job—"Horrible weather, Uncle Jacob." Uncle Jake—"'At's adzackly 'cording to how you look at it, parson. I don't nevah complain about de weddah, 'cause it's weekid; but ef dis kine of weddah is goin' to continue to keep on remainin' dis heer way much longah, I be dam, parson, ef I don't swap my patience for a postage-stamp, an' mail myself over to Jersey."—Puck.

Mistress—"I'd just like to know what was the meaning of all that loud and angry talking down stairs last night?" Domestic—"That was just me and me husband, mum." "Your husband? You told me when you came that you were not married." "I wasn't then, mum, but you complained about having so much love-makin' in the kitchen, so I married one of 'em."—Tit-Bits.

Applicant—Don't you recognize me, Mr. President? Cleveland—Yes, I recognize you, but I can't place you.—Texas Siftings.

The Heart of The Tree.

What does he plant who plants a tree?
He plants a friend of sun and sky;
He plants the flag of breezes free;
The shaft of beauty, towering high;
He plants a home to heaven anigh
For song and mother-croon of bird
In hushed and happy twilight heard—
The treble of heaven's harmony—
These things he plants who plants a tree.

What does he plant who plants a tree?
He plants cool shade and tender rain,
And seed and bud of days to be,
And years that fade and flush again;
He plants the glory of the plain;
He plants the forest's heritage;
The harvest of the coming age;
The joy that unborn eyes shall see—
These things he plants who plants a tree.

What does he plant who plants a tree?
He plants, in sap, and leaf, and wood,
In love of home and loalyty
And far-cast thought of civic good—
His blessings on the neighborhood
Who in the hollow of His hand
Holds all the growth of all our land—
A nation's growth from sea to sea
Stirs in his heart who plants a tree.
—H. C. Bunner, in April Century.

AMONG THE PARAGRAPHERS.

"One little word," he pleaded,
"One that will move me, pet."
His tender request she heeded
By softly murmuring, "Get."
—New York Sun.

She—Is your wife very entertaining this winter? He—Not very—except to other men!—Vogue.

"That air is very familiar," said the musician as a gust of wind took his hat away.—Harvard Lampoon.

Under the discouragements of these cold nights pussy willows can get out only just about "so fur."—Lowell Courier.

"How are you getting on with your bicycle riding, Dick? Dick—"I spend most of my time getting on."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"What made you send in your resignation?" said a citizen to an ex-office holder. "I was axed for it," was the cheerful reply.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

A German student, wrestling with the English language, rendered a text as follows: "The ghost is willing, but the meat is feeble."—Educational News.

Father—"A hundred dollars for a suit of clothes! I never paid that for a suit in my life." Son—"Well, you'll have to begin now, father; here's the bill."—Brooklyn Life.

Corporal (to recruit)—"I say, you lubber, you are not paying the slightest attention. What is your head for?" Recruit—"To prevent my collar from slipping off."—Million.

McCarthy—"Old Brown declares you are the most entertaining talker in club. What do you usually talk about in his company?" McConnick—"Old Brown."—Brooklyn Life.

"Kate, what's become of the porus plaster I left on that desk?"

"Porus plaster! Why, I thought it was one of those new postage stamps, and I put it on a letter to ma."

"Sorry I've no better quarters to invite you all to, Mrs. Quiverful!" "Ah, you should marry, Captain Sparks! If you'd get a better half you'd have better quarters, too!"—London Punch.

His Fiancee (piqued)—"Why did you pay so much attention to those married women?" He—"For experience. I've got to get used to a married woman some time, you know."—Chicago News-Record.

"Rising generation!" said a worn looking mother. "I guess they would not be called so, if folks only knew how hard it was to get six children out of bed in the morning."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

A Great Present. Uncle Ned—"What are you going to give little sister for a birthday present?" Oliver—"I'm going to ask papa to get her a football, and I'll show her how to play."—Harper's Young People.

"My dear," said Mrs. Barlow, "the doctor says that travel would be a good thing for me." "Very well, my dear. Here is a quarter. If you travel by the Belt line, you'll be able to go around New York five times."—Harper's Bazar.

"Dey tells you," said Uncle Eben to the little boy next door, "dat life am mos'ly luck; dat it am just like a game of kyards." "Yes." "Well, don't you blebe it. In life dah ain' no booby prize for the man who gits lef'."—Washington Star.

The Artists' Festival. The Captain—"By Jove, Miss Pompadour, how the costumes and make up alter people. I hardly knew you." Miss Pompadour—"Do I look such a fright, then?" The Captain—"On the contrary, you look charming."—Boston Budget.

Took the Wind out of His Sails.—Waggs (to young matron with the preambulator)—"Good morning, Mrs. Fullbloom! Are you taking the son out for an airing, or the heir out for a sunning?" Mrs. Fullbloom—"Neither, Mr. Waggs. Baby is a girl.—Life's Calendar.

Host (nervous about the effect of his guest's wooden leg on the polished floor)—"Hadn't you better come on the rug, Major? You might slip out there, my boy." The Major—"Oh, don't be afraid, my boy. There is no danger; I have a nail in the end of it."—New York Ledger.

"Mary Jane," said the Dakota farmer to his spouse, "it seems like flyin' in the face of Providence to name that boy Elijah. It sounds too much like the old feller in the Bible that was carried away by a cyclone. I don't think it's a proper name at all for this country."—Indianapolis Journal.

"I have lost my little Fido," said the young woman, chokingly. "Here is a notice offering a reward for his recovery." "To go in the 'want' column, I suppose," said the advertising clerk. "No sir!" she replied, haughtily, "I want it to go among your other personal items, sir!"—Chicago Tribune.

ECONOMICAL TABLE SUPPLIES.

Sight must never be lost of the importance of a proper supply of good food, writes Maria Parloa in a valuable article on "The Division of the Family Income" in the March Ladies' Home Journal. The young housekeeper should learn, by study and practice, how to provide her table with nutritious and appetizing food, and yet not depend upon the most expensive viands in the market. By slow processes of cooking, such as stewing, brazing, etc., it is possible to produce palatable and nutritious food from the cheapest cuts of meat. If one will select the fish that is abundant in that neighborhood where he lives, rather than the rarer kinds, it may, with a little care and skill in the preparation, be made to rival the more expensive kinds. Green vegetables are never cheap when the first come nor when the season for them is nearly over, but when the market is supplied in abundance, they are not only cheaper, but, being grown nearer home, are better. It will be best, therefore, to use these vegetables only when they are cheap. A fresh vegetable diet is not cheap in a large city. Still, fresh vegetables are necessary to perfect health and they should be provided for the table whenever they are in season and within one's means. Macaroni, rice, dried beans, etc., are economical and nutritious. Canned corn, when of the best kind, is a most satisfactory vegetable; so are canned tomatoes, which can be served in soups, sauces, and as a vegetable, simply stewed or escaloped. Cheese, when properly cooked, is healthful and nutritious. In a perfect Welch rarebit, or when toasted, or combined with macaroni, cheese makes an appetizing, wholesome and economical dish. Tripe, kidneys, beef, lamb's and calf's liver, make cheap and savory dishes. Lamb's liver is so little in demand that the price is amusingly cheap—from five to ten cents for a liver weighing a pound or more. This meat is almost as tender and delicate as chicken liver.

IF THE PEOPLE ONLY KNEW THE ASSORTMENT

HAYNES & CO.

shows, that would settle it. Good judges who have looked into the matter find it pays to find HAYNES & CO., the leading Clothiers, Tailors, Hatters and Furnishers.

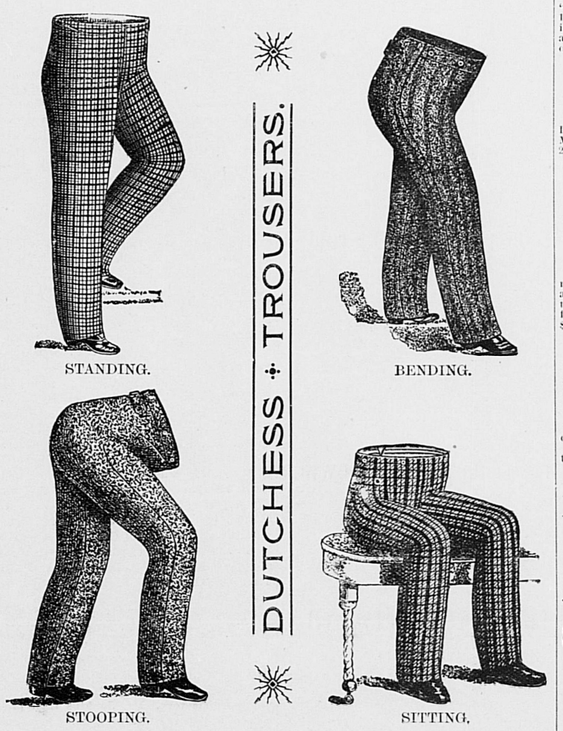
Something every week, every day, NEW to show the people.

Our great lines of HANDSOME SPRING SUITS at prices within the reach of al'. Complete suits at $7, $7.50, $8, $9, $9.98, $10, $12, $14, $16, and $18.
SPRING OVERCOATS—$6, $7.50, $8, $9, $10, $12, $14, $15, $16, $18 and $20.
5000 pairs of fine and medium priced PANTALOONS—$1.50 to $8. Assortment tells.
Business in our Boys' and Children's Dept. just doubling up.
Have you seen the RECIPROCITY SUITS for boys, age 4 to 14 years. Double seat and knees, pure all wool, 14 styles, price $4.85 per suit.
The Columbus for boys, age 4 to 14, including the Columbus Medal. This is a beauty, equal to suits sold at $6.50 and $7; price $5. 600 sold this spring.
Every dollars worth of goods sold, we guarantee as to price and quality.

HAYNES & CO., THE POPULAR CLOTHIERS,
SPRINGFIED, MASS.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.



No matter in what position you place yourself, DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers

AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,

And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR.

BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

Something Good for Little Money!

SPRING STYLES IN SHOES!

Russia Calf Shoes FOR EVERYBODY. All the popular styles in stock.

The greatest variety of low cut shoes and Oxfords ever shown in Springfield.

Ladies' French kid button boots, Laird, Schober & Mitchell's, also Cousins' make—some hand-sewed. Former price $6.00; to close, $4.00.
Ladies' and misses' cloth top spring heel button always in stock.
A nice russet Oxford for ladies at $1.25.
Gent's patent leather shoes a specialty.

HALL'S SHOE HOUSE,

294 MAIN STREET, NEXT TO POST OFFICE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

YOU CAN HAVE THE Cosmopolitan Magazine pay your SCHOOL OR COLLEGE EXPENSES.

1000 Free Scholarships

At leading colleges of the country—Yale, Vassar, Harvard, Ann Arbor, Wellesley, University of Chicago, Georgetown; the great schools of Art, Music, Medicine, leading convents, the schools of Science or Agriculture. ALL ARE OPEN TO YOU

The Cosmopolitan Magazine Signalized Its First Edition of 150,000 Copies for January, 1893,

Sent out from its own printing house and bindery, by offering 1000 scholarships at the leading colleges of the country in consideration of work which any ambitious young boy or girl can readily do, work at once honorable and easy of accomplishment.

If you wish to educate yourself, to have your tuition, board, lodging and washing paid at any leading school or college, without putting the expense upon your parents, and solely through your own efforts, send for pamphlet giving full particulars to THE COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, Broadway, 5th Ave. and 25th St., New York.

Did you know

THAT YOU CAN FIND

a fine line of footwear

Including SLIPPERS, etc., at LUMAN'S?

He also wishes to announce to the people of THORNDIKE and vicinity that he has added a line of PATENT MEDICINES, etc., to his stock. . . . The only place in the village where you can get a full line of Lazell's NEW YORK PERFUMES. Don't buy cheap colognes when you can get the very best for a trifle more. . . Call and examine whether you wish to purchase or not.

At J. F. LUMAN'S.

WON'T YOU NEED US DURING THE SPRING OF 1893?

: WE HAVE :

Every Thing to Sit on,

Lounge on—Sleep on—Walk on—Stand on—Hang on—Cook on—Eat on!

ALL THINGS

For convenience, comfort, adornment or necessity required for home or home furnishing.

SETS.

In this line it is timely to look at parlor, library, chamber and dining-room sets.

We have them in all makes, woods, styles and finish. They are splendid in looks and are built to stand a life of service and moving. You can afford them at our prices and on our liberal terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.
If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half-mile in public in stud season in 1.07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2.52 1-2, trial 2.44.

For Speed! Speed! Speed!

Breed to "LENOX B." son of ALCYONE and IDLEWOOD, 2.29 1-4, trial 2.18. ALCYONE sired Martha Wilkes 2.08, McKinnay 2.12 1-2, Alcyon 2.15, Bush 2.16.

For particulars see or write to

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

Farm of 75 acres with house and two barns, running water at house and barn, fruit in abundance, farm will keep 10 head of cattle, cream taken at door, best of neighbors, short distance from two manufacturing villages. Price $2000. $500 down and balance on mortgage.

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

House and barn with seven acres of good productive land in a village. $1600.
Pastures from 20 to 30 acres in Palmer for $500 to $600.
Lot of manure for sale cheap.

D. F. HOLDEN,

Palmer, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD'S CLOAK AND SUIT HOUSE.

JACKETS
In every color, shape and price. One of the styles, "The Butterfly cape" jacket, we have at $7.50, $8.50 and $10. The "Mecca" jacket comes with a very wide collar which makes a cape. This is the very latest Parisian cut. It comes lined fancifully and has the "Umbrella" back. Ask to see the "Mecca."

CAPES
For all ages and sizes. They come in lengths and sizes appropriate for all. The assortment is unsurpassed in this city. We have excellent ones for elderly ladies, more in the wrap shapes that tie in the back, and many imported styles you won't find elsewhere.

LADIES' WAISTS AND SUITS.
This department is complete with every variety and style of waist and suit for travelling or house wear. See them.

Jas. McKeon & Co

399 MAIN ST., SPRINGFIELD, MASS. tf-51

THE BEST BICYCLES ON EARTH are COLUMBIAS.

SEE THE GUARANTEE MADE ON THEIR TIRES.

FROM $110 TO $150.

SOLD BY

CHANDLER BROS.,

PALMER.

NEW DENTAL OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental Office formerly occupied by Dr. Hill, I should be pleased to see any who are in need of my services.
All operations performed in the best possible manner.

E. S. BRYANT, D. M. D.

HATCH BLOCK, PALMER. tf-29

FLYNT

Building and Construction Co.

GENERAL OFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

We contract to perform all labor, and furnish all material of the different classes, required to build complete.

CHURCHES, HOTELS, MILLS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND RESIDENCES.

Also for the construction of

RAILROADS, DAMS AND BRIDGES.

We solicit correspondence with those wishing to place the construction of any proposed new work under one contract, which shall include all branches connected with the work.
To such parties we will furnish satisfactory references from those for whom we have performed similar work.

GRANOLITHIC.

We are the New England Agents for Stewart & Co's. Patent Granolithic for sidewalks, floors, steps, etc.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R

SOUTHERN DIVISION

(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)

CORRECTED TO MARCH 26, 1893.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.18 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 6.55 a. m.

RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.

FOR Worcester—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.55, 4.45, 6.25 p. m.

FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.

FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43, 7.52 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.

FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.52 p. m.

THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILROAD.

NEW LONDON DIVISION.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3d, 1892.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Leave Brattleboro, 5.45 and 10.25 a m and 4.25 p m for New London, connecting at Millers Falls with Fitchburg R. R. at Belchertown with Central Massachusetts R R, and at Palmer for Worcester Boston, Springfield, etc.
Leave Amherst, 7.05 a m, 12.14 and 5.53 p m.
Leave Palmer, 6.40 and 8.40 a m, 1.55 and 7.10 p m.
Leave Willimantic for New London, 8.00, 10.17 a m 3.25, 6.35 and 8.45 p m.

GOING NORTH.

Leave New London, 5.25 and 7.45 a m, 2.30 and 5.20 p m.
The 5.25 and 7.45 a m and 5.20 p m run through to Brattleboro and make connections for the north.
Leave New London for Palmer, 2.30 p m.
Leave New London for Willimantic and intermediate stations, 10.05 a m.
Leave Palmer for Brattleboro, 8.35, 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m, the 11.00 connecting with express for Montreal and the White Mountains. Also Grand Trunk R. R. for the West.
Leave Palmer for Amherst, 8.35 and 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m.

D. MACKENZIE, Supt., New London, Ct.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.
CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S Opera House Drug Store.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, PALMER, MASS.

Hours from 9 a. m. to 12 m., 1 to 3 p. m.

JAMES B. SHAW, President.

ENOS CALKINS of Palmer, GEORGE MOORES of Thorndike, T. D. POTTER of Springfield, } Vice Presidents.

W. W. LEACH, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Enos Calkins, | R. C. Newell, |
| James B. Shaw, | F. E. Marcy, |
| Geo. Moores, | H. Waid, |
| H. G. Loomis, | W. W. Leach, |
| T. D. Potter, | C. H. Hobbs, |
| H. P. Holden, | C. E. Getchell, |
| E. G. Hastings, | Geo. E. Buck, |
| C. L. Gardner, | A. L. Hills, |
| Wm. Holbrook. | |

BOARD OF INVESTMENT.

Enos Calkins, T. D. Potter James B. Shaw, Geo. Moores, H. G. Loomis, E. G. Hastings, C. E. Getchell.

AUDITORS.

C. H. Hobbs, A. L. Hills.

L. E. MOORE, Trasurer.

World's Fair.

Printed matter describing the Fair, and full printed information as to reaching Chicago from your home, including the time-tables of the railroads and sailings of the steamers you would use, may be had FREE by arrangment with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, if you address

THE JOURNAL,
Palmer, Mass.

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 28, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 4.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. A discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. SIX months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $10; one-half inch one week, 75 cents; each additional week, 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," "To-Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; no charge less than 25 cents. Notices in local column, 15 cents per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best styles, promptly and at reasonable rates.

C. B. FISKE. L. E. CHANDLER.

[Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m..

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street. H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street. G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine HONDURAS sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because the yellow dock, being raised expressly for the Company, is always fresh and of the very best kind. With equal discrimination and care each of the other ingredients are selected and compounded. It is

Cures CATARRH

THE Superior Medicine

Because it is always the same in appearance, flavor, and effect, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed. It is, therefore, the most economical blood purifier in existence. It makes food nourishing, work pleasant, sleep refreshing, and life enjoyable. It searches out all impurities in the system and expels them harmlessly by the natural channels. AYER'S Sarsaparilla gives elasticity to the step, and imparts to the aged and infirm renewed health, strength and vitality.

Cures SCROFULA

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Cures others, will cure you

D. W. FOSKETT,

Grain Dealer

FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance II." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

CUSTOM SUITS

—FROM:—

$17.00 to $27.00

Pants from $4.50 to $8.00.

Our full line of SPRING SAMPLES now on exhibition.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

-:- SPRING HATS! -:-

LADIES'

SPRING DRESS GOODS.

The most complete line we ever carried.

☞ We are the CHEAPEST CARPET HOUSE in the state.

Yours truly,

S. H. Hellyar & Co.

Engraved Address Cards

Are the correct thing for ladies or gentlemen.

Correct sizes—latest styles of letters.

Call and see samples.

The PALMER JOURNAL.

PAPER : : HANGINGS

New Designs.

Latest Patterns.

Bottom Prices.

LARGEST STOCK TO SELECT FROM ! ! ! !

and will furnish a good man to hang it for you. Don't neglect to

PAPER YOUR CEILINGS!

and let us show you something pretty to do it with—at

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POLISH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT'S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LEGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.

WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,

NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

1893—SPRING—1893

CARPET : : Department

(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN
65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN
35c to 50c.

HEMP
15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS
25c to 60c
(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS
15c to 40c
(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS
$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS
50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.
Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

C. H. HOBBY,
PIANO TUNER.
Orders for tuning may be left at O. P. Allen's drug store, Palmer; or may be sent to me by mail to Mansfield, Ct.

Ripans Tabules cure torpid liver.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

Lethe.

(On Coming Across an Old Photograph.)

Sue or Bess or Isabel?
Which it is I cannot tell.
Isabel had golden hair
(But then Sue's was full as fair).
Here's a lock she gave to me,
With a sprig of rosemary.
Sue or Bess or Isabel?
Which it is I cannot tell.

Isabel or Sue or Bess?
Let me make at least a guess.
These are Bess's eyes of blue
(Isabel's were azure too),
How could I those eyes forget,
They are looking at me yet,
Isabel or Sue or Bess?
Let me make at least a guess.

Bess or Isabel or Sue?
Hang it all, I wish I knew!
Sue had lips of cherry red
(Bess had kissed the rose that bled.)
Listen! there's a whisper low
From those lips of long ago.
It is— Ah! the curtain falls—
Amy from the garden calls.

—W. G. Van Tassel Sutphen in Harper's Weekly.

WHY ONE FARM WAS NOT ABANDONED.

The day's business of old County Savings Bank was nearly done. Mr. Pendell, the treasurer, and his three assistants were busy making up their accounts. Mr. Pendell was a methodical, old-fashioned business man who did most of his writing at a plain high desk, where he stood leaning on one elbow hour after hour, with no apparent fatigue. As for the three younger men, they were seated at more or less ornate roll-top desks; two of these clerks were Mr. Downs and Mr. Hathaway, reliable at accounts and both in the later twenties of their age. At the least elegant of the desks, with his face toward the street sat Jonas Dyer, a young, good-looking country fellow, whose round face had never known an anxious furrow until he came to his junior clerkship, a few weeks before.

He was a poor lad as to this world's wealth, and of late had been forwarded in life by an old uncle who was senior director of the bank. Jonas knew that a great deal might depend on his own diligence and accuracy in accounts. He was slow at figures and slow with his pen, and he had by nature no gift for saving. It was fortunate that he had little to spend, otherwise there might have been clearer revelations of his generous traits. Everybody gave him congratulations enough on his good chance in the County Savings Bank, but nobody wasted sympathy on the caged heart of poor Jonas, who loved a free life and out-of-door air; he sometimes felt as if the new bank fittings, and especially the handsome iron fretwork behind which he stood, all savored of the prison, and that during bank hours at least he was a sorrowful captive. The other clerks were fond of their surroundings, and recognized a different spirit in their young associate. By some mysterious insight they were aware of the tone that Jonas' mother always took in laying his duty before him. She was a devoted mother, but she loved the exhorting sound of her own voice, and had talked so much to her growing boy that he had become stolidly reticent. Perhaps Downs and Hathaway had found their example in one of Mrs. Dyer's rare visits to the bank, when it may be suspected that she had come in merely to look upon her only son at his desk, trusted as he was with untold gold and on the high road to fortune. There was nobody else there that day on the customers' side when Jonas timidly presented his mother to his three companions. Old Mr. Pendell behaved with courteous dignity, inviting Mrs. Dyer to come in and sit down, while Jonas unfastened the wicket gate for her, and, blushing red, gave her his own chair. How fast the good woman did talk without knowing it! Jonas went ostentatiously into the great safe to divert her mind and show her how completely he felt at home, trying by the way to escape a direct look at Downs and Hathaway. To tell the truth, he was just twenty years old and hardly felt as if he were sixteen.

"I tell Jonas," Mrs. Dyer was saying, "that there is a good deal to be proud of and grateful for in this situation. I know he's a good boy, if not so quick as some, and I advise him to be attentive and bidable to you, Mr. Pendell, and I want him to be constant at meetin' and to avoid worthless associates. I felt very anxious about him when he came away from home. He ain't no judgment what to eat"—

Jonas came bursting out of the safe with expression of agony.

"I guess Mr. Pendell will let you come in and see where he keeps all his money," the poor boy told his mother, trying to behave as if there were a great joke going on. He did not look at the other fellows

"I tell 'em up our way that there nothing to prevent your filling your pockets unless 'tis your honesty," the visitor said, and then happily became speechless as Jonas let her take one hurried look into the gold and silver drawers. He was fond of his mother, but she insisted upon treating him like a boy, and since he had lived in town among strangers he had begun to feel as if he were a man. The call was abruptly ended by the appearance of a friend who had brought Mrs. Dyer to town shopping. Downs and Hathaway shook hands with the good woman and seemed to take pleasure in accepting her kind invitation to come up with Jonas and stop awhile whenever they got leave. But alas! from this call much misery took rise; it was the delight of the elder clerks to treat Jonas as if he were both touchingly young and delicate of constitution. They never went so far as to show the slightest disrespect in allusion to or quotation from the anxious mother; they simply adopted her solicitude about Jonas, who was seldom allowed in their presence to put on manly behavior. But if they did not chaff him about this they would be sure to find something else, and so as they explained his bank work with unfailing patience, our hero bore their chaffing and mockery as best he might, and with whatever bravery and unconcern he could master.

Jonas stood beside his desk, facing the street, in a moment of idleness; he was so tall that he could see over the mahogany railing that screened the bank interior from the glance of passers-by. It was cold weather outside, and he had a sense of snug warmth and his own privileged position, yet the thought crossed his mind that it would be a good day to go through a piece of woods and mark trees for chopping. There would be no wind in the woods: somehow he could not get over the habit of planning farm work. At this moment he noticed an ancient covered chaise which belonged to the elderly farmer who was just arranging his financial business. Mr. Pendell himself liked to attend to some of the old bank customers, for there had been days when the County Savings Bank depended upon his services alone, and he was consequently trusted by all the thrifty farmers of the region.

Under the cover of the carriage Jonas did not at first observe a fresh young country face; he looked at the shaggy, strong old horse, used for plowing and as a roadster by turns, and calculated the probable age and worth of the good beast before he saw the bright eyes beyond. Then a little thrill of curiosity and pleasure, such as he had never felt before, pervaded his frame. He felt a new sense of wakefulness and cheerful alacrity. The girl in the buggy looked at him as he looked at her, and if the truth were known the eyes of Jonas were the first to turn away. Hathaway softly reminded him that it was business hours, and Jonas bent sideways limberly into the chair before his own desk. Hathaway rose for an instant to see what was interesting outside, but the pretty girl was in eclipse of the chaise top. "Thinking of buying that colt?" inquired Hathaway, a good deal disappointed, and Jonas vaguely smiled.

Jonas longed to take another look before the buggy was driven away, perhaps forever, but he was afraid of Hathaway

"Who was that old gentleman, Hathaway?" he made bold to inquire, but Hathaway only shuffled an angry foot for answer, and began again at a long column of figures.

"That's Joel Hayland; he lives eight or nine miles down Oak Hill way; a good comfortable farmer, and as honest a man as I know." Mr. Pendell himself spoke warmly, and Jonas himself spoke as he were listening to the praise of one of his own family.

Just then old Mr. Hayland and his daughter were going out of town, well wrapped against the chilly wind, which luckily was well astern of the covered chaise.

"We shall have it nice an' comfortable goin' home, sha'n't we Love? asked the farmer, "Did you get all those things your mother wanted?"

"Yes, sir, said Love. "Seems to me there's something I haven't remembered, too. Who was it in the bank?" she added.

"Mr. Pendell, the cashier—a nice, good man he is—wanted to be remembered to your mother."

"Oh, not Mr. Pendell; I know him," protested Love; "a younger man, I mean."

"I don't know's I really took notice. There's two or three of 'em; a young Downs has been there a number o' years. Mr. Pendell gets right up, whatever he's doin', an' tends to me himself. They say he don't do it for everybody."

"'Twas a tall, young-lookin' fellow," Love Hayland continued, persuasively, but the old farmer shook his head. Although the northwest wind was behind them, the father and daughter were glad to find themselves in their own warm kitchen again. It was almost night when they got home. The day had been short and bleak, but Love came in with rosy cheeks and dancing eyes and a heartful of pleasure.

"I have had a real good ride," she said, "haven't you, father?"

"'Twas pleasanter than goin' alone," said the plain man, with unwonted gallantry. "I don't know but I like the road full as well in good weather."

"I suppose you got me that set o' knittin' needles?" asked Mrs. Hayland.

"I declare I forgot all about 'em, mother," said Love. "I left them till the last thing because we had to come by the store again and father was in a hurry to get his bank business done. I got into the chase after I did the other errands and"——

"Dear heart, 'tain't such a great matter," said the kind little mother, with a sigh that Love could not hear. "Somebady'll soon be going again."

Presently Love disappeared and took off her best woolen dress and came back in a comfortable old one, but she had lingered to tie a piece of red ribbon for a cravat. When she came down into the kitchen her father and mother and Jacob Bean, the hired man, were already at supper. Love looked uncommonly pretty and they all noticed her; the father and mother stole a pleased glance at one another.

"Seems to me you've taken a good while to change your dress," said Mrs. Hayland, gently reproachful.

"It didn't seem long to me," answered Love, honestly. "I didn't know how late 'twas when we got home, it gets dark so early now. Why, I forgot ever so many things I've thought of buyin'. I shall have to go again as quick as I can," (with a little blush.)

"Come, draw up, and have some of this good, warm supper, child," said the father. "I think the road's too plaguey rough to drive over again until snow comes. If you'd bought much more I shouldn't had a cent left to leave with Mr. Pendall."

"They weren't all my things," said Love. "Mother, I don't know but I ought to have me a new winter suit. Mine seemed to look a little past when I got among folks."

"I thought it looked pretty when you come down ready to go. 'Tis the bother o' gettin' it made," said the busy little woman. Love was still young for her age, and had never settled down into careful, womanly ways, though she was already nineteen.

Jonas and Mr. Pendell were alone together in the bank one February morning. One of the other young men was away at his brother-in-law's funeral, and Hathaway had been sent to Boston on a financial errand. Jonas wished that he could have had the variety of a journey to Boston. Sometimes he felt as if the irksome confinement of his business were telling upon his health and spirits, but he looked perfectly well, and unsympathetic friends still congratulated him on his excellent opportunity. The odor of bank bills became more and more unpleasant to him, and once or twice good Mr. Pendell had felt obliged to urge him to greater quickness—not accuracy, for our hero was much to be trusted in his figures. Jonas was naturally of a domestic turn, and only varied his life now and then by occupying a back seat at an evening meeting. In the bank he sometimes felt important and was upborne by the dignity of his position, but out of bank hours he was simply a clumsy, country fellow, unused to town life. He often looked out of the bank window to see that old horse from Oak Hill, but he was never fortunate, though the two bright eyes that looked under the chaise top still shone like stars in his thoughts.

Mr. Pendell was very busy that morning, and when the door was opened he again nodded to Jonas, who had been busy paying and receiving all the morning. As the young man rose he saw the same horse of his dreams fastened to a post in front of the window. There was an old high-backed sleigh now, with two good buffalo robes and plenty of bright straw. Jonas recognized the quality of the straw and that a most uninteresting man held the reins. But the bank door was open and when Jonas turned there stood his pretty girl. He blushed and she blushed, and they stood looking at each other, but Jonas's business habits stood him in good stead. He reached for the bank book, which was timidly proffered, but he dropped it twice and struck his head on the edge of the counter in trying to pick it up. Mr. Pendell looked up impatiently and that made things worse. The bank book was issued nineteen years before and the only amount credited was a sum placed to the owner's credit when she was a baby by the old aunt for whom she was named. Interest had been added from time to time, so that the hundred dollars was now a comfortable little some. Love pushed a small roll of bills under the grating. "I want to put this in too," she said, and Jonas dipped his pen and made an entry of the date and counted the money afterward and set down the amount.

"There's some back interest due you, but Mr. Downs isn't here today," said Jonas.

"Father said I could leave the book and call for it some other time. I shall have more to put in next month. I'm keeping school."

They blushed again. Hathaway had returned by an earlier train than was expected and just then entered the bank, but nobody noticed him, though Hathaway was quick to see the blushes.

"Won't it put you out if I leave it."

"Not at all," said Jonas, with truly a grand air. "It's our business. Much snow down your way?"

"A good deal," answered the pretty girl, still blushing, and then they almost looked each other in the face again, but were happily saved the embarrassment.

"Is that all?" asked the girl, with touching deference, and Jonas said that it was all, but they both felt as if they wished there were something more, and Love tiptoed out to the empty world or the sidewalk.

"You'd better go out an' untie her horse," suggested Hathaway, affectionately, but by means of this jeer Jonas gained one look after the fair depositor, and reassured himself of her good looks and that Jacob Bean, the elderly hired man, was not to be feared as a rival.

As for Love Hayland, she had forgotten two of her mother's commissions this time instead of one and was jogging home speechless with delight.

There was stormy weather late that winter, and the roads were drifted; then there came a long season of rain and thaw, while Love's book lay unclaimed in the safe. At last she appeared one Saturday morning in March, when the sun was shining like May, and the crows were thick and the road nearly bare of ice and snow all the way to town. Spring was in the air and spring was in Love Hayland's look as she rode in the old chaise at her father's side and waited while he tied the horse to a stone post in front of the bank. Then they went in together; the girl had no idea of letting any one else do her business there.

Jonas had seen them drive up and was in a flutter of anticipation. He had the bravery to elbow Hathaway aside from the counter. Mr. Pendell and Joel Hayland were exchanging their usual friendly jokes and compliments. Mr. Pendell retreated presently to his high desk to make up an account of some sort, but active business still went on between Love and Jonas. It took a long time to credit her with that twenty dollars for her month's school-keeping, and to display and explain the unexpected amount of interest due her in arrears. Then there was a moment of silence, except for the scratching of Hathaway's pen.

"Was you ever to Oak Hill?" Love asked Jonas, sweetly, in the hearing of all present.

Joel Hayland turned with sudden alarm and took a good look at the junior clerk before he had time to speak. "I expect you're old Jonas Dyer's nephew by your looks. I heard you were in the bank some time ago; favor your uncle some, I see. Yes, call in if you're over our way. 'Tain't so pleasant now as it will be later on, but the road's settlin' fast. Good-day, Mr. Pendell, much obleeged to you, sir." The father and daughter departed and Jonas was conscious of that within him which would oblige him to knock down anybody who presumed to smile. As he turned round, however, nobody was smiling; there was an aspect of self-restraint and pious gravity about both Hathaway and Downs; Mr. Pendell was in the safe, and if he openly laughed it was inaudible to the young men outside.

There was no end to the jokes that the two clerks made that day, but none of them had any reference to Oak Hill or Jonas' journey in that direction. In one way the simplicity of Love's question had been a little painful, asked in public as it was, and yet he forgave the lack of maidenly reticense for the sake of a delightful permission won from the father himself. Uncle Jonas was perfectly capable of leaving all his money to the cause of foreign missions and disappointing his poor and worthy relatives of various degrees, but Jonas was glad to have the indorsement of such relationship.

"Was you ever to Pelham Four Corners?", Hathaway asked Jonas as he came in next morning, but Jonas answered yes so meekly as he hung up his coat that the allusion was pressed no further.

"When I was up to my brother-in-law's funeral this winter I heard that there was a man by the name of Waters paying attention to that girl of Mr. Hayland's," said Downs, the head clerk. He was a soberer-minded man than Mr. Hathaway and seemed to speak truthfully. Jonas's heart stood still.

"Was there? What kind of a man is he? She's a pretty girl," said Hathaway.

"A kind of a seeking widower," answered Downs. "She's younger than he, about forty-five per cent, and didn't favor him at all, but he's well off, and the old folks help it on. Their farms join, I believe, and 'twill be a good thing all round. I was kind of surprised when they asked a good-looking fellow like Jonas to call. You'd better not make any trouble, Jonas, but perhaps it's all settled and the old gentleman felt safe."

The next Sunday afternoon Jonas, out of his limited means, hired the smartest single turnout at the best livery stable in Dartford and drove toward Oak Hill. It was like April overhead, but the mud was deep under foot, and he had to walk his impetuous steed the greater part of the way. The day seemed to him perfectly beautiful, and when he was directed to the Hayland farm no one can describe how comfortable and pleasant it looked. It was enough joy to be out in the country after being cooped up so long in town.

The Hayland's best wagon was in the side yard—they had evidently been to church in the morning—and now for the first time Jonas's heart began to beat in an awful and even retarding manner. He could not tie his horse's hitch-rein as it should be tied, the knot worked wrong, and he grew redder and redder, and did not dare to look up at the house windows. Then the door opened and hospitable Joel Hayland came out and welcomed him, and they went into the house together. There was Love in her Sunday dress, as pretty as a pink, and Mrs. Hayland, was motherly and good-natured. She had heard about Jonas from somebody who lived neighbor to his mother, and knew what a good, steady boy he had always been, and that he was doing well in the bank now; nephew and namesake, too, of rich old Jonas Dyer of Dartford. "We should be pleased to have you stop to supper, Mr. Dyer." She invited him kindly, but Jonas thought he ought to get back early. When he turned and looked at Love, however, he forgot time and space, and though they proceeded to speak at length of the state of the roads, he felt himself to be entertained indeed, and the long, spring afternoon flew by on fleetest wings.

There was a very fresh little fire in the prim best room. Others might have found the wide, low-storied kitchen a pleasanter and more airy place to sit, but Jonas and Love had already reached that stage of interest which demands seclusion, and there they sat until the sun was low. It was not art that allured them in the shape of a portrait of Daniel Webster and the Landing of the Pilgrims on the parlor walls; it was not luxury, for the haircloth sofa had stiff springs and sloped forward at a strange angle. What they talked about was also of secondary consideration; it was enough for Love that she talked to Jonas and for Jonas that Love listened to his words. When they came out, trying hard to appear as if it were a n every-day visit, Mrs. Hayland stood at the side of the window after parting with the blushing young visitor and remarked significantly to her husband:

"Joel, just as sure as you're born them two's going to keep company."

"Let 'em have it their own way, they're both good child'n," answered Joel, with a sage smile.

Before the spring work at Oak Hill, Jonas announced to Mr. Pendell that he meant to resign his situation, and gave no reason for so doing. Mr. Pendell, who knew the reason from Joel Hayland himself, laid the serious matter before the directors on Monday morning. Jonas had not brooked his uncle's wrath at home by making a declaration of his ingratitude in proposing to leave so promising a financial career. She old man twisted himself about in his chair and looked very black at the first moment of surprise. Then Mr. Pendell said that he had sympathy with Jonas's decision. The boy was willing and honest and did the best he could, but he was not made for bank work. He was after Joel Hayland's girl over at Oak Hill, and the old folks needed a young, smart man on the farm—it was a good thing all round.

"That's where the young dog's been going every Sunday, then," said old Mr. Dyer, the uncle, with unexpected approval and sympathy. "They're good folks and he might have done worse for himself. If Joel favors the match I'll take hold and give Jonas a little start. I won't have anybody saying that the favor was all on her folks' side."

There was an amiable grumble of applause from the other directors, and the busy cashier at once proposed a sale of bonds which were reported shaky, but rising in market value, and so the great question of the junior clerk's future was quickly solved. The young couple were married in early planting time, and however it may have appeared to other people, for them it was ever a miraculous and wonderful thing that they had fallen in love at first sight, and that their thoughts had always been of one another, even while one was in the bank at Dartford and the other far away at Oak Hill.

That autumn Mr. Joel Hayland dreaded the long, cold drive to town, and sent the young couple to the bank with his stout pocketbook. Jonas had persuaded his father-in-law to make a safe investment in some county bonds and went inside the bank railings to do a bit of writing. As he rose from his old desk he caught sight of Love, well wrapped, and looking for him expectantly out of the old chaise. Their eyes met as they had met once before, and Jonas knew that she was his wife now, and yet he was still shy; she did look so pretty and so strange—not like anybody else. Perhaps the year was all a dream.

Hathaway was standing close by. Hathaway began to look a little old and blurred in the face, like a worn silver piece, and not so quick and gay as he used. He longed to say, "Was you ever to Oak Hill?" but Jonas had flocks and herds now, and wide acres were under his rule; though he was only twenty-one, he was looked upon as a stable citizen and one of growing influence.

"Call down and see us, boys," said Jonas, pulling on a new pair of great fur gloves. "You, too, Mr. Pendell; 'twould please Father Hayland right through; he was anxious I should make his respects to you. He's got some first-class cider tapped. Well, come when you can, any of you. Good-day!"

"Clever boy," said Mr. Pendell. "Feels more comfortable where he is, doesn't he?" And at this the two clerks smiled assent.

"Jonas was never cut for anything but a farmer. He feels crowded anywhere except in the open field," said Hathaway, bending over the neat pages of his great ledger.

Jonas and Love were driving out of town with the new horse as fast as the law allowed.

"My!" exclaimed Jonas, "it came over me when I was in the bank how I saw you setting out there the first day. I don't suppose you cared any to speak of about me, but I knew I hadn't got to look further."

"I'm not going to tell you again about that day," said Love, laughing at him. "You know now just as well as I do. There never was two before that had less doubts, I feel sure of that!"

"Ain't it first-rate that folks can get married," said Jonas, soberly. "I never thought anything about it till I come to want you. Now just think o' there being a law in the state that folks that wants each other for good an' all! It seemed queer when I began to think about that."

"Don't you remember how I forgot mother's knittin' needles that very first day?" asked Love, shyly. "I didn't even know what your name was, and now here we are ridin' home together."—Sarah Orne Jewett.

DOING ALL SHE COULD.

"If," he murmured, as he gazed into her eyes (they were sitting on the front steps), "if I had only a little more money to count on—" Then he stopped.

"What would you do?" she asked. Deem her not bold, gentle reader. The summer, she felt, was over: soon the cold winds would put a stop to these front-step sentimentals. No fellow ever would propose in the winter time with pa and ma in the sitting room, listening to everything, and she felt she must jog him a little.

He turned a little pale and asked if her pa was dealing at the same grocery as last year.

"Yes, he is. What would you do?"

"I—I would have a home of my own. I would, there!" This seemed like business.

"How much have you got?" said she, and her voice sounded firm.

"Fifteen dollars a week." He hung his head.

"How much do you give a week now for your room?"

"Five dollars."

"Stuff! We can get a room plenty good enough for both of us, and a pantry to cook in, for that. How much do your meals cost?"

"Five dollars a week."

"Pooh! We can both live for that, cooking at home. What do you do with the other $5?"

"Well I—I smoke, you know."

"Well, you can quit that right off; anyhow, you don't spend $5 a week on smoking."

"No; oh, no. Of course there are expenses; other fellows and such—"

"Well, you can stop those, too. What else?"

"I try to save a little."

"That is talking. How much have you saved?"

"Eleven dollars and a half."

"That's plenty for the minister and moving, and something to spare for a necktie or something for you to stand up in. Well?"

"Well, Mary?"

"Go ahead; I can't do everything, you know. You've got to ask me."—Washington Star.

Irate Customer—'See here, you blame skin! You said them clothes wouldn't shrink—just look at 'em. Bowery dealer—Mein frient, de clo's have not shrink; ven you get back to de country dey will fit like paint. You vas not aggustomed to de city air and it haf bloated you."—Des Moines Argonaut.

Sowing and Reaping.

Sow with a generous hand;
Pause not for toil or pain;
Weary not through the heat of summer,
Weary not through the cold spring rain;
But wait till the autumn comes
For the sheaves of golden grain.

Sow, while the seeds are lying
In the warm earth's bosom deep,
And your warm tears fall upon it,—
They will stir in their quiet sleep;
And the green blades rise the quicker,
Perchance, for the tears you weep.

Then sow, for the hours are fleeting,
And the seed must fall to-day;
And care not what hands shall reap it,
Or if you shall have passed away
Before the waving corn-fields
Shall gladden the sunny day.

Sow, and look onward, upward,
Where the starry light appears,
Where, in spite of the coward's doubting
Or your own heart's trembling fears,
You shall reap in joy the harvest.
You have sown to-day in tears.

—Adelaide A. Proctor.

BEATEN.

"You don't want to brag too heavy 'bout your muscles, my boys," said Uncle Lisha Todd to a group who were testing their strength in front of his store. "You can't tell nothin' 'bout what a man's made of from his talk, no more'n yer can tell from a catamount's haowl how much damage he'll do." The boys did not gainsay the truth of this assertion, and the old man continued:

"Now, Lem Cole, he was given to thinkin' uncommon high of Lem Cole's strength till he learned himself more thorough." The boys dropped down upon the steps in happy expectancy, for they knew a story was coming.

"There was a schoolmaster came here a good spell back to teach up there to that little red institution of learnin' in the holler. He was a mild, slim, hungry lookin' chap, an' when he landed off from the stagecoach Lem sighted him and decided ter 'tend the fall term. He 'lowed ter the boys he could pick up the master and snap him between his thumb and finger, same as you would a little green snake in the spring.

"Well, it come commencin' day, an' the teacher called 'em ter order an' made a little gentle speech to 'em 'fore he begun. Then he up and asked Lem, bein' he was the oldest an' biggest, where they left off in figures in the spring.

"Lem, he got up kinder slow an' says, 'We were a-studyin' subtraction of fractions, an' our teacher, bein' only jest a little small part of a man, we subtracted him outen the winder. There was aught an' one ter carry, an' I guess we'll go right on from there, an' so sayin' he up an' picked up the schoolmaster an' started fur the winder.

"Now, the master hed college learnin', an' he fit scientific, an' 'fore Lem knowed it he was in the woodbox an' the cover shet down. There was cracks enough ter keep 'im from smotherin', an' the teacher kep' 'im there three hours.

"After the scholars hed gone he opened the lid, an' says he, 'Are you sure 'twas subtraction?' An' Lem he answered up mighty perlite an' says, 'Come ter think it over, I guess 'twas partial payment, an' you've begun all right.'

"An' after that he was the stidiest boy in the whole school. He never boasted no more on himself, Lem didn't, and that teacher he were jest a eyeopener ter the whole town."—Youth's Companion.

A CASE OF FATHER AND S

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 28, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.
To any one who is not now a subscriber to this paper, it will be sent three months on trial on receipt of 25 cents.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Buy your fine shoes and boots at Henry's Shoe Store. Call in and look at those russet bicycle shoes, ladies' fine shoes and Oxfords.

Lobsters! Lobsters! We shall boil our own lobsters to-morrow morning, so that you may be sure of getting fresh ones. Send in your orders early. Shall have fine shad and other good things.
H. McGILP.

Cucumbers, lettuce, dandelions, spinach, Bermuda onions, Cape Cod turnips at Thompson's Central Street Market, and the choicest cuts of meat to go with them.

PALMER NEWS.

The Question of Licenses.

The selectmen will meet next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to decide the question of who shall have the licenses, and the chances are that there will be few changes from the present list of holders, except in Bondsville, where it would be somewhat surprising if Jerry Shea was given one after the revelations in the matter of the death of James Lyons, which show that the place has been kept open until 1 o'clock in the morning, two hours later than allowed by the law. There is no other applicant from that village, but probably one would not be lacking if Shea failed to receive a license. At Three Rivers the feeling is that Hartnett has conducted as orderly a place as it is possible to do under the license system, and that the peace of the community will be as safe with the license in his hands as if a change were made. At Thorndike the same feeling prevails to a great extent in favor of William Lawton, though there are those who feel that the hotel should be given its turn in the matter. At Palmer the chance for any change in proprietorship is slight, although if M. D. Sullivan is again lucky it will close the place in the Cross block and remove a saloon from Main to Walnut street, as he has leased the Nassowanno House and applies for a license in connection with the hotel. It will be remembered that last year Mr. Getchell was in favor of the hotels in preference to the saloons, and it is understood that Mr. Holden is of the same mind, so the two hotels may feel reasonably sure of licenses. This will leave one more for the village, which will probably go to Caryl Bros. It would not be surprising if the board decided to favor the druggists with licenses this year, after making them do without for the past twelve months.

St. Paul's Universalist Society has a Parsonage Given It.

There was a genuine surprise in store Tuesday evening for the majority of the attendants at the meeting of St. Paul s Universalist parish, and for the most of the church people when it became known that the society had had a convenient and commodious parsonage given it. The building is the house on the corner of Walnut street and Converse avenue, and has been built only a few years. It is now owned by the heirs of the late Stillman Ellis, who have recently refused $4000 for the property. When it was found that it was wanted for a parsonage a most liberal concession was made, however, and the price set at $3000. The donors of this sum, by whose generosity the purchase was made possible, are Mrs. C. C. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. William Merriam. The former gives $2000 and the latter $1000, the conditions being that Mrs. Shaw shall receive 4 per cent annually on her donation through life, and that Mr. and Mrs. Merriam shall receive 5 per cent on theirs. At the death of the donors all interest ceases and the place becomes the absolute property of the parish. The house is in a pleasant and convenient location, on the same square with the church, and the parish is to be congratulated on its good luck.

F. L. Pierce is building a barn on his land across the river.

To-morrow has been appointed Arbor Day by Gov. Russell.

Mrs. Wallace is making additions to her house on Pearl street.

Andrew Pinney is building an addition to his house on Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Kenerson have returned from a visit to New Bedford.

Dr. C. W. Cross is confined to the house with an attack of the grippe.

Mrs. C. A. Royce has gone to her home in Chesham, Vt., for a vacation.

Charles Waid is taking a course in Childs' Business College at Springfield.

Miss Carrie Gilchrist of Boston is the guest of Misses Annie and Carrie Fish.

Annual meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association next Wednesday evening.

A. C. Hadley of Malone, N. Y., was the guest of Dr. W. H. Stowe over Sunday.

Mrs. G. H. Wilkins has been spending the week with her sister in Brunswick, Me.

Thompson & Bannister are ready for business in their new store on Central street.

D. W. Northrop, wife and child, of Boston, spent Sunday with his father, A. J. Northrop.

It is reported that W. E. Fay is to build a shoddy mill near his residence on the Monson road.

W. W. Converse fell on the street in Worcester Wednesday and severely sprained his knee.

C. K. Gamwell and O. P. Allen have new awnings over the entrances to their stores.

Dr. Ralph Towne of Amherst, formerly of this place, was in town over Sunday with his bride.

Dr. H. H. Eayrs has been confined to his room the greater part of the past week with the grippe.

A. H. Willis has been confined to his house on Thorndike street this week with an attack of the grippe.

Joseph Provost has traded horses with W. H. Williams and is now driving a handsome black stallion.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Brewer have returned from a week's vacation with friends in Boston and Wilbraham.

Frank Merriam has rented his house on Dewey Hill to Daniel Bowen, and will move to his farm in Brimfield.

The assessors will be at the town house next Monday to receive sworn lists of valuations from the taxpayers.

The last meeting of the Ladies' Tuesday Social Club for this season was held with Mrs. W. E. Stone this week.

Mrs. C. E. H. Clark of Fiskdale, on her way back from St. Albans, spent Tuesday night with friends in town.

The New London Northern road has commenced work on its new brick passenger station at Stafford Springs.

Will Beasley has left the telephone office and gone to New York, and is succeeded by John W. Garno of Rutland, Vt.

The stockholders of the Ware River Railroad will hold their annual meeting at the Weeks House next Wednesday.

Strawberries appeared in the local markets last Saturday for the first time this season, and will apper again to-morrow.

W. C. Dewey has exchanged his house on Central street with J. Andrew Rogers of Barre for property in that place.

Mrs. M. S. Gilchrist of Northfield, Vt., spent the latter part of last week and the first of this with Mrs. C. E. Fish.

The parsonage of the Congregational church and St. Paul's Universalist church are to be wired for electric lights.

The school committee has voted to engage W. H. Small of Hudson, N. Y., as superintendent of the schools of the town.

The weather of the past week has been decidedly cold, even for April, and Tuesday night the ground was frozen quite hard.

G. W. Lyman will sell the tenement house in the rear of his Pond street residence at auction to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

W. C. Dewey has engaged E. H. Hecox of Holyoke as superintendent of the wire mill for a year, and the works will be started up soon.

One of the wheels of L. E. Moore's carriage collapsed last Sunday while he and his family were riding, but fortunately no one was hurt.

John Foster is to build a house on Foster avenue, on the site occupied by his barn, which has been purchased by Wilson Lawrence and is being removed.

Rev. Mr. Moulton of St. Paul's Universalist church will preach the Memorial Sunday sermon to the Grand Army on the evening of the 28th of May.

G. M. Atkins of this place has been appointed superintendent of the laying of the Ludlow end of the new water main for the city of Springfield.

Mrs. Loren Reed will sell at auction at her residence in Tenneyville, at 2 p. m. next Tuesday, a horse, wagons, harness, etc., and a lot of household goods.

At the Baptist church Sabbath morning the pastor will preach on "Justification." In the evening at 7 o'clock he will preach from "A Solemn Question."

W. F. Whitcomb has opened the restaurant on Central street recently vacated by Mrs. Hatch, and the place will hereafter be known as the Waverly Dining Rooms.

At St. Paul's Universalist church next Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. H. F. Moulton, will deliver his third sermon on "Lessons from the Life of God."

The committee appointed by the town to locate the electric street lights in the several villages have been looking over the ground to-day, making the trip in a large 'bus.

Mrs. A. M. Smith is moving to her house on Thorndike street, recently purchased of W. R. Milligan, and Mr. and Mrs. Milligan will live with Mr. and Mrs. John Foster.

A. L. Roberts of Three Rivers has been drawn as grand juror for the May term of the superior court, and O. W. Studley and John Desmond of this village as petit jurors.

Miss Mamie Roach received a handsome birthday present yesterday from her brother John in Boston in the shape of a gold watch, and from her brother Frank in Palmer a gold ring.

At the district court Monday John Carlin, the "dummy," was placed on probation for drunkenness. Tuesday John D. Murphy of Monson and Frank Kane of Wales were probated for a similar offense.

The annual meeting of the fire department, which was to have been held Wednesday evening, was postponed until next Monday evening, when it will be held at the office of A. E. Fitch in the bank block.

Mrs. Maria Hatch, who recently closed her restaurant on Central street and was to manage a hotel in Warren, has concluded not to go to that place, but will open a boarding house in the Cross block on Main street.

C. N. Duncan has closed his shoe repair shop in the rear of R. J. Henry's store, and goes next Monday to South Framingham to live with his daughter. Mrs. Duncan will go to Springfield to live with her daughter.

C. A. Gilchrist of Boston spent Monday and Tuesday with his brother-in-law, Station Agent Fish of the New London Northern road, and together they explored the brooks of Brimfield in search of trout, capturing good strings.

The Young Men's Union of Thorndike had a large attendance at its concert and ball in the opera house last evening, and the occasion was greatly enjoyed by all who participated. The music by Brigham's Orchestra of Marlboro was particularly fine.

A new tank is being placed in the tank-house of the Boston and Albany road opposite the station, to replace the one which had the bottom burned out last winter by the fire which was built under it during the cold snap to keep the water from freezing.

Rev. F. E. Jenkins, the new pastor of the Congregational church, preached his first sermon as pastor to a large audience last Sunday, almost every seat in the church being filled. He took for his text Matt. 22: 18, 19, 20.

At the parish meeting of St. Paul's Univeralist church Tuesday evening the parish committee, with two added members, was instructed to confer with the officers of the fire district in regard to the removal of the fire alarm apparatus from the church tower.

There was a miniature strike at the carpet mill Monday, when the spoolers, four in number, struck for an advance of 25 per cent in wages. Mr. Pinney declined to grant it, filled their place with others, and the work went on as if nothing had happened.

C. G. Harrison has ceased his duties in the freight house and ticket office of the Boston and Albany road, and is succeeded by Chas. M. Holt of Warren. Mr. Harrison is now visiting his parents in Litchfield, Ct., and will probably later take a position in the store of H. L. Converse of Brimfield.

The ladies of the Congregational society, who have been making extensive repairs and alterations in the parsonage of the church, are fortunate in having been presented with a new Columbia range for the kitchen, with water front and warming shelf complete. The gift was from the Walker-Pratt Manufacturing Company of Boston, made through Hitchcock & Blanchard, their agents in this place.

The "governor's" train met with an accident in the cut west of the station Wednesday morning which might have resulted disastrously had the train been going at a high rate of speed. The locomotive struck a drawbar and the smoking car was derailed, shaking the occupants up somewhat but injuring no one. The train was delayed about half an hour. How the draw-bar came where it was is something which cannot be determined.

The relay bicycle race between Boston and Chicago by way of New York will start from Boston next Sunday evening at 5 o'clock, and the riders on the relay between Warren and Palmer are scheduled to reach Palmer at 10.59, but if the weather is fair may be expected at least half an hour earlier. An average of 14 miles an hour has been scheduled for the entire distance, 10 for night riders and 18 for day riders, and the whole distance is expected to be covered in 90 hours.

The Odd Fellows and Daughters of Rebekah met at their hall in the Commercial block last Sunday afternoon and marched in a body to the Baptist church, where Rev. Mr. Frost addressed them in commemoration of the 74th anniversary of the order. The speaker took for his text II Kings, 10: 15:— "Is thine heart right, as my heart is with thy heart? If it be, give me thine hand. And he gave him his hand." A quartette composed of Messrs. Taylor, Weld, Orcutt and Campbell furnished music.

The annual May breakfast and dinner of the Congregational society will be held next Tuesday, as the first of May comes on Monday and there are many difficulties in the way of preparing for a breakfast Monday morning. The kitchen will be under the charge of Mrs. Joseph King, assisted by an able corps, and the menu will be of the best. A large number of useful and fancy articles have been prepared for sale by the committee under the leadership of Mrs. Rufus Flynt, and the ladies are looking forward toward netting a goodly sum to help pay the expenses incurred in remodeling the parsonage. The menus for the meals are:

BREAKFAST.
Broiled Shad.
Sirloin Steak. Ham. Veal Steak.
Boiled, Fried and Scrambled Eggs.
Fried Potatoes, Baked, Warmed in Cream.
Hot Rolls. Brown Bread. Corn Cakes. Doughnuts.
Tea. Coffee.

DINNER.
Vegetable Soup.
Baked Shad. Lobster.
Roast Beef. Veal.
Mashed Potatoes. Tomatoes. Lettuce. Corn.
Mince, Apple, Squash, and Lemon Pie.
English Plum Pudding.
Spanish Cream. Tapioca Cream. Coffee Jelly.
Fruit. Nuts. Tea. Coffee.

Breakfast will be 35 cents and dinner 50 cents, with ice cream at the latter, extra.

The entertainment under the auspices of the Firemen's Relief Association at the opera house, Wednesday evening, drew a large and appreciative audience, which was fully alive to the good things on the programme. The overture by the Philharmonic Orchestra of Springfield so pleased the attendants that they were not satisfied without an encore. Henry F. Trask was also recalled after his rendition of "Yes, Let Me Like a Soldier Fall." Miss Pierce, the reader, seemed to be as popular as ever with Palmer people, and was obliged to respond to an encore after her first selection, but was allowed to decline a double encore. Col. Russell H. Conwell proved as great a favorite and entertainer as ever, and held his hearers' closest attention during the short time allotted him for his new lecture, or what in this instance was a condensation of it, "The Angel's Lily." The lecture deals with true happiness, the speaker holding that it can be found in neither extreme of any position or place in life, but at a point midway between, the illustrations and comparisons being presented in a manner inimitably Conwell's. Following the lecture there was a trombone solo, another reading by Miss Pierce, and a selection by the orchestra, after which the floor was cleared and a dancing-programme of eleven numbers was carried out, W. G. Ryan prompting. The counting of the votes for the person to be sent to the World's Fair under the auspices of the association resulted in the choosing of M. J. Sisk, the messenger at the state primary school, he having 131 votes to 87 for E. R. Fierce and 35 for H. H. Paine.

State Primary School Notes.

Miss Rogers is taking her vacation this week.

Mr. Southmayde of Springfield visited the school yesterday.

Dr. Woodbury, inspector of institutions, was at the school Tuesday.

Misses Hancock and Smith, state agents, have been at the school since Monday, returning to Boston to-day.

A 'bus load of the officers enjoyed the entertainment at the opera house Wednesday evening.

The Firemen's Felief Association sent fifty complimentary tickets to the entertainment Wednesday evening to Superintendent Wheeler, for the use of the children.

Superintendent and Mrs. Wheeler spent Sunday in Sutton, with Miss Wedge, Mrs. Wheeler's sister.

BONDSVILLE.

Richie Russell of Indian Orchard spent Sunday with his parents.

Amos Slate of Springfield was the guest of his grandfather over Sunday.

Mrs. H. Fletcher of Ware was the guest of Miss Annie O'Regan Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Shea are contemplating a trip to Washington, D. C.

Vincent O'Regan and daughter Gertie spent Sunday with friends in Ware.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Getchell returned Monday night from Waltham, their old home, where they had been for a few days.

Lawrence Sullivan has commenced the foundation of a double house on the land he bought of Mrs. Mary Thompson of Palmer.

W. O'Regan, Henry Hobson and Mark Culver attended the funeral of Comrade James Lyons of L. L. Merrick Post at Thorndike Tuesday.

A Man Found Unconscious, Who Dies Without Regaining His Senses.

About 6.30 last Saturday morning the body of James P. Lyons, a man 51 years of age, was found at the foot of a stone wall about 17 feet high, back of the store of Jerry Shea on Main street. He was lying unconscious in a pool of blood, with a scalp wound about an inch long on his head, and several bruises on his body. He was taken to his boarding place opposite the counting-room of the mill, and medical aid was summoned, but he did not regain consciousness, and died about 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

Lyons was in Shea's saloon on High street the night before until 8 o'clock Saturday morning, playing cards, shaking dice and drinking. Directly in line with Shea's place and the spot where Lyons was found is a rough hill which would be considered difficult for one to travel over, and on this hill were found distributed places which would indicate that some one had stumbled or fallen down the hill and finally over the wall. An inquest as to the cause of his death is being held by Judge Robinson in the court at Palmer.

Three sons by a former marriage survive him, also a widow and young child at Thorndike, and it is reported that suit will be brought by the widow against Shea, the proprietor of the place where her husband spent the evening.

THORNDIKE.

Mr. Lucier and family are to move to North Adams.

Thomas Hutchinson is to accept a position painting at Spencer.

John Dawson of Hartford, Ct., was in town this week for a few days.

Edmund McKelligett, Jr., of Spencer, was visiting in town recently.

Fred Edmunds has accepted a position as night clerk in a hotel at Spencer.

Daniel Flynn of Pittsfield was in town for a few days the past week, visiting his parents.

Work on E. E. Hale's new building is progressing, and will be completed in a short while.

A few from this place attended the firemen's entertainment at Palmer Wednesday evening.

William Andrews and George Hutchinson paid a visit to friends in Southbridge on Saturday.

A Polish wedding party celebrated the event with a dance at Union Hall on Saturday evening.

Noe Olia, who fell with the elevator in the No. 1 mill last week, has recovered so as to be about again.

The Columbian Band has decided to purchase a new set of instruments, which will be here in about a week.

A large number from this place attended the ball given by the Young Men's Union of this place last evening at Palmer.

A game of base ball was played here on Saturday afternoon between two local clubs, which resulted in a victory for the black-haired chief.

The Ladies' Society of the Congregational church has made ample preparations for a May suppers which is to be given in the vestry next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Lord, the veteran trapper and hunter, has shot a very fine specimen of the Sandhill Crane, measuring about 6 feet from tip to tip, and about 3 feet high. It is considered a very good prize.

A band of Christian Workers from Ware has kindly consented to unite with the Congregational church in holding evangelistic meetings in the vestry at 6 o'clock on Sunday evenings. The ready response given to this movement by the Christian people last Sabbath is an evident sign of encouragement.

The funeral of James Lyons, Sr., 51, of this place, whose death resulted from a fall at Bondsville on last Friday night, was held on Tuesday from the Catholic church, where a high requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock. The funeral was largely attended. Mr. Lyons was well known in town and had many friends. The G. A. R. post, of which he was a member, attended the funeral. The deceased leaves a wife and several children to mourn his loss, who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

The Strike Over.

Although the strike of the weavers in the No. 2 mill has not been declared off it is practically over, many of them having returned to work. One of the weave rooms is running nearly to its full capacity, but it will be a few weeks yet before the other will be started, owing to repairs being made. Members of the state board of arbitration visited Thorndike last Friday, holding conferences with the striking weavers and with Mr. Hobbs, the agent of the mill. The following report was sent out by them Monday:

To the Thorndike Company of Palmer and the weavers lately in its employ:

In accordance with the law of the state this board went to Palmer yesterday for the purpose of communication with both parties to the controversy, which began with a strike on April 1. Interviews were had with the agent of the mills and with representatives of the weavers, separately, with a view to making some recommendation calculated to effect a settlement. Stated briefly, the cause of the strike was the belief of weavers that the cuts had been lengthened, and if so, there being no corresponding allowance in the pay per cut, they were in effect working under a reduction of wages. The agent claimed that he is ready, and willing, as between him and the actual employes of the company, to have the length of the cuts ascertained by actual measurement, but declines to discuss the subject with any representatives, or persons who are not employes. In view of the information obtained from both sides, and in the hope of adjusting the dispute in a manner most satisfactory to all concerned, the board recommends: 1. That the weavers abandon the strike and apply for work in the usual manner. 2. That the agent reemploy those who apply for work as soon as the work is ready for them. 3. That after the relations of employer and employe shall have been reestablished, the length of the cuts be fairly ascertained by actual measurement, in the presence of both parties. If all parties concerned will act according to the above recommendations, in a conciliatory spirit, and with a desire to do only what is just, the board has reason to believe that the operations of the mills may be at once fully resumed, and a good understanding effected, which will be a decided benefit to all.

By the board,
BERNARD F. SUPPLE, Clerk.

The weavers did not, however, accept the proposition as a body, but several soon applied for their old places, and were followed by more until now nearly all the looms in one of the rooms are running, and the company states that it can secure all the weavers it wishes as soon as it has work for them. Such of the old weavers as apply will be given work if they are wanted, but there are some for whom the company will probably have no use in the future. There is general rejoicing in the place over the starting up of the mill, and with the hope that the next strike is many months away.

THREE RIVERS.

J. B. Brown intends to spend Sunday in Amherst.

Mrs. Amos Olds spent a few days in Springfield this week.

E. Durand has sold his house to Mr. Keith of Belchertown.

Miss Eliza Gray is spending this week in Ware with Mrs. Woodworth.

Mrs. Barnes of Springfield spent the Sabbath with her son in this place.

Mrs. Nichols attended the Paderewski concert at Northampton this week.

Miss Bertha Paine has been confined to her house by illness for some weeks.

Charles G. Mathon of Ludlow is to succeed Louis Auger in Brown & Co's. store.

The village people are expecting to see Mr. Barnes on the pneumatics at an early date.

The Misses Ella and Hattie Warriner of Monson spent Tuesday with their parents here.

People are reminded that spring is here by the diligence of those who have vegetable and flower gardens.

The ground in front of the Baptist church is being improved by repairing the stone curbing and sidewalk.

Many people in town have received wedding cards from Mr. and Mrs. Hillman, who will be at home after May 15th.

Miss Johnston is having her business block arranged so that she can open a dressmaking establishment at an early date.

Mrs. Peter White, who has spent most of the winter here with her son, Frank White, has returned to her home in Worcester.

A company of 33 from here attended the entertainment and lecture at Palmer Wednesday evening, and were highly pleased.

Frank Tarbox, second-hand in the spooling room in the mill, has resigned his position and is succeeded by Mr. Needham of Ware.

Mr. Chilson is building a coal and grain shed, convenient to the New London Northern railroad track, and intends to conduct a coal, grain, hay and wood business.

On Tuesday night a dog belonging to Mr Doyle was killed by one of the freight trains on the N. L. N. road. It is said that the animal's head was severed from the body.

This afternoon representatives from the grammar schools of the town met with H. N. Cross for the purpose of organizing a league and arranging a schedule of games for the pupils.

There was a pleasant gathering at the home of Otis Sedgwick last Sunday to celebrate the 90th anniversary of Mr. Sedgwick's birth. Four generations sat down to dinner, the ages ranging from two to 90 years.

The old station of the New London Northern road has been purchased by Daniel Lane, and last Sunday was moved on the track to a position in the rear of his house. It is understood that he is to open a grain store in the structure.

A company of four ladies from East Main street enjoyed a carriage ride to Ludlow one day this week, and amused themselves by fishing. The occupation was also profitable, as they caught about 120 pounds of pout. The next day their lesser halves went on the same expedition, but could boast of no such catch.

What might have resulted in a serious smashup occurred at the Boston and Albany station yesterday morning, while one of Shaw Bros. teams was being loaded with goods. Somehow the horse became frightened, and ran, breaking the whiffletree and part of the harness, but Mr. Shaw was fortunate in controlling him before more serious damage resulted.

This week Wednesday Prof. Gardner gave a lecture to the pupils of the public school, and during his discourse made remarks on various subjects of interest, including astromomy and arithmetic. His lecture might be enjoyable and instructive if delivered in the proper place, but his method of solicit-funds at the close has been commented upon somewhat severely by many of the boys. At all events, both the teachers and children are satisfied that the miscellany does not merit a repetition in the public school.

A scheme is in progress which, if successful, will result in the building of a concrete sidewalk from the bridge which spans the Quaboag river to St. Ann's church. The plan is to have property holders on that street subscribe toward the work, which is estimated to cost about $650, in proportion to their holdings. Already many have shown their willingness to aid the proposed improvement, and about $200 has been promised by parties who own houses in that part of the town. It is hoped that all who are interested in this progressive village will do all they can to favor this opportunity to better the condition of the sidewalks.

Edwin Barrett of Belchertown deeded Saturday morning to the Springfield city mission a farm of 125 acres situated half way between Bondsville and Three Rivers for use in connection with the mission's work. The farm is a valuable and fertile one, having in it pasturage, woodland, orchards and cultivated fields, and it is said the pasturage alone will be sufficient to pay the taxes on the place. There is one house on the premises and a partially finished cottage and barn, which can easily be made over into two cottages for the mission's use. Mr. Barrett is a man of means, over 70 years of age, who had no near relatives, and considered he could put his place to no better use than giving it to the mission. The mission was started last September, and its object is to care for unfortunates and to induce those who have fallen to lead better lives. There are many instances where cases of genuine reformation can be traced to the mission.

Mr. Editor:—In last week's issue of the JOURNAL an item appeared which adverted somewhat on the disorderly conduct prevalent on our streets during Sabbath evenings. There is no one who is disposed to dispute the fact that attention should be given to this matter, but before any reflection is cast on our police force it might be well to inform the public that the appointed constables are not paid for patroling the streets, and therefore cannot be expected to give a great amount of care to loafers. But if the selectmen, who ought to guard the people's interests, are willing to appropriate a fair remuneration for the services the public demand of the police, it is understood that the desired surveillance will be given to the streets and decorum guaranteed to prevail.

A FRIEND OF LAW AND ORDER.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

BOSTON, April 26, 1893.

The agitators for better roads have so far won their case with the committee on roads and bridges that a bill has been reported to establish the office of state engineer of highways, to have a term of five years, to have a salary of $5000 a year, to have the spending of $2000 a year more for expenses and incidentals, to confer with county commissioners for the construction of county roads, and to have oversight of building state roads, if there are any. Now, will the bill pass?

Gov. Russell, at the council meeting Thursday, reappointed Insurance Commissioner Merrill and Chief Wadlin of the labor bureau. The reappointment of Mr. Merrill is particularly pleasing to the people who have been fighting the assessment endowment orders. He is the last man in the world the endowment people want. They have been circulating scurrilous anonymous circulars against Representative Bennett of Everett, from whom is named the Bennett bill to wind up these orders. But such tactics only hurt them and help him and his bill.

A radical bill has been reported unanimously by the committee on mercantile affairs to put a stop to the formation of such corporations as the Bay State Gas Company of New Jersey and the Bay State Gas Company of Delaware, based upon the Bay State Gas Company of Massachusetts. The bill was drawn by Mr. Moriarty of Worcester and is in his charge. The first section says that:

"Hereafter if any foreign corporation issues any stock or other securities, other than such as are authorized by the laws of this commonwealth, upon the property or franchise of a domestic corporation, it shall be deemed a sufficient cause for the dissolution of the said domestic corporation upon whose property or franchise the stock or other prohibited securities were issued."

This is legislation of the most stringent sort, and the fact that the committee is unanimous for it shows how the awakening against corporation power is spreading.

Another illustration is seen in the almost unanimous vote of the House on Friday in favor of the bill to impose a penalty of $50 upon a railroad every time it refuses to accept an interchangeable mileage ticket under the law of last year.

Speaker Barrett did not come near the House at all on Tuesday, the day of the special election to Congress in his district, and he was not there Wednesday till the middle of the afternoon. When he came in quite liberal applause was given him by his friends. He declares that he will yet be counted in on the recount which he will ask for, but it does not appear that any ground is known for supposing that the result will be altered. It is beyond any question that his defeat is due to the wholesale revolt of the Republicans in his district and that if he had not secured many Democratic votes in the Charlestown wards, which are notoriously corrupt, his rout would have been overwhelming, instest of there being the narrow plurality of 14 for Dr. Everett.

However, it is a matter of sincere congratulation for the Republican party that Barrett has been beaten by even a small vote. He has been only a damage to it ever since he has begun to use it for his personal promotion, and it is well known that he has been looked upon with strong disapproval by many of the best Republicans all over the state. He has been treated with marked favor by the press of Boston in all these years of his ambition, probably because he is a newspaper man himself, and it is only lately that the Transcript, Journal and Herald have taken a decided stand against him. He complains bitterly now of newspaper abuse, but it is a mere baby's plea. He has been treated with more consideration than has been for the good of the state or of the Republican party.

Very likely he will try for the Republican nomination in the fall of 1894, but the fact that he has been openly repudiated by a large number of his own party will always operate against his getting the nomination. It is said at the state house by those who are familiar with him that he will be very likely to come back for speaker for another term in order to keep himself before the public for a higher office. If the people of the state want the speakersip and all the legislature business to be tributory to one man's ambition, and that man this man, they can make it so.

The issue over the control of quasi-public corporations by the state is very prominent in consequence of the course of Addicks with the Boston companies, and of the supposed plans of the New Jersey Traction Company with the street railway companies of the state. The Massachusetts Board of Trade and other boards have moved Gov. Russell to send the Legislature a special message asking for legislation to prevent any more operations like those now known to the public, and the temper of the members is favorable to severe restrictions. This has been proved by action on several street railway bills that are pending.

Farmer Warner of Hardwick has carried the House with him by a large majority for the bill to reduce the standard of milk from 13 per cent of solids to 12, with 11 as the standard for May, June and July. The argument was that cows could not average milk up to 13 per cent, and that what God had not given the Legislature ought not to demand. The bill has yet to pass the Senate.

LANDON.

A railroad accident near Somerset, Pa., Tuesday caused the death of a dozen persons. The train became unmanageable on a steep grade and dashed into some freight cars at the foot.

The great fair at Chicago will open next week, but it is said that the grounds will be in an uncompleted condition, and it is certain that many of the exhibits are not yet in place.

Mrs. Rebecca Whitworth of Worcester, aged 55, committed suicide by drowning Sunday. She had been troubled with mental derangement for some time.

The proposed five-hour train between New York and Boston, to be run by the New York, New Haven and Hartford road, will not be put on until late in July.

The American residents at Honolulu have raised $1000 in dollar subscriptions as a present to United States Minister Stevens, who will leave on May 24th.

Only 11 Chinamen in Massachusetts have complied with the Geary law, which requires that all in this country shall be registered before May 6th.

The No. 1 wire mill of the Spencer Wire Company at Spencer was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon, causing a loss of $10,000.

A grade crossing accident at Bridgeport, Ct., Monday night resulted in the death of two persons, a mother and daughter.

"Comical" Brown, the well-known comedian, died at the city hospital in Boston Saturday afternoon at the age of 60, from apoplexy. He started out in early life as a violinist and impersonator. He organized various traveling companies, and has played with his own show in nearly every new England town.

The 1st regiment armory at Chicago was totally destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. As the flames reached the powder stored in the building several explosions took place and two men were killed and two fatally injured. The origin of the fire is a mystery, although it is thought the Anarchists may have been connected with it.

The executors of the P. T. Barnum estate have paid $270,000 in legacies during the past year, of which Mrs. Barnum received over $49,000. The dividend from the Barnum & Bailey circus was $155,000. This represents one-half the earnings of the show, Mr. Bailey receiving the remainder.

A plucky Providence woman, who at present has rooms in the Hoffman House in New York, found a burglar in her apartments the other night, and instead of making an outcry she coolly locked him in and called an officer, who safely lodged him in the station house.

At the April session of the supreme court held at Springfield Tuesday the contestants of the will of the late Bishop P. T. O'Reilly failed to appear, and the will was remanded to the probate court for further proceedings. All opposition to the will has apparently dropped.

The wives of the captain and chief officer of the White Star steamer Narconic, which sailed from port early in February and has not been heard from since, have both gone insane over the despair caused by the loss of their husbands.

It is said that there is a great probability that Governor Flower of New York will commute the death sentence of Carlyle W. Harris, sentenced to die by electricity for the poisoning of his wife.

Hans Richter has cabled to Boston that he has decided to remain in Vienna, and therefore must cancel his engagement to replace Arthur Nikisch as conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

A tornado in Oklahoma Wednesday afternoon destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of property and about sixty lives.

Two murderers, both under sentence of death, have escaped from Sing Sing state prison.

Matt Jansen, a Finn, was stabbed to death during a drunken row in Worcester Sunday night.

BORN.

At Wales, 25d, a son to MICHAEL and LIZZIE O'ROURKE.

MARRIED.

At Ware, 27th, by Rev. A. M. Osgood, GEORGE A. CANTERBURY and GRACE M. CAMPBELL.
At Warren, 26th, DOLPH LAUNIER of Ware and MARY GLEASON of Warren.
At Belchertown, 22d, by Rev. H. G. Alley, F. E. HILLMAN of Three Rivers and ALICE I. SQUIERS of Belchertown.
At Lowell, 18th, GEORGE W. ALDRICH of Bondsville and Mrs. MATTIE A. PUFFER of Lowell.

DIED.

At Palmer Center, 22d, MICHAEL MANNIX, 52.
At Bondsville, 23d, JAMES P. LYONS, 51.
At Monson, 16th, JAMES GALLIVAN.
At Ware, 20th, WILLIAM E. STEWART.
At Brimfield, 23d, MELISSA B. BUXTON, 72.
At Wilbraham, 21st, LYDIA BREWER, 80.
At New London, 15th, GEORGE R., 2y. 2m., son of G. R. and May Briggs, and grandson of W. H. Higgins of Palmer.

WANTED.—Man to work in fish market. 1-4 H. McGILP, Palmer.

CASH paid for fresh eggs. 2-4 H. A. NORTHROP.

TO RENT—Tenement corner Park and Maple streets. Inquire of W. W. LEACH. tf-41

FOR SALE.—Three-years-old Jersey heifer, coming in. Also yearling Jersey heifer. 1-4 H. W. SMITH, Palmer.

WANTED—Salesmen; salary and expenses from start; steady work; good chance for advancement. BROWN BROS. CO., Nurserymen, 4-3 Rochester, N. Y.

NEAT STOCK FOR SALE—One pair oxen and several Jersey and high grade milch cows. GEORGE ROBINSON. Palmer, July 27, 1892. tf-18

BICYCLE FOR SALE.
Century Columbia Light Roadster Safety, '92 pattern, pneumatic tires, in A No. 1 condition. CHANDLER BROS., Palmer.

TO RENT—My late residence, corner Church and Pleasant streets; 9 rooms and furnace. Also two smaller tenements. Inquire of E. J. WOOD, or MRS. O. M. WOOD. tf-6

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.
I wish to call the attention of the horsemen of Palmer and the surrounding towns to the fact that I have opened a blacksmith shop in the rear of E. Goodes' shoe store, corner of Main and Thorndike streets, Palmer, where I am now prepared to do all kinds of wagon work, wood and iron. Particular attention will be given to shoeing difficult horses. I will do my work as cheap as any one in town, and as to the quality I shall let the work speak for itself. Give me a call. tf-1 JAMES HEALEY.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN, ss.
The undersigned has been appointed assignee of the estate of Pinard & Durand of Palmer, in said County, insolvent debtors. The second meeting of the creditors of said debtors will be held at the Court of Insolvency at Springfield, in said County of Hampden, on the tenth day of June next, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, at which meeting creditors may be present and prove their claims. ARTHUR E. FITCH, Assignee.
Palmer, Mass., April 26, A. D. 1893. 2-4

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. April 11, 1893.
By virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment recovered in the Superior Court at Springfield, within and for the County of Hampden, on the third day of April A. D. 1893, in favor of William Holbrook, of Palmer, in said County, and against Timothy F. Fuller, of said Palmer, I have this day seized and taken all the right, title and interest which the above named Timothy F. Fuller had on the second day of January, A. D. 1892, the day when the same was attached on mesne process in said action, in and to a certain tract of real estate with buildings thereon situate in Palmer, in said County of Hampden, and bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning on the northerly side of School street at the south-east corner of land of Sarah A. Ferry, thence northerly in line of said Ferry's land about 132 feet to land of Mary Ronan; thence easterly in line of said Ronan's land about 66 feet to land of O. M. Wood; thence in line of said Wood land southerly about 132 feet to said School street; thence westerly on said School street about 66 feet to place of beginning. And on Saturday, the third day of June, A. D. 1893, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in front of the Court House in said Palmer, I shall offer for sale, by public auction, to the highest bidder, said right, title and interest in and to said real estate to satisfy said execution and pay all fees and charges of sale.
3-4 W. H. BRAINERD, Deputy Sheriff.

BEANS. Large Lima, 30c quart.
Black wax, 25c quart.
Horticultural pole, 25c quart.
Boston favorite or cranberry, 25c. quart.
Golden wax, (dwarf) 25c quart.
Six weeks, (dwarf) 20c quart.

Peas. Stratagem, 25c quart.
Bliss American Wonder, 25c. quart.
Champion of England, 15c quart.
Daniel O'Rourke, 15c quart.
Little Gem, 15c quart.
Black-Eyed Marrowfat, 10c quart.

Garden seeds in packages—Rice's and Lyman's. Flower seeds—Mandeville & King's, and Rice's. Sweet peas, 10c per ounce. Grass seed, Clover, Timothy and Red Top.

STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PLAMER.

JUNE IN THE ALLEGHANEY AND VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS.

Alleghany Springs, Staunton,
Blue Ridge Springs, Variety Springs,
Buffalo Lithia Springs, Stribling Springs,
Charlottesville, Sweet Chalybeate Springs,
Graham, Hot, Warm, and Healing Springs, Yellow Sulphur Springs, WEST VIRGINIA.
Luray Caves, Aurora,
Max Meadows, Berkeley Springs,
Natural Bridge, Red Sulphur Springs,
Rockbridge Alum Springs, Salt Sulpher Springs,
Rock Enon Springs, Sweet Springs,
Shawsville, White Sulphur Springs.

Printed matter describing any of these resorts may be had free by mail, by special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, Clinton Hall, N. Y., by addressing the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

Flour! Flour! Flour!

| | |
|---|---|
| Fillsbury's

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 28, 1893.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

MONSON.

George Dana has a new horse.

Mrs. Alfred Norcross quite ill with a cold.

Dea. Keep is out with a new span of horses.

Mrs. Ella Holmes's house is being painted.

Rev. Father Lee is on a flying trip to Montreal.

Hughes' tea store has a new sign this week.

The Woman's Relief Corps meets this evening.

George Brainard has returned from Clarcona, Fla.

Monson must pay $2581 as her share of the county tax.

A. N. Gaouette will soon build a house on his new lot.

G. L. Keeney spent Sunday at his home in Vernon, Ct.

Mrs. John C. Aldrich has been sick this week with a cold.

W. M. Shaw of Gouverneur, N.Y., is assistant station master.

John Maguire, Jr., is now employed as hostler for E. F. Morris.

Mrs. Bowe of Mittineague is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. F. Morris.

Arthur Johnson spent a couple of days this week at Shelburne Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Miner Noble spent Sunday with their son at Pittsfield.

Dr. and Mrs. Sawin of Brimfield called on friends in Monson Tuesday.

Strawberries were in our markets Saturday for the first time this season.

H. L. Needham spent Sunday in Springfield as the guest of G. E. Day.

Rufus Aldrich has left the south straw shop and gone to work painting.

Lysander Nevins is having pneumatic tires put on his Columbia bicycle.

Miss Georgia Lull has the measles and has gone to her home at Longmeadow.

Superintendent of Schools Wood spent the first part of the week at Brimfield.

State street is a favorite place for bicycle learners these moonlight evenings.

Joseph Fagan fell from his bicycle Saturday evening and sprained his ankle.

Father Lee has given the Green street grammar school boys a new football.

Charles McCarthy has entered upon his duties as clerk at the Monson House.

Miss Alice Norcross has returned from a visit to her grandparents at Brimfield.

Miss Mollie Monnihan of Bondsville has been visiting her sister Nellie this week.

Rev. Father Synneth of Ansonia, Ct., was the guest of Rev. J. F. Lee last Saturday.

Charles A. Wood leaves Monday to accept a position in the Springfield Truant School.

W. H. Anderson, the tonsorial artist, has a new awning over the windows at his shop.

Mrs. George Newton was called to Upton Monday on account of the illness of her son's wife.

Miss Sarah Rand of Worcester was the guest of her brother, Dr. N. W. Rand, this week.

Mrs. F. E. Bradway of South Framingham has been visiting friends in town the past week.

Albert Blanchard, Erskine Lull and Capt. George H. Foskit have been drawn as jurors.

Louise Nichols has left the south straw shop and returned to her home at Silver street.

A large number from this place attended Col. Conwell's lecture in Palmer Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Harriet Rogers has changed her quarters from Charles R. Buffington's to Mrs. Larson's.

Mrs. Belle Griswold has been called to Springfield on account of the illness of her husband.

Louis Aldrich and family have moved into the tenement lately occupied by Mrs. Juliett Needham.

Miss Alice Marsh of New Haven has been the guest of her cousin, A. W. Merchant, the past week.

Mrs. George Homer and children have been visiting Mrs. Olive Homer during the past week.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who is spending the winter with Miss Esther Holmes, is ill with the grippe.

Miss Esther Holmes has returned from an extended trip and visit to Washington and Philadelphia.

The Grange will hold its regular meeting this evening at the residence of Lester Howe on East Hill.

Miss Louise Morris has been visiting this week in the family of Ex-gov. Knight at Easthampton.

"A New England Home," companion to "A County Fair," was given last night at Memorial Hall.

The children of the Universalist society are rehearsing a tambourine drill, to be given some time in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Chapin went to Berlin, Ct., to-day, to attend the funeral of Mr. Chapin's sister.

Druggist Demerritt of Boston formerly of Monson, has been spending a few days with Dr. C. W. Jackson.

Mrs. Harriet Fenton has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Strong of Willimantic the past few days.

Mrs. Mary Buffington and daughter Addie have moved into the south tenement in Benjamin A. Day's house.

Elsie Lewis and Lillie Priestley have new bicycles — pneumatic tires — purchased of George L. Keeney.

The selectmen and bank officials met Saturday and fixed the grade of the sidewalk in front of the bank block.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Needham attended the dedication of the Odd Fellows' Home at Groton, Ct., Wednesday.

Mrs. Juliett Needham has moved into the tenement recently vacated by Mr. Lawton and family, over Gage's store.

J. W. Murphy, late clerk at the Monson House, has accepted a similar position in the Warwick Hotel at Springfield.

Rev. James H. Tufts attended the meeting of the Connecticut Valley Congregational Club at Northampton Tuesday.

A men's meeting was held in Memorial Hall last Sunday afternoon by delegates from the Springfield Training School.

Charles Merrick is now agent for seven different bicycles, and has a sign board with the different prices in front of his store.

Mr. Coy, whose son is organist at the Congregational church, has moved his family into A. D. Ellis's cottage on Green street.

There will be a concert and literary exercise in the Silver street school house this evening at 8 o'clock. Admission 15 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Penniman and child have been visiting Mrs. Penniman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Merchant, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Entwistle of Spencer have been visiting Mrs. Entwistle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Taylor, during the week.

Miss Florence Converse has returned from her home at Wales, where she was called last week on account of her mother's illness.

A.A. Gages mare "Gertie G." is home from the trainer and is a beautiful animal. She should get a mark much below 2.30 this season.

Mrs. Frank M. Fenton has returned from New York with the latest styles. She visited her husband at Stamford, Ct., while away.

Road Commissioner Clifford has begun to put the roads in good condition. The loose material is being scraped off and carried away.

Charles Orcutt contemplates erecting a laundry building in the vacant lot north of his residence, to accommodate his increasing business.

Ferdinand Williams, a former merchant in town, spent two or three days this week with his sisters, Misses Lizzie and Ella Williams.

Joseph Prew, an employe at Ellis's mill, caught his ring in the machinery and had the finger nearly severed. He was attended by Dr. F. W. Ellis.

The assessors will be in their room at the town hall next Monday and Tuesday to receive a true valuation of property and estates in Monson.

Mills & Darling have been awarded the contract for building the barn for the W. N. Flynt Granite Co. Lyman of Palmer was the next lowest bidder.

Dennis Murphy of the first class at the Green street grammar school has been obliged to give up study for the present on account of poor health.

Mrs. Hutchinson and her son, Arthur Robinson, have returned from Albany, where the doctor was ill five weeks. He does not return to college until fall.

Dr. Rand's horse took a run down Green street Sunday afternoon owing to the breaking of a holdback, the doctor finaly stopped him and no damage was done.

Dr. Fuller has been appointed by the Hampden Medical Association a delegate to the annual meeting of the American Medical Association at Milwaukee.

J. M. A. Squier, who resides in the south part of the town, is dangerously ill with pneumonia. As Mr. Squiers is over 80 years of age, his recovery is doubtful.

There will be a teachers' meeting in the Green street school to-morrow, at 2.30 p. m. Prof. A. N. Burke of the academy will give a lecture on "Heat," with experiments.

Warren Dane takes A. E. Maxwell's place on Rogers & Co's. meat route. Mr. Dane is an experienced man in the business, having worked at it two years in Bridgeport, Ct.

The new supplement to the catalogue of the public library has been printed and may be had by patrons by calling at the library. It contains the titles of all the new books added since 1888.

Complaints are being made to the selectmen in regard to the cycling on the sidewalks, and the chances are that it will have to be forbidden entirely, as some abuse the privilege, racing and coasting.

Principal Dustan and wife attended the commencement exercises of the Hartford high school yesterday and to-day. Mr. Dustan's sister, Grace N., is a member of the class, graduating with honors.

The E. W. Prouty celebrated orchestra and concert troupe will give a concert in Memorial Hall next Monday evening. This company comprises leading soloists in all its branches, and should draw a large audience.

Dr. P. W. Soule received a rather novel patient the other day when a young lady of four years old brought her dolly to him and asked him to fill her teeth. Yet the Dr. was true to his profession, and the doll now has gold filling in one of her teeth.

W. H. Pease has been secured by the cemetery commissioners to take charge of the cemetery for the ensuing year. Mr. Pease is a faithful and popular young man, thoroughly adapted for this work, and the commissioners are fortunate in securing him.

Few people in town realize the valuable industry we have in our creamery. The business is increasing daily. Some $20,000 is paid by them yearly to our farmers, which is a much larger sum than many suppose. It is a valuable addition to our town.

Provided the school committee recommend building a new school house, it would be a proper thing to build well and of good style, and dispose of one or more of the present disreputable school buildings at auction and have then used for other purposes.

The many friends of Frank J. Hanley will be pleased to know that he will graduate from the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia next Tuesday. Mr. Hanley leads his class, and has the good wishes of many friends here for success in his chosen profession.

Miss Clara A. Wood has been unanimously reelected superintendent of the Monson and Brimfield schools, and will have $1500 the coming year. By a vote of ten to two the committees of Monson and Brimfield declined to admit the town of Wales to the district.

Dr. Geo. E. Fuller's horse, "Ned," which was hitched at Ellis's double house on Bridge street the other day, thought he would take a little spin on his own account, so he jumped a barbed-wire fence, leaving the carriage in Sam H. Howard's yard, but was captured before doing a great deal of damage.

Last Friday evening at St. Patrick's church Rev. Father Foley was presented with a purse of $275 by his many friends here as a token of their high esteem and good will. Rev. J. F. Lee made the presentation speech, Rev. Father Foley fittingly responded, expressing his sincere regard for the kindly feeling shown him during his work in Monson.

The sociable at the Universalist church Friday evening was much enjoyed. The programme consisted of banjo playing by Messrs. Stone and Royce, a pleasing dialogue by several of the young people, "George and Martha Washington" by Dwight Ellis and Arline Tryon, "Reuben and Cynthia," by Howard Buffington and Lucy Berthold, a piano solo by Carrie Chapin, and several tableaux.

The athletic exhibition in Memorial Hall last Friday evening was well attended and enjoyed by those present. The weight-lifting by the Sault brothers was the attraction of the evening. The brothers, although weighing only 119 and 123 pounds, juggle dumbbells weighing from 35 to 143 pounds, besides performing other feats of strength. The sparring of McGavern and Root, Sullivan and White, and the Silk brothers received hearty applause.

The annual meeting of the Monson and Brimfield school district was held in Memorial Hall Thursday afternoon. James R. Brown of Brimfield was chosen chairman for the ensuing year, and F. E. Morris of Monson clerk. Miss Clara A. Wood was reelected superintendent for another year, receiving $1500, an advance in salary. The present demand for schools in Monson is a suitable grammar school, and steps are being taken by the board with a view of providing such.

The following pupils at the No. 1 intermediate school have been neither absent nor tardy during the first month of the spring term: Esther Robbins, Olive Morgan, Esther Beckwith, Freola Osborn, Susie White, Mary Moore, Bertha Underwood, Nora Looney, Mary McPhearson, Katie Savage, Rose Kearns, Florence Moore, Jennie Beckwith, June Norcross, Carl Grant, Albert Stewart, Ralph Needham, Frank Maguire, Ray Rathburn, Jesse Maguire, Harry Leahy, Wolcott Ayers.

These children in the Green street primary school have been perfect in attendance during the past month: Vertene Aldrich, Grace Ferry, Ruth Graves, Gertie Hanley, Greta Merrick, Lottie Nason, Kittie O'Brien, Nellie O'Brien, Frieda Rand, Mary Robbins, Mamie Savage, Mary Thacker, Grace Thayer, Arline Tryon, Mattie Webber, Ernest Aldrich, Willie Beckwith, John Cantwell, Peter Kearns, Fred Darling, Arthur Graves, Clayton Maxwell, Willie Maguire, Frank O'Brien, Ralph Rathburn, Charlie Robbins, Robbie Wilcox.

The Morning Oregonian of Portland, Oregon, contains the report of Dr. Daniel Dorchester on the Chemawa School, from which is clipped the following concerning Mr. C. W. Wasson, formerly superintendent of the Monson schools:

I have just visited the Chemawa school. It is doing splendidly under its present superintendent, Mr. Wasson. He is thoroughly qualified for the work, having been engaged in school work in the East for many years, and has other qualities which make him one of our best superintendents. While I was at the school the pupils in some way got the idea into their heads that I was about to take Mr. Wasson away, and they made up a monster petition, signed by every pupil in the school, asking that he might remain. During the last term the Chemawa school had 321 pupils—100 more than at any previous time. They have spent their time during the past wet season in clearing a 15-acre tract near the school. They used giant powder in blasting the stumps, and that seemed to please the boys immensely.

Academy Notes.

There are now 92 scholars in attendance at the academy, the largest number for several

The geology class, under the direction of Prof. Burke, took a trip to Flynt's quarry last Saturday. They expect to visit Mt. Tom and Mt. Holyoke in the near future.

Miss Alma W. Bissell has been chosen to deliver the ivy essay, and Miss Florence J. Deverell to write the class prophecy. These appointments are made from the middler class, and the essays will be delivered on class day.

The following is the programme for Line, to be held next Friday evening: Essay, O. A. Prahn, '93; debate, "Resolved, that public revenue should be based on direct taxation," affirmative, A. M. Walker, '93, negative, L. A. Prouty, '96; declamation, H. L. Needham, '96.

The Philo society will meet Monday afternoon, May 8th, at which the following programme will be presented: Music; reading, Miss Keep, '94; debate, "Resolved, that girls should learn a trade," affirmative, Miss Squire, '95, negative, Miss Bissell, '94; music; reading, Miss K. Parker; music.
years during the spring term.

HAMPDEN.

Mathias Casey has been appointed special policeman.

At a special town meeting held last Friday at the call of the school committee and at the suggestion of the state board of education, it was voted to accept the offer of the state and unite with Wilbraham and Longmeadow in the employment of a superintendent of schools at a salary of $1500.

LUDLOW.

The Holyoke and Ludlow football teams played an exciting game in town last Saturday, the score standing 4 to 1 in favor of the Ludlows. After the game the local team entertained the visitors at a supper and "smoke."

At the town meeting held Saturday afternoon it was voted to hire Joy's hall as a room for the selectmen and to pay $65 a year for use of the same. It was also voted to unite with other towns in hiring a superintendent, and $300 was appropriated for this purpose. Mr. Edson, state superintendent, proposed to unite Monson, Hampden and East Longmeadow. Another town meeting is called for to-morrow afternoon to reconsider the vote to hold the town meetings at the village.

WEST WARREN.

The cases of scarlet fever are on the gain.

J. E. Lombard has gone to Saratoga for his health.

Will Benson is soon to move to the Shockey farm.

Mrs. Will Ham and children are visiting at her parents', Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw.

Mrs. Morton Dutch, who has been visiting her son, left for her home in Calais, Me., Thursday.

Miss Minnie Orcutt was home from Worcester last week, and made a flying visit among her friends.

Mrs. William Campbell is selling some of her goods, and will move to Nashville, Tenn., where her husband is in business.

Owing to the night being so stormy last Thursday, not a very large company listened to Dr. E. R. Thorndike's lecture.

A young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Campbell Button died very suddenly of bronchial trouble at her home Sunday.

BRIMFIELD.

W. A. DeMerritt of Boston is visiting Dr. Sawin.

Dwight Lombard is recovering from his recent illness.

The public schools began Monday with three new teachers.

W. H. Shaw's family, five in number, have all been laid up with the grippe.

Complaint is made of the condition of the main road from Brimfield to Wales.

Cheney Newton will sell a lot of farm produce and some household furniture at auction at his residence next Wednesday, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Mrs. J. N. Buxton died at her home last Sunday. A husband, two sons and two daughters survive her.

The farm of James N. Buxton, comprising 185 acres of land suitably divided in woodland, tillage and pasturage, will be sold at auction next Thursday at 10 o'clock a. m., together with stock, farming tools, personal property, household furniture, etc.

BELCHERTOWN.

W. B. Shaw has purchased of the heirs the late Edwin Cowles place.

Benjamin R. Fairchild is the assistant of Station Agent W. A. Stebbins.

The Social Circle has held its last sociable for the season, and adjourned until October.

H. D. Hoag has several contracts for building, and has also taken a section of the roads to repair.

Mrs. Susan M. Bridgman has returned home after her season in Florida, feeling much improved in health.

Station Agent Fairchild has been transfered to Norwich, Ct., and is succeeded here by W. A. Stebbins of South Vernon.

The District Grange met with Union Grange of Belchertown Wednesday, and Hon. W. R. Sessions of Wilbraham was present.

J. W. Jackson, taxidermist, has recently mounted two handsome specimens of fowl—a Bonaparte Gull and a Northern Diver, the gull being rarely found so far inland. C. S. Snow shot the "diver" and H. S. Parsons brought down the gull.

The Congregational society has voted to retain the present pastor, Rev. W. S. Woolworth, for another year at his present salary of $900, and appropriated $75 for music. The following officers were elected for the year: Treasurer, A. D. Randall; collector, J. L. Montague; prudential committee, D. F. Shumway, A. C. Shaw and A. D. Randall; music committee, W. H. Hawks, H. Rice and George H. Bruce. C. B. Southwick, M. W. Bardwell and A. H. Bartlett were appointed to investigate whether it is best to unite the parish with the church as one corporate body.

WALES.

Elijah Shaw has returned from a visit to Raleigh, N. C.

The foundation for Shaw's block is going in as fast as possible.

The new mail carrier, Mr. Pease, will begin his labors Monday.

Alfred Maynard will sell his personal property at auction Saturday.

George Clark has accepted a position in the mill at North Monson.

Rev. H. P. Smith occupied his pulpit Sunday after a severe illness.

Fitts, the barber, is packing up his goods preparatory to leaving town.

Mrs. Daros Perry, who has been sick for several weeks, is now able to sit up.

Alfred Maynard sells a lot of horses, cows, oxen and farm property at auction to-morrow.

People will rejoice when the Conant bridge is on again, as it now obliges quite a circuit to get to Monson.

Business is brisk at E. L. Needham's saw mill. He is now engaged in getting out the lumber for the new Shaw block.

At a probate court held in Springfield Saturday Herbert A. McFarland was appointed guardian of Henry H. Medzker of Wales.

A Sunday school convention will be held in the Baptist church next Thursday, with sessions in the afternoon and evening, at which addresses will be made by speakers from abroad.

The new road on Church street is about finished and found to be a great convenience to people who have occasion to travel that way. Especially do the merchants and market men enjoy it. Our selectmen are of the go-ahead kind and push things when they get started.

The officers of the Wales Savings Bank who have qualified are: President, N. S. Hubbard; vice presidents, Geo. L. Webber, Isaiah Hiscock, A. A. Hubbard; directors, Geo. S. Rogers, P. W. Moore, Lucius Agard, Wm. L. Webber, E. C. Sherman, David A. Shaw, Fred M. Royce, Eden D. Shaw, Alvin H. Hubbard; committee of investment, Isaiah Hiscock, G. S. Rogers, W. L. Webber; secretary and treasurer, H. A. McFarland.

WILBRAHAM.

The senior class have chosen Goldsmith of Springfield as the class photographer this year.

Mrs. C. N. Mowry of this village received second prize in the Homestead's cooking competition. Over 4000 women competed.

Monday evening, after chapel, Prof. Cooper gave the school a talk about the prospects of the ball team and its need for money. Within three-quarters of an hour $280 was subscribed for the support of the team.

The Young People's Christian Association of the academy has secured Prof. R. G. Hibbard of Wesleyan University to give a reading in Fisk Hall this evening. Prof. Hibbard is recognized as one of the ablest speakers in New England, and all who can should hear him. He will be assisted by a musical programme.

The baseball team of Wesleyan Academy played their first game of the season with the Worcester Academy nine at Worcester Saturday afternoon, winning by a score of 13 to 10. At the end of the first half of the ninth inning the score stood 13 to 3, but bothered by rain and darkness the Wesleyans allowed their opponents to score seven runs. Squier pitched a fine game for the Wilbraham boys, striking out eleven men and allowing the Worcester team only four hits. Lombard played a fine game behind the bat, and Paul Clark put up an excellent game at short stop. Below is the score by innings:

| Innings. | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Wesleyan, | 0 | 0 | 0 | 7 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 4 | 13 |
| Worcester, | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 7 | 10 |

The next game will be played on the home grounds to-morrow afternoon with Suffield Literary Institute.

Senior Reception.

A pleasant social event was the reception tendered the juniors by the seniors of Wesleyan Academy Saturday evening. The parlors of Fisk Hall had been arranged for the occasion and presented an attractive appearance. C. E. Spelman of Westfield and Miss Carrie T. Brown of New Hartford, Ct., received in a happy manner the guests, including the faculty of the academy. During the evening Miss Dora Truesdell, an elocutionist of charming attainments, recited a dialectal medley, and Miss Honora Whitney sang in her characteristically charming style. The gathering was enlivened by the triumphal return of the academy ball team from Worcester, where it had won the first game of the season, a favorable omen for those to follow.

WARREN.

Mrs. Coash is soon to remove to her former home in Hampden.

Fred Daniels and Miss Daniels spent Sunday at Stafford Springs, Ct.

The ladies will give a May tea at the calpel next Tuesday evening.

The King's Daughters met with Mrs. Albert Whitney, Bacon street, Thursday afternoon.

Rev. D. O. Clark officiated at the funeral service of Rev. Mr. Wing of Hopkinton Tuesday.

Prof. Sawyer gave a fine address to an appreciative audience at town hall Tuesday evening.

D. E. Penfield is having plans drawn for another new house to be built on his Main street lot.

E. W. Prouty's orchestra and concert company has engaged the town hall for to-morrow evening.

While playing ball last Tuesday, Ralph Foskit, son of Contractor E. L. Foskit, broke his arm below the elbow.

The circle of King's Daughters connected with the church gave an orange tea at Brigham's hall, Thursday evening.

The new proprietor of Hotel Ramsdell has made many improvements in the interior of the building, and it is now in every respect a first-class house.

Workmen are busily engaged in filling in for the spur track at Sayles & Jenks's mill, and the contractors will begin work on the new mill in a short time.

The pews in the Congregational church will be rented next Tuesday evening at 7.30, a change from afternoon, to accommodate the farmers and workmen who can better attend at that time.

A petition to the Boston and Albany railroad asking that more express trains stop at Warren has been granted, and after April 30th, when the new time table goes into effect, the Albany express going east at 2.10 p. m. will stop, a convenience the business men will appreciate.

The ladies of the Congregational parish have formed a "parish auxiliary" with the following officers: President, Mrs. N. F. Adams; vice-presidents, Mrs. George Shumway, Mrs. W. E. Patrick; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Royce Strickland, and an executive committee of nine.

The most elaborate concert ever given in Warren took place Monday evening under the auspices of the Warren Choral Union, of which Edmund Severen, Jr., of Springfield is conductor. The study of the season has been the cantata "The Holy City," and the solos were taken by singers from Springfield.

The Ladies' Home Missionary Society gave a very enjoyable "modern tea" at the church parlors Wednesday evening. Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Edward Fairbanks and Mrs. Wheeler presided at the table. A very amusing pantomime and an unusual musical programme was furnished by the entertainment committee.

Hayden P. Jarvis, 12, son of John Jarvis, while playing with some boys Wednesday jumping over posts, fell and struck with great force on his hip, forcing a lead pencil in his side pocket two inches into his body between the ribs of the right side, nearly penetrating the lung. His father pulled the pencil out and the boy is now doing well.

There is much enthusiasm in town over Arbor Day. The village improvement society plans the setting out of about forty trees in the public places and cemeteries of the town, and it is sincerely hoped that private enterprise will continue the good work along the highways in front of private residences. If each householder would do his share in front of his own premises our streets might soon be lined with shade trees. There will also be a number of ivies planted about public buildings, and the school children are planning to beautify some of the school houses in the same manner.

WARE.

Several parties are in New York this week attending the naval review.

E. D. Howard has taken the agency for the Estey pianos and organs.

Richard Haley bought the tenement block on Water street Saturday for $2250.

The John Kelly place near Hardwick pond was sold at auction last week for $1100.

Two tennis courts are being laid out next to the office of H. P. Cummings & Co.

George O. Wheeler has hired the farm of D. A. Jennison on the Gilbertville road.

Scribner & Smith's tent show is expected to exhibit on the Convent grounds May 13.

The Odd Fellows celebrated the 74th anniversary of Odd Fellowship on Thursday evening.

Carpets are way down in price just now. Hitchcock & Co. are selling the best at 47c per yard.

The Ware Beef Company is getting in good working order, and with R. A. Adams as head manager is doing a good business.

The price for a first and fourth class license has been fixed at $1600, $200 in advance of last year.

The grammar school was given a stereoptican entertainment by Charles W. Eddy last week Friday.

The registrars of voters will hold their last meeting May 31, to revise the list for the meeting of the fire district to be held May 8th, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Chief of Police Fitzgerald is again able to be on duty, and the excitement caused by the assault on him has nearly died out. His assailants are still at large.

Protests were filed with the selectmen against granting licenses to sell intoxicating liquors to David Rohan on Main street and Bombard & Sorel on North street.

Mrs. E. B. Spaulding, who established the Domestic bakery here, has bought a grocery store and bakery in West Springfield. Herbert Campbell is going to work for her.

Too disgusting to be believed of any human being are the reported doings of a man who has been in town but a few months, and who has wisely left for parts unknown the past week.

Gilbert W. Arms, of the hotel in Enfield, was convicted of illegally keeping intoxicating liquors for sale and fined $50; appealed. The case of S. F. Gage for illegal selling was continued to May 12.

Mrs. Anna H. Day's reception to her dancing classes Tuesday evening is reported as a fine affair. There was not, however, a large attendance, and the result financially must have been anything but satisfactory.

Frank P. Smith, W. V. Howard and George Lamberton have been appointed by the selectmen as special policemen. Dr. D. M. Ryan has been appointed health inspector and inspector of cattle, poultry and meat.

Dolph Launier, clerk at Sherwin's clothing house, and Miss Mary Gleason, were married at the home of the bride in Warren Wednesday evening. After the reception the couple left for New York. On their return their home will be in Ware.

The road commissioners are doing a good thing for the streets in the village, especially at the concrete crossings where they are digging out and filling in with stone on each side, thus averting the "grand bounce" when driving over them.

The entertainment at the Unitarian church next Tuesday evening promises to be of high merit. Readings by Miss Lillian Pierce, whistling solo by Mrs. Mark Sherwin, violin playing by Miss Lena Lovett, with singing by Mrs. Clark, Mr. Mulvany and others.

A division of the Ware Christian Workers conducted a meeting at Thorndike last Sunday evening, and reported six who manifested a desire to start in the service of the Divine Master. Meetings will be conducted there each Sunday evening for the present.

The United States government has furnished six more headstones to be set over the graves of Capt. J. A. Graves, James McGrath, Thomas E. Raymond, Royal A. Smith and John Dailey. J. W. Lawton Post, G. A. R., will be to the expense of setting them.

About 50 rare Indian stone relics found in the Connecticut valley have been presented the Gilbert Museum at Amherst College by J. H. Grenville Gilbert of Ware. In the collection are pipes, scalping knives, pendants, gorgets, totems and hammer stones, all rare Indian relics.

The Ware Driving Park Association was organized Monday night: President, H. M. Clark; vice president, Felix Bombard; secretary, F. A. Spencer; treasurer, F. F. Gilmore; directors, H. M. Clark, Felix Bombard, R. C. Snow, George Utley, H. C. Davis, F. F. Gilmore, W. J. Volk.

Andrew J. Davis has resigned the office of postmaster, to take effect June 30, or a year before the expiration of his term of appointment. There are already two petitions out for the vacancy, one for Jeremiah Byrns, whom Mr. Davis succeeded, and one for H. A. Mongrain. Either of them would make an excellent man for the place.

Liquor licenses have been granted to F. F. Gilmore of the Mansion House, W. J. Volk & Co., Storrs' block, North street, Owen McArdle, East street, Caryl Bros., Music Hall block, Bank street, Hennessey & Riley, Crowe's block, Water street, John Malbeuf on Water street, James Neville, Craig's block, Water street, and Druggists F. A. Spencer and John D. Smith.

Heart Disease Curable.

The truth of this statement may be doubted by many, but when Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent Indiana specialist, claims that heart disease is curable and proves it by thousands of testimonials of wonderful cures by his New Heart Cure, it attracts the attention of the millions suffering with short breath, palpitation, irregular pulse, wind in stomach, pain in side or shoulder, smothering spells, fainting, dropsy, etc. A. F. Davis, Silver Creek, Neb., by using four bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, was completely cured after twelve years' suffering from heart disease. This wonderful remedy is sold by LeGro & Lynde. Books free.

The Hampden County Musical Association in their announcement of the Music Festival, have excited unusual interest, and the demand for tickets promises to exceed even that of former years.

Verdi's Requiem Mass and the Elijah are the principal vocal works to be given, and Beethoven's 8th and Mozart's C minor Symphonies are the strong orchestral numbers.

The programs show an unusual number of interesting and popular selections, and it does seem as though the artists and managers had vied with each other in their efforts to attract the public.

The greatest names in the country head the list, and certainly no festival ever had four artists of more renown than Emma Juch, Lillian Nordica, Max Henrich and Wm. Ludwig.

Emma Juch maintains her proud position as the leading American dramatic soprano, and it was the universal verdict that she surpassed herself at the recent Seidl Concerts. Lillian Nordica is attracting more attention at present than any artist except Paderewski.

Perhaps the following extract from a private letter may give an inside view of how she is esteemed:

"What everybody says must be true, and as we hear on all sides the most flattering reports about Nordica, we must conclude that this great artist is entitled to all the praise bestowed upon her. It has been said to us, 'You can put Nordica for all you are worth, for she will back up all the compliments you can invent. In the first place she has a handsome stage presence, and her personal beauty, her charming manners, the gracious ways she has, make an irresistible combination; then too, while not depending like many upon their costumes for partial recognition, Nordica has superb taste in matters of stage toilettes, and her elegant dressing makes a noticeable and attractive feature of her appearances. If you can imagine the peculiarly attractive qualities of Mary Howe and of charming Mrs. Lawson combined in one person with an amount of musical ability, attained only by grand artists, you will see why this glorious singer and fascinating woman captivates all audiences, and why she has filled the largest halls with enshusiastic audiences.'"

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,

106 Wall St., N. Y.

WALL PAPERS, Ceiling Decorations, —AND— PICTURE MOULDINGS In Good Style and Variety.

5,000 ROLLS OF WALL PAPER!

It is going fast but we want it to go faster and have just the styles and prices that will do it.

Can furnish a good paper hanger and house painter.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists,

Next to P. O. - - - PALMER, MASS.

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

Nervous Prostration.

A large manufacturer, whose affairs were very much embarrassed, and who was overworked and broken down with nervous exhaustion, went to a celebrated specialist. He was told that the only thing needed was to be relieved of care and worry, and have a change of thought. This doctor was more considerate of his patient's health than of his financial circumstances. He ought to have advised him to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the best remedy for nervous prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, headache, ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, opium, etc. Thousands testify to cures. Book and trial bottle free at LeGro & Lynde's. (5)

There are sarsaparillas and sarsaparillas; but if you are not careful in your purchase, the disease you wish to cure will only be intensified. Be sure you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla and no other. It is compounded from the Honduras root and other highly concentrated alteratives.

It is only of late years that rheumatism has been treated as a blood disease. But that this is a correct theory is proved by the extraordinary success attending the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in this painful and very prevalent malady. It seldom fails of radical cure.

By using Hall's Hair Renewer, gray, faded or discolored hair assumes the natural color of youth, and grows luxuriant and strong, pleasing everybody.

For Over Three Months

my son suffered night and day with rheumatism; so much so that he was unable to feed himself. Your Sulphur Bitters cured him, and I am truly thankful to say they are an honest medicine.—Mrs. W. H. Carlton, wife of Deacon Carlton, First Baptist church, Winchester, N. H.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

The Postmaster

Winchester, Mass., says: "I am personally acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Carlton, and was astonished at the remarkable effects of your Sulphur Bitters in curing their son, and its large sale is undoubtedly due to the fact it is an honest medicine. I know of many others who have been cured by its use, and I do not think too much can be said in praise." Yours truly,

Geo. P. Brown, P. M.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See adv. 8-53

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Forbes & Wallace's.

Springfield, Mass., April, 1893.

The most fashionable and most reliable black silk fabrics for street wear are:

Black satin merveilleux, 37½c to $1.55.
Black satin luxor, $1.50 and $1.62½.
Black satin duchess, $1.50.
Black satin rhadame, 87½c to $1.50.
Black satin frieste, $1.50.

Let us send you samples of one or two of them.

Left aisle.

Silk-warp henriettas is the fabric for finest mourning; 85 cents to $1.25. Samples sent.

A beautiful dress fabric brightened with tiny points of silk, comes in several choice colors under the name of dentelle pointelle, $1; 45-inch. Samples sent.

Ladies' cloths for spring and summer capes; black $1 to $2; colored $1.25 to $1.50; all 50 inches wide. Samples sent.

French black challies, printed with natural colored flowers, were received lately. The effects are singularly beautiful. Samples sent.

There are two curiosities in dress goods prices now. It is rather early too. Highland mixtures in stripes and broken checks, 29 cents a yard; and all-wool cheviots in light effects at 39 cents. We had the very same cloths last week at 37½ and 50 cents. The change is an accident. We can't get more. Samples sent.

Left aisle.

In cotton dress goods there is no such a staple as ginghams. So far as appearance is concerned there is range enough in the American at 12½ cents; but, if fineness of fabric is regarded, you will buy the Scotch at 25 cents. Samples of either of them sent.

French brocaded black sateens is a finer fabric, for the warp is thrown upon the surface so successfully as to leave it as smooth as silk, which indeed it much resembles. This is printed and brocaded in beautiful designs; and the printing is the more successful because the surface is so smooth. 37½ cents. Samples sent.

Just out; satin organdies, black grounds printed with natural colored flowers, 17 cents. Samples sent.

Right aisle.

"Barriers Burned Away," E. P. Roe's first novel in a new dainty binding, 28 cents; 35 cents by mail.

Forbes & Wallace

Main and Vernon streets.

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY
AND MACHINE SHOP.
At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads, West of Depot.
MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE
At short notice and reasonable prices.
52 35 R. B. FRANCIS.

Piano Stools! Variety of styles and colors. $2.00 to $4.00 each. New lot just received. STONE, Palmer.

DON'T EXPOSE YOURSELF

These deceitful spring days by going without an overcoat of some sort. Buy one of our spring overcoats as a safety guard against doctor's bills and perhaps death. Many a man has met an untimely end by being "Penny wise and pound foolish."

OUR SPRING OVERCOATS

are beautiful in design and material, fit well, stylish, and beyond all they are inexpensive.

| | |
|---|---|
| Spring Overcoats, | $ 6.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 7.50 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 10.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 12.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 13.50 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 15.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 18.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 20.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 25.00 |

You needn't pay any more for the best than the latter, nor you needn't expect to get anything that'll please you at any less than the former.

THE D. H. BRIGHAM CO.,

Makers and Retailers of Good Clothes for men and boys,

370-401 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

NEW SPRING DRESS GOODS!

New Pampas Cloths.
New Foulards.
New Puritan Shirtings.
New Ginghams.
New Prints.
New Cottons.
New Groceries.

∴ ∴ ∴ J. B. SHAW.

Spring Shoes. Low Shoes. High Shoes. Russet Shoes.

All kinds of shoes can be found in the large line of new things we are showing in our stock of

FFEFFFFFFF
FFEFFFFFFF
FF ULLER'S
FF LEXIBLE
FFFF INE
FF
FF ITTING
FF
FF OOTWEAR.
FFFF

Monson, - - Mass.

Pike's Peak,

DENVER, COLORADO SPRINGS,
MANITOU, TWIN LAKES.
And other Resorts of Colorado.

Full

Thoroughly Sooted.

The woman who has once tried Pearline is suited. It suits millions of women who are using it; and millions more are following suit. It washes easily, to save your clothes and your strength; it cleans thoroughly, to save your time and your temper. Do you know that with Pearline there is little or no rubbing? It is the rub, rub, rubbing that wears out your clothes and wears off your paint. You will like Pearline, because it is sure; there is nothing like it, because it is safe.

Beware of imitations. 299 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

A MAMARONECK MIRACLE.

HOW EDWARD HAVILAND SAVED HIS WIFE'S LIFE.

She Never Knew a Well Day in Seventeen Years—On Crutches Some of the Time—But Can Now Walk as Well as Any One.

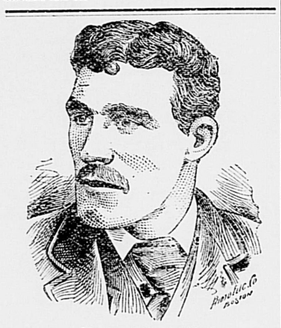
MAMARONECK, N.Y.—Mrs. Edward Haviland of this place owes her life to her husband; who during her long and critical illness never gave up the thought that she could and would be cured, although it seemed sometimes like fighting against fate.

By accident Mr Haviland heard of the cures Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was performing, and brought this medicine home to Mrs. Haviland, who began its use with the most gratifying result. "Although I naturally shrink from having my name appear in public print," said Mrs. Haviland, "I think it is a duty I owe to those who may be suffering, that I make known my remarkable recovery. I was first taken with a severe pain in the chest and stomach. The pain gradually moved downward until it settled in the bottom of my right foot and from that followed suffering which even now I dread to think about. My right foot and leg began to swell, and the foot became drawn up until the hollow of it laid on my left knee. I was confined to my bed, being moved only once in fourteen weeks, after that I walked on crutches for over a year. I had a large sore gather and break on my ankle, and the whole top of my foot was completely raw.

During all this time I tried many different medicines and several doctors, but received no lasting benefit. One day my husband brought me a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I began its use with but little faith, but before I had taken half the bottle, I was greatly relieved. The disease in my feet was not my only trouble; I also suffered from dropsy. I was so bloated that I could hardly move, I had not seen a well day in seventeen years, until my husband brought me this great medicine. I have taken five bottles of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and I feel like a different woman, my dropsy is all gone, and I can walk almost as well as ever, and to a woman who has not walked, only limped about for so many years, the use of my feet alone is like a new lease of life."

There are many others here who have been cured of disease by Favorite Remedy. In talking with a local physician, he said, "I use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy now for all diseases that arise from excess of uric acid in the blood, and have cured some of the most stubborn cases of rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney, liver and urinary trouble, although these diseases appear to be widely different, they all originate from the one source, this deadly 'uric acid.' Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy dissolves this acid, dispelling it from the system through the natural channels, thus curing disease. I believe every rheumatic or dyspeptic victim should use it." 1



GRANVILLE E. RICHARDS.

Dyspepsia will Kill a Well Man

The Kind that Never Fails

Our Remedy will Kill Dyspepsia

Dyspepsia is a subtle disease which lurks along the highway of health, and steals upon its victim by slow and stealthy advances. When the first treacherous blow has been given a horde of accomplices rush forward and rob life of every enjoyment.

About Leon's Sarsaparilla.

Mr. Granville E. Richards, of Searsmont, Me., writes as follows:

Gentlemen:—I have been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for years. No one knows what I have suffered both in body and in mind. As my strength gradually failed I became nervous, despondent at times and completely discouraged. I have tried almost every remedy offered for my trouble, but nothing ever helped me, and for was still a burden until I took Leon's Sarsaparilla, which went directly to the spot, and I began immediately to gain in flesh, strength, and spirits. I am now a well man. Nothing I eat distresses me, and once more the future seems bright. Leon's Sarsaparilla cured my Dyspepsia.

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.

Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me. 1

Scientific American Agency for

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

To April and the Fair.

April, thou camest in Superbly. Spoil not the recollection
Of thy smiling entrance
By any monkey business now.
As much as in thee lies withhold thy tears.
Bless your soul, fair April,
There's nothing to cry about.
And if there were March wept enough
To cover the assignment. The wild goose
Is weeks behind her schedule time
In hunting Northern watering-places.
Tardily the sassafras woman
Maketh her appearance, and the early fly
Is nowhere. Look you, April,
This is no time for nonsense.
The World's Columbian Exposition,
Rain or shine, will open four weeks hence,
Higinbotham hath said it, and it goes.
Don't try to stop it. You will only make yourself
Ridiculous. Look pleasant, April
For eight and twenty days. So shalt thou be Fairest of the Columbian Year's Fair daughters, and beneath thy smiling sky,
Grandest of vestibules, the world will march
To see the most bewildering, stupendous, matchless, colossal, overwhelming, magnificent, and gigantic aggregation of wonders ever placed on exhibition since the world began its journey down the toboggan slide of time!

—Chicago Tribune.

NAN'S CONQUEST.

Mr. Edward Carpenter was described by the gossips of Snowville as a "crusty old bachelor, too hateful to live," having refused for some twenty-five or thirty years to yield to the fascinations of maid or widow. He lived in a large, old-fashioned house, occupying the lower floor only, and his domestic duties were performed by Jonathan Stubbs, who was older and crustier than his master, but who cooked and cleaned to his entire satisfaction.

Unprejudiced eyes would have seen that Mr. Carpenter was yet on the bright side of fifty, that his features were fine, his eyes large and expressive, and the form that he clothed in mean, shabby garments was erect and vigorous. That he was wealthy, all Snowville knew, as well as that there was but a small part of his large income spent upon his personal wants.

But he was stern, harsh to the boys, savage to intruders upon his privacy and had been heard to declare that—

"He hated a widow or a brat. If anything was more detestable than a widow it was a brat; and if anything could be worse than a brat it was a widow."

Therefore, May Carroll, being a widow, though not yet twenty-four, and mother of Nan, who was but four, bestowed upon Mr. Carpenter her most scornful glances and withering frowns.

Nan was a tiny creature—blue-eyed, fair-haired; and to see her draw up her childish stature to its full height and flash contempt from her baby face was really something wonderful.

Who first called Mr. Carpenter "Old-Snap-'em-up," from the short, cross speech he bestowed upon children, was never clearly proved. But everybody in Snowville knew the name.

Still it was rather startling to the proprietor of the title, when sauntering through the woods, just at dusk one summer evening, to feel a wee cold hand slipped into his own, and to hear a pitiful voice say:

"Please, Old Snap-'em-up, take Nan home; Nan's lost!"

He looked down. A baby face, red with weeping, purple with berry stains, but beautiful with its large brown eyes and rosy lips, looked up at him. No hat, and the golden curls all tangled; one shoe quite gone; an apron, berry-stained and torn; hands grimy and dress to match. That was Nan!

"Nan's so tired," she pleaded, "and the little chicky is runned far away."

Was that Mr. Carpenter who lifted the child and put her on a fallen tree as tenderly as her mother could have done? Was that Old Snap-'em-up, who said: "The naughty chicky!" and then dipped his handkerchief in a little run of water, and gently washed Nan's face and grimy hands?

"Yes it was," said Nan, "and it runned so far that Nan lost her shoe and hurted her foot, and she's so tired! Please take Nan home!"

And Nan was lifted into strong arms and cradled so comfortably that she was fast asleep when Mr. Carpenter met Mrs. Carroll in distracted search of her darling, and did not hear him say in his gruffest tones:

"Yes, I found her. Here she is, and I wish people would look after their own brats, and not let them run wild all over town."

How could the mother's thanks be gracious after such a speech as that?

But she did not fail to give her timid acknowledgment of his kindness, her great, blue eyes misty with tears, and her little white hands trembling as they were stretched out to take her one treasure.

"You know I am teaching all day," she said in apology, "and I must leave Nan with Jane, or I cannot earn enough to feed her."

A grunt was the answer to this, and Mr. Carpenter strode homeward, frowning heavily, like the woman-hater he was known to be. How could Mrs. Carroll know that just such baby blue eyes as hers had desolated his life, just such a wee rosy mouth spoken false vows and broken faith?

But Nan remembered the gentle touch, the sympathetic voice long after that naughty chicky was entirely lost. She was a thorough gypsy, always wandering away in spite of Jane's vigilance, and was as independent as a boy, perfectly fearless and full of resource.

Snowville's Main street was the magnet that was most powerful; and when Jane, at the hours when Mrs. Carroll might be expected, went in search of Nan, she was usually found lost in admiration at the window of the five shops that comprised the mercantile enterprise of Snowville.

It was three weeks after he met her in the woods, that Mr. Carpenter, walking up Main street, felt again a tiny hand in his, and looked down upon Nan's yellow curls and big brown eyes.

"Good morning," said Nan, politely.

No answer, but a scowl, yet the little hand still nestled closely. Presently, still walking beside her friend by election of one, Nan said:

"I'm pretty well, I thank you," as in reproachful reminder that her greeting had not been answered. The tone said:

"If you are too rude to inqure how I am, I am polite enough to tell you."

Still no answer, and the heavy beard hid the quivering lips. Then the little hand gave a strong pull, and the baby voice said imperiously:

"Candy!"

"Candy?" said the bewildered bachelor, stopping, obedient to the pull.

"Candy? Nan wants some!" and the wee finger was extended to a tempting row of molasses candy pans in the window of the only cake and candy store in Snowville.

A silver piece was put in the rosy palm by Mr. Carpenter, amazed at himself and hoping nobody was looking. But Nan was still holding fast to his hand.

(Continued on sixth column.)

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Ripans Tabules—gentle cathartic.

Hood's Cures

Catarrh in the Head

Is a Constitutional Disease and Hood's Sarsaparilla is a Constitutional Remedy

William H. King
Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been a victim of catarrh for ten years. It has kept my head feeling badly with a sense of fullness and ringing in the ears. Instead of discharge from the nose, as many have, it has acted so that either one or the other of my nostrils has been tightly closed up so that

I Could Not Breathe

through it, nor would blowing the nose clear it. I tried several catarrh cures and different treatments, but failed to get any relief. At last reading of permanent cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla I determined to give it a fair honest trial. I have now finished four bottles and am satisfied it has effected a cure, for the catarrh no longer troubles me a particle, and I feel better in every way than I have for years. I am very

Grateful at the Result

And if what I have said of the benefit I have obtained be of any use in persuading others to try it in similar cases I shall feel amply repaid." WM. H. KING, 258 Washington Street, Haverhill, Mass. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills, sick headache, jaundice, indigestion. Try a box. 25c.

Take half a gallon of Chilton Paint and add to it nearly a quart of best linseed oil and you have a paint that costs very little money, and is very much better than the majority of paints. We suggest this as a method of getting a good deal for a small outlay of money. You get a thin coat of paint, but thin coats of paint are better than thick. Have your paints well brushed out and applied to a dry surface and satisfaction is sure to follow. The majorfty of mixed paints are worthless because the manufacturer tries to see how low cost an article he can turn out depending upon the price alone to sell it. Beginning in a town with every assurance of success on account of the price, he lives to see customers pass his agents by till the agent himself, thoroughly disgusted with his loss of trade, reviles the manufacturer whose goods he has tried in vain to foist upon an unwilling public. The Chilton Paints sell best in the towns where they have sold longest.

Sold by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

Soaps and Soap Powders!

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Welcome soap, | 5c | Lenox soap, | 5c |
| Good Will soap, | 5c | Ideal soap, | 5c, 6 for 25c |
| Dobbins soap, | 10c | Spurr's Drive, | 4c, 7 for 25c |
| Siddalls soap, | 10c | Blizzard soap, | 4c, 8 for 25c |
| Star soap, | c | Gold Dust, 4lb package | 25c |
| Acme soap, | 5c | Ivorine, 1½lb package | 12c |
| World soap, | 5c | Pearline, | 12c |
| Ivory soap, | 9c, 3 for 25c | Savena, | 12c |
| Ivory (small) soap, | 5c | Purafine, | 12c |
| Grandpa Wonder soap, | 10c | Soapine, | 12c |
| Marseilles soap, | 5 and 7c | Tuxedo, | 1c |
| Brussells soap, | 7c | | |

Stone. Stone. Stone.

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S

COUGH and LUNG BALSAM

SURE CURE. PRICE 35 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

Ripans Tabules cure indigestion.

AGENT FOR

G. W. SIMMONS & CO.

—AND—

Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.

CLOTHING TO ORDER.

Spring samples ready for inspection.

W. E. STONE,

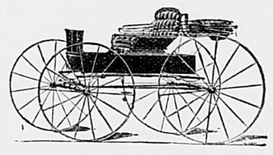
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

WE ARE IN IT!

SMITH & CO., PALMER

W. H. SMITH,

2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a complete line of family carriages, road wagons, delivery wagons, road carts, farm wagons, etc., etc.
Novelties in buckboards and traps.
Open buggies from $35 up.
Top buggies from $50 up.
100 second hand carriages. 15 1 alt.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. Call for samples. 52-17

AYER'S Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires. Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston. A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."

M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.

Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

BUILDING LOTS GIVEN AWAY.

For particulars inquire of

C. S. RUGGLES,

13-48 Three Rivers, Mass.

THE BEST

BRADLEY FERTILIZER.

C. D. HOLBROOK, Palmer.

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell NURSERY STOCK. We grow all the best varieties, old and new, replace all stock that dies, and guarantee satisfaction. Highest salary or commission paid from the start. Write for terms.

H. E. HOOKER CO., NURSERYMEN, Rochester, N. Y.

Established 1835. 4-1 Incorporated 1883.

YOU ought to see the UNLAUNDERED SHIRTS Stone is selling at 50c each or 6 for $2.75.

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,

THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY. OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by

12-41 R. J. HENRY, MAIN ST., PALMER.

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Cough, Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Pain, Take in time. 50 cts.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. 15c. at Druggists, or HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

HIS AFFIDAVIT.

It Will Make People Believe His Wonderful Story.

Subscribed to by One of New York's Most Prominent Justices.

Here is the Whole Matter Exactly as it Happened.

State of New York, } ss.
County of Washington, }

Lucien Rodd of Whitehall, N. Y., being by me duly sworn, deposes and says that some years ago he suffered very greatly with insomnia, nervous prostration and his body was covered with sores, causing him great pain and annoyance. That his head was so covered with sores that he was hardly able to comb or even brush his hair, so great was the pain it occasioned.

That he consulted the local physicians without successful result; that he took quantities of medicine with no benefit whatever; that physicians told him his disease was incurable and he had come to the same conclusion himself and had made up his mind to go to a hospital and await death.

That just about this time he learned about Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, which he began to use. That this remedy entirely relieved and cured him, healed and dried up his sores, enabled him to sleep soundly and comfortably, and restored him to his ordinary vigor and vitality, in short, made a sound and well man of him so that he was fully able to work at his occupation, and has done so since that time.

That he attributes his recovery to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as it restored him when everybody and everything else had failed and he had been given over to go to the hospital and die.

MR. LUCIEN RODD.

Mr. Rodd makes this statement voluntarily and cheerfully out of sincere gratitude for what the remedy has wrought for him.

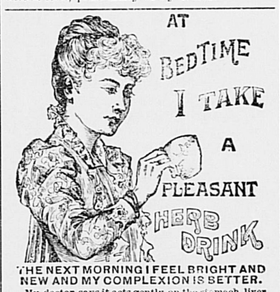
LUCIEN RODD.

Subscribed and sworn before me this 15th day of January, A. D. 1895, and I certify the affiant to be a credible and reliable person whose statements may be accepted with confidence and implicity relied upon, having known him personally for the last twenty-five years, and that I have no interest, direct or indirect, immediate or remote in this matter.

HON. WILLIAM H. TEFFT,
Notary Public in and for said County and State, residing at Whitehall, where this deposition was taken and executed.

SEAL

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is purely vegetable and is sold by druggists at $1.00. As is proven by the wonderful cure of Mr. Rodd, it is the very best spring medicine possible to take for the blood, nerves, liver, kidneys, etc. It is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.



THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS SETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

LANE'S MEDICINE

All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1.00 per package. Buy one to-day. LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE MOVES THE BOWELS EACH DAY. In order to be healthy, this is necessary.

SULPHUR BITTERS

Will cure
The worst cases
Of Skin Disease
From a Common Pimple
On the Face
To that awful
Disease
Scrofula.
Try a bottle
To-day.

Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., for best medical work published

SOLICITORS OF PATENTS.

CROSBY & GREGORY.

GEO. W. GREGORY,

Formerly Principal Examiner in U.S. Patent Office

31 SCHOOL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

918 F ST., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Patents obtained in the United States and other countries on all subjects of invention. Applications prepared with greatest care to secure broadest possible claims. 4 1

Score Cards,

CORDS and PENCILS
For card and other parties, at
The JOURNAL office.

Embossed Programmes

In original and special designs are made to order at the JOURNAL office. Samples cheerfully shown.

(Continued from second column.)

"You come, too!"

"No, no," he said hastily; "get your candy and run home!" And gently disengaging himself, he hurried off.

But a siver piece bought more candy than Nan had ever before possessed, a great sticky parcel her baby hands could scarcely grasp. Eager to show her prize, and to share it, she ran quickly down the lane leading to Mr. Carpenter's house, and reaching it, thumped on the door with all the strength of her baby fist. Jonathan Stubbs was out, and nobody came. Nan pounded until she was tired, and then her restless eyes spied a little round window wide open.

It was such a small window that burglary could find no entrance there; but it was over a water-butt, and under the butt was a bench. How Nan scaled the water-butt and wriggled in at the window, without losing the precious paper of candy, must ever remain a mystery. But she dropped through on the floor of the wide hallway, and looked about her.

Door after door yielded to her sticky grasp; and at last Mr. Carpenter was startled to see right before him, Nan's little figure and tiny hands holding a great parcel of sticky sweetness.

"See!" cried the baby voice, in glad triumph; "Nan got all that. Nan's brought you some."

Would anybody in Snowville have believed it if he and seen Nan perched on the bachelor's knee, forcing bits of candy between his lips, prattling happily and receiving such gentle caresses as won her baby heart forever. Nobody saw them, the strong man and the little child as they exchanged kisses. Nobody heard them as they talked freely of nursery experience, and gave each other views of the merits of "stupid dollies that can't talk, and nice, dear little chickies and kitties that play."

Day after day Nan wriggled through the little window, missed only by Jane, and coming home before the weary little mother completed her daily round of teaching. Snowville began to wonder "what had come to Mr. Carpenter." The rough, shaggy beard gave way to a pair of silky whiskers, that didn't scratch Nan's face when he kissed her. The shabby clothes were replaced by a suit of cheviot, because Nan turned up her dainty nose at the fringe on the trousers and the grease on the coat. White linen took the place of gray flannel, at Nan's request to "look like the picture," after discovering a photograph taken years before.

Nobody guessed how the baby fingers were tearing away the crust a woman's treachery had spread over a tender, generous heart, and letting in the sunshine of protecting love. Jonathan was mute.

It was winter weather, when one morning Mrs. Carroll, who was giving a music-lesson, was startled by a boy who rushed into her pupil's room, crying:

"Oh, Mrs. Carroll, come! come! Old Snap-'em-up is a killin' o' your Nan! You can hear her a-screamin' 'way down the road!"

The mother flew to the rescue. Already there was a crowd around the house, and everbody talked at once. Doors and windows were barred and bolted; but from its fastness came wailing cries:

"Oh, come to Nan! Oh, mamma! Come!" And then wordless screams of childish fear and agony. No mother could long endure them, and in answer to her frenzied appeals, two men forced the door. The first object that greeted them was old Jonathan, gagged and bound fast to one of the hall chairs. Hurrying on, guided by Nan's cries, they opened the door of the room where Mr. Carpenter spent most of his life. The master of the house lay on the floor, senseless, bleeding, and, kneeling by him, Nan was screaming with terror.

Gentle hands lifted him; a doctor was hastily summoned, and life came back, very faint and fluttering. But there was a smile for Nan as the injured man's eyes rested upon her. She had clung to him so desperately that no one had the heart to force her away, and it was Mrs. Carroll who deftly assisted the doctor, as he bandaged and patched up the sorely wounded man.

Investigation proved that Mr. Carpenter had been robbed of a large sum of money drawn from the bank the day before, and it was in a vain endeavor to fight three men at once that he was stabbed and felled by a blow upon the head.

Many long weeks he lay upon his bed, and Nan perched herself beside him. Mrs. Carroll had to take her away to her meals and bed, and when she came for her how could she come empty-handed? Jonathan never could make such jellies and broths as the widow brought, and with which Nan fed the invalid. And if another little hand steadied the grasp of the spoon, there was no word of objection spoken. If little feminine comforts crept in to take the place of Jonathan's well-meant but clumsy devices, who could blame the womanly pity that suggested them?

The doctor said the injuries were fatal, and no one in snowville was inclined to blame Mrs. Carroll's ministrations to a dying man. But for once medical judgment was at fault. June roses were blooming when the eaves were reversed, and Mr. Carpenter began to visit Mrs. Carroll, though Nan still crept through the round window.

There was a wedding in October, eyes being true eyes this time, and love vows made in heartfelt serenity. But Mrs. Carpenter laughingly declares her husband was Nan's conquest, and only married her that he might give Nan a father's love and care.—New York Ledger.

EPHRAIM'S SIN.

Uncle Silas was a very honest and pious old colored man who preached on Sundays, and had a great influence for good upon the others in the settlement. During one of his revival seasons, among a dozen or so at the mourners' bench, was a black boy called Eph, about twenty years old, and for a long time unregenerate. Uncle Silas was greatly rejoiced to see him come forward, and at once went to him. Eph was crying.

"Hain't no use in my comin' up," he sobbed. "I'se sinned away de day ob grace."

"No, you ain't, brudder," protested Uncle Silas. "You am de kin' what de Lawd wants to save. All you got to do is to gib up sin."

"I'se dun done dat, Uncle Silas," sobbed Eph, "but dey ain't no salvation fer me."

"Yes, dey is, too, honey. Dey ain't no sin so black dat hit ain't washed white as snow."

"I done stole fo' chickens las' week," confessed the penitent.

"Dat's all fuggib, Eph'm."

"An' two de week befo', Uncle Silas."

"Dat's fuggib, too, Eph'm."

"An' two de week befo, dat, Uncle Silas."

"Dat's all right, too, Eph'm."

"But dem two was you'n, Uncle Silas. Dem fat pullets you low'd so much store by, Uncle Silas."

"Wha' dat?" exclaimed Uncle Silas, suddenly.

"Dem las' two wuz yo' pullets," sobbed Eph.

Uncle Silas became solemn and stern.

"I reckon, Eph'm," he said slowly, "you case needs advisement wid pra'r. I ain't sho' dat we wanter be clutterin' up de Kingdom of Hebben wid chicken thieves, an' yo' better stay right on de mo'ners' bench till de meetin' am done, an' we can dezamin yo' state ob sin for perticklers."—Detroit Free Press.

PHILLIPS BROOKS AT THE FIRE.

During the progress of a big fire in Boston, Phillips Brooks illustrates one marked phase in his character, and one of the grandest phases in the character of any man or woman—the willingness, the desire to serve, to help some fellow creature in distress. After seeing his own church on Summer street destroyed, Mr. Brooks next went to the store of Shreve, Crump & Low, the well-known jewelers. Their doors were barred, and their shutters up and no wonder. The store stood straight in the track of the flames and already a large crowd, made up principally of roughs, had gathered in the anticipation of a chance to plunder the loot. Through this crowd Dr. Brooks made his way straight to the closed doors. His vigorous pounding finally gained him admission. Some of the men at the head of the affairs were friends of his. To them he said: "Gentlemen, I am here to do anything for you in my power. Make any use of me which is possible." They were at first averse to accepting such distinguished services, but at last yielded to his earnest protests. So they loaded him down with diamonds and valuable jewelry. They filled his pockets, his hat and even his shoes. Again the door was unbarred and out through that crowd of roughs walked Phillips Brooks, carrying on his person valuables worth thousands of dollars. The act must have been suspected by the roughs, yet not a hand was put out to strike or even touch him. Towering above them all, he inspired a respect or fear, which proved a perfect protection. His magnificent courage, which did not know what fear was, enabled him to discharge his trust and leave the valuables in a place of safety.—Boston Journal.

SAFETY IN THUNDERSTORMS.

Recent thunderstorms have confirmed the old saying that it is dangerous to stand under trees during lightning. Isolated trees are more apt to be struck than a clump, and especially if they are near water. An oak tree by a pond is considered by electricians as offering a particularly unsafe position. In fact, water and damp grounds as to be avoided, as well as trees. It would be safer to lie flat on the ground than to stand upright if the storm is immediately overhead; which can be ascertained by noting that the flashes and the reports are simultaneous. Indoors it is dangerous to sit near metal objects, such as mirrors, picture-frames, and wire bellpulls; but particularly near the fire, because the metal grate, the soot, and the column of heated gases in the chimney are likely to "draw" the discharge. A safe place is believed to be the middle of a room, especially in a room in the middle story of the house, but according to a recent lecture of Prof. Rowland, of Baltimore, a distinguished physicist, the safest of all places is an iron (or metal) bedstead. Lying on this, one is in a kind of metal cage, which acts as a lightning screen.—London Globe.

THE KIND THAT CURES

MRS. LOUISA SOMMERS,
Lynn, Mass.

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.:

GENTLEMEN—I have been troubled with Inflammatory Rheumatism ever since I had Rheumatic Fever 6 years ago. I have had cramps in my limbs nights so bad I could not sleep and would be compelled to walk the floor all night. My breath was very short, could hardly go up stairs. I consulted a Physician who came from Boston; he said that I had the Dropsy and could not be cured. I have taken five bottles of and the Dropsy has entirely disappeared, the Rheumatism and Cramps are gone, can run up stairs as fast as any one, and can go to bed and sleep all night.

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

Yours respectfully,
MRS. LOUISA SOMMERS.

Rear No. 50 Park St., Lynn, Mass.

This is to certify that I am acquainted with Mrs. Sommers and have no doubt of the truthfulness of her statement regarding DANA'S SARSAPARILLA. CHAS. W. BROWN, Druggist. Lynn, Mass.

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

Job Printing

of all kinds

at the Journal Office

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatuleney. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS!

Good Quality! Choice Variety!

—x—

MAINE SEED POTATOES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Early Norther, | Newest and Best. | $6.00 barrel. $2.50 bushel. |
| New Queen, | | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Clark's No. 1, | | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Pearl of Savoy, | | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Beauty of Hebron, | | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Early Rose, | | $4.00 barrel. $1.75 bushel. |

—x—

PLOWS, WHEEL HARROWS, CULTIVATORS.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS, FULL LINE.

Galvanized Barb Wire, 3 cents per lb.

Come and see us.

E. A. BUCK & CO

It Tastes Good

One reason why Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda has had such a large sale is because it is "Almost as palatable as milk;" but the best reason is that its curative properties are unequalled. It cures the cough, supplies the waste of tissues, produces flesh and builds up the entire system.

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula, and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

Scott's Emulsion

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 28, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 4.

New Grocery Store on Cental Street!

Now open and ready for business

Every article in our stock is entirely new and fresh, and we shall take especial pains to see that every customer is satisfied.

Give us a trial order—you will never regret it.

Will call for orders and deliver goods.

Give us a trial.

Thompson & Bannister.

H. W. THOMPSON.
C. H. BANNISTER.

Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown in MONSON.

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of Jamestown, N. Y., 30 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM SERGE. Also 25 pieces (8-yard lengths—no two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SERGE.

GORDON DYE HOSIERY.

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hosiery to our customers as the best article for purity of dye and wearing quality ever offered to the public. A complete line of "Gordon Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls and Infants in black and all the fashionable colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED STAINLESS.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Now Complete.

The Columbus Boys' Suit goes ahead of everything. A Columbus Medal given with every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black and Fancy Cheviots and Black Worsteds. FINE ASSORTMENT OF SPRING SUITS FROM $8 TO $20.

☞ LATEST NOVELTIES IN NECKWEAR.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Have added to our large stock the latest styles in Ladies' and Gent's Shoes. Before you purchase don't fail to see the novelties we are offering.

Headquarters for Trunks, Bags, Etc.,

—AT—

W. N. FLYNT & SONS, Monson.

A FULL LINE OF———

Jas. H. Prince Paint Co's

English Tinted Ready-Mixed Paints

IN ALL THE POPULAR SHADES.

White Lead, Zinc, Oil, Japan and Varnish.

—:o:—

FERTILIZERS.

We shall have in stock Monday a full line of Stockbridge Manures of all grades for potatoes and vegetables. We have the best in the market.

Barb Wire and Poultry Netting.

——FULL LINE OF——

PLOWS, CULTIVATORS, HARROWS, SHOVELS, FORKS, RAKES.

BEST LINE AT BOTTOM PRICES.

C. A. BROWN CO.

☞ NOTICE.

After a thorough, careful, painstaking and practical investigation, we, the undersigned, hereby certify to the public that the

Morrell Liquor Cure Co.,

a corporation located at Westfield, Mass., is now prepared to cure all persons afflicted with the LIQUOR, OPIUM AND TOBACCO HABITS, and to guarantee a cure or money refunded.

The features of this cure are:—

Absolute Privacy.
Treatment at Home.
No Unpleasant Effects.
No Loss of Time.
No Sore Arm.

Of more than 3000 patients treated, not one has failed of permanent cure.

Address all correspondence to MORRELL LIQUOR CURE CO., or Box 403, WESTFIELD, MASS.

JOHN R. REED, President The H. B. Smith Mfg. Co.
JAS. NOBLE, JR., Vice President Hampden National Bank.
W. A. LINCOLN, Treasurer Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Co.
REV. JOHN H. LOCKWOOD, Pastor First Congregational Church.
H. N. KINGSBURY, Secretary and Treasurer Odd Fellows Fraternal Accident Association.
A. S. ATKINS, President Vitrified Wheel Co.
E. W. PARKS, Secretary Bay State Association.
F. F. VAN DEUSEN, of E. R. Van Deusen & Son.
FRANK BOWLER, Director V. W. Crowson Waste Co.
GEO. W. WINSLOW, Principal School of Observation.
H. W. ELY, Esq., Attorney-at-Law. 13-53

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.
TINNERS, AND
STEAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls,
Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers,
Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business.
Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS,
VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices.
Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

NEW UNDERTAKING ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 30 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz.
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5 lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 30c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 35c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 17c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
BICYCLES.

—o—

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

BICYCLES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| The Rambler, | Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Toledo Dauntless, | Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Warwick, | . . | $150 |
| Road King, | . . | $150 |
| New Mail, | . . | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, | . | $100 |
| Duke, | . . . | $115 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | | $40 |

—o—

WE HAVE ADDED TO OUR STOCK

BICYCLE SHOES, CAPS, STOCKINGS AND SWEATERS.

☞ BICYCLES RENTED by the hour, day, month or season.

E. A. BUCK & CO.,

PALMER, MASS.

E. A. BUCK & CO.
PALMER, MASS.

Outgrown.

Nay, you wrong her, my friend, she's not fickle;
her love she has simply outgrown.
One can read the whole matter, translating her heart by the light of one's own.

Can you bear me to talk with you frankly? There is much that my heart would say,
And you know we were children together, have quarreled and "made up" in play.

And so for the sake of old friendship I venture to tell you the truth—
As plainly perhaps and as bluntly as I might in our earlier youth.

Five summers ago when you wooed her you stood on the self same plane,
Face to face, heart to heart, never dreaming your souls could be parted again.

She loved you at that time entirely, in the bloom of her life's early May,
And it is not her fault, I repeat it, that she does not love you to-day.

Nature never stands still, nor souls either. They ever go up or go down,
And hers has been steadily soaring—but how has it been with your own?

She has struggled and yearned and aspired—grown purer and wiser each year;
The stars are not farther above you in yon luminous atmosphere!

For she whom you crowned with fresh roses down yonder five summers ago
Has learned that the first of our duties to God and ourselves is to grow.

Her eyes they are sweeter and calmer, but their vision is clearer as well;
Her voice has a tenderer cadence, but is pure as a silver bell.

Her face has the look worn by those who with God and His angels have talked;
The white robes she wears are less white than the spirits with whom she has talked.

And you? Have you aimed at the highest? Have you, too, aspired and prayed?
Have you looked upon evil unsullied? Have you conquered it undismayed?

Have you, too, grown purer and wiser as the months and the years have rolled on?
Did you meet her this morning rejoicing in the triumph of victory won?

Nay, hear me! The truth cannot harm you. When to-day in her presence you stood,
Was the hand that you gave her as white and clear as that of her womanhood?

Go measure yourself by her standard. Look back on the years that have fled,
Then ask, if you need, why she tells you that the love of her girlhood is dead!

She cannot look down to her lover—her love, like soul, aspires;
He must stand by her side, or above her, who would kindle its holy fires.

Now, farewell! For the sake of old friendship I have ventured to tell you the truth—
As plainly perhaps and as bluntly as I might in our earlier youth.

—Julia C. R. Dorr.

CAUGHT HIM ON A CAB.

It was an abominably wet day. You know what that means in London—cab drivers' millennium, little mudpie makers Elysian fields, despair and petticoat ruin to fair pedestrians! Mrs. Lancaster stood under the shelter of a fashionable modiste's door, looked forth and groaned. No handsom in sight, ruin to her clothes stared her in the face if she sallied out; ruin to her purse whispered to her behind should she enter the shop again.

"The dispensation of gain is not in Providence diocese," was her irreverent summing up. "He'd make it rain at the proper times or on No Man's Land, if it were. Oh, darling!" she murmured under her breath, for a handsom bore in sight, looming, Whistlerishly, hazily wet. A slashing, golden bay between the shafts and a civil Jehu perched up behind.

Out went her umbrella and she tucked up her frills. She signaled; he drew up and she dashed out. The man, careful fellow, had closed the doors and let down the window. An agonized endeavor to open the door, balance umbrella, rescue skirts from mud and save new bonnet ensued. He saw that, and with unusual, uncabbylike courtesy, jumped down saying:

"Allow me."

The lady gave a little scream.

"Tom! you driving a handsom?"

"No worse than driving my coach, is it Mrs. Lancaster?" he retorted.

"Oh! Tom, dear, what on earth are you doing it for?" Then, with a highhanded attempt at dignity: "Might I ask the reason for this new and extraordinary metier. Is it for a bet?"

"A bet? Oh, dear, no!" A distinct pause. "That bonnet of yours is getting rather the worst of it; it's a pity, for it's rather a nice one," he added, eyeing it critically, as one who knows the ways and means of bonnets, or rather the ways of the bonnets and the means of those who can afford such a one as he saw before him. He eyed it critically, though not feeling nearly so cool as he was anxious to make her believe.

"Oh! what does that matter?" she snapped out. "Be so good as not to make personal remarke. I shall spoil as many bonnets as I chose," with glaring independence.

"H'm! you always used to do so," glowering down at her.

"Do you refuse, then, to drive me?" she faltered. There wasn't another cab in sight.

"Oh, dear, no! When a man's poor, and has to earn his living by the sweat of his brow, he is likely to find the latter more plentiful than the former; so I am only too glad to get what fares I can." He gloated wickedly, for she looked up in his face while a mist gathered and grew in his eyes, and she gave a little sob.

"Oh, Tom, dear Tom," she whispered, "I never knew it was so bad as this."

"Didn't you?" he answered with brutal unsympathy for her sympathy with him in his altered circumstance. Then he banged open the door, raised the window, and stood by her in an attitude of calm impatience.

She gave another imploring glance. He was eyeing his noble beast's hindquarters, his mouth bunched up in an audible whistle.

"Colonia never could stand in the rain," he said reflectively, as if taking her into his confidence.

Mrs. Lancaster sighed and stepped into the handsom.

"By Jove! She's got the same clipping little feet and ankles," was Tom's murmur. He need not have been so surprised. Women do extraordinary things, incredible and hair curling in the eyes of men; but—their feet don't wear out and they do not invest in new ones.

She settled herself in a corner of the cab, with another sigh and a furtive glance at the looking glass to her left, while the driver mounted behind and slowly gatherad up the reins. He banged down the window and slapped open the little trap door overhead with professional noise, and then, "Where to?" with professional brevity.

"Home, please, if you don't mind," said his fare meekly.

As they drove down Bond street, Mrs. Lancaster's eyes were shut off from outward sights, she turned them inward and viewed her whirling thought.

"What a story this would make if any one only knew, or if I only had the pen of a ready writer. It's realy quite a pity that my gift all runs to seed in correspondence. Let me see:

"Mrs. Lancsster, happy girl, married to the match of the season—well, she was the beauty of the season, so why should she not do so?—amiable, rich and handsome. The menage goes swimmingly for three years; then Mr. Lancaster takes to plunging heavily—a regular jubilee plunger. Wife's entreaties of no avail. Then Mr. Lancaster (oh, Tom!) takes to plunging in the direction of a Signora Sorelia, and Mrs. Lancaster refuses to entreat or forgive. 'Yes, I dare say I was a bit hasty,' is Mrs. Lancaster's half murmured reverie to-day. Separation on the tapis; nine days' wonder (but the separation lasts longer). Heigh-ho! and now Mrs. Lancaster is being driven down Bond street in a handsom, her husband occupying the lofty position of driver behind.

"Poor darling, how wet he must be getting up there!"

There was a block just at the corner as they turned into Piccadilly. Mrs. Lancaster profited by the occasion. She took her umbrella and pushed up the skylight.

It was immediately opened.

Mr. Lancaster looked down and Mrs. Lancaster looked up.

"Do you want to get out? I am afraid you cannot! We may have to wait here a quarter of an hour."

"It isn't that," she answered. "I wantep to know, er—I thought, er—I wanted to ask. Oh, Tom dear, aren't you very wet and cold up there?"

"Thank you, one could scarcely expect there should be a draft up here, or to find it parchingly hot—but I'm quite comfortable, thank you all the same." With a man's inconsistency.

Down went the skylight. The great stagnation slowly uprose and they drove on again. It had begun to clear up. Mrs. Lancaster thought she knew her way about town, but Mr. Lancaster should have known it still better, and yet he took her around Grosvenor place as a means to reaching Park lane. It seemed as if he took a pleasure in driving by the most opposite and roundabout route.

Perhaps he wasn't thinking of where he was going; perhaps—a little quick sob quivered up to her lips and she bit them—perhaps he, too, was thinking of those days at Venice, Nice, Vienna. Perhaps he was thinking if only she had been not quite so hard and unforgiving when his fancy had rather wondered toward La Sorella, with her ten-and-sixpenny a bottle "Golderine" hair, attracted probably more by her diablerie than anything else—perhaps, if she had been a little softer, he might have told her of the real remorse he felt for his inconstancy, the remorse of having lost all his income (thereby indirectly reducing her own), spent in goodness knows what follies, that had played the very mischief with the dollars. Had she been gentler perhaps he might not have been exalted to the high position he now occupied, which, with hanging, is probably the only position of elevation which does not bring exaltation along with it.

She had money of her own, a good £1500 a year, and when the final split came—a split born of a very small rift—he had been too proud to let her know how his money matters stood, and so it came about that husband and wife had not met for quite a year, and that during the last five weeks he had driven a raking bay about London harnessed to a luxurious "S. T." hansom.

And he? Well, he was thinking of what a thundering ass he had been, and how he had tried her love and faith in him.

And she? Well, had she, too, not flirted a bit with Lord Racque and Colonel Targent, and when he had remonstrated ever so little had she not flared out on him and thrust that odious, yellow-haired Signora Sorella in his face?

"I wish he wouldn't drive quite so fast," she thought. "We shall get home so soon if he does."

They were passing a restaurant. She slanted her umbrella toward it, and he drew up instantly.

"If you don't mind," she said, "I am just going in for a glass of wine; I feel a little faint."

It was no such thing, for in two minutes she was out again, the wine untouched and the glass in her hand.

"You must have got so wet and cold, I wish you—would you?" she stammered timidly—"would you mind just taking a little—to—please me?"

She had taken off her glove, and the broad wedding band caught his eye. A spasm of pain came upon his face. It was like driving your fist through a window and smashing the smooth, even surface into bits.

"Thank you," he said, a little unsteadily, in a rather husky voice, as he descended slowly from his perch.

"Oh! I will take it in for you."

"I could not think of giving a lady my glass to put down," he answered, with his old characteristic courtesy toward womanhood.

Two "young ladies" behind the bar had been watching the proceeding.

"Goodness gracious, Lonie," said one, "well, I declare! Fine ladies do carry on nicely. She's giving him her wine—there's no accounting for tastes."

Quoth her friend, "There's every accounting for them when it's a tawny moustache."

About a quarter of an hour later the hansom drew up in Norfolk street.

Mrs. Lancaster got out and walked slowly up the steps. Before ringing she turned around. A little ragamuffin was inspecting her.

"Would you like a sixpence?" she asked him gravely. A superfluous question, to which he replied, with the knowledge of past experience to guide him and a wisdom beyond his winters:

"Sixpences were not to be 'ad for nothin'."

"Of course not," she answered, "and you have only to hold the horse's head for a little," you needn't be afraid," she added, rashly guaranteeing the beast's peaceful nature, "and you shall have the sixpence."

Thus, having reduced the legion of unemployed by one, she turned and rang the bell.

"Do you mind coming in for a few minutes?" she said, addressing her husband. "I want to tell you something."

He looked at her for an instant, then settled his whip in its socket, tied the reins securely and descended slowly.

"But the servants?"

"The only two whom you will see are new ones."

The door opened—"Dinner at once and lay another place at table."

"You remember this, and this (pausing before some picture or some hanging), and this vase; do you remember how nearly I was drowned out of that gondola at Venice—it was just opposite those glass works and you insisted on going in and buying something to remind you and how thankful you were that it had ended in nothing worse than a drenching?"

"I have forgotten nothing," he answered, gravely.

"Not even the way to your dressing room?" she said archly, turning around.

"Not even the way to my dressing room," replied Mr. Lancaster.

"I dare say the gas isn't lighted though."

She led the way and entered the room together.

The door between it and her room was open, and he looked in; he did more, he advanced a few paces and stood in the doorway. He could not have crossed the treshold had it been his most earnest desire.

He devoured every object, a thousand memories crowding to his weary brain, but his face did not change and his wife watched him closely all the while. She watched as he glanced at the two easy chairs, one at each side of the blazing fire. How often had they occupied them in the happy past! Only then, to be sure, they had been drawn close, side by side, and they had proved the fallibility of the rule that "two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time."

She watched him as his eyes turned to the duchesse toilet table, with its large center glass—in front of which he had often made her stand—while he bade her mark what a handsome couple they made. He drew a sharp breath, and a spasm shot across his face, leaving it a shade or two whiter. He glanced up—his wife was looking at him in breathless stillness, she turned quickly and left the room.

He found his way about ten minutes afterward—Mrs. Lancaster took a little longer.

There was a soft dewiness about her eyes as she came and stood beside him. Husband's and wife's hands met in a quick, close grip, and a feeling of infinite love came nestling around his heart.

"Tom," she began wistfully.

"Yes, Cecile?" questionly.

There was no time for another word, the door handle was slowly turning around.

"It's my sheep dog—Miss Meeson," she whispered, her breath coming and going for a sudden puzzlesome question had arisen in her mind. She had forgotten all about Miss Meeson—to tell the truth she had not taken her into account at all. What was she to do and say? Introduce Tom as this afternoon's hansom cab driver, and nothing else? Goodness! no, it would not be possible, introduce him as a friend only? Yes, but what there were to come a reconciliation? How horrid and deceitful it would look! But, introduce Tom as her husband! (A quick throb at her heart.) What if he insisted on their remaining only friends? What if he should reject the projected forgiveness? What if he should exclaim, "Pardon me, I was her husband at one time, but Mrs. Lancaster decided to dissolve the partnership?" What agony and humiliation!

The door opened and the dear, humble old sheep dog entered—far too meek of aspect to cow any ravening wolf, except by her old fashioned stately sweetness.

"Miss Meeson," said Mrs. Lancaster, faltering, "Miss Meeson, dear, we have a guest at dinner tonight, let me introduce Tom—my Tom! The man who was ever, and ever will be, the dearest and best of men. There—was a slight misunderstanding, almost all my fault; but we have found, he and I—me—that's to say—I mean he—we"— There was a pucker on her face; she faltered, and then said tremulously and with exquisite tenderness, "He is my dear husband!" Then she smiled up in his face and laid her head on his shoulder, as much out of the fullness of her love as to hide that awful cabman's badge, which blazed lugely on his breast. Then she laughed—a queer little laugh, that had a glimpse of tears in it not so very far off.

Miss Meeson held out her hand with a much puzzled air, but Mr. Lancaster saw neither that nor the look. His eyes were moistened with unshed tears, and his wife's head when he glanced down seemed to be some blurred mass of golden brown on his shoulder, and the lights seemed suddenly to have got misty and to flicker up and down.

"I left my spectacles in the other room," said Miss Meeson softly, though she was peering through them as she spoke.

I think there was something very like a look of rapture on both husband and wife's faces.

"You have forgotten to pay me my fare," he said after a bit. "Do you chissel all your cabbies out of their fares, dear?

She laughed up in his face with a murmur of womanly tenderness. "Well, your real fare is two shillings, but I will give you a 'golden crown'."

She raised her face as she spoke. No need to explain the meaning of the words to one who loved her as did this strange cabman. He took the "golden crown" between both his hands and kissed her fair forehead tenderly.

Husband and wife were reunited, never to part again. It was not until their mutual tears of joy had ceased that the little urchin in the street was remembered. He and another little imp were found taking it in turns to watch the horse.

"That boy's another Casabianca!" cried Cecile, indignant with herself.

"So he is, dear—only we won't give him such a blowing up," remarked her husband.

* * * * * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster are an absurdly happy couple. They have just gone on their second honeymoon.

He has a most exalted opinion of his wife's virtues, a sentiment that is only to be balanced by her stupendous blindness to all his faults.

She was rapturizing over him the other day, in Brussels, to a newly picked up friend.

"Do you know," said her listener, "to hear you talk, one would almost fancy that you had come across your husband in heaven!"

"Nothing of the kind, my dear," answers Mrs. Lancaster. "I met Tom in a far more earthly place. I picked him up in a hansom cab."—Belgravia.

BEATS THE EIFFEL TOWER.

One of nature's strangest freaks, one of the greatest wonders of the world, is the Devil's Tower, or, as the Souix Indians call it, the Mateo Tepee, or the Bear's Lodge, which stands on the banks of the Belle Fourche river, in the northeastern country of Wyoming. The country for fifty miles around consists of high tablelands, deep canyons and narrow, fertile valleys—nothing to indicate the possible existence of any such freak of nature.

The tower is a gigantic column, a monster obelisk of lava, which rises to a height of 1727 feet, almost twice the height of the Eiffel Tower. At the base the huge shaft measures 326 feet through in one direction. Huge crystals of the volcanic rock, measuring one to three feet through, start at the base and run unbroken to the top, giving to the column a peculiar fibrous appearance, even when viewed from the tablelands 40 miles away.

How did it get there? How was it made? Once in a while, in the present age, we have heard how portions of the bottom of one of the oceans have been pushed up by volcanic forces, and even a new island added to the charts. Ages on ages ago similar volcanic forces started a jet of lava up from the bottom of the ancient geological ocean that covered all the Northwest at that time. The squirt of molten rock evidently did not break through it into the waters above, but froze, as an iron man would say, in the hole it had made. The slow cooling off, the gradual loss of its fiery energy, probably lasted for many long years, and gave time for the particles to arrange themselves in the huge crystals that arouse all of our astonishment to-day.—Portland Oregonian.

"And is the air healthy here?" asked a visitor at a mountain resort. "Excellent, sir, excellent. One can become a centenarian here in a little while."—Tit-Bits.

KITE WAS A TAME CROW.

"When I was living at the foot of Pinxster peak I had a tame crow that was worth considerable to me," said a Loyalsock man.

"The way I came to get the crow was a little singular. One of my boys was flying his kite early in the summer, and when it had sailed high up over a piece of woods on my place the string broke and the kite lodged in the top of a hemlock-tree. The boy bawled about the loss of his kite, and I had to climb the tree and get it for him. A crow flew off her nest near the top of the tree while I was climbing up, and when I reached the nest I found one egg in it. After I had unloosened the kite and let it drop, I placed the crow's egg in my mouth and kept it there until I had backed down the tree, and then ran to the barn and put the egg under a hen that had been sitting for a day or so. The old hen offered no objections, and several days before she came off with her chickens she hatched out the liveliest little crow I ever saw. We began to raise the baby crow in the house; when he was big enough to run around on the floor I named him kite. He learned to say a good many words by the time he was a year old, and one morning that summer I heard him yelling down the unused chimney at a lot of swallows that were nesting in it. The swallows were making a great racket and Kite was singing out: Hold your tongue!' as loud as he could yell.

"When Kite was two years old a pair of eagles nested in an inaccessible cliff on the side of Pinxster peak. I had 40 young lambs in a pasture, and on a nice May morning one of the eagles swooped down, caught a day old lamb in its claws and was about to rise with it when the crow alighted on the eagle's back and yelled: 'Put the lamb down! Drop the lamb, cuss you!' and a lot of other spiteful orders. I had run out with a shotgun, but Kite hung to the eagle's back, and I was afraid to shoot for fear of killing the crow. Kite yelled and clawed at the eagle till he made it drop the lamb, and then he pecked at the eagle's head till the big bird shook him off away toward the cliff. The lamb was killed by the fall, and the crow flew back, settled down by the lamb and was saying: 'Too bad! Too bad!' when I reached the spot. When I picked up the lamb I heard Kite say: 'I'll kill that eagle some time.' The useful crow took it upon himself to protect the the lambs from the eagles, and all day long he flew from one part of the pasture to another, perched on trees and fences, and kept an eye out for voracious birds. Whenever he saw an eagle soaring in the sky he would fly to where I was working, sing out, 'John, look out for the eagle!' and then sail back to the pasture and watch over the lambs. He would caw like everything as long as the eagle was in sight, and when it disappeared he would sit in silence on a limb or stake and gaze into the sky. The presence of the crow kept off the eagles, and I didn't lose another lamb.

"Kite could tell the time of day by the clock and when the weather was cloudy I used to send him to the house from the field to see what time it was. Instead of asking my wife the crow would look at the clock without saying a word to her, and then sail back to the lot and sing it out to me. When the sky was clear I could tell by the sun with in ten minutes what time it was, and the crow got so that he could guess almost as well I could. One sunshiny afternoon I told Kite to fly to the house and bring me the time. The crow cocked his head to one side, glanced up at the sun and said: 'It's five minutes to 11, John!' I told him it was later than that, and he flew to the house and back and said: 'It's two minutes to 11!' and he was right.

"The crow got feeble the winter after he was five years old. He couldn't stand the cold and I kept him in a box half full of shavings behind the stove. He lost his appetite soon after New-year's, and one night, when I had got ready to go to bed, he called me to him and said: 'John, Kite'll be dead in the morning!' I fussed over him, and told him he was good for another year, but I couldn't make him believe it. My bed was near the stove, and in the night the crow crawled out of his box and asked me to take him in bed with me. 'Kite's almost gone!' he whispered, and when I awoke he lay dead on my breast."

RATS DESERTING A SHIP.

"I once came near losing my life by being too smart," said Marion E. Forney, a member of the Mendacity Club, which was holding an informal session at the Lindell. "I was at Rio Janerio and desired to go to Havana. There were at that time no steamers plying between those ports and I had to take passage on a sailing vessel. The ship was to sail before daylight, and I went aboard early to get comfortably settled. That evening I sat on the deck until midnight, chatting with a party of Englishmen, who were also passengers. Presently one of them got up, tossed his cigar overboard, and announced that he was going ashore. 'The d——l you are!' exclaimed one of his companions. 'You'll get left.' 'Exactly,' he replied; 'and if I go in this ship I'll get drowned. Look there! Don't you see the rats are leaving it?' and he pointed to the gang plank. Sure enough the rats were going ashore, a hundred or more of them, headed by a gray old rodent. Well, we all laughed at the young Britisher for believing sailor superstitions, and I guess I was the greatest scoffer in the lot. He went and we staid. On the second day out the ship sprang a leak, and before night was under forty fathoms of water. We took to the boats and drifted about for twenty-four hours before we were picked up by a Brazilian barque and taken back to Rio. One of the first men I met was the young Englishman I had ridiculed. He was the most generous man I ever met. He never once said, 'I told you so.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MARRIED A PERFECT STRANGER.

In the diaries of the late Mr. Cope, R. A., published by Bentley & Son, the following story is told as told by his sister-in-law:

"She met a farmer friend and said to him, 'I hear, John, that you're lately married; who is your wife?' 'Weel, Miss Benning, I doan't quite know.' 'How so? Where did you meet with her?' 'Aweel, ye see, Miss, I went t' market, and as I was going I seed a canny lass warking along t' road, and I says, "Will ye git oop and ride?" "Aye," says she. So she gat oop, and I asked her, "Are ye ganging t' market?" "Aye," says she. "What for?" says I. "To git a plaace," says she. So I set her down i' t' market and left her; and as I come back i' t' evening there was this same lass warking t' saame way oop hill. So I spak' to her again, and axed her, "Ha' you gotten yer plaace?" "Nay," says she, "I hanna." "Will ye git oop and ride?" "Aye, says she. So she got oop and I axed her, "D'ye think my plaace would suit ye?" "What place is that?" says she. "Why to be my wife," says I. "I doan't mind," says she, so we got wed, and she's a rare good wife, but she's a periect stranger to me.'"—London Daily News.

"My dear," said her husband, gently rousing his wife—the lady was dangerously ill—"Mrs. Hobson called a little while ago and left her love and sympathy for you. She seems deeply affected." "John," said the sick lady, in a very weak tone of voice, "what did she have on?"—Yankee Blade.

THE FACULTY OF OBSERVATION.

"Gentlemen, you do not use faculties of observation," said an old professor, addressing his class. Here he pushed forward a gallipot containing a chemical of exceedingly offensive smell.

"When I was a student," he continued. "I used my sense of taste," and with that he dipped his finger in the gallipot and then put his finger in his. "Taste it gentlemen, taste it," said the professor, "and exercise your perceptive faculties."

The gallipot was pushed toward the reluctant class, one by one. The students resolutely dipped their fingers into the concoction and, with many a wry face, sucked the abomination from their fingers.

"Gentlemen, gentleman," said the professor. "I must repeat that you do not use your faculties of observation, for had you looked mere closely at what I was doing you would have seen that the finger which I put in my mouth was not the finger I dipped in the gallipot."—New York Medical Record.

HAPPILY ARRANGED.—An instance of a great matrimonal felicity is given by the wife of a New England farmer, who, finding that a widower in the neighborhood proposed to marry her maiden sister aged 52, felt called upon to give the good man a slight warning. As she triumphantly says, she "ain't ever felt to regret it."

"'Now,' says I, real firm to him, a week before the weddin', 'you know old maids is set—they're terrible set.'

"'Why, air they?' says he, just as solemn as could be, looking me right in the eye.

"'Yes,' says I, 'they air. They allus want to hev their own way, allus.'

"'Why, dew they? Indeed!' says he.

"'Yes,' says I, 'they dew; an' ye can rely on't, Hetty she'll want her own way.'

"'Why, will she?' says he.

"'Yes,' says I, 'she will; there ain't any doubt 'bout it—not a mite.'

"'Well,' says he, kinder slow an' mild, still lookin' me in the eye, 'she can hev her way!'

"An' she does hev it, an' they dew live just complete!"

TOUCH OF NATURE.—A waif of a boy was eating a stale half-loaf on the street corner yesterday with the air of a starveling, when a stray dog came along and crouched at his feet. The hungry look remained in the boy's eyes, but he glanced down at the vagabond dog and said in a friendly way: "Wot you want? This ain't no bone. Git."

The dog moved off a little, and again it crouched and looked wistfully at the food.

"Say, do you want this wuss nor I do?" asked the waif. "Speak, can't yer?" The dog gave a quick bark and the boy threw him the rest of the loaf.

"Nuff sed," he remarked, as he watched him eat ravenously: "I ain't the feller to see a pard in trouble."

And the boy went one way and the dog another, both the better for the encounter.—Secular Thought.

THE RULING PASSION.—A dying miser sent for his solicitor and said:

"Now begin, and I will dictate particulars."

"I give and bequeath," commenced the man of law.

"No, no," interrupted the testator. "I do nothing of the kind. I will never give and bequeath anything. I cannot do it."

"Well, then," suggested the attorney, after some consideration, "suppose you say, 'I lend until the last day.'"

"Yes, yes, that will do," eagerly rejoined the miser.—London Tit-Bits.

GETTING SAVED AND GETTING MARRIED.—A certain minister, not a thousand miles from here, loves a dollar with close affection. Not long ago a young man asked him how much he would charge to marry a couple.

"Well!" said the preacher, "the groom pays what he pleases, but I never charge less than $10."

"Whew!" exclaimed the prospective "that's a good lot of money. I thought that kind of work went in with your regular salary."

"Oh, no," explained the minister, "salvation is free, but it costs money to get married."—Detroit Free Press.

I was sitting in a hotel in Birmingham, a short time ago, doing a few lines of writing, when an old German came in, and finding me alone was inclined to be quite friendly. He sat down and began to write in a very laborious manner, and finally stopped and began scratching his head as if he had run against a snag. And that was the case, for he had run against a bit of English orthography which was too much for him. After struggling by himself for a few minutes he looked up at me in a despairing way and said: "Meester pelongs an 'e' behindt 'before'?

A college professor recently dropped into a prayer meeting in a district where dairy interests are supreme and heard a gaunt old dairymen pray as follows: "Help us, O Lord, to follow Thee, no matter what John, Mary, Martha, Bill, Tom, and all the rest may say. Make us through trains for the Lord, not stopping at every little station where they happen to see a milk can put out. Don't let us fire blank cartridges at the devil, but load up with shot and shell. Help us to cut off the corns and the bunions that keep our feet from walking in the way of the Lord."

CANNED MONKEY.—A Bangor family recently engaged a cook who was quite an artist with the kitchen utensils and the raw material at her disposal, although she was not on good terms with the cook book, being unable to read. She identified canned goods, for instance, by the pictures on the can labels, but once, at least, this did not work, and the result was amusing. A can of desiccated coaconut was brought to the house by the groceryman, and it bore the well-known trade-mark cut of the monkey dallying with a cocoanut. When her gaze fell upon that can she was astounded. "Oh, lor!" she ejaculated, "I have seen canned corn, canned peaches and most everything canned, but bless me if this ain't the first time I ever saw any canned monkey!"—Bangor Commercial.

Jennie was learning to read and spell, but it was very hard for her to remember what her teacher told her about pronouncing a double letter when she came to one. She would say "a a" or "e e" or "t t" instead of "double a" or "double e," etc.. Her teacher had one day drilled her considerably on this matter in spelling. Shortly afterwards Jennie was called upon to read. The paragraph began "Up, up, Lucy," and Jennie read it triumphantly "Double up, Lucy!"

INSISTING ON ACCURACY.—Teacher—"What is the distance from here to the moon?"

Thoughtful Pupil—"About 248,000 miles."

"Haven't I told you time and again, Johnny Pepperill, that the distance from the earth's surface to the moon is a little less than 240,000 miles?"

"Yes'm, and you told us a little while ago that it was night in China and the moon was shining on China this very minute."

"Certainly."

"Well, ain't it 8000 miles from here to China?"—Chicago Tribune.

A Spring Perennial.

Polyxena Maia Minta, child of parents well-to-do,
Married Mopsidos of Athens, B. C. 792,
And they took a neat suburban villa by the sounding sea,
Where they subsequently raised an interesting family.
There would Polyxena linger, when her husband, every day
Sought his flourishing helmet business, on the Apollonian Way;

There would Polyxena linger, looking somewhat sadly out
On the bare and clayey courtyard, where the grass refused to sprout;
On the bare white marble benches; on the vases holding up,
One on either side the portal, a provoking empty cup,
Till she longed for leaves and blossoms—as most women think they long
Till they get the job of watering—with a passion pure and strong.

There, one day there came a peddler from Phenicia's distant land,
With a large vocabulary and manner firm, yet bland,
In his hand a bulb he carried, sleek and shiny, pale of hue,
Called, he said, the Mithridatic sempiternal philhimalon,
Better known in common parlance as the Front-Yard's Peerless Pride;
And he thus described its glories (Polyxena looked and sighed):
"This extremely hardy annual is a plant of odor sweet,
And it frequently attains the height of forty-seven feet;
Blooms profusely all the summer, bearing flowers of startling size,
Pink and blue and white and purple, dotted o'er with peacocks' eyes,
Changing into fruit whose flavor can remotely be described
By the statements that they beat the nectar that the gods imbibed.
In the Fall, the bulbs dividing, so increase and multiply,
As I hope you—" here she checked him—"may observe before you die.
To export this plant is treason by Phenicia's stern decree,
I escaped with half-a-dozen—you may buy the last of me.
No one else can get another—Anatolia next door
Offered twenty drachmas for it—it is yours for twenty-four!"
Polyxena bought the treasure from her small domestic store.
And the peddler then departed.
He will reappear no more.
Polyxena nursed her treasure with a woman's tender care,
Watered, weeded, fertilized it, watching for its flowering fair.
Leaves appeared, tall, graceful, slender—Polyxena glowed with pride—
And it lingered till the Autumn; then it gently drooped and died.
Then came Mopsidos the scoffer, and exhumed the plant with glee—
All along he'd been as nasty as a man can sometimes be—Raised it to his Grecian nostrils—bit it—looked one moment wise;
Then he said, "It is an onion." Tears bedimmed two pair of eyes.

This was down in Attica, many, many, many years ago,
Earth has long assimilated all who played this play of woe;
But to-day where'er the gay suburban brings his youthful wife—
As a temporary measure—then to settle down for life—
On the rolling hills of Jersey, on Westchester's fertile plains,
Where the light mosquito buzzes, where Malaria vibrant reigns,
At Josephus-on-the-Hudson, at Bohunkus-by-the-Sea,
Annually is enacted this distressing tragedee—
And as long as women are women, peddlers, peddlers, it will be.

—Puck.

AN AMATEUR DETECTIVE.

Allen Waite was the only son of a thriving Vermont farmer. He was a bright boy, sixteen years old, and was becoming restless and discontented. He longed to leave the Vermont farm and try his fortune in the city, or in that vague world of sudden fortunes "out West." This disposition on the part of their son alarmed his parents, who, well along in years, had hoped that Allen would remain at home and be the comfort of their old age.

But Allen grew more and more discontented, complaining that the place was dull, that he had no amusements, and had nothing to occupy his mind. He cared nothing for farm work; he showed a tendency toward the investigation of subjects of a scientific nature, but did not pursue one thing long.

In their perplexity about the boy his parents consulted Mrs. Waite's brother, Ozias Walker, who was in business in Boston, and who had the reputation of being a very wise man.

"Keep the boy contented by making home pleasant for him," said Ozias Walker. "Get him everything he wants—you can afford it. Amuse him at home, and he won't want to leave you. Above all, don't let him come to the city."

This programme promised to be expensive, but although Richard Waite sometimes grumbled, he would have spent his last dollar to keep his son at home.

Allen was not slow to take advantage of his uncle's advice, and the advertising columns of the Boston newspapers to which his father subscribed were eagerly scanned for something likely to furnish him amusement. His present ambition was to own a photographic apparatus.

"Be you obleeged to hev this?" asked his father, doubtfully.

"Yes, father, I must have it," said Allen. He knew it was only necessary for him to exhibit firmness.

The old man sighed resignedly.

"Well, I wish them fellers down to Boston would quit inventin' their new-fangled notions. Fust it was a gun that loaded itself; then it was a bicycle that scared Widder Brown's cow into a fit fust time she saw it, an' now it's some kind of a photograph apparatus that'll take pictures in less than a second, an' take 'em in the dark, too. Beats all what things they be a-gittin' up nowadays! And they ain't ary one of them but what you seem to want."

"Land sakes!" said his mother. "Let the boy hev it. You know what Brother Ozias said," she added, warningly.

"That's so," said Mr. Waite, 'but I shan't be a mite surprised if we come to the poor farm, if them fellers down in Boston keep on inventin'."

Like many boys, Allen was very fond of detective stories, and read many of them. Fired by some of the wonderful deeds performed by the heroes of these tales, he conceived an ambition to become a detective, and, for that purpose joined a "detective bureau" advertised in one of the newspapers.

For the sum of five dollars he became a member, and received an imposing document appointing him to the position, together with a brass badge which he wore on his breast under his coat, proudly imagining the sensation that would be caused among the people of the quiet village if it should be known that they had a full-fledged detective among them.

Now there was next to nothing to detect in Pineville. No more law-abiding community existed. The worst crime that ha—

"You better go over to Waite's an' tell 'em what their boy's up to," said Aunt Nancy, "an' let 'em deal with him."

"No," said Mr. Town, "I'll deal with him myself. Dick Waite wouldn't believe nothin' agin the boy if he was told a hundred times. He's the obstinatest critter I ever see. I've told him a hundred times he's wrong about that line, but he won't believe me. And he wouldn't believe me now. But I'll show him he's liable to be wrong once in a while! I'll larn the boy a lesson he won't forgit the rest of his born days!"

Mr. Town's premises were not molested again for several weeks, although several small depredations were committed in other parts of the town. Allen continued to take his photographs by the flash-light, and enjoyed the consternation caused by these mysterious lights. One night he crept upon a party of boys who were about to make a raid on the Widow Brown's melon patch, and set off the flash just as they were entering the enclosure. In order to heighten the effect he wore a mask.

The result was all he could wish. The place suddenly lighted up with an unearthly glare, together with a grotesque figure pointing some deadly instrument at them, so frightened the boys that they ran screaming, pellmell, in all directions.

As well as his many other duties as Pineville's detective would permit, Allen maintained a close watch on Bill Norman. One evening he noticed Norman loitering about in a manner which he considered highly suspicious. He got out his camera and followed. Norman appeared to be looking for someone probably a confederate, for from time to time he glanced cautiously about.

Allen felt sure that this time he would be able to photograph him in the very act of appropriating Aunt Nancy's good things. This would be a triumph which Allen felt would place him in the ranks of "the profession."

By and by he saw Norman moving cautiously in the direction of Mr. Town's house. Allen's heart beat fast as he followed. Here was real detective work at last. There was no moon, but the stars were unobscured. Mr. Town's house was dark and quiet. Evidently the family had retired for the night. Norman secreted himself behind a clump of currant bushes, and appeared to be waiting for something. Allen crawled cautiously near him, and waited also.

Mr. Town had been keeping watch night after night until, as he expressed it, he was "almost beat out." On this night Aunt Nancy had begged him to go to bed, but he stoutly refused.

"I'll ketch that boy an' scare him so bad he'll quit his tricks," Mr. Town said. "If you want to break a young puppy of bad tricks, you must take putty ha'sh measures with him. I'll amuse him if I ketch him round here agin!"

Mr. Town loaded his shot gun with small shot and took up his station in the woodshed, where he could command a view of the entrance to his cellar. He did not intend to shoot Allen; he proposed to fire the gun to frighten the boy, and capture him. Then Mr. Town had his horsewhip at hand, with which he intended to administer correction.

"I rather think the combination will save the boy from the downward path, by the time I get through with him," said Mr. Town, confidently.

But Town had watched so often and so late that he was thoroughly tired, and soon fell asleep in his chair with the gun across his knees.

In the meantime Allen was so intently watching Norman that he did not see another person carefully approach the house from the opposite direction. Norman evidently saw this person, for he started forward as if to intercept him, but the figure disappeared within the cellar before he could join him.

Norman stopped a moment, evidently at a loss how to proceed, but soon started forward again, followed by Allen, who was now greatly excited. He intended to allow the thief to go into the cellar, and to photograph him just as he was emerging, loaded with plunder.

Norman waited a moment at the door, with Allen close behind him with his camera and flashlight ready. For full a minute Allen stood thus, waiting for Norman to proceed, his excitement growing greater every moment.

How it happened he could not tell, but by accident he set off his flashlight before he intended. The bright glare lighted up the place brilliantly. Bill Norman sprang to one side and stood staring stupidly, badly frightened.

By this time Ira Town woke, and confused by the light, bewildered, he raised his gun and fired. There was a scream and Allen fell, dropping his camera and light. In a moment all was dark. Mr. Town hastily lighted a lantern and ran out. He found Allen supported in the arms of Bill Norman and groaning and crying. The charge of shot had taken effect in his legs, and the wound though not dangerous was very painful.

"I didn't mean to shoot ye, Allen, but ye hadn't ought to be breakin' into folks' houses at night! I hope this will be a lesson to you," said Mr. Town.

"I wasn't breaking into any one's house," said Allen, indignantly. He thought it was adding insult to injury to accuse the detective of being the thief.

"Then what was ye up to prowlin' here? Was ye trying to set things afire with that thing?"

Allen explained, as well as he could in his pain, the latest detective device, and declared his belief that it was a failure.

"An' what be you a-doin' here?" said Mr. Town to Norman. "Be you a-tryin' to detect the thief, too? Seems to me to be more detectives round than thieves."

Norman refused to offer an explanation of his presence. He became confused when Mr. Town questioned him sharply, and cut the matter short by taking Allen in his arms and carrying him home.

"If this is what the detective business comes to, I ain't a-goin' to have no more of it," said Mr. Wait. Allen fully concurred in his judgment.

The doctor was called and carefully picked from Allen's legs, remarking that it would probably be several weeks before the boy would be able to walk again.

Bill Norman was arrested and held for trial. People had no doubt that he was the thief. All the old stories about the Norman's were revived, and everybody seemed to be glad that one of the family had been caught and "would be made an example of." Bill Norman's good record was forgotten, and nothing was remembered but his family's misdeeds. Norman, when questioned, maintained an obstinate silence.

The court convened, and Norman's case was about to come up for trial. Allen's legs were rapidly recovering when he resolved to develop the picture which was in the camera and which had not been disturbed since the accident.

The picture, when developed, was a good one, perfectly clear, and well defined. There was the side of Ira Town's house, with the cellar door, and emerging from it with one of Aunt Nancy's boiled hams in his arms, was Augustine Norman. The figure of Bill Norman was seen indistinctly at one side of the picture, staring stupidly at the scene.

"See here!" cried Allen; "Bill Norman wasn't the thief!"

been committed for some time was the fishing of a trout stream contrary to law. But this scarcity of criminals did not deter Allen from imagining that he was a detective, and seeking every means to surround himself with all the apparatus of the business.

He resolved to have a detective camera—one that he could flash upon evil-doers, and with which he could photograph them in the act of committing crime. Of course he already possessed several dark lanterns and a pair of handcuffs.

After much correspondence and the examination of many circulars, he decided to purchase an instrument made to resemble a small, square leather box, which could be carried under the arm. It would not only take pictures during the day, but, by means of a flash-light could be used at night as well.

Allen was delighted with this apparatus. He enjoined strict secrecy upon his parents, for his occupation would be gone if the neighbors generally knew the character of his business. He obtained pictures of several of his neighbors, who were quite unconscious that they were figuring in a sort of rogues' gallery which Allen was forming in his room and which included some of the solid citizens of the village. Even the deacons of the church and the minister himself adorned this collection.

"There's nothing against them yet," thought Allen, "that I know of, but it's well to have their pictures. No knowing what will turn up."

Presently the sudden flashing of a light in the darkness of the night, here and there, began to puzzle the people of Pineville. There were many conjectures as to the origin of this mysterious phenomenon. Ghost-stories became plentiful, and timid people began to fear to go out at night. It was Allen using his camera.

About this time a series of petty depredations began to disturb the community. Small articles disappeared during the night from round about the farmers' houses. Locks had never been used in Pineville; windows and doors had always remained unfastened. Now, as one after another reported losses, a feeling of insecurity began to prevail.

"What on airth be we comin' to?" said Uncle Ira Town, whose farm adjoined Richard Waite's. "Last night I see that light agin, jest across the brook there. It flared up for about twenty seconds, and then went out sudden as that." Mr. Town smote his hands together to indicate how quickly the light had disappeared. "This mornin' two pound o' butter was gone out o' the sullar."

"Beats all!" said the neighbor to whom he was relating this circumstance. "I can't account for't. Some say it's ghosts."

"Ghosts!" said Mr. Town, scornfully. "Tain't no ghosts. Ghosts don't walk off with butter 'n eggs 'n pies. They hain't no use fur 'em as I knows on. It's two-legged ghosts, that's what I say! An' if there ain't no one else in this town with spunk enough to find out who's playin' these pranks, I'm goin' to find out myself."

Several of the housewives in the neighborhood were annoyed that the thief should seem to be partial to Aunt Nancy Town's cooking; it seemed like a reflection on their own skill. They consoled themselves with the assurance that the preference shown Aunt Nancy was due to the fact that Mr. Town's cellar, where she kept her provisions, was never locked.

Allen Waite had long desired an opportunity to exercise his detective ability in earnest, and here was the very chance. He resolved to discover the thief, and photograph him in the very act of pillaging Mr. Town's cellar. To show a picture of the fellow with the stolen articles in his possession—that would be detective work, indeed.

He was the more desirous of doing this because there was a dispute of long standing between the Waites and the Towns, growing out of an unsettled boundary between their farms. He would prove that personal feeling did not in the least interfere with his official duties. He began to hang about Mr. Town's place after nightfall, with his camera under his arm. He was not skillful in concealing himself, and his proceedings soon attracted attention.

"What on airth's that Waite boy prowlin' round with that box under his arm for?" said Mr. Town, who, several times had seen Allen dodging behind the shrubbery about his house.

Allen had not prosecuted his amateur detective work long before he made a discovery which caused him to hope that he would be able soon to photograph the thief. One night, while he was watching Ira Town's house, he saw William Norman skulking about, evidently anxious to keep out of sight.

For years the Normans had borne a bad reputation in Pineville. They lived on a small farm on the side of Blue Hill. It was a rocky little place, and the Normans were said to be very poor. Before the Civil War there had been five brothers, sons of old Grandfather Norman, who were the terror of the whole country. Four of these brothers had been killed in the war, and one of them, Bill, had returned with a wife—a dark, strange-looking woman, a native of the West Indies.

Bill Norman had since died, leaving two sons—young Bill and Augustine. Bill, the elder, was a simple, well-meaning and industrious fellow, who lived for nothing but to serve his idle, but good-looking brother, Augustine, and worked day and night that Augustus might have leisure.

When Allen saw Bill Norman lurking near Mr. Town's house he was quite sure he was on the track of the thief, especially as Bill's movements were highly suspicious. He remembered the stories he had heard about the Norman family. True, Bill Norman bore a good reputation, but Allen remembered the maxim of his favorite detective hero, "Always suspect everybody."

Allen was much excited, and followed Norman's movements as he slipped nearer and nearer Mr. Town's place. He made his camera ready, but the flash refused to work, and Norman escaped him.

The detective himself, however, was observed by Mr. Town, who was much surprised to see the boy dodging about as though anxious to avoid being seen. Mr. Town discovered next morning that his cellar had been entered again during the night, and a small cheese taken. Then Mr. Town looked grave.

"It can't be possible," he said, "that that boy of Waite's is takin' these things! What on airth can he want with. our victuals? I never heerd that Waite's folks was short o' supplies."

"Well, I do' know," said Aunt Nancy. "Mis' Waite ain't much of a cook, an' mebbe the boy's hankerin' for suthin' decent to eat."

"Sho!" said Mr. Town; "tain't that. It's the innard wickedness workin' out, as it does in all human natur'. We are all desper'tly wicked, an' Dick Waite allus has tried to cheat me about that line fence."

Notwithstanding the loss, Aunt Nancy felt quite pleased by the evident preference for her eatables. "Whoever they be," she said, complacently, "they know good victuals an' where to get 'em."

Mr. Town revealed to no one but his wife his suspicions that Allen was the thief, but he resolved to keep a good lookout and make an example of the boy when he caught him.

"Couldn't hav been anybody else," said his father.

"Photographs never lie. That isn't Bill coming out of the cellar door. It's Augustine!"

Mr. Waite took the photograph and examined it.

"That's Augustine Norman, sure enough."

Mr. Waite took the photograph to the justice of the peace who had committed Bill Norman for trial, and exhibited it to several persons in the justice's office. Augustine soon heard of the affair, and next day was missing from Pineville. He left behind him the following note:

"The photograph is right. It was me who did it. Bill was watching out to try and stop me, but I was bound to have something good to eat once in a while. Good-by; you'll never see my face and eyes again."

"Well, the boy knew where to come when he wanted good victuals," said Aunt Nancy, with a satisfied air.—Youth's Companion.

---

The following item is from Pete Pareau's weekly news letter from Pea Soup Lake to the Harbor Springs (Mich.) Artesian Well: "Pete Pervanjay's saloon was close up las' Sunday. Pete was out of town visiting wid some of her frien's. She was got back de nex' day. Pete's got de fines' saloon een Pea Soup Lake an' she's very popular wid de boy. She was helec' townsheep clark wid big mojorities. She's de bes' clark Pea Soup Lake townsheep was ever have an' she can have de offeee jus' long she want eet. [P. S. —My Dear Heditaire: Pete's all right. She can't read an' too tell de trut' she haint very gook clark but eet won't do no hurt to give her nice puff like dat and maybe she'll took de paper. I'll tole you dis privately.]"

AMONG THE PARAGRAPHERS.

A SPRING POEM.

When the bullfrog basso "hollers"
From the swamps and marshy "wallers"
"Jug-o-rum!"

When the blooming beetle, wheeling
Through the windows, hits the ceiling
With a whack,

Whence he tumbles like a plummet,
With the swiftness of a comet
Down your back;

Then it's safe to make the statement,
Without discount or abatement,
"Spring has come!"

—Indianapolis Journal.

"Do you believe in fate, Pat?" "Sure and phwat would we stand on widout 'em?"—Siftings.

"How are you getting along?" calls back March to April. "Swimmingly," replies April.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

"Have you any more of those genuine antiques?" asked Mrs. De Porque. "No'm," replied the dealer. "These strikes has kep' us away behind with our orders."—Washington Star.

Merchant—"Now here is a piece of goods that speaks for itself." Uncle Hayseed—"Well, that wouldn't suit Mandy. She likes to do her own talkin'."—Inter-Ocean.

"I am worth twenty of you," said the dollar bill to the nickel. "That's what you say," replied the nickel, "but I notice that I can buy a cigar without having to go broke, which is more than you ever do."—Indianapolis Journal.

"What must precede baptism?" asked the rector, when catechising the Sunday school. "A baby," exclaimed a bright boy, with the air of one stating self-evident truth.—New York Tribune.

"I didn't see anything funny in the story that fellow just told. What made you laugh so over it?" "Do you know who he is?" "No. Who is he?" "He's the head of our firm."—Life.

A Missionary.—Hennessey—"Poor Doc is a terrible drunkard." Pepper—"Yes; and yet he has done a great of good in the world." Hennessey—"How?" Pepper—"Almost every time he gets drunk he swears off with some one, and now and then one of the fellows he swears off with keeps his pledge."—Puck.

City Editor—"We ought to get a new heading for the weather column. "Local Forecast" is about played out." Assitant—"How would "The Unexpected Always Happens" do?"—Life's Calendar.

Clergyman (examining a Sunday school class)—"Now, can any of you tell me what are sins of omission?" Small Scholar—"Please sir, they're sins you ought to have committed and haven't."—Tid Bits.

Defeated Candidate—"You encouraged me to run for office. You know you did. You said you thought I wouldn't make a bad alderman." Trusty Henchman—"Well, the returns seem to show that I was right."—Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Brown—"Why, you haven't commenced your spring cleaning?" Mr. Gray—"No, I expect to move next week."

Patient—"What do you mean, doctor, by this bill for $125, when you came to see me only four times?" Doctor—"Well, I don't see how you can complain, for I haven't charged you anything for those four visits." Patient—"Then what is this bill for?" Doctor—"Why, you said that you got along better when I staid away than when I came, so I have just charged you for the times I've stayed away."—Harper's Bazar.

Young Tutter—"My overcoat is getting to be so tight that I am afraid when I go I shall have to ask you to help me on with it." Miss Pinkerly—"I assure you, Mr. Tutter, nothing would give me greater pleasure." — The Club.

Mrs. Celluloide—"Why doesn't your husband go to church with you?" Mrs. Collerette—"He couldn't afford any new clothes, and he looks too shabby beside my new wrap."—New York Herald.

Timorous Lover—"Do you think it will be easy to arrange things with your father, darling?—does—does he understahd things readily?" Chicago damsel—"Oh, yes. Pop usually gets there with both feet."—Detroit Tribune.

"There," said the grocer, as he gave the boy a half-a-dozen onions for a nickel, "I'm doing myself a rank injustice. I'm giving you six scents for five."—Washington Star.

Cholly—"Darling, I dream of you night and day." Molly—"That's just what's the matter. My young man has got to be wide awake."—Puck.

He—"Is that you, Miss Budd? Oh, all right. Eh—I say, Rosalie, I—I can't wait. You know how I love you; will you marry me?" She—"Y-yes." (Silence.) "Who are you?"—Harper's Bazar.

During the Waltz—She (who is being held unnecessarily tight)—"Mr. Pressor, I prefer dancing and hugging separately. He—"Then may I have the next break."—Life's Calendar.

"Have you thanked Uncle Charles for your dog yet, Freddie?" "Yes; but I ought er had it anyway; I've been prayin' for a dog the last two months."—Life.

His Daughter's Letter—"Dear Father: We are all well and happy. The baby has grown ever so much, and has a great deal more sense then he used to have. Hoping the same to you, I remain, your daughter, Molly." —Tit-Bits.

SHE COULD NOT HELP IT.

One could almost be sure they were engaged lovers as they walked from the crowded ball room into the conservatory. The look on their faces told much more plainly than words could have done that they preferred each other's campany among the flowers to that of the restless dancers.

The scent-laden air seemed conducive to quiet happiness, for the two sat and watched the fountain play and breathed the ordorous air, but said nothing. It was enough to be near each other. Their spirits were well enough acquainted to commune together without the medium of words.

Presently he looked around. No one was in sight. He would steal a kiss! Rapidly passing his arm around her taper waist he grasped her left arm just below the shoulder and was about to snatch the coveted kiss from her lips when she emited a piercing scream.

It was heard in the ball room, and instantly the assembly started on a run to the conservatory to see who was being murdered. The young man had presence of mind enough to commence a simulated search among the flower pots, but the girl sat with scarlet blushes, holding her arm with her right hand.

"What's the matter?" asked a score of voices.

"Miss Keedick thought she saw a mouse," replied the young man, unblushingly.

"I had to tell them something," he explained after they had gone back. "But, why on earth did you scream, Madge?"

"I couldn't help it, love," she replied contritely. "When you grabbed my arm you hurt my vaccinate."—Judge.

---

"Yes," remarked a stranger to the editor, as the two sat down on the veranda, sipping lemonade and looking out upon the rolling sea—"yes, headwork is very trying, and the man who makes his living by it needs a vacation now and then." "Yes," said the editor, I find it so—especially when the hours are long." "How many hours a day do you work?" asked the stranger. "Four," said the editor. "Gracious! I work ten!" "Headwork?" "Yes, every bit of it." "Newspaper or general literature?" "Neither. I'm a barber." Then the editor—for editors are not all wise—shut himself up as close as the sun umbrella which he carried.—Buffalo Quips.

WHEN DO YOU EXPECT TO BE IN SPRINGFIELD?

DROP A POSTAL CARD

HAYNES & CO.

HAYNES & CO., the popular clothiers, and we will take special care and see that you are shown the Leading Special Styles for spring and summer. Large lots just received in dress and business suits.

SPECIAL STYLES
at $7.50, $8.00, $8.50, $9.00, $10.00 and $12.00.
ALL FINE MADE, ALL WOOL SUITS.

—:x:—

BETTER GRADES
at $14.00, $15.00, $16.00 and $18.00.
ALL CUTS AND MAKES.

—:x:—

Handsome Double Breast Light Color Suits
at $8.50, $10.00 and $12.00.

These are the leaders. You can save fully 20 cents of the dollar by seeing these suits. Cheap enough for anybody, good enough for everybody. At the same time look at our Grand Display of Spring Overcoats!

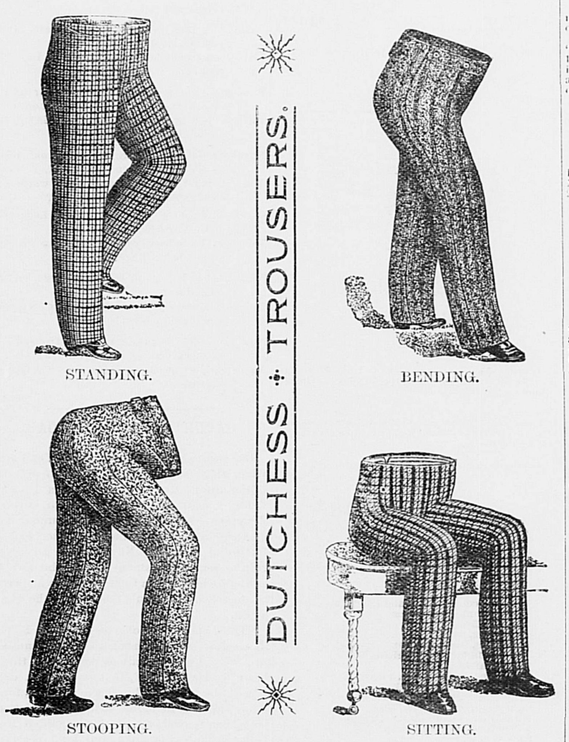
For good styles and low prices warranted. Look at them.

Everybody wants pantaloons. Our assortment induces the mass of people from all the surrounding country to visit Haynes & Co.
We have no competitors for assortment and prices.
Our tremendous increase of business in our boy's and children's department proves to us the fact that our assortment and prices turn the wave of trade to us. Seeing is believing.
Why not drop us a postal card so that we may be acquainted and expect you.
All styles guaranteed.

HAYNES & CO.,
Clothiers, Tailors, Hatters and Furnishers.
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.



No matter in what position you place yourself, DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

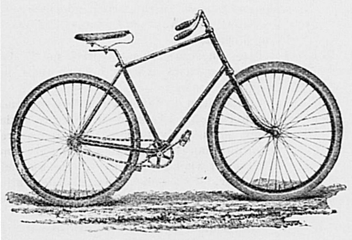
WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers
AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,
And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR.

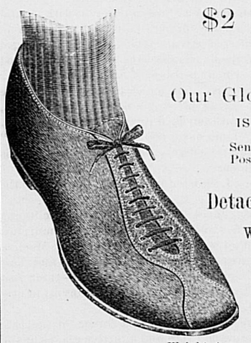
BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

E. A. BUCK & CO., ∴ BICYCLES.



| | |
|---|---|
| The Rambler, Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Cleveland, Ladies and Gents, | $160 |
| Warwick, | $150 |
| Road King, | $150 |
| New Mail, | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, | $115 |
| Duke, | $100 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $40 |



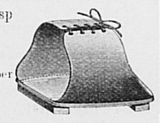
$2 Scorcher Shoe!

Why wear brogans?
You want light wheels.
Why not light shoes?

Our Glove Fitting Dongola Shoe
IS STYLISH, NEAT, COMFORTABLE.

Send money and size of foot.
Postage free.

Detachable Cleat and Shoe Protector,
With Automatic Sole Clasp



Detached instantly.
For rat-trap and rubber pedals.

Weight, 4 oz.

E. A. BUCK & CO., - PALMER, MASS.

Did you know
THAT YOU CAN FIND
a fine line of footwear
Including SLIPPERS, etc., at LUMAN'S?

He also wishes to announce to the people of THORNDIKE and vicinity that he has added a line of PATENT MEDICINES, etc., to his stock. . . . The only place in the village where you can get a full line of Lazell's NEW YORK PERFUMES. Don't buy cheap colognes when you can get the very best for a trifle more. . . . Call and examine whether you wish to purchase or not.

At J. F. LUMAN'S.

WON'T YOU NEED US DURING THE SPRING OF 1893?

—: WE HAVE :—

Every Thing to Sit on,

Lounge on—Sleep on—Walk on—Stand on—Hang on—Cook on—Eat on!

ALL THINGS

For convenience, comfort, adornment or necessity required for home or home furnishing.

SETS.

In this line it is timely to look at parlor, library, chamber and dining-room sets.

We have them in all makes, woods, styles and finish. They are splendid in looks and are built to stand a life of service and moving. You can afford them at our prices and on our liberal terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Will you raise a Colt? a good one? It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.

If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half mile in public in stud season in 1.07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2.32 1-2, trial 2.14.

For Speed! Speed! Speed!

Breed to "LENOX B." son of ALCYONE and IDLEWOOD, 2.29 1-4, trial 2.18. ALCYONE sired Martha Wilkes 2.08, McKinnay 2.12 1-2, Alcyon 2.15, Bush 2.16.

For particulars see or write to

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

Farm of 75 acres with house and two barns, running water at house and barn, fruit in abundance, farm will keep 10 head of cattle, cream taken at door, best of neighbors, short distance from two manufacturing villages. Price $2000. $500 down and balance on mortgage.

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

House and barn with seven acres of good productive land in a village. $1000.
Pastures from 20 to 50 acres in Palmer for $200 to $600.
Lot of manure for sale cheap.

D. F. HOLDEN,
Palmer, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD'S
CLOAK
AND SUIT HOUSE.

JACKETS

In every color, shape and price. One of the styles, "The Butterfly cape" jacket, we have at $7.50, $8.50 and $10. The "Mecca" jacket comes with a very wide collar which makes a cape. This is the very latest Parisian cut. It comes lined fancifully and has the "Umbrella" back. Ask to see the "Mecca."

CAPES

For all ages and sizes. They come in lengths and sizes appropriate for all. The assortment is unsurpassed in this city. We have excellent ones for elderly ladies, more in the wrap shapes that tie in the back, and many imported styles you won't find elsewhere.

LADIES' WAISTS AND SUITS.

This department is complete with every variety and style of waist and suit for travelling or house wear. See them.

Jas. McKeon & Co
300 MAIN ST., SPRINGFIELD, MASS. tf-51

THE BEST BICYCLES ON EARTH are COLUMBIAS.

SEE THE GUARNT MADE ON THEIR TIRES.

FROM $110 TO $150.

SOLD BY

CHANDLER BROS.,

PALMER.

NEW DENTAL
OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental Office formerly occupied by Dr. Hill, I should be pleased to see any who are in need of my services.
All operations performed in the best possible manner.

E. S. BRYANT, D. M. D.
HATCH BLOCK, PALMER. tf-29

FLYNT
Building and Construction Co.

GENERAL OFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

We contract to perform all labor, and furnish all material of the different classes, required to build complete.

CHURCHES, HOTELS, MILLS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND RESIDENCES.

Also for the construction of

RAILROADS, DAMS AND BRIDGES.

We solicit correspondence with those wishing place the construction of any proposed new work under one contract, which shall include all branches connected with the work.
To such parties we will furnish satisfactory references from those for whom we have performed similar work.

GRANOLITHIC.

We are the New England Agents for Stewart & Co's. Patent Granolithic for sidewalks, floors, steps, etc.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R.

SOUTHERN DIVISION
(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)
CORRECTED TO MARCH 26, 1893.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.18 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.
FOR Worcester—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.25, 4.44, 6.25 p. m.
FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.45, 7.52 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.52 p. m.
THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILROAD.

NEW LONDON DIVISION.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1892.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Leave Brattleboro, 5.45 and 10.25 a m and 4.25 p m for New London, connecting at Millers Falls with Fitchburg R. R. at Belchertown with Central Massachusetts R R. and at Palmer for Worcester Boston, Springfield, etc.
Leave Amherst, 7.05 a m, 12.14 and 5.53 p m.
Leave Palmer, 6.40 and 8.40 a m, 1.55 and 7.10 p m.
Leave Willimantic for New London, 8.00, 10.1 a m 3.25, 6.35 and 8.45 p m.

GOING NORTH.

Leave New London, 5.25 and 7.45 a m, 2.30 and 5.20 p m.
The 5.25 and 7.45 a m and 5.20 p m run through to Brattleboro and make connections for the north.
Leave New London for Palmer, 2.30 p m.
Leave New London for Willimantic and intermediate stations, 10.05 a m.
Leave Palmer for Brattleboro, 8.35, 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m, the 11.00 connecting with express for Montreal and the White Mountains. Also Grand Trunk R. R. for the West.
Leave Palmer for Amherst, 8.35 and 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m.

D. MACKENZIE, Supt.,
New London, Ct.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE
—IS WHAT—
You Want to Cure that COUGH
Or that bad feeling in your throat.
TRY IT—for it will please you.
CALL FOR IT at
ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, PALMER, MASS.

Hours from 9 a. m. to 12 m., 1 to 3 p. m.

JAMES B. SHAW, President.

ENOS CALKINS of Palmer, GEORGE MOORES of Thorndike, T. D. POTTER of Springfield, } Vice Presidents.

W. W. LEACH, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Enos Calkins, | R. C. Newell, |
| James B. Shaw, | F. F. Marcy, |
| Geo. Moores, | H. Waitt, |
| H. G. Loomis, | W. W. Leach, |
| T. D. Potter, | C. H. Hobbs, |
| H. P. Holden, | C. E. Getchell, |
| E. G. Hastings, | Geo. E. Buck, |
| C. L. Gardner, | A. L. Hills, |
| | Wm. Holbrook. |

BOARD OF INVESTMENT.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Enos Calkins, | T. D. Potter | James B. Shaw, |
| Geo. Moores, | H. G. Loomis, | E. G. Hastings, |
| C. E. Getchell. | | |

AUDITORS.

C. H. Hobbs, A. L. Hills.

L. E. MOORE, Treasurer.

World's Fair.

Printed matter describing the Fair, and full printed information as to reaching Chicago from your home, including the timetables of the railroads and sailings of the steamers you would use, may be had FREE by arrangment with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, if you address

THE JOURNAL,
Palmer, Mass.

The Ware Standard.

VOLUME XXXVIII. WARE, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 5, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 5.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. A discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 4 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $40; one-half inch one week, 75 cents; each additional week, 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," "To Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; no charge less than 25 cents. Notices in local column, 15 cents per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best styles, promptly and at reasonable rates.

C. B. FISKE. L. E. CHANDLER.

[Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m..

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSKER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Mets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street.
H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street.
G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

To Preserve

The richness, color, and beauty of the hair, the greatest care is necessary, much harm being done by the use of worthless dressings. To be sure of having a first-class article, ask your druggist or perfumer for AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It is absolutely superior to any other preparation of the kind. It restores the original color and fullness to hair which has become thin, faded, or gray. It keeps the scalp cool, moist, and free from dandruff. It heals itching humors, prevents baldness, and imparts to a silken texture and lasting fragrance. No toilet can be considered complete without this most popular and elegant of all hair-dressings.

THE HAIR

"My hair began turning gray and falling out when I was about 25 years of age. I have lately been using Ayer's Hair Vigor, and it is causing a new growth of hair of the natural color."—R. J. Lowry, Jones Prairie, Texas.

"Over a year ago I had a severe fever, and when I recovered, my hair began to fall out, and what little remained turned gray. I tried various remedies, but without success, till at last I began to

USE

Ayer's Hair Vigor, and now my hair is growing rapidly and is restored to its original color."—Mrs. Annie Collins, Dighton, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for nearly five years, and my hair is moist, glossy, and in an excellent state of preservation. I am forty years old, and have ridden the plains for twenty-five years."—Wm. Henry Ott, alias "Mustang Bill," Newcastle, Wyo.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by Druggists Everywhere.

D. W. FOSKETT,
Grain Dealer
FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance H." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

CUSTOM SUITS

—:FROM:—

$17.00 to $27.00

Pants from $4.50 to $8.00.

Our full line of SPRING SAMPLES now on exhibition.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

-:- SPRING HATS! -:-

LADIES'

SPRING DRESS GOODS.

The most complete line we ever carried.

☞ We are the CHEAPEST CARPET HOUSE in the state.

Yours truly,

S. H. Hellyar & Co.

Engraved Address Cards

Are the correct thing for ladies or gentlemen.

Correct sizes—latest styles of letters.

Call and see samples.

The PALMER JOURNAL.

PAPER : : HANGINGS

New Designs.

Latest Patterns.

Bottom Prices.

LARGEST STOCK TO SELECT FROM ! ! ! !

and will furnish a good man to hang it for you. Don't neglect to

PAPER YOUR CEILINGS!

and let us show you something pretty to do it with—at

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POLISH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT'S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LEGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.

WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,

NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

1893—SPRING—1893

CARPET : : Department

(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN
65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN
35c to 50c.

HEMP
15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS
25c to 60c

(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS
15c to 40c

(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS
$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS
50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.
Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

C. H. HOBBY,
PIANO TUNER.
Orders for tuning may be left at O. P. Allen's drug store, Palmer; or may be sent to me by mail to Mansfield, Ct.

Ripans Tabules cure torpid liver.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

Maying.

Ah, I've found you, pretty one,
Creeping out to greet the sun
From your frosty bed;
I suppose you little thought
That in this secluded spot
You would be so early caught
If you showed your head.

I'd been searching all the morn
Under sedge and rock and thorn
By the woodland far,
When at last I chanced to think
Of this stony brooklet's brink
Where the willows stoop to drink,
And lo, here you are!

Here you are, each baby face
Peeping out with witching grace
From its cloak of green;
Precious blossom! don't you know
Everybody loves you so,
That you ought to come and grow
Where you can be seen?

All the other flowers do,
E'en the bashful violet blue
Is not half so coy;
How the dandelions bright,
Buttercups and daisies white
Flock out boldly into sight
In their childlike joy!

How they play among the trees,
Nodding to each passing breeze,
Gazing at the sky!
No aversion harbor they
Toward the clearest light of day,
And the most frequented way
Draws them ever nigh.

While you, lovelier than they all,
You, the first to hear the call
Of the zephyrs low,
In some lone, sequestered nook
Hide away where none may look;
Only bird and bush and brook
Half your sweetness know.

But we're told when you appear
By a thousand voices clear
Which have long been dumb;
Every tree-top since you came
Has resounded with your name;
And the vocal pools proclaim,
"Arbutus has come!"

Blessed harbinger of spring,
How can I fit praises bring
To such faultless worth?
Fragrant as the breath of morn,
Beauteous as rosy dawn,
Child of sun and shower first-born!
Blushing star of earth!

Gentle teacher, unto me
Lessons of humility
And content impart—
Lessons wherein I may trace
Something of that winsome grace
Which, for you a welcome place
Gains in every heart.

Ruth, in Springfield Union.

ANN MILLET'S REBELLION.

There were no clouds in the whole sky except a few bleak, violet-colored ones in the west. Between them the sky showed a clear, cold yellow. The air was very still, and the trees stood out distinctly.

"Thar's goin' to be a heavy frost, sure enough," said Ann Millet. "I'll hev' t' git the squashes in."

She stood in the door, surveying the look outside, as she said this. Then she went in, and presently emerged with a little black shawl pinned closely over her head, and began work.

This was a tiny, white-painted house, with a door and one window in front, and a little piazza, over which the roof jutted, and on which the kitchen door opened, on the rear corner. The squashes were piled up on the piazza in a great yellow and green heap.

"A splendid lot they air," said Ann. "I'd orter be thankful." Ann always spoke of her obligation to duty, and never seemed to think of herself as performing the duty itself. "I'd orter be thankful," said she always.

Her shawl pinned closely over her hair and ears, showed the small oval of her face. The greater part of it seemed to be taken up by a heavy forehead, from under which her deep-set blue eyes looked with a strange, solemn expression. She looked alike at everything, the clear, cold sky and the squashes, soberly and solemnly.

This expression, taken in connection with her little delicate old face, had something almost uncanny about it. Some people complained of feeling nervous when Ann looked at them.

"Thar's Mis' Stone comin'," said she. "Hope to goodness she won't stop an' hender me! Lor' sakes! I'd orter hev' more patience."

A tall, stooping figure came up the street, and paused at her gate hesitatingly.

"Good evenin', Ann."

"Good evenin', Mis' Stone. Come in, won't ye?"

Mrs. Stone came in the gate, and walked up to the piazza, and stopped.

"Gettin' in your squashes, ain't ye?"

"Yes. I didn't dare resk 'em out to-night, it's so cold. I left 'em out last year, an' they got touched, an' it about spoilt 'em."

"Well, I should be kinder afraid to resk 'em; it's a good deal colder than I had any idea of when I come out. I thought I'd run over to Mis' Maxwell's a minute, so I jes' clapped on this head tie an' this little cape over my shoulders, an' I'm chilled clean through. I don't know but I've tuk cold. Yes, I'd take 'em in. We got ourn in last week, such as they was. We ain't got more'n half as many as you hev. I shouldn't think you could use 'em all, Ann."

"Well, I do. I allers liked squashes, an' Willy likes 'em too. You'd orter see him brush round me, a roundin' up his back an' purrin', when I'm a scrapin' of 'em out of the shell. He likes 'em better'n fresh meat."

"Seems queer for a cat to like sech things. Ourn won't touch 'em; he's awful dainty. How nice an' big your cat looks a-settin' thar in the window!"

"He's a-watchin' of me. He jumped up thar jest the minute I come out."

"He's a good deal of company fur you, ain't he?"

"Yes, he is. What on airth I should do this long winter that's comin', without him, I don't know. Everybody wants somethin' that's alive in the house."

"That's so. It must be pretty lonesome for you anyway. Ruth an' me often speak of it, when we look over here, 'specially in the winter season, some of them awful stormy nights we hev."

"Well, I don't mean to complain, anyway. I'd orter be thankful. I've got my Bible an' Willy an' a roof over my head, an' enough to eat an' wear; an' a good many folks hev to be alone, as fur as other folks is concerned, on this airth. An' p'haps some other woman ain't lonesome because I am, and maybe she'd be one of the kind that didn't like cats, an' would not hev got along half as well as me. No; I've got a good many mercies to be thankful fur—more'n I kin count, an' more'n I deserve. I never orter complain."

"Well, if all of us looked at our mercies more'n our trials, we'd be a good deal happier. But, sakes! I must be goin'. I'm catchin' cold, an' henderin' you. It's supper time, too. You've got somethin' cookin' in the house that smells good."

"Yes, it's some stewed tomarter. I allers like somethin' I kin eat butter an' pepper on sech a night as this."

"Well, somethin' of that sort is good. Good night, Ann."

"Good night, Mis' Stone. Goin' to meetin' to-night?"

"I'm goin' ef Ruth don't. One of us has to stay with the children, you know. Good night."

Mrs. Stone had spoken in a very high-pitched tone all the while. Ann was somewhat deaf. She had spoken loudly and shrilly too; so now there was a sudden lull, and one could hear a cricket chirping somewhere about the door.

Mrs. Stone, pulling her tiny round cape tighter around her rounded shoulders, hitched rapidly down the street to her own home which stood on the opposite side, a little below Ann's, and Ann went on tugging in her squashes.

"I'm glad she's gone," she muttered, looking after Mrs. Stone's retreating figure. "I didn't know how to be hendered a minute. I'd orter have more patience."

She had to carry in the squashes one at a time. She was a little woman, and although she had been used to hard work all her life, it had not been of a kind to strengthen her muscles; she had been a dressmaker. So she stepped patiently into her kitchen with a squash and out without one, then in again with one. She piled them up in a heap on the floor in the corner.

"They'll hev to go on the shelf over the mantel," said she, "to-morrow. I can't git 'em up thar to-night an' go to meetin' no-how."

She had a double shelf of unpainted pine rigged over the ordinary one, for her squashes.

After the squashes were all in, Ann took off her shawl and hung it on a nail behind the kitchen door. Then she set her bowl of smoking-hot tomato stew on a little table between the windows, and sat down contentedly.

There was a white cloth on the table, and some bread and butter and pie beside the stew. Ann looked at it solemnly. "I'd orter be thankful," said she. That was her way of saying grace. Then she fell to eating with a relish. This, solemn, spiritual-looking old woman loved her food, and had a keen look-out for it. Perhaps she got a spiritual enjoyment out of it, too, besides the lower material one. Perhaps hot stewed tomatoes, made savory with butter and pepper and salt, on a frosty November night had for her a subtle flavor of home comfort and shelter and coziness appealing to her imagination, besides the commoner one appealing to her palate.

Before anything else, though—before seating herself—she had given her cat his saucer of warm milk in a snug corner by the stove. He was a beautiful little animal, with a handsome dark striped coat on his back, and white paws and face.

When he had finished lapping his milk he came and stood beside his mistress's chair while she ate, and purred—he rarely mewed—and she gave him bits of bread from her plate now and then. She talked to him, too. "Nice Willy," said she, "nice cat. Got up on the window to see me bring in the squashes, didn't he? There's a beautiful lot of 'em, and he shall hev some stewed for his dinner to-morrow, so he shall."

And the cat would purr and rub his soft coat against her, and look as if he knew just what she meant.

There was a prayer meeting in the church vestry that evening, and Ann Millet went. She never missed one. The minister, when he entered, always found her sitting there, at the head of the third seat from the front, in the right-hand row—always in the same place, a meek, erect little figure, in a poor, tidy black bonnet, and an obsolete black coat with no seam in the whole of the voluminous back. That had been the style of outside garments when Miss Millet had laid aside dressmaking, and she had never gone a step further in fashions. She had stopped just where she was, and treated her old patterns as conservatively as she did her Bible.

She had had a pretty voice, people said, when she was young, and she sang now, in a thin, sweet quaver, the hymns which the minister gave out. She listened in solemn enjoyment to the stereotyped prayers and the speaker's remarks. He was a dull, middle-aged preacher in a dull country town.

After meeting, Ann went up and told him how much she had enjoyed his remarks, and inquired after his wife and children. She always did. To her a minister was an unpublished apostle, and his wife and family set apart on the earth. No matter how dull a parson labored here, he would always have one disciple in this old woman.

When Ann had walked home through the frosty starlight she lit her lamp first, and then she called her cat. She had expected to find him waiting to be let in, but he was not. She stood out on her little piazza, which ran along the rear corner of her house by her kitchen door, and called, "Willy, Willy, Willy!"

She thought every minute she would see him come bounding around the corner, but she did not. She called, over and over, in her shrill, anxious pipe, "Willy, Willy! Kitty, Kitty, Kitty!"

Finally she went into the house and waited awhile, crouching, shivering with cold and nervousness, over the kitchen stove. Then she went outside and called again, "Willy, Willy, Willy!" over and over, waiting between the calls, trembling, her dull old ears alert, her dim old eyes strained. She ran out to the road, and looked and called, and down to the dreary garden patch behind the house, among the withered corn stalks and the mouldering squash vines, all white with frost. Once her heart leaped; she thought she saw Willy coming; but it was only a black cat which belonged to one of the neighbors. Then she went into the house and waited a little while; then out again, calling shrilly, "Willy, Willy, Willy!"

There were northern lights streaking the sky; the stars shone steadily through the rosy glow; it was very still and lonesome and cold. The little thin, shivering old woman, standing out doors all alone in the rude, chilly night air, under these splendid stars and streaming lights, called over and over the poor little creature which was everything earthly she had to keep her company in the great universe in which she herself was so small.

"Willy, Willy, Willy!" called Ann. "Oh where is that cat? Oh, dear! Willy, Willy, Willy!"

She spent the night that way. Mrs. Stone's daughter Ruth, who was up with a sick child, heard her.

"Miss Milet must have lost her cat," she told her mother, in the morning; "I heard her calling him all night long."

Pretty soon, indeed, Ann came over, her small old face white and wan. "Hev you seen anything of Willy?" she asked. "He's been out all night, an' I'm afraid somethin's happened to him. I never knowed him to stay out so before."

When they told her they had not, she went on to the next neighbor's to inquire; but no one had seen anything of the cat. All that day and night, at intervals, people heard her plaintive, inquiring call, "Willy, Willy, Willy, Willy!"

The next Sunday Ann was not out to church. It was a beautiful day, too.

"I'm goin' to run over an' see if Ann Millet's sick," Mrs. Stone told her daughter, when she returned from church; "she wan't out to meetin' to-day, and I'm afraid somethin's the matter. I never knew her to miss goin'."

So she went over. Miss Millet was sitting in her little wooden rocking-chair in her kitchen, when she opened the door.

"Why, Ann Millet, are you sick?"

"No; I ain't sick."

"You wan't out to meetin', an' I didn't know—"

"I ain't never goin' to meetin' agin."

"Why, what do you mean?"

Mrs. Stone dropped into a chair and stared at her neighbor.

"I mean jest what I say. "I ain't never goin' to meetin' agin. Folks go to meetin' to thank the Lord for blessin's, I s'pose. I've lost mine, and I ain't goin'."

"Wat hev you lost, Ann?"

"Ain't I lost Willy?"

"You don't mean to say you're makin' such a fuss as this over a cat?"

Mrs. Stone could make a good deal of disapprobation and contempt manifest in her pale, high-featured face, and she did now.

"Yes, I do."

"Well, I ain't nothin' agin cats, but I must say I'm beat. Why, Ann Millet, it's downright sinful fur you to feel so. Of course, you set a deal by Willy; but it ain't as ef he was a human creatur'. Cats is cats. For my part, I never thought it was right to set by animals as ef they was babies."

"I can't hear what you say."

"I never thought it was right to set by animals as ef they was babies."

"I don't keer. It's comfortin' to have live creatur's about you; an' I aint never had anything like other women. I aint had no folks of my own sence I ken remember. I've worked hard all my life, an' hed nothin' at all to love, an' I've thought I'd orter be thankful all the same. But I did want as much as a cat."

"Well, as I said before, I've nothin' agin cats; but I don't understand any human bein' with an immortal soul a-settin' so much by one."

"I can't hear what you say." Ann could usually hear Mrs. Stone's high voice without difficulty, but to-day she seemed deafer.

"I don't understand any human bein' with an immortal soul a-settin' so much by a cat."

"You've got folks, Mis' Stone."

"I know I hev; but folks is trials sometimes. Not that my children are, though. I've got a great deal to be thankful for, I'll own, in that way; but, Ann Millet, I didn't think you was one to sink down so under any trial. I thought the Lord would be a comfort to you."

"I know all that, Mis' Stone. But when it comes to it, I'm here an' I ain't thar, an' I've got hands, an' I want somethin' I kin touch;" then the poor soul broke down and sobbed out loud, like a baby. "I ain't—never felt as ef I'd orter begretch other—women their homes an' their folks. I thought—p'haps—I could get along better without 'em than—some; an' the Lord knowed it, an' seein' thar wan't enough to go round, He gave 'em to them that needed 'em most. I ain't—never—felt—as ef I'd orter complain. But—thar—was—cats enough. I might a hed—that—much."

"You kin get another cat, Ann. Mis' Maxwell's got some real smart kittens, an' I know she wants to get rid of 'em."

"I don't want any of Mis' Maxwell's kittens. I don't never want any other cat."

"P'haps your'n will come back. Now don't take on so."

"What?"

"P'haps your'n will come back."

"No, he won't. I'll never see him agin. I've felt jest that way about it from the first. Somebody's stole him, or he's been p'isoned an' crawled away and died, or he's been shot fur his fur. I heered thar was a boy over the river makin' a cat-skin kerridge blanket, an' I went over an' asked him, an' he said he hadn't never shot a cat like Willy. But I don't know. Boys ain't brought up any too strict. I hope he spoke the truth."

"Hark! I declar', I thought I heard a cat mew somewhar! But I guess I didn't. I don't hear it now. Well, I'm sorry, Ann. I s'pose I've got to go; thar's dinner to git, an' the baby's consider'ble fretty to-day. Why, Ann Millet, whar's your squashes?"

"What?"

"Where are your squashes?"

"I throwed 'em away out in the field. Willy can't have none of them now, an' I don't care about 'em myself."

Mrs. Stone looked at her in horror. When she got home she told her daughter that Ann Millet was in a dreadful state of mind, and she thought the minister ought to see her. She believed she would tell him if she was not out to meeting that night.

She was not. This touch of grief had goaded that meek, reverential nature into fierceness. The childish earnestness which she had had in religion she had now in the other direction. Ann Millet, in spite of all excuses that could be made for her, was for the time, a wicked, rebellious old woman; and she was as truly so as if this petty occasion for it had been a graver one in other people's estimation.

The next day the minister called on her, stimulated by Mrs. Stone's report. He did not find her so outspoken; her awe of him restrained her. Still, this phase of her character was a revelation to him. He told his wife when he returned home that he never should have know it was Ann Millet.

In the course of the call a rap came to the kitchen door. Ann rose and answered it, hopping nervously across the floor. She returned to the minister with more distress in her face than ever.

"Nothin' but a little gal with a malty cat," said she; "the children have got wind of my losin' Willy, and they mean it all right, but it seems as ef I should fly! They keep comin' and bringin' cats. They'll find a cat that they think mebbe is Willy, and so they'll bring him to show me. They've brought Malty-and-white cats, 'nd cats all Malty; they've brought yaller cats 'nd black—'nd there wan't none of 'em looked any like Willy. Then they've brought kittens that they knowed wan't Willy, but they thought mebbe I'd like 'em instead of him. They mean all right, I know; they're real tender-hearted; but it 'most kills me. Why, they brought me two little kittens that hadn't got their eyes open, jest before you come. They was striped 'nd white, 'nd they said they thought they'd grow up to look like Willy. They were the Hooper children, 'nd they knowed him."

It would have been ludicrous if the poor old woman's distress had not been so genuine. However, Mr. Beal, the minister, was not a man to see the ridiculous side; he could simply be puzzled, and that he was.

It was a case entirely outside his experience, and he did not know how to deal with it. He wondered anxiously what he had best say to her. Finally he went away, without saying much of anything, he was so afraid that what he said might be out of proportion to the demands of the case. It seemed to him bordering on sacrilege to treat this trouble of Ann Millet's like a genuine affliction, though, on the other hand, that treatment was what her state of mind seemed to require.

Going out the door, he stopped and listened a minute; he thought he heard a cat mew. Then he concluded he was mistaken, and went on. He watched eagerly for Ann the next meeting night, but she did not come. It is doubtful whether or not she would have done so if she had not found the cat. She had a nature which could rally an enormous amount of strength for persistence.

But the day after the meeting she had occasion to go down cellar for something. The cellar-stairs led up to the front part of the house; indeed, the cellar was under that part only. Ann went through her chilly sitting-room—she never used it except in summer—and opened the cellar door which was in the front entry. There was a quick rush from the gloom below and Willy flew up the cellar-stairs.

"Lor' sakes!" exclaimed Ann, with white, shocked face. "He's been down there all the while. Now I remember. He followed me when I came through there meetin' night to get my cloak, and he wanted to go down and I let him. I thought he wanted to hunt. Lor' sakes!"

She went back into the kitchen, her knees trembling. The cat followed, brushing against her and purring. She poured out a saucer of milk, and watched him hungrily lapping. He did not look as if he had suffered, though he had been in the cellar a week; but mice were plentiful in this old house, and he undoubtedly foraged successfully for himself.

Ann watched him, the white, awed look still on her face.

"I s'pose he mewed and I didn't hear him. There he was all the time, jest where I put him; an' me a blamin' the Lor', an' puttin' it on Him. I've been an awful wicked woman. I ain't been to meetin', 'nd I've talked, 'nd—them squashes I threw away! It's been so warm they hain't froze, but I don't deserve it. I hadn't orter hev one of 'em; I hadn't orter hev anything. I'd orter offer up Willy. Lor' sakes! Think of me a-sayin' what I did, 'nd him down cellar!"

That afternoon Mrs. Stone looked across from her sitting-room window, where she was sewing, and saw Ann slowly and painfully bringing in squashes, one at a time.

"Look here, Ruth," she called to her daughter. "Jest you see. Ann Millet's bringin' in them squashes she threw away. I don't believe but what she's come to her senses."

The next meeting night Ann was in her place. The minister saw her, and rejoiced. Aftermeeting he hurried out of his desk to speak to her. She did not seem to be coming to see him, as usual.

When she looked up at him there was an odd expression on her face. Her old cheeks were flushing.

"I am rejoiced to see you out, Miss Millet," said the minister, shaking her hand.

"Yes, I thought I'd come out to-night."

"I am so happy to see you are feeling better."

"The cat has come back," said Ann.—Mary E. Wilkins, in Harper's Bazar.

BROWN AS A PUNCTUATOR.

"Brown, my boy, there's nothing like it. It's better than 'French in six weeks,' because you can work it into yourself in a month, so that you can hardly say or think anything without following the rule. Take this beautiful selection, which recalls our schoolboy days: 'The boy stood on the burning deck, comma, whence all but he had fled, semicolon; the flames that lit the battle's wreck, comma, shone around him o'er the dead, period.' That's grand; that's inspiring. You have all the beauty and all the sentiment, and besides you punctuate as you go along, and so mingle the artistic and the useful."

Brown was quite taken with this new plan for learning how to punctuate properly. He had often felt like a brother to the fellow who wrote a book without any punctuation whatever, simply adding in an appendix a complete list of punctuation marks, from which the reader could select and punctuate as much or as little as he pleased.

The first lesson went off swimmingly. Brown so fell into the spirit of it that as he walked up the street afterward he found himself soliloquizing: "I wonder, comma, if I had better get that paregoric, comma, for the baby, comma, before I go home, period. Perhaps, comma."—Then he slipped up on a piece of banana skin and went down flat with two exclamation points and enough stars to equip several issues of a "blanket sheet."

For the first time in his life he felt like using the "dash" and also making a dash for the miscreant who threw that murderous peel there. He lay on the pavement long enough to denote several paragraphs, then got up with difficulty and limped down the street. But the magic power of that first lesson was still upon him, and meeting a newsboy he began, "Well, comma, my boy, comma, have you the Star? interrogation point." The sharp eyed little rascal stared at him curiously, and then replied: "Com-ah? Come off. When did yer 'scape from th' 'sylum?"

After punctuating the town generally during the next two hours and getting a crowd of boys at his heels, whom he escaped by seeking refuge in an empty school building—a place the average boy never enters if he can help it—he took home to his dear family a somewhat battered but still large supply of punctuation.

At 2 a. m. his wife nudged him. "John John, there are burglars in the house!" "What—ah? Burglars, burglars." Now wide awake, he sprang to the floor exclaiming: "Dearest, comma, I will defend you, comma, even with my heart's blood, comma, if necessary, exclamation point." He then threw open the chamber door right in the face of two masked burglars, who held pistols to his breast and demanded, "Your money or your life!"

With one whirl of his strong right arm he dashed the pistols aside, two bullets perforating the hall window instead of his head as was intended. With two more whirls of that trusty arm he sent the burglars as surely and swiftly as one sentence follows another in the mouth of a two-hundred-a-minute speaker, out through the window after the bullets, remarking: "There, comma, now, comma, you can hunt your bullets at your leisure, period. Call again, comma, and I'll show you how to punctuate better, comma, but you can't put a period to my existence just yet, period."

Then, rushing back to his wife, he exclaimed, "Joy of my life, exclamation point, light of my eyes, more exclamation points, come to my arms, period." They fell, weeping, upon each other's necks. Stars and dashes come in here, denoting a domestic scene too sacred for the eyes and ears of the vulgar public.—Washington Star.

WANTED A DOG.

Fair Customer—"I live in the suburbs, and I want a good house dog." Dealer—"Yes, mum." "But of course I don't want one that will keep us awake all night barking at ing." Dealer—"No, mum." He must be big and strong, and fierce, you know." "Yes, mum." "Yet as gentle as a lamb with us, you know." "Yes, mum." "And he must pounce on every tramp that comes along and drive him off." "Yes, mum." "But he mustn't interfere with any poor but honest man looking for work." "No, mum." "If a burglar comes prowling about at night the dog should make mince meat of him in an instant." "Yes, mum." "But he mustn't attack a neighbor who drops in for an evening call." "No, mum." "And of course he mustn't molest people who come hurrying in at all hours of the night to call my husband. He's a doctor, you know." "No, mum. I see what you want. You want a thought reader dog." "Yes, I suppose so. Can you send me one?" "Very sorry, mum, but I'm just out of that kind."—Scottish American.

Somehow or Other.

Life has a burden for every one's shoulder,
None may escape from its troubles and care.
Miss it in youth, and 'twill come when you're older,
And fit us as close as the garments we wear.

Sorrow comes into our homes uninvited,
Robbing our hearts of its treasures of song.
Lovers grow cold and our friendships are slighted,
Yet somehow or other we worry along.

Midst the sweet blossoms that smile in our faces,
Grow the rank weeds that would poison and blight;
And e'er in the midst of earth's beautiful places,
There always is something that isn't quite right.

Somehow or other the pathway grows brighter,
Just when we mourn there was none to befriend.
Hope in the heart makes the burden grow lighter,
And somehow or other we get to the end.

WINTER SLEEP OF ANIMALS.

All animals have their time for sleeping. We sleep at night; so do most of the insects and birds. But there are some little creatures that take such very long sleeps. When they are all through their summer work they crawl into winter quarters. There they stay until the cold weather is over. Large numbers of frogs, bats, flies and spiders do this. If they were only to sleep for the night, the blood would keep moving in their veins and they would breathe, but in this winter sleep they do not appear to breathe, or the blood to move. Yet they are alive, only in such a "dead sleep."

But wait until the springtime. The warm sun will wake them all up again. They will come out, one by one, from their hiding-places.

However, there are some kinds of animals that hide away in winter that are not wholly asleep all the time. The blood moves a little, and once in a while they take a breath. If the weather is at all mild, they wake up enough to eat.

Now, isn't it curious that they know this beforehand. Such animals always lay up something to eat, just by their side, when they go into their winter sleeping-places. But those that do not wake up never lay up any food, for it would not be used if they did.

The little field-mouse lays up nuts and grain. It eats some when it is partly awake of a warm day.

The bat does not need to do this; for the same warmth that wakes him wakes all the insects on which he feeds. He catches some and then eats.

The woodchuck, a kind of marmot, does not wake, yet he lays up dried grass near his hole. What is it for, do you think? On purpose to have it ready the first moment he awakes in the spring.

The Standard.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 5, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.

To any one who is not now a subscriber to this paper, it will be sent three months on trial on receipt of 25 cents.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Seed potatoes cheap, at Thompson's Central Street Market.

Fine shad and lobsters at McGilp's market. We boil our own lobsters, so that we know they are fresh and nice.

Dandelions, spinach, new cabbages, and lettuce at Thompson's Central Street Market.

Jeweler Barton is prepared to furnish any make of bicycle on short notice at bottom prices. Old machines taken in exchange.

Thompson's Central Street Market is the place for Hamburger steak and spring lamb.

PALMER NEWS.

HE HAD TWO WIVES.

A Legal One in Rutland, Vt., and a Morganatic One in Palmer.

Palmer has been treated to two sensations this week, the first coming Tuesday, when it became known that M. D. Nicholson, who for a considerable time until within a few weeks has occupied rooms in the house of William Merriam on Pleasant street with a woman he called his wife, had a legal wife in Rutland, Vt., to whom he had been married 13 years.

Mr. and "Mrs." Nicholson came to Palmer in June, 1891. He represented the Rutland Marble Company, and canvassed the surrounding country for orders for cemetery work. Mrs. Nicholson did dressmaking. Nicholson was a good violinist, and after a little the Palmer Orchestral Club was formed, he being the director. It furnished music for a number of local entertainments and then disbanded. He was also an expert taxidermist, and had several cases of handsome specimens with him, besides mounting many after coming here. He was good-looking, knew how to conduct himself well, and easily moved in the best of circles. As an artist he had no mean ability, and made many sketches and original designs for headstones and monuments for which he took orders. His business of soliciting orders and seeing that the work was properly set took him away from home a good deal, and he frequently went to Rutland on matters of business, being gone a week at a time.

The denouement came about in a peculiar manner. A Palmer women was on her way to New York a few weeks ago to visit friends. On the same train was a Rutland milliner on her way to the metropolis to get the styles. There was also on the train a woman with several children which gave her a great deal of trouble, and the Palmer and Rutland woman assisted her in keeping the little ones amused. This naturally brought them into conversation, in which they talked of their respect homes, and the talk drifted into the subject of women's wearing apparel, in course of which the Palmer woman remarked that the dress she had on had been made by a Mrs. Nicholson. The Rutland woman at once said that she knew a Mrs. Nicholson, and asked the business of the Palmer woman's husband, being told that it was soliciting orders for gravestones. She remarked that it was a little peculiar, as the husband of the Mrs. Nicholson she knew was engaged in the same business and employed by the same company as the Palmer man, but that she was a music teacher, not a dressmaker. It was also noted as somewhat singular that both men should have the same initials. A few days after this a traveling man stopped at the Converse House and asked if there had been any recent deaths in the place, as he should like to take a few orders for monuments if there had been. He was told that there was a person in town who did that kind of business, and after a few questions sent a note to Mr. Nicholson, who called on the stranger at the hotel. Soon he was noticed packing up his birds, and on being asked the reason explained that he was putting them away for the warm weather, to keep the moths out. His mother died about this time, and he announced that he must go to Rutland to settle the estate. His goods were shipped to several different places, and the couple departed, he to Rutland, and she to Brooklyn to visit relatives, as she said. Only a few days after they had gone a letter came addressed to Mrs. M. D. Nicholson, and was forwarded to Rutland, where the genuine Mrs. Nicholson received and opened it. It proved to be from the brother and sister of the Palmer Mrs. Nicholson, stating that they were to sail from England for America on a certain date, and asking their sister to meet them in New York. Of course this let the whole thing out, and Nicholson's wife refused to live with him longer. The estate of his mother was closed up, Nicholson making over everything to his wife in return for $2200, with which he departed for regions unknown. On his departure he left a letter for his father-in-law, in which, after discussing business matters he says:

> You can never regret more than I the unfortunate drama of your daughter's life linked to mine. She will no doubt welcome this, the last act. The curtain is almost down, and the lights are being turned out. Deserted will be the stage on which a thirteen act has been played to the final and inevitable ending. My first and last thought will be for her good. To say more is foolish. The past cannot be recalled. M. D. NICHOLSON.

It seems that on the return home of the Rutland milliner she acquainted the father of Mrs. Nicholson with what she had learned, and the traveling man at the hotel was simply a spy, who made it so warm for Nicholson that he concluded the best thing he could do was to return home, where all might have gone well but for the unfortunate letter. The name of the woman with whom he was living here is not known, although he called her "Bess," but she was for a time employed in the office of the company at Rutland, and it seems that then Mrs. Nicholson was uneasy over the amount of attention she received from her husband, but he laughed at her, saying that they were both employed by the company and that the work of the office brought them together, nothing more. His absence from home while living here he explained by saying that he was away on work for the company. An application for a divorce has been made by his wife.

ELOPED.

A Romeo Who is a Grandfather; a Juliet Who is on the Shady Side of 50.

The second sensation, and one which caused even more stir than the first, was the announcement Wednesday that George M. Shaw and Mrs. Louis Bosquet had left town together the night before. Shaw was employed as a passenger brakeman on the Ware River road, and has five children, the eldest about 28, besides which he has been a grandfather for about a year, while the woman has a son nearly 20. By the death of her parents Mrs. Shaw had property left her at West Brimfield, and went there to live some time ago. Mr. Shaw's work made it impossible for him to be at home nights and he had a room in this village. Mr. and Mrs. Bosquet lived on Foundry street, and in going to and from his room Shaw passed their residence. He became acquainted with Mrs. Bosquet and soon removed his lodgings to their house. Mr. Bosquet apparently thought that everything was all right, but not so the neighbors, who soon began to couple the names of Shaw and Mrs. Bosquet, who is "fat, fair," and all of 50. The names of several other men were also frequently mentioned in the same connection. April 1st Mr. and Mrs. Bosquet went to take care of the Monson poor farm. The place is quite retired, and it was soon noticed that Mrs. Bosquet found occasion to visit Palmer several times a week. On one occasion she and Shaw spent the day together in Springfield, and one night last week was passed at one of the hotels in this village, where they were registered as man and wife. Tuesday night Shaw brought a large trunk to the passenger station about 8 o'clock and had it checked for Springfield. Then he went to Allen's stable and engaged a team, saying that he would call for it about 9.30, which he did, then went "Over the hill to the poorhouse." The horse was returned about 12.30, with the statement that it had been only about two miles out, and had been carefully housed and blanketed. The carriage showed, however, that it had been overturned in the mud. The couple appeared at the passenger station about 12.30, and remained there until the 1.46 train, which they took for Springfield. They were noticed by the night watchman at the station, but he thought nothing of the matter, Shaw's attentions to the woman being well known. Mr. Bosquet arrived early next morning and started after the couple, stating that if he found them he would bring his wife back. As yet no clue has been found as to their whereabouts.

The Superintendent of Schools.

The town may well congratulate itself on having secured for its superintendent of schools Mr. Walter H. Small of Hudson, who will commence his duties next Monday. The following, clipped from the Hudson Enterprise of April 29th, will show with what regard he is held in that place:—

Walter H. Small's transfer of residence, labors and interests from Hudson to Palmer will make a considerable gap in educational, religious and military circles of our town. As principal of our high school for 14 years and as trustee of our public library for a good portion of that time, in both of which positions he has been an untiring, conscientious and enthusiastic worker, he has had an opportunity to direct the thought and mould the character of young men and women such as has not fallen to any other citizen of Hudson. That his influence in every direction has been of the highest intellectual and moral type none will dispute.

As a teacher he has had nearly 500 students under his care, 124 of whom have graduated, and including those who will graduate in a few weeks the number will be 141. Those graduates are to be found in all the professions and in almost every branch of business, and are among our best and most promising citizens. As a commissioned officer of Co. M., Fifth Regiment, Mass. militia, he is well liked by rank and file, carrying into the duties of that position the same application and faithfulness which has given him success elsewhere. The Middlesex Teachers' Association will miss his counsel and executive ability, he being a member of the executive committee of that body.

Notwithstanding his diversified secular duties he has been an invaluable worker in the Unitarian Sunday school, his more recent position being that of teacher of a class of 24 young ladies.

In musical and fraternal society circles he has made himself a place, while in the more general walks of life he has won the highest respect of his fellows. His latest responsibility is as a member of the examining board in the competitive examination of applicants for the naval academy at West Point.

The people of Palmer are fortunate in securing Mr. Small as superintendent of their public schools.

Rapid Bicycle Riding.

The riders in the relay bicycle race between Boston and New York passed through this place at 10.15 last Sunday night, 44 minutes ahead of schedule time. The pouch left Worcester at 7.24, seven minutes late, but was on time at Leicester, and six minutes ahead of time at Spencer, though the roads were badly rutted, making hard riding. Warren was reached at 9.32. There Van Wagner and Williamson of the Springfield club took the pouch and brought it to Palmer in 43 minutes, 29 minutes less than the time allowed in the schedule. The run was made without a dismount over heavy and rutted roads which made riding exceedingly hard. The riders kept together until the works of the Palmer and Monson Electric Co. at Blanchardville were reached, when Van Wagner ran away from Williamson and came in just one minute ahead of him at 10.15. A large crowd had collected at the Converse House to watch for the riders, and although they were not expected until about 10.30 Nelson, who was to go on to Springfield with Van Wagner, had his wheel ready at the curbing and was waiting on the sidewalk. A wheel shot around the corner of Church street and some one cried "Here he comes!" Nelson mounted his wheel but hesitated about starting, not knowing whether the rider was his partner or not. As he came down the street Nelson called "Hallo, Billy," got an answer, "Come on, Chub," and both were out of sight like a flash. The whole thing was done in less time than it takes to read it. Indeed, so quick was it that those in the hotel office who sat next the windows got only a glimpse of the riders as they sped out of sight past the electric light at the corner of Thorndike street. The run to Springfield was made in 1 hour and 6 minutes.

Location of the Street Lights.

The committee appointed by the town to decide on the best system to be used and the location of the lights met last Friday and was taken over the ground in a 'bus, visiting each village. It was decided to use the arc lights altogether, and the locations decided upon are as follows:—

Three Rivers—At the Burleigh crossing on a 45-foot pole, Four Corners, Catholic church, Baptist church, New London Northern station, Maple and Springfield streets, High street and Palmer road, Athol Railroad station, in the hollow between East Main street and Dea. Sikes's place, Ferrell crossing, Bourn street, Anderson avenue and Springstreet—12 lights.

Bondsville—James Fuller's barn, Breen's corner, near ice house, Bond's corner, Knowlton hill, Holden's corner, Maurice Moriarty's, High street on the hill, near bleachery, Boston and Maine Railroad station—10 lights.

Thorndike—Michael Sullivan's, Boliver Green's, near the Barbour place, Congregational church, mill storehouse, near canal bridge at No. 2 mill, at the junction of the roads near the railroad crossing, High and Commercial street, Main and Commercial street near bridge, W. Keith's barn, corner School and High streets—11 lights.

One on the common at Palmer Center; one at the junction of the Thorndike and Ware roads, near the Catholic cemetery; one near the house of Charles Foster on the road to Thorndike; one near the old slaughter house on the road to Thorndike.

This makes 36 lights in all, and it is hoped to have them running by the first of July.

A Peculiar Will.

The joint will of Joshua D. and Catherine Sawyer of Palmer was filed for probate last Friday, and is an unusual document, only four having been filed in this county during the last 20 years. The filing of the instrument now is made necessary by the death of one of the testators, Joshua D. Sawyer. As the other testator is still alive the will must be filed again at her death. Catherine Sawyer, the other testator, petitions to be appointed executrix. The will is dated Dec. 25, 1890, and says that "after payment of our just debts and funeral expenses we give to Melissa Richards, wife of James Richards, at our decease, all our estate, both real and personal," on condition that the legatee furnish them with a suitable home, food and clothing during their lifetime. In case this condition is not complied with the will becomes void. The property consists of the family dwelling in Palmer, which the testators are to have possession of until death. The legatee is further cautioned to have a suitable headstone erected above her parents' grave, and to bury them near their brother, Amos B. Gallup. The personal property and life policy are included in the estate.

Colt Stake Entries.

The colt-stake entries for the races at the fair of the Eastern Hampden Agricultural Society, which proved such a drawing card last year, are closed for this year, and the result is a couple of dozen entries in the three classes, as follows:

One-year-olds—F. E. Stevens of Mendon; Thomas Blanchard of Palmer; Skilton Bros. of Bedford; G. C. Flynt of Monson; G. W. Rice of Springfield; Frank Rich of Springfield; Wigwam Hill Stock Farm of Wilbraham; F. S. Chickering of Worcester; Overlook Farm of Palmer.

Two-years-olds—Dr. John Wilbur of Canton, N. Y.; J. O. Goodman of North Dana; H. W. Goodman of North Dana; Thomas Blanchard of Palmer; Skilton Bros. of Bedford; G. C. Flynt of Monson; W. A. Baggs of Springfield; Frank Rich of Springfield; Wigwam Hill Stock Farm of Wilbraham.

Three-years-olds—F. E. Stevens of Mendon; H. W. Goodman of North Dana; D. F. Holden of Palmer; G. C. Flynt of Monson; G. W. Rice of Springfield; Overlook Farm of Palmer.

---

Mrs. D. H. Brown is visiting friends in Ansonia, Ct.

Mrs. E. H. Worrell of Brooklyn is visiting her aunt, Mrs. S. T. Frost.

Miss A. Linden Frost has returned home from visiting in Brooklyn.

The buzz of the lawn-mower has begun to be heard on the grass plots.

Mrs. Cheney of Springfield is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Provost.

J. A. Palmer has bought the wood on the Henry Trumble farm in Monson.

A new time table will go into effect on the Boston and Albany road the 14th.

Miss Amy Warner of Boston was the guest of Miss Hattie Blanchard over Sunday.

John Dawson has resigned his position as night watchman at the passenger station.

Miss Belle Breckenridge of Fitchburg is visiting Judge and Mrs. George Robinson.

The carpet mill is running only five days a week now, the change going into effect last Friday.

P. C. Goldie has closed his tailoring establishment in the Cross block and will go to Indiana.

The topic of the pastor's sermon at the Universalist church Sunday morning will be "Wisdom."

J. H. Kenerson has taken a position as engineer for the Springfield Provision Co. at Brightwood.

Fred Lacouline and H. W. Smith are riding new Union safeties, and John Lyman a Lovell Diamond.

W. E. Breckenridge was home from Yale Tuesday to attend the wedding of his cousin, Miss Mary Hastings.

The Daughters of Rebekah will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening and will initiate one new member.

Henry Loomis of New Haven was the guest of his mother, Mrs. Albert Loomis, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. W. H. Whiting of Greenfield was in town the first part of the week, the guest of her mother, Mrs. C. E. Dewey.

The Bloomingdale property east of the village, near "Parksville," was sold at auction Monday to W. W. Leach for $250.

The Wales and Brimfield stage commenced Monday to run on the summer time schedule, leaving Palmer at 5.30 p. m. instead of 4.30.

Mrs. Wallace Stanchfield and son Guy are stopping in town for a time, and have rooms in the house of Charles Keith on Park street.

H. W. McGregory of Springfield, the new treasurer of the Palmer Savings Bank, commenced his duties at that institution Monday.

The senior class of the high school has chosen Ned Gardner president, Miss Maud Parker secretary, and Harry Newell treasurer.

The Ladies' Social Union of St. Paul's Universalist church held an enjoyable social in the parlors of the church Wednesday evening.

James Lyons will leave the employ of Oliver LaSalle to-morrow and return to his old position as foreman of a barber shop in Springfield.

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the parlors of the Congregational church next Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

The school committee advertises in another column for bids for supplying the coal for the several school buildings of the town for the ensuing year.

Monday was the first day of May, and the small boy and girl made the most of the occasion by hanging May-baskets to young friends in the evening.

Rev. H. F. Moulton has been invited to deliver the oration at the reunion of his class during commencement week at Westbrook Seminary, Deering, Me.

Rev. D. A. Dearborn, who for some time resided on State avenue across the river in Monson, died at his home in Springfield last Friday, at the age of 70.

There was a landslide on the tracks of the Ware River road at Gibbs's crossing yesterday forenoon, delaying the train due here at 10.50 about half an hour.

William Merriam is improving the appearance of his Pleasant street residence and the street in that locality by the removal of the fence next the sidewalk.

Mrs. L. G. Parkhurst is the delegate from the local lodge of the Daughters of Rebekah to the annual state convention of the order at Worcester next Friday.

As no desirable bids could be obtained for G. W. Lyman's house on Pleasant street, which was offered at auction last Saturday, it still remains his property.

J. Pinkoffsky, who moved his Palmer Tailoring establishment from Munger's block to the Lawrence block, will open a branch of a New York house.

Communion at the churches next Sunday. At the Congregational church six persons will be received into membership by letter and one on confession of faith.

The stockholders of the Ware River Railroad met at the New Weeks House Wednesday noon and made choice of the old board of officers for the ensuing year.

The mother and brother of Carlyle W. Harris, on their way to New York over the New London Northern road, took supper at the depot restaurant last evening.

St. Paul's Universalist church is being wired for electric lights. The new parsonage is also being wired, and Rev. Mr. Moulton expects to move to his new home next week.

A tthe Baptist church next Sabbath morning the pastor will preach on "Being at Ease in Zion." In the evening at 7 o'clock he will preach on "The Impotent Man at Bethesda."

Judge George Robinson will go to Minneapolis June 7th as delegate to the annual session of the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum, having been appointed delegate for two years.

The Roswell Hastings farm in the north part of the town, lately owned by James F. Foley, has been sold to Thomas McDougall, the sale being made by the D. F. Holden real estate agency of this place.

W. B. Bennett has petitioned for the appointment of a jury to determine the amount of damage he shall receive for the taking of his land at Blanchardville for the new road under the railroad tracks.

The money received from the sale of the Iron Hall's furniture has been divided among the members according to the length of time they had been in the order, the older members receiving about $3.75 as their share.

Several of the switches in the Boston and Albany yard near the station, which have never been connected with the signal tower, have been changed this week so that they are now operated from the tower the same as the rest.

Adelbert Needham of Stafford Springs, well known in Palmer, was run away with at that place Sunday afernoon and thrown from his carriage against an electric light pole, breaking both bones of one leg above the ankle.

William Morton Fullerton, son of Rev. Dr. Fullerton, formerly pastor of the Congregational church here, is to have entire charge of the London Times' Paris bureau during the absence of the chief at the World's Fair in this country.

---

The Flynt Building and Construction Company held its annual meeting last Saturday, and elected these officers: President, W. N. Flynt; clerk and treasurer, Rufus Flynt; Directors, W. N. Flynt, Rufus Flynt, L. C. Flynt; general manager, A. T. Wing.

The north track of the Boston and Albany road between Palmer and North Wilbraham was closed Sunday and all trains run over the south track, as the new heavy steel rails which have been adopted for use on the road were being put in near North Wilbraham.

The Silver Stars, a missionary Society composed of the younger members of the Baptist Sunday school, held a fair in the vestry of the church Wednesday evening. There was a musical and literary entertainment, and ice cream, candy and fancy articles were for sale.

There is some talk of moving the telegraph office from the passenger station to a place on Main street, and it is quite likely that it will be done at no distant day. The business men who have occasion to use the wires frequently would rejoice greatly if such a change were made.

Palmer Center is probably literally the "measliest" section of the town at present. Yesterday the school at that place had only one scholar, the rest being sick with the measles, and to-day that scholar has them and the school is closed. There are five cases in one family.

It is evident that O. F. Benedict of Glendale not only knows how to raise fruit but also how to keep it, as shown by a quantity of russet apples left at this office this week. The fruit was of large size, and as sound as when picked from the tree last fall, being exceedingly toothsome withal.

J. W. Weeks, Jr., vacated the New Weeks House yesterday, moving his family to Springfield, where he will have charge of a family hotel on State street. The house here will be conducted by Amos Stetson of Eastampton, who took charge to-day, having leased the place for four years.

The struggle for the second appointment as deputy sheriff in this town, which stirred up so much feeling and brought so many applicants into the field, has been settled by the appointment of Herbert A. Northrop, who received his papers this week. He has qualified to-day as sheriff of both Hampden and Hampshire counties.

Henry Holbrook, who is at school at Tufts, is in the Massachusetts General Hospital at Boston suffering from a compound fracture of the ankle, received Wednesday afternoon while going from recitations to his room. With a party of others he was engaged in scuffling, and turned his ankle and fell, another boy falling on him.

D. F. Holden is pleased with an addition to his horseflesh in the shape of a brown filly born Wednesday. The animal is by "George V.," full brother to "Frou Frou," the world's champion yearling trotter, with a record of 2.25¼. The dam of the filly is mother of Mr. Holden's "Alcove," with a two-years-old record of 2.52½.

A placard has been posted in the post office this week giving instructions for the mailing of matter to visitors at the World's Fair. There is to be a station on the grounds, to which mail can be sent for the convenience of those who are visiting the place, but it should be marked "World's Fair Station," in addition to the city and state.

Thomas lodge of Masons has received an invitation to visit Brigham lodge of Ludlow next Tuesday, and on Wednesday at 1 o'clock p. m. there will be a meeting for Masons and their lady friends in the lodge room here, to be addressed by C. L. Young of Springfield in the interests of forming a chapter of the Eastern Star in Palmer.

Thomas Blanchard has entered his horse "Adele" in the 2.25 class of the September meet at Boston, "Amber" in the 2.40 class, and "Caddie Stout" in the open-for-all for two-years-olds. D. F. Holden has entered "Lenox B." in the 2.40 stallion race at the same meet. Mr. Blanchard has also entered his horses for the fall races in Hudson and Chatham, N. Y., and in Pittsfield, Mass.

The ladies of the Congregational church are to be congratulated on the success of their May breakfast and dinner Tuesday, for in spite of the storm of the night before, which kept many away from the breakfast, they took in $272, of which at least $250 will be profit. This is the largest sum they have ever made since the inauguration of the May breakfasts.

The Central street sewer was flushed out Monday evening, a stream from the water works being turned into it. At the corner of Pleasant and Central streets the full force of the hydrant was turned on and the man at the end of the hose could not hold it, the hose getting away and performing some lively capers before the water was turned off, one or two persons receiving a good wetting in consequence.

The will of Henry Atkins, late of Palmer, has been filed for probate. The instrument is dated March 25, 1892, and leaves all the household effects to his wife, Almira A. Atkins. The rest of the estate, real and personal, is bequeathed to his son, George M. Atkins of Palmer, in trust, to be invested for the benefit of the testator's wife. The income is to be paid to her as often as once in six months, and at her death goes to their children, George M. and Charles H. Atkins, and Lizzie L. Woods.

The Massachusetts Sabbath School Association will hold a district convention in Palmer next Friday. Delegates from evangelical schools in surrounding towns will be present, and speakers from different parts of the state. The meetings will be held in the Baptist church at 10.30 a. m., 1.45 and 7.30 p. m. Dinner and supper will be served free to visitors in the Congregational church. The public is cordially invited, as an interesting meeting is expected.

At a session of the probate court in Springfield Saturday Sarah F. Kenney was appointed guardian of Hattie E. and Laura E. Kenney and Mary L. Hitchcock of Brimfield, minors. Harriet A. Streeter was appointed guardian of Richard S., Merrick L., Florina T. and Harold Streeter of Brimfield, minors. Affidavit of notice of appointment was filed in the estate of Abner C. Burleigh, late of Hampden, and license to sell real estate was granted in the estate of Hattie E. Kenney and others of Brimfield.

W. H. Brainerd has resigned his office of special commissioner for Hampden county and been elected to fill the vacancy on the board of county commissioners caused by the death of Mr. Root of Westfield. It has been reported that he would resign his office as deputy sheriff, but such is not his intention. A peculiar phase of his holding both offices is that Sheriff Clark at Springfield is under the supervision of Mr. Brainerd as county commissioner, while Mr. Brainerd as deputy sheriff is under orders for Sheriff Clark.

S. W. Lawrence offers to give ten acres of land on the Knox Farm on the road to Thorndike to any company which will establish a manufacturing business or any industry there. He also proposes to open a street from Thorndike street, just beyond the old slaughter house, west, and it is expected that the owners of property between that and this village will open a road from that to Squier street, which would give a pleasant drive through the woods in summer.

The senior class of the high school will give a social and entertainment in the high school building next Friday evening, to which all friends of the school are invited. The following programme is to be presented:

| | |
|---|---|
| Piano solo | Miss Bray. |
| Reading | Miss Ryther. |
| Charades | |
| Reading | |
| Piano Solo | Miss Parker. |
| Piano Solo | Miss Forte. |
| Declamation | H. C. Newell. |
| Duet | Miss Fish and C. R. LeGro. |

No admission will be charged, but ice cream and cake will be for sale.

---

Commencing with Monday the Boston and Albany road began the running of a special milk train between Palmer and Boston, instead of having the car attached to freight trains. The train leaves Boston for Palmer at 1.20 p. m., reaching this station at 5.41, and leaves Palmer at 8.15, reaching Boston at 1 a. m. To connect with this train the milk car which has formerly come down over the Ware River road on Francis's train at 10.50 a. m., now arrives on Sedgwick's train at 5.19 p. m.

There was a pleasant home wedding Tuesday evening at the residence of Dea. George Hastings on Pleasant street, when his eldest daughter, Mary E., was united in marriage to William H. Mason. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. E. Jenkins in the presence of about 50 relatives and immediate friends. The house was prettily trimmed with flowers and potted plants, and there were many presents of both use and ornament. Mr. and Mrs. Mason will reside in Springfield.

At the annual meeting of the fire department Monday evening it was voted to disband the old company, as some of the members could not be induced to come out to the meetings or respond to the duty call, and a new company was organized with these officers: Foreman, M. J. Dawson; first assistant, M. J. Barrett; second assistant, A. S. Campbell; clerk and treasurer, A. E. Fitch. The new company has 14 men, with six vacancies, and will meet to-morrow evening for practice.

THE JOURNAL has been the recipient of many words and letters of congratulation and admiration for its issue of April 21st, which contained three half-tone portraits of persons known to a large majority of Palmer people, as well as many former residents who are now located in other places, and requests for copies have been numerous. The supply ran short on the evening of publication, although an extra number had been printed, but copies have been returned by out-of-town dealers, and can be had at this office.

There was a heavy rain storm Wednesday night, accompanied by high winds. A large amount of water fell, and the roads of the town are badly washed in places. The river is higher than it has been at any time during the winter, and at the plant of the Palmer and Monson Electric Co. at Blanchardville all work on the dam is suspended, the water pouring in torrents over the cofferdam. It has thus far withstood the flood, but fears are entertained that the water may work a hole down through it, in which case the whole thing would go.

The district court has sent five grand jury cases and one appealed case to the May term of the superior court. There were two appealed cases, but in one the appeal was withdrawn and the fine paid. The grand jury cases are: Devine and Thompson for larceny from a building at the state primary school, Phillips, the Three Rivers wife-beater, two Monson Italians for a murderous assault, and that of J. Pinkoffsky for disposing of clothing by lottery. The appealed case is that of Leopold Desmaris of Three Rivers, for dispensing of drugs without being a registered pharmacist.

A district exemplification of the work of the Woman's Relief Corps is to be held with the corps in this place next Wednesday, at which representatives from the corps in Spencer, Brookfield, West Brookfield, North Brookfield, Warren, Monson, Ware and Barre are to be present, also the department president, Mrs. Emily L. Clark of Northampton, and the department inspector, Mrs. Emily L. Waterman of Boston. A collation will be served by the Palmer corps at noon, and the exemplification will begin at 1 p. m. The department president will be present at the meeting this evening, when two new members are to be initiated.

Residents of Palmer, Monson and Wilbraham have petitioned the county commissioners to give a hearing in the matter of making specific changes in the highway running from Shearer's Corner, west of the village, to Overlook Farm on the road to Springfield. They represent that the road is at many times impassable, and that the necessity and convenience of the traveling public demand that it be altered. The plan which is understood to be favored is the raising of the grade of the road just north of the bridge over the river, filling in the low place now existing and putting in drybridges for the accommodation of the surplus water in the spring. A hearing is appointed for the 31st of May.

The case of the three Vergenny children, who had been neglected, was heard in the district court last Friday, and the children committed to the care of the state agent. Sidney Kelson appeared for dispensation of justice Saturday, his term of probation having expired, and as he had been "full" several times during the previous week he was sentenced to a year on the state farm at Bridgewater. The officer who arrested him was sick and could not take him there that day, so His Honor continued the case until Monday, and has been compelled to keep it continued, as "Sid" has failed to make his appearance since. He had a taste of Bridgewater once, and had a known aversion to trying it again. Monday John D. Murphy was probated without date for drunkenness, and Tuesday William H. Knowlton of Bondsville was allowed to depart on similar terms.

The selectmen met Monday afternoon and granted the licenses as outlined in the JOURNAL last week, the lucky ones being Caryl Bros., and E. R. Pierce and M. D. Sullivan & Co. in the two hotels in this village, Hartnett at Three Rivers and Lawton at Thorndike. The application of Jerry Shea at Bondsville was withdrawn, he being given to understand that it was useless in view of recent disclosures in connection with his place. The question of who should have the other license, also whether the druggists should have licenses, was put over to an adjourned meeting yesterday, when the sixth license was granted to M. Roche of Thorndike, A petition which had been in circulation among the business men the last few days, representing that it would be for the convenience of the public if the druggists were granted licenses, was presented, and the selectmen granted licenses to LeGro & Lynde and O. P. Allen of this village, and A. P. Adams of Thorndike, the question of granting one at Three Rivers being left unsettled.

Wm. R. Sessions has been appointed a member for Hampden county of the Advisory Council on Farm Culture and Cereal Industry of the World's Columbian Exposition. He is authorized to furnish farmers of this county visiting the exposition with letters of introduction to the chairman of the committee. The chairman and his assistants will introduce those presenting such letters of introduction to other farmers, thus promoting the mutual acquaintance of the farmers of all classes, from all over the country. A room in the live stock pavilion just south of the Agricultural building has been set apart for auxiliary headquarters. A series of practical daily talks arranged by the Agricultural department of the exposition will be given in the Assembly Hall connected with the Agricultural building, beginning about June 1st and ending October 1st. The letters of introduction will not entitle holders to free admission to the exposition, but are for use at the auxiliary headquarters, where desired information will be given upon application to the chairman. Hampden county farmers wishing a letter of introduction should write Wm. R. Sessions, Agricultural department, Commonwealth building, Boston.

Reminiscences of a Former Pastor.

Editor of the Journal:—Your last number, April 21, was especially interesting to your distant correspondent, as containing a notice of the death of my early friend and parishioner, A. V. Blanchard, and an account of the installation of a new pastor of the Second Congregational church, formerly a part of my own flock as folded at the old Palmer Center meeting-house. Well do I remember Mr. Blanchard, then in his manly prime, always genial and gentlemanly; also his brothers, William and John; and their venerable father, the Major, and their mother, Silence. With Emily and Franklin I had but very slight acquaintance. On one of my last visits in Palmer, Alonzo called to see me and Mrs. C. at the house of the late Col. Isaac King, and seemed even more cordial and friendly than in the days of old.

The two events referred to awaken memories of many old associates and friends, mostly passed away: The ordination of Brother Wilson, as recounted in the JOURNAL, when I was pastor of the First church, to whom I gave the right hand of fellowship, and for whom the consecrating prayer was made by the venerable Dr. Ely of Monson, as it was six years earlier for me at my ordination; the sermon by Rev. (now Dr.) Lyman Whiting, then of South Brookfield, now of East Charlemont, the only surviving minister besides myself of the council and others.

Of the later pastors of the church, except Dr. Vaill, I have known but little. They were all good and true men, as I believe, and all good looking, as the present pastor is, judging from the fine picture of him in the JOURNAL. And if he preaches and lives according to the paper read by him to the council, he will prove himself to be as good as he looks. So may it be. M. K. C.

Waterloo, Iowa.

State Primary School Notes.

The quarterly meeting of the board of trustees was held at the school to-day.

Dr. Howard, superintendent of the Tewksbury almshouse, visited the school Tuesday.

Mr. Maxwell will occupy his house on State avenue, Mr. Parkhurst having decided to move to Palmer.

Superintendent Wheeler's father and mother spent Sunday at the school and returned Monday to their home in Rutland.

Seventeen people—three women and fourteen children—were admitted to the school last Saturday, having been transferred from the Tewksbury almshouse.

Mr. Walker and a full force pushing the work on the farm and the tennis courts in use almost daily are good signs that spring is fast leaving us and that summer will soon be here.

Miss Root, formerly housekeeper at the school, now occupying the same position at the asylum for deaf mutes at Northampton, visited with friends at the school Saturday and Sunday.

"A good name" was the subject of Rev. Mr. Jenkins's talk to the boys in the chapel last Sunday morning. He was both interesting and instructive, and the officers and boys are hoping to hear him again soon.

Teacher, to boy in school—"W-th-m, have you got a good geography lesson to-day?" W-th-m, brightly—"Yes'm, I know every one of the questions." "Do you? Well, that's good." "Yes'm; but I don't know any of the answers, though."

Mr. Wetmore has been in Springfield several days this week attending court. He is a witness in the case of the commonwealth against Thompson and Devine, the two young men who broke into one of the buildings one night during the winter.

Mrs. H. E. Darte, who has been a faithful and efficient officer in the school for more than thirty years, has resigned, and went to her home in Enfield yesterday. Conscientious and painstaking, a lady of rare ability, she will be greatly missed by her circle of friends.

THORNDIKE.

G. A. Murdock of Baltimore, Md., is visiting his family for a few days.

It is understood that E. N. Hale's hall will soon be dedicated with a social.

P. G. Murphy contemplates a visit to the World's Fair in about two weeks.

A number from this place went to Bondsville on Wednesday evening to the fire.

A base ball league has been formed between the grammar schools of the town.

James Foley has sold his farm to Three Rivers parties, and will move to the village.

Miss Nellie Murphy returned on Tuesday from Holyoke, where she had been visiting her sister.

A ball game was played here on Saturday between two picked nines on the Church street grounds.

John Bedford has moved his family here and has taken charge of the No. 2 mill weaving department.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kelley have returned from a few days' visit with friends in New York the past week.

The committee on electric lights made its rounds one day last week and located the lights for this village.

A. P. Adams has a portrait in his store window which is of his handiwork, and is considered very good.

Gilbert, of last year's Thorndike base ball club, is playing 3d base on the newly-organized Springfield team.

There is some talk of organizing a base ball team between players from the four villages of the town, and have them play all games at Palmer on the driving park.

The Young Men's Union of this place came out a little behind on their dance at Palmer last week Thursday evening, but those who were present enjoyed the affair very much.

M. J. Sullivan of Chicopee will give a musicale in the parlors of the Mansion House at Ware a week from next Monday. Miss Mabel Van Housen of this place will sing.

The new instruments have arrived for the band, and are considered first-class in every respect. They were made by Missenhartor of New York. A new band stand is soon to be erected in the open lot on School street by Agent Hobbs.

The anticipations of the friends of the Ladies' Society of the Congregational church were more than realized on Tuesday evening. The May Supper was a success, and a pleasant social time was enjoyed by every one.

Thorndike is fast becoming as famous out of town as in. A number of new streets there are a large number from this place livhave been opened in North Adams, and as ing on one of them it was christened Thorndike street one day last week with pomp and ceremony.

There will be an opportunity for the people of this village to hear some fine music on Wednesday evening next, as there is to be a concert and ball at Union Hall with music by Brigham's well-known orchestra of Marlboro. This will be the first time this orchestra has appeared here, and a large crowd is sure to attend. The concert will begin at 8 and last until 9, after which dancing will take place.

BONDSVILLE.

Jerry Shea has withdrawn his petition for a license.

Thomas LaCroix is building a new house on Depot street.

The Book Club had an entertainment Monday night at Mr. Getchell's.

Miss Ida Pasco has gone to visit friends in Blanchville, Ct., for two months.

Timothy Shea and wife went to Holyoke Thursday to his sister's wedding.

Mrs. George Chaffee has been quite sick with the measles, also her two children.

Miss Cora Carver of Northampton made a short call on Mrs. H. D. Shaw this week.

Michael Collins arrested one drunk Monday night and took him to the Palmer lockup.

Miss Nellie Shea of Westfield is stopping a few days with her sister, Mrs. Patrick Brown.

Louis Gaboury of New Bedford has moved into the tenement which George Smith vacated on Main street.

Mrs. George Allen, who has been living the last few years in California, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Will Taylor.

Miss Bridget Shea died Saturday morning with the measles. She was the youngest of four sisters, and had been over from Ireland four or five years. She leaves a widowed mother in Ireland, and many friends to mourn her loss.

Three tramps went to C. E. Getchell's Tuesday night and asked for something to eat and a place to sleep, just as Mr. Getchell was going to ride. They did not get either. He sent his man after an officer, but while he was gone they went across the river to Mr. Ferriter's and got something to eat, then took the track for Athol.

A $10,000 Fire.

This place was visited Wednesday night about half-past seven o'clock by the most disastrous fire it has had since 1885, when the Boston Duck Co's. dye house and clothroom was burned. Two blocks were destroyed, one owned by J. B. Carmody and occupied as a dry goods and grocery store, with a tenement over it, occupied by J. B. Carmody, Jr., and the other owned by Michael J. Sullivan. The first floor of this was occupied by Katz Brothers as a meat market and grocery. On the second floor was Miss Bedau, milliner and dressmaker, and one tenement occupied by Mr. Sullivan's own family; on the third floor was the public hall. The cause of the fire, which was first seen in the back room of Katz Brothers' store, is unknown. Carmody saved the most of his goods. Katz Brothers were insured for $800, but had $60 in money burned up. Sullivan had $3000 insurance on the block and $300 on a new piano in the hall. Nothing is known about Miss Bedau's loss, as she is in Canada visiting. A line of hose was laid from the hydrant of the Boston Duck Company in front of the house of Agent Getchell, but the distance was so great that only a small stream could be got. However, it did good service in saving other property.

The Methodist society had a reception in the church vestry Wednesday night for their new pastor. Coffee and cake were served, and there was a brilliant illumination not down on the programme.

THREE RIVERS.

Herbert Willis has purchased a new Victor bicycle.

M

The Standard.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 5, 1893.

WARE AND WAREABOUTS.

C. W. EDDY, LOCAL EDITOR.—OFFICE AT TURNER'S BOOK STORE.

John Malboeuf is to give up the tailoring business.

The work of grading the trotting park is expected to begin in a few days.

Two more candidates in the field for postmaster—James Higgins and Fred. A. Volk.

The first strawberries sold here this season were at the People's Grocery Store on Monday.

Next week Saturday is to be circus day, with a show on the grounds near the convent.

The fire department paid the firemen their salary for the past ten months on Monday evening.

Tickets for the Ware Minstrels go on sale at Mulvany's to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

John Montgomery is to build a house on Clifford avenue, and Hathaway Bros. have the contract.

The Ware Gas Company is extending its street main up Church street as far as Highland street.

The Ware high school base ball team defeated the Warren high school team Saturday 61 to 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Eddy celebrated their thirty-sixth wedding anniversary on Wednesday last.

Mrs. Susan B. Jenks, 77, died last Saturday at the residence of Mrs. S. B. Winslow on Park avenue.

Next Monday evening at 7 o'clock the annual meeting of the fire district will be held in Fireman's Hall.

Mrs. Needham, a teacher of some years experience, has charge of the new primary school on West street.

Dr. D. M. Ryan has declined to be the inspector of cattle and milk, to which office he was recently appointed.

Arrangement have been made to have Byron H. Fogwell attend to Mrs. Walter M. Winter's undertaking business.

Hair dressing rooms have been opened in Grey's block by Alfred Henrichon, who recently came here from Canada.

Mrs. E. B. Spaulding, formerly of the Domestic Bakery, has sold the bakery she recently purchased in West Springfield.

The road commissioners have bought a pair of horses of William W. Barnes, and will introduce some new features in road repairs.

The house of John T. Cummings on Highland street is to be sold at auction on Saturday, the 13th. Mr. Cummings is to leave town.

Dr. D. W. Ainsworth has secured the right to use the Hale system in filling teeth, which is said to make that disagreeable operation perfectly painless.

The ladies of the Foreign Missionery Society gave a literary and musical entertainment of a highly pleasing character at their vestry Wednesday evening.

The employes in the Geo. H. Gilbert Mfg. Co's. finishing department presented Charles Pickles, the retiring overseer, with a fine marble clock last Saturday.

Summer will be upon us soon, and for comfort of home the man of the house should supply his housekeeper with the new process gasoline stove sold by Donnelly.

Mrs. Cynthia Loomis is lying very low, if still alive. She takes but little nourishment and is unable to speak. She is 89 years old and has not been out for quite a number of years.

William Medcalf and Louis S. Charboneau have been appointed inspectors by the board of health, and expect to make a most thorough examination of all premises in the village.

J. H. G. Gilbert bought the two Merriam houses on Chestnut street, which were sold at auction Saturday, for $3700. Mrs. Johanna Fitzgerald bought the R. D. Newton place on Morse avenue for $1600.

The members of the Ware Young Men's Union, with their lady friends, are to enjoy an apron and necktie party this evening at the rooms of the Union. The music is to be furnished by Thayer's Orchestra.

There was an accident at the Ware Lumber Company's works the first of the week. Somehow in putting on a belt it caught and the line of shafting, 16 feet in length, was torn from its place. Fortunately no one was hurt, and but little damage done.

There was a fine entertainment given at the Unitarian church Tuesday evening, with singing by P. J. Mulvany and Mrs. Charles Clark, violin solo by Miss Lorett, readings by Miss Lillian Pierce; Miss Mary Root was accompanist. About $40 was cleared.

The first prize of $150 for excellence in scholarship at the institute of technology at Worcester has been given to Arthur Lechair, who recently left the Ware high school to attend that institute. His friends in Ware rejoice with him over his good fortune.

Andrew J. Davis's resignation of the postmastership at this time was due to the large increase of the insurance and real estate business of the Davis Agency, of which he is now sole proprietor, so that it will pay him better to give that his entire attention.

Next Tuesday evening there will be a big attraction for lovers of minstrels. The managers of the Ware minstrels do nothing by halves, and will this time spare no pains to make their entertainment worthy of patronage. This, as well as the object in view,—to add to the building fund of All Saint's church,—will insure a full house.

The high school base ball club is making preparations for an entertainment and dance at the town hall, to be held on the 16th. The entertainment is to consist of speaking, singing, piano duets and solos, violin solos, to finish with a dance. The participants will all be local, and the receipts are to be used to purchase uniforms to be used by the club this season.

A very enjoyable evening was passed last Thursday by the members and friends of Ware lodge of Odd Fellows. The attendance was large and all were much pleased with the entertainment, which consisted of singing by mixed quartettes, vocal and whistling solos by Mrs. Sherwin, cornet solo by Miss Mabel Fletcher, banjo and vocal duets by Messrs. Reilley and Kennedy, recitation by Miss Southworth, an original poem on the Ware lodge by Rev. B. V. Stevenson. A collation and dance followed.

The Ancient Order of United Workman, an insurance and fraternal order, which was organized about two years ago, has had a good growth, having about doubled in membership. Arrangements are now being made to give a public entertainment to invited friends at the town hall in a short time, the programme to consist of speeches and musical selections, both vocal and instrumental, and it is expected that two or three of the grand officers will be present and in short talks give some account of the working and benefit of being members of the order.

Miss Annie Connell, aged 12, has been missing since Sunday, and from the finding of her hat and shawl on the river bank some distance below the village it is surmised that she has committed suicide by drowning, although a continued search has failed to reveal the body. It seems that on last Friday night she, as well as her sister, were arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and put in the lockup for the night. She felt very badly about it, the disgrace weighing heavily on her mind, so much so that she refused to see visitors from the time of her release until her disappearance.

Harry A. Magrath, contractor, died at his home on Church street on Monday morning of heart disease, after but a few days of serious illness, although he has been troubled with it somewhat for several years. He was 48 years of age, and leaves a widow and an adopted daughter. For some years he carried on business for himself and built some of the best residences on Church street, where he had a unique residence of his own. He also built the Episcopal church here and has had several large contracts out of town. The funeral was held at Trinity Episcopal church on Thursday afternoon, the Grand Army, of which he was a member, attending in a body. It is rumored that his life was insured for $2000.

The pupils of M. J. Sullivan, teacher of music in the public schools of Chicopee, will give a piano and song recital in the parlors of the Mansion House on Monday evening, May 15. Mr. Sullivan, who visits this locality weekly, will have his pupils of Ware and vicinity take part. No charge for admission, which will be by invitation only. The programme will be:—

Song. He was a Prince.....Lynes
Miss Effie Southwick.
Piano Solo. Hunting Song.....Jeffery
Miss Agnes Sullivan.
Song. The Idol of My Heart.....Stahl
Miss Grace E. Nickerson.
Piano Solo. Heavenly Musings.....Meyrs
Miss Mary A. Makepeace.
Song. Ave Maria.....Millard
Miss Jennie Barbeau.
Piano Solo. Fantasie on Irish Airs.....Kuhl
Miss Mary Sullivan.
Song. Best of All.....Moir
Miss Mabel Van Heusen.
Song. A Song from Heaven.....Cowan
Miss Effie Southwick.
Patti Waltz Song.....Pattison
Miss Jennie Barbeau.
Piano Solo. Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 2.....Liszt
Miss May Sullivan.
Song. A Dream of Peace.....Pinsuti
Miss Mabel Van Heusen.
Vocal Duet. When the Wind Blows in from the Sea.....Smart
Misses May and Agnes Sullivan.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Mrs. L. E. Hawley spent Wednesday in Connecticut.

Mrs. H. E. Gates is visiting relatives in New Britain, Ct.

The May dinner at Grace church to-day was well patronized.

Roy, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. F. Edwards, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is slowly convalescing.

Miss W. F. Thompson, manager of the Western Union telegraph office here, left on Thursday for Rye Beach, N. H., where she will remain till October. During her absence Miss Grace Harlow of Bangor, Maine, will take charge of the office.

WALES.

A town convention of the Massachusetts Sunday School Association was held in the Baptist church yesterday, with sessions afternoon and evening. The afternoon session commenced at 2.30 with a devotional service led by Rev. S. T. Frost of Palmer, which was followed by an address on "The Teacher's Opportunity," by Rev. F. E. Jenkins of Palmer. A conference, "How to Study the Sunday School Lesson," was participated in by John Martin and W. L. Heuser of Springfield, Rev. S. T. Frost of Palmer and Judge L. E. Hitchcock of Chicopee. Judge Hitchcock then outlined the state work, after which there were reports from the Sunday schools, and the question box was presided over by Judge Hitchcock, who also gave an address on "Power Behind Methods." In the evening there was a praise and prayer service, followed by an address on "What does the Sunday School Owe to the Community?" by Rev. W. P. Blackmer of Wales. There was practical blackboard work by G. W. Solley of Springfield, with an address by Rev. Oscar Bissell of Holland on "What does the Community Owe the Sunday School?"

BRIMFIELD.

C. L. Gould was in town over Sunday.

Miss Gertrude Gilman spent Sunday in Springfield.

A. W. Peirson is soon to open a grocery store in town.

The Buxton farm was sold yesterday to Porter Plympton.

Mrs. Will Janes is visiting at her old home in New Hampshire.

Lorin Andrews of North Wilbraham called on friends in town Sunday.

Miss Minnie Pierson has returned home from her long visit in New Haven.

Mrs. Mary Webber is occupying the upstairs tenement in J. L. Bacon's house.

Warren Barlow of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been visiting his grandfather, G. M. Stowell.

Mrs. Shaw, who has been visiting in Springfield, and Meriden, Ct., has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean have moved into the house recently occupied by Mrs. Needham Moulton.

Mrs. Harriet E. Streeter has been appointed guardian of Florence, Merrick, Richard and Harold Streeter.

Miss M. Anna Tarbell attended the University Extension lecture in Springfield last Friday evening.

Fred J. Brown has left town and is working in North Brookfield. He intends to learn the capenter's trade.

C. G. Harrison of Palmer has accepted a position with H. L. Converse. He enters upon his duties next Monday.

George Janes, who has completed his three-years' course in medicine at the Albany Medical College, returned home Monday.

WARREN.

The Odd Fellows gave a supper Tuesday evening.

Rev. Mr. King has rented the house of Mr. Batterworth.

Charles Moore of Newton spent last Sabbath in town.

The severe rain Thursday morning washed the roads badly.

John Morgan of Springfield is frescoing Mr. Fairbanks's new residence.

Dr. Wheeler has a good position in Springfield, and will soon remove there.

Mrs. E. H. Hitchcock has added a piazza to her house, and had it recently painted.

Mr. and Mrs. Hale of Salem have been the guests of Rev. Harris Hale the past week.

Mr. Price has a large contract at Brookfield, which will occupy him for some time.

Mr. Wilcox has removed from Southbridge street to the house formerly occupied by A. M. Rand.

James Hill will build a flat, with all the modern improvements, on his newly-purchased ground.

Mrs. Strickland and family and Mary S. Hitchcock left Wednesday for a few weeks' stay at Magnolia.

There was an exhibition of the Passion Play in the town hall Tuesday evening, with a good attendance.

The ladies of the Congregational church had a large number at their supper Tuesday evening. The sale of slips took place at that time, and the highest premium pas paid by Mr. Chadsey, $25. A number of others paid $10.

Arbor Day was well observed in town, and much interest was manifested by a few public-spirited people. About 40 trees were planted by them, and a number of individuals set trees in their own grounds, thus adding to the beauty of the village.

The funeral of Mrs. Gamaliel Collins was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Barnes, Tuesday morning. Rev. D. O. Clark officiated. The remains were taken to Thorndike for burial, where she had resided for so many years until the death of her husband. For a few years past her home has been in Springfield with a daughter. Mrs. Collins leaves two daughters and one son.

MONSON.

The Woman's Relief Corps meets next Wednesday evening.

W. N. Flynt lost $250 worth of World's Fair tickets on the street in Springfield last Friday, but was fortunate in having them fall into the hands of an honest Italian, who took them to the police station.

Robert E. Shaw will leave his place as clerk in the drug store of G. L. Keeney and will take a position with the Monson Savings Bank. Myron E. Wright will succeed him at Mr. Keeney's store.

James M. A. Squier, a life-resident of this town, died Saturday at the age of 83, after a short illness which began with pleurisy and ran into pneumonia. Mr. Squier taught school in his early manhood, but later turned his attention to farming, when he bought the Dr. Gardner place and married. His wife, who died April 29, 1892, was Hannah W. Smith, and they had four children, Cornelia, who died at the age of 23; Mary E., who married Roland Whipple and resided in Greenfield; James Van, who married a daughter of William King, Mrs. Adelaide Keep, and lives at Stafford Springs; and Adelaide, who married Mr. Farrington and whose home is at Freehold, N. J. Mr. Squier was a stanch Democrat, and held many town offices. He was selectman, assessor, and for many years one of the school committee. The funeral took place Tuesday morning.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

BOSTON, May 3, 1893.

One of the several bills which have been reported by the judiciary committee provides that before September 1 next the probate judges shall get together and prepare a new set of regulations for the conduct of business in the probate courts. Most of the work of the special committee of the Legislature of last year on the revision of the judicial system will not count for much because the present judiciary committee is disposed to put it over to the next Legislature. Complaint is heard, even to-day, of the unscrupulous way in which that committee was made up. Men were put on it who had no knowledge of law, but who appear to have been selected on account of their skill in political manipulation. The committee has been a scandal, and its work is not highly respected.

It seems that is need of looking into the matter of land purchases about the state house in order that the outlook may be improved. Of course it would be very fine to have a large open square about the state house. Then with the block east of it laid out in a green park and the entire row down to Somerst street taken by a magnificent city hall with beautiful approaches, and with the new Congregational building on the corner of Somerset and Beacon streets constructed in the glory of architecture which is expected, and the two houses which cut off the south-west outlook of the new court house pulled down, the wonders of the Hub would be greatly enhanced. It is a broad, beautiful and tremendously costly scheme. It is popular, too, to say that it is vulgar and mean to ask the question "will it pay?" in the presence of all this magnificence. I suppose the true answer is "we don't propose to pay, but to issue bonds and let our children pay" Thus we would get the glory of largemindedness and artistic appreciation, while the beggars, who had to pay the bills might equal our elevation of soul if they could.

The report of the rapid transit committee of the Legislature, which had been long expected, was made to the House on Wednesday afternoon by Mr. Dodge of Natick, in behalf of the committee. An elevated road is provided for to run from Charlestown (Sullivan Square) to Guild Row in Roxbury. The latter point is at about the junction of Washington and Dudley streets, and is pretty well out. Through the so-called congested district the road takes the "alley" route; that is, it follows the narrow side streets and alleys between Washington and Tremont streets from Court street nearly to Boylston street. This will keep the travel near the two great thoroughfares, but keeps the elevated structure off them, thus having much to commend it as a common-sense plan. As the street is to be only 30 feet wide where it is to be cut through private property, the damages will be small enough to make the total cost of the road something not frightfully large. Some pretty important buildings may suffer, probably the old court house, the city hall and Music Hall, but each of these has lost its strong hold on public sentiment.

This plan, as to its course through the congested district, was urged upon the committee by Charles Carleton Coffin, who prepared himself very carefully to show the cost and the feasibility of the scheme. It meets with less objection from the public, probably, than any other plan which might be suggested.

But the danger of its defeat lies in the fact that it consents with the proposed plan for an elevation of tracks of all the railroads on the north side of Boston in the union station which is recommended by the railroad commissioners. All the roads affected are decidedly opposed to that plan, and the outlook is very dubious about its passage.

With the rapid transit bill are two others of great importance. One is for a subway under Tremont street all the way from Pleasant street (south of the congested district) to Scollay Square or further north. This is to be built by a special commission, and after it is done they can compel surface cars to use it. Ultimately the subway is to be managed by the city. The other bill is for a franchise tax upon all street railway companies.

Thanks to Mr. Malone of Greenfield the bill whose special object seemed to be to persecute the Prohibitionists by requiring them to have a representation from at least half the towns and cities in their state convention was defeated by a large majority in the House. Of course the bill did not mention any party, but applied to all parties which cast less than 3 per cent of the total vote for governor at the previous election, and was felt to be aimed at the teetotallers, though it included the Populists also.

Both branches have gone on record for an expenditure of about $500,000 for the block of houses east of the state house, to be torn down so as to make the state house show off better. It was a hard fight and a close vote. The state tax will be $3,000,000 this year, so Mr. Moriarty of Worcester said in opposing the bill, and it was thought to be a great extravagance. Now how many houses west will have to be torn down to make the state house show off well on that side also?

The stock-at-market-value bill has passed both branches in spite of strong opposition.

LANDON.

Heart Disease Curable.

The truth of this statement may be doubted by many, but when Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent Indiana specialist, claims that heart disease is curable and proves it by thousands of testimonials of wonderful cures by his New Heart Cure, it attracts the attention of the millions suffering with short breath, palpitation, irregular pulse, wind in stomach, pain in side or shoulder, smothering spells, fainting, dropsy, etc. A. F. Davis, Silver Creek, Neb., by using four bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, was completely cured after twelve years' suffering from heart disease. This wonderful remedy is sold by LeGro & Lynde. Books free.

She Committed Suicide.

Mrs. F. C. Cone, at Paris, left this letter: "My husband—Forgive me if I cause you trouble, but I suffer so. You do not know what these long, wakeful, wretched nights are to me; and I am so tired, darling—the pain will never be better. It is not easy to take my own life, but I have been sick so long. Good-bye, my husband; I love you. Your Wife." This is but one of thousands that give up instead of using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and being speedily cured of their wretchedness. Go to LeGro & Lynde and get an elegant book and trial bottle free. (6)

Grave Mistakes.

Physicians frequently make mistakes in treatment of heart disease. The rate of sudden deaths is daily increasing. Hundreds become victims of the ignorance of physicians in the treatment of this disease. One in four persons has a diseased heart. Shortness of breath, palpitation and fluttering, irregular pulse, choking sensation, asthmatic breathing, pain or tenderness in side, shoulder or arm, weak or hungry spells, are symptoms of heart disease. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is the only reliable remedy. Thousands testify to its wonderful cures. Books free. Sold by LeGro & Lynde. (6)

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

Hall's Hair Renewer contains the natural food and color-matter for the hair, and medicinal herbs for the scalp, curing grayness, baldness, dandruff, and scalp sores.

The ambition of Broadhurst Bros., 576 Main St., Springfield, Mass., is simply wonderful. They aim to keep a stock as complete as would be demanded if there was not another store in the Connecticut valley.

"A wolf in sheep's clothing"—the substitute offered by the "cutter" as being just as good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If you don't want to be bitten, insist upon having Ayer's Sarsaparilla, even if it is a little dearer. Depend on it, it will be cheaper for you in the end.

The man who called sarsaparilla a fraud, had good reason; for he got hold of a worthless mixture at "reduced rates," He changed his opinion, however, when he began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It pays to be careful when buying medicines.

A Number of Interesting Engravings relating to the Art Department of the Columbian Exposition, appear in The Art Interchange for May. Among them is a portrait of the handsome director, Mr. Halsey C. Ives. The other illustrations include decorative designs relating to the applied arts—China painting, embroidery, and oil and water color painting. Among these "A Convention of Frogs," for jardiniere, some charming forget-me-not designs for sugar bowl, conventional designs for china service, sketches of furniture and houses, are most conspicuous for their originality and beauty. Among the paintings in color which accompany this issue are two which are likely to attract attention. "A Perilous Plight," showing a capital study of pug dogs, and "An Afternoon Call," a very pretty figure sketch. The text includes two extremely clever things, a very bright story by Polly King, and a London Letter. The issue is replete with articles and illustrations which appeal to amateur artists and to those who are interested in the beautifying of the home. The May issue with its three colored supplements can be had of all newsdealers, at 35 cents.

For Over Three Months

my son suffered night and day with rheumatism; so much so that he was unable to feed himself. Your Sulphur Bitters cured him, and I am truly thankful to say they are an honest medicine.—MRS. W. H. CARLTON, wife of Deacon Carlton, First Baptist church, Winchester, N. H.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

The Postmaster

Winchester, Mass., says: "I am personally acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Carlton, and was astonished at the remarkable effects of your Sulphur Bitters in curing their son, and its large sale is undoubtedly due to the fact it is an honest medicine. I know of many others who have been cured by its use, and I do not think too much can be said in praise." Yours truly,

GEO. P. BROWN, P. M.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See adv. 8-53

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

JUST RIGHT!

—WHAT IS—

JUST RIGHT?

RUSSET LEATHER SHOES

—AND—

SLIPPERS!

They are easily polished, do not show the dust and are comfortable to the feet. You can find a good line of them in our stock of

FFFFFFFFFF
FFFFFFFFFF
FF ULLER'S
FF LEXIBLE
FFFF INE
FF ITTING
FF OOTWEAR.
FFFF

Monson, - - Mass.

C. W. CROSS,

DENTIST.

DR. H. H. EAYRS as associate.
OFFICE HOURS,
8.30 a. m. to 12 m. 1.30 to 5.30 p. m
PAINLESS DENTISTRY.
LAWRENCE BLOCK. tf-5

Live Geese feathers, 75c lb.
Hens feathers, 20c lb.
A. C. A. ticking for feathers, 18c yard.
Straw ticking, 10c yard.
Fancy ticking for awnings, 18 and 20c yard.
Cotton batting, 12½ and 15c roll.
STONE.

TEETH FILLED WITHOUT PAIN.

Absolutely true. Don't suffer any longer when you have your teeth filled. Artificial plates that we warrant. Teeth extracted without pain. No gas, ether or chloroform. Absolutely no pain. Reception room 17. Lady assistant. Take elevator.

DR. W. L. ROBERTS,
Court Sq. Theater block, 4-2 Springfield, Mass.

FOR SALE.

GRASS SEEDS

OF ALL KINDS.

By the bag or bushel.

Palmer Grain Store.

F. F. MARCY, PALMER, MASS.
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER AND SHINGLES
Windows, doors, blinds, mouldings. Carpenters' and joiners' work done to order.
Also FIRE BRICK and CLAY for sale.
Yard and shop at junction of B. & A. and N. L. N Railroads—west of Depot.

Flour! Flour! Flour!

| | |
|---|---|
| Pillsbury's Best, | $5.50 |
| Washburn & Crosby's Superlative, | 5.50 |
| B. M. C. Best, | 5.50 |
| Best St. Louis | 4.50 |

Stone. Stone. Stone.

H. C. MOORE.

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHER,
GILL'S ART BUILDING,
SPRINGFIELD.

Largest and finest gallery in the city. Everything first-class. Instantaneous pictures of children a specialty.

Piano Stools! Variety of styles and colors. $2.00 to $4.00 each. New lot just received. STONE, Palmer.

HENRY'S SHOE STORE,

Opera House Block,

Main Street, - Palmer.

You will find the Best $2.00 and $3.00 Shoe in town.

Best Bicycle Shoe $2.50 and $2.75.

Ladies' and Gents' Russet Shoes.

Kangaroo, Dongola and Fine Calf Shoes.

Children's Shoes in Russet.

WALL PAPERS, Ceiling Decorations,

—AND—

PICTURE MOULDINGS

In Good Stye and Variety.

5,000 ROLLS OF WALL PAPER!

It is going fast but we want it to go faster and have just the styles and prices that will do it.

Can furnish a good paper hanger and house painter.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists,

Next to P. O. - - - PALMER, MASS.

DON'T EXPOSE YOURSELF

These deceitful spring days by going without an overcoat of some sort. Buy one of our spring overcoats as a safety guard against doctor's bills and perhaps death. Many a man has met an untimely end by being "Penny wise and pound foolish."

OUR SPRING OVERCOATS

are beautiful in design and material, fit well, stylish, and beyond all they are inexpensive.

| | |
|---|---|
| Spring Overcoats, | $ 6.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 7.50 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 10.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 12.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 13.50 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 15.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 18.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 20.00 |
| Spring Overcoats, | 25.00 |

You needn't pay any more for the best than the latter, nor you needn't expect to get anything that'll please you at any less than the former.

THE D. H. BRIGHAM CO.,

Makers and Retailers of Good Clothes for men and boys.

339–401 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., May, 1893.

The richest coats and capes in the store are out now at either $25 or $35 each. This means everything above $35, even to $60. Nothing is reserved.

The other day we sold every $10 jacket we had in the store; every one. We can't be without $10 jackets for a single day; so what does our cloak man do, but mark down $13, $14 and $15 garments to that figure. It was a bold move.

Traveling garments that wouldn't go last year at $20 and $25, have got to go this at $7.50, $10 and $12.50 long before the World's Fair is over.
Second floor.

Storm serges for mountain, sea or traveling, navy blue, 50 cents to $1.25. Golden brown or myrtle green, $1 and 1.25. Don't ask us to praise a storm serge, but send for samples.
Left aisle.

Somebody has been losing a third of their money on lace curtains; and that third is literally thrown away; for there isn't a curtain in the lot that isn't just what we'd buy to-morrow. They are:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 13 lots of Nottingham lace curtains. | | | |
| 75 pairs at | $0.50 | 25 pairs at | $3.00 |
| 100 | .65 | 40 | 3.50 |
| 65 | 1.00 | 25 | 4.50 |
| 50 | 1.25 | 20 | 5.00 |
| 38 | 1.50 | 12 | 7.20 |
| 60 | 2.00 | 65 | 4.00 |
| 40 | .50 | | |
| 10 lots of Irish point lace curtains. | | | |
| 10 pairs at | $2.95 | 20 pairs at | $10.00 |
| 60 | 3.50 | 15 | 12.50 |
| 75 | 5.00 | 10 | 15.00 |
| 30 | 7.50 | 8 | 17.50 |
| 20 | 8.50 | 6 | 12.00 |
| 8 lots of muslin curtains. | | | |
| 60 pairs at | $2.50 | 25 pairs at | $ 2.00 |
| 25 | 2.75 | 20 | 6.00 |
| 30 | 3.50 | 20 | 17.50 |
| 20 | 4.50 | 6 | 12.50 |

No chance to get such curtains by and by for the money.
Up the new staircase.

Chenille portieres, rich in color and feeling, thick, heavy and soft, $3.25, 4.25, 5, 7.50 and 10 a pair. These prices are at least 25 per cent under regular figures.
Up the new staircase.

Very gay changeable silk skirts at $5.
South store.

FORBES & WALLACE
Main and Vernon streets.

JUST ARRIVED!

A Carload of Seed Oats

Price 55 cents per bushel.

C. D. HOLBROOK,

PALMER.

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY
AND MACHINE SHOP.
At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads, West of Depot.
MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE
At short notice and reasonable prices.
52 35 R. B. FRANCIS.

LADIES' CAPES!

Spring styles direct for the factory this week.
$4.00 to $11.00.
Ladies please examine.
. . . . STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.
GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING
A SPECIALTY.
Rates reasonable.
4-2 F. H. ABBEY, Monson, Mass.

S. H. ELLERY, BRIMFIELD.
VETERINARY SURGEON AND DENTIST.
Late of Maryland Veterinary Hospital and Chicago Veterinary College. Treatment of all domesticated animals. Colts castrated. tf-1

HERSEY & SON,

GENERAL

House Furnishers.

385 MAIN STREET, - SPRINGFIELD, MASS.,
(Opposite Haynes Hotel.)

One of the largest and best equipped house furnishing establishments in Western Massachusetts.

Five Floors packed with Goods!

Including everything necessary for successful housekeeping, and all connected by our safety elevator.

OUR AIM IS

That our goods shall be reliable. Our prices low and our terms as easy and liberal as any house furnishing establishment in New England and we are confident that a personal inspection of our goods and a comparison of prices will justify our claim.

DON'T FAIL TO EXAMINE IT.

"SCHEPPS' PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD,"

A beautiful book containing over 250 views from all parts of the world.
One of these beautiful $5 books free to every purchaser of $50 worth or more of goods any time beetween this and Sept. 1st.

HERSEY & SON.
13-53

BEANS. Large Lima, 20c quart.
Black wax, 25c quart.
Horticultural pole, 25c quart.
Boston favorite or cranberry, 25c. quart.
Golden wax, (dwarf) 25c quart.
Six weeks, (dwarf) 20c quart.

Peas. Stratagem, 25c quart.
Bliss American Wonder, 25c. quart.
Champion of England, 15c quart.
Daniel O'Rourke, 15c quart.
Little Gem, 15c quart.
Black-Eyed Marrowfat, 10c quart.

Garden seeds in packages—Rice's and Lyman's.
Flower seeds—Mandeville & King's, and Rice's.
Sweet peas, 10c per ounce.
Grass seed, Clover, Timothy and Red Top.

STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

HAVE YOU VISITED THE

WHITE MOUNTAINS?

DO YOU KNOW THE RESTING-PLACES AMONG VERMONT'S GREEN HILLS?

ARE YOU ACQUAINTED WITH THE UNIQUE RESORTS IN THE VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS?

If you are looking for a place to spend your vacation in any mountain region, write us for any information you may desire, saying what sections you wish to know about and the price you desire to pay for board. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

Land Plaster

BY THE BAG OR TON.

Price 55 cents per bushel.

C. D. HOLBROOK,

PALMER.

JUNE IN THE ALLEGHANEY AND VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS.

Alleghany Springs,
Blue Ridge Springs,
Buffalo Lithia Springs,
Charlestesville,
Graham,
Hot, Warm, and Healing Springs,
Lray Caves,
Max Meadows,
Natural Bridge,
Rockbridge Alum Springs,
Rock Enon Springs,
Shawsville,
Staunton,
Variety Springs,
Stribling Springs,
Sweet Chalybeate Springs,
Yellow Sulphur Springs.
WEST VIRGINIA.
Aurora,
Berkeley Springs,
Red Sulphur Springs,
Salt Sulpher Springs,
Sweet Springs,
White Sulphur Springs.

Printed matter describing any of these resorts may be had free by mail, by special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, Clinton Hall, N. Y., by addressing the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

CARRIAGES.

ALL KINDS AND PRICES.

I carry one of the largest and finest stocks to be found. SPRINGFIELD IS THE CARRIAGE CENTER of Western Mass.
When you have looked all the carriage stocks over, before you buy, come to my Repository and save from $10 to $50 on any kind you want. You can find nearly everything in the wagon line with me at a great saving to you. Also, Harness, Robes, Blankets, and all kinds of Horse Goods. My expenses are small, do my own work, and save you the expense of help. I can and will sell. Come and satisfy yourself at 60 Dwight Street, Springfield, Mass.
13-51 D. N. BUTTERWORTH.

A FULL LINE OF

Jas. H. Prince Paint Co's

English Tinted Ready-Mixed Paints

IN ALL THE POPULAR SHADES.

White Lead, Zinc, Oil, Japan and Varnish.

—:o:—

FERTILIZERS.

We shall have in stock Monday a full line of Stockbridge Manures of all grades for potatoes and vegetables. We have the best in the market.

Barb Wire and Poultry Netting.

—FULL LINE OF—

PLOWS, CULTIVATORS, HARROWS, SHOVELS, FORKS, RAKES.

BEST LINE AT BOTTOM PRICES.

C. A. BROWN CO.

NEW SPRING DRESS GOODS!

New Pampas Cloths.
New Foulards.
New Puritan Shirtings.
New Ginghams.
New Prints.
New Cottons.
New Groceries.

∴ ∴ ∴ J. B. SHAW.

Something Good for Little Money!

SPRING STYLES IN SHOES!

—:—

Russia Calf Shoes FOR EVERYBODY. All the popular styles in stock.

The greatest variety of Low cut shoes and Oxfords ever shown in Springfield.

—:—

Ladies' French kid button boots, Laird, Schober & Mitchell's, also Cousins' make—some hand-sewed. Former price $6.00; to close, $4.00.
Ladies' and misses' cloth top spring heel button always in stock.
A nice russet Oxford for ladies at $1.25.
Gent's patent leather shoes a specialty.

HALL'S SHOE HOUSE,

294 MAIN STREET, NEXT TO POST OFFICE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Pike's Peak,

DENVER, COLORADO SPRINGS,
MANITOU, TWIN LAKES.
And other Resorts of Colorado.

Full printed information in regard to these places or any others, and suggestions as to the ways of reaching them, including the time-tables of the different railroad lines you could use, sent free. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address The JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

At Palmer Grain Store.

—:CARLOAD OF:—

Coarse-Fine Salt.

PRICE LOW.

DRAPERIES.

Fancy Pongee Curtains,
56 inches wide.
3½ yards long.
Fringe top and bottom.
Printed in cross bar figures
And in a variety of colors.
Ecru and white grounds.
Very stylish and inexpensive.
$2.50 per pair.
STONE, Dry Goods.

WE CLOSE TUESDAY AND THURSDAY EVENINGS AT 6.30.

150° Water White Oil 10c Gallon.

STONE, THE GROCER.
Palmer.

CARRIAGE WOOD WORK.

Having returned to Palmer, after an absence of thirty years, I wish to inform my old friends and the public generally that I am located at A. S. Campbell's Carriage Shop on South Main street, where I am prepared to do Carrriage Wood Work in all its branches.
13-50 G. W. CLARK.

COTTONS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Brown. | 42 inch. |
| Bleached. | 45 inch. |
| Half Bleached. | 46 inch. |
| 36 inch. | 9 quarter. |
| 40 inch. | 10 quarter. |

W. E. STONE,
DRY GOODS. CARPETS. NOTIONS.

SALESMEN!
We want more AGENTS
at home or to travel. Salary or commission. Cash advanced for expenses. Good territory for those who apply early. Write for terms.
R. G. CHASE & CO.,
8-52 23 Pemberton Sq., Boston, Mass.

NEW STORE! NEW GOODS!

PAPER HANGINGS.

Browns, White Blanks, Flats, Satins, Bronzes, Gilts, Borders, Friezes, etc.

PLAIN AND DECORATIVE PAPER HANGING, PAINTING, ETC.

All orders filled in a thorough and workmanlike manner. F. S. MASON, Commercial Block.

On the Ragged Edge

—The clothes that are washed without Pearline. If you get them clean by the necessary rubbing with soap, they will soon get ruined by the wear of it. Pearline saves the wear, by saving the work—there is little or no rubbing. It does no harm to anything that it washes, and it washes everything. Use Pearline, and use less labor. Labor is useless, if you use Pearline, for it is unnecessary.

Beware of imitations. 290 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

INTERESTING FACTS IN THE LIVES OF PEOPLE WE ALL KNOW.

Haskell Dodge, Edwin Thorn, J. F. Palmateer and Mrs. Edwin Myers.—A Thrilling Recital.

As a matter of course, every one who takes medicine watches closely for beneficial effects therefrom. But some people who have been sick for months seem to expect a permanent cure in a few days. This is unreasonable. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cannot accomplish unreasonable or impossible things. But for all diseases for which Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is advertised, it will positively cure; if in the power of medicine to cure, all we ask is to take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy according to directions, giving it a fair trial, and it will eradicate from the system old and deep-seated maladies which may have become chronic, and produce a permanent and positive cure.

Mr. Haskell Dodge, of Boston, formerly of Pittsfield, one of the largest contractors in the United States, who built most of the public buildings in Dalton, Mass., nearly all of Williams College at Williamston, Mass., and who recently finished the large addition to Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in talking to a reporter said: "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is an excellent medicine, it regulates my bowels delightfully and to my knowledge has made some wonderful cures; for instance here's a letter from one of the best known men in Greene Co., Mr. Edwin R. Thorn, of New Baltimore Station, in which he says: 'Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has been a great blessing to me, I was troubled with indigestion, constipation and bladder difficulty. I was in almost constant pain. The very first bottle of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy helped me, and to-day I am a perfectly healthy man and never know a sleepless night. In fact, I don't think this simple statement does the medicine justice, for I feel that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy saved my life, for I was weak, nervous and tired of living, and it made a well man of me again.'"

Mr. A. J. Palmateer, of Athens, N. Y., a prominent member of the I. O. O. F. of that place, was equally as enthusiastic in speaking of this great medicine. "I was a great sufferer for years with pains in the small of my back; my legs felt as if they were asleep, sharp, tickling, numb pain constantly present. My physician prescribed, as he said, for gravel, but his medicine did not help me, for I kept growing worse. It was at this critical time I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and the effect was marvellous. The pain ceased, I felt better every way, I could rest all through the night, a thing I had not been able to do for years. One day I voided a substance the size of a cherry pit, and from that on I improved rapidly. But let me tell you Favorite Remedy did not stop there with our family, my little grand-daughter had eczema the worst way; she was a mass of sores, my wife gave her Favorite Remedy and the sores disappeared entirely and her skin to-day is smooth and clear and she is as fat and rugged a child as you can find."

While on this subject let us say there is no greater living monument to the merit of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy than Mrs. Edward Myers of Athens. We all know that she was so poisoned with erysipelas that her life was despaired of and that by taking Favorite Remedy all poison was driven out of her blood and she is alive and well to-day.

"What I like about Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy," said one of our physicians to-day, "is that it goes to the root of the trouble, it dissolves the excess of uric acid in the blood, which is the cause of so many diseases, for instance: rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney and liver complaints, scrofula, urinary troubles, and the ills peculiar to women, all arise from this cause, and I prescribe Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for these and other similar troubles when I find them, and have never known it to fail. That's the reason the stores are selling so much of it."—Hudson, N. Y., Register. 2

WM. L. LADD.

Muscular Rheumatism OF LONG STANDING Cured!

A Dutiful Son Rejoices!

The Kind that Never Fails

Gentlemen:—I have had Rheumatism for a long time in my arms, back, and shoulders. It seemed to travel about, sometimes in one place, and sometimes in another. It often affected my stomach, and my whole system got out of order. I became reduced in flesh, and at times could not work. My aged parents were partly dependent on me for support, and my failing health was more than ordinarily a serious matter. Less than 4 bottles of Leon's Sarsaparilla has cured me, and I am now well and strong. I cannot express my gratitude for what your medicine has done for me.

WM. L. LADD.

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.

Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.

MILK

AND CREAM can be kept perfectly fresh and sweet five to seven days without using ice. Simple, cheap, unfailing. Sample free. Write THE PRESERVALINE MFG. CO., sole mfrs. and patentees, 10 Cedar street, New York. 4-5

Ripans Tabules prolong life.

The Man Who Differs.

We have all of us met with the bore who remarks:
"Your pardon! I beg leave to differ."
No matter what topic upon one embarks—
"Your pardon! I beg leave to differ."
Though simple and plain is the truth you convey,
He's sure to dispute you, though strive as you may;
He is never so happy as when he can say;
"Your pardon! I beg leave to differ."

With things which you always have fancied were true
He gratiously begs leave to differ.
And were you to say that twice one equal two,
He'd certainly beg leave to differ.
And when at the last as they stand at his bed,
The doctor or preacher shall say: "He is dead!"
I'm sure he 'll remark as he raises his head:
"Your pardon! I beg leave to differ."

—Chicago Post.

BETSEY'S BONNET.

"Well, Uncle Abel, now you are off for home, I suppose; trading all done, crops all bargained for, eh?" and John Dare lifted his hat and pused back his thick hair as he stood on the hotel steps talking to a plain, country farmer in a suit of homespun gray.

"Wa'al, no, not quite yet, John. I want to get Betsey a bunnit; a real nice one; just as good as a Yorker might want. 'Cause Betsey's worked awful hard this spring. Times are good too. So I guess we'll see if my Betsey shan't look as good as anybody. S'pose you don't want to go along with me, do you?"

"Let me see—four o'clock—yes, I'll go! Uncle Abel. I'll look at the pretty girls, though; you don't mind that. Come on."

So they walked up the street, the fashionable attire of the young lawyer contrasting strongly with the antiquated cut of the farmer's garments, which at home were wont to lie in solemn state in the spare room all the week, only to be worn on Sunday with becoming carefulness. There was little likeness in the face—a trifle too fair for manly beauty, with its blond moustache and setting of close brown curls—to the bronzed and beardless one, with the few locks, spare and gray, beneath the well-brushed hat; but the blue eyes were the same in both, and like those that were closed forever under the sod in the apple orchard on Uncle Abel's farm, where his dead sister was laid when Johnny was a tiny child. It troubled John not a whit to be seen with the plain countryman; in spite of his perfumed hair and well-gloved hand, his heart was as true as steel to the good friend of his boyhood, and the inquiring glance of his companions gave him no annoyance whatever.

They reached Madam Rozette's at last, and John lounged in the doorway and straightway engaged in the laudable employment of finding out the prettiest face of the girls in attendance. Josie Molliet, radiant with smiles and I think a little artificial bloom, came forward with the most bewitching glances to wait upon the farmer who brought so attractive a person with him; and fancying that she would show her superior quality by so doing, made up her mind to quiz Uncle Abel unmercifully. Poor old man! He never was so miserable in all his life! In Hopton he would have made no trouble whatever. Miss Crabtree, in her plain dress and cap with lavender ribbons, would have told him at once what to get; and her little gray eyes would not have confused him in the least.

But here was a fine lady, with a great circumference of black silk trailing out along the carpet, a waist no bigger than a wasp, a head on which the hair seemed struggling in crimps and curls to get away from the shining bands strapped tightly around it, and a pair of great black eyes looking straight at him, while the damsel held up one style after another, or tied them on coquettishly, but derived no help from him.

"Now, young woman, show me some of your best bonnets—real good ones. None of your old-fashioned, poor things for my wife."

Having said this, Uncle Abel felt that he had stated the case clearly and should have no more trouble.

Miss Josie sailed about and returned with a white chip gypsy, trimmed with blue, a shirred green satin with a red rose on it, and a gray straw trimmed with scarlet poppies.

"Now that will be just what you want, I am sure; only twenty-five dollars, too—so cheap and so becoming."

Uncle Abel confessed afterwards that he felt quite confounded at the great price, but he did not mean to let the Frenchified girl know it, so he only said: "Oh, that's the style, eh? It ain't a bit like Betsey's old one, though."

"Oh, no sir; the fashion has changed entirely. Now the gypsy is the newest thing out, and your wife would set the fashion, no doubt."

She looked up at John Dare merrily, but could not interpret the look in his eyes; so taking it for granted that it was a expression of admiration, she pursued the same strain.

"Just fresh from Paris. I am sure your wife would like that. Shall I try it on for you?"

"Wa'al, yes, I can tell better how it looks then. Now it looks just like a dish."

"There, it goes on this way;" and Josie pitched the little thing over her rosy face, tied the strings in a big bow knot and swept down the length of the room. "Don't you like it?"

"Wa'al, it's kind o' purty; but it's awful queer, ain't it, John?"

John thus appealed to, could only answer that he "knew nothing in the world about women's bonnets," and took up his reverie, whatever it was, just where it was broken off. But looking idly in the long mirror opposite, he saw Josie making signs to another girl, and he soon found that they were amusing themselves vastly at the perplexity of their customer. He saw, too, that a pale, quiet girl, with smooth brown hair, looked up from her work indignantly, and he rather saw than heard her say, "For shame," and grow crimson as she spoke.

His own face flushed a little as he became aware that Uncle Abel was being made the butt of their jokes—good Uncle Abel who was looking so admiringly at the fabrics incomprehensible to him, his old heart only full of the thought how he should make his present worthy of the patient soul for whom it was intended.

Then John was greatly perplexed; for as he said truly, he knew nothing about all that mysterious and bewildering arrangement of dress that he saw every day.

Still he knew that Aunt Betsey's spare locks, thinly sprinkled with gray, were not dressed in modern style, and he could not for the life of him see whereabouts on that dear old head any of those gypsys or fanchons would rest. He remembered that long ago Aunt Betsey was wont to twist her hair with the same energy that distinguished all her movements, and that this operation resulted in a hard knob at the back of her head like a door handle, which certainly would not harmonize with these careless hair-dresses.

(Continued on sixth column.)

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY, }

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

{ SEAL } A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hood's Cures

Scrofula in the Eyes

Partial Darkness 8 Months

Sight and Perfect Health Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Eva Beraw
Bradford, Mass.

"About 4 years ago my little girl, Eva, who was then 4 years old, had a scrofula trouble with one of her eyes. For 8 months she had to keep it bandaged from the light. We tried everything the best medical advice would suggest for two years, keeping her out of school all that time, but nothing appeared to do her a particle of good. We feared that she would entirely

Lose the Sight of the Eye

One day I read of a little girl suffering similarly who had been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and decided to let her try it. She seemed better when she had taken the first bottle, so I got another. And when she had finished taking three bottles she was completely cured, and now

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

at the end of two years, not having shown any return of the trouble we are sure that

The Cure is Permanent

We feel indebted to Hood's Sarsaparilla for the good it has accomplished." FRANK BERAW, Central Avenue, Bradford, Mass.

Confirmed by Colby Bros.

"We are well acquainted with Frank Beraw and have been for several years. We have full confidence in what he states of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is certainly in the best of health now, as we see her often and her eyes are all right." COLBY BROS., Bradford, Mass.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

Quick-drying floor paints are made in various ways, with resinous oil sometimes, and often with cheap varnish. If a floor paint could only be made with a fine varnish, it would be very attractive, both as to its quick-drying properties, high gloss and durability; but such a varnish costs four dollars a gallon, and therefore is out of the question. A paint made with varnish does not spread as nicely as one with oil. The Chilton floor paints are made with pure, kettle-boiled Linseed Oil, with as much turpentine japan added as is consistant with durability. Too much dryer takes away from the life of the oil. If, for instance, the floor of the kitchen is to be painted, the first thing to do is to thoroughly wash it with soap and warm water, into which put a little ammonia, perhaps half an ounce to a pail of water. This will help remove all the grease. The floor should then be allowed to thoroughly dry. If you can conveniently do so, call in the services of a first-class painter. Paint one or two coats, as necessary, allowing first coat to harden and dry before second is applied. You can use the kitchen about twelve hours after the first coat is put on, and have the second coat put on several days later, if you wish.

Sold by LeGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.
Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

Soaps and Soap Powders!

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Welcome soap, | 5c | |
| Good Will soap, | 5c | |
| Dobbins soap, | 10c | |
| Siddalls soap, | 10c | |
| Star soap, | c | |
| Acme soap, | 5c | |
| World soap, | 5c | |
| Ivory soap, | 8c, 3 for 25c | |
| Ivory (small) soap, | 5c | |
| Grandpa Wonder soap, | 10c | |
| Marseilles soap, | 5 and 5c | |
| Brussells soap, | 5c | |
| Lenox soap, | | 5c |
| Ideal soap, | | 5c, 6 for 25c |
| Spurr's Drive, | | 4c, 7 for 25c |
| Blizzard soap, | | 4c, 8 for 25c |
| Gold Dust, | 4lb package | 25c |
| Ivorine, | 1¼lb package | 12c |
| Pearline, | | 12c |
| Saveua, | | 12c |
| Puratine, | | 12c |
| Soapine, | | 12c |
| Tuxedo, | | 12c |

Stone. Stone. Stone.

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S

COUGH and LUNG BALSAM

SURE CURE. PRICE 25 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LeGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

Ripans Tabules cure indigestion.

AGENT FOR

G. W. SIMMONS & CO.

—AND—

Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.

CLOTHING TO ORDER.

Spring samples ready for inspection.

W. E. STONE,

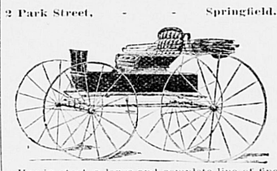
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

WE ARE IN IT!

SMITH & CO., PALMER.

W. H. SMITH,

2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a large and complete line of fine and medium priced carriages. Fifty different styles in family carriages, top and open buggies, Concords, etc.

Good variety of top and open delivery wagons, road carts and farm wagons.

Novelties in buckboards and traps.

100 second hand carriages, all prices.

15 Fait.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. Call for samples. 52-17

AYER'S Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires. Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston. A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."

M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.

Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

BUILDING LOTS GIVEN AWAY.

For particulars inquire of

C. S. RUGGLES,
Three Rivers, Mass.

13-18

THE BEST

BRADLEY FERTILIZER.

C. D. HOLBROOK, Palmer.

AGENTS WANTED to canvass for the sale of our home-grown nursery stock. New profit sharing system. Salary and expenses paid. W. & T. SMITH CO., The Geneva Nursery, Geneva, N. Y. Established 1846. One of the largest, oldest established and best known Nurseries in the United States. 4-5

YOU ought to see the UNLAUNDERED SHIRTS Stone is selling at 50c each or 6 for $2.75.

Ripans Tabules—gentle cathartic.

PIANOS on easy payments

Economical buyers should write for description of little used and second hand Pianos. Rare bargains among these. Within 300 miles of Boston we furnish Pianos at $25 down and $6 per month till paid for. Full information if you write us.

IVERS & POND PIANO CO.,

183 Tremont St., BOSTON, MASS

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,

THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY. OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by

12-41 R. J. HENRY, MAIN ST., PALMER.

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing Insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair failing. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Cough, Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Pain, Take in time. 50 cts.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists, or HISCOX & CO., N. Y

Foulds' Wheat Germ Meal

(WHEAT GERM FOR SHORT,)

IS THE MOST DELICIOUS, NUTRITIOUS and VALUABLE

BREAKFAST CEREAL

ever introduced. It is steadily gaining in public favor.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

MRS. M. C. BROWN'S

METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY

Kills the Root of all Diseases.

THREE PREPARATIONS

which enter the system by absorption through

THE EYES, EARS AND SCALP.

NO DRUGS THROUGH THE MOUTH.

Three bottles in a set, put up in three sizes, and sold at $5.00, $2.50, $1.25.

Order of druggists, or enclose price to

METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY,

51 BOND ST., NEW YORK,

where please send 10 cents for pamphlet of 100 pages.

ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

Boston Depot—Wholesale and Retail, 76 and 78 Hanover Street. 4-5

BAKER BAY STATE & SPRINGFIELD HARNESS.

MANUFACTURED BY

BAKER HARNESS CO.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Dr. Browning's Prescription prevents CHOLERA.

It is a good thing to have in the house for ready use when attacked with severe pains in the bowels, cramps or colic. It kills Cholera germs, something quite important this year. Only the purest of ingredients are used and great care is taken in its preparation. All like this Prescription upon the first trial. It saves much sickness and expense. 25 Cents per Bottle.

NO FREE SAMPLES. 52-5

DO YOU COUGH DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. Acts on one or Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1.00.

SULPHUR BITTERS

TRUTHS FOR THE SICK.

For those DEATHLY BILIOUS SPELLS depend on Sulphur Bitters; it never fails to cure.

DO YOU SUFFER with that tired and all-gone feeling? If so use Sulphur Bitters; it will cure you.

Don't be without a bottle. You will not regret it. TRY IT.

THE SECRET of a fair face is a beautiful skin. Sulphur Bitters makes both.

If you do not wish to suffer from RHEUMATISM, use a bottle of Sulphur Bitters; it never fails to cure.

Are you CONSTIPATED? If so, Sulphur Bitters is just what you need

Poor, weak, and weary mothers RAISE PUNY, PINDLING children. Sulphur Bitters will make them strong, hearty, and healthy.

Cleanse the vitiated blood when you see its impurities bursting through the skin in PIMPLES, BLOTCHES AND SORES. Rely on Sulphur Bitters and health will follow.

'Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., for best medical work published

Job Printing

of all kinds

at the Journal Office

Scientific American Agency for

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

(Continued from second column.)

Just as his brow was overcast with this thought, the pale girl came near Uncle Abel, her cheeks blushing as she did so in defiance of the other girls, holding in her hand a plain Leghorn bonnet trimmed with violet ribbon.

She wore a mourning dress, and the plain brooch at her throat held a lock of gray hair.

"I think this might suit you, sir," she said. "If your wife don't dress her hair in these fashions, these bonnets would not do at all. This is rich and plain, and covers the back of the head and neck."

"Wa'al now, tell me, for I have got so bothered with these things that I don't know one from t'other. I want to get a bonnet for Betsey, and I mean to. Now just tell me if you would like your mother to wear one like this? Oh, I beg your pardon, ma'am. I didn't see," and he touched the sleeve of her black dress. "I—I—am sorry."

The young girl brushed off a tear quickly, as she said, "I have no mother now; but if you will trust me, sir, I think this will suit."

She had stood, hitherto, just out of the range of John Dare's vision, and had not seen him at all. Something in the sound of her voice attracted him, perhaps, and when Uncle Abel called—

"Here, John Dare!" he stepped hastily enough toward them. The girl thrust the bonnet into Uncle Abel's hands, and would have been out of sight if her dress had not caught on one of the branching stands and held her fast.

"Amy!" and John Dare, with a hot flush on his face caught her hand and detained her. "Amy Egbert, have I found you at last?"

The girl's face grew white and red by turns, and the words she spoke came so low and broken that only John could catch their meaning.

Uncle Abel pushed his spectacles up on his forehead, still holding the hat in his hand, looking open-mouthed from one to the other.

"I guess you must have knowed this young woman afore, didn't you?" he said; but John was too busy with eager questions, and Amy was trembling and flushing as she tried to speak calmly, and so his question was unanswered. Pretty Josie was dividing her attention between a new customer and the strange scene beside her, and between anger and mortification she looked in no need of help from rouge, as she tossed her head and muttered various uncourteous remarks in regard to "that Amy Egbert and her beau."

Uncle Abel held the hat a little longer quite patiently, but at last despaired of the interview being ended, so he coughed, and then said:

"I'll take this bunnit. Twenty dollars is a good deal. Betsey's worth it, ain't she, John?"

John need not have started so, or said "very," which wasn't a sensible answer at all; but Uncle Abel laughed a little to himself and said softly, "Oh, boys will be boys!" and he was obliged to tell Miss Egbert the direction over twice, too, and felt quite uneasy lest it should not arrive at his hotel in time.

Outside the door John turned to leave his uncle, and looked as shy as a girl, as he said, softly, "It's all right, Uncle Abel. You've found a new bonnet, and I've found a—a—an old friend."

Uncle Abel held his hand fast, and looking a moment without speaking, in the young man's eyes, said, "She's a motherless girl, John."

"Uncle Abel!" and John turned angrily away, or would have done so if the detaining hand had not held him with a grasp which sixty years had not weakened. "Look here, my boy, I mean no offense. None of my blood turn villains," he added proudly; "but you see she's young and purty and forlorn, and maybe, if you see too much of her, she might get to thinkin' more of you than would be good for her, and if you ain't in earnest I guess it would break her heart. Shake hands with your uncle, my boy, I mean no harm; but I promised 'Liza when she was on her dying bed that I would allus try to give you good advice, and the last words a'most that she spoke, says she, 'Abel, watch over my boy.'"

"My dear, kind uncle, I thank you, indeed I do—for your kindness, but I could not bear to think that you should misjudge me. I knew Amy long ago, when her parents were both living, and she had all that wealth could give. I loved her then in a quiet way, but I was too poor to tell her so. Then came reverses and death, and in her poverty and pride the girl hid herself from me resolutely until now. She tried to earn her bread by her accomplishments, but failed, and gladly took this means to do so. Now, if I can win her for my wife, I shall bring Mrs. John Dare to see you some fine day this summer—may I, Uncle Abel?"

So they parted, and the passers-by little dreamed of all that had been said.

"Wa'al, wa'al, if things don't turn out queer!" soliloquized Uncle Abel, homeward bound, with a handbox placed on the seat before him. To think how near I came to gettin' one of them gypsys for Betsey. Why, she would have laughed a week about it. And then to think that painted pictur of a girl was making game of me all that while. And then the other one, with her gentle way, taking the trouble to tell a stupid fellow like me what was the right thing to buy. I guess she would make our John a good wife; and after Betsey and me has passed away, there'll be a nice bit of property coming to John, and that'll help him on."

How pleased Aunt Betsey was, to be sure, when the old man gave her the new bonnet! How fair and young she looked in the fresh ribbons and soft blonde around her face! And how she laughed at the idea of wearing "one of them dish-covers on her head!"

Just when the country was in its June glory, John Dare brought his bride to the farm-house where he had spent so many childish hours, and he led her to the old familiar spots, from the weir in the brook to the grave by the orchard. But as long as straw and ribbon may endure to keep them both in mind how John Dare found his wife, they tell the story of the time when Uncle Abel bought Betsey's bonnet.

WARM AND WARMER.

"It's been pretty warm this week, hasn't it?" remarked the thin man with the prescription, leaning up against the counter in Wilfert's drug store.

"Warm?" spat the fellow with the cigar; "why, I thought it was cool! You don't have any hot weather around here anyway."

"We don't?" asked the druggist, interrogatively, doubting.

"Nup. You ought to try a hot spell in Prattville, A. T. Have to tie a wet sponge over your mouth when you go out in the middle of the day to keep the hot air from cracking the enamel on your teeth and blistering your tongue. It gets hot down there, I tell you."

"But, land alive, man, if you had ever been in Texas with the United States survey you wouldn't speak of a thing like that," whispered the pale customer from John street. "The summer I was there on duty there were three icehouses burned down."

"Catch from the heat of the sun?" asked the druggist.

"Well, not exactly, for you see the flames broke out at the bottom. It was a clear case. The ice had caught fire from spontaneous combustion."

A deep silence rested over the group a few moments, while all the champions collected their nerves. Then the cummuter from Sedamsville, who had just dropped in on his way down to the train, remarked casually:

"I have seen a little hot weather myself in my time, but the hottest I ever saw was in Mexico. We had three Louisiana darkeys with us, and they could stand a good deal of hot weather. One of the hottest days it became necessary to have some outdoor work done, and these fellows, of course, were sent out to do it. Before they started the chief of the workmen warned them not to drink any cold water before going out, as it was dangerous.

"They hadn't been outside twenty minutes before we heard two or three loud toots on a railroad whistle and the whole party hopped up to see the train pass. But the chief looked up with a horrified face, and crying, 'I knew it!' hurriedly picked up a basket and shovel and broke for the door."

"Why, what was the matter?" asked the crowd, as the narrator paused to light his cigar, nonchalantly.

"Oh, those darkeys had sneaked around to the back porch and disobeyed orders by taking a drink, so the minute they got in the sun the intense heat began generating steam just as in an engine boiler. About the time there was a pressure of thirty or forty pounds on the poor devils opened their mouths to shriek, and the escaping steam whistled just like a railroad engine out of their mouths and noses. By the time we got to them they had burst."

"What was the basket and shovel for?"

"To gather up the scattered remains," was the solemn reply, as the Sedamsville man walked out.

"I don't like to make trouble," apologetically said the John street man. "But if that fellow had staid here I'd have had to call him a liar."—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

AN UNEXPECTED QUOTATION.—A Sunday school teacher asked her scholars to each learn a verse to recite when they dropped in their pennies at the next missionary meeting, appropriate for the occasion.

They all came prepared the next Sabbath and the first fellow as he dropped in his offering, said, "Blessed is he that considereth the poor."

The second repeated, "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."

The teacher was delighted, and as the third, a very little boy, went forward, she whispered in his ear, "Now speak out loudly, Johnnie."

Johnnie reluctantly dropping his money in the box lisped, "The fool and hith money ith thoon parted."

She—Father's salary has been doubled. He—Good! We can afford to get married now.—Life.

THE KIND THAT CURES

P. M. DENON,
Boston, Mass.

A Prominent Business Man OF BOSTON, TELLS OF UNEXPECTED RELIEF "I Recommend Dana's to All!"

Mr. Denon, whose statement follows, has been engaged in the Furniture and House Furnishing business at his place on Dover St. for over 30 years. Read his wonderful statement:

"For the last 3 or 4 years I have been obliged to take a vacation in the Spring. And last March I was feeling unusually miserable. I was so nervous I could not get to sleep some nights until six o'clock in the morning, and when I did sleep would have horrible dreams. A friend came in and recommended and PILLS. I did not have much faith in patent medicines, but I procured the Sarsaparilla and Pills. Before one bottle was gone I unexpectedly found I was receiving great benefit. My appetite became ravenous, could eat four square meals a day. I have taken four bottles and now sleep all night and get up as fresh as I did 20 years ago. I also had Varicose Veins on my left leg that were very bad, and they are almost well. I recommend DANA'S SARSAPARILLA and PILLS to all. A number of my friends have also been greatly benefited.

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

Yours very truly, P. M. DENON."

108 Dover St., Boston, Mass.

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

DEAFNESS and Head Noises cured by Peck's Invisible Tubular Ear Cushions. Whispers heard. Comfortable. Successful where all remedies fail. Illustrated book and proofs free. 141 Address F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York.

Ripans Tabules assist digestion.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS!

Good Quality! Choice Variety!

MAINE SEED POTATOES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Early Norther, Newest and Best, | $6.00 barrel. $2.50 bushel. |
| New Queen, | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Clark's No. 1, | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Pearl of Savoy, | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Beauty of Hebron, | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Early Rose, | $4.00 barrel. $1.75 bushel. |

PLOWS, WHEEL HARROWS, CULTIVATORS.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS, FULL LINE.

Galvanized Barb Wire, 3 cents per lb.

Come and see us.

E. A. BUCK & CO

Consumption

That dreaded and dreadful disease! What shall stay its ravages? Thousands say Scott's Emulsion of pure Norwegian cod liver oil and hypophosphites of lime and soda has cured us of consumption in its first stages. Have you a cough or cold acute or leading to consumption? Make no delay but take

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula, and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

Scott's Emulsion

The Palmer Journal.

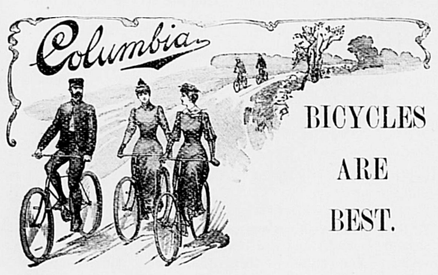
VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 5, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 5.



BICYCLES ARE BEST.

Their tires are guaranteed against puncture.

Can you ask more?

Prices from $110 to $150.

Catalogues free.

CHANDLER BROS.,

AGENTS FOR THE TOWN OF PALMER.

New Grocery Store on Cental Street!

Now open and ready for business

Every article in our stock is entirely new and fresh, and we shall take especial pains to see that every customer is satisfied.

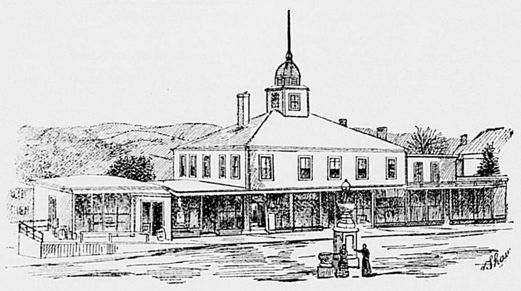
Give us a trial order—you will never regret it.

Will call for orders and deliver goods.

Give us a trial.

Thompson & Bannister.

H. W. THOMPSON.
C. H. BANNISTER.



Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown in —— MONSON. ——

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of Jamestown, N. Y., 30 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM SERGE. Also 25 pieces (8-yard lengths—no two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SERGE.

GORDON DYE HOSIERY.

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hosiery to our customers as the best article for purity of dye and wearing quality ever offered to the public. A complete line of "Gordon Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls and Infants in black and all the fashionable colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED STAINLESS.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Now Complete.

The Columbus Boys' Suit goes ahead of everything. A Columbus Medal given with every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black and Fancy Cheviots and Black Worsteds. FINE ASSORTMENT OF SPRING SUITS FROM $8 TO $20.

☞ LATEST NOVELTIES IN NECKWEAR.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Have added to our large stock the latest styles in Ladies' and Gent's Shoes. Before you purchase don't fail to see the novelties we are offering.

Headquarters for Trunks, Bags, Etc.,

—— AT ——

W. N. FLYNT & SONS, Monson.

☞ NOTICE.

After a thorough, careful, painstaking and practical investigation, we, the undersigned, hereby certify to the public that the

Morrell Liquor Cure Co.,

a corporation located at Westfield, Mass., is now prepared to cure all persons afflicted with the LIQUOR, OPIUM AND TOBACCO HABITS, and to guarantee a cure or money refunded.

The features of this cure are:—

Absolute Privacy. Treatment at Home.

No Unpleasant Effects. No Loss of Time. No Sore Arm.

Of more than 3000 patients treated, not one has failed of permanent cure.

Address all correspondence to MORRELL LIQUOR CURE CO., or Box 403, WESTFIELD, MASS.

JOHN R. REED, President The H. B. Smith Mfg. Co.
JAS. NOBLE, JR., Vice President Hampden National Bank.
W. A. LINCOLN, Treasurer Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Co.
REV. JOHN H. LOCKWOOD, Pastor First Congregational Church.
H. N. KINGSBURY, Secretary and Treasurer Odd Fellows Fraternal Accident Association.
A. S. ATKINS, President Vitrified Wheel Co.
R. W. PARRS, Secretary Bay State Association.
F. F. VAN DEUSEN, of E. R. Van Deusen & Son.
FRANK BOWLER, Director V. W. Crowson Waste Co.
GEO. W. WINSLOW, Principal School of Observation.
H. W. ELY, Esq., Attorney-at-Law. 13-53

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.
TINNERS, AND
STEAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls, Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers, Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business. Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS, VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices. Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

NEW UNDERTAKING ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 30 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz.
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5 lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 30c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 35c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 15c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

GO TO A NEW PLACE THIS SUMMER.

And have the JOURNAL help you find it. Write, stating the kind of place you desire and the price you wish to pay, and about the section you think you would like to visit. The suggestions will come by return mail. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

PRINTING

done in the very best manner and on short notice.

We are alive to the wants of our patrons and will do your printing well and reasonably if you order from us.

C. B. FISKE & CO.,

PALMER, MASS.

DO YOU USE

WALL PAPERS

If so, you can buy your stock or can sort up on specials for a single room in Springfield at New York rates.
We are jobbers and great retailers and carry in stock

One Hundred Thousand —ROLLS—

READY TO SHIP.

Will mail samples on receipt of TEN CENTS for postage which may be deducted from amount of first order.
Get our figures and compare.

The Old Corner Wall Paper Co.

(Successors to W. F. Adams Co.)
CORNER STATE AND MAIN STREETS, SPRINGFIELD. 9-51

The Prophesy.

BY W. A. CROFUT.

Read at the opening of the World's Fair in Chicago, Monday, May 1.

Sadly Columbus watched the nasant moon
Down in the gloomy ocean's Western deeps.
Strange birds that day had fluttered in the sails,
And strange flowers floated 'round the wandering keel.
And yet no land. And now when through the dark
The Santa Maria leaped before the gale
And angry billows tossed the caravels
As to destruction, Gomez Rascon came
With Capt. Pinzol through the frenzied seas.
And to the admiral brought a parchment scroll.
Saying, "Good Master, read this writing here
An earnest prayer it is from all on board,
The crew would fain turn back in utter fear,
No longer to the Pole the compass points;
Into the zenith crops the northern star,
You saw but yester eve an albatross
Drop dead on deck beneath the flying scud,
The devil's wind blows madly from the East
Into the land of nowhere and the sea,
Keep sucking up adown the malestrom's maw.
Francisco says the edge of earth is near,
And off to Erebus we slide unhelmed.
Last Sunday night Diego saw a witch
Dragging the Ninia by her forehains West
And wildly dancing on a dolphin's back;
And as she danced the brightest star in Heaven
Slipped from its leash and sprang into the sea,
Like Lucifer and left a trail of blood.
I pray thee, Master, turn again to Spain,
Obedient to the omens, or, perchance,
The terror-stricken crew to escape their doom,
May mutiny and—"
"Gomez Rascon, peace,"
Exclaimed the admiral; "Thou hast said enough.
Now, prithee, leave me; I would be alone."

Then eagerly Columbus sought a sign,
In sea and sky and in his lonely heart
Finding, instead of pressages of hope,
The black and ominous portents of despair.
As thus he mused he paced the after-deck,
And gazed upon the luminous waves astern.
Strange life was in the phosphorescent foam,
And through the goblin glow there came and went
Like Elfin shadows on an opal sea,
Prophetic pictures of land he sought.

He saw the end of his victorious quest,
He saw ablaze on Pabella's breast
A string of Antillean jewels rest,
The islands of the West.

He saw invading plenty dispossess
Old poverty, the land with bounty bless,
And through the wretched caverns of distress
Walk star-eyed happiness.

He saw the Bourbon and Braganza prone,
For ancient error tardy to atone,
Giving the plundered people back their own,
And flying from the throne.

He saw an empire radiant as the day,
Harnessed to Law, but under freedom's sway,
Proudly arise, resplendent in array
To show the world the way.

He saw celestial peace in mortal guise,
And filled with hope and thrilled with high emprise,
Lifting its tranquil forehead to the skies,
A vast republic rise.

He saw, beyond the hills of golden corn,
Beyond the curve of autumn's opulent horn,
Ceres and Flora laughingly adorn
The bosom of the morn.

He saw a cloth of gold across the gloom,
An Arabesque, from evolutions loom,
And from the barren prairies driven spume,
Imperial cities bloom.

He saw an iron dragon dashing forth,
Along an iron thoroughfare—South, North,
East, West, uniting in beneficient girth
Remotest ends of earth.

He saw the lightning run an elfin race,
Where trade, love, griet and pleasure interlace,
And absent ones annihilate time and space,
Communing face to face.

He saw relief through deadly dungeons grope;
Foes turned to brothers, black despair to hope,
And cannon rust upon the grass-grown slope,
And rot the gallows rope.

He saw the babies on labor's cottage floor;
The bright walls hung with luxury more and more,
And comfort, radiant with abounding store,
Wave welcome to the door.

He saw the myriad spindles flutter round;
The myriad homes where jocund joy is found,
And love is throned and crowned.
He saw exalted ignorance under ban
Though panoplied in force since time began,
And science, consecrated, lead the van,
The Providence of Man.

The picture came and paled and passed away,
And then he said to Pinzon in the gloom,
"Now, Martin, to thy waiting helm again.
Haste to the Pinta, westward keep her prow,
For I have had a vision full of light.
Keep her prow westward in the sunset's wake
From this hour hence, and let no man look back."

JARVIS MURRAY'S CAMPAIGN.

Some people would have said it was Florence Craven's own fault that she had lost her faith in men. Perhaps some people would have been right, and perhaps they would not. However, that has nothing to do with this story. The fact is what concerns us, and the fact is that Florence Craven did not believe in men. She did not believe much in women, either, but that also has nothing to do with this story. When Florence was eighteen years old she had ideals. Every woman has ideals when she is young, just as children have mumps. The girls usually get over their ideals just as successfully as children do over the mumps, and then they settle down to a substantial basis of fact, and find that, after all, the world as it is a very good place—quite as good as the world of imagination.

That is what happens to a girl who has the ordinary run of ideals. These usually consist of a man who is a combination of Richard Cœur de Lion, Adonis, and the Angel Gabriel. That is the kind of ideal the average young girl sets up for herself. It does not occur to her at first that in order to be fit for the society of such a man she herself ought to be a combination of Joan of Arc, Venus, and Amelia Sedley. By and by she finds out that women are not built on that scale, and then she concludes that man may be a little lower than the angels, and still do. Florence Craven, however, did not begin life with such a tremendous demand on human nature. Her idea of a man was not that he should be like Virgil's Dame Rumor, with his feet on the earth and his sublime head among the stars. All she asked was that a man should be tall, handsome, strong, kind of temper, frank, patient, humble, forgiving, earnest, sincere, affectionate, industrious, clever with his hands, intellectual, and passionately in love with her. It was not much for a young girl to ask, and so Florence demanded it with all her soul and with all her strength. And the first thing she knew the man arrived.

He had the whole of the above catalogue of qualities except one. He was not in love with Florence. That, however, did not discourage her. She set out to make him love her. It was at a summer resort that she met him, and at first he regarded her sprightly allurements with a sort of patronizing good nature, which stirred Florence's spirits to their depths. She vowed with a deep determination that she would bring him to her feet. Several times he seemed to be on the point of saying something very earnest to her, and then the amused look would come back into his eyes, and he would say something else. This happened so often that Forence became fiercely hungry for that earnest utterance which always refused to come. One night she even went up to her room and wept bitter tears of vexation, of course, because he would not say it. The next day she fished more vigorously. They walked, danced, and rode together. The gossips of the hotel married them regularly every day, and still he did not say it. And Florence wished more than ever to hear him say it.

Finally, the end of the season came. The September breezes whispered around the corners of the hotel, and the September stars looked down on piles of trunks ready to be taken away the next morning. That night he spoke. He said he had been trying to tell her something all summer, but his courage had failed him every time. He felt that he had not been quite right in keeping it to himself so long; but she had made his summer so pleasant that he had really been unable before that minute to tell her that he was going to be married that winter. His sweetheart was in Europe, and would be home in about two weeks.

And that was the earnest remark of the man who was tall, handsome, strong, kind of temper, et cetera.

Florence took it bravely as far as outward appearances went. She laughed in his face and told him she had known it all along. Then she wished him joy and ran up stairs. In the inviolate secrecy of her own room she fell flat on her face and staid there for two hours. At the end of that time she arose, looked at herself in the mirror, and smiled a miserable smile. At that moment her ideals went out of the window and were blown out to sea by a west wind. The next day Florence Craven was a manhater and a flirt of the most desperate character. For two years she cut a swath. Her change of heart was most sincere. She simply despised men. She took pleasure in transfixing them with the arrows of love and seeing them writhe. She had no more pity than a seal hunter, and she was as devoid of sentiment as Butler's "Analogy." She never made the slightest pretense. She treated all men with sarcastic contempt, and they seemed to like it. She counted her victims by the score. She broke up engagements by the dozen. She made regiments of girls jealous. She played Venus Victrix to perfection, and had all the mothers in society wild with a desire to cast her into the bottomless pit.

All except one. Mrs. Chasby Soden had a daughter who didn't go off. She hung fire dreadfully. The only man who had ever shown a disposition to gather her to himself had been switched off by the insatiable Florence Craven, who wrung his heart dry and then sent him packing. Then Mrs. Chasby Soden rose up and said:—

"That Florence Craven has got to be married."

The only question was who was to marry her. Mrs. Chasby Soden studied that problem long and carefully, and finally she came to the conclusion that she knew the man. Then she sat down to study out a plan by which he could be led to devote himself to Florence and to conquer her. She spent a whole morning in deep thought. At luncheon she appeared with a severe headache and a written letter.

"If that does not bring him," she said to herself, "I must simply give it up."

It did bring him. He was Jarvis Murray, Mrs. Chasby Soden's nephew, the son of her oldest brother, now dead. Jarvis Murray was thirty years old and not pretty to look at. He had a knife scar just above the bridge of his nose and the rest of his face was corrugated with smallpox marks. He was not tall, but his deep chest and long arms indicated strength. He was not especially bright or cheerful in conversation, having been close enough to death on several occasions to make him rather serious. Jarvis Murray had begun life as a naval cadet. He had been shipwrecked once, and had two desperate fights with pirates. He got that cut over the bridge of his nose in one of them. Then he resigned from the navy to accept the command of a merchant vessel. A collision, fire and five days on a raft finished his career there, though he was honorably acquitted of all blame. He decided that dry land would suit him thereafter. He secured a position with an electric company, and was now in a fair way to become a millionaire. But he was not an attractive man. He knew it, too, and as a rule steered clear of the fair sex. But Mrs. Chasby Soden succeeded in setting him after Florence, and he opened up a campaign that for variety and movement has seldom been equalled in the history of love.

It began with some masterly inactivity. The first thing Jarvis Murray did was nothing, and he did it well. He was introduced to Florence, looked at her critically, and then walked away. That made Florence angry and filled her with a deep determination to make him notice her—and to his sorrow, of course.

"Excellent," said Mrs. Chasby Soden; "I should say that the first skirmish is decidedly in your favor."

"I don't like it," said Jarvis Murray, reflectively. "She is as beautiful and bewitching as you painted her, and more so. I'd rather lie right down at her feet and surrender."

"And be laughed at for your pains? No, my dear boy, do just as I tell you and the most captivating of girls is yours. Watch her for a day or two, and you'll agree with me that my plan is the only one that can succeed."

Jarvis watched her. He saw her deliberately draw young Forrest Burney into a proposal and then treat him with a measureless contempt that sent the young fellow away heart-broken. If Jarvis had not been let into the secret of Florence's lack of faith in men he would have called her heartless. As it was, he understood that her heart was exceedingly active and was feeding on its own fires. He decided that Mrs. Soden's plan of campaign was a wise one.

"Set a thief to catch a thief," he mused. "It isn't fair. Mrs. Chasby Soden is an old campaigner. She's up to every move on the board. Pity that that daughter of hers, my estimable cousin, isn't a man. The mater would have had her married long ago. But the Craven girl has got the whole field to herself, and now that we are alone, Jarvis, we may as well admit that she deserves it. She's the first girl I've ever seen that I'd like to own. And I'm going to do it."

The next day Jarvis Murray treated Florence Craven with deliberate indifference all day. He took the trouble to keep within sound of her voice and sight of her eyes so as to let her see that he was indifferent. She tried several times to draw him into conversation, but he answered in monosyllables and then turned to speak to another girl. That night one of the full-dress hops took place. Right in the middle of it Jarvis Murray shouldered his way through the crowd of moths around Florence and said:—

"The next is our waltz, I believe."

You can't put the assurance of his manner on paper.

"I think not," she said.

"You are mistaken," he replied, lifting her dance card. The dance was not taken. He calmly wrote his name, and showed it to her. "You see, it is my dance."

At that moment the music began, and before Florence could recover her breath, he had her floating over the floor.

"Mr. Murray," she said angrily, "your impudence—"

"My what?" he asked, looking intently into her eyes.

He knew how to look very hard. He had once looked a mutiny out of countenance.

"Your impudence," she began again, but he interrupted her.

"A man would dare anything for you!" he said. Her face flushed and her eyes sparkled. Jarvis Murray waltzed like a feather-weight angel. He did not say another word to her till the end of the dance. Then he said:—

"Have you another dance left?"

She had. She had been saving it for a purpose; not this purpose, but she thought now she would let the other one go. Do you know what Jarvis did? He put his name down for that dance and went upstairs to bed. She did not see him till the next day. She was weak enough to take him to task for not appearing to claim his dance. He told her he was sorry she had missed him, and assured her it should never occur again. That made her so angry she would not speak to him again. Then Jarvis Murray turned his attention to making himself agreeable to the ladies. He knew how to do it, too. He had two dozen ideas in as many seconds, and every one of his ideas was fruitful in pleasure to the women. All sought Florence, of course. She wouldn't speak to him, so she was left out of his plans. She sat around the hotel all the afternoon with three or four tall, handsome men, who made love to her to the best of their ability, while the other girls went out sailing with Murray and had a glorious time. Somehow or other her favorite sport palled on her that afternoon, and, of course, she blamed it all on Murray. He met her face to face in the corridor as she was going to her room to dress for dinner. She was going to pass him in dignified silence, but he stopped and held out his hand.

"Won't you forgive me?" he said, looking hard at her.

When he looked like that, you would have thought that his soul was leaking out of his eyes.

"Since you are so humble," she said, "I will; but I think you were very rude."

"So do I," he said, touching his lips to the tips of her fingers with a manner almost reverential.

He passed on, leaving her flustrated and elated. The man had acted as if he thought her a female deity. After that he went on all the evening making things pleasant for all the other girls and leaving her out. It was enough to exasperate a saint. Florence was not a saint, and when she retired to her room for the night she was about as thoroughly vexed a woman as ever lived. She actually broke down and had a good old-fashioned cry.

"I'll fix him," she said. "I'll not allow him to treat me in that style. The first attempt he makes at impudence to-morrow ends our acquaintance."

But on the morrow he was not impudent. That was because he had carefully observed her face when she left the drawing room the previous night. No, he was anything but impudent. He devoted himself to her for the whole day. He never left her side. Bathing and sailing and driving—he was with her in them all, and no woman could have asked for more respectful, yet tender, attention.

"Vanquished at last!" exclaimed Florence triumphantly when she had gained the seclusion of her apartment that night.

But he refused to stay vanquished. The next day he devoted himself in precisely the same manner to Mrs. Chasby Soden's hangfire daughter. The finest expert from a mediæval court of love couldn't have discovered a shade of difference in the devotion of this day and that of the previous one. That made Florence wild; but what could she do? That is not the sort of thing that a girl can notice. So she had to swallow her rage and content herself with flirting more desperately than ever with a tow-haired gentleman who was possessed of a T-cart and a hyphened name. She overdid it, however. She had one or two outbursts of temper which frightened the young man, and he ran away. About that time she overheard Mrs. Chasby Soden saying to one of the old Noms on the veranda:

"Oh, yes, Jarvis always had a penchant for his cousin. I shouldn't be surprised if the unexpected happened in that quarter."

"So," thought Florence, "that old bundle of gossip thinks he's going to marry her Nellie. Well, I'd rather marry him myself, and I hate him."

You see, Jarvis' campaign was getting on finely. A man has got to make a pretty serious impression on a girl when he gets her to hate him. I've always been of the opinion that between a young man and a girl a good, hot, palpitating hatred can give pity three to one. Jarvis had a sneaking notion that she hated him, and he liked it. He wished she would say she hated him. She did, too, the very next day. It came about in a very simple way. They were all down on the beach. Jarvis insisted that the sand was damp, and that Florence must not sit on it. You see, it was one of his days for being attentive to her. So he found a short piece of log and a short board. He set the log up on one end and laid the board on it. There was room enough for two, so he sat down beside her. Five minutes later he sprang up, apparently oblivious of Florence's existence, to speak to a simpering blonde nonentity. When he sprang up, Florence, of course, went over flat on the sand in about as ridiculous a way as you can perceive. She was so angry she could hardly speak. She would not allow Jarvis to assist her to arise. He apologized very properly, but not very enthusiastically.

"Don't mention it," she said; and then added in an aside, "I hate you!"

Murray really appeared to turn pale.

"Do you mean that?" he said in a low tone, looking at her with a soul-leaking look.

"Yes, I do," she answered resolutely.

That man's eyes actually filled with tears. He gave her one heart-broken glance; then walked slowly away—and sat down beside another girl.

While he was looking into her eyes, Florence felt that she could forgive him anything. When he sat down beside the other girl, she wished she could run a knife through both of them. What was a girl to do with such a man! Florence did not know what to make of him. He troubled her mightily. He kept her in a perpetual state of change, from storm to sunshine and back again, like a hot August day with a southwest wind.

"How do you like it?" said Mrs. Chasby Soden to Jarvis Murray.

"I like it and I don't like it. I feel like a case-hardened brute when I treat her so. But it's going to work."

"And you'll stick to it?"

"Yes," he said grimly, "I love her."

Mrs. Chasby Soden went off into a corner, and patted herself on the back. When she saw her daughter she astonished that dampowder young lady with a spontaneous kiss.

That night Florence Craven made a discovery. She discovered that she was anxious to know what Murray meant. Up to the present time she had been unable to tell. The man was a puzzle to her and she wished to solve him. The question was, how was it to be done? Sometimes she thought he loved her. When he looked at her with the soul-leaking look she could have sworn it. But she remembered that she had no faith in men. So why should she believe in him? But still she'd like to know. She decided that the only plan was to do something desperate.

The next day she went in bathing just as every one else was going out. Murray stood on the end of the pier and watched her dive off. She was an expert swimmer. She swam straight out from the shore, and when she was forty or fifty rods from the end of the pier, turned over on her back and floated like a nymph. Murray started to walk away. Then she threw up her arms, uttered a scream, and went down. Of course Murray bit. He wasn't going to stand by and see her drown. He must have cleared twenty feet in his flying dive off the pier. He was at her side in a few seconds.

"I'm all right now," she said, panting. "It was just a momentary cramp."

"You're not all right, and you're coming ashore with me. Float."

She floated, and with one arm under her he swam toward the pier with her.

"What made you jump in after me?" she said.

"Do you think I'd see anything happen to you while the breath of life was in my nostrils?"

A great thrill of joy swept through Florence. It was the first time a great thrill of joy had been caused in her by a man since the era of the tall, handsome, strong, et cetera. She did not like it, on second thoughts. It frightened her. She escaped from him as soon as possible when she reached the shore. That night Mrs. Chasby Soden played her right bower. She watched till she saw Florence sitting on the veranda just outside a window. Then she went up to one of the old Noms, who was sitting just inside the same window, and said:

"Do you know, I really believe that Jarvis has just proposed to Nellie? I saw them in a corner, and he was holding her hand and talking passionately to her. I stole away, and they didn't see me."

Florence did not know just how she got out of her chair, but she was some distance away from that window when she recovered her self-control. Then she stood still and clasped her hands. Great heaven! Why did she feel that way? What difference did it make to her whether Jarvis Murray proposed to Nellie Soden or not? At that moment the miscreant came to her:

"I've been looking for you," he said.

"I don't believe you," she answered.

He calmly took possession of her arm and walked away with her. She tried to free herself.

"Don't be ridiculous," he said.

"I won't stand it," she exclaimed. "You are insufferably impudent. You treat me as if I were your property."

"After pulling you out of the water I feel a sort of personal interest in you."

"You didn't pull me out of the water," she answered, losing her mental balance. "There was not anything the matter with me at all."

He stopped short and looked her in the eyes. "Honor bright?"

"Honor fiddlesticks!"

"And you did that just to see whether I would try to save you?"

"Yes, I—no; what nonsense! I did it just—just—for fun."

He let go of her arm and took both her hands. "Florence, will you be my wife?"

"How dare you, sir! How many girls do you propose to in one evening?"

"Some one has been slandering me. I have never proposed to any other woman and I never shall."

Oh, wasn't she glad to hear that! And she believed it without a moment's hesitation.

"You haven't answered my question," he said: "Will you be my wife?"

"What for?"

"Because I love you!"

"No!"

That was her little triumph. He had made her feel miserable so often, and now she had her chance to be even with him. So she said "No," and then waited. And what do you think he did? Dropped her hands and walked away without another word.

The next day he treated her as if no word of love had ever passed between them. It was simply incomprehensible. Any other man would have gone away, or hung off in the distance and looked miserable, or proposed again, but this one did none of these things, and he never left her side. He did not sigh. He did not look miserable. He looked rather contented than otherwise. And he was simply knightly in his attentions. He not only fathomed her thoughts and executed her commands before she uttered them, but he frequently knew just what she wished when she was not quite sure of it herself. The result was inevitable. There never was a girl who could be comfortable in the presence of a newly-rejected suitor, and the peculiar conduct of this one was enough to get a girl mad. Florence was so upset by it that she tried to drive him away. But he would not be driven. He staid. And before night she actually felt ashamed of herself. He divined that, too, and told Mrs. Chasby Soden about it. Again she went off into the corner and patted herself on the back.

Jarvis Murray kept it up for a week. He was gentle, kind, tender and manly in his treatment of Florence. He neither said nor did any more rude things. He enfolded her in his protection. Her perpetually fanned her nostrils with the incense of his devotion.

But of love he spoke no word and made no sign. At the end of a week he told her he was going away the next day. He regretted that he could not remain longer, as it gave him great pleasure to think that his humble efforts had contributed to her enjoyment, and he flattered himself that they had so contributed. Was it not so?

Yes, it was so.

Well, then, he said, he should feel that his summer had been put to the very highest use. Good-bye. He hoped she would spare him a kindly remembrance once in a while when she had nothing better to occupy her thoughts. At that she gave a little sob.

"Oh!" she said, "I've been so wicked!"

"Wicked!" he replied. Not at all. You mean in regard to me, of course. Well, well, it certainly is not wicked for a woman to refuse to marry a man she does not love."

He made a sudden movement as if to leave her, the villain. She seized his hand convulsively.

"But," she cried hysterically, "but—but I—" Then he took her in his arms, and that evening Mrs. Chasby Soden kissed her daughter twice.— William J. Henderson, in New York Times.

The celebrated French poet, Saint-Foix, who, in spite of his large income, was always in debt, sat one day in a barber's shop waiting to be shaved. He was lathered, when the door opened and a tradesman entered, who happened to be one of the poet's largest creditors. No sooner did this man see Saint-Foix than he angrily demanded his money. The poet composedly begged him not to make a scene. "Won't you wait for the money until I am shaved?" "Certainly," said the other, pleased at the prospect. Saint-Foix then made the barber a witness of the agreement, and immediately took a towel, wiped the lather from his face and left the shop. He wore a beard to the end of his days.

"Darling," she said to her husband, as they sat on the roll of parlor carpet in the house into which they had just moved, "I wish this roll of carpet was velvet." "Do you? Well, I don't." "What do you wish?" "That it was down."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

WOMAN'S CORNER.

SEED AND HARVEST.

When the balmy winds of spring-time
Blow their breath across the plain,
Melting off the snows of winter,
Filling things with life again—

Then within the earth's broad bosom
Scatter we the precious seed,
Looking forward to the harvest,
Providing for a future need.

And as days of summer lengthen,
How we watch with eager eyes
The slow progress of our harvest
Growing to a ripening size.

For when summer's heat is over,
And autumn's winds go blowing past,
If we've been faithful to our duty,
The seed will bring good fruit at last.

Thus it is life's seed is planted,
Planted in our youthful day,
And it grows into a harvest,
As we go upon life's way.

If we plant the seed of wisdom,
And destroy the weeds of sin,
Happy lives and many blessings
Is the reward we'll surely win.

No matter what our worldly profit,
No matter in what place we go,
Our reward will be according
To the kind of seed we sow.

Then as we sow good seed in spring-time,
Let us sow good seed in youth;
Always trying to be faithful
To our duty and to truth.

—Boston Pilot.

ABOUT SPRING STYLES.

We used to hear a good deal about "winter lingering in the lap of spring," and she certainly has "lingered long" this year. The fashions were heralded in good season, and spring goods were displayed, but ladies have been reluctant to discard winter wraps and winter gowns for spring suits so long as the cold weather continued, and are only just beginning to appear in "Easter bonnets."

The stores in Boston present a gayer appearance this year than for seven years. Gay plaids and stripes, brilliant brocades, and plain goods in reds, golden browns, purples, violets, bright blues, high-colored tans, vivid greens,—indeed in all the colors of the rainbow and innumerable shades of each color, in cotton, wools and silks you may see arranged with an effect that only be described as gorgeous. You will see many of these colors made into suits, but modistes of the best taste say they are intended as adjuncts to suits of plainer tones.

Grays, browns, tans, dark shades of purple, blue, green, etc., are to be trimmed with bright tints of contrasting colors.

Eminence purple is the prevailing color. That is the name for all shades from royal purple to lilac. You see a great many eminence purple gowns upon the streets, but the ladies of best taste wear only the darker and more subdued tints, and keep the brighter and more delicate shades for house wear.

Ladies of most modest taste still trim woolens in gray and tans, with darker shades and with browns, of silk, velvet, braid, etc., and the hats and bonnets are touched up with some brighter color.

The hats and bonnets in general effect are not unlike those of last year, although there are many new details. The high trimming and airy arrangements of lace, ornaments, ribbons, flowers and aigrettes still obtain. Flats bent artistically to suit the face of the wearer are even more stylish this year than last; although, of course, special shapes have "runs" in different places, and what is very popular in one locality may not "take" in another, where another shape is better liked; and each shape may be equally stylish.

Some odd color combinations are made; "Frenchy," the milliner calls them. Violet and light green; eminence purple and canary; golden brown and green; navy blue and moss green; lilac, moss green and golden brown; and more unusual than any other combination till this spring, but now quite common, eminence purple, moss green, golden brown and light blue. It does not sound pretty, but really some of the hats are very attractive with even four colors, one always green.

Satin is the "latest" in everything, dresses, ribbons and trimmings. Black satin is put upon goods of all colors and materials in ruffles, folds and for sleeves and bretelles. Sleeves do not stand up so high as formerly, but are full and fall down over the arms, and the bretelles of numerous shapes are all very effective.

Last year the dress skirts grew fuller and fuller and longer and longer, but not a voice nor a pen was raised in remonstrance till at least one-half the dresses one saw on the street "dipped" more or less, to sweep up debris; even then there was seen in print only occasionally an antiquated joke about the trains, borrowed from some long-ago newspaper. But this year when crinoline is threatened, the hoop skirt vies with the Democratic administration, the exposition and disastrous fires on the first pages of the daily papers. It is said that Mrs. Cleveland has consented to wear crinoline, that is, a stiffened skirt, but that she will not wear a hoop skirt. "So say we all of us." No, indeed, not the great tilters, three yards and a half around the bottom spring! Do you remember them? Yet, when one considers the amount of wet and dirt the modest hoop skirt with only about a dozen steels at the bottom around the back where they are never in the way—when one considers how much wet and dirt such a skirt saves the dress, especially in contrast with the train, one wonders at the cry.

There are full dress skirts four yards around the bottom, with the crinoline a half a yard deep; but many ladies, especially the older ladies, prefer a modified style. We shall see what will come. One thing is assured, the walking dress is made quite short, too short for the liking of stout ladies, who will have their dresses made to clear the ground and no shorter.

The fair will introduce all kinds of fashions, and there is a concerted effort to be made to introduce the various "reform" dresses. The Jenness-Miller, the Syrian, the Lillian Wright Dean, and other "rainy day" costumes are to be worn by wealthy and eminent ladies in the hope that something of the kind may be adopted as a street costume, especially upon rainy days. The idea is for ladies who may wear what they like to make these stylish in order to introduce for business women, and women who work, a dress that shall be more comfortable and convenient than anything now in vogue. It is contended that the reform dress is more beautiful than the unreformed, if I may so name our present styles, and that it is our unfamiliarity with it only that makes it appear ugly. There is need enough of reform in this respect. We certainly have no suitable "business suit" for women. Those I have named are graceful and attractive upon slight forms and young figures, but how does a stout woman with gray hairs look in one of them? And there are a great many business women of stout figures and gray hairs in America. We certainly need to be "educated up to it."

FRANCES VIRILLA DOANE.

"How is my wagon getting along!" asked the butcher. You've had it six weeks." 'All ready but the wheels. They're not tired yet," returned the wagon-mender. "Well, they ought to be, they've been waiting so long," said the butcher.—Harper's Bazar.

All for a Man.

He had flirted at Bar Harbor and at Narragansett Pier;
He had thoroughly "done Europe," and at last began to fear
That life was after all to prove a "horrid, beastly bore,"
And love—as 'tis in novels and young visions—was no more;
Then by the merest circumstance he took a sudden fancy
To go to Pottstown Corners and visit old Aunt Nancy;
And never dreamed that Pottstown opened into Paradise,
Or that his Eve was singing there—with modest shining eyes;
"O for a man—O for a man—a mansion in the skies!"

The mischief happened this way: In Pottstown etiquette
To stay away from meeting is a sin they can't forget;
So when Aunt Nancy asked him and he set out to refuse,
Her look of horror silenced him; he muttered, "Ah—excuse—
I mean, I'll go,"—and meekly walked in all his best attire
The mile-long dusty street; then slept, until the village choir
Aroused him with the closing hymn, and much to his surprise,
A sweet-voiced angel seemed to lead, with pure, uplifted eyes:
"O for a man—O for a man—a mansion in the skies!"

And when that congregation in that honest way they love
Faced straight about and gazed up to that singing loft above,
He turned and stared enchanted at a girl who seemed to lack Naught but a tarnished golden frame and canvas at her back
To make her some old picture from Florence or from Munich
(An illusion carried out by her hat and her white tunic.)
He stared, enraptured, in a way the hymn don't authorize;
She knew and blushed and sang again, with shy and downcast eyes:
"O for a man—O for a man—a mansion in the skies!"

I blush to tell—but after that no deacon in the church
More constant was at meeting, more earnest in the search
Apparently for Scripture lore, and although he had been A worshiper of Wagner—Walkyrie—Lohengrin—
He sat in adoration when that village choir sang "Mear,"
And cherubim and seraphim seemed singing in his ear;
Old "China," "Webb" and "Lennox" were choicest harmonies;
But best of all was when she sang—with sweet and drooping eyes:
"O for a man—O for a man—a mansion in the skies!"

But why prolong this story? Since "love will find a way,"
He lingered with Aunt Nancy for many and many a day;
And spite of saintly likeness to Madonnas, she was human,
And with a heart that could be won like any other woman.
So now he roves no longer, but is quite the business man,
And likes when evening comes to sit and look on—when he can—
While she bends o'er the cradle, with its silken draperies,
And croons, in low and hushing voice—with happy, love-lit eyes:
"My little man—my little man—must shut his sleepy eyes."

—Helen M. Winslow, in New England Magazine.

THE MAN WHO NEVER CRIED.

"You are said to be a hard-hearted man. A man who has no sympathy with the sorrows of other people, and strangely lacking in feeling when trouble comes to your own home."

These words were addressed by a young man to one much his senior in years and experience. His name was John Andrews; and one would have compared him to George Washington. There was the same kingly erectness of form, the same firm, commanding bearing and voice. His forehead was high and broad, an index of great intellect. Heavy brows shaded a pair of steel-gray eyes, noticeable for their expression of controlled force. The lower part of his face, especially his square-built chin, told of an iron will and an inflexible nature. As he walked the street, many gazed after this courtly man, and owned that his influence counted for much in the town where he had grown up; but the same thing was always said about him: "His heart is as hard as Pharaoh's."

The young man, Philip, who uttered the above words, was a favorite nephew of Mr. Andrews. He was a fine, manly fellow, just entering college.

Philip had been stung to the quick by the oft-repeated opinions of people in regard to his Uncle John's "hard-heartedness," and one day he followed him into his office, and, before he could choose his sentences or soften the words, spoke his heart out in this heavy accusation of others.

Looking up quickly to note the effect he was pained to see the look of anguish settle like a dark cloud over his uncle's face, "Why!" he exclaimed, "do you mean to say, Uncle John, that you have never heard what people say of you? I heard a man declare to-day that he never knew of your shedding a tear in your life."

Mr. Andrews stood by his desk with his hand shading his eyes. In the bright sunlight which flooded the office his hair was almost white, and deep lines were furrowed in his face that Philip had never noticed before. His form was bowed, and his whole appearance was expressive of extreme agony, as if from the shock of a sudden blow.

He raised his head, gazing long and earnestly at his nephew's bright, young face. "And this," he said, in a voice that trembled, "is the sentence that my old friends have pronounced upon me! I am a 'hard-hearted man;' and yet I have been a good citizen, thank God! a good Christian, I trust; a good husband and father. Ah, my boy, it is too true that I have not shed a tear since I was your own age. There is a secret of my life which others have not known. I have always kept it buried in the depths of my heart; but your hand has unlocked the door; you shall know why no one has ever seen me shed a tear or show any emotion. When I was a boy of sixteen I was not unlike you, Philip. I had your quick sensibilities, your warm, impetuous disposition. I had a brother, your Uncle Charles, who was five or six years older than I, and we were as fond and loving of each other and of your Aunt Helen as any brothers could be.

"She was then a young girl of twelve, and it seemed to us there never was a daintier, sweeter sister in all the world. She had a timid, clinging nature, that appealed to us for protection. We were all the more tender because she shared the family trouble; our skeleton in the closet was known to her. How many nights have I seen her with her dear, sweet face pressed against the window, peering into the darkness for a familiar form shuffling home at night from the grog-shop around the corner.

"Often I would take her into my arms, and tell her to leave Charles and me to watch for father; but she always insisted that she could wait on him when he came in, and perhaps comfort mother.

"Things grew from worse to worse, until we would not allow Helen to see father when he came home. His language was often abusive and cruel.

"Our family had never been poor until then, but we soon commenced to feel that father was drinking up all the earnings. Charles had a position in a village academy, on a small salary, and I was clerk in a bank. Even with what we boys could earn we had hard work to make both ends meet. I could not bear to have Helen do so much, and see her growing paler and thinner every day. My heart was broken as I sometimes heard mother cry.

"One day a thunder-bolt fell upon us in the shape of a big bill from Greggs, the owner of the grog-store. We did not know what to do. In those days, men were put in jail for debt. We talked of that, mother wringing her hands at the thought of it. Well, your Uncle Charles and I at last succeeded in getting enough money, and I took it to Mr. Greggs, with the firm resolve in my heart that father should never get another drop of liquor at that place.

"It was hard for me to enter the store. There was, on the walk outside, a group of half-drunken men. They were hovering near like moths around a flame. I was ashamed to go into the brightly-lighted room, where there was another group of men, who were taking their 'night-caps,' as they called the final drink. The fumes of the liquors made me sick, and I wanted to rush out into the fresh air again, and forgot what brought me to such a place. As I stood before the bar, my eye followed the revolting faces around me. I turned away with loathing from the profane, obscene jokes that filled the room. And yet I was in the place where my father was most at home—a father who was once my pride.

"Mr. Greggs looked up when he saw me enter, and asked in a jocular tone: 'Well, my lad, what can I do for you? Is there anything in my line of business that will hit your taste? Perhaps your father sent you for a little drop to warm him up this cold night.'

"Imagine how my pride was roused at those jeering words. The hot blood rushed to my temples; the half-drunken men watched me with noisy glee. It was all fun to them. At last, holding up my head, I walked past them all, close up to the desk. I held out the bill and the money to Mr. Greggs. 'Ah!' he said, with a greedy eye on the money, 'your dad is paying up brisk this time, eh?'

"'Mr. Greggs,' I said, in as firm a voice as I could muster, 'I have come to pay the money my father owes you for the last year. Here it is. You can count it and see that every cent is here, and may it be the last.'

"And now my spirit was up. I went nearer the man. I thought of mother and Helen. I spoke low and firmly, I said, 'Mr. Greggs, I have one thing to ask you. Will you promise me that you will never sell my father another drop?'

"'Hump!' he replied, 'you had better go about your business, young man. Don't be spoiling my trade. Your dad is too good a customer to give up as easy as this.'

"The tears sprang to my eyes, but I dashed them away, and, going behind the bar, I said to him in a lower voice, 'Mr. Greggs, I know that father pays you a good deal of money. I have thought of that. I should like to make this agreement with you: If you will reckon up what your profit is from the liquor you sell father, Charles and I will pay it to you, if you will promise not to sell him a drop for a year.'

"He laughed at my proposition. At first I was angry. I could have struck him in my passion, but, somehow, I was so filled with pity for mother and Helen and even for father, that my anger all melted away. I was broken in heart, and I thought to soften this man by our great sorrow. Somehow, I don't know how it was, as I pleaded with him, in my awful agony I fell upon my knees. I clasped my arms around his feet and fairly bathed them with my tears, as I begged him not to ruin my father. I told him of my mother's breaking heart and of little Helen's prayers. For a moment or two he let me lie there, and then he lifted his foot and spurned me with his heavy boot. He kicked me! 'Go!' he said, 'you crying baby. I'll have none of your pious cant and womanish tears. Go home and tell your mother that her son is a weak, snivelling boy, and tell your sister that not if she crept here on her knees and prayed to me would I stop giving your old dad all the drink he wants.'

"When these cruel words were out, he gave me a push and drove me out into the street, following me with a fearful oath that rings in my ear to this day.

"I do not know how long I wandered around in the cold, but I know that my tears gushed out like fountains of water, and that great sobs shook me. I sank down overcome with grief, and for a time I lost myself.

"When I awakened, my eyes were like burning coals, and in place of a heart I felt as if a great stone was in my breast. Ah! the agony of that home-coming! I told mother and Charles all that I had experienced. I saw their tears, but I never mingled mine with theirs. The fountain was dry. The great revulsion of feeling had come, and I was a dumb animal, feeling a sorrow, but with no voice to utter it. Now, my boy, you know why I am called a hard-hearted man.

"In my own sorrows, the loss of a loved wife and children, I have stood by their silent, dead forms, and my eyes have been dry. I could not cry, though my heart was breaking. Long years ago I sobbed out all my emotions on the door of that grog-store. The cruelty of that man, a sense of his unpitying nature as I pleaded with him, and as he put his foot upon me, it froze my heart. My father, after a while, grew to be a better man. He became a Christian.

"One Sunday morning the minister, 'Father Chester' we called him, preached a sermon on the text, 'Nor drunkards shall inherit the kingdom of God.' The sermon was very powerful, but the prayer that followed was more powerful, for it was tenderer. Every one was moved when the minister raised his arms to pronounce the benediction; but, just then, father stepped from the pew into the aisle, and, looking earnestly at the minister, raised his hand, a signal that he wished to speak. Mr. Chester, dropping his arms, called out father's name, and asked him what he he had to say.

"Slowly father moved down the aisle, and when he came to the pulpit platform he turned around, facing the great congregation, and then he spoke, his voice breaking under his great feeling. He confessed his sin and shame, and solemnly promised that he would never drink another drop of liquor. He asked the minister and the people for their prayers. Everybody was in tears; but I, with my heart swelling within me, could not cry.

"Father lived years after, a strong temperance man, a noble Christion. When he died I mourned him, but there were no tears. Ah! they say I never cry, do they? The agony of not being able to cry has been the secret sorrow of my life.

"I feel for the trials and sadness of other lives, but I cannot express it in any outward way. So they call me 'hard-hearted.' Little do they know what turned my heart to stone. Mr. Greggs, that monster of hard-heartedness, is the cause of all this. He, and men of his profession brutalize themselves by their traffic in human souls. They are putting their feet on the necks of proud sons, praying mothers and sisters, and are surely crushing out the life in them. This monster intemperance, is like a fiery dragon, breathing its hot breath upon human hopes, aspiration and loves, and blighting them forever.

"Ah!" he murmured in a sad tone, "they call me hard-hearted. How little they know! How little they know!"

Philip, with his arms around his uncle's neck, felt a tear drop on his cheek. He looked up and saw that again the fountain was unlocked. The strong man was weeping like a child.—Mrs. L. Spaulding in Watchman.

JIM'S CRIME.

The widow Collins was sick in bed. It was the first time she had ever been sick in her life, and this was the worst time, too, to go to bed in her estimation, for they, the Collinses, while they never had been rich, were poorer now than ever they had been before, which was very poor indeed.

There was three of them; the widow and her two sons, James and Patrick, or Jimmy and Patsy, as they were called, who until now had managed very nicely, in their poor way, the widow by taking in washing and the boys by selling papers and doing odd jobs after school.

It had been this woman's pride to send her boys to school, for, though she had no education herself, she recognized its value in others, and the fact that her boys were at school learning something had served more to reconcile her to her hard lot than anything else. Often, while leaning over her tubs, she would picture to herself the boys growing into men, honest and respected and perhaps rich, and living to thank their poor old mother who had striven so hard to give them the education to which they owed their success.

Now, however, all thoughts of the future were forgotten, for Bridget Collins was a very sick woman, and was inclined to think that the future for her was rather doubtful. Of course the boys had left school the moment their mother was taken sick, and, while Patsy stayed at home, acting in the capacity of nurse, Jimmy was continually upon the streets, selling papers, blacking boots, running errands and doing everything possible to earn money so that a doctor could be employed and the mother receive the attention she required.

Money, however, never seemed so scarce as now, and luck never so set against him. The first day he earned but 60 cents and on the next day 40 cents.

On his return home the second day he was met at the door by Patsy.

"Say, Jimmie," said Patsy, "de coal's run out and mother's gone out of her head. I went over to get de doctor, but he wouldn't come unless he got his money first. How much you got?"

"Nothin', Patsy—only 40 cents. I ain't no good—never had such luck! But say! You get your hat, Patsy, leave Mrs. Gilligan with mother and come along with me. I'm going to get some money."

"Say, Patsy," said Jimmie, when they had left the house and were on their way up town, "you've seen the Reform School, ain't yer—dat big brick building over on the west side dats got de big wall around it? Day say it's an awful nice place, Patsy. Mike Garrity was dare all last winter and said he didn't have to work at all and dat he only had ter go to school, and dat de eatin' was great—better'n he got ter home by a long shot, Patsy."

They had got into the busy part of town by this time and were opposite the court house, which stood in the middle of the square.

"Do you see dat sign over dare?" asked Jimmie, pointing to one standing in the court house yard, which read:

$100 REWARD!

THE ABOVE REWARD WILL BE GIVEN FOR THE ARREST AND CONVICTION OF ANY ONE BREAKING GLASS, DEFACING WALLS OR OTHERWISE TRESPASSING ON THESE PREMISES.—R. L. JONES, Mayor.

"Yes," said Patsy, "I see de board; but what of it? You don't know who broke de last glass do yer?"

"Naw!" said Jimmie, "I don't know dat; but you'll know who breaks some more glass to-morrow. See! And you'll just collar dat reward, and hire a doctor, and get some coal and buy somethin' good fur mother so's she'll get well: dats all. We'll go home now."

* * * * * * * *

When Mayor Jones arrived at the court house next morning he was surprised as well as enraged at the work some miscreant had done during the night. Five of the lower windows had been broken and a pet bed of flowers plucked up and trampled over, while upon the walls of the court house were huge caricatures of himself marked with yellow chalk.

"Great Scott," he howled, "this is an outrage! Contemptible! But I'll have their blood, I'll skin 'em alive, I—I'll give 'em the full extent of the law. How could this have been done? Where were my police? I'll know something of this."

"Say, mister;" said a small, gruff voice, "I know the fellow who did it, and if you will send a copper along I'll show you where he lives, if you'll gimme the reward."

"Eh! What?" exclaimed the mayor. "Sure you'll get the reward and more too, if you can prove what you say. But see here! Maybe you're one of 'em yourself, and are trying to get out of it this way—here, Brooks!" speaking to a policeman, "Go with this boy, and if he speaks the truth, arrest the person he names and bring him before me, I—I'll sentence him myself!"

* * * * * * * *

In about a half hour Jimmie was brought into the court room, followed up by Patsy, a lot of the neighbors, a half dozen idle lawyers, and the usual crowd of morbid curiosity seekers.

The mayor's indignation was so great that he decided not to wait until the usual hour of opening the court, but to try the case at once.

Jimmy had no one to defend him except the neighbors—and Patsy—whom every one gazed at with contempt—despite the "enormity" of the crime—for having betrayed his brother.

Jimmy, however, did not try to defend himself; but when the mayor ceased talking to him of the horrible "something" that was in store for him, should the offense be proved, he "broke down" and made a full confession.

As it was now a clear case, Patsy—who had piped in just at this point—was paid his reward in two new $50 bills, after which he immediately disappeared.

"Well," said the mayor, after looking over some law books, "I am sorry to find that, owing to your youth, I cannot dose you as heavily as I should prefer; but will, nevertheless, teach you a lesson you will not soon forget. I fine you $20 and send you to the reform school for three months, or"—looking around the room incredulously—"if there is any one here that will pay a fine of $50, you can go free."

As the mayor expected, there was, of course, no answer to this, and after waiting for a few moments, he cleared his throat.

"I'll pay dat fine," said a small voice.

The mayor looked around. There stood Patsy, holding up one of the new $50 bills that had just been given him a few minutes before.

"What!" thundered the mayor, "you pay the fine?"

"Sure," said Patsy. "Ain't my money as good as anybody elses?"

"But, sir!' frothed the mayor, "I—I gave you that money and—and this boy is your—brother sir!—this is conspiracy!"

"Of course you gave me the money," answered Patsy, "and dat makes it mine I guess, and you dont think I'd pay any other person's fine, do yer?"

By this time every one in the court room was "dead on," as it were, and fully enjoying the mayor's discomfiture. That august personage, realizing his helplessness, did the only thing possible for him to do. He took the money and dismissed the case.

That remaining $50 bill worked wonders in the Collins family, for with it a doctor was procured, a lot of coal put in, enough provisions to last a month, and the widow, by its influence, was soon able to be about again, stronger and better than ever.

The boys have grown older now, and, although they are still going to school, the widow is thinking of soon taking them out, for there is a lawyer uptown who has offered to give them employment in his office and let them study law. With this prospect in view, the widow does not doubt that some day they will grow to be as great as any in the land.—Luke Calhoun Hazlett in the New York Voice.

Woman's Silence.

'Tain't no use to woo a woman
When she thinks she wants to talk,
'Cause a woman's only human,
And you'd better take a walk
Till she simmers down and settles;
When a woman's on her ear
'Tis the pleasantest in silence
What she has to say to hear.

'Tain't no use to try to crowd her,
'Cause she's bound to say her say,
You talk loud and she'll talk louder;
Better haste to break away;
When she's in the upper octaves,
Better wander from her view,
Then the song she sings in silence
Is the sweetest song to you.

But you can coax her and caress her,
And she'll melt and run to you
As the 'lasses on your pancakes
In your boyhood used to do.
If you have a sorrow, tell her,
Then just watch her tear-drops fall;
And the sighs she sighs in silence
Are the saddest sighs of all.

When you ask a girl to marry
And she hangs on what you've said,
And your hope hangs on her answer,
And a moon hangs overhead;
When you seem to see her thinking,
And you kinder have the call,
Then her answer, said in silence,
Is the sweetest word of all.

—Cy Warman, in New York Sun.

AMONG THE PARAGRAPHERS.

MARJORIE'S KISSES.

Marjorie laughs and climbs on my knee,
And I kiss her, and she kisses me.
I kiss her, but I don't much care,
Because, although she is charming and fair,
Marjorie's only three.

But there will come a time, I ween,
When, if I tell her of this little scene,
She will smile and prettily blush, and then
I shall long in vain to kiss her again,
When Marjorie's seventeen.

—Walter Learned, in Century.

It is not difficult to be generous to a fault when that fault happens to be one's own.—Boston Transcript.

Inspector (at the penitentiary)—"I understand that measles broke out three days ago." Warden—"Yes; but the guards caught them."—Puck.

Nervous Employer—"I don't pay you for whistling." Office Boy—"That's all right. I can't whistle well enough to charge extra for it."—Street & Smith's Good News.

Boss—"Did you come down with Frank this morning?" Clerk—"No, sir. I came down by myself. The banana peel wasn't big enough for two."—Detroit Free Press.

The City Boy. It was the first time Johnnie had ever heard a guinea hen. "Oh ma!" he shouted, "come and hear this chicken awindin' itself up!"—Indianapolis Journal.

Willis—"That young man who plays the cornet is sick." Wallace—"Do you think he will recover?" "I'm afraid not. The doctor who is attending him lives next door."—Life.

Mabel—"Well, Uncle Abner, did you get to the opera early enough last night?" Uncle Abner—"Well, I should say so; not more'n half of 'em was dressed."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"Do you play chess, Mr. Jaysmith?" asked the landlord of a tenant who was behind in his rent. "Yes, sir. Why?" "Then it is your move."—Browning, King & Co's. Monthly.

"Tom," she said, nestling on his shoulder, "have you found your ideal?" "Well, If I haven't," was his guarded answer, "I have found a mighty good substitute."—Pittsburg Despatch.

An exact science—Snipper—"Do you consider medicine an exact science?" Tipper—"Certainly. I've noticed that physicians exact large amounts for their services."—Detroit Free Press.

Tramp—"Please, mum, I haven't a friend or a relative in the world." Housekeeper—"Well, I'm glad there's no one to worry over you in case you get hurt. Here Tige!"—New York Weekly.

Mr. Norris—"Is the janitor of your flat honest?" Mr. Skyhigh—"I guess so; I gave him five dollars when I moved in last fall and I haven't had to buy but one ton of coal since."—Life's Calendar.

"Pay as you go,' is my rule," said the man who was about to rent a house. "Excuse me," replied the real estate agent, "but we can't wait for you to go. You'll have to pay in advance."—Washington Star.

Seedy Samuel—"Sir, I am in a little trouble and I should be very glad if you could help me out." Mr. B. Z. Day—"Certainly, certainly; which way would you prefer, the door or the window?"—Boston Courier.

Lady—"Is Mrs. Binks at home?" Servant—"No'm." Lady—"Can you tell me when she will be at home?" Servant—"As soon as she gets the parlor dusted, mum, an' she's most through now."—New York Weekly.

Woman (to herself)—"It scares me half to death to drive this horse. I wonder what he will do next." Horse (to himself)—"That must be a woman driving me, or I wouldn't be jammed into everything on the road."—Wonder.

Owner of Fish Pond (to man who is trespassing)—"Don't you see that sign, 'No Fishing Here?'" Angler (with an injured air)—"Yes, and I dispute it—why, there's good fishing here—look at this string."—Harper's Weekly.

Waiting. Policeman—"Here, move on, hayseed. Wot yer waitin' fer?" Uncle Micah—"I'm waitin' for a man who offered to take my watch to get it regilated. He ought to be back now. It's nigh two hours since he went."—Chicago Record.

KING JAMES AND THE MAYOR.

In connection with the value of the river Thames to the mercantile interests of the English metropolis, a good story is related of James the First and the Lord Mayor of London. James, as was often the case during his reign, was upon a certain occasion in great need of money, and he applied to the corporation of London for the loan of twenty thousand pounds. This gentle request the corporation refused, upon which the king, in high dudgeon, sent for the Lord Mayor and the chief of the aldermen, and having scolded them severely for what he was pleased to term their disloyalty, he insisted upon their raising the money for him.

"Please your Majesty," said the Lord Mayor, "we cannot lend you what we have not got."

"You must get it," declared the king.

"We cannot," said the mayor.

"I'll compel you," cried James, with a stamp of the foot.

"But your Majesty cannot compel us to do that which is beyond our power," retorted the mayor boldly.

"No!" exclaimed the king angrily. Then I'll ruin your city forever. I'll make a desert of Westminster. I'll remove my whole court—law, parliament and all—to New York, and then what will become of you?"

"Please your Majesty," replied the lord mayor, with a submissive bow," you will remove your courts and yourself whenever you please, but there is still left one consolation for us poor merchants of London: You cannot take the Thames along with you!"

James did not remove his courts.

CONCISE.—A young husband gave his wife a neat little account book, prettily bound and designed to be inviting in appearance. He also gave her $50 and said: "I want you to put down what I give you on this side, and on the other write down the way it goes, and in a fortnight I will give you another supply."

Two weeks later he asked for the book.

"Oh, I have kept that account," said the young matron. "Here it is." And on one page was inscribed: "Received from Algy $50," and on the opposite was this summary: "Spent it all."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

HAYNES & CO.

Keeping pace with the spirit of the age!

To select the best clothes requires experience. To secure them at the right price requires capital. These two necessary requisites make it possible for Haynes & Co. to do the best for you. It is not necessary for you to learn the lesson many have learned at cost to themselves.

Come to the Leaders, First, Last and Always.

HAYNES & CO. can and will BEAT THEM ALL.

Stocks in every department are complete and it is to your advantage to buy now. We are showing the handsomest collection of

Men's and Young Men's Dress and Business Suits

—AND—

SPRING OVERCOATS.

Ranging in price from $8.50 to $20 you have ever seen. Be not deceived. Examine Haynes & Co's $8.50 Suits!

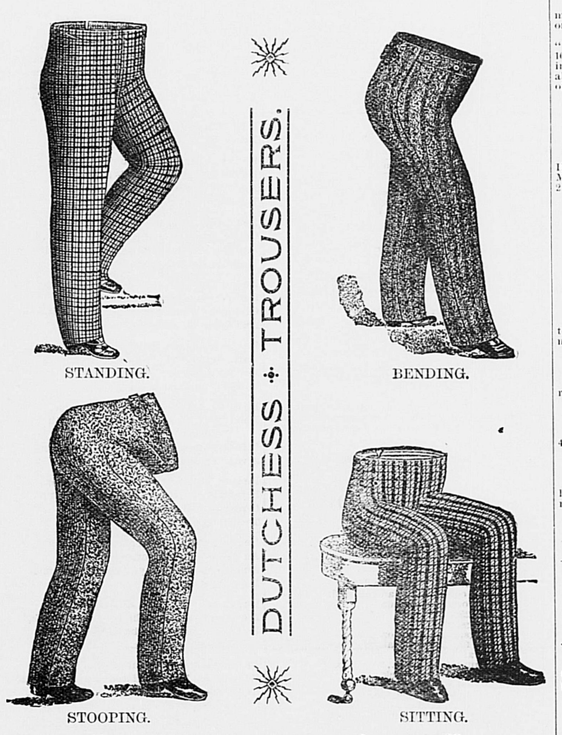
There's a clear saving to you of $1.50 on them.

Four handsome lines of double breast light Cheviot Suits just in. We make price $8.50 per suit; usually sold at $10. Don't fail to see them. Also our leader, the standard Black Cheviot double and single breast suits at $9.85. These styles are loud talkers; They sell themselves.
We open for this week's sale, more of those handsome Black Cheviot Spring Overcoats, silk faced, fit to perfection. Price $8.50, $10 and $12.
Dark steel gray Spring Overcoats. New lines at $12, $14, $15 and $16, equal to custom. Fine garments for $16.50, $18 and $20.
When in doubt where to find the best assortment of Reliable Goods at lowest prices make up your mind to visit

HAYNES & CO.,
Clothiers, Tailors, Hatters and Furnishers,
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.



No matter in what position you place yourself, DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers

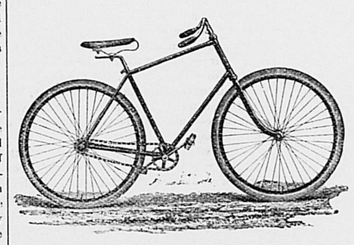
AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,

And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR.

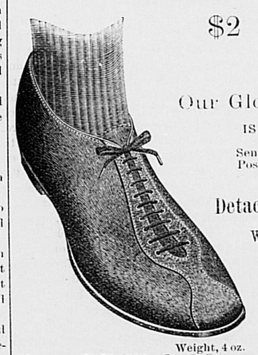
BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

E. A. BUCK & CO., ∴ BICYCLES.



| | |
|---|---|
| The Rambler, Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Cleveland, Ladies and Gents, | $160 |
| Warwick, | $150 |
| Road King, | $150 |
| New Mail, | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, | $115 |
| Duke, | $100 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $40 |



$2 Scorcher Shoe!

Why wear brogans?
You want light wheels.
Why not light shoes?

Our Glove Fitting Dongola Shoe

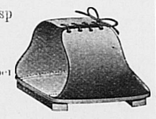
IS STYLISH, NEAT, COMFORTABLE.

Send money and size of foot.
Postage free.

Detachable Cleat and Shoe Protector,

With Automatic Sole Clasp

Detached instantly.
For rat-trap and rubber pedals.



Weight, 4 oz.

E. A. BUCK & CO., - PALMER, MASS.

Did you know

THAT YOU CAN FIND

a fine line of footwear

Including SLIPPERS, etc., at LUMAN'S?

He also wishes to announce to the people of THORNDIKE and vicinity that he has added a line of PATENT MEDICINES, etc., to his stock. . . . The only place in the village where you can get a full line of Lazell's NEW YORK PERFUMES. Don't buy cheap colognes when you can get the very best for a trifle more. . . Call and examine whether you wish to purchase or not.

At J. F. LUMAN'S.

WON'T YOU NEED US DURING THE SPRING OF 1893?

—: WE HAVE :—

Every Thing to Sit on,

Lounge on—Sleep on—Walk on—Stand on—Hang on—Cook on—E

ALL THINGS

For convenience, comfort, adornment or necessity required for home or home furnishing.

SETS.

In this line it is timely to look at parlor, library, chamber and dining-room sets.

We have them in all makes, woods, styles and finish. They are splendid in looks and are built to stand a life of service and moving. You can afford them at our prices and on our liberal terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.
If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half-mile in public in stud season in 1:07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2:32 1-2, trial 2:44.

For Speed! Speed! Speed!

Breed to "LENOX B." son of ALCYONE and IDLEWOOD, 2:29 1-4, trial 2:18. ALCYONE sired Martha Wilkes 2:08, McKinnay 2:12 1-2, Aleryon 2:15, Rush 2:16.

For particulars see or write to

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

NEW BARGAINS.

A new two-tenement house to rent at $10 each tenement, or will sell for $100 down and balance may be paid in monthly payments as rent.

Farm of 17 acres, 2 miles from village on main road; good house and barn, $1000.

Farm of 50 acres. New house, barn with cellar; 4 miles from Enfield, Mass. $800.

House of 6 rooms, barn with cellar, 5 acres of land; 2 miles from village; buildings new and all right. $1000.

D. F. HOLDEN,

Palmer, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD'S

CLOAK

AND

SUIT HOUSE.

JACKETS

In every color, shape and price. One of the styles, "The Butterfly cape" jacket, we have at $7.50, $8.50 and $10. The "Mecca" jacket comes with a very wide collar which makes a cape. This is the very latest Parisian cut. It comes lined fancifully and has the "Umbrella" back. Ask to see the "Mecca."

CAPES

For all ages and sizes. They come in lengths and sizes appropriate for all. The assortment is unsurpassed in this city. We have excellent ones for elderly ladies, more in the wrap shapes that tie in the back, and many imported styles you won't find elsewhere.

LADIES' WAISTS AND SUITS.

This department is complete with every variety and style of waist and suit for travelling or house wear. See them.

Jas. McKeon & Co

309 MAIN ST., SPRINGFIELD, MASS. tf-51

THE BEST BICYCLES ON EARTH are COLUMBIAS.

SEE THE GUARNTEES MADE ON THEIR TIRES.

FROM $110 TO $150.

SOLD BY

CHANDLER BROS.,

PALMER.

NEW DENTAL OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental Office formerly occupied by Dr. Hill, I should be pleased to see any who are in need of my services.
All operations performed in the best possible manner.

E. S. BRYANT, D. M. D.

HATCH BLOCK, PALMER. tf-29

FLYNT

Building and Construction Co.

GENERAL OFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

We contract to perform all labor, and furnish all material of the different classes, required to build complete.

CHURCHES, HOTELS, MILLS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND RESIDENCES.

Also for the construction of

RAILROADS, DAMS AND BRIDGES.

We solicit correspondence with those wishing place the construction of any proposed new work under one contract, which shall include all branches connected with the work.
To such parties we will furnish satisfactory references from those for whom we have performed similar work.

GRANOLITHIC.

We are the New England Agents for Stewart & Co's. Patent Granolithic for sidewalks, floors, steps, etc.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R.

SOUTHERN DIVISION

(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)

CORRECTED TO MARCH 26, 1893.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.18 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.
FOR Worcester—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.25, 4.45, 6.25 p. m.
FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43, 7.52 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.52 p. m.
THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILROAD.

NEW LONDON DIVISION.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3d, 1892.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Leave Brattleboro, 5.45 and 10.25 a m and 4.25 p m for New London, connecting at Millers Falls with Fitchburg R. R. at Belchertown with Central Massachusetts R R, and at Palmer for Worcester Boston, Springfield, etc.
Leave Amherst, 7.05 a m, 12.14 and 5.53 p m.
Leave Palmer, 6.40 and 8.40 a m, 1.55 and 7.10 p m.
Leave Willimantic for New London, 8.00, 10.17 a m 3.25, 6.35 and 8.45 p m.

GOING NORTH.

Leave New London, 5.25 and 7.45 a m, 2.30 and 5.20 p m.
The 5.25 and 7.45 a m and 5.20 p m run through to Brattleboro and make connections for the north.
Leave New London for Palmer, 2.30 p m.
Leave New London for Willimantic and intermediate stations, 10.05 a m.
Leave Palmer for Brattleboro, 8.35, 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m, the 11.00 connecting with express for Montreal and the White Mountains. Also Grand Trunk R. R. for the West.
Leave Palmer for Amherst, 8.35 and 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m.

D. MACKENZIE, Supt.,
New London, Ct.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.

CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, PALMER, MASS.

Hours from 9 a. m. to 12 m., 1 to 3 p. m.

JAMES B. SHAW, President.

ENOS CALKINS of Palmer, GEORGE MOORES of Thorndike, T. D. POTTER of Springfield, } Vice Presidents.

W. W. LEACH, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Enos Calkins, | R. C. Newell, |
| James B. Shaw, | F. F. Marcy, |
| Geo. Moores, | H. Waid, |
| H. G. Loomis, | W. W. Leach, |
| T. D. Potter, | C. H. Hobbs, |
| O. P. Holden, | C. E. Getchell, |
| E. G. Hastings, | Geo. E. Buck, |
| C. L. Gardner, | A. L. Hills, |
| | Wm. Holbrook. |

BOARD OF INVESTMENT.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Enos Calkins, | T. D. Potter | James B. Shaw, |
| Geo. Moores, | H. G. Loomis, | E. G. Hastings, |
| C. E. Getchell. | | |

AUDITORS.

C. H. Hobbs, A. L. Hills.

L. E. MOORE, Treasurer.

World's Fair.

Printed matter describing the Fair, and full printed information as to reaching Chicago from your home, including the time-tables of the railroads and sailings of the steamers you would use, may be had FREE by arrangment with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, if you address

THE JOURNAL,

Palmer, Mass.

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 12, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 6.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. A discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $10; one-half inch one week, 75 cents; each additional week, 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," "To-Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; no charge less than 50 cents. Notices in local column, 15 cents per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best styles, promptly and at reasonable rates.

C. B. FISKE. L. E. CHANDLER.

[Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Orders box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m..

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S.S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Book. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street.
H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street.
G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

THE FACT

That AYER'S Sarsaparilla CURES OTHERS of scrofulous diseases, eruptions, boils, eczema, liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, rheumatism and catarrh should be convincing that the same course of treatment WILL CURE YOU. All that has been said of the wonderful cures effected by the use of

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

During the past 50 years, truthfully applies to-day. It is, in every sense, The Superior Medicine. Its curative properties, strength, effect and flavor are always the same; and for whatever blood diseases AYER'S Sarsaparilla is taken, they yield to this treatment. When you ask for

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Don't be induced to purchase any of the worthless substitutes, which are mostly mixtures of the cheapest ingredients, contain no sarsaparilla, have no uniform standard of appearance, flavor, or effect, are blood purifiers in name only, and are offered to you because there is more profit in selling them. Take

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Cures others, will cure you

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POILSH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT IS A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LeGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.
WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,

NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

D. W. FOSKETT,

Grain Dealer

FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance H." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

DRY GOODS,
CARPETS,
GROCERIES,
SHOES.

LARGE STOCK. LOW PRICES.

INGRAIN CARPETS, 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, 75.

Floor oil cloths, 25 to 60c square yard.
Oil cloth mats for stoves.
Zinc binding for oil cloth carpets.
Smyrna rugs, door mats.
Carpet linings, Straw mattings.

DRAPERY POLES, BRASS RODS.
Curtains 25 to 65c, plain and fringed.

PRINT REMNANTS, 6c. GINGHAM REMNANTS, 8c.

BROWN, TAN, GRAY AND DRAB DRESS GOODS, 12½c to $1.00 per yard.

Cambries,
Silicias,
Crinolene canvas.
Percalines,
Braids,
Spool silk,
Twist,
Whalebone,
Dress shields,
Hooks and eyes.

LADIES' BLACK HOSE, 10, 15, 25, 29 and 50c.

Ladies' tan and drab hose, 19 and 20c.
Children's black hose 10 to 20c.
Men's cotton hose, 3 pairs for 25c.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT.

MAPLE SYRUP.

100 gallons just coming in from the beautiful Deerfield Valley.

Extra heavy, pure, fine flavor. Better put in your year's stock. $1.00 gallon cans.

TWO BARRELS COOKING MOLASSES, 29c gallon. Just in
One hogshead strictly fancy molasses just in.

COFFEES—FRESH ROASTED EVERY WEEK.

Chase & Sanborn's Old Government Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Old Homestead Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Crushed Coffee.
Chase & Sanborn's "Red Seal" Mocha and Java—2 lb. cans. This is the World's Fair Coffee.
Sleeper's Old Government Java.
Spurr's "Revere." This is a rich, smooth-drinking coffee. 500 lbs. just received. Try it.
Heywood Breakfast Coffee—10c pound packages.
Rio Coffee.
Mocha Coffee.

TEAS.

We are headquarters.
All grades.
25c to $1.00 per pound.
Try our 50c and 60c Black Tea.

MORE OF THOSE NICE BOSTON CRACKERS,
4 lbs. for 25c. Just in.

KENNEDY'S OCEAN SPRAY, SALT AND PLAIN.
Kennedy's Grandmother's Cookies.

MORGAN'S SAPOLIO, 10c.

Bon-Ami, 10c.
Kleenaline, 5c.
Grandpa's Wonder Soap.
Castile Soap, white and mottled.
Everything in soaps and soap Powders.

SALT MACKEREL, SALT HERRING.
Genuine Oregon Salmon.
Salmon Trout. Boneless Cod, 3 lb. boxes.

BELLS' POULTRY DRESSING.

Slade's Spices,
Pudding,
Nonesuch Mince Meat,
New England Mince Meat.

CANNED PEACHES, PLUMS, CHERRIES, PEARS, APRICOTS.
These are the Golden Gate goods.

BUTTER—BELCHERTOWN CREAMERY.

Butter—Brimfield, Wilbraham, Monson Dairies, Fresh every day.

LARD.

Squire's pure lard in bulk.
Naphey's gold brand in pails.
Cottolene in pails and tubs.

POTATOES, BERMUDA ONIONS, ORANGES, LEMONS, BANANAS, JUST RECEIVED.

WASH TUBS.—INDURATED FIBRE.

Water pairs—Indurated fibre.

EVAPORATED FRUIT.—APPLES, PEACHES, APRICOTS.

RAISINS. 3 LBS. FOR 25 CENTS.

CIGARS.

Winthrop.
Winthrop Ponies.
A. & N. Genuine 10c.
A. & N. Rose 5c.
Whitcomb's U. S. A. and Hand-made.
W. E. S.
Pennant.
Cigarettes and Tobacco.

LARGEST STOCK of goods we ever had. Will give you good service. Try us.
W. E. STONE, Palmer, Mass.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.

CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

Hannah Binding Shoes.

Poor lone Hannah,
Sitting at the window binding shoes;
Faded, wrinkled,
Sitting, stitching, in a mournful muse.
Bright-eyed beauty once was she,
When the bloom was on the tree;
Spring and winter
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Not a neighbor
Passing nod or answer will refuse
To her whisper
"Is there from the fishers any news?"
Oh, her heart's adrift with one
On an endless voyage gone!
Night and morning
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Fair young Hannah,
Ben, the sunburnt fisher, gayly woos;
Hale and clever,
For a willing heart and hand he sues.
May-day skies are all aglow,
And the waves are laughing so!
For her wedding
Hannah leaves her window and her shoes.

May is passing;
'Mid the apple boughs a pigeon coos.
Hannah shudders,
For the wild southwester mischief brews;
Round the rocks of Marblehead,
Outward bound, a schooner sped;
Silent, lonesome,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

'Tis November,
Now no tear her wasted cheeks bedews,
From Newfoundland
Not a sail returning will she lose,
Whispering hoarsely, "Fishermen,
Have you, have you heard of Ben?"
Old with watching,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Twenty winters
Bleach and tear the ragged shore she views,
Twenty seasons—
Never one has brought her any news.
Still her dim eyes silently
Chase the white sails o'er the sea;
Hopeless, faithful
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

—Lucy Larcom.

THE NEIGHBORS.

Dr. Brooke was a widower, and Mrs. Enderby a widow—and neither were old and both were handsome. Mrs. Enderby certainly was never handsomer in her life than when, after bearing with Mrs. Forsythe's innuendoes as long as she could, she marched up her own garden path into her own house, with her head very well up, and a beautiful angry blush upon her clear cheek, and then, going to her own room, locked the door, and burst into a passion of tears from vexation pure and simple.

After almost driving Mrs. Enderby to madness, Mrs. Forsythe went next into Dr. Brooke's house. His pleasant, shaded grounds adjoined those of Mrs. Enderby. Mrs. Forsythe was a good soul, yet sensitive people fled from her as from a pestilence.

"Well, girls," she said to the doctor's twin daughters as they received her in the drawing-room with all the formality of their fifteen years, "so you've got a neighbor in your new home. I'll be bound your father'll be over to call soon."

The two girls were as alike as twins usually are. They had soft, gray eyes, like their father, and flowing complexions in which the color came and went. Janet looked at Dolly, and Dolly looked at Janet. Their lips trembled.

"Papa—does not consult us—where he wishes to call," said poor Dolly, vainly trying to show some spirit on the occasion.

"We have perfect confidence in papa," spoke up Janet boldly.

"Ah, my children, you don't know widows—and widowers."

Mrs. Forsythe did not drive the two young girls to their bedrooms to cry furiously, but when Dr. Brooke came home to his midday dinner from his round of visits, Dolly flew at him and kissed him with a strange passion.

"What is it?" he asked tenderly, pressing her soft cheek to his.

"N—nothing," said Dolly, while tears rushed to her eyes.

"I'll tell you what it is, father," said Jack Brooke, aged sixteen, big, ungainly, afraid of nothing on earth and always fighting, but who had never given his father cause for anxiety in his life. "It's that old Forsythe woman. She's been here telling the girls you're"—Jack hesitated; he wished to put it respectfully—"that you're spooning all over the widow next door and what a dance she will lead us."

Dr. Brooke was the soul of courtesy, but at this he roared:—

"Confound that Forsythe woman! Here, you fellow, go and tell the housemaids and Thomas she's not allowed to set her foot in this house again. I'll not have her worrying and teasing you. And I—a—have no intention—of—er—oh, dash it all!"

That was much substantial comfort to the girls. Their pretty faces cleared up, and at dinner they squabbled for the privilege of sitting next to their father, it being the duty of one to sit at the head of the table.

The doctor had a good way to drive in the country that afternoon, to see a patient, and so he had leisure to cogitate over the Forsythe incident. It was a shame, the doctor thought bitterly, that the old woman would not let him be in peace. If he were what is vulgarly called a marrying man, it might be excusable, but he had been the most prudent and circumspect of widowers—albeit he was not yet forty—was the leading doctor in Compton and was uncommonly well off. The doctor had a dim and unacknowledged feeling that liberty was too sweet to be trifled with. He had never been a free man in his life until Amelia's death. He had married immediately upon his graduation. The dead and gone Amelia, it must be confessed, had been a nagging sort of woman. She was clever in her way, and by wheedling and whining had accomplished things she never could have done by openly and boldly fighting for them. Amelia was always protesting her willingness to give up her own way. Only she never gave it up. The doctor was a victim to that petty tyranny which is exercised by a small, weak, petty woman, subject to headaches, over a big-hearted, big-brained man. When Amelia died, the doctor honestly fancied himself heart-broken.

Dr. Brooke drove two good horses to his buggy, and this particular afternoon he preferred to handle the reins himself. He tickled the flanks of his trotters with a whip in a way that made them fly over the road while he groaned in spirit. Nobody could say that his girls lacked care. An elderly woman, much above the grade of a servant, was housekeeper, and attended the girls as a kind of duenna. The doctor's married sister, who lived in Compton, selected their clothes, and was ready to take them to lectures and concerts whenever their father bought the tickets. Dr. Brooke thought he had successfully solved the problem of how to bring up his motherless girls. Besides, there was so much intimacy between them and their handsome young father, and the girls themselves had such sweet natures and so much native good sense, that they grew in the right direction as naturally as hardy young saplings grow into tall, straight trees.

The doctor paid his visit and came home and spent the evening with his daughters in the cosy drawing-room. Dolly and Janet sang duets to him, while Jack sprawled over the back of his chair to describe the details of a "love of a fight," as Sir Lucius O'Trigger says, in which a friend of his had lately been engaged. The doctor thought, as he toasted his toes before an open fire, that it would take a very fascinating woman to charm him into matrimony.

Dolly's eyes were unusually bright that night, and suddenly she began to cough. The cough disturbed the doctor's pleasant conditions. There was a great deal of scarlet fever abroad, and in a week pretty Dolly was raving and tossing in her pretty white bed with the fever.

Mrs. Chepston, Dr. Brooke's married sister, could not come to the girl because of her own houseful of little ones. The doctor hired a professional nurse, who, with Bridget Ryan, the duenna, were to take care of Dolly; but Dolly took a violent dislike to the nurse, and Bridget was seized with the rheumatic fever. As for Jack and Janet, no power could have kept them out of their dear Dolly's room. All these things came upon the doctor in two or three days just as he was driven with half a dozen very ill patients. He went upon his rounds with a white and anxious face, and fear and anguish seized upon his soul. His little Dolly! His best beloved, so he thought.

It was the second evening after Bridget's collapse, when Mrs. Enderby, sitting reading by her evening lamp, heard a fearful pull at her door bell. It startled her so that she jumped up and ran to the door. As she opened it she saw Jack Brooke's pale, boyish face staring at her. The two families had a speaking acquaintance.

"For God's sake, Mrs. Enderby," he cried, "come over to Janet. She has fallen down and hurt herself, and Bridget's ill. I must go and find father, he's gone down to the hospital."

Without waiting for any other head covering than her widow's cap, which was vastly becoming, although she never suspected it, Mrs. Enderby followed Jack across her lawn to Dr. Brooke's house, and up stairs, where, in Dolly's room, lying across the bed, was Janet in a dead faint, with Dolly screaming with excitement and a sort of delirum. The nurse was vainly trying to bring Janet to. Her right knee had been hurt, and she had fainted with the pain.

Mrs. Enderby's first thought was Dolly. She went up to her, and laying her cool hand on Dolly's throbbing temples, spoke to her. The young widow had a winning voice, and poor Dolly stopped her hysterical cries at the sound of it.

"Dolly," said she, "what is the matter with you? This is no way to do. You are too old."

Dolly did not half comprehend the words, but she answered:—

"How cool and sweet your hands are. Give me some water. Is Janet ill, too?"

Mrs. Enderby did not answer the question. She soothed her into quietness, and then turned her attention to Janet. When Dr. Brooke rushed upstairs he found Janet lying with her head on Mrs. Enderby's shoulder and struggling bravely to bear the pain.

The instincts of the doctor and the father made Dr Brooke almost oblivious to who it was who supported his child. Only when the knee was attended to and Janet clung piteously to her did he realize that Mrs. Enderby had the nerve, the gentleness, and the sympathy to make her invaluable in such a crisis. Then, when the excitement subsided he realized it. He then took Mrs. Enderby's hand in his.

"How am I to thank you?" he said. "But had I been here, you and your child should not have been exposed to this risk. My poor Dolly has scarlet fever."

For the first time Mrs. Enderby took in what he meant. She turned a little pale.

"Do you think, if I take precautions, that Archie—"

"I think," said the doctor decisively, "that the best thing you can do with Archie is to send him away for a few weeks. The fever this year has been peculiarly contagious."

Two or three tears dropped from the widow's eyes on her black gown. The doctor's heart smote him. They were standing in Dolly's room, and the girl suddenly cried out from her bed, "Mrs. Enderby, Mrs. Enderby, don't leave me! I hate that nurse, and I want you to sit on the bed by me and hold my hand."

"I'm not afraid myself," said Mrs. Enderby, "but I'm afraid to return to Archie. Yes, I will telegraph my sister to come for my boy."

There was no question about Mrs. Enderby's remaining that night, and next day little Archie was taken away. Then the return of Mrs. Enderby to her own house was mooted. Dolly clung to her piteously, and begged so that she would not leave her that nothing but a promise that Mrs. Enderby would return within an hour would pacify her.

For the next six weeks Mrs. Enderby might also have been called an inmate of Dr. Brooke's house, as she spent more of her waking hours there than in her own. Dolly, after a short but violent attack, began to mend, and Janet, too, was soon walking around on a crutch, but with their convalescence their demands on Mrs. Enderby increased. Early in the morning, Jack would slip over and ask that she would come. Dolly had a good night and felt cheerful and wanted Mrs. Enderby to come over and cheer her up. Then Janet and Jack got fond of her with the exacting affection of the young, and sent for her on the slightest provocation. Janet was apt to feel nervous at night, and to want Mrs. Enderby for half an hour before she went to bed, and Jack would escort her back and forth fifty times a day if necessary.

Of course the outcome of all this was an offer on the doctor's part. He could but notice her grace, her gentleness, the strange sympathy between his children and herself. One night when he came into Dolly's room, and saw Mrs. Enderby sitting in an armchair by Dolly's sofa, with Dolly's hand in hers, and Janet on the other side of her, while Jack lay on the rug at her feet gazing at the fire with his fingers crossing a corner of Mrs. Enderby's drapery, it came over him with a rush that Mrs. Enderby was the sweetest woman in the world.

Widowers are proverbially awkward in their courtships. Perhaps a knowledge of the immensity of the act makes them less glib. Anyhow, when handsome, sensible, gentlemanly Dr. Brooke made an offer soon after to Mrs. Enderby, in her own drawing-room, he worded it so clumsily that he seemed to be proposing a coöperative society, of which Dolly, Janet, Jack and Archie were to be the beneficiaries, and was met with a point blank refusal.

"Don't speak of it again," she had said.

"I will not—I will not," answered the doctor in a low voice. "Only you must understand that it is at the cost of a perpetual struggle. I will not try to forget you because I know it is impossible, but I respect too much the profound affection even if I did not wish to spare you annoyance."

He was gone. Mrs. Enderby felt that the way he spoke these last few words almost atoned for the inaptness of his first words. She walked up and down once or twice. "They cannot now say that I want to marry him," she said triumphantly, and felt flushed with victory. Yet there was something like the coldness of disappointment upon her.

Of course this put an end to Mrs. Enderby's going to Dr. Brooke's house, even at Dolly's and Janet's most urgent request.

But they were now almost well again, and on fine days Jack would bring the two girls over in the carriage, and Janet still limping a little, and Dolly rather pale and wan—over to Mrs. Enderby's; Dr. Brooke did not put any bar upon the continual presence of his children in Mrs. Enderby's house. He wisely left that thing alone.

But Dr. Brooke was suffering from bitter disappointment. His cheery, handsome face took on a stern and troubled look. When he came home, Dolly's and Janet's songs had no power to charm him. He would sit and look at the fire in a way that would make the hearts of his children ache.

One night as he sat thus, grave and preoccupied, Dolly crept up to him. She laid her cheek in the old way against his bearded face. "Darling papa," she said, "what is it troubles you?"

Dr. Brooke held her close to him. Her innocent sympathy did him good.

"Something, my dearest, you cannot help," he said. Dolly, who was a queer girl, with strange, imaginative fancies, slipped upon his knee.

"Papa, sometimes I have though:—you won't be angry, papa?" The doctor held her close to his breast. He had never been angry with her in all his life.

"Because," whispered Dolly, in a diffident whisper, "sometimes I've thought—if Archie's mother were our stepmother—"

"There is no chance of that, my little girl," he said. "Would to God—" He stopped.

But Dolly knew it all. That night in the moonlight she sat up in bed and told Janet—and by the end of the week Jack knew it. "And that's why papa is so serious," said Dolly in her soft voice.

"All broke up because the widow won't smile on him," mused Jack, to whom the tender passion was an inscrutable mystery.

These young creatures talked their father's romance over with the keen relish of sixteen-year-olds for these things. Only Janet was indignant.

"What can she expect if papa is not good enough for her?" cried she vehemently; "so handsome, so kind."

"P'r'aps," said Jack, "she's afraid of us. She thinks we'll bedevil her and the kid to death."

This solution amazed the girls with its simplicity and perspicacity. Only that could account for any woman's not jumping at the chance of marrying their father.

"I tell you what it is, girls," said Jack, "I think it would be a jolly good thing if we could let Mrs. Enderby know that we haven't any objection, and we wouldn't be hard on the kid. It cuts me up to see the governor going around looking like a cracked pitcher. We needn't call any names, just intimate it in a general sort of way."

"Jack," remarked Janet solemnly, "you've got a great deal more sense than you ever had credit for."

It was some days after that when Mrs. Enderby experienced an irruption of the Brooke family into her drawing-room.

Dolly, as the chief diplomatist, soon led off on the important subject.

"It is such a comfort, Mrs. Enderby, to come over and see you. It would be so nice if we only had somebody like you at home."

It was now Janet's turn.

"We wouldn't object to a stepmother if she was nice—nice enough for papa—because he is a very superior man indeed, Mrs. Enderby." Jack, who had not been trusted with any share in the conduct of the negotiations, here broke in.

"And if she had a kid—say about six or seven—we wouldn't bedevil him."

A wave of color swept over Dolly's face. "O Jack!" she replied reproachfully.

Mrs. Enderby was laughing and blushing. It was so deliciously transparent and absurd that she could not but laugh.

"It's very commendable of you," she said, "but it won't do for you talk about. I don't think your father would like it—so we'll drop the subject.

Her visitors soon departed, much depressed with the failure of their mission—but in half an hour Dolly stole back. Mrs. Enderby was sitting just where she had left her on the drawing-room sofa. Dolly sat down by her. "I don't think you ought to laugh at dear papa," she said timidly.

"I never laughed at your papa in my life," answered Mrs. Enderby softly.

"You couldn't if you knew how sad he is. He works so hard, and he never refuses to go to see poor people, no matter how tired he is. Last night when he came home all worn out, somebody came for him and said old Betty Jones, who has a cancer and is dying, was crying for him, and he got right up and went out, although he said he couldn't do her any good, and stayed with her three or four hours. When he came home, he just sat down before the fire and looked so hopeless and troubled.

Mrs. Enderby made no reply, but presently Dolly saw two tears drop from her eyes; the child's simple story touched her.

Dolly rose; she had quick perception, and saw at once that she had gained something. That night Dolly could hardly sit still until Jack and Janet had gone upstairs. Then she slipped up to her father, and with her old familiar way laid her cheek on his.

"Papa, I want to tell you something. To-day I was talking to Mrs. Enderby about you; and I said you didn't seem as happy as you used to, and papa, she cried; she didn't want me to see it, but I did all the same."

The doctor jumped up and looked his daughter in the face.

"Are you sure, Dolly? Was she distressed?"

"She was indeed, papa," answered Dolly, and flew off to bed.

The doctor looked at his watch. It was only 9.15. He kicked his slippers under the table and began tugging at his boots. In ten minutes he was in Mrs. Enderby's drawing-room. There was no halting or hanging fire now. The doctor stated his case with humility and dignity, and in half an hour from the time he had slammed his slippers off, he and Mrs. Enderby sat side by side acknowledged lovers.

It was sometime afterwards that Mrs. Enderby told her finance of his children's courtship. Dr. Brooke laughed jovially; it was was certainly a novel wooing.—The Cottage Hearth.

---

Not only was Dr. Sharp the best surgeon in the state, but, best of all, he was young and eligible. It was, then, not to be wondered at that he was particularly liked by fond mammas with marriageable daughters, and still less a cause for wonder that he considered himself as always on the defensive.

One afternoon at a tea given by Mrs. Bicker for her oldest daughter, his hostess remarked, with flattering interest: "It must require great presence of mind in your profession, doctor. Now, supposing a man should fall out of a balloon, what would you do first?"

"Wait for him to come down," he replied, calmly.

not yet qualified, evpecting when he does so, to qualify as sheriff of both Hampden and Hampshire counties.

---

"We can't stay at this hotel, Maria!" exclaimed Farmer Meddergrass, after reading the rules tacked to his room door, "Why not, Nathan?" "Why, they have dinner from 11 to 2. I kim to town on business, an' I can't afford to waste no three hours a day on dinner, to say nothin' 'bout breakfast an' supper. Gather up your traps an' we'll go somewhere else."—Vogue.

Home.

The prince rides up to the palace gates
And his eyes with tears are dim,
For he thinks of the beggar maiden sweet
Who may never wed with him.
For home is where the heart is,
In dwelling great or small,
And there's many a splendid palace
That's never a home at all.

The yeoman comes to his little cot
With a song when day is done,
For his dearie is standing in the door
And his children to meet him run.
For home is where the heart is,
In dwelling great or small,
And there's many a stately mansion
That's never a home at all.

Could I but live with my own sweetheart
In a hut with sanded floor,
I'd be richer far than a loveless man
With fame and a golden store,
For home is where the heart is,
In dwelling great or small,
And a cottage lighted by lovelight
Is the dearest home of all.

—George Horton.

ABJUR ONE WOMAN—TO OTHER WOMEN.

There was a woman once. She lived in a house. It had floors, and curtains, and crockery, and best china, and Bristol brick, and a copper teakettle, and stove polish. The woman loved the house. She worshipped every detail of its belongings, from the hair flower work in the parlor to the scoured table in the kitchen. It was all neat, very neat, indeed; and shiny, very bright and shiny. The woman was lean, very lean, indeed; and tall, very tall and bony. She wore a spare-looking calico dress, and had elbows, sharp elbows, and very little hair.

But she was neat. She wanted to be neat. She wanted to be neat more than anything else in the world. She was not comfortable, neither were those about her. But that signified nothing. She had always been called the neatest woman in East Medfield, and so had her mother before her, she was thankful to say. So that woman was up with the sun in summer, and very much in advance of him in winter, shaking the rugs, and rattling the tins, and taking time vigorously by the forelock. She scrubbed, and scoured, and swept, and garnished, and squared every chair to an exact angle with the wall.

Children! O, yes, there were children in that house. That is, children were born there, and they stayed there till they were old enough to roll their little bodies down the doorsteps. After which they lived out of doors mostly.

The man? Well, yes, there was a man who was married to the woman years ago, and he lived in that house. That is, he slept there and came in to meals after he had wiped his feet on two door-mats and washed himself in the woodshed. Yes; he lived there. He liked the children, and the flaky pies, and the light biscuits—and he liked the woman. That is, he liked her pretty well. And he was not without a certain pride of possession in her local reputation of being the neatest woman in East Medfield.

Yet he was conscious of a vague discomfort. Week days he did not mind, but Sundays he felt rather stiff and out of place. He could not seem to sit down anywhere and stay there. Sometimes he thought it might be his clothes, for his Sunday boots squeaked from drying all the week and the woman starched his collar so stiff. He always felt as if he should choke when he ventured into the prim parlor and sat down on the stuffed chair. It might be the collar, and it might be partly because the woman would not let the children go in there and he could hear little four-years-old Jimmie softly sobbing outside the door. But he always felt suffocated in there, and so he would go out to be with the children in the sitting-room, where they were admonished by the woman not to touch anything and to keep still because it was Sunday. If he sat down in the cane-seat rocker to comfort Jimmie on his breast for a while the woman looked sharply in with an injunction not to rock, rocking cut the carpet. When he would fain stretch out his limbs upon the hard haircloth lounge she would call to him from the kitchen not to put his feet up unless he took off his shoes, and asked if he had covered the head of the lounge with a newspaper. So he generally wandered out to the barn or into the neighbors'. And the children they kicked, no, swung, their heels—and wished it wasn't Sunday.

Books? Playthings? Well, you see the woman had no time for reading. She didn't believe in wasting time that way. She wanted to scour the tins. What would the neighbors say if they were to come in and find her sitting down reading the newspaper? There was the oilcloth carpet, for one thing, that had to be washed with skim milk three times a week. Some folks didn't wash 'em but once, but she wasn't one of that kind. And the pantry shelves and the cellar stairs, who was going to keep them scoured if she idled away her time reading? When the children came home from school she made them stand at the threshold, for fear their feet were muddy, while she took their slates and handed them their bread and butter. Then they ran off to play. O, no, there were no playthings in that house. There was a box of blocks once bestowed on Jimmie, but the woman could not have them in the house, they made such a clutter. So they were burned up and Jimmie's lip quivers with the remembrance still.

Sunshine? There was a great deal of that, or there would have been if it would not have faded the carpets or cracked the varnish or encouraged the flies; but sunlight being prone to such deeds of violence, it was barred out by blind, and shade, and screen.

It was beautiful out of doors. There was a shady road running down through a pleasant valley with a shimmering river and beautiful hills beyond. There were cool woods at the back of the house and a great rock with an overhanging tree where the children played. The house stood in a fair place, where round about were beauty and light, and abundant suggestion of joy. But the woman saw it not. She often rushed to the door or out to the barn or into the garden, to see if the mop was dry, or if the hens had laid, or if the bugs were eating the cucumbers, but she had eyes for neither shimmering river nor pleasant valley nor the beautiful hills beyond. Once a neighbor called to her from across lots from the back door, "Isn't this a lovely day?" "I don't know anything about it. I'm too busy to be always a-watching the weather," was the metallic reply.

House plants? O, no, they would drip water and make dirt. Once little Jimmie, forgetting himself, brought into that house a whole great handful of buttercups, as many as his fat fingers could reach round, and with his fascinated vision riveted on the golden mass exclaimed, "See, buttercups! Ain't they lovely?" The woman answered, quickly, "Yes, I guess so, but don't bring that mess in here to get 'em all over my floor. Carry 'em right out doors, that's a good boy." And Jimmie carried them slowly.

No, there were no flowers nor any such rubbish in that house. It was all neat, very neat, indeed. The copper tank was like gold, the zinc like silver, and the biscuits would melt in your mouth. And the woman was thin, very thin, and her cal

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 12, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 6.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. A discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $10; one-half inch one week, 75 cents; each additional week, 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," "To-Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; no charge less than 50 cents. Notices in local column, 15 cents per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best styles, promptly and at reasonable rates.

C. B. FISKE. L. F. CHANDLER.

[Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. R. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LaSALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LeGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. E., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m.

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street.
H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street.
G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

THE FACT

That AYER'S Sarsaparilla CURES OTHERS of scrofulous diseases, eruptions, boils, eczema, liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, rheumatism and catarrh should be convincing that the same course of treatment WILL CURE YOU. All that has been said of the wonderful cures effected by the use of

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

During the past 50 years, truthfully applied to-day. It is, in every sense, The Superior Medicine. Its curative properties, strength, effect and flavor are always the same; and for whatever blood diseases AYER'S Sarsaparilla is taken, they yield to this treatment. When you ask for

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Don't be induced to purchase any of the worthless substitutes, which are mostly mixtures of the cheapest ingredients, contain no sarsaparilla, have no uniform standard of appearance, flavor, or effect, are blood purifiers in name only, and are offered to you because there is more profit in selling them. Take

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Cures others, will cure you

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POILSH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT'S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LeGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.
WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,
NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

D. W. FOSKETT,

Grain Dealer

FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance H." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

DRY GOODS,
CARPETS,
GROCERIES,
SHOES.

LARGE STOCK. LOW PRICES.

INGRAIN CARPETS, 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, 75.

Floor oil cloths, 25 to 60c square yard.
Oil cloth mats for stoves.
Zinc binding for oil cloth carpets.
Smyrna rugs, door mats.
Carpet linings, Straw mattings.

DRAPERY POLES, BRASS RODS.
Curtains 25 to 65c, plain and fringed.

PRINT REMNANTS, 6c. GINGHAM REMNANTS, 8c.

BROWN, TAN, GRAY AND DRAB DRESS GOODS, 12½c to $1.00 per yard.

Cambries,
Silicias,
Crinolene canvas.
Percalines,
Braids,
Spool silk,
Twist,
Whalebone,
Dress shields,
Hooks and eyes.

LADIES' BLACK HOSE, 10, 15, 25, 29 and 50c.

Ladies' tan and drab hose, 19 and 20c.
Children's black hose 10 to 20c.
Men's cotton hose, 3 pairs for 25c.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT.

MAPLE SYRUP.

100 gallons just coming in from the beautiful Deerfield Valley.

Extra heavy, pure, fine flavor. Better put in your year's stock. $1.00 gallon cans.

TWO BARRELS COOKING MOLASSES, 29c gallon. Just in

One hogshead strictly fancy molasses just in.

COFFEES—FRESH ROASTED EVERY WEEK.

Chase & Sanborn's Old Government Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Old Homestead Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Crushed Coffee.
Chase & Sanborn's "Red Seal" Mocha and Java—2 lb. cans. This is the World's Fair Coffee.
Sleeper's Old Government Java.
Spurr's "Revere." This is a rich, smooth-drinking coffee. 500 lbs. just received. Try it.
Heywood Breakfast Coffee—10c pound packages.
Rio Coffee.
Mocha Coffee.

TEAS.

We are headquarters.
All grades.
25c to $1.00 per pound.
Try our 50c and 60c Black Tea.

MORE OF THOSE NICE BOSTON CRACKERS, 4 lbs. for 25c. Just in.

KENNEDY'S OCEAN SPRAY, SALT AND PLAIN.
Kennedy's Grandmother's Cookies.

MORGAN'S SAPOLIO, 10c.

Bon-Ami, 10c.
Kleenaline, 5c.
Grandpa's Wonder Soap.
Castile Soap, white and mottled.
Everything in soaps and soap Powders.

SALT MACKEREL, SALT HERRING.
Genuine Oregon Salmon.
Salmon Trout. Boneless Cod, 3 lb. boxes.

BELLS' POULTRY DRESSING.
Slade's Spices,
Puddine,
Nonesuch Mince Meat,
New England Mince Meat.

CANNED PEACHES, PLUMS, CHERRIES, PEARS, APRICOTS.
These are the Golden Gate goods.

BUTTER—BELCHERTOWN CREAMERY.
Butter—Brimfield, Wilbraham, Monson Dairies, Fresh every day.

LARD.
Squire's pure lard in bulk.
Naphey's gold brand in pails.
Cottolene in pails and tubs.

POTATOES, BERMUDA ONIONS, ORANGES, LEMONS, BANANAS, JUST RECEIVED.

WASH TUBS.—INDURATED FIBRE.
Water pairs—Indurated fibre.

EVAPORATED FRUIT.—APPLES, PEACHES, APRICOTS.

RAISINS. 3 LBS. FOR 25 CENTS.

CIGARS.

Winthrop
Winthrop Ponies.
A. & N. Genuine 10c.
A. & N. Rose 5c.
Whitcomb's U. S. A. and Hand-made.
W. E. S.
Pennant.
Cigarettes and Tobacco.

LARGEST STOCK of goods we ever had. Will give you good service. Try us.
W. E. STONE, Palmer, Mass.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.

CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

Hannah Binding Shoes.

Poor lone Hannah,
Sitting at the window binding shoes;
Faded, wrinkled,
Sitting, stitching, in a mournful muse.
Bright-eyed beauty once was she,
When the bloom was on the tree;
Spring and winter
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Not a neighbor
Passing nod or answer will refuse
To her whisper
"Is there from the fishers any news?"
Oh, her heart's adrift with one
On an endless voyage gone!
Night and morning
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Fair young Hannah,
Ben, the sunburnt fisher, gayly woos;
Hale and clever,
For a willing heart and hand he sues.
May-day skies are all aglow,
And the waves are laughing so!
For her wedding
Hannah leaves her window and her shoes.

May is passing;
'Mid the apple boughs a pigeon coos.
Hannah shudders,
For the wild southwester mischief brews;
Round the rocks of Marblehead,
Outward bound, a schooner sped;
Silent, lonesome,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

'Tis November,
Now no tear her wasted cheeks bedews,
From Newfoundland
Not a sail returning will she lose,
Whispering hoarsely, "Fishermen,
Have you, have you heard of Ben?"
Old with watching,
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

Twenty winters
Bleach and tear the ragged shore she views,
Twenty seasons—
Never one has brought her any news.
Still her dim eyes silently
Chase the white sails o'er the sea;
Hopeless, faithful
Hannah's at the window, binding shoes.

—Lucy Larcom.

THE NEIGHBORS.

Dr. Brooke was a widower, and Mrs. Enderby a widow—and neither were old and both were handsome. Mrs. Enderby certainly was never handsomer in her life than when, after bearing with Mrs. Forsythe's innuendoes as long as she could, she marched up her own garden path into her own house, with her head very well up, and a beautiful angry blush upon her clear cheek, and then, going to her own room, locked the door, and burst into a passion of tears from vexation pure and simple.

After almost driving Mrs. Enderby to madness, Mrs. Forsythe went next into Dr. Brooke's house. His pleasant, shaded grounds adjoined those of Mrs. Enderby. Mrs. Forsythe was a good soul, yet sensitive people fled from her as from a pestilence.

"Well, girls," she said to the doctor's twin daughters as they received her in the drawing-room with all the formality of their fifteen years, "so you've got a neighbor in your new home. I'll be bound your father'll be over to call soon."

The two girls were as alike as twins usually are. They had soft, gray eyes, like their father, and flowing complexions in which the color came and went. Janet looked at Dolly, and Dolly looked at Janet. Their lips trembled.

"Papa—does not consult us—where he wishes to call," said poor Dolly, vainly trying to show some spirit on the occasion.

"We have perfect confidence in papa," spoke up Janet boldly.

"Ah, my children, you don't know widows—and widowers."

Mrs. Forsythe did not drive the two young girls to their bedrooms to cry furiously, but when Dr. Brooke came home to his midday dinner from his round of visits, Dolly flew at him and kissed him with a strange passion.

"What is it?" he asked tenderly, pressing her soft cheek to his.

"N—nothing," said Dolly, while tears rushed to her eyes.

"I'll tell you what it is, father," said Jack Brooke, aged sixteen, big, ungainly, afraid of nothing on earth and always fighting, but who had never given his father cause for anxiety in his life. "It's that old Forsythe woman. She's been here telling the girls you're"—Jack hesitated; he wished to put it respectfully—"that you're spooning all over the widow next door and what a dance she will lead us."

Dr. Brooke was the soul of courtesy, but at this he roared:—

"Confound that Forsythe woman! Here, you fellow, go and tell the housemaids and Thomas she's not allowed to set her foot in this house again. I'll not have her worrying and teasing you. And I—a—have no intention—of—er—oh, dash it all!"

That was much substantial comfort to the girls. Their pretty faces cleared up, and at dinner they squabbled for the privilege of sitting next to their father, it being the duty of one to sit at the head of the table.

The doctor had a good way to drive in the country that afternoon, to see a patient, and so he had leisure to cogitate over the Forsythe incident. It was a shame, the doctor thought bitterly, that the old woman would not let him be in peace. If he were what is vulgarly called a marrying man, it might be excusable, but he had been the most prudent and circumspect of widowers—albeit he was not yet forty—was the leading doctor in Compton and was uncommonly well off. The doctor had a dim and unacknowledged feeling that liberty was too sweet to be trifled with. He had never been a free man in his life until Amelia's death. He had married immediately upon his graduation. The dead and gone Amelia, it must be confessed, had been a nagging sort of woman. She was clever in her way, and by wheedling and whining had accomplished things she never could have done by openly and boldly fighting for them. Amelia was always protesting her willingness to give up her own way. Only she never gave it up. The doctor was a victim to that petty tyranny which is exercised by a small, weak, petty woman, subject to headaches, over a big-hearted, big-brained man. When Amelia died, the doctor honestly fancied himself heart-broken.

Dr. Brooke drove two good horses to his buggy, and this particular afternoon he preferred to handle the reins himself. He tickled the flanks of his trotters with a whip in a way that made them fly over the road while he groaned in spirit. Nobody could say that his girls lacked care. An elderly woman, much above the grade of a servant, was housekeeper, and attended the girls as a kind of duenna. The doctor's married sister, who lived in Compton, selected their clothes, and was ready to take them to lectures and concerts whenever their father bought the tickets. Dr. Brooke thought he had successfully solved the problem of how to bring up his motherless girls. Besides, there was so much intimacy between them and their handsome young father, and the girls themselves had such sweet natures and so much native good sense, that they grew in the right direction as naturally as hardy young saplings grow into tall, straight trees.

The doctor paid his visit and came home and spent the evening with his daughters in the cosy drawing-room. Dolly and Janet sang duets to him, while Jack sprawled over the back of his chair to describe the details of a "love of a fight," as Sir Lucius O'Trigger says, in which a friend of his had lately been engaged. The doctor thought, as he toasted his toes before an open fire, that it would take a very fascinating woman to charm him into matrimony.

Dolly's eyes were unusually bright that night, and suddenly she began to cough. The cough disturbed the doctor's pleasant conditions. There was a great deal of scarlet fever abroad, and in a week pretty Dolly was raving and tossing in her pretty white bed with the fever.

Mrs. Chepston, Dr. Brooke's married sister, could not come to the girl because of her own houseful of little ones. The doctor hired a professional nurse, who, with Bridget Ryan, the duenna, were to take care of Dolly; but Dolly took a violent dislike to the nurse, and Bridget was seized with the rheumatic fever. As for Jack and Janet, no power could have kept them out of their dear Dolly's room. All these things came upon the doctor in two or three days just as he was driven with half a dozen very ill patients. He went upon his rounds with a white and anxious face, and fear and anguish seized upon his soul. His little Dolly! His best beloved, so he thought.

It was the second evening after Bridget's collapse, when Mrs. Enderby, sitting reading by her evening lamp, heard a fearful pull at her door bell. It startled her so that she jumped up and ran to the door. As she opened it she saw Jack Brooke's pale, boyish face staring at her. The two families had a speaking acquaintance.

"For God's sake, Mrs. Enderby," he cried, "come over to Janet. She has fallen down and hurt herself, and Bridget's ill. I must go and find father, he's gone down to the hospital."

Without waiting for any other head covering than her widow's cap, which was vastly becoming, although she never suspected it, Mrs. Enderby followed Jack across her lawn to Dr. Brooke's house, and up stairs, where, in Dolly's room, lying across the bed, was Janet in a dead faint, with Dolly screaming with excitement and a sort of delirum. The nurse was vainly trying to bring Janet to. Her right knee had been hurt, and she had fainted with the pain.

Mrs. Enderby's first thought was Dolly. She went up to her, and laying her cool hand on Dolly's throbbing temples, spoke to her. The young widow had a winning voice, and poor Dolly stopped her hysterical cries at the sound of it.

"Dolly," said she, "what is the matter with you? This is no way to do. You are too old."

Dolly did not half comprehend the words, but she answered:—

"How cool and sweet your hands are. Give me some water. Is Janet ill, too?"

Mrs. Enderby did not answer the question. She soothed her into quietness, and then turned her attention to Janet. When Dr. Brooke rushed upstairs he found Janet lying with her head on Mrs. Enderby's shoulder and struggling bravely to bear the pain.

The instincts of the doctor and the father made Dr Brooke almost oblivious to who it was who supported his child. Only when the knee was attended to and Janet clung piteously to her did he realize that Mrs. Enderby had the nerve, the gentleness, and the sympathy to make her invaluable in such a crisis. Then, when the excitement subsided he realized it. He then took Mrs. Enderby's hand in his.

"How am I to thank you?" he said. "But had I been here, you and your child should not have been exposed to this risk. My poor Dolly has scarlet fever."

For the first time Mrs. Enderby took in what he meant. She turned a little pale.

"Do you think, if I take precautions, that Archie—"

"I think," said the doctor decisively, "that the best thing you can do with Archie is to send him away for a few weeks. The fever this year has been peculiarly contagious."

Two or three tears dropped from the widow's eyes on her black gown. The doctor's heart smote him. They were standing in Dolly's room, and the girl suddenly cried out from her bed, "Mrs. Enderby, Mrs. Enderby, don't leave me! I hate that nurse, and I want you to sit on the bed by me and hold my hand."

"I'm not afraid myself," said Mrs. Enderby, "but I'm afraid to return to Archie. Yes, I will telegraph my sister to come for my boy."

There was no question about Mrs. Enderby's remaining that night, and next day little Archie was taken away. Then the return of Mrs. Enderby to her own house was mooted. Dolly clung to her piteously, and begged so that she would not leave her that nothing but a promise that Mrs. Enderby would return within an hour would pacify her.

For the next six weeks Mrs. Enderby might also have been called an inmate of Dr. Brooke's house, as she spent more of her waking hours there than in her own. Dolly, after a short but violent attack, began to mend, and Janet, too, was soon walking around on a crutch, but with their convalescence their demands on Mrs. Enderby increased. Early in the morning, Jack would slip over and ask that she would come. Dolly had a good night and felt cheerful and wanted Mrs. Enderby to come over and cheer her up. Then Janet and Jack got fond of her with the exacting affection of the young, and sent for her on the slightest provocation. Janet was apt to feel nervous at night, and to want Mrs. Enderby for half an hour before she went to bed, and Jack would escort her back and forth fifty times a day if necessary.

Of course the outcome of all this was an offer on the doctor's part. He could but notice her grace, her gentleness, the strange sympathy between his children and herself. One night when he came into Dolly's room, and saw Mrs. Enderby sitting in an armchair by Dolly's sofa, with Dolly's hand in hers, and Janet on the other side of her, while Jack lay on the rug at her feet gazing at the fire with his fingers crossing a corner of Mrs. Enderby's drapery, it came over him with a rush that Mrs. Enderby was the sweetest woman in the world.

Widowers are proverbially awkward in their courtships. Perhaps a knowledge of the immensity of the act makes them less glib. Anyhow, when handsome, sensible, gentlemanly Dr. Brooke made an offer soon after to Mrs. Enderby, in her own drawing-room, he worded it so clumsily that he seemed to be proposing a coöperative society, of which Dolly, Janet, Jack and Archie were to be the beneficiaries, and was met with a point blank refusal.

"Don't speak of it again," she had said.

"I will not—I will not," answered the doctor in a low voice. "Only you must understand that it is at the cost of a perpetual struggle. I will not try to forget you because I know it is impossible, but I respect too much the profound affection even if I did not wish to spare you annoyance."

He was gone. Mrs. Enderby felt that the way he spoke these last few words almost atoned for the inaptness of his first words. She walked up and down once or twice. "They cannot now say that I want to marry him," she said triumphantly, and felt flushed with victory. Yet there was something like the coldness of disappointment upon her.

Of course this put an end to Mrs. Enderby's going to Dr. Brooke's house, even at Dolly's and Janet's most urgent request.

But they were now almost well again, and on fine days Jack would bring the two girls—Janet still limping a little, and Dolly rather pale and wan—over to Mrs. Enderby's; Dr. Brooke did not put any bar upon the continual presence of his children in Mrs. Enderby's house. He wisely left that thing alone.

But Dr. Brooke was suffering from bitter disappointment. His cheery, handsome face took on a stern and troubled look. When he came home, Dolly's and Janet's songs had no power to charm him. He would sit and look at the fire in a way that would make the hearts of his children ache.

One night as he sat thus, grave and preoccupied, Dolly crept up to him. She laid her cheek in the old way against his bearded face. "Darling papa," she said, "what is it troubles you?"

Dr. Brooke held her close to him. Her innocent sympathy did him good.

"Something, my dearest, you cannot help," he said. Dolly, who was a queer girl, with strange, imaginative fancies, slipped upon his knee.

"Papa, sometimes I have thought—you won't be angry, papa?" The doctor held her close to his breast. He had never been angry with her in all his life.

"Because," whispered Dolly, in a diffident whisper, "sometimes I've thought—if Archie's mother were our stepmother—"

"There is no chance of that, my little girl," he said. "Would to God—" He stopped.

But Dolly knew it all. That night in the moonlight she sat up in bed and told Janet—and by the end of the week Jack knew it. "And that's why papa is so serious," said Dolly in her soft voice.

"All broke up because the widow won't smile on him," mused Jack, to whom the tender passion was an inscrutable mystery.

These young creatures talked their father's romance over with the keen relish of sixteen-year-olds for these things. Only Janet was indignant.

"What can she expect if papa is not good enough for her?" cried she vehemently; "so handsome, so kind."

"P'raps," said Jack, "she's afraid of us. She thinks we'll bedevil her and the kid to death."

This solution amazed the girls with its simplicity and perspicacity. Only that could account for any woman's not jumping at the chance of marrying their father.

"I tell you what it is, girls," said Jack, "I think it would be a jolly good thing if we could let Mrs. Enderby know that we haven't any objection, and we wouldn't be hard on the kid. It cuts me up to see the governor going around looking like a cracked pitcher. We needn't call any names, just intimate it in a general sort of way."

"Jack," remarked Janet solemnly, "you've got a great deal more sense than you ever had credit for."

It was some days after that when Mrs. Enderby experienced an irruption of the Brooke family into her drawing-room.

Dolly, as the chief diplomatist, soon led off on the important subject.

"It is such a comfort, Mrs. Enderby, to come over and see you. It would be so nice if we only had somebody like you at home."

It was now Janet's turn.

"We wouldn't object to a stepmother if she was nice—nice enough for papa—because he is a very superior man indeed, Mrs. Enderby." Jack, who had not been trusted with any share in the conduct of the negotiations, here broke in.

"And if she had a kid—say about six or seven—we wouldn't bedevil him."

A wave of color swept over Dolly's face. "O Jack!" she replied reproachfully.

Mrs. Enderby was laughing and blushing. It was so deliciously transparent and absurd that she could not but laugh.

"It's very commendable of you," she said, "but it won't do for you talk about. I don't think your father would like it—so we'll drop the subject.

Her visitors soon departed, much depressed with the failure of their mission—but in half an hour Dolly stole back. Mrs. Enderby was sitting just where she had left her on the drawing-room sofa. Dolly sat down by her. "I don't think you ought to laugh at dear papa," she said timidly.

"I never laughed at your papa in my life," answered Mrs. Enderby softly.

"You couldn't if you knew how sad he is. He works so hard, and he never refuses to go to see poor people, no matter how tired he is. Last night when he came home all worn out, somebody came for him and said old Betty Jones, who has a cancer and is dying, was crying for him, and he got right up and went out, although he said he couldn't do her any good, and stayed with her three or four hours. When he came home, he just sat down before the fire and looked so hopeless and troubled.

Mrs. Enderby made no reply, but presently Dolly saw two tears drop from her eyes; the child's simple story touched her.

Dolly rose; she had quick perception, and saw at once that she had gained something. That night Dolly could hardly sit still until Jack and Janet had gone upstairs. Then she slipped up to her father, and with her old familiar way laid her cheek on his.

"Papa, I want to tell you something. To-day I was talking to Mrs. Enderby about you; and I said you didn't seem as happy as you used to, and papa, she cried; she didn't want me to see it, but I did all the same."

The doctor jumped up and looked his daughter in the face.

"Are you sure, Dolly? Was she distressed?"

"She was indeed, papa," answered Dolly, and flew off to bed.

The doctor looked at his watch. It was only 9.15. He kicked his slippers under the table and began tugging at his boots. In ten minutes he was in Mrs. Enderby's drawing-room. There was no halting or hanging fire now. The doctor stated his case with humility and dignity, and in half an hour from the time he had slammed his slippers off, he and Mrs. Enderby sat side by side acknowledged lovers.

It was sometime afterwards that Mrs. Enderby told her finance of his children's courtship. Dr. Brooke laughed jovially; it was was certainly a novel wooing.—The Cottage Hearth.

---

Not only was Dr. Sharp the best surgeon in the state, but, best of all, he was young and eligible. It was, then, not to be wondered at that he was particularly liked by fond mammas with marriageable daughters, and still less a cause for wonder that he considered himself as always on the defensive.

One afternoon at a tea given by Mrs. Bicker for her oldest daughter, his hostess remarked, with flattering interest: "It must require great presence of mind in your profession, doctor. Now, supposing a man should fall out of a balloon, what would you do first?"

"Wait for him to come down," he replied, calmly.

not yet qualified, evpecting when he does so, to qualify as sheriff of both Hampden and Hampshire counties.

---

"We can't stay at this hotel, Maria!" exclaimed Farmer Meddergrass, after reading the rules tacked to his room door, "Why not, Nathan?" "Why, they have dinner from 11 to 2. I kim to town on business, an' I can't afford to waste no three hours a day on dinner, to say nothin' 'bout breakfast an' supper. Gather up your traps an' we'll go somewhere else."—Vogue.

Home.

The prince rides up to the palace gates
And his eyes with tears are dim,
For he thinks of the beggar maiden sweet
Who may never wed with him.
For home is where the heart is,
In dwelling great or small,
And there's many a splendid palace
That's never a home at all.

The yeoman comes to his little cot
With a song when day is done,
For his dearie is standing in the door
And his children to meet him run.
For home is where the heart is,
In dwelling great or small,
And there's many a stately mansion
That's never a home at all.

Could I but live with my own sweetheart
In a hut with sanded floor,
I'd be richer far than a loveless man
With fame and a golden store,
For home is where the heart is,
In dwelling great or small,
And a cottage lighted by lovelight
Is the dearest home of all.

—George Horton.

ABOUT ONE WOMAN—TO OTHER WOMEN.

There was a woman once. She lived in a house. It had floors, and curtains, and crockery, and best china, and Bristol brick, and a copper teakettle, and stove polish. The woman loved the house. She worshipped every detail of its belongings, from the hair flower work in the parlor to the scoured table in the kitchen. It was all neat, very neat, indeed; and shiny, very bright and shiny. The woman was lean, very lean, indeed; and tall, very tall and bony. She wore a spare-looking calico dress, and had elbows, sharp elbows, and very little hair.

But she was neat. She wanted to be neat. She wanted to be neat more than anything else in the world. She was not comfortable, neither were those about her. But that signified nothing. She had always been called the neatest woman in East Medfield, and so had her mother before her, she was thankful to say. So that woman was up with the sun in summer, and very much in advance of him in winter, shaking the rugs, and rattling the tins, and taking time vigorously by the forelock. She scrubbed, and scoured, and swept, and garnished, and squared every chair to an exact angle with the wall.

Children! O, yes, there were children in that house. That is, children were born there, and they stayed there till they were old enough to roll their little bodies down the doorsteps. After which they lived out of doors mostly.

The man? Well, yes, there was a man who was married to the woman years ago, and he lived in that house. That is, he slept there and came in to meals after he had wiped his feet on two door-mats and washed himself in the woodshed. Yes; he lived there. He liked the children, and the flaky pies, and the light biscuits—and he liked the woman. That is, he liked her pretty well. And he was not without a certain pride of possession in her local reputation of being the neatest woman in East Medfield.

Yet he was conscious of a vague discomfort. Week days he did not mind, but Sundays he felt rather stiff and out of place. He could not seem to sit down anywhere and stay there. Sometimes he thought it might be his clothes, for his Sunday boots squeaked from drying all the week and the woman starched his collar so stiff. He always felt as if he should choke when he ventured into the prim parlor and sat down on the stuffed chair. It might be the collar, and it might be partly because the woman would not let the children go in there and he could hear little four-years-old Jimmie softly sobbing outside the door. But he always felt suffocated in there, and so he would go out to be with the children in the sitting-room, where they were admonished by the woman not to touch anything and to keep still because it was Sunday. If he sat down in the cane-seat rocker to comfort Jimmie on his breast for a while the woman looked sharply in with an injunction not to rock, rocking cut the carpet. When he would fain stretch out his limbs upon the hard haircloth lounge she would call to him from the kitchen not to put his feet up unless he took off his shoes, and asked if he had covered the head of the lounge with a newspaper. So he generally wandered out to the barn or into the neighbors'. And the children they kicked, no, swung, their heels—and wished it wasn't Sunday.

Books? Playthings? Well, you see the woman had no time for reading. She didn't believe in wasting time that way. She wanted to scour the tins. What would the neighbors say if they were to come in and find her sitting down reading the newspaper? There was the oilcloth carpet, for one thing, that had to be washed with skim milk three times a week. Some folks didn't wash 'em but once, but she wasn't one of that kind. And the pantry shelves and the cellar stairs, who was going to keep them scoured if she idled away her time reading? When the children came home from school she made them stand at the threshold, for fear their feet were muddy, while she took their slates and handed them their bread and butter. Then they ran off to play. O, no, there were no playthings in that house. There was a box of blocks once bestowed on Jimmie, but the woman could not have them in the house, they made such a clutter. So they were burned up and Jimmie's lip quivers with the remembrance still.

Sunshine? There was a great deal of that, or there would have been if it would not have faded the carpets or cracked the varnish or encouraged the flies; but sunlight being prone to such deeds of violence, it was barred out by blind, and shade, and screen.

It was beautiful out of doors. There was a shady road running down through a pleasant valley with a shimmering river and beautiful hills beyond. There were cool woods at the back of the house and a great rock with an overhanging tree where the children played. The house stood in a fair place, where round about were beauty and light, and abundant suggestion of joy. But the woman saw it not. She often rushed to the door or out to the barn or into the garden, to see if the mop was dry, or if the hens had laid, or if the bugs were eating the cucumbers, but she had eyes for neither shimmering river nor pleasant valley nor the beautiful hills beyond. Once a neighbor called to her from across lots from the back door, "Isn't this a lovely day?" "I don't know anything about it. I'm too busy to be always a-watching the weather," was the metallic reply.

House plants? O, no, they would drip water and make dirt. Once little Jimmie, forgetting himself, brought into that house a whole great handful of buttercups, as many as his fat fingers could reach round, and with his fascinated vision riveted on the golden mass exclaimed, "See, buttercups! Ain't they lovely?" The woman answered, quickly, "Yes, I guess so, but don't bring that mess in here to get 'em all over my floor. Carry 'em right out doors, that's a good boy." And Jimmie carried them slowly.

No, there were no flowers nor any such rubbish in that house. It was all neat, very neat, indeed. The copper tank was like gold, the zinc like silver, and the biscuits would melt in your mouth. And the woman was thin, very thin, and her calico dress flapped straighter

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 12, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.
To any one who is not now a subscriber to this paper, it will be sent three months on trial on receipt of 25 cents.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Olives in bulk, 50 cents a quart, at Thompson's Central Street Market.

At Hellyar's. An elegant line of new spring overcoats.

Nice chickens at very low prices at Thompson's Central Street Market.

At Hellyar's. Refined Tar Camphor for packing away furs and woolens. The best moth exterminator in the market. All you will need for 10 cents. S. H. HELLYAR & Co.

Plenty of new cabbages at Thompson's Central Street Market, also native rhubarb.

PALMER NEWS.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

Two Shots Fired Through the Window of Prosecuting Officer Lavine's House at Three Rivers.

The better class of residents in Three Rivers have been satisfied for some time that there were places in that village where liquor was being sold illegally, and last Friday afternoon F. W. Lavine of the prosecuting committe, assisted by Deputy Sheriff Brainerd and others, made a raid on Daniel Connor and C. Consigney. At Connor's nothing was found. At Consigney's harness shop were found three bottles which had contained whisky, one being empty and the others containing but a small portion of the original contents, perhaps a tablespoonful. The search at his tenement revealed a couple of quart glass fruit jars in the cellarway of the house, each containing a little whisky. These were given by Mr. Lavine to his assistant, F. A. Upham, to hold while he searched further, and while he was holding them Mrs. Consigney snatched one from under his arm, got the top off and managed to spill part of the contents, though not all.

Messrs. Upham and Lavine went to Springfield on their wheels that night to the music festival, returning about 1.30, and shortly after going into the house, while Mr. Lavine was on his way to his room with a lamp in his hand, two shots were heard. He was about to extinguish the lamp and step out of doors to see what was the matter when his wife called to him to hurry up-stairs, as the shots had been fired into the house. Examination showed that the shots had been fired from a distance of about thirty feet through the window of the room which, until recently, has been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Lavine, but now by their little daughter, who is about seven years old. She lay in bed covered with the glass and pieces of sash from the window, and plastering from the wall, though it was soon discovered that she was not hurt. The gun had been loaded with a miscellaneous assortment of shot from fine to buck, as all sizes were found on the floor of the room. In the morning the tracks of the person who did the shooting were plainly to be seen in the mud outside, and fastened to a tree was a notice written on a quarter sheet of foolscap, which read:

Lavine, you and your company, your life is short.

The writing was done with a lead pencil, and no attempt had been made to disguise the hand. Neighbors plainly heard the fellow as he ran away after firing the shots, and the watchman of the mill, who happened to be looking in that direction at the time, saw both flashes as the shots were fired.

Although there is not very much to work on, Mr. Lavine has a strong suspicion as to who the guilty party is, though no names are mentioned as yet. In view of the raids of the day before and the notice found on the tree, the work was evidently friends of the illegal sellers, and the evident intent was to harm Mr. Lavine. He says that he does not propose to be driven from his work by such means, however, and shall keep right on.

It was feared that Consigney would leave town Saturday night, and so he was arrested. His trial came Monday, when he was found guilty of keeping liquor with intent sell and fined $50, from which he appealed.

Sunday School Workers.

The Massachusetts Sunday School Association has been holding a district convention in the Baptist church to-day. There have been sessions this morning and afternoon, with good attendance, and another will be held this evening. The morning session was opened with a devotional service led by Rev. F. S. Hatch of Monson, which was followed by an address of welcome by Rev. S. T. Frost of the Baptist church. Then came reports from the different schools, which were encouraging and hopeful. This was followed by a discussion on "Sunday School in the Home," the questions being answered by J. N. Dummer, the state secretary. Dinner was served at 12.30 in the vestry of the Congregational church by the ladies of both societies. The afternoon session was opened with a devotional exercise led by Rev. A. M. Osgood of Ware. The subject, "How Can We Improve Our Schools?" was then taken up—"In Attendance," by Rev. B. M. Frink of Brookfield; "In Intellectual Efficiency," by Rev. F. J. Hale of Bondsville; "In Spirituality," by Rev. G. S. Butler of Three Rivers. A discussion followed. Rev. Mr. Marble of Monson gave an address, after which the work of the association was explained by Mr. Dummer. The most interesting part of the session was the teaching of the lesson for next Sunday to a class of children by Miss Bertha F. Vella. The session this evening will open with a devotional service, followed by an address on the "Methods of Primary and Intermediate Work" by Miss Vella, and an address by some speaker not yet announced. J. B. Shaw of this village has been the presiding officer.

No Trace of the Runaways.

Louis Bosquet has heard nothing from his erring wife, who left last week with G. M. Shaw. As near as can be ascertained the couple had about $90 with them when they departed. The day before leaving Mrs. Bosquet went to the overseers of the poor at Monson and secured $25, stating that her husband needed the money. Mr. Bosquet has some money in the savings bank at Springfield, and recently his wife tried to have him arrange it so that she could draw the money in case anything should happen to him. This he declined to do, stating that he would fix it so she could get it after his death, but until that time he would keep control of it, which was a lucky thing for him. He has resigned his position as warden at the Monson town farm, to take effect as soon as his successor is appointed. He had no suspicion of his wife's intimacy with Shaw until about two weeks before the elopement, when Shaw called at the house one evening, and he determined the next time he came to inquire into the matter. But he did not come again. Mr. Bosquet had worked unusually hard on the day before the elopement, and retired early, his wife remaining up. About 11 o'clock he waked and finding her still up asked the reason, being told that she was sitting up to care for two of the inmates who were sick. He went to sleep again, and the next time he waked it was 3 in the morning, the back door was open and his wife gone. The ground was muddy and he easily tracked her to the crossroad some distance from the house, where the carriage had been waiting.

Dandelions are in blossom.

M. J. Dawson has resigned as constable.

The coöperative bank has given up the ghost.

Mrs. C. M. Stevens of Upton is visiting friends in town.

O. C. Brewer has purchased a bakery in West Springfield.

Mrs. William Merriam has returned from a visit in Springfield.

The front of the Cross block on Main street is being newly painted.

Mrs. M. Hatch has opened her boarding house in the Cross block.

Arthur H. Adams of Stafford Springs is the new clerk at W. E. Stone's.

The house of W. P. Webster on Thorndike street is receiving a coat of paint.

Rev. C. J. Tuthill of Andover visited his parents here the first of the week.

R. T. Wells of Northfield is the new night watchman at the passenger station.

William LaValley of Springfield is the new foreman at LaSalle's barber shop.

L. B. Fish of Springfield has been the guest of his son, C. E. Fish, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Kenerson of Worcester have been visiting F. H. Caryl this week.

Miss Jennie Eastman has been spending a part of the week with friends in Springfield.

H. W. Smith has moved into the house with his father, S. W. Smith, on West Main street.

Miss Charlotte J. Wills is to lecture May 22d in the opera house on "Scientific Cookery."

The store of E. Goodes on the corner of Main and Thorndike streets is receiving a coat of paint.

W. A. Barnes was called to Rockland, R. I., Wednesday by the death of his brother, George Barnes.

W. E. McDonald has bought the Atkins cottage on Converse avenue, occupied by E. H. Truesdell.

John Smith has left the employ of C. A. Brown & Co., and is now night watchman at the Converse House.

Lyman Kelton of Brookline, formerly of the telephone exchange here, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Quaboag council of the Royal Arcanum will receive a visit from Grand Regent Reynolds at its next meeting.

John O. Hamilton is taking the valuation in this village, there being no member of the board of assessors residing here.

F. H. Caryl is soon to move his family to Ware, the change being made necessary by the death of his father, H. O. Caryl.

District Attorney Gardner prosecuted his first case for the county of Hampden at the superior court in Springfield this week.

Miss Nettie Coleman is to return next week from Westfield, and will be employed as bookkeeper at Smith & Co.'s grocery.

Mrs. B. P. Morse has returned to her home here after an illness since Thanksgiving week at the home of her parents in Holyoke.

Bids for supplying the schools of the town with coal for the ensuing year will be received by the school committee until to-morrow noon.

The members of Washington Council, R. and S. M., attended the funeral of Companion H. O. Caryl at Ware in a body this afternoon.

W. W. Converse, who sprained his knee a few weeks ago in Worcester while getting out of the way of a runaway horse, is able to be out on crutches.

About a dozen members of the local lodge of the Daughters of Rebekah went to Worcester to-day to attend the annual state convention of the order.

The exemplification of the work of the Woman's Relief Corps at this place Wednesday afternoon was attended by twenty-two delegates from eight corps.

Past Grand Regent Robinson of the Royal Arcanum attended a banquet at the Thorndike in Boston yesterday given by Grand Regent Reynolds of the order.

The social announced for this evening at the high school rooms has been postponed for one week on account of the Sunday school convention at the Baptist church.

E. H. Truesdell has bought of H. G. Loomis a building lot on the south side of Main street opposite the residence of E. G. Hastings, and will put up a house thereon.

It is rumored that W. E. Fay is negotiating for a water privilege at Ellithorpe, on the New London Northern road, and that if successful he will build his shoddy mill there.

The name of the A. M. Smith Co., manufacturers of shoddies, has been changed to the Grosvenor Woolen Co., though there is no change in the firm or the management.

P. C. Sawyer, former'y proprietor of the Converse House, has leased Forest Lake Garden for the season and taken possession. The work of preparing the grounds is going on rapidly.

At the Baptist church Sabbath morning the pastor will preach on "Sanctification." In the evening at 7 o'clock the pastor will give a chalk talk and Bible reading on "The Blood Marks."

A meeting of the directors of the cemetery association was held Tuesday evening, when it was voted to proceed with the work on the cemetery in this village, W. A. Breckenridge to have the oversight of it.

Miss Clara F. Smith gave a party last Friday evening at the home of her grandfather, S. W. Smith, on West Main street, to a number of young friends in honor of her cousin, Miss Alice Smith of Springfield.

About 25 of the Masonic fraternity visited Bigham lodge at Ludlow Monday evening, transportation being furnished by Joseph Allen with a barge and four. It is unnecessary to say that a first-class time was had.

Some of the largest and finest apples seen at this time of the year are shown by D. E. Tenny of Three Rivers. They are Baldwins and King of Tompkins County, and remarkably well preserved for so late in the season.

M. J. Dawson has resigned as janitor at the passenger station, and will commence Monday as brakeman on the morning train north on the Ware River road. His place at the station will be taken by William E. Wesson.

Peter Phillips, the Three Rivers wife-beater, pleaded guilty in the superior court at Springfield, Wednesday, to a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, and was sentenced to three years in the house of correction.

The Boston and Albany road is selling round trip tickets to Chicago for $42.85, unlimited; limited to one stop-over in each direction, $40.50; good going and coming only on the "Modoc," $32.40. All are good until November 10th.

The prudential committees of St. Paul's Universalist church and the fire district held a meeting at the court room last Saturday evening, at which time the fire district was ordered to remove the fire alarm apparatus from the church tower.

C. L. Young of Springfield gave a talk Wednesday evening in the Masonic hall to Masons and their friends on the merits of the order of the Eastern Star, and forty names were secured to the application for a charter for a council in this place.

Rev. H. F. Moulton has moved into the new parsonage on the corner of Walnut street and Converse avenue, recently presented to the Universalist society, and E. H. Truesdell will move to the house on Converse avenue vacated by Mr. Moulton.

At the meeting of the Grand Army post this week Dr. William Holbrook, past commander, presented the post with a life-sized crayon portrait of himself. It was voted to request all past commanders to give portraits of themselves for hanging in the post rooms.

The leaving of J. W. Mundell makes several changes in the force at the New London Northern freight house. Frank Washburn is given Mr. Mundell's place as night clerk, while Fred Lacouline is promoted to day clerk and Herbert Hanna of Yantic, Ct., takes the latter's place in the office.

John Shepard, Jr., and wife of Providence, R. I., Mrs. William Kenyon of New York, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lombard, also of New York, on a coaching trip through this section of country, spent Monday night at the Converse House. Their coach was drawn by two pairs of handsome brown horses.

Rev. C. B. Lynn, assistant secretary of the Universalist General Convention, will preach in the Universalist church next Sunday morning. Mr. Lynn has traveled extensively for three years, and is an able and eloquent speaker, whom all should hear. In the evening he will give a special address to young men.

The firemen were out for practice Monday evening. When the duty call was rung in some of the boys on the street cried fire, which brought many people to the doors and windows. If they do not know any better they should be taught, and if they do know it would be well for them to be careful about giving false alarms.

News was received here last Friday afternoon of the death at San Diego, Cal., of Winslow, the six-years-old son of J. W. Mundell, night clerk at the New London Northern freight house. The little fellow was playing on a piazza Thursday afternoon and fell off, striking on his head, living only about 16 hours. Mr. Mundell has left for San Diego.

The Universalist ministers of Western Massachusetts will hold a meeting in the Universalist church next Monday forenoon, with addresses by Rev. C. B. Lynn of Boston, assistant secretary of the Universalist General Convention, Rev. Marion Crosley of Springfield, Rev. Harry Blackford of Monson, and others. Dinner will be served at the Converse House.

The wires running to the fire alarm boxes east of the engine house and on South Main street, which previously crossed the tracks of the Boston and Albany road at two points, have been changed so that the wires running to the boxes north of the track go direct, and those south of the tracks the same, making about half a mile less of wire to care for and lessening the danger of breaks.

Adelbert Needham, well known in this town, who had a leg broken by being thrown from a carriage a week ago last Sunday at Stafford Springs, is critically ill from the effects. Erysipelas having set in, physicians from Springfield, Hartford and Willimantic have inspected the case to consider the need of amputation, although efforts are being made to save the leg. He is now under the care of Dr. Sweet, the noted bone setter.

The last few days have demonstrated the need of the sprinkling cart on Main street, and an effort is being made to secure subscriptions sufficient to pay for its being run. Some of the merchants are prompt in their response, while others refuse altogether or cut down their last year's subscription. It would be a backward step if the village does without the sprinkling of the streets this year, but the proprietor of the cart can hardly be expected to run it for the fun of the thing.

Riders of bicycles will need to be careful about riding on the sidewalks. One lady was hurt a few nights ago by a bicyclist colliding with her, while others have had narrow escapes. It would be well if wheelmen were to keep off the sidewalk on Main street altogether. Another thing which it would be well for them to remember is that they have no more right on the sidewalks than a horse and carriage, and have no right to ring their bells to make pedestrians give them room.

Louis Duprez of Three Rivers was arrested at Thorndike last Sunday for drunkeness and lodged in the lockup here. Monday morning he was found to be suffering with a bad attack of the tremens, he imagining that a crowd was after him to shoot him. Once he said they hit him, and he wanted a knife to cut off that side of his head and throw it away, as it felt badly. He was but little better the next morning, and was taken to the jail in Springfield. From his ravings it is surmised that he knows more about the shooting into Officer Lavine's house at Three Rivers than he ought to.

The sudden death of Mrs. J. J. Moynahan at Three Rivers on Tuesday of last week was a sad blow to her family and friends. Mrs. Moynahan came to Three Rivers about 12 years ago, and during her residence there and in this village, by her cheerful disposition and generous ways had endeared herself to a large circle of friends. In September last she went with her husband to Pawtucket, R. I. There her health seems to have been undermined to such an extent that in the winter she was compelled to return to her former home, where she died last week. Besides her husband she leaves two children.

A session of the probate court was held in the district court room Wednesday, and adjourned to-morrow afternoon at Springfield, after transacting the following business:

Administration granted in the estates of—George Bishop, late of Springfield, John P. Bishop, administrator; George H. Deane, late of Springfield, Charles P. Deane, administrator; William Ely, late of Palmer, George W. Ely, administrator. Administration, with will annexed, granted in the estate of Joshua D. Sawyer, late of Palmer, Catherine E. Sawyer, administratrix. Wills approved of—Jane Newton, late of Brimfield, Frank R. Newton, executor. Trustees appointed under the wills of—Martha W. Bemis, late of Chicopee, Robert E. Bemis, late of Chicopee. Assignment in estate in fee of Elizabeth A. Brown, late of Springfield. Partition of real estate allowed in estate of Arietta T. Cole, late of Springfield.

A change of time goes into effect on the Boston and Albany road next Sunday, when the 10.59 a. m. express for the west will have a Chicago sleeper attached which will go via the Michigan Central road, reaching Chicago at 1.30 the next afternoon. The 5.28 p. m. western express, which now runs six days in the week, will then run every day, having a Chicago sleeper attached which will reach that city at 9 the next evening via the Lake Shore road. Going east the 1.50 p. m. express will stop at Warren, a new departure. The train leaving at 8.36 will leave at 9.13, and will run every day in the week. This gives Palmer people two trains west Sunday evening, for the far west at 5.28, and for New York at 6.06; also three for Boston, at 6.08, 7.55 and 9.13.

The village is just now without street lights, and the people can imagine how they would like a return to such a state of affairs continually. At the annual meeting of the fire district in 1892 $1500 was appropriated for street lights, the prudential committee being instructed to have the same number of lights as previously for as long a time as the money would last. The contract ran out about three months ago, but the electric company has run the lights, thinking that the people did not want darkness and would be willing to pay for them. At the annual meeting this year nothing was done in the matter. The whole town is to be lighted this year, but as the lights for the other villages will not be ready for at least two months yet the selectmen do not care to authorize the lighting of this village in advance of the others; the prudential committee of the fire district has no authority to order the lights run, and the company will not run them longer on its own risk, so this village will be without street lights until the lights for all the town are ready.

State Primary School Notes.

Dr. Gable visited in Boston and Lowell the first of the week.

Miss Maud Clark of Hartford, Ct., is visiting with Miss LaSalle this week.

This is vacation week in the schools, and all of the teachers are away enjoying the brief holiday.

Mr. Wetmore went into Springfield Wednesday morning on his bicycle. He took an early start, leaving the school about five o'clock, and returned at eleven.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ward have nearly completed arrangements for a six-weeks' trip through Wisconsin and to the World's Fair. They hope to start about the 22d of this month.

THORNDIKE.

Dentist M. W. Flynn of Pittsfield was in town for a few days the past week.

A number from this place will visit the World's Fair during the coming summer.

Wednesday being a holy day masses were celebrated at the Catholic church at 5 and 8 o'clock a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Messier lost their only child on Tuesday, after an illness of only a few days.

Gene Sikes and Camile Paro are both riding Lovell safeties, which they have recently purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crimings, who have been residents of this place for a number of years, have moved to Worcester.

Marshal L. Hitchcock was in town the past week, having come from Lynn to Springfield to attend the funeral of his brother.

William Lyons, who has been employed as a barber by J. W. Molloy, is to accept a similar position at Hartford, Ct., and left for that city on Wednesday.

The sand hill crane which was shot near the bend of the river by Mr. Lord is now on exhibition in J. F. Luman's show window, and is considered by judges to be a splendid specimen of its kind. It is valued at $25.

Special services will be held at the Catholic church next Tuesday evening. Several out-of-town clergy will be present. Masses will be celebrated on the following morning (Wednesday) at 5 and 8 o'clock.

Several from this place will attend the musicale to be given at Ware next Monday evening by pupils of M. J. Sullivan of Chicopee. Miss Van Heusen of this place will sing two selections, "Dream of Peace," and "Best of All."

The fife and drum corps made its second appearance in public on Monday evening, and after playing several selections were given refreshments and cigars by T. J. Clifford of the Clinton House, and J. F. Loftus, to whom they wish to return thanks.

J. J. Kelley, who has been for a number of years a clerk for his brother, E. J. Kelley, has resigned his position and left this week for Worcester, where he is to go into the meat business. Thomas Longtine, Jr., has taken the position and began duty on Tuesday.

The first game of the season between the Thorndike grammar school and the Three Rivers was played last Friday, and was won by the Three Rivers club by a score of 24 to 16. A return game was played between the same clubs this afternoon on the church grounds in this place.

The grand ball given on Wednesday evening was an enjoyable affair. There was not as large an attendance as the affair deserved, but those present enjoyed a very pleasant evening. The orchestra seemed to please, and Harry Brigham's prompting was the most distinct that has been heard here for some time.

BONDSVILLE.

Two of Lawrence Sullivan's children have the measles.

Clifton, youngest son of Henry Hobson, has the scarlet fever.

Miss Alice Armstrong sang in the choir in the M. E. church last Sunday.

Amos Slate, from Springfield, was visiting friends here Saturday and Sunday.

The Drum Corps has bought a base drum and symbols of Belden's Brass Band of Northampton.

Miss Hattie Kirk is on the sick list with an attack of the grippe. She is attended by Dr. Stowe of Palmer.

Miss Gracie Taylor, who has been spending a week in Springfield and Chicopee, returned on Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong and daughter Ruth spent Sunday with his brother in Springfield.

Mrs. Henry Hobson, who has been confined to her bed the last few weeks with stomach trouble, is slowly improving.

Mrs. H. Fletcher will have a millinery opening of trimmed and untrimmed hats of all the latest shapes at W. O. Regan's next Tuesday.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bond, which has been so sick with the measels that it was thought it could not live, is recovering.

The Bondsville drum corps have a new uniform costing a hundred and fifteen dollars, of dark blue coat and light pants with a gilt stripe, and a blue hat with "Bondsville."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Doolittle, nee Mrs. George Allen, who formerly lived here but now reside in California, and are to spend the summer in the east, were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Ida Taylor, last week.

The many friends in this place of Daniel Sullivan of Belchertown, who formerly lived here, will be sorry to learn of his death, which resulted from the kick of a horse Tuesday while plowing in the field. He leaves a wife and five children.

The entertainment last Friday night by the school children consisted of a parasol and tambourine drill, with singing and speaking. The Wesleyan male quartette rendered some fine singing. The children netted about $9 towards paying for their organ.

O. A. Parent is remodeling his block opposite the meat market, making a tenement out of Dr. Auger's office, and building an office on the west side. Armoud LaCross has moved his confectionary and news room into Adolph Girouard's house, and will move back when the repairs are completed.

The insurance agent has adjusted the claims on the buildings burned last week. J. B. Carmody was insured on his stock for $1500, and $1200 on his building. Sullivan and Carmody are both to commence right away to build. The blocks will stand with the end to the street and run back to the hill, and Carmody's will be three stories high in front.

The Bondsvilles ball team played the first game Saturday on its own ground with the Ludlows, and defeated them, the score standing 19 to 0. Sullivan pitched for Bondsville and was caught by Sullivan. Powers pitched for the Ludlows and was well supported by Superneau. The Bondsville nine made 21 hits with a total of 27, while Sullivan was hit for four singles only.

THREE RIVERS.

James Sikes, Jr., has purchased a pneumatic bicycle.

John Barker of Boston spent Sunday with his parents here.

Louis Auger of Holyoke spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cheney.

Will Graves of Cambridge spent Sunday with his father at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward of Palmer spent Sunday with Mrs. F. A. Ruggles.

Miss Ross of Springfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murdock.

Miss Rosa Gauthier had the misfortune to dislocate her shoulder this week.

G. H. Strickland from Prospect Farm, visited J. B. Burlingame last week.

Miss Cooley of Springfield spent a few days this week with Miss Della Gage.

Mrs. Holt, who has been seriously ill for several days, is now slowly recovering.

Thomas Frame has purchased a Cleveland bicycle from A. E. Buck & Co. of Palmer.

Alic Reopal of Taunton, a former resident here, spent a few days this week in town.

Mrs. James Tricket has been quite ill with a severe cold this week, but is now recovering.

R. C. Talbert of Waterbury, Ct., spent this week with Mr. and Mrs. Talbert on Main street.

A large delegation from this place visited Brigham lodge of the Masonic fraternity at Ludlow Tuesday evening.

J. J. Carroll, second hand of the carding rooms in the mill, has been confined to his house for some days by illness.

Mrs. Vaughan of Boston and Mrs. Bursaw of Worcester spent a few days this week with their sister, Mrs. Frank White.

Horace Paine made a trip to Fall River Wednesday in the interests of the local lodge of the A. O. U. W., remaining over night.

Mrs. Byron of Worthington and Mrs. A. C. Shaw of Belchertown spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Shaw.

A. W. Warriner has taken the agency for the Winton bicycle, and expects to sell a number of wheels this season. Mr. Warriner has one as a sample.

After a four years' stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burlingame, with her husband and children, will soon go to housekeeping at Livonia, N. Y.

Charles Haynes's office, which has occupied a site near the New London Northern depot, has been moved to his premises on Main street, and is situated opposite the post office.

Mr. Amaron of Springfield is expected to address the French people in the U. E. church next Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m. A few prominent singers from out of town will also assist the choir.

James Calkins of Springfield has sold his farm, located on the main road between Palmer and this place, to Cyrile Consigney, who intends to do some repairing to the buildings during the summer.

The avenues around the grounds of St. Ann's church and parsonage have been much improved in appearance, and made more convenient for travel, in consequence of the concreting that has been done this week.

About sixty Sunday school children from this place attended the Sunday school convention at Palmer to-day. They were conveyed there in John F. Twiss's omnibus and carriages, and were in charge of the teachers.

Mr. Small, the newly-appointed superintendent of public schools in the town, was introduced to the teachers here Wednesday by Mr. Breckenridge of the school committee. Mr. Small intends to make an official visit next week.

Mr. Brady of Boston, who has recently been ordained to preach, is expected to occupy the pulpit in the Baptist church a week from next Sunday. It is also expected now that a student from Newton Theological Seminary will supply next Sunday.

Joseph Henrichon, a carpenter, while at work Monday on a staging in the dye house at the mill, hanging a shafting, fell from the staging and broke his collarbone besides receiving some painful bruises about the head. He is attended by Dr. Bliss, who thinks that he will soon recover.

The overseers of the Otis Company's mill at Ware have challenged the overseers of the mill here to a game of base ball, and the challenge has been accepted. All the necessary arrangements have been made to play the game except naming the date, which will be some Saturday in the near future.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

BOSTON, May 10, 1893.

The House on Thursday disposed very promptly of the resolve for biennial elections. Several members were ready to speak on it, but Speaker Barrett put the question so quickly that the clerk began to call the roll while one was waiting for another to begin. There were 93 votes in favor of the amendment, 81 against it and 10 pairs. There were 29 Republicans recorded against the resolve and four Democrats in favor of it. Otherwise the division was on party lines. This is the largest adverse vote proportionately which the biennial movement has had since it began. Last year there were 120 yeas to 87 nays, and that was not as strong for the resolve as usual. It has usually happened that the resolve has had the necessary two-thirds vote on the first of the two years, and been defeated on the second year. But now it has been defeated two years in succession, and by unusually large votes.

The pinching effect of the large state tax which is expected this year is seen in the reported appropriation of $200,000 for the new Medfield insane asylum, but with the condition that none of the money shall be used in 1893 or 1894.

Friday afternoon an end was reached on testimony of the gas investigation. Arguments were postponed to Thursday. Three bills were presented by the counsel for Mayor Matthews. One of them annuls the charter of the Bay State Gas Company, provides for carrying on its business by a receiver, and for the consolidation of the minor gas companies of Boston. Another bill puts heavy restrictions on all gas companies in the state, and compels the gas commissioners to keep their books and records open to the public. The third bill applies to all corporations in the state, and aims to prevent any such double dealing of corporations as was practiced by Addicks with his several Bay State gas companies.

Friday forenoon the House debated with vigor the bill to relieve from double taxation all personal property situated in another state, and all foreign corporation shares, both kinds of property being owned in this state. Mr. Wellman of Malden offered the bill, but the House voted it down by 53 for it to 132 against it. The argument was that the rich do not pay as much as they ought to, in any event, and that it is all right to tax them twice on this sort of property.

The growing dangers from electric wires in Boston have led to the reporting of a bill to compel them all to be put underground in the most crowded district, except the trolley wires. In the nature of the case, those must stay overhead, but their presence is a constant argument in favor of the storage battery system, and the danger and disfigurement which they cause will be a continual stimulus to inventors to devise some way of removing them. The bill referred to contemplates the completion of the work by 1900. Not enough is to be done in any year to be a serious burden upon the companies.

The taxation question is left this year just where it was a year ago, after a hard contest between the two houses. After sharp and protracted debates the House has refused by a large majority to relieve from double taxation the personal property of Massachusetts residents in other states. This apparently implied that the screws would be put on to compel the disclosure of the ownership of those stocks, but when it was shown in the debate that such a law would be a serious loss to the state in taxable property, and that the result would be to increase the taxes of the very people whom it was desired to relieve, then the House voted by a large majority against the bill. No attempt has been made to deny that this is double taxation under the present law, nor that double taxation is unjust, but it has been held that it is all right to tax rich people twice because they are rich and are as well able to be taxed twice as the poor people are to be taxed once. It is also argued that many rich people escape taxation, and hence it is all right to tax them double where it is possible. Yet it was clearly shown that many trust estates, the property of widows and orphans, is invested in foreign stocks and other forms of property which are fully taxed in the states where they are situated. New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Baltimore have tax laws which encourage people to live there; Cincinnati and Boston tend to drive them away, and the difference in the growth of these cities in the last 10 years has been great. It is evident that our tax laws are in much need of amendment, and that radical reform is needed, but the statesman is yet to be found who knows where to begin or how he will come out.

The House has debated at length the abolition of the death penalty. It so happened that the discussion came on Tuesday when the papers were making a conspicuous feature of the execution of Harris in New York. As the execution of Almy is also near, as Lizzie Borden has just been arraigned for murder, and as the people of Western Massachusetts have recently been deeply impressed with the executions of Coy and Holmes, it would seem as if the agitators for reform had a favorable opportunity for their efforts, but the House was against them by 42 to 109.

On the accompanying matter, that of inflicting the death penalty so that chloroform be used, there was quite a debate, but the humanitarian doctor who put in the bill, Mr. Dodge of Natick, got only a few votes in his support.

The Senate and House agreed on the trip to Chicago on Massachusetts Day. The appriation is $12,000. Those who go will be the governor, ten of his staff, the lieutenant governor, the council, eight senators, twenty representatives, the presiding officers and clerks of the two branches, and the ex-governors. LANDON.

BORN.

At Palmer, 5th, a daughter to WILLIAM HEGEMAN.

At Brimfield, 6th, a son to CHARLES S. and LIZZIE M. TARBELL.

At North Harwick, 28th, a son, (JESSE LINCOLN—10 lbs.) to J. Herbert and Lizzie M. Raymond, and grandson to Abbie E. Walker.

At Worcester, 5th, a daughter, (EDITH ELIZA) to George H. and Alice L. Tiffany, and granddaughter to E. E. Richardson of Ware.

MARRIED.

At Palmer, 8th, by Rev. H. F. Moulton, LEANDER LAFOUNTAIN and Mrs. NELLIE FRY.

At Monson, 6th, by Rev. F. S. Hatch, JOHN MCPHERSON of Palmer and Mrs. ALICE BLANCHARD of Monson.

DIED.

At Wilbraham, 4th, ALBERT BLISS, 75.

At Warren, 10th, Mrs. EUNICE POWERS CUTTER, 75 years and 6 mos.

At Warren, 11th, Miss EMMA BUTTERWORTH, 23.

At Warren, 11th, WARREN O. BUTTERWORTH, 70.

At Brimfield, 10th, MADELINE A., 6?, wife of Thomas G. Morgan.

At Warren, 1st, MARTHA S. COLLINS, 82, widow of Gamaliel Collins, formerly of Thorndike.

At Ludlow Center, 5th, Dea. GEORGE R. CLARK, 58.

At Springfield, 7th, at the residence of her son, L. J. Bennett, 21 Burr street, LAURA A. BENNETT.

At Wilmington, Del., 9th, CALLE T. WALES, 80, son of Capt. Oliver Wales, late of Wales, Mass., brother of Salem H. Wales.

CASH paid for fresh eggs. H. A. NORTHROP.
24

WANTED.—Two good carpenters at once. C. N. ELLITHORPE, Palmer.
22 5

FOR SALE.—Oak, hickory and chestnut cord wood. Also chestnut posts and ties suitable for electric car tracks. Orders by mail, box 408. King Farm, Palmer, Mass. 4?6

GOOD PASTURAGE FOR COWS.—In the "Knox Pasture," so called, near the village. Apply to CHAS. B. FISKE. Palmer, May 12, 1893.

WANTED—Salesmen; salary and expenses from start; steady work; good chance for advancement. BROWN BROS. CO., Nurserymen, Rochester, N. Y. 4?5

WANTED.—Situation by an experienced grocery and provision clerk. Also competent of taking charge of books. Best of recommendations. L. W. WILLIAMS, West Rutland Mass. 4?5

NOTICE.—All persons are hereby forbidden harboring or trusting my wife, Sarah A., on my account, as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, and I shall pay no bills of her contracting after this date. LOUIS BOSQUET. Palmer, Mass., May 5th, 1893. 3 5

NOTICE.—The subscriber will pay no bills for Julia Barney or anyone after the 25th of March, A. D., 1893. His JOHN D. x BARNEY. Holland, Mass. 3-6 Mark.

WANTED.—About 600 chestnut poles, 20 feet long with 7-inch tops. To be delivered where wanted in the villages of Three Rivers, Bondsville and Thorndike, and on the roads connecting same. Address proposals to PALMER & MONSON ELECTRIC CO., 2-5 Palmer, Mass.

FOR SALE—At reasonable figures, two well built modern houses of seven rooms each on one of the most desirable streets in the Town of Warren. A barn will be sold with one of them if desired. For terms, etc., address or see W. H. KELLEY, Agent for owner, 3 6 Warren, Mass.

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.

I wish to call the attention of the horsemen of Palmer and the surrounding towns to the fact that I have opened a blacksmith shop in the rear of E. Goodes' shoe store, corner of Main and Thorndike streets, Palmer, where I am now prepared to do all kinds of wagon work, wood and iron. Particular attention will be given to shoeing difficult horses. I will do my work as cheap as any one in town, and as to the quality I shall let the work speak for itself. Give me a call. tf-1 JAMES HEALEY.

AUCTION. F. WAYLAND PRESTON, Auct'r.

Stock, hay, farming tools, household goods, etc., will be sold at public auction, at the late residence of J. M. A. Squier, situated in the south part of Monson, on Tuesday, May 16, at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described property: 3 Farrow cows, 3 heifers, Holstein and Jersey, 2 yearlings, 8 years old horse, Democrat wagon, Harness, ox cart, sled, harrow, farming tools generally, 50 hens, 5 tons good hay, also a quantity of household goods, etc., etc.

Sale positive, rain or shine.

J. V. SQUIER, Administrator.
Monson, Mass., May 6, 1893.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the next of kin, and all other persons interested in Minnie E. Weld, of Brimfield, in said County, minor.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Oscar F. Brown, of said Brimfield, praying for the appointment of himself, the petitioner, as guardian of said minor.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Springfield, in said County of Hampden, on the first Wednesday of June, next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a guardian should not be appointed as aforesaid.

And the said petitioner is hereby directed to give notice thereof to the next of kin of said minor, and others interested, by publishing this citation once a week for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Palmer Journal, published at Palmer, the last publication to be two days at least before said court, or by delivering a copy hereof to each of said next of kin, at least seven days before said Court, and if not served by delivery, by also mailing a copy hereof to each of said next of kin, fourteen days, at least, before said court.

Witness, WILLIAM S. SHURTLEFF, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this tenth day of May, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-two.

3-6 SAMUEL B. SPOONER, Register.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN ss. April 11, 1893.

By virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment rendered in the Superior Court at Springfield, within and for the County of Hampden, on the third day of April A. D. 1893, in favor of William Holbrook, of Palmer, in said County, and against Timothy F. Fuller, of said Palmer, I have this day seized and taken all the right, title and interest which the above named Timothy F. Fuller had on the second day of January, A. D. 1892, the day when the same was attached on mesne process in said action, in and to a certain tract of real estate with buildings thereon situate in Palmer, in said County of Hampden, and bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning on the northerly side of School street at the south-east corner of land of Sarah A. Ferry, thence northerly in line of said Ferry's land about 132 feet to land of Mary Ronan; thence easterly in line of said Ronan's land about 66 feet to land of O. M. Wood; thence in line of said Wood land southerly about 132 feet to said School street; thence westerly on said School street about 66 feet to place of beginning. And on Saturday, the third day of June, A. D. 1893, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in front of the Court House in said Palmer, I shall offer for sale, by public auction, to the highest bidder, said right, title and interest in and to said real estate to satisfy said execution and pay all fees and charges of sale.

3-4 W. H. BRAINERD, Deputy Sheriff.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—HAMPDEN SS. PROBATE COURT.—To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Henry Atkins, late of Palmer, in said county, deceased, Greeting:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said court, for probate, by George M. Atkins, of said Palmer, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety on his official bond as such executor.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Springfield, in said county of Hampden, on the first Wednesday of June next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Palmer Journal,

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 12, 1893.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

MONSON.

Merry Dancers and Gay Gowns.

The concert and ball Tuesday evening were well attended and much enjoyed. The music by Brigham's orchestra was catchy, and several of the latest songs, including "Georgie," were sung by the musicians. The grand march, in which one hundred and two couples took part, was led by Floor Director John W. Murphy and wife.

Among the prettiest dressess noticed were the following:

Minnie Gilligan, cream white wool, satin trimming.
Miss Kittie Shougrue, light green silk skirt, pink silk bodice, lace trimmed.
Miss Marcella Coyle, black lace.
Miss Margaret Doyle, black India silk and lace.
Miss Delia Gaven, brown silk skirt, canary bodice.
Mrs. Eugene Howlett, white cashmere and lace.
Miss Maggie Ryan, sea green serge, dark green velvet trimming.
Miss Gertrude Gage, white cashmere.
Miss Grace Cushman, white nun's veiling, ribbon trimmed bodice.
Miss Maggie Dalton, golden brown serge, trimmed with velvet bands.
Mrs. Travers, old rose India silk.
Miss Sophie A. Miller, changeable mastic and green diagonal, green velvet trimming.
Miss Rounds, terra cotta silk and green velvet.
Miss Stebbins, black wool goods, steel passamenterie.
Mrs. John Murphy, heliotrope serge.
Miss Georgie Lull, black lace.
Miss Mary O'Brien, heliotrope serge.
Miss Sarah Moulton, black henrietta.
Miss Carrie Chapin, brown wool, surah trimming.
Miss Maggie Lyons, black silk and jet.
Miss Maggie Barry, light blue brilliantine.
Miss Lillie Burdick, gray skirt, cream albatross bodice.
Miss Mary Connell, mastic armure and silk.
Miss Kate Hagerty, light brown bengaline, dark brown trimmings.
Miss Sarah Gavin, black skirt, pink silk waist.
Miss Nellie Keep, black lace.
Miss Kate Crowley, ecru henrietta.
Miss Mamie Murphy, heliotrope serge, silk and velvet trimmings.
Miss Ella Bills, black lace.
Miss Delca Hart, black lace.
Miss Annie Corcoran, drab lady's cloth, gimp trimming.
Miss Julia Gallivan, ecru silk.
Miss Gusta Kennedy, cream corded serge, reseda velvet trimming.
Miss Ida Mason, black henrietta ribbon bodice, pinks.
Mrs. W. E. McDonald, gray serge, velvet trimming.
Miss Lottie Moulton, black silk, and wool goods.
Miss Mollie Lewis, white mull.
Miss Effie Aldrich, pearl serge.
Miss Lena Babbitt, ashes of roses silk, white lace yoke and bretelles.
Miss Elsie Lewis, black satin skirt, pink silk bodice.
Miss Maggie Gavin, steel moire.
Miss Elvira Brooks, pink satin waist, chiffon skirt.
Miss Lillie Tanner, tan henrietta, silk trimming.
Miss Annie Coleman, yellow and white corded wool goods.
Miss Maggie Lyons, black lace.
Miss Mary Corcoran, light steel silk and wool.
Miss Minnie Bacon, black wool skirt, pink guimpe.

Robert Cushman has a new bicycle.

Master Ned Cushman has a new safety.

John Moriarty has left the south straw shop.

Mrs. Stephen Lamb has an attack of grippe.

Carl M. Blair has sold his Lovell bicycle to W. C. Nelson.

There was a slight shut-down at Ellis's mill Thursday.

Miss Alma W. Bissell spent Sunday at home in Holland.

Miss Salena Orcutt is slowly improving after her long illness.

A. G. Coleman has resumed his work at James Pendergast's.

Arthur D. Norcross, who is ill with pneumonia, is improving.

E. Wakefield has taken a position in F. Bliss's blacksmith shop.

James Pendergast has been visiting friends in Norwich the past week.

The Cycle Club geology class will take a trip to Mt. Tom to-morrow.

Mrs. Lillian Sutcliffe Ward has been in town during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Morris will leave to-morrow for the World's Fair.

Lysander Nevins has accepted a position as hostler for Mrs. E. L. Coburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Haskell of Lynn were in town last week, visiting friends.

Mrs. Jane M. Bell of Norwich is spending a few days with friends in town.

Three persons were received into the Congregational church last Sunday.

Mrs. D. B. Coburn has a fine two-seated carriage, purchased of R. Clifford.

Miss Mabelle F. Gates spent Sunday with her parents in North Wilbraham.

Friends from Springfield spent Tuesday with Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Marble.

Dumping rubbish on the school house lot on State street has been forbidden.

Painter Osborn is giving the house of S. F. Cushman, Jr., a fresh coat of paint.

W. E. Tyson and wife of Granville were the guests of C. H. Tryon this week.

Hiram Stacy has sold a house and five acres of land to Samuel Heredeen for $500.

Wilfred Noble of Pittsfield spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miner Noble.

Jerry Griffin of Belchertown has succeeded J. W. Murphy as clerk in the Monson House.

Stephen Page of Mansfield, Ct., has accepted a position in McFarland's meat market.

Business at Heimann & Lichten's is very dull, machines running but six hours per day.

Mr. Kendall of the Cushman House had a slight touch of the grippe the early part of the week.

Miss Louise Morris gave a five o'clock tea to a number of her lady friends Wednesday afternoon.

The Christian Eendeavors of the Methodist church held a business meeting Monday evening.

Miss Lottie Squier, daughter of Edgar Squier, has been ill with the grippe during the last week.

At the Congregational church last Sunday morning three persons were admitted on profession of faith.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavater Munn of Springfield spent last Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Chaffee.

Mrs. Lydia A. Kenyon has sold the Haskell place at North Monson to Thomas Carolin for $2300.

H. M. Barlow opens his ice cream saloon to-day, and will supply customers with Squiers' ice cream.

Several ladies attended the exemplification of the work of the Woman's Relief Corps at Palmer Wednesday.

Flynt's Park, with its many attractions, is attracting the usual number of visitors, especially on Sundays.

Charles Merrick is having a new pipe organ, built by Mason & Risch of Worcester, put into his house.

George E. Grout is fencing in his land adjoining Flynt's store, and intends using the enclosure for a flower garden.

The W. N. Flynt Granite Company has bought a locomotive of the New York Central road for use at the quarry.

The W. N. Flynt Granite Company is putting in a fine granite curbing for P. S. Anderson at the No. 1 cemetery.

W. M. Tucker has bought of Charles Stiles the bay horse formerly used on the Adams Express team, for use on his farm.

Miss Edith Wood of Springfield, spent Friday and Saturday with her sister, Miss Clara A. Wood, superintendent of schools.

Jesse Moulton has left the south straw shop and entered the employ of Heimann & Lichten as assistant in the dye house.

Fred Clough, of the Warren pump works, came home on his wheel and spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Clough.

Rev. T. C. Druley of Stafford Springs exchanged pulpits with Rev. Harry Blackford of the Universalist church here last Sunday.

Frank Handy has his new hen house nearly completed. It is 15x40 feet, with yards, and contains some of the finest breeds of birds in town.

Mrs. Estey, who has been spending the winter with friends in Worcester, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. L. Wales, this week.

Dr. F. P. Hanley, recently graduated from the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, was in town this week visiting friends.

Delegates from the Congregational Sunday school and others from this place attended the Sunday school convention in Palmer to-day.

W. S. T. Fitz, a former student at the Academy, now attending the Bridgton Institute, New Jersey, is the guest of Mrs. E. L. Coburn.

People are beginning to put screens on their doors and windows, not to keep the flies out, but the dust, which is something terrible.

Frank M. Fenton, who has been at work in Stamford, Ct., during the winter, has returned home and is at work for Heimann & Lichten.

"An Economical Farce" and a tambourine drill will be given by the young people connected with the Universalist church in about a fortnight.

Prof. Williams L. Cowles, professor of Latin in Amherst College, a trustee of Monson Academy, spent Tuesday in town visiting the academy.

Mrs. Eugene Griswold has returned from Springfield, accompanied by her husband, who has been ill there. They are stopping at Fred Thayer's.

Liveryman Clifford has just added two extra fine carriages to his now extensive livery. They are light and narrow-seated, the kind the boys all like.

The household goods, stock, hay, farming tools, etc., of the late J. M. A. Squier will be sold at auction at his late residence, at 10 o'clock a. m. next Tuesday.

The selectmen propose to run no chances as to the several bridges in town, and are planking them with fine three-inch plank, including the Reynolds bridge.

The election of officers of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church was postponed on account of the lecture last Sunday evening, and will be held next Sabbath.

Trainer Switchell of Hampden Park, Springfield, who drove "Jacobs" to his record of 2:3¾ last season, was in town Thursday, looking over the trotting stock.

Henry Miller contemplates extending the picket fence leading from Main street to the depot at a not far distant day. The appearance of his property will be greatly improved.

James Pendergast opened his ice cream rooms last Saturday. Mr. Pendergast's cream this year is fully up to the standard of past years, and his saloon has been newly renovated.

Charles L. Jewett, who left the position of teacher in the Greene street school to take the position of keeper in a Lowell prison, has returned to his home in town for the sake of his health.

It is understood that the watering cart is to appear Monday next. It has been in the shop for repairs, and was promised some time ago, so Mr. Fosket is not to blame for the dusty streets.

Mrs. Sarah Ferry has sold a house and lot on King avenue to Theodore Reynolds for $2000, and Mrs. Ellen M. Converse has sold a building lot on the same street to Mr. Reynolds for $150.

The many friends of A. T. Robinson, who was so seriously ill with typhoid fever at College in Albany, and then suffered with the grippe after reaching home, are glad to see him about again.

James F. Alberty, formerly of Monson, now of Brunswick, Ga., had the misfortune to have his shoulder and ribs broken in a railroad smash up about six weeks ago. He is slowly recovering.

The granite posts at the entrance to the Academy grounds have been taken up and are to be used for hitching posts at the Academy building. It is hoped they will be put in place by commencement, June 20.

Roadmaster Carew, who did such excellent work on the highways last year in districts Nos. 3, 8 and 13, has commenced his labors again, which means that good roads for a year to come are assured in those sections.

The need of an early appearance of the watering cart was clearly shown during the parade of the bicyclists Wednesday evening. Those in front were hardly distinguishable to those in the rear on account of the thick dust.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band gave a pleasing entertainment last Friday evening, consisting of singing by Misses Mabel Watson and Mollie Lewis, reading by Misses Jennie M. Day and Mabelle L. Fay, and a dialogue. Ice cream, cake and coffee were sold.

The general athletic meeting of the Western Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association will probably be held in Amherst June 10th. The local branch will hold a meet May 20th on some suitable park, and the team will be selected from the competitors.

The gymnastic exhibition in Memorial Hall this evening will be intensely interesting. Exercises on the parallel and horizontal bars, on the "horse," pyramids, fancy tumbling, club and torch swinging are the attractions offered. This entertainment is given under the auspices of the Monson Athletic Association; tickets 25 and 35 cents.

The cycle people of Monson held their first meet and parade Wednesday evening, about forty-five cyclists participating. Principal Dustan and Miss Louise Morris led the company, which paraded the principal streets of the town. Another meet will be held next Tuesday evening, and it is hoped a larger number of wheelmen will be present.

A large number of people from the Methodist Y. P. S. C. E. will attend the meeting at the Gage district school house next Sunday. The continuance of the meetings there will depend greatly upon the response made by the people in the district to the invitation to attend this meeting, as the society has an opportunity for special work in another place.

Names of pupils neither absent nor tardy during the past month in the No. 1 primary: Lindsey Brigham, Willie Crowley, Michael Crowley, David Connors, Geo. Cushman, James Fitzgerald, James Faulkner, Ernest Hale, Willie Kennedy, Willie Leahy, David Maney, Thomas Mack, Samuel Nichols, Percy Osborne, Thomas Percil, Harold Shaw, Fred Shaw, Harry Stowell, Lizzie Broadfoot, Annie Crowley, Mary Fitzgerald, Kate Looney, Grace Maguire, Louise Moore.

At a meeting of the cyclists held in Memorial Hall Monday evening about forty were present. The meeting was to adopt resolutions concerning riding on the sidewalks, before the selectmen were forced to adopt more stringent measures. D. M. Dustan was chosen chairman and Rev. W. H. Marble, George L. Keeney and Miss Candace Gates were chosen a committee to adopt resolutions, which can be found at the store of George L. Keeney, and to which every cyclist in town should affix his or her name. Coasting on the sidewalks will be stopped, and the laws of teams when in the road will be observed, and the noise of the bells and whistles for more room will be no more.

Mr. Someschein left the employ of Heimann & Lichten last week for a more lucrative position with another straw firm. The women who worked in the room with him presented him a very handsome ring, with these lines by Fannie E. Still:

We shall miss your smiling face
From the old familiar place
By the desk.
By the blocks, and time, and thread,
Closely nestled in your head,
'Sides the rest.
We shall all be very glad
To "make up and not be mad!"
'Fore we part.
If you'll come again next fall,
We will greet you, one and all,
From our heart.
Please let this little token
Bind our friendship, never broken,
In this ring.
Wishing you success and gain,
Wheresoever sunshine (Someschein) reigns,
Is the wish of all the girls.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Wheeler, formerly of this place, have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the death of their only daughter at St. Louis.

LUDLOW.

Deacon George R. Clark, one of Ludlow's respected citizens, died Friday afternoon after a few days' illness. He always took an active interest in church and town affairs. A widow and three daughters survive him, who have the sympathy of many friends.

Representatives from the schools of Wilbraham, Ludlow, Longmeadow and Hampden met last week and discussed the question of choosing a superintendent for these towns. The claims of various candidates were discussed, and it is probable that Mr. Sweet of Walpole, a graduate of the Bridgewater normal school, will be elected.

BELCHERTOWN.

A meeting of the park association will be held in the town hall to-night.

Mrs. Truman Cleveland, 70, died last week at her home in South Belchertown.

Preaching services at the Methodist church will be continued in the afternoon.

James A. Barry, formerly manager of the Highland House, and more recently proprietor of the Edison at Skenectady, N. Y., has taken the management of the Vanderbilt house at Syracuse, N. Y.

There is talk of forming a water company, many names having been secured on a petition for that purpose. Lack of water on the hill is said to be the only obstacle in the way of rebuilding the Highland hotel.

WALES.

S. P. Smith has moved to Warren.

Dan Perry has moved back to his farm.

Porter Walbridge has moved to his new farm.

A. E. Freeman is away on a dyeing job in the vicinity of Boston.

C. M. Moore has bought of Fred Thompson of Palmer his two meat refrigerators, to be used temporarily while the new market is being built.

Shaw's block is fast under way. Several masons are at work on the foundation, while seven carpenters from Springfield are working on the frame.

G. S. Rogers is in the post office as assistant. Although new at the business he performs his duties admirably, and would make a good postmaster. Why not make it permanent for him?

WEST WARREN.

Mrs. Rufus Baker is visiting friends in Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw spent Sunday in Palmer.

Miss Stella Watts is quite sick at her home in New London, Ct.

Miss Rose Johnson of Worcester spent Sunday at her home here.

J. E. Lombard is reported no better in health at Saratoga Springs.

Messrs. George Barton and Oney St. Germain spent Sunday in Millbury.

Mrs. Draper of Brattleboro, Vt., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Dr. O. W. Phelps.

George Barton expects soon to move his family to Millbury, where he is engaged in business.

Mrs. William Campbell and son Walter left for their new home in Nashville, Tenn., Thursday.

Dr. William Lochlin of Milltown, N. B., made a flying call on his cousin, T. C. McCrae, last week on his way home from the medical college at Albany, N. Y.

HAMPDEN.

William Leach has moved into the house of Mrs. Emily Scripter.

Mrs. F. D. Coash, after a nine-years' residence in Warren, has returned to town.

Edward Loynes has bought the place formerly owned and occupied by John Whitaker.

Theodore Griswold found his best horse dead in its stall Tuesday morning. Mr. G. seems peculiarly unfortunate, as this is the third one lost within three years.

Nelson Pease has bought out the Chapin Brothers' meat route, and swings as easily and naturally from the cart as though "to the manor born." His butcher's apron is very becoming, and it is noticed that the young ladies have taken to buying the family meat.

The Methodist church loses in the death of Albert Bliss one of its oldest and highly-prized members. He and his wife, who survives him, were earnest in their efforts for the prosperity of the church, and gave liberally to that end. He will be greatly missed.

Lora Pease, while trimming a shade tree last week, saw that a falling limb would strike the ladder on which he stood, and jumped to the ground, now being confined to his bed with a very badly-sprained ankle and other bruises that will prevent his working for some time.

WILBRAHAM.

Henry M. Bliss has qualified as a notary public.

Rev. M. S. Howard is to give the address on Memorial Day.

Rev. M. S. Howard has been invited to deliver the Memorial Day address.

The ball team goes to Middletown, Ct., to-morrow, to play the college freshmen.

Several of the Wilbraham grangers attended the district grange in Granby Wednesday.

A reception was given Rev. and Mrs. Fayette Nicols at the Methodist parsonage last Wednesday evening.

Mr. Shelden of Wesleyan University, a former graduate of the academy, was in town visiting friends last week.

Charles Woodruff of Russell has taken the position in the store of Postmaster Pease just made vacant by the retiring of William Foskit.

Quite a delegation of Masons of Newton lodge attended an entertainment given by the Ludlow Masons at their hall Tuesday evening.

The Monday Club met with Miss Cummings on Springfield street Monday evening. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. M. S. Howard's.

Untaxed property to the amount of $2000 is now owned in town in the shape of bicycles, Misses McGuire and Hall having just received new high grade machines.

Frank Howard and Fred Reed, of the Amherst Agricultural College, were in town over Saturday and Sunday. W. S. Streeter of Amherst College, '94, was also in town a few days.

The house of the late Luther Markham, recently purchased by C. E. Peck, is being demolished and the grounds cleared to make room for the erection of a fine new modern building.

Albert Bliss, 75, a much respected citizen, died at his home last week Thursday. Mr. Bliss lived in Wilbraham a good many years and was liked by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and two children. The funeral took place at the house Sunday, Rev. M. S. Howard officiating.

Thursday evening the seniors of the academy, in accordance with an established custom of the school, planted the class tree on the academy campus. Later in the evening a banquet was held in the gymnasium, at which several members of the class responded to toasts appropriate to the occasion.

Miss Fannie Sparks, a missionary from Bareiley, India, gave a very interesting talk on India in the reading room of Rich Hall Tuesday evening. Miss Sparks was one of the three missionaries who were first sent to India 23 years ago by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. After her talk about the customs of India, etc., Principal Newhall was chosen an honorary life member of the society, and $20 was raised for that object.

WARREN.

Mr. Jones will put up two houses to rent.

Mr. Spencer is to build a new house this spring.

Rev. D. O. Clark preached in Hopkinton last Sabbath.

The Methodists contemplate building a parsonage on Elm street.

There will be a choral choir at the Congregational church next Sabbath.

Lyman Powers spent last Sabbath with his daughter, Mrs. Barnes, in Fitchburg.

Mrs. A. L. Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Q. W. Otis, died recently at Griffin, Ga.

Mrs. Cordelia Pepper and grandson have been having a few days' outing at Mountain View house, on Baptist hill, Three Rivers.

J. C. Freeman started for the World's Fair this week, and expects to remain till July 1st. He is the first person to go from Warren.

The Tuesday Club met with Mrs. Edward Fairbanks this week and listened to an interesting essay on "King Henry VIII," by Mrs. Robbins.

The failure of Mr. Whipple, caused by the assignment of Mr. Ladd of Spencer, is a surprise to his many friends, and much sympathy is felt for him in his misfortune.

The Warren Tennis Club met Tuesday evening and elected these officers: President, Frank Bliss; vice president, K. Winslow; secretary, Florence Holman; treasurer, Henry Howe.

The school committee will meet with the selectmen to-morrow afternoon to choose two members of the school committee. The selectmen and board of health will also choose a member to fill the vacancy caused by resignation of Col. A. L. Converse.

Druggist H. G. Towne has discovered a preparation of chemicals in a certain combination which will clean marble without the aid of acids which eat into and destroy the lustre. He will have it patented and will make cleaning mantels, monuments, etc., a part of his business.

F. E. Rice of Worcester, who was made crazy by a fall from a bicycle, startled the residents of Crescent street Friday night by his antics. Being refused admittance to one of the tenements he smashed in the glass of the front door, when an officer took him to the lock-up. He claimed to be hunting for his sister.

A special town meeting is called for 2 p. m. to-morrow at the town hall to see if the town will accept the grade of Quaboag street as laid out by the selectmen, to see if the town will accept a committee to prepare and have printed a report of the doings of the town officers, and to have one or more officers appointed for police duties, to be paid from the police fund voted at the April town meeting. The last article is to see if the town will instruct the selectmen in regard to giving orders without an appropriation.

The many friends of Mrs. Dr. Cutter will be saddened by the news of her sudden death, which took place Wednesday noon. She was preparing to attend a golden wedding in Milford, an event she had been anticipating, and died in the midst of the preparation. Mrs. Cutter was born and had always lived in town. For many years she was connected with the academy here, and always held all her pupils in loving remembrance and gave them a cordial welcome. She leaves one son, Dr. Clarence Cutler, also one brother, Haskell Powers. The funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

J. H. Blaisdell, manufacturer of wood working machinery at Worcester, is to locate his business in Warren. Arrangements have been made with some of the leading business men and board of trade, and the land for the plant, 200 by 200, just west of the Boston and Albany station, fronting on the railroad, is given, and the building is to be erected. In addition to this, Mr. Blaisdell is given all the financial assistance that he may call for in enlarging the business. The new building, the ground for which is being broken, is to be 150 by 50 feet, one story and with a monitor front. The sides and the monitor roof are to be almost entirely of glass, thus giving all the light that is needed. The Boston and Albany is to extend the siding that now runs to within 200 feet or so of the proposed shops, and when this is done it will be possible to load the machinery from the shipping room directly into the cars. When the plant is completed, which will probably be in two months or so, there will be employment for fifty men.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER DEAD.

A Suicide's Shot Unintentionally Kills His Daughter.

The people of this village were surprised and saddened yesterday by the report that Warren G. Butterworth, one of the town's oldest and most respected inhabitants, had committed suicide by shooting, and that the bullet which ended his life had also taken the life of his daughter, a young lady of 23.

Soon after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Butterworth called on Lovell L. Gage, a brother Mason, and asked him if he thought the Masons would bury a suicide. Mr. Gage replied that he thought not. Mr. Butterworth said: "Joseph Gleason of West Brookfield was a Mason and they buried him. Well, I shall commit suicide this afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock. Now I am going to order my casket and engage singers for the funeral."

Mr. Gage at once notified Mr. Butterworth's two sons, Edgar and Albert, who are in the hardware business on Main street. They summoned Dr. J. W. Hastings, who went to Mr. Butterworth's house and gave him a prescription. To the physician he repeated his story, giving as his reasons that he was growing old; that it tired him to climb the hill to his house, and that at church he could not hear the sermon well. The physician talked to him about the wickedness of such a course, and that he still had much to live for. Mr. Butterworth was very fond of hunting and had numerous firearms about the house, but these had all been removed with the exception of a 32-caliber pocket rifle in a desk near where he was sitting, which had not been taken for fear of exciting him. After giving him the medicine the doctor left him alone and went into the next room to speak to other members of the household. As soon as the doctor left Mr. Butterworth took the rifle and started for the barn, which adjoins the house. As he left the room his daughter Emma entered, and seeing what he had done started after him with a cry which attracted the attention of the doctor, and he, too, started in pursuit of his patient.

The daughter reached her father just as he entered the barn, and caught him by the right arm. He ordered her to let go, but she replied, "No, father, I won't let go; what are you going to do?" For answer he placed the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth with his left hand, pulled the trigger, and both father and daughter fell to the floor, almost into the arms of Dr. Hastings, who was so near that he was reaching out his arms to grasp and hold those of his friend. The bullet had gone in the roof of Mr. Butterworth's mouth and out the right temple, entering the left eye of his daughter, penetrating her brain. She breathed for about an hour, but did not regain consciousness, dying at 3.30, while Mr. Butterworth was dead before he struck the floor.

The cause of the act was doubtless insanity brought on by despondency and ill health. He had previously attempted suicide, but it was known to but few outside the family.

Mr. Butterworth was 70 years old and for many years ran a blacksmith shop on Maple street. He and his family were all members of the Congregational church. His daughter was prominent in church work and beloved by all who knew her. The remaining members of the family are Mrs. Butterworth, the two sons mentioned above, and one other daughter, Mrs. Edgar V. Parker of Putney, Vt.

The Boston and Albany Railroad has issued a World's Fair Folder containing valuable information. Send to A. S. Haason, General Passenger Agent, Boston, for a copy.

Fell Dead.

These words are very familiar to our readers, as not a day passes without the report of the sudden death of some prominent citizen. The explanation is "heart disease." Therefore beware if you have any of the following symptoms: Short breath, pain in side, smothering spells, swollen ankles, asthmatic breathing, weak and hungry spells, tenderness in shoulder or arm, fluttering of heart or irregular pulse. These symptoms mean heart disease. The most reliable remedy is Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which has saved thousands of lives. Book of testimonials free at LeGro & Lynde's, who also sell the New Heart Cure. 52-17

Fail to Do Their Duty.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty towards themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbechter, Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from nervous prostration and sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night, and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks' use of the Nervine for headache, nervous prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. Sold by LeGro & Lynde. Trial bottle free. 52-17

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Don't Despair.

If you are weak and weary from some so-called chronic disease, don't give up. Sulphur Bitters has given hopes to many invalids, where hitherto there was nothing but despair. It will build you up and renew your whole system.—Editor Weekly American.

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See adv. 8-53

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Everybody Likes

to be called handsome, especially the young ladies. But that is simply impossible as long as their face is covered with pimples, blotches and sores. But wait, there is no need of this; one or two bottles of Sulphur Bitters will remove all such disfigurations, and make your face fair and rosy.—Fanny Bell, Editress.

As the name indicates, Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is a renewer of the hair, including its growth, health, youthful color, and beauty. It will please you.

Bessie H. Bedloe, Burlington, Vt, had a disease of the scalp, causing her hair to become very harsh and dry, and to fall so freely that she scarcely dared to comb it. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave her a healthy scalp, removed the dandruff, and made the hair thick and glossy.

Insomnia is fearfully on the increase. The rush and excitement of modern life so tax the nervous system that multitudes of people are deprived of good and sufficient sleep, with ruinous consequences to the nerves. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., May, 1893.

It is time to buy according to one's resources. Certain merchandise is down. Money is going up. It is a time to sell money and buy merchandise. Economical studies are scarcely put in an advertisement, but we can't refrain from telling where your advantages lie.

The conditions of trade that let us sell great quantities of goods below value is more than made good by the number of buyers, as witness the crowds that fill the store every day after these bargains:

The richest coats and capes of the season, $35 to $60, price now $25 to $35.
The richest $12, $13, $14 and $15 coat of the season, price now $10.
The prettiest fine coats of the season for girls 8 to 14 years, $10 to $15, price now $6.50 and $7.50.
The most surprising thing of the season is a good jacket with butterfly overcape at $5; value $7.50 to $10.
The most sensible traveling garment are these newmarkets with Iverness cape at $7.50, $10, and $12.50; value $20 to $25.
Woolen capes, double or triple, plain or embroidered, $3 to $5, price now $1.95.
Imported beaded capes that began two or three years ago at $4 to $6, price now $1.45.
Dotted Swiss muslins, daintily printed with dots, rings, flowers and Dresden effects, 37½ cents, price now 25 cents a yard.
Dotted Swiss muslins, superbly printed, 50 cents, price now 33⅓ cents a yard.
Fine ginghams worth 25 cents for 12½. Don't know how many patterns, a great many.
White embroidered flouncings 45 inches wide, $1 to $1.50, price now 50 cents a yard, or $2.66 a dress length.
French all-wool poplins, blues, browns and tans, 75 cents, price now 55 cents a yard.
Homespun suitings 37½ cents, price now 29 cents a yard.
Cheviot suitings 50 cents, price now 39 cents a yard.
Black and white striped mohair brilliantine 50 cents, price now 29 cents a yard.
Silk Bolero jackets, two or three of a pattern, and no more to be got, $5, price now $3.87 each.
Silk gimp 42 cents, price now 25 cents a yard.
Straw hats, all the popular shades and colors, $1.50 to $2.50, price now 89 cents apiece.
Little Children's serge reefers $1 and $2.
Curtain scrim at 6¼ cents a yard.
Black sateen skirts with box-plaited ruffle, value $1.25, price $1.
Black and changeable silk skirts, value $6.50, price $5.
Boys' imported fast black stockings, regular made, with double knees, heels and toes, at 15 cents a pair. 2000 pairs to sell; but what is 2000 pairs at such a price?
Children's gauze vests, usually 25 to 40 cents, according to size; price now 25 cents for any size, 6 months to 15 years. Pants to match, same price.
Twelve styles of women's vests at 25 cents; and twelve at 50. First-rate bargains among them.
Japanese porcelain, various prices, 10 to 35 cents, price now 5, 10 and 15 cents.
Window shades complete with spring fixtures, even to screws, 25 cents.
Russia crash, excellent linen, 12½ cents, price now 10 cents a yard.
Lace curtains at a third off.
Nottingham, 13 lots, $0.50 to $7.50
Irish point, 10 lots, 2.95 to 22.50
Muslin, 8 lots, 2.50 to 12.50
26-inch black silk, heavier than India, but not so heavy as surah; just right for summer wear; 70 cents a yard, worth $1.

We can't do much to make money easier. We can do, and are doing a good deal to make it go further.

FORBES & WALLACE
Main and Vernon streets.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

HENRY'S SHOE STORE,

Opera House Block,
Main Street, - Palmer.

You will find the Best $2.00 and $3.00 Shoe in town.

Best Bicycle Shoe $2.50 and $2.75.

Ladies' and Gents' Russet Shoes.

Kangaroo, Dongola and Fine Calf Shoes.

Children's Shoes in Russet.

WALL PAPERS,
Ceiling Decorations,
—AND—
PICTURE MOULDINGS
In Good Stye and Variety.

5,000 ROLLS OF WALL PAPER!

It is going fast but we want it to go faster and have just the styles and prices that will do it.

Can furnish a good paper hanger and house painter.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists,
Next to P. O. - - - PALMER, MASS.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

JUST RIGHT!
—WHAT IS—
JUST RIGHT?
RUSSET LEATHER
SHOES
—AND—
SLIPPERS!

They are easily polished, do not show the dust and are comfortable to the feet. You can find a good line of them in our stock of

FFFFFFFFF
FFFFFFFFF
FF ULLER'S
FF LEXIBLE
FF
FFFF INE
FF
FF ITTING
FF
FF OOTWEAR.
FFFF

Monson, - - Mass.

At Palmer Grain Store.

—:CARLOAD OF:—
Coarse-Fine Salt.
PRICE LOW.

JUST ARRIVED!
A Carload of Seed Oats
Price 55 cents per bushel.
C. D. HOLBROOK,
PALMER.

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY
AND MACHINE SHOP.
At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads, West of Depot.
MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE
At short notice and reasonable prices.
52 35 R. B. FRANCIS.

HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTING.
GRAINING AND PAPER HANGING
A SPECIALTY.
Rates reasonable.
4¹2 F. H. ABBEY, Monson, Mass.

C. W. CROSS,
DENTIST.
DR. H. H. EAYRS as associate.
OFFICE HOURS,
8.30 a. m. to 12 m. 1.30 to 5.30 p. m.
PAINLESS DENTISTRY.
LAWRENCE BLOCK. tf-5

FOR SALE.
GRASS SEEDS
OF ALL KINDS,
By the bag or bushel.
Palmer Grain Store.

F. F. MARCY, PALMER, MASS.
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
ALL KINDS OF LUMBER AND SHINGLES
Windows, doors, blinds, mouldings. Carpenters' and joiners' work done to order.
Also FIRE BRICK and CLAY for sale.
Yard and shop at junction of B. & A. and N. L. N Railroads—west of Depot.

H. C. MOORE.
ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHER,
GILL'S ART BUILDING,
SPRINGFIELD.
Largest and finest gallery in the city. Everything first-class. Instantaneous pictures of children a specialty.

CARRIAGE WOOD WORK.
Having returned to Palmer, after an absence of thirty years, I wish to inform my old friends and the public generally that I am located in A. S. Campbell's Carriage Shop on South Main street, where I am prepared to do Carrriage Wood Work in all its branches.
13t50 G. W. CLARK.

NEW STORE! NEW GOODS!
PAPER HANGINGS.
Browns, White Blanks, Flats, Satins, Bronzes, Gilts, Borders, Friezes, etc.
PLAIN AND DECORATIVE PAPER HANGING, PAINTING, ETC.
All orders filled in a thorough and workmanlike manner. F. S. MASON, Commercial Block.

A FULL LINE OF
Jas. H. Prince Paint Co's
English Tinted Ready-Mixed Paints
IN ALL THE POPULAR SHADES.
White Lead, Zinc, Oil, Japan and Varnish.
—:o:—
FERTILIZERS.
We shall have in stock Monday a full line of Stockbridge Manures of all grades for potatoes and vegetables. We have the best in the market.
Barb Wire and Poultry Netting.
—FULL LINE OF—
PLOWS, CULTIVATORS, HARROWS, SHOVELS, FORKS, RAKES.
BEST LINE AT BOTTOM PRICES.
C. A. BROWN CO.

NEW SPRING DRESS GOODS!

New Pampas Cloths.
New Foulards.
New Puritan Shirtings.
New Ginghams.
New Prints.
New Cottons.
New Groceries.

∴ ∴ ∴ J. B. SHAW.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS!
Qood Quality! Choice Variety!
—:x:—
MAINE SEED POTATOES.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Early Norther, | Newest and Best, | $6.00 barrel. $2.50 bushel. |
| New Queen, | | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Clark's No. 1, | | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Pearl of Savoy, | | $5.00 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Beauty of Hebron, | | $4.50 barrel. $2.00 bushel. |
| Early Rose, | | $4.00 barrel. $1.75 bushel. |

—:x:—
PLOWS, WHEEL HARROWS, CULTIVATORS.
FARMING IMPLEMENTS, FULL LINE.
Galvanized Barb Wire, 3 cents per lb.
Come and see us.
E. A. BUCK & CO.

Did you know
THAT YOU CAN FIND
a fine line of footwear
Including SLIPPERS, etc., at LUMAN'S?
He also wishes to announce to the people of THORNDIKE and vicinity that he has added a line of PATENT MEDICINES, etc., to his stock. . . . The only place in the village where you can get a full line of Lazell's NEW YORK PERFUMES. Don't buy cheap colognes when you can get the very best for a trifle more. . . Call and examine whether you wish to purchase or not.
At J. F. LUMAN'S.

Short and sweet—your hours of labor when you use Pearline. Without Pearline, you may work hard and do much; with Pearline you will work less and do more.

Pearline saves your clothes in the wash, and your temper in the washing. It is the continual rub, rub, rubbing, over a washboard in the old way with soap, that wears your clothes and makes hard work.

Pearline is the new way, and does away with the rubbing. It is as safe as it is sure; be sure to get Pearline—nothing else, and you will be safe.

Beware of imitations. 292 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

HOW THEY FEEL IN ALBANY.

The Best Test of Character of Man or Article Is, What Good Have They Done? What Is Their Standing Among People We All Know?

There is good reason to doubt the truthfulness or endorsement of a preparation from persons living thousands of miles from where the same is published. How different we look upon an article which has stood the strain of 20 years' test right in our midst, and increased in popularity and use every year until to-day it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession in general. Such an article we find in Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

"It is not a common thing," remarked one of our prominent doctors the other day, "for physicians to endorse and recommend medicines other than those of the materia medica, but in the case of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I most unhesitatingly endorse it for diseases that arise from excess of uric acid in the blood, such as rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney, liver or urinary troubles and the sicknesses from which women suffer. I prescribe it with always satisfactory results. In fact, my mother has used it for years. It regulates her bowels nicely and acts as a nerve tonic with elderly people."

Mr. Robert A. Male, foreman of Van Slyke and Horton's tobacco manufactory, Broadway, said he could not speak too enthusiastically of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. "About ten years ago," said Mr. Male, "I had a great deal of trouble with stone in the bladder. My physician insisted upon crushing the same, which he did, but in a little while the old trouble re-appeared, and I feared another operation would be necessary.

"It was suggested at this time that I take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. It did me good from the first, and I have never felt any symptoms of the old troble since. For kidney or urinary troubles of any kind I have implicit faith in its curative power."

There is hardly a person in this city who does not know genial John Fraser, who for years was one of the West Shore railroad's popular conductors. Not long since Mr. Fraser came out in a public letter in which he said: "For six years no man on earth ever suffered more than I did with dyspepsia, pains all over my body so severe at times that I could hardly turn myself in bed. Favorite Remedy was recommended by some friend and made a marvelously rapid change in me for the better. Last November I met with an accident on the New York and New England Railroad and my old trouble reappeared. I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy again, and after the second bottle I began to improve, and I am as well and hearty as I ever was, and weigh 225 pounds.

"I recommended Favorite Remedy to Mr. William Huston, engineer on the West Shore railroad, who was suffering similar to myself, and it cured him as well."

The neighbors and friends of Mrs. Jay Sweet well recollect how she was at death's door with disease of the kidneys. Her case was practically abandoned by her attending physician. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was resorted to, not because any hope was placed in it, but because nothing else remained. The effect was little short of a miracle. At the second bottle she had regained strength, and continuing the treatment, fully recovered.

Mr. Fletcher Barber of Barber & Bennett, commission merchants on Broadway, in conversation with our reporter said that he had used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with excellent results. "It gives me a good appetite and makes me sleep well."

One of the officers of the Albany Hospital told me that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had been used to his knowledge with always satisfactory results. Personally he had used it for rheumatism and kidney troubles and has not known either of these troubles since.

Such plain, straightforward statements from our own citizens, people whom we know and meet daily, speak volumes for the merits of this famous medicine.

As another physician told me: "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy stands to-day as the recognized treatment for excess of uric acid in the blood, which is the source of kidney, liver, dyspepsia, rheumatism, urinary and many other similar troubles."—Albany Evening Journal. 3

---

Whenever there is a lot of wear and tear on paint, it is absolutely necessary to have the best. Poor paint lasts no time—it is not made to last, nor are its constituents calculated to render it durable. All the elements of poor paint are cheap. Cheapness does not mean economy, but rather the reverse. That which is best, made from the best materials, lasts the longest, and therefore is the most economical, even if costs a trifle more at the start. This is the case with the Chilton Paints, whose name is a synonym for satisfaction. Every one of their component parts is the best that the market affords, and no cheap substitutes are used in their manufacture. For instance, ill-smelling benzine is not used as a drier, instead of turpentine. Pure linseed oil gives a good solid body to the Chilton Paints. They are carefully ground seven times, and such is their capacity that they will cover far more surface than any other paints manufactured. Whatever paint you use, however, give it a fair chance, and see that it is never applied to a wet or even damp surface. If you disregard this advice you will regret it.

Sold by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.
Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

Ripans Tabules cure indigestion.

We and the World.

The world is the same the whole world over,
In every country and every clime.
Men love beauty and bees love clover,
And will to the distant end of time.

The world is the same old world forever,
There's joy in truth, and there's pain in vice,
The fruit forbidden we taste, and sever
Our hold on Earth's pure paradise.

The world's to-day is the world's to-morrow,
And both shall be its yesterday;
Our joy and grief, our love and sorrow,
Like our father's thoughts, shall pass away.

There's nothing new and there's nothing olden,
Each day is born on the morn's fresh wings,
Our hearts have music sweet and golden,
Or discord, just as we touch life's strings.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR A PRISONER.

Chester A. Arthur, remembered by the country as a model executive, is kept in mind by those who were associated with him as "the jolly president." Of one of his pranks with tragic results one of these men wrote, in a letter to San Francisco, which got into print soon after his retirement. It took place in Florida. You must know, says the writer, that, besides being a confirmed practical joker, Chet is quite an adept at certain sleight-of-hand tricks, a proficiency in which he has kept up from boyhood. He flatters himself he can remove a handkerchief or watch from a pocket with as much adroitness as a professional "nipper." He has perpetrated many a queer joke in this way, the exalted position of the perpetrator naturally protecting him from suspicion. While at Jacksonville, the "White House gang" determined to attend a monster darky camp-meeting about ten miles back in the country, and, to avoid the eternal "reception" nuisance, we went incog. When we left the train, and were waiting for a conveyance at a small tavern, Chet noticed a fat planter dozing in the bar-room, and displaying a preposterous bunch of seals on his fob chain. Arthur watched his chance, snaked out the man's watch, and hid it in the saddlebags of another traveler that were hanging on the wall. Now, Bill Chandler had been waiting for a chance to get back on Arthur for several days, so he in turn slipped it into the breast pocket of Chet's big duster. Then he quietly led each member of the party aside and let them into the conspiracy, to their great delight. When the vehicles returned from the camping ground, Arthur was immediately collared by the planter, who savagely demanded his property.

"What do you mean, fellow?" said the president, trying not to laugh, and winking at his staff—all of which, however, remained suspiciously indifferent.

"Oh, you can't come any funny business with me. One of these gentlemen saw you steal my watch and put it in your pocket. Here, constable, I want this man searched."

"Very well, then, search me," said our first citizen, almost exploding with laughter.

"I thought so," said the constable, and to Chet's petrification he fished out the watch from the first pocket he dived into. "I'll just slam you into the calaboose, my fine fellow."

"You will, eh?" said the president with a chuckle. "Here, Mr. Freelinghuysen, just tell this man who I am."

"Did you speak to me, my good man?" said the secretary of state, innocently.

"Yes, yes. Hurry up and explain this thing," said Arthur, as the constable began taking out a pair of handcuffs.

"Explain what? I don't know you, sir," and the state department walked off.

"Great Scott!" stammered Arthur. "Say—you there—Chandler! What does all this mean? Tell these people who I am—quick."

"If you are addressing me," said the secretary of the navy, putting on his glasses and taking a benevolent survey of the prisoner, "my name is not Chandler, and I never saw you before."

"Great heavens!—this is outrageous!" screamed Arthur, fighting desperately with the constable. "I tell you I am the president."

"The most impudent rascal I ever saw!" said Folger.

"Hard looking face," chipped in Bob Lincoln.

"Don't be rough with the poor man," said Teller, kindly. "Perhaps he's a little gone in the——. What are you president of, my good fellow?"

"I'm president of the United States, as you'll pretty soon find out!" gasped the prisoner, furiously.

"Tut, tut, tut!" murmured Chandler, pityingly. "Clean gone—clean gone! Intelligent-looking man, too. Escaped from some asylum, likely."

And, to his unspeakable horror, Arthur was loaded into a wagon and carted off to the county bastile, where he was kept almost an hour, until, in solemn caucus, the cabinet voted for his release. To Chet's credit, however be it said, that although he was extradited in a white rage and vowing to smash the entire household slate, he cooled down before we reached Jacksonville, and concluded to "set 'em up" for the crowd in true White House style. But the joke business had a rest after that.

---

NOT A PARALLEL CASE.—"Bessie," said Mrs. Upstart, after the visitor had gone, "you shouldn't have asked Mrs. Gaswell how her son Peter was. It was very impolite. He is a young man. You should have said Mr. Peter."

"Wasn't Peter the name of one of the disciples?" asked Bessie.

"Yes."

"They didn't call him Mr. Peter, did they, mamma?"

"Peter, my child," replied the mother, with dignity, "was a fisherman. He didn't move in good society."—Chicago Tribune.

---

A BOY'S REASON.—The New York boy is not precisely a child of the devil, but for malicious mischief he is hard to beat. One of them was overheard initiating a strange boy from the lawless South into the mysteries of New York life.

"Winter is the best time to throw stones at windows," said the New York boy.

"Why is the winter the best time?" asked the unsophisticated youth from the South.

Because you see the houses have double windows, and you can break two panes at one throw, and you only get one licking, just the same as if you had only broken one pane."—Texas Siftings.

---

"Uncle Isaac Thompson," an aged colored man living in the Jersey pines, was very sick. His wife nursed him faithfully, seldom leaving his bedside. One morning when the doctor drove up to the house he was surprised to see her sitting disconsolately on the door-step with her apron thrown over her face. "Why, Aunt Sallie," he called out, "what is the matter? Anything wrong with my patient?" "Oh, doctah" sobbed the old woman, "wen dat pore men waked up this mornin' he found hisself dead."

---

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY, }

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

{ SEAL } A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Ripans Tabules assist digestion.

Rev. W. R. Puffer
Of Richford, Vt.

I Vote for Hood's

Forty Years in the Ministry

Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Insomnia—Great Benefit From Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for four or five months, and am satisfied that it is a very excellent remedy. I have been troubled with rheumatism more or less for a number of years. My back and hips, and indeed my whole body at times, have been afflicted. The rheumatism has been especially severe in my right arm between the elbow and shoulder, which has been so lame that I sometimes feared

I Should Lose the Use of it entirely. I was in this condition when I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, but I had not taken more than a bottle or two when I began to feel better, and when I had taken four bottles, my rheumatism had entirely left me. I have been more free from rheumatism this season than for years. Besides the rheumatism, I, like many others of sedentary habits—for I have been a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church forty years—have been troubled with dyspepsia, but while taking the medicine my food digested well and I have gained several pounds. I have also been troubled with insomnia, but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, sleep much better." REV. W. R. PUFFER, Richford, Vt.

Appetite has Been Good,

N. B. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache, indigestion.

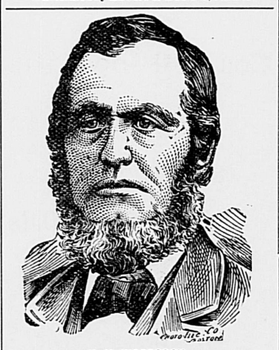
alt.-5

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S
COUGH and LUNG BALSAM
SURE CURE. PRICE 35 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.



H. N. WOODCOCK.

Another Aged Person

Tests the healing waters of Leon's famous fountain and is cured. He says he considers Leon's Sarsaparilla the Greatest Remedy on Earth.

The Kind that Never Fails

Inflammation of the Bladder and Enlargement of Prostate Gland permanently cured.

We are in receipt of the following letter from Mr. H. N. Woodcock, a well-known and prominent citizen of Waldo County, Me.

Gentlemen:—For the benefit of suffering humanity I deem it my duty to say that for many years I have been troubled with Inflammation of the Neck of the Bladder and Enlargement of the Prostate Gland, occasioning frequent passing of water, and obliging me to be up frequently nights. My diseases, with broken rest and age, seemed to be working together to drive me to my death. I tried our most prominent local physicians and many different medicines, but without any benefit whatever. Three bottles of Leon's Sarsaparilla completely cured me, and I am now, at the age of 76 years, well and hearty. I consider Leon's Sarsaparilla the greatest remedy on earth.

H. N. WOODCOCK.

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.

DEAFNESS and Head Noises cured by Peck's Invisible Tubular Ear Cushions. Whispers heard. Comfortable. Successful where all remedies fail. Illustrated book and proofs free. 4-1 Address F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York.

Ripans Tabules prolong life.

Land Plaster

BY THE BAG OR TON.

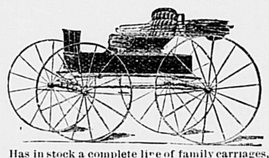
C. D. HOLBROOK,
PALMER.

AGENT FOR
G. W. SIMMONS & CO.
—AND—
Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.
CLOTHING TO ORDER.
Spring samples ready for inspection.
W. E. STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

WE ARE IN IT!

SMITH & CO., PALMER.

W. H. SMITH,
2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a complete line of family carriages, road wagons, delivery wagons, road carts, farm wagons, etc., etc.
Novelties in buckboards and traps.
Open buggies from $35 up.
Top buggies from $50 up.
100 second hand carriages. 15-1 alt.

HAVE YOU VISITED THE
WHITE MOUNTAINS?

DO YOU KNOW THE RESTING-PLACES AMONG VERMONT'S GREEN HILLS?

ARE YOU ACQUAINTED WITH THE UNIQUE RESORTS IN THE VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS?

If you are looking for a place to spend your vacation in any mountain region, write us for any information you may desire, saying what sections you wish to know about and the price you desire to pay for board. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. Call for samples. 52-17

1893—SPRING—1893

CARPET : : Department

(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN
65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN
35c to 50c.

HEMP
15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS
25c to 60c

(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS
15c to 40c
(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS
$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS
50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.
Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

PIANOS on easy payments

Economical buyers should write for description of little used and second hand Pianos. Rare bargains among these. Within 300 miles of Boston we furnish Pianos at $25 down and $10 per month till paid for. Full information if you write us.

IVERS & POND PIANO CO.,
283 Tremont St., BOSTON, MASS.

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,
THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY.
OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.
TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.
W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by
21-41 R. J. HENRY, MAIN ST., PALMER.

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing Insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE
Use Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Cough, Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Pain, Take in time. 50 cts.
HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. 15c. at Druggists, or HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

Foulds' Wheat Germ Meal

(WHEAT GERM FOR SHORT,)

IS THE MOST DELICIOUS, NUTRITIOUS and VALUABLE

BREAKFAST CEREAL

ever introduced. It is steadily gaining in public favor.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

MRS. M. C. BROWN'S
METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY
Kils the Root of all Diseases.

THREE PREPARATIONS
which enter the system by absorption through
THE EYES, EARS AND SCALP.
NO DRUGS THROUGH THE MOUTH.

Three bottles in a set, put up in three sizes, and sold at $5.00, $2.50, $1.25.

Order of druggists, or enclose price to
METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY,
51 BOND ST., NEW YORK,
where please send 10 cents for pamphlet of 100 pages.

ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

Boston Depot—Wholesale and Retail, 36 and 38 Hanover Street. 4-5

BAKER BAY STATE & SPRINGFIELD HARNESS.
MANUFACTURED BY
BAKER HARNESS CO.
289 Main St. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
26-5

C. H. HOBBY,
PIANO TUNER.
Orders for tuning may be left at O. P. Allen's drug store, Palmer; or may be sent to me by mail to Mansfield, Ct.

MILK

AND CREAM can be kept perfectly fresh and sweet five to seven days without using ice. Simple, cheap, unfailing. Sample free. Write THE PRESERVALINE MFG. CO., sole mfrs. and patentees, 10 Cedar street, New York. 4-5

Dr. Browning's Prescription prevents CHOLERA.

It is a good thing to have in the house for ready use when attacked with severe pains in the bowels, cramps or colic. It kills Cholera germs, something quite important this year. Only the purest of ingredients are used and great care is taken in its preparation. All like this Prescription upon the first trial. It saves much sickness and expense. 25 Cents per Bottle.

NO FREE SAMPLES. 52-5

Engraved Address Cards

Are the correct thing for ladies or gentlemen.

Correct sizes—latest styles of letters.

Call and see samples.

The PALMER JOURNAL.

SULPHUR BITTERS

Poor
Weak and Weary Mothers
Raise
Puny, Pindling
Children.
Sulphur Bitters
Will make them
Strong, hearty
And healthy.

Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Mass., for best medical work published

Job Printing

of all kinds

at the Journal Office

Scientific American Agency for

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

Ripans Tabules cure torpid liver.

The Old, Old Story.

UNDER KITTY'S WINDOW.

"Ah, then! who is that there talkin'?"
"Sure, it's only me, ye know.
I was thinkin' we'd go walkin'—"
"Wor ye raly thinkin' so?"
"Och, ye needn't be so cruel,
An' me trudged this siven mile—"
"Is it cruel, Michael, jewel,
Sure, I'm dressing all the while."

BEFORE MICHAEL'S COTTAGE.

"There, now, that's me cottage, Kitty."
"Is it, Mike?"
"Yis, an' isn't it pretty?"
"I'm—lonesome-like."
"Lonesome!" (Now's y'r minute!
Michael, strike!)
"Sure, if you were m it—"
"Arrah, Mike!"

—Elsa D'Esterre Keeling, in Thoughtland and Dreamland.

THE GREEN CANARY.

"No!"

That is what she said—all the dictionaries in the world couldn't have made it plainer! It was a little mortifying, certainly. I felt the scarlet flush mounting from the soles of my feet to the extreme tips of my ears.

I rose up trying desperately to appear unconcerned. Pooh! it was of no use! Eliza Cheswick saw through me as if I had been a pair of spectacles. She knew that I would have sold myself for a postage stamp just at that moment, and considerader it a bargain! I got out out of the room somehow—not in the most graceful style, I am afraid—and went home to ruminate on my dismissal.

"If Eliza Cheswick had not been an heiress!" That was the cry of my bruised heart during all the weary days and weeks that followed. Somehow I could not divest myself of the idea that Eliza had confounded me with the herd of fortune-hunters which had always surrounded her.

"Charles" is growing thin—I hope he isn't going into a decline!" said my mother, dubiously shaking her cap ribbons. "I wish he'd consent to take a tablespoonful of cod-liver oil, morning and night."

"Hang cod-liver oil!" said my father, adjusting his gold eye-glasses majestically. "Charley only needs a little change. What do you say to a run through Europe, my boy?"

"Indeed, sir, I don't need any relaxation. I had rather remain quietly at home."

My father looked at me keenly—he was a man who never changed his mind, and the upshop of the matter was that to Europe I went! An only son is always more or less spoiled.

Cod-liver oil! foreign travel! What good would they effect, as long as I couldn't take Eliza Cheswick and carry her across the Atlantic with me!

Once within the enchanted precincts of the old world, and ten years crept away almost before I knew it. I had not forgotten Eliza Cheswick, though: the silvery "No" was a plainly imprinted in my memory as if it had been spoken yesterday!

"Cheswick!" People had forgotten the very name in the fashionable circles, whose star Eliza had once been, when I returned to my native land.

"Cheswick!" Seems to me I do recollect some such name," said Uncle Bronson, who knew everybody and went everywhere. "A fat old man, with a daughter who had property and flirted a good deal, hey? Heard the man was dead—s'pose the daughter married and gone. Impossible to keep the run of folks."

"Married and gone!" I should have liked to knock off Uncle Bronson's rusty old wig; but, after all, the old man wasn't to blame.

The Bowery by gaslight—the weird blaze of the shop windows, streaming through the rain and mist—the clash of wheels. It was a new phase of life to me.

I had paused a moment at a brilliantly lighted corner, where three golden balls hung over my head, and a greedy pair of eyes glared through the bow-window.

Good heavens! Surely I could not be mistaken. I rubbed the rain drops off my eyelashes and looked again.

"There, among battered violins, dimly plated casters, paste diamonds and all the incongruous medley that collects in such places, hung a green-plumed canary, straining his small throat in a pagoda of tarnished wire! Eliza Cheswick's pet bird! I should have known it among all the Canary islands!

I hastily stepped into the store and confronted the owner of the greedy eyes—a swarthy, cunning-faced old man, who looked like a bundle of galvanized sole leather.

"That cage? I've had it here six months? Redeemed—no, of course not. Fourteen shillin' I lent on that cage—t'aint that sort of person redeems things. Never supposed it would be redeemed. How can I tell who left it here? Folks seem to suppose I've got nothin' to do but remember names!"

I slipped a gold piece across the dingy counter.

"Perhaps you might ascertain by referring to your books if—"

"Certainly, sir—certainly," said the man, clutching at the coin, while his whole visage relaxed into smiles. "Anything to oblige a gentleman. Let me see—let—me—see! O, here it is. March 17, Eliza Ches—Ches—"

I caught the dog-eared volume and eagerly read the name, followed by an address entirely new to me. It was enough. I was once more pressing through the rain, the mist, the darkness.

"Does Miss Cheswick live here—Miss Eliza Cheswick?"

At any other time, my fastidious senses would have revolted from the reeking atmosphere of that dismal tenement house, with its solitary hall lamp flaring in the open door—now I scarcely heeded the noise and squalor.

"Artificial flower maker—up stairs—top floor—back!" growled the voice of some one behind a partially opened door.

Up the narrow creaking stairs I passed, sometimes lighted by a faint glimmer from some door, sometimes groping my way in Cimmerian darkness, until I had reached the "top floor back." My heart seemed almost to stand still, as I tapped at the door.

"Come in!" responded a low voice, and I obeyed.

It was a narrow room, whose sloping roof would scarcely permit a person to stand upright in any part of it—with a rusty, fireless grate, and a table where the tallow candle faintly illumined heaps of half-finished artificial flowers over which bent a weary, slight figure. As my step sounded on the threshold, she looked up.

Ah, how changed—how faded! yet beautiful still! The same golden masses of hair, braided now instead of hanging in curls; the same blue, blue eyes that had haunted me for ten long years!

"Eliza!"

She sank back with a low cry, covering her face with her hands! Had I sought her so long to be discouraged now?

I cannot tell how it happened, nor what we said; but the first distinct recollection I have, beyond that dizzy, uncertain moment of recognition, is of Eliza sobbing with her forehead upon my arm.

"Oh, Charles, the only friend who found me out in my adversity—the only one whose love outlasts time and grief, and sad, sad troubles! And I had fancied that—that—"

"That I was a fortune hunter? So I am, dearest, and I have found my fortune in your love!"

Pshaw! what is the use of going into details. Don't the reader know just what happened, afterward? If he doesn't I shall be very happy to see him any evening in our bright little drawing-room, where the green canary sings just as sweetly as if he had never hung under the "three golden balls," and my wife nourishes the delusion that her husband is a sort of hero!

---

Uncle Si—"They say people live very fast down in New York."—Hooper—"They do. I've known several to die of old age before reaching forty."—Puck.

TRIALS OF THE SEASON.

They were house-cleaning, and the carpets were out on the line in the back yard, when a genteel, well-dressed, well-educated tramp came along, and invited himself to eat.

"If I give you some dinner, will you shake those carpets?" asked the lord of the manor, who had stayed home from his business to move the furniture around.

"I will indeed, sir," responded the tramp in English. He spoke Latin and Greek in an equally fluent manner. He was given an excellent dinner from the top of a flour barrel, which he ate standing—not the barrel, but the dinner. When he had finished off with a pail of clear, refreshing hydrant water, he folded his tent like an Arab and silently stole away. The master of the house stole after him.

"See here, my friend, you said you would shake those carpets."

"I did, sir."

"Did what?"

"Shake them."

"Why you never touched them! How dare you—"

"Soft, my good sir. Methinks you are not familiar with the language you speak. If you 'shake' a man, it means that you give him the go-by. The same with your carpets—understandez vous?"

He dodged a billet of wood, and disappeared into the unknown, while his kind entertainer went back to hunt in the debris for the dictionary.

INSCRIBED IN THE HOTEL REGISTER.

A drummer entered a city hotel a few days ago and approached the register. He made a few enquiries, and then proceeded to disfigure the book with a row of marks like this:—

II II IIIII

The clerk resented the disfiguration with the remark that "This ain't a drawing school, sir; neither is it a headquarters for the solution of idiotic geometrical problems."

At the conclusion of this little speech he glanced once more at the register, and saw, to his surprise, that by a few strokes of his pen the visitor had transformed the disfiguration into

H. H. HILL.

Strange though it may seem, he treated to cigars.—New Bedford Journal.

THE KIND THAT CURES

O. F. SAMPSON,
Marshfield, Mass.

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.
GENTS—About two years ago I was taken with a Lame back, which at times was so bad that I was confined to my bed for days at a time. I consulted different Physicians, some pronounced it Lumbago, some Rheumatism of the Muscles, etc. I regained no permanent relief from them. I got so bad I was in pain all the time. At last I thought I would try and in less than one bottle I could get my muscles to work. The first bottle helped me. I have taken six bottles and the pain is all gone. I feel like a new person. Truly DANA'S SARSAPARILLA is "The Kind That Cures."

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

Respt. yours, O. F. SAMPSON.
Marshfield, Mass.

GENTLEMEN:—I believe Mr. Sampson's statement is true. Respectfully yours,
H. THERIEF HATCH, Merchant.
Marshfield, Mass.

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

Pike's Peak,

DENVER, COLORADO SPRINGS,
MANITOU, TWIN LAKES.

And other Resorts of Colorado.

Full printed information in regard to these places or any others, and suggestions as to the ways of reaching them, including the time-tables of the different railroad lines you could use, sent free. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address The JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

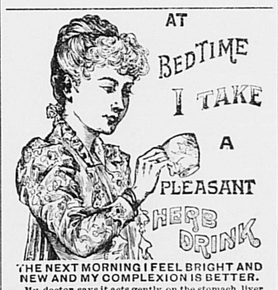
Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE BEST
BRADLEY FERTILIZER.
C. D. HOLBROOK, Palmer.



THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

LANE'S MEDICINE

All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1.00 per package. Try one to-day. LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE MOVES THE BOWELS EACH DAY. In order to be healthy, this is necessary.

AGENTS WANTED to canvass for the sale of our home-grown nursery stock. New profit-sharing system. Salary and expenses paid. W. & T. SMITH CO., The Geneva Nursery, Geneva, N. Y. Established 1846. One of the largest, oldest established and best known Nurseries in the United States. 4-5

Ripans Tabules—gentle cathartic.

AYER'S Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires. Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston. A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."

M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.

Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

BUILDING LOTS GIVEN AWAY.

For particulars inquire of

C. S. RUGGLES,
Three Rivers, Mass.
13-48

Consumption

That dreaded and dreadful disease! What shall stay its ravages? Thousands say Scott's Emulsion of pure Norwegian cod liver oil and hypophosphites of lime and soda has cured us of consumption in its first stages. Have you a cough or cold acute or leading to consumption? Make no delay but take

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula, and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Downe, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

Scott's Emulsion

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 12, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 6.

WE ARE CLOTHIERS.

WE ARE TAILORS.

WE ARE HATTERS.

WE ARE FURNISHERS.

Men's and Young Men's, Boys' and Children's.

Largest and best selected stock. No better in the country than shown by

HAYNES & CO.

THE LEADING POPULAR CLOTHIERS, SPRINGFIELD.

Come and see us and judge for yourself.
Our great sale of men's and young men's light and dark shades, single and double breasted handsome suits, six or eight styles to select from. Choice for $8.50.
Equal to styles shown for $10 and $12.
Three hundred fine made black cheviot and cassimere double breasted suits, choice for $10. Unlike all others. Wonderful bargains that will pay to see.

SPECIAL! SPECIAL!

Fifty dozen brown, gray and black soft hats. The popular Alpine shapes. $2.00 quality. Now they sell at $1.00.
Don't fail to see Haynes & Co., for World's Fair suits and overcoats.
We show the great leaders and guarantee low prices. Reliable goods only.
Suits for $7, $8, $9, $10, $12, $14, $15, $16, $18 and $20.
Overcoats for $6.50, $8, $8.75, $10, $10.50, $12, $14, $15, $16, $18, $20 and $22.
To find the assortment find Haynes & Co. It will pay to see us only for boy's and children's goods. We have got the goods and styles and at right prices.

HAYNES & CO.,

The Great Clothiers, Tailors, Hatters and Furnishers,

SPRINGFILED, MASS.

New Grocery Store on Cental Street!

Now open and ready for business

Every article in our stock is entirely new and fresh, and we shall take especial pains to see that every customer is satisfied.

Give us a trial order—you will never regret it.

Will call for orders and deliver goods.

Give us a trial.

Thompson & Bannister.

H. W. THOMPSON.
C. H. BANNISTER.

Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown in MONSON.

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of Jamestown, N. Y., 50 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM SERGE. Also 25 pieces (8-yard lengths—no two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SERGE.

GORDON DYE HOSIERY.

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hosiery to our customers as the best article for purity of dye and wearing quality ever offered to the public. A complete line of "Gordon Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls and Infants in black and all the fashionable colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED STAINLESS.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Now Complete.

The Columbus Boys' Suit goes ahead of everything. A Columbus Medal given with every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black and Fancy Cheviots and Black Worsteds. FINE ASSORTMENT OF SPRING SUITS FROM $8 TO $20.

☞ LATEST NOVELTIES IN NECKWEAR.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Have added to our large stock the latest styles in Ladies' and Gent's Shoes. Before you purchase don't fail to see the novelties we are offering.

Headquarters for Trunks, Bags, Etc.,

—— AT ——

W. N. FLYNT & SONS, Monson.

☞ NOTICE.

After a thorough, careful, painstaking and practical investigation, we, the undersigned, hereby certify to the public that the

Morrell Liquor Cure Co.,

a corporation located at Westfield, Mass., is now prepared to cure all persons afflicted with the LIQUOR, OPIUM AND TOBACCO HABITS, and to guarantee a cure or money refunded.

The features of this cure are:—

Absolute Privacy.
Treatment at Home.
No Unpleasant Effects.
No Loss of Time.
No Sore Arm.

Of more than 3000 patients treated, not one has failed of permanent cure.

Address all correspondence to MORRELL LIQUOR CURE CO., or Box 403, WESTFIELD, MASS.

JOHN R. REED, President The H. B. Smith Mfg. Co.
JAS. NOBLE, JR., Vice President Hampden National Bank.
W. A. LINCOLN, Treasurer Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Co.
REV. JOHN H. LOCKWOOD, Pastor First Congregational Church.
H. N. KINGSBURY, Secretary and Treasurer Odd Fellows Fraternal Accident Association.
A. S. ATKINS, President Vitrified Wheel Co.
R. W. PARKS, Secretary Bay State Association.
F. F. VAN DEUSEN, of E. R. Van Deusen & Son.
FRANK BOWLER, Director V. W. Crowson Waste Co.
GEO. W. WINSLOW, Principal School of Observation.
H. W. ELY, ESQ., Attorney-at-Law. 13-53

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.
TINNERS, AND
STEAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls,
Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers,
Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business.
Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS,
VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices. Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

NEW UNDERTAKING
ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 30 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz.
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5 lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 30c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 35c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 17c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

PRINTING

done in the very best manner and on short notice.

We are alive to the wants of our patrons and will do your printing well and reasonably if you order from us.

C. B. FISKE & CO.,

PALMER, MASS.

NEW DENTAL
OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental Office formerly occupied by Dr. Hill, I should be pleased to see any who are in need of my services.
All operations performed in the best possible manner.

E. S. BRYANT, D. M. D.

HATCH BLOCK, PALMER. tf-29

DO YOU USE

WALL PAPERS

If so, you can buy your stock or can sort up on specials for a single room in Springfield at New York rates.
We are jobbers and great retailers and carry in stock

One Hundred Thousand —ROLLS—

READY TO SHIP.

Will mail samples on receipt of TEN CENTS for postage which may be deducted from amount of first order.
Get our figures and compare.

The Old Corner Wall Paper Co.

(Successors to W. F. Adams Co.)
CORNER STATE AND MAIN STREETS,
SPRINGFIELD. 9-51

"Home, Sweet Home."

When all the battles are lost and are won,
The last word spoken, the argument done,
Which, which is the best land under the sun?

"Oh, the very best land," says the German, "is mine!"
And his heart beats quick and his moist eyes shine
As he loudly sings "Die Watch am Rhine."

And the Frenchman jeers at the German's praise,
While a tribute to France you hear him raise
In the fervent strains of the "Marseillaise."

At the Frenchman's boasting the Scotchman cries,
"What land so bonny beneath the skies
As the land where the great Sir Walter lies?"

Then a Muscovite voice is heard to declare,
"Were my fellow creatures but wise and fair
They'd dote to a man on the Russian bear."

The Irishman answers, with scornful smile,
"Go over the universe, mile for mile,
And you'll find no land like the Emerald Isle."

The Englishman comments in accents bland,
"I'm thinking there's only one civilized land,
And Britain's it's name, you must understand."

The Yankee, rising, with deep emotion
Exclaims, "I'm firmly set in the notion
My eagle's the gem of the land or the ocean!"

So after the battles are lost and won,
The last word spoken, the argument done,
Which, which is the best land under the sun?

The question is pondered by you and me
As our barks are sailing life's mystic sea,
And, on second thinking, we all agree!

We are not divided, saving in name;
In essence each choice is really the same—
It springs from a common, ineffable flame.

Whatever our race, wherever we roam,
The spot that is dearest to each is home;
The toast drank deepest is "Home, sweet home."

—Brandon Banner.

VICTRY'S DIVORCEMENT.

The Temples' cook was from the country, and it was the surprise of Mrs. Temple's southern life that she was such a good cook.

She explained it very lucidly, "Laws, I knows a heap on'y I done forgot it!"

Evidently at some period of her life she had cooked for a table of some pretensions. Every now and then a most unexpected accomplishment would sail into our admiration. Thus, once she broke out: "My marster! Mis' Temple. fo' de Lawd, dat ar cream sass er yourn, dat ain't noways diffrunt to my ole missus' white sass 'cept like you all don' put no cream in yourn. But ye cripses de butter jes de same."

Another time, "Scallop isters? I pintedly kin, Mis' Temple. Allers done scallop de isters fo' old Mis'."

Indeed she suggested a number of new viands to Mrs. Temple—generally from the frying pan, but toothsome and delicate.

She brought her only child with her, a slim, brown lad of 14, who waited on table better than we feared from his first appearance, at which he brushed the crumbs off with the hearth broom into the dustpan. He was his mother's pet and, considering that fact, a marvelously good darky, almost industrious, and the best tempered boy in the world.

We were not long in discovering Aunt Victory's history. One evening we found her at the smallest kitchen table, with Reme and the slate, plainly getting a lesson.

"Why, Aunt Victory, can you read?" said Mrs. Temple.

"Yes'm," with a smirk of honest pride, while Reme added: "Maw, she kin read a right smart. I learned her."

"How nice! Then you can read the Bible."

Up went Aunt Victory's braids in a toss. "Laws, Mis' Temple, I's outer de Bible an' inter de newspapers!"

"And I writes fo' the newspapers," says Reme with an indescribable air of haughtiness.

"He does so," said his mother. "Ain't you never seen the Mosaic Temple?" We admitted our ignorance. "Well, he does write reg'lar fo' dat."

"And you like it?"

"Yes, ma'am, I like living in the city. But maw likes the country better."

"Yes'm, yes'm. You all got mighty grand house yere, but gimme de kentry."

She was one of those nut-brown Africans that have hair long enough to braid. To-night her head was covered with a red bandana, drawn out square cornered back of her ears, giving her a queer resemblance to the sphinx. Flinging her body forward on the table with a supple, sinuous motion that few negroes get to old too use, she let her head fall into the open palm of one hand, above the bent elbow, and as she talked this sphinxlike head rolled in her hand like a ball in a cup. "Oh, de kentry wid de wavin' fiel's an' de red birds dat comes a peck-peckin' at de winder, an' de darkies a-snatchin' cotton, an' such a heap er room! Oh, de kentry am so pleasureful! I'se timersome in the city, got t' cyar' Reme longer me if I goes out in de night. But in de country I rents my little fyarm and I's got my two mules Mis' Carrol give me. Las' year we uns did make five hundred dollars. Done so! When I paid out t' de sto' dar ben hunderd an' fifty-five dollars comin' t' me."

"An' it all ben stole!" interrupted Reme in a lugubrious tone.

"Nev' you mine 'bout dat, Reme Sanders! Dat come longer havin' no purtector, dat huccome dat."

A more sullen look than I had ever seen on Reme's handsome brown face answered this speech. He pushed back his chair, muttering something about going to the office, quite with the white man's air, and so smuggled himself out of the lesson or farther conversation. Rather to our surprise his mother made no effort to detain him

"My, my!" she gurgled in the negro fashion, swaying herself to and fro, "dat boy cayn't b'ar a word 'bout me needin' a man t' look out fo me. Now he are gone off raring' on me, an' won't have a word t' say fo' a whole day. He's tempered jes' like he paw; sulls twel he gits ober it."

I asked Aunt Victory if Rene's father was dead. "Laws, no," said she. "Has he left you?" said Mrs. Temple.

"He has dat."

"And doesn't Reme want you to let him come back?"

Aunt Victory rubbed her right ear against her right shoulder with a coquettish gesture, and for the first time I realized that, according to African notions, she was a pleasing woman. "Well, sir! Why, Miss Freddy, 'taint my ole man Reme 'jects to, 'cose not! Hit am the torrer gentleman."

We were too used to negro morality to either feel or show any particular surprise. But it seemed decent to inquire whether the departed husband was divorced from her.

No, of course he was not. That was why she had come to the Rock, as the Arkansans call Little Rock.

"I gwine get a divorcement fo' fo'ty dollar de lawyer man say," she explained, "done guv 'im t'irty dollar a'ready. Den I go back t' de kentry. I pintedly does rave to be in de kentry agin."

"But it's such hard work, Victory!" I suggested, loath to see a promising cook depart.

"Hard wuk! Taint nuthing t' de stove wuk. Gimme my hoe an' my row an' I'se happy. An' laws, Missy, I do pear like I cayn't breve in dis yere shut up town. Ain't no sunshine yere. I does love the sunshine. All culled folks jes' natchelly drinks up the sun."

It was easy to learn her story when she was in such a mood. Sitting at ease, alone with us, in the kitchen (for Manda, the chambermaid, was at a colored ball), she poured out her whole humble tragedy.

The ole Mis' who "raised" her and taught her to cook had died. After her death she married a negro, and they went to "making a crop" on the plantation. This negro, Lige by name, accepting her picture, was a very decent man. "Ye'nt never seen de like er Lige t' wuk. He raise de bigges' crap on de place an' he cyar so much mischief wid i' too, I does jes' laffin' all de time. An' he done been pintedly kind t' me, I says dat fo' him, an' nev' did fault his vituals. Allers so proud er my cookin' w'en we has a festival or a log rollin'! Yas'm, we did give a festival onct an' made ten dollars." Perhaps I should explain that negro festivals are purely private affairs, wherein hospitality is exercised at a profit instead of expense, since the thrifty host sells the refreshments, after which is dancing at less pious houses, and games at the houses of "professors."

At log rollings, however, the dinner is provided by the host. The log rollers clear the ground of felled trees, which they collect in heaps for burning.

As Victory's memory recalled the days of her past domestic joys and social triumphs we could see that she was moved.

"Yeas'm, Lige nev' did give me ha'sh wuds. Nev' did raise his hand agin me"—so she continued, rocking her supple body to and fro—"onlies' ting I have agin his behavior, den, ben he did be so fond er coon an' possum huntin'. Mos' de onlies' time I ever given him a pint blank hard time ben de time he 'sisted on gwine 'possum huntin' an' whilst he ben gone, dat boy, my fustis chile, ben bawn. Oh, I tell ye, Lige he was struck by dat! He did jes' cry out loud; an' he name dat baby Remorse, he did, kase t' bar' 'im in mine allus, an' he didn't go possum huntin' for a terrible long spell, not tweel I say I kinder cravin' possum meat myself. Oh, he did ben a good man t' me.

"Ise sorter high strung and feery, an' w'en de stove didn't bake right, or it rain wash-day, or my fingers git so numb pickin' cotton dat I cayn't sew like I uster, why I does be sorter ill like; but laws, he jes' laff an' coax it outer me. Den de torrer two chillen come an' die." Her face changed and quivered. "He ben mighty kind to me, dem times," she said. For a little space she was silent, then with a hardening of her mellow voice she went on.

"We got on fine fo' a spell. Me an' Lige, we uns done been raised by white folks—we ain't no niggers. We done wuk hyard an' 'sess a heap o' goods, an' live so happy an' feel so proud—not biggoty, jes' hones' proud—twell—My Lawd!" A look of anguish keen enough to startle us came over her face while the swift flow of her words was broken by a sudden sob and she covered her face with her hands and screamed, "O my Lawd, he lef' me! He done taken up wid a nigger 'oman!"

Then just as suddenly she lifted her head, dried her eyes and said: But by'n-by Lige he got tired o' her. He ben raised by white folks, an' he come a-beggin' back to me to take 'im in!"

"And you took him back?" asked Mrs. Temple.

The sphinx-like head was raised again with indescribable pride. Victory's grandfathee was an African prince, she told us once, and I can well believe her.

"Me taken him back! Mis' Temple, I ben raised by white folks. He leff me fo' a black nigger. I never take 'im back!"

"But how did he happen to do such a wicked thing?" said Kate Temple.

"How I know!" sullenly. "She live down de ribber whar he go 'possum huntin', an' she gayly young t'ing an'—an' dey call her mighty harnsome; an' someway she 'tice him off. He ben too shamed ter come nigh me, but he sen' wud dat he give me de mules an' ever'ting, cep' only hunderd dollars he have at de sto'. An' so he light out, but he nev' did git no satisfaction livin' in wid her. She cudn't no mo' cook a meal o' vituals dan she cud match me pickin' cotton, an' she taken t' goin' on mighty bad wid torrer niggers; so dey pahted, an' Lige came straight t' me. Mist' Thompson, he say Lige done make mighty sho' he git me back. Huh—huh!"

I somehow inferred from her conscious air that Thompson was the other man in the case. I asked her, and she admitted that he was. He was a mighty pleasant, good man, a preacher, with a gift for prayer, and all the sisters admired him.

I said, "But didn't it ever occur to you, Victory, that Mr. Thompson might be a prejudiced witness against Sanders?"

"How dat, Missy?"

"He wants to marry you himself, you know; mightn't he tell lies about Lige?"

"No'm. He's a plumb good man. Dar aint no sich prayin' like his'n in de kentry. He done have a revival er 'ligion sence he come."

"But hasn't he another wife somewhere?" said Kate, who has cynical notions about negro pastors.

"Dat jes' Reme's meanness!" declared Aunt Victory vehemently. "Brer' Thompson swar t' me dat jes' de talk o' dem ornery, pusillanimous niggers in Dogtown, dat wudn't give nuffin t' de church. Me an' Reme, we give five dollars. Dat Reme, he is a good boy, but I'se consarned about him, kase he won't go t' meetin's nur t' chu'ch nur nuffin an' says dat Mist' Thompson ain't a mor'l man. He is prejdeeced, dat all, Mis' Temple. Dat story 'bout Sal Miller ain't got wud o' truff in it. She got t' swar dat ar baby on somebuddy, an' so she taken po' Brer' Thompson dat ain't skacely pahted lips wid her. He say he skacely seen her. Ain't nare critter 'cept Reme Sanders does believe it. An' he believe anyting on earth agin Brer' Thompson. I knows Reme; he jes' aimin' de plumb w'ile, git me take his paw back!"

"But could you? Would he come?" said my artful friend.

Victory's great eyes flashed. "He done come ev'ry month, ober to see me frum Newport, in de kyars, an' walk out six mile, fo' seben months pleadin' wid me!" said Victory, "look like he ain't jectin'."

"Don't you think you could forgive him?"

Victory's handsome face hardened again. "De fust time I say t' him: 'Lige Sanders, I ain't gwine t' take you back fo' my husband twell de sun drop! You git outer my house!' Dat how I talk t' him. An' he go off mighty down, wid Reme. Nex' time, I says, 'I don t want no wuds wid ye, Mist' Sanders.' But I let him come in an' speak wid Reme, kase he did set a heap o' store by Reme, an' Reme on him. An' bimeby he got ter stayin' longer, an' den Reme wud hab him stay t' dinner. An' Mist' Thompson say he make his braggs er dat say I ben turnin' my mine t' him. Dat rile me. But de las' time when he come he done shave his beard an' look so like de Lige I married dat"—she flung out a clinched hand to strike her breast furiously—"something hot came up dar, mindin' me all dem times t'gedder an' de li'le dead chillen an' all, an' been fair choked. So I hilt my haid mighty boyish like, an' marched outer de house, nev' passin' a wud wid him. An' de nex' day I done rent de house an' all t' Brer' Thompson fo' him an' norrer cullud man wot batches t'gedder, t' keep twell I come back, an' I drawed out my money dat I got leff t' de sto'; and I come on yere. I done prommus Mist' Thompson I get a divorcement fum Lige."

"And promised him, I dare say, to marry him afterward," said I.

But Victory drew herself up proudly: "No'm, I doesn't go so easy. I only done prommus git divorcement fum Lige. I show Lige I don't nebber furgive him!"

We both surmised that it was more anger against the erring Lige than love for Thompson (whom we unreasonably disliked) that was at the bottom of Victory's motives.

From this time our sympathies were entirely with the husband. Reme declared that Thompson stole his mother's money. He knew about the hiding-place. "She wouldn't tell me where she hid it," says Reme with indignation, "but she owned up she told him."

There had been suspicions of Thompson, it appeared, in regard to some church moneys that were placed in his hands. Oh, yes, Reme admitted, he had paid the money back, but not until after they had lost their little horde.

"I knows maw, she sets store by paw, still," says Reme, "but this fellow talks so smooth he's fairly bewitched her. I did write to paw where we ben, an' I'm hopin' he'll git round. I sent him all the money maw let me keep outer my wages and my grips."

The grips, I suppose, were Reme's tips, which he received on various occasions.

"Maw'll get her divorcement in two weeks, she says," Reme went on gloomily, "and she lows to go back to the country right stroight, but I ain't going with her if you all will keep me."

Reme's prediction came true. With a profusion of thanks for our kindness, Victory gave us warning. She was going back in three weeks to her own house. We couldn't complain as far as we were concerned, especially as she had hunted up a new cook of great gifts in sauces and salads (according to her former employer), neat industrious, indeed lacking little of perfection except a good temper.

Reme, on this official confirmation, as it were, of his fears, became a walking statue of gloom. It was at this period that he broke a Royal Worcester plate and three cut glass wineglasses, all of which of course just slipped from his hands while he "wasn't doing nothing." His misery over the wreck was such that Kate hadn't the heart to scold him.

He came to us later and begged Kate not to take any money out of his wages, due the next day.

"Maw, she said you'd keep 'most all," he whimpered, "cause they're the nicest kind o' dishes and cost a terrible sight, she says. But if you'd please not this month, I'll sure work for you all next month."

Kate reassured him. She wasn't going to take his money, but why was he so anxious to have the wages this month?"

Then Reme confessed that his father was in town, and so was Mr. Thompson.

"And Thompson, he's all fixed up," cried Reme, "out of our money. In a black preacher coat and a silk hat. Oh, he looks mighty fine. But paw does look pint blank gashly. You see, Mrs. Temple, he did ben sick ever sence he went home the last time, and the house where he ben burned down and he lost his good clothes and every cent er money, and now he's come here, all ragged, aimin' to git some work and some clothes and make it up to maw. And I don't want maw to see him all rags and Thompson strutting around in his high hat. So I was reckoning I'd buy him some clothes."

We sympathized with Reme, but as it turned out our sympathy came to naught.

Either Victory's lawyer got the divorce sooner than he expected, or Victory herself found the money sooner; anyhow, a few evenings later Kate came to me to say that Thompson was calling on Victory. I at once wanted to look at a new experiment in puddings left in the "cold closet," to reach which one must pass through the kitchen.

True enough, there sat a smug-faced six-foot negro, gleaming all over, in a black broadcloth, with a gorgeous gold watch chain and dazzling linen.

Victory would not let us pass without introducing him.

It was at this moment that there came a timid, half-hearted knock at the door.

Victory opened it and absolutely staggered back. "My Lawd, Lige!" she screamed, "what's got ye?"

Lige indeed it was, and a forlorner spectacle than he presented is difficult to picture. He looked sick and wretched, and his clothes were no better than rags. What a contrast to the resplendent Thompson!

"Yes, Victry, it's me," said poor Lige. "I know I ain't fit t' come t' see ye in sich close, but I did wanter see ye so bad!"

All Victory said was, "Mymy! mymy! Lige!"

By this time—for half unconsciously Victory had opened the door—Lige had shambled into the circles of light. He saw Thompson. As if by magic his humility was rent from him. His limp form straightened. Head erect and eyes burning he shook his fist at the preacher.

"You black nigger! is you darin' come 'twixt me an' my wife?"

Manda, who was on the other side of the table, an admiring listener to Brother Thompson's eloquence, jumped up with a scream.

"You hush!" said Victory, "don't ye be skeered up, Mandy, he won't do no harm!" She turned herself to Lige with actual dignity: "Who you ta'kin' bout, Mist' Sanders? Not me. I ain't no wife er yourn. I got my bill o' divorcement dis very day."

Lige gasped. The tears rolled to his eyes.

"Onyhow, she ain't aimin' to demean herself to a low down, trampin' nigger like you," said Thompson, from his glistening height of broadcloth, "Miss Victry lows t' become the bride of a gentleman in the perfession——"

A swift blow from Lige's fist knocked the rest of the sentence out of time.

Like a tiger Lige flew at the white shirt bosom and the gorgeous watch chain. But, weakened by illness, he was no match for the brawny preacher, who knocked him half across the kitchen.

Manda tittered.

"Stop?" cried Mrs. Temple, "Victory! stop!" Heeding her no more than the wind, as Lige, bleeding but undismayed, dashed again at Thompson, Victory herself flung the dish towel tight over Thompson's unsuspecting head, pulling from behind with such force and fury that, thus harassed in the rear, he made a misstep and all three went down together, under Lige's onslaught.

"Git yo' razor, Lige!" shrieked Victory. "You let my husband 'lone or he cut you wid a razor!"

I believe that it was quite as much the bewildering effect of Victory's conduct as Mrs. Temple's commands that sent a calm on the turmoil.

Thompson crawled to his feet and glared at Lige, also on his feet, flourishing a razor, while Victory panted, supporting herself by the table, and Mandy called on the police out of the dining-room door, as if they were hidden up stairs.

Reme's appearance at this moment rather helped the confusion, since he supposed the house to be afire and ran to the water faucets.

"What does all this mean, Victory?" Kate demanded, as soon as she had suppressed Mandy.

"Hit mean dat I ain't gwine hab no black nigger sass my husband!" answered Victory. "Mist' Thompson, sah, I bids you good day fo' eber mo'. An' I b'liebes ever' word Reme done tell me gin ye," she cries spitefully.

"I shall have to ask you to leave too," added Kate.

In vain Thompson begged Victory to think of the past and her promises.

"I didn't prommus you narry!" cried Victory in high wrath. "I nev' said like I'd marry you. I said I'd get a divorcement fum Lige, an' a big fool I ben t' do it; but I done it."

"May be," snarled the goaded Thompson, "you didn't prommus you'd never take Lige Sanders back fo' your husband——"

"Well, I ain't taken him back," came the reply, with a toss of Victory's head and a roll of Victory's eyeballs; "fo' de Lawd, I gwine marry him fresh. Dat what I gwine do!"

"Lawd bless you, Victory!" cried Lige, "I sho' did reckon you turn me loose, w'en ye see me in dem po' ragged cloes an' him so fat an' sassy."

"Yes, on de money he stole from us!" shouted Reme, who was for having his oar in the matter.

"Lige you a fool sho'!" retorted Victory; "ain't I jes' ben had my hairt turned t' ye longer dem po' cloes de minnit I see ye, ye did look so distressed! An' w'en he begun a pickin' on ye, looked like I cudn't bar de sight er him."

"Oh, laws, Vict'ry!" gasped Lige.

Thompson gave his former mistress a murderous glance; but he fished his hat from under the table, and muttering a kind of apology to Mrs. Temple went out with Mandy.

Perhaps Mandy consoled him. Kate and I thought it well to follow his example by ourselves. There is nothing more to say except that on the following Wednesday Aunt Victory baked her own wedding cake.—Octave Thanet and Lura N. Brown in New York Herald.

A CHECK FOR FOUR CENTS.

A well-known Wall street broker, whose office is in the Schemerhorn building, has pasted in a conspicuous place in his private office a little piece of paper which even upon the "Street" is regarded as a great financial curiosity. It is a check drawn upon a New York national bank for four cents, and has been certified.

It is a rule with all banks that when the paying teller certifies by his signature upon a check, drawn by a depositor, that there are sufficient funds on deposit in the bank to meet the check when presented for payment, he does so with the understanding that the check, if not used and returned to the bank through the ordinary channel of business, the Clearing House, shall be redeposited as if it were cash by the drawee. If a certified check fails to find its way back to the bank on which it is drawn, the paying teller's daily sheet, and consequently the books of the bank, will not balance.

This four-cent derelict—the bank acountants probably have a stronger name for it—has now been "out" several years, and is probably a constant cause of irritation to the bank people, who now must of necessity take a balance four cents out of the way as a true one. It is not known what means the drawee of this check used to induce the teller to certify it, but they were undoubtedly potent ones, as may be learned by any one who will present for certification a check for any way near a like amount, even though the drawee's name be good for ten thousand times the amount at the bank at which it is presented. The teller would probably hold it and give a "cashier's check" for a like amount in place of it. If the party didn't like that he could take cash—or do the other thing.

The bank would most likely pay a considerable premium to get hold of that four-cent check, as once did the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" in an instance of this kind recorded by a writer in the London Notes and Queries, for July 1, 1882. By some misadventure a note for one penny stamped with the "promise to pay" of the Bank of England got into circulation in 1818 and "for many years gave the cashiers much trouble with their accounts."

"About fifteen years ago," says the writer in Notes and Queries, "it was brought to the bank, but the owner, not unwisely, would not take a penny for it, and I believe the bank settled the transaction by giving him five pounds."—New York Herald.

KEEPING A WIFE YOUNG.

A certain amount of social life is absolutely essential to all of us—to the old as well as the young. A woman never grows so old that she ceases to enjoy the company of others, and generally, the older she grows the more she enjoys it. It is always a pity to see a man fall into a state which he explains by saying: "Oh, we're getting old, and don't care for so much variety in our lives." In the pure unselfishness of his soul he always speaks of "us" and "we," as if it naturally follows that because he is getting antiquated his wife must keep pace with him in his decline. Men all too often make their wives too old. It is a greater credit to a husband to keep his wife young than to make her grow old. His actions and his habits necessarily influence those of his wife. Let him keep in touch with the world, and both he and his wife will be the better and the younger for it. I like to see a man proud of his wife because she keeps young. Old age is beautiful and has its advantages, but a man makes a great mistake when he rushes a woman unnecessarily toward it. And he does it most perfectly when he deprives her of those enjoyments which every man should give his wife. No economy is so faise, so hollow, and so misguided as that which seeks to withhold one pleasure from the life of a good woman, a true wife, or a loving mother. The best home a man can give a woman becomes "poky," as one woman I know expresses it, if she is asked to live in it three hundred and sixty-five days out of every year. The good Lord knows that woman's life in this world is hard enough. She travels a path of endurance and suffering, to which man, be he ever so afflicted, is an entire stranger. It was given to man to make that path as pleasant, as easy, and as bright as possible. Every dollar which a man spends for the happiness of the woman of his home will come back to him in double, yea, in four-fold measure.—Edward W. Bok, in Ladies' Home Journal.

Concerning European table manners a few centuries ago, a writer in the Munich News says: "Each guest was supplied with a spoon for the purpose of helping himself from the common dish. In simple families the members ate out of the same dish, without having the luxury of a plate. It frequently happened that in aristocratic circles ladies would help their neighbors with the spoons just taken from their mouths. Men were often served with sauce in this way. Anne of Austria, the queen celebrated for her beautiful hands, once gave a piece of meat which she had just taken from the plate with nature's forks, to a neighbor, and allowed him, as a special favor, to lick off what remained on the hand."

A professor in Bates College, having failed to obtain a desired result from a chemical experiment, explained: "As you see, gentlemen, at present you see nothing; why you see nothing you will see directly." The "gentlemen" saw.

WOMAN'S CORNER.

Written for the PALMER JOURNAL.

NIGHT.

Twilight's dim curtain had fallen
Softly over the earth;
She had witnessed, reluctant, the death of Day,
And welcomed night's birth.

Soon through the sable curtains
Silently peeped a star;
And then, in its folds, with a twinkle and flash
Shone hundreds afar.

Quicker and quicker they follow,—
Jewels of priceless worth,—
Flashing their brilliance in dark Night's crown
And lighting the earth.

L. I. B.

A PRETTY HOME-MADE FERNERY.

The full enjoyment of this bit of fresh spring-time is to be had only by one who gathers the materials and arranges them herself. A May-day tramp into the fields and woods is its preliminary; take with you a big market basket, a trowel and a strong knife, and for companions those you love best,—a party of young people, your best friend, your lover, your husband, whomever you will, or go alone if you prefer; for the writer, the upspringing verdure dotted with blue and white and yellow, the pendent tree-blossoms, the bee-covered willows, the gleeful brooks, the soft skies, the sweet air, the birds and butterflies are most enjoyed with child-life only for companionship,—four or five nature-loving children, boys and girls, who know where to find the sweetest violets, the loveliest ferns, and the greenest mosses.

You will find besides violets, ferns and mosses, the early saxifrage, anemone, potentilla or five finger, houstonia or bluets, and plaintain-leaved everlasting in abundance in the open fields, and perhaps, now and then, a June blossom prematurely opened. In the woods is the hepatica, if you are not too late, the ground-nut (aralia trifolia) and other tiny flowers that your botanies will name for you. The trailing arbutus most desired and most beautiful is prettiest arranged by itself, and is sought for on excursions devoted especially to its possession. It is not well adapted to our fernery.

I wish just here to inquire if you know that botanists declare that the arbutus is disappearing in many localities in New England? They attribute the fact to the reckless manner in which the flower is gathered. It is torn up by the roots in large quanities, and thus destroyed. Since my attention has been called to it I have found that the plant has entirely disappeared from fields where a few years ago it filled the air with fragrance and the hearts of children with delight. How sad to contemplate that our own carelessness in gathering has deprived so many of this spring joy! Let me caution you all to cut the arbutus and leave the roots, rather than to tear and destroy it. Pardon the digression, but there is great need that the young should be taught how properly to gather this, our sweetest flower, if we do not wish it to be entirely exterminated.

It were better also, to leave the flowering shrubs and trees for another walk; it will take all your time to gather mosses, ferns and flowers with roots, for your fernery. Make this a trip of discovery, selecting clumps of unfolding ferns and the most beautiful flower clusters; take them up with the trowel, leaving considerable earth about their roots. Pack all carefully into your basket, where they will not be broken nor injured. Choose leafy mosses that grow in damp places and have soil attached,—those growing upon rocks by the brookside will serve your purpose well. Let all your selections be of early rather than later developments, that is, have your violets and anemones and other plants in bud rather than in blossom, and your ferns but just beginning to unroll and small of size.

To arrange a fernery have a deep plate or platter,—a custard-pie plate is the most desirable form; agate ware, if shallow, is suitable; but nothing in tin or iron will answer.

Arrange the moss over the plate so as to form a compact mass, and around the edge arrange tiny ferns or other leafy plants to form a fringe and to cover the edge of the plate, putting the roots of the ferns under the moss. Now select your tallest, leaflest fern and set its roots into the moss in the middle of the plate. Set the smaller ferns and the violets, houstonias and other plants you have gathered, into the moss as you would set them into a flower bed, but you may put them in rather nearer together than you would if you were placing them in the ground.

Until you have arranged a simple fernery such as I am describing you cannot know how pretty it is; and however haphazard you make the arrangement you cannot fail of an artistic effect.

Keep the moss filled with water and you will have a tiny growing flower-field on your sitting room table. As one plant blossoms and fades and dies take it out and put something else in its place. Thus you may keep your fernery a long time. I have kept one from April to the next April to delight my own eyes and those of my friends.

This fernery makes a pretty ornament for the dining table, and is particularly pleasing when there are no other flowers to be easily had for that purpose.

FRANCES VIRILLA DOANE.

HE WOULDN'T STEAL THE BABY.

A man stood loafing idly in front of a crowded store where it was bargain day, when two women stopped before him. They were already so laden with bundles that it seemed impossible that they could carry any more. One woman was wheeling a baby carriage.

"There's that checked gingham," the man heard her say; "it's the prettiest I've seen yet for baby's summer dresses."

"Well, let's go in."

"How can I take the carriage through that crowd? It's no use trying to get anything, if you've got to drag a baby around with you."

The man loafing at the door took his hands out of his pockets.

"Guess I might as well tend baby as do anything else," he drawled; "leave the baby with me and I'll take care of it while you shop."

The women both looked at him curiously, then the mother of the baby eyed the gingham in the window and that helped her to accept his offer.

"You can leave your bundles in the cab with the kid," said the man, as he took the tongue of the perambulator and began to wheel the baby back and forth.

But neither of the women relinquished a single bundle. Indeed, the mother of the youngster at once took every package out of the little carriage and added it to the mass in her arms.

The man smiled grimly as he heard her say to her friend:

"He won't be likely to steal the baby, but I won't take any chances with the dry goods, would you?"

"No, indeed."

They were in the store a long time. When they at last came out it was with a rush, as if they feared to find their most valuable possession gone. But no, it was smiling and laughing into the face of its male nurse, who was making all kinds of comic gestures to amuse it.

"Thank you, ever so much," said the mother of the baby, fumbling in her pocketbook, "its worth a quarter—"

"Never mind that," said the man; "did you get the gingham?"

While the two stared open-mouthed at his presumption, a carriage drove up, some ladies called to him, and, touching his hat to the two astonished shoppers, Col. —— disappeared into his own equipage, having just done one of the odd things he is famous for doing and been of service at the same time. —*Detroit

How Easy It Is!

How easy it is to spoil a day!
The thoughtless words of cherished friends,
The selfish act of a child at play,
The strength of a will that will not bend,
The slight of a comrade, the scorn of a foe,
The smile that is full of bitter things,—
They all can tarnish its golden glow
And take the grace from its airy wings.

How easy it is to spoil a day
By the force of a thought we did not check!
Little by little we mould the clay,
And little flaws may the vessel wreck.
The careless waste of a white-winged hour
That held the blessing we long had sought;
The sudden loss of wealth or power,—
And lo! the day is with ill inwrought.

How easy it is to spoil a life!
And many are spoiled ere well begun,—
In some life darkened by sin and strife,
Or downward course of a cherished one;
By toil, that robs the form of its grace,
And undermines till health gives way;
By the peevish temper, the frowning face,
The hopes that go, and the cares that stay.

A day is too long to be spent in vain;
Some good should come as the hours go by;
Some tangled maze may be more plain;
Some lowered glance may be raised on high.
And life is too short to spoil like this,
If only a prelude, it may be sweet;
Let us bind together in threads of bliss,
And nourish the flowers around our feet.

—Anon.

A BOY'S BARGAIN.

"Shine? Shine 'em, boss?"

"No!"

"First-class shine for a nickel!"

"No. Shut the door!"

The cold damp air of a stormy November day blew in, chilling my office and wetting the floor with sleet; so I spoke rather sharply to the unwelcome intruder.

The door closed slowly, and I went on with my work, supposing the boy had gone out; but presently, to my surprise, on looking up for a moment, I found he was still standing by the radiator, warming his dirty, red hands.

"Boss," he said, "I'm cold. Can't I stay and get warm?"

I nodded assent, and was about to take up my pen once more; but some touch of pathos in the tone of the young voice caught my attention, and I turned to look at the speaker. He was only a child, but the life of the streets had already given him a shrewd and anxious expression to his face.

His thin, poor clothes were outgrown and outworn, his bare ankles showing below his ragged trousers, and his bare toes sticking out from his ragged shoes.

He was wet through, and looked as though he might be hungry as well as cold, and yet he had a cheery, self-reliant air, as if he knew how to bear hardship without whining about it.

"Young man," said I, "you ought not to be out in this weather. Your feet are soaked, and you'll be having sore throat first thing you know."

He turned a quick glance upon me, half inquiring and half distrustful; and then, finding I was really concerned about him, his face softened, and coming over to my desk, he held up the wreck of a shoe, from which the sole was half ripped off.

"Mister," he said, "I do want new boots bad; that's a fact. I've got forty cents, and if I could get a dollar and ten cents more, I'd buy a good pair of second-handers."

"Forty cents isn't much toward a dollar and a half. How could you raise the rest of the money?"

"Well, if I could get two or three gentlemen to make a bargain with me, I might do it."

"A bargain! What sort of a bargain?"

"There used to be a gentleman in this here office as made bargains with me. Mr. Porter his name was, and he let me have a dollar, last winter, to get these shoes I've got on now."

"Mr. Porter? Yes, there was a Mr. Porter in this office before I took it; but I've heard he died some time last spring."

"Yes, he's dead, and I went to the funeral; leastways, I stood outside on the walk. He was a friend to me, he was; took me into his Sunday school class, and put a present for me onto the Christmas tree. It was a Santa Claus tree, but I know who the Santa Claus was, well enough."

"I've understood that Mr. Porter was a very kind-hearted man, given to good works."

"He was so, mister! He was the one as made bargains with me."

"You haven't told me what these bargains were like."

"Well, you see, he trusted me with a quarter, or sometimes as much as a dollar, and I worked it out—gave him a square shine every day for twenty cents a week. Wasn't that fair?"

"It was fair enough if you kept your part of the bargain."

"Yes, boss, I know where the hitch is. Nobody don't trust us little rats; 'fraid we'll go back on you; and right you are, mostly."

"Did you ever go back on Mr. Porter?"

"You bet I didn't! I ain't none of that kind, and besides, he taught me better. No sir, we made fair bargains, and I stuck to 'em I did! That's business, ain't it?"

"Yes, that's business. And now you want to make one of your bargains with me, for a dollar, do you?"

"There's a pair o' boots down in Carter's Alley as I can get for a dollar and a half, and I ain't got but forty cents. It is so rainy and drizzly this week that I ain't made my hash for three days. Nobody don't want a shine such weather as this, so there ain't much chance of gettin' them boots unless I could make a bargain for a dollar and ten cents."

"If you should get the money and buy the boots, what would you do for 'hash' as you call it? Do you live at home?"

"Don't live nowheres. But that's nothin'. I'd go short of my feed to get the boots. Done it many a time, and can again."

"Suppose I make a bargain with you for part of the money, can you get any other gentleman to advance you the rest?"

"Mister, I ain't askin' folks to trust me any more. It ain't no use, and they'd only think I was a fraud. I told you about it, along o' thinkin' o' him; he used to set just where you're a settin' now."

"Well, my boy, you haven't asked me to trust you; but your old friend had faith in you, it seems, and so will I. Here is half a dollar, which you can work out by the week, and here is a dime, free gift, toward the boots. Now for the rest. Take my card in to Mr. Newell, next door, and he and his partner will also make a bargain with you, at my request."

"Mister, I thought, somehow, you'd help me, 'cause he used to. I remember once his sayin' to me, 'A good deed never dies.' I didn't know what he meant at the time, but I do now. I'll come in every day, and give you a parlor shine, see if I don't."

Mr. Newell and I usually took lunch together, and when I met him, the following day, he was inclined to rally me about my bargain.

"Your boy hasn't turned up to-day," he said. "You don't fancy you'll ever see him again do you?"

"Certainly!" I replied. "I believe he's an honest little chap, and will keep his word."

I spoke confidently, but it was in spite of some fear of my own that my experiment would turn out a failure.

About four o'clock, however, the boy came in, much to my satisfaction. He had his new boots on, and seemed quite proud of them, but was very quiet, and not at all talkative. I thought he was not looking well, but he did not complain, and I neglected to question him.

The next day was Sunday, and on Monday I was out of town. Tuesday, at lunch time, Mr. Newell mentioned that my boy had not been in, smiling, as if to say, "I told you so."

I looked for the little fellow that afternoon with a good deal of interest, and when obliged to close my office without seeing him, was much disappointed. On Wednesday I watched and waited again, but again he failed to appear. My neighbor next door made some jesting remarks at my expense, but on the whole was very patient, considering the circumstances. Toward the close of the week, I mentioned the matter to him myself, and said that I was afraid the boy might be sick.

"Yes," said Mr. Newell, "sick of his bargain. We've seen the last of him. Pity, too! Bright boy! But what can you expect? They are all alike."

I was obliged to acknowledge that my friend was probably right, and very sorry I was to come to that conclusion. It was not the loss of the dollar that troubled me, though no one likes to be defrauded out of even a trifle; but I had taken a fancy to the child, felt an interest in him, believed in him, and wanted to serve him. I liked his looks, thought he had a good honest face and true eyes, and to be forced to admit that I had been deceived, that my protegé was a common little cheat, was really quite a severe trial.

A busy man, however, has little time for regret in this world, and after a few days my boy and his bargain began to fade from my mind. At the end of about a week, as nearly as I can remember, coming down town late one morning I found a lady waiting for me. I had never seen her before, and she had evidently never seen me, for, after looking at me closely a moment, she said:

"I think you must be the gentleman I am seeking."

I replied that I hoped so, if I could serve her in any way.

"It is not for myself," she answered; "but I am one of the visitors at the Children's Hospital, and there is a patient in my ward very anxious to see a gentleman whose name he doesn't know, but who has an office here, as nearly as I can follow the directions."

"A boy of nine or ten years, with a pleasant smile and bright blue eyes?"

"He is too sick to smile, but he's about that age, and certainly has blue eyes. He has been in a high fever and delirium for ten days, and now that his mind is clear again, he is sorely troubled about some bargain he has made and cannot keep."

"That's my little friend. His bargain is with me, and I'm very grateful to you for coming to me. I will go to him at once, and shall be only too glad to do anything I can for him."

Excusing myself a moment, I ran and opened Mr. Newell's door, calling out:

"I've found my boy. He's sick in the Children's Hospital."

"You don't say so!" he exclaimed. "Delighted to hear it! That is, of course I'm sorry he's sick, but glad you've heard from him. Fact is, I couldn't bear to think that little fellow could be a fraud. Here's five dollars to help take care of him."

I said the hospital would take care of him, and I would see that he did not want for anything, but he insisted I should take the money, and give it to the hospital, if the child did not need it.

On the way up town, I asked the lady visitor if her patient was in a dangerous state, and she replied that the doctor considered the case a critical one. The child had suffered from exposure and hardship, until his constitution had been undermined, and the fever had left him so low it was questionable whether he had vital force enough to get up again.

On arriving at the hospital, I was shown into a plainly furnished but pleasant reception room, while my guide went to prepare her charge to see me. She presently returned and conducted me to a large, well-lighted, cheerful room, with a row of five white little beds on each side. I looked along from one to another, but did not recognize my boy.

Some of the patients were propped up, looking at picture books, or trying to read, and others were lying pale and still, seemingly asleep; but there was no one among them that I knew.

When the lady stopped beside one of the beds, and lifting up a thin, wasted hand from the counterpane said, "The gentleman is here, my child," I felt sure that some mistake had been made, and that the sick boy was not my little debtor, after all. His hollow cheek was as colorless as the snowy pillow against which it rested, and there was an innocent, childlike expression upon his features, so utterly different from sharp, wary shrewdness, that I could not believe him to be my little street Arab.

His eyes were closed, and he lay so quiet that he hardly seemed to breathe; but when I took his hand he looked up in my face, and a wan smile hovered around his pallid lips. Then I knew him, and I'm not ashamed to confess that for a moment my eyes dimmed and I could not trust myself to speak.

As I bent toward him, he whispered, so faintly that I could hardly catch the words:

"I felt sure you'd come, mister, 'cause you was kind to me."

"Of course I'd come, and I've been anything but kind to neglect you so long."

"It's all right. I've been taken care of the best kind, but I wanted to tell you that I didn't mean to go back on my bargain."

"My dear boy, don't be troubled about that or anything else. I know you're honest and true, and I'm very, very glad to know it, too; but you mustn't think about business now. You have made friends all around you, and we all want you to get well very soon; so you must help us by trying to rest contented and free from care.

"Yes, everybody is good to me, and now that you know I've been sick, I'll be satisfied."

I sat with him a few minutes, and then the watchful nurse, seeing a flush coming to his cheek, warned me that it was time to depart.

But I returned the next morning and visited him every day thereafter. He lingered between life and death for two weeks, and then I had the grateful satisfaction of telling him he was fairly out of danger.

As soon as he could be moved we found a home for him in a quiet Friends' household, where he now is, and where the family care for him as they would for a son and brother.

He gains but slowly, and has been shut up in the house all winter; but very soon now he is going out on to a Chester county farm to spend the summer, and we hope he will then grow strong and be as well as ever.

He is already able to study a little, and takes an easy lesson or two every day. When we ask him what he is going to do in the world, he says:

"I'm going to work hard and make some money to help the poor little chaps that live in the streets. A good deed never dies!"

---

Small Madeline is something of a humorist and has some very pronounced religious tendencies, but the other day she came home from church in a highly-pleased frame of mind. "Oh, mamma!" she said, "you just ought to have been at church to-day. The preacher had such a good text; just the kind I liked." "What was it, Madeline?" asked mamma, who had stayed at home with a cold. Seriously answered small Madeline: "The Lord loveth the cheerful giggler."—Wide Awake.

---

An usher at Centenary church at Greensboro, N. C., got a little flustered one Sunday night recently, but he did the best thing he could under the circumstances. The best room was excessively warm, and he tried his level best to lower a winow from the top, but failed. Then he took down the thermometer and carried it out of doors. Everybody cooled off at once.—Atlanta Constitution.

---

His Carriage. "Does Irvington keep a carriage since he married?" "Oh, yes. I see him wheeling it most every day."—Indianapolis Journal.

Lines

Written by Mrs. W. H. Marble, on the death of friends.

Tenderly we've laid their forms to rest
'Neath the green and beautiful sod;
They have gone, and left us lonely,
To dwell with their maker, God.

No more we shall hear their footsteps,
No more behold their face
Till the last great trump of Gabriel
Shall bring us sweet release.

Release from this world of sorrow,
From languor, grief and pain;
How sweet to dwell with Jesus,
In Him forever reign.

Over the river Jordon
They have forded one by one;
They are singing the songs of victory,
Their triumph is begun.

Triumphed o'er earth and its conflicts,
Triumphed o'er death and the grave,
Why shouldn't they sit at the banquet
With Him who is mighty to save.

Father, we murmur not at Thy taking
Our dear ones so soon away,
For we feel they were ripe for the harvest,
And will reign in eternal day.

Monson Mass.

THE REMINISCENCES OF MAJOR CARRAWAY.

Mollie had been on the lookout for the Major for at least an hour, and still he did not come, and the little maid was beginning to feel blue over the prospect of not getting the usual Sunday afternoon story. It was past four o'clock, and for as long a time as she could remember the Major had never failed to arrive by three o'clock. All sorts of dreadful possibilities came up before her mind's eye. She pictured the Major in accidents of many sorts, she conjured up visions of him lying wounded beneath the ruins of an apartment house, or something else equally heavy that might have fallen upon him on his way from his rooms to the station, but that he was more than wounded she did not believe, for she knew that the Major was not that sort of man to be killed by anything killing under the sun.

"I wonder where he can be," she said, uneasily to Jack, who was waiting with equal anxiety in the library for their common friend.

"Oh, he's all right!" said Jack, with a confidence he did not really feel. "He'll turn up all right, and even if he's two hours late he'll be here on time according to his own watch. Just you wait and see."

And Mollie did wait and see. She waited for ten minutes, when the Major drove up, smiling as ever, but apparently a little out of breath. I should not dare to say that he was really out of breath, but he certainly did seem to be so, for he panted visibly, and for two or three minutes after his arrival was quite unable to ask the children the usual question as to their very good health. Finally, however, the customary courtesies of the greeting were exchanged, and the decks were cleared for action.

"What kept you, Uncle Major?" asked Jack, as he took up his usual position on the Major's lap.

"What, what?" replied the warrior, "kept me? Why, am I late?"

"Two hours," said Jack. "Papa gave you up, and went out for a walk."

"Nonsense," said the Major. "I'm never that late."

Here he looked at his watch.

"Why, I do seem to be behind time. There must be something wrong with our timepieces. I can't be no two hours late, you know."

"Well, let's say you are on time, then," said Mollie. "What kept you?"

"A very funny accident on the railroad," said the Major, lighting a cigar. "Queerest accident that ever happened to me on a railroad, too. Our engine ran away."

Jack laughed as if hr thought the Major was trying to fool him.

"Really," said theMajor. "I left New York as usual on the two o'clock train, which, as you know, comes through in half an hour without a stop. Everything went along smoothly until we reached Riverdale, when much to the surprise of everybody the train came to a standstill. I supposed there was a cow on the track, and so kept my seat two or three minutes as did everyone else. Finally the conductor came through, and called to the brakeman at the end of our car to see if his brakes were all right.

"'It's the most unaccountable thing,' he said to me. 'Here's this train come to a dead stop and I can't see why. There isn't a brake out of order on any one of the cars, and there isn't any earthly reason why we shouldn't go ahead.'

"'Maybe somebody's upset a bottle of glue on the track,' said I. I always like to chaff the conductor, you know, though as far as that is concerned I remember once when I was traveling on a South American railway our train was stopped by highwaymen, who smeared the tracks with a peculiar sort of gum. They'd spread it over three miles of track, and after the train had gone slightly over two miles of it the wheels stuck so fast ten engines couldn't have moved it. That was a terrible affair."

"I don't think we ever heard of that, did we?" asked Mollie.

"I don't remember it," said Jack.

"Well, you would have remembered it if you had ever heard of it," said the Major. "It was too dreadful to have forgotton—not for us, you know, but for the robbers. It was on one of the Imperial trains in Brazil, and if it hadn't been for me the Emperor would have been carried off and held for ransom. The train was brought to a standstill by this gluey stuff, as I have told you, and the desperadoes boarded the cars and proceeded to rifle us of our possessions. The Emperor was in the car back of mine, and the robbers made directly for him, but fathoming their intention I followed close upon their heels.

"'You are our game,' said the chief robber, tapping the Emperor on the shoulder as he entered the Imperial car.

"'Hands off,' I cried, throwing the ruffian to one side.

"He scowled dreadfully at me, the Emperor looked surprised, and another one of the robbers requested to know who I was that I should speak with so much authority. 'Who am I?' I said, with a wink at the Emperor. 'Who am I? Who else but Major Carraway, of the United States Army, ex-friend of Napoleon III, of France, intimate of the Mikado of Japan, and famed the world over as the deadliest shot in two hemispheres!'"

"The desperadoes paled visibly, and after making due apologies for interfering with the train, fled shrieking from the car. They had heard of me before."

"'I thank you, sir,' began the Emperor, as the would-be assasin fled, but I cut him short. 'They must not be allowed to escape,' I said, and with that I started in pursuit of the desperate fellows, overtook them, and glued them with the gum they had prepared for our detention, to the face of a precipice that rose abruptly from the side of a railway one hundred and ten feet from the level. There I left them, we melted the glue from the tracks by means of our steam-heating apparatus, and were soon booming merrily on our way to Rio Janeiro, where I was feted and dined continuously for weeks by the people, though strange to say the Emperor's behavior toward me was very cool,"

"And did the robbers ever get down?" asked Jack.

"Yes; but not in a way they liked. The sun came out, and after a week or two melted the glue that held them to the precipice, whereupon they fell to its base and were shattered into pieces so small there wasn't an atom of them to be found when a month later I passed that way again on my return trip."

"And didn't the Emperor treat you well, Unole Major?" asked Mollie.

"No—as I told you he was very cool toward me, and I couldn't understand it then, but I do now," said the Major. "He was very much in need of ready cash, the Emperor was, and as the tax-payers were already growling about the expenses of the government, he didn't dare raise the money by means of a tax. So he arranged with the desperadoes to stop the train, capture him, and hold him for a ransom. Then when the ransom came along, he was going to divide up with them. My sudden appearance, coupled with my determination to rescue him, spoiled his plan you see, and so he naturally wasn't very grateful. Poor fellow! I was very sorry for it afterward, because he really was an excellent ruler, and his plain of raising the money he needed wasn't a bit less honest than most other ways rulers employ to obtain revenue for state purposes."

"Well now, let's get back to the runaway engine," said Jack. "You can tell us more about South America after you get through with that. How did the engine come to run away?"

"It was simple enough," said the Major, "The engineer after starting the train came back into the smoking-car to get a light for his pipe, and while he was there the coupling-pin between the engine and the train broke, and off skipped the engine twice as fast as it had been going before. The relief from the weight of the train set its pace a mile a minute instead of a mile in two minutes, and there we were at a dead stop in front of the Riverdale station with nothing to move us along. When the engineer saw what had happened he fainted dead away, because you know if a collision had occurred between the runaway engine and the train ahead he would have been held responsible."

"Couldn't the fireman stop the engine?" asked Jack.

"No. That is, it wouldn't be his place to do it," and these railway fellows are queer about that sort of thing," said the Major. "The engineers would go out upon a strike if the railroad were to permit a stoker to manage an engine, and besides that, the stoker wouldn't undertake to do it at a stoker's wages, so there wasn't any help to be looked for there. The conductor happened to be near-sighted, and he didn't find out the engine was missing until he had wasted ten or twenty minutes examining the brakes, by which time, of course, the runaway was miles and miles up the track. Then the engineer came to, and began to wring his hands and moan in a way that was heart-rending. The conductor, too, began to cry, and all the brakemen left the train and took to the woods. They weren't going to have any of the responsibility of the accident placed upon their shoulders. Whether they will ever turn up again I don't know. But I realized as well as anybody else that something had to be done, so I rushed into the telegraph office and telegraphed to all the station masters between Riverdale and Albany to clear the track of all trains, freight, local or express, or somebody would be hurt, and that I myself would undertake to capture the runaway engine. This they all promised to do, whereupon I bade goodby to my fellow travelers, and set off up the track myself at full speed. In a minute I strode past Yonkers, covering at least eight ties at a step. In two minutes I thundered past Tarrytown, where I learned that the engine had twenty miles start of me. I made a rapid calculation mentally—I always was strong in mental arithmetic—which showed that unless I tripped up or got side tracked somewhere I might overtake the runaway before it reached Poughkeepsie. Redoubling my efforts my stride increased to twenty ties at a jump, and made the next five miles in two minutes. It sounds impossible, but really it isn't so. It is hard to run as fast as that at the start, but when you have got your start the impetus gathered in the first mile's run sends you along faster in the second, and so your speed increased by its own force until you go like the wind. At Sing Sing I had gained two miles on the engine, at Peekskill I was only fifteen miles behind, and upon my arrival at Poughkeepsie there was scarcely a mile between me and the fugitive.

"Unfortunately a large crowd had gathered at Poughkeepsie to see me pass through, and some small boy had brought a dog along with him and the dog stood directly in my path. If I ran over the dog it would kill him and might trip me up. If I jumped with tee impetus I had there was no telling where I would land. It was a hard point to decide either way, but I decided in favor of the jump simply to save the dog's life, for I love animals. I landed three miles up the road and ran ahead of the engine, though I didn't know that until I had run ten miles farther on, leaving the engine a hundred yards behind me at every stride. It was at Rhinecliff that I discovered my error, and then I tried to stop. It was almost in vain; I dragged my feet over the ties, but could only slow down to a three-minute gait. Then I tried to turn and slow up by running backward; this brought my speed down to ten minutes to the mile, which made it safe for me to run into a haystack at the side of the railroad just beyond Hudson. Then, of course I was all right. I could sit down and wait for the engine, which came booming along forty minutes later. As it approached I prepared to board it and in five minutes was in full control. That made it easy enough for me to get back here without further trouble. I simply reversed the lever, and back we came faster than I can describe, and just one hour and a half from the time of the mishap the runaway engine was restored to its deserted train, and I reached your station here in good order. I should have walked up but for my weariness after that exciting run, which as you see has left me very much out of breath, and which has made it necessary for me to hire that worn-out old hack, instead of walking up here as is my wont."

"Yes, I see you are out of breath," said Jack, as the Major paused. "Wouldn't you like to lie down and take a rest?"

"Above all things," said the Major. "I'll take a nap here until your papa returns, which he at once proceeded to do.

While he slept the two children gazed at him curiously, Mollie a little suspiciously.

"Jack," said she in a whisper, "do you think that was a true story?"

"Well, I don't know," said Jack. "If any body else than the Major had told it, I wouldn't have believed it. But he hates untruth. I know because he told me so."

"That's the way I feel about it" said Mollie. "Of course he can run as fast as that because he is very strong, but what I can't see is how an engine ever could run away from its train."

"That's what stumps me," said Jack.

---

A DUGOUT HOME IN THE SOUTHWEST.

Into the face of one of the low vertical earth walls of the broken land, the homemaker cuts a hole as the Yankee farmer digs a cellar for a hillside barn. Though rarely larger than ten by fourteen feet on the bottom, these cellar-like holes are sometimes twelve by eighteen, with the depth of the hole as much as five or six feet, and sometimes eighteen by fifteen large, with the long way of the hole lying along the front of the natural earth wall.

The digging completed, trees are cut to furnish logs for building up the front of the home, and for use as rafters placed a foot or so apart over the top. The limbs of the trees, with some grass from a moist place, if any can be found, are used to make a rude thatch over the rafters, and then the sods, cut out and carefully saved when the hole was dug, are placed on top of the thatch, while the earth from the hole is heaped on top of all into a grave-shaped mound. A blanket is hung in the doorway, or the cotton from the wagon-hoops will serve, and there is the dugout home as cosey as the home of a prairie-dog or wood-chuck.—John R. Spears, in Scribners.

---

In the summer perhaps we can turn the big postage stamps wrong side up and use them for fly paper.—Washington Star.

BICYCLES ARE BEST.

Their tires are guaranteed against puncture.

Can you ask more?

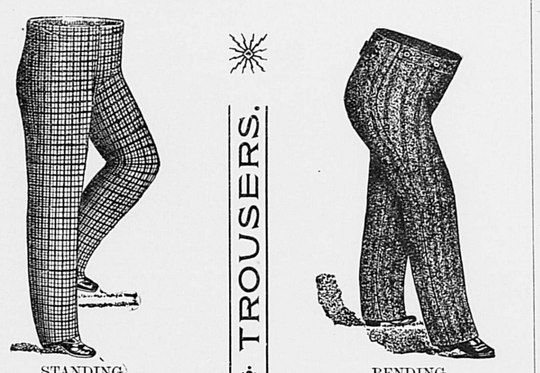
Prices from $110 to $150.

Catalogues free.

CHANDLER BROS.,

AGENTS FOR THE TOWN OF PALMER.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.



No matter in what position you place yourself, DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers

AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,

And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR.

BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

GREAT SPEAR HEAD CONTEST.

CHEW SPEAR HEAD AND SAVE THE TAGS.

THE P. J. SORG CO.

One Hundred and Seventy-Three Thousand Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, $173,250.00

In valuable Presents to be Given Away in Return for

SPEAR HEAD TAGS.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1,155 | STEM WINDING ELGIN GOLD WATCHES | $34,650 00 |
| 5,775 | FINE IMPORTED FRENCH OPERA GLASSES, MOROCCO BODY, BLACK ENAMEL TRIMMINGS, GUARANTEED ACHROMATIC | 28,875 00 |
| 23,100 | IMPORTED GERMAN BUCKHORN HANDLE, FOUR BLADED POCKET KNIVES | 23,100 00 |
| 115,500 | ROLLED GOLD WATCH CHARM ROTARY TELESCOPE TOOTH PICKS | 57,750 00 |
| 115,500 | LARGE PICTURES (18x28 inches) IN ELEVEN COLORS, for framing, no advertising on them | 28,875 00 |
| 261,030 | PRIZES, AMOUNTING TO | $173,250 00 |

The above articles will be distributed, by counties, among parties who chew SPEAR HEAD Plug Tobacco, and return to us the TIN TAGS taken therefrom.

We will distribute 226 of these prizes in this county as follows:

To THE PARTY sending us the greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS from this county we will give.....1 GOLD WATCH.

To the FIVE PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each, 1 OPERA GLASS....5 OPERA GLASSES.

To the TWENTY PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 POCKET KNIFE.....20 POCKET KNIVES.

To the ONE HUNDRED PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 ROLLED GOLD WATCH CHARM TOOTH PICK.....100 TOOTH PICKS.

To the ONE HUNDRED PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 LARGE PICTURE IN ELEVEN COLORS.....100 PICTURES.

Total Number of Prizes for this County, 226.

CAUTION.—No Tags will be received before January 1st, 1894, nor after February 1st, 1894. Each package containing tags must be marked plainly with Name of Sender, Town, County, State, and Number of Tags in each package. All charges on packages must be prepaid.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

DON'T SEND ANY TAGS BEFORE JANUARY I, 1894.

WON'T YOU NEED US DURING THE SPRING?

—: WE HAVE :—

Every Thing to Sit on

Lounge on—Sleep on—Walk on—Stand on—Hang on—Cool

ALL THINGS

For convenience, comfort, adornment or necessity in the home or home furnishing.

SETS.

In this line it is timely to look at parlor, library, chamber, dining-room sets.

We have them in all makes, woods, styles and finish. The splendid in looks and are built to stand a life of service and moving. You can afford them at our prices and on our liberal terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

E. A. BUCK & CO., ∴ BICYCLES.

| | |
|---|---|
| The Rambler, Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Cleveland, Ladies and Gents, | $160 |
| Warwick, | $150 |
| Road King, | $150 |
| New Mail, | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, | $115 |
| Duke, | $100 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $40 |

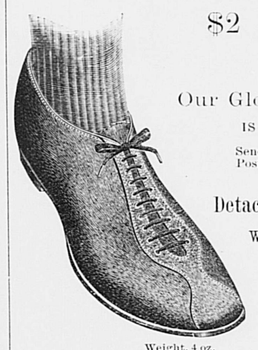
$2 Scorcher Shoe!

Why wear brogans?
You want light wheels.
Why not light shoes?

Our Glove Fitting Dongola Shoe

IS STYLISH, NEAT, COMFORTABLE.

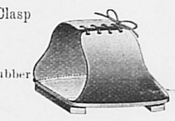
Send money and size of foot. Postage free.



Detachable Cleat and Shoe Protector,

With Automatic Sole Clasp

Detached instantly. For rat-trap and rubber pedals.



Weight, 4 oz.

E. A. BUCK & CO., - PALMER, MASS.

THE BEST BICYCLES ON EARTH are COLUMBIAS.

SEE THE GUARANTEE MADE ON THEIR TIRES.

FROM $110 TO $150.

SOLD BY

CHANDLER BROS.,

PALMER.

GO TO A NEW PLACE THIS SUMMER.

And have the JOURNAL help you find it. Write, stating the kind of place you desire and the price you wish to pay, and about the section you think you would like to visit. The suggestions will come by return mail. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

JUNE IN THE ALLEGHANEY AND VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Alleghany Springs, | Staunton, |
| Blue Ridge Springs, | Variety Springs, |
| Buffalo Lithia Springs, | Stribling Springs, |
| Charlottesville, | Sweet Chalybeate Springs, |
| Graham, | Hot, Warm, and Healing Springs, |
| Luray Caves, | Yellow Sulphur Springs. |
| Max Meadows, | WEST VIRGINIA. |
| Natural Bridge, | Aurora, |
| Rockbridge Alum Springs, | Berkeley Springs, |
| Rock Enon Springs, | Red Sulphur Springs, |
| Shawsville, | Salt Sulphur Springs, |
| | Sweet Springs, |
| | White Sulphur Springs, |

Printed matter describing any of these resorts may be had free by mail, by special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, Clinton Hall, N. Y., by addressing the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R.

SOUTHERN DIVISION
(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)
CORRECTED TO MARCH 26, 1893.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.18 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 6.55 a. m.

RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.

FOR Worcester—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.25, 4.45, 6.25 p. m.

FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook -6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.

FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43, 7.52 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.

FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.52 p. m.

THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

FLYNT

Building and Construction Co.

GENERAL OFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

We contract to perform all labor, and furnish all material of the different classes, required to build complete.

CHURCHES, HOTELS, MILLS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND RESIDENCES.

Also for the construction of

RAILROADS, DAMS AND BRIDGES.

We solicit correspondence with those wishing place the construction of any proposed new work under one contract, which shall include all branches connected with the work.

To such parties we will furnish satisfactory references from those for whom we have performed similar work.

GRANOLITHIC.

We are the New England Agents for Stewart & Co's. Patent Granolithic for sidewalks, floors, steps, etc.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILROAD.

NEW LONDON DIVISION.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3d, 1892.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Leave Brattleboro, 5.45 and 10.25 a m and 4.25 p m for New London, connecting at Millers Falls with Fitchburg R R, at Belchertown with Central Massachusetts R R, and at Palmer for Worcester Boston, Springfield, etc.
Leave Amherst, 7.05 a m, 12.14 and 5.53 p m.
Leave Palmer, 6.40 and 8.40 a m, 1.55 and 7.10 p m.
Leave Willimantic for New London, 8.00, 10.17 a m 3.25, 6.35 and 8.45 p m.

GOING NORTH.

Leave New London, 5.25 and 7.45 a m, 2.30 and 5.20 p m.
The 5.25 and 7.45 a m and 5.20 p m run through to Brattleboro and make connections for the north.
Leave New London for Palmer, 2.30 p m.
Leave New London for Willimantic and intermediate stations, 10.05 a m.
Leave Palmer for Brattleboro, 8.35, 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m, the 11.00 connecting with express for Montreal and the White Mountains. Also Grand Trunk R. R. for the West.
Leave Palmer for Amherst, 8.35 and 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m.

D. MACKENZIE, Supt.,
New London, Ct.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, PALMER, MASS.

Hours from 9 a. m. to 12½ m., 1 to 3 p. m.

JAMES B. SHAW, President.

ENOS CALKINS of Palmer,
GEORGE MOORES of Thorndike, } Vice Presidents.
T. D. POTTER of Springfield,

W. W. LEACH, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Enos Calkins, | R. C. Newell, |
| James B. Shaw, | F. F. Marcy, |
| Geo. Moores, | H. Wald, |
| H. G. Loomis, | W. W. Leach, |
| T. D. Potter, | C. H. Hobbs, |
| H. P. Holden, | C. E. Getchell, |
| E. G. Hastings, | Geo. E. Buck, |
| C. L. Gardiner, | A. L. Hills, |
| | Wm. Holbrook. |

BOARD OF INVESTMENT.

Enos Calkins, T. D. Potter James B Shaw,
Geo. Moores, H. G. Loomis, E. G. Hastings,
C. E. Getchell.

AUDITORS.

C. H. Hobbs, A. L. Hills.

H. W. McGREGORY, Treasurer.

World's Fair.

Printed matter describing the Fair, and full printed information as to reaching Chicago from your home, including the time-tables of the railroads and sailings of the steamers you would use, may be had FREE by arrangment with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, if you address

THE JOURNAL,
Palmer, Mass.

The Palmer Journal.

LUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 19, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 7.

IED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

S OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. unt of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. nths, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single , 5 cents.

ERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines s type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent ion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $10; one-inch one week, 75 cents; each additional , 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," Let," etc , 10 cents per line, cash: no charge than 30 cents. Notices in local column, 15 s per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

OB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best es, promptly and at reasonable rates.

. B. FISKE. L. E. CHANDLER.

Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m..

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street.
H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street.
G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

A Friend

Wishes to speak through the Register of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of AYER'S PILLS. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills."—Boothbay (Me.) Register.

In Need

"Between the ages of five and fifteen I was troubled with a kind of salt rheum, or eruption, chiefly confined to the legs, and especially to the bend of the knee above the calf. Here running sores formed which would scab over, but would break immediately on moving the leg. My mother tried everything she could think of, but all was without avail. Although a child, I read in the papers about the beneficial effects of Ayer's Pills, and persuaded my mother to let me try them. With no great faith in the result, she procured and I began to use them, and soon noticed an improvement. Encouraged by this, I kept on till I took two boxes, when the sores disappeared and have never troubled me since."—H. Chipman, Real Estate Agent, Roanoke, Va.

Ayer's Pills

"I suffered for years from stomach and kidney troubles, causing very severe pains in various parts of the body. None of the remedies I tried afforded me any relief until I began taking Ayer's Pills, and was cured." —Wm. Goddard, Notary Public, Five Lakes, Mich.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowe'l, Mass.
Sold by Druggists Everywhere.

Every Dose Effective.

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POILSH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT'S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LEGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.
WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,

NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

D. W. FOSKETT,

Grain Dealer

FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!

THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance H." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.

MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.

YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.
DRY GOODS,
CARPETS,
GROCERIES,
SHOES.
LARGE STOCK. LOW PRICES.

INGRAIN CARPETS, 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, 75.
Floor oil cloths, 25 to 60c square yard.
Oil cloth mats for stoves.
Zinc binding for oil cloth carpets.
Smyrna rugs, door mats.
Carpet linings, Straw mattings.

DRAPERY POLES, BRASS RODS.
Curtains 25 to 65c, plain and fringed.

PRINT REMNANTS, 6c. GINGHAM REMNANTS, 8c.

BROWN, TAN, GRAY AND DRAB DRESS GOODS, 12½c to $1.00 per yard.
Cambrics,
Silicias,
Crinolene canvas.
Percalines,
Braids,
Spool silk,
Twist,
Whalebone,
Dress shields,
Hooks and eyes.

LADIES' BLACK HOSE, 10, 15, 25, 29 and 50c.
Ladies' tan and drab hose, 19 and 20c.
Children's black hose 10 to 20c.
Men's cotton hose, 3 pairs for 25c.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT.
MAPLE SYRUP.
100 gallons just coming in from the beautif Deerfield Valley.
Extra heavy, pure, fine flavor. Better put in your year's stock. $1.00 gallon cans.

TWO BARRELS COOKING MOLASSES, 29c gallon. Just in
One hogshead strictly fancy molasses just in.

COFFEES—FRESH ROASTED EVERY WEEK.
Chase & Sanborn's Old Government Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Old Homestead Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Crushed Coffee.
Chase & Sanborn's "Red Seal" Mocha and Java—2 lb. cans. This is the World's Fair Coffee.
Sleeper's Old Government Java.
Spurr's "Revere." This is a rich, smooth—drinking coffee. 500 lbs. just received. Try it.
Heywood Breakfast Coffee—10c pound packages.
Rio Coffee.
Mocha Coffee.

TEAS.
We are headquarters.
All grades.
29c to $1.00 per pound.
Try our 50c and 60c Black Tea.

MORE OF THOSE NICE BOSTON CRACKERS, 4 lbs. for 25c. Just in.

KENNEDY'S OCEAN SPRAY, SALT AND PLAIN.
Kennedy's Grandmother's Cookies.

MORGAN'S SAPOLIO, 10c.
Bon-Ami, 10c.
Kleenaline, 5c.
Grandpa's Wonder Soap.
Castile Soap, white and mottled.
Everything in soaps and soap Powders.

SALT MACKEREL, SALT HERRING.
Genuine Oregon Salmon.
Salmon Trout. Boneless Cod, 3 lb. boxes.

BELLS' POULTRY DRESSING.
Slade's Spices,
Puddine,
Nonesuch Mince Meat,
New England Mince Meat.

CANNED PEACHES, PLUMS, CHERRIES, PEARS, APRICOTS.
These are the Golden Gate goods.

BUTTER—BELCHERTOWN CREAMERY.
Butter—Brimfield, Wilbraham, Monson Dairies, Fresh every day.

LARD.
Squire's pure lard in bulk.
Naphey's gold brand in pails.
Cottolene in pails and tubs.

POTATOES, BERMUDA ONIONS, ORANGES, LEMONS, BANANAS, JUST RECEIVED.

WASH TUBS.—INDURATED FIBRE.
Water pairs—Indurated fibre.

EVAPORATED FRUIT—APPLES, PEACHES, APRICOTS.

RAISINS. 3 LBS. FOR 25 CENTS.

CIGARS.
Winthrop.
Winthrop Ponies.
A. & N. Genuine 10c.
A. & N. Rose 5c.
Whitcomb's U. S. A. and Hand-made.
W. E. S.
Pennant.
Cigarettes and Tobacco.

LARGEST STOCK of goods we ever had. Will give you good service. Try us.
W. E. STONE, Palmer, Mass.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE
—IS WHAT—
You Want to Cure that COUGH
Or that bad feeling in your throat.
TRY IT—for it will please you.
CALL FOR IT at
ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

Written for the PALMER JOURNAL.

The Catbird.

At noon I lie among the bushes
Where the Quaboag quiet flows;
Not to hear the hermit thrushes,
Nor the bullfrog's piping throes,
But the catbird coyly calling,
Singing sweetly at her ease,
Softly as the shower that falling
Cools the blossoms on the trees.

O thou crafty catbird, cunning,
While the many look on thee
As a bird still bent on funning,
Making mischief in the tree,
You among the bending bushes,
With the rain upon thy wing,
Sing far sweeter than the thrushes
That do nothing else but sing.

You are classed as being clever,
Many a part you slyly fill,
But sweeter, rarer music never
Poured from any birdie's bill,
Than the low, melodious measure
That I lately heard you sing,
Not so much for thy own pleasure
As a joke on me to spring.

I had thought thee but a mocker,
One that jabbered like the jay,
A bird whose business 'twas to shock her
Tuneful neighbors all the day;
And lo! Your music seems to borrow
From all dulcet melodies,
Little tender notes of sorrow,
Plaintive pipings sure to please.

More:—While I thy song admiring,
Hidden in the covert lie,
I find your nature is retiring,
That while singing you are shy.
On the twig at ease you twitter,
Unaware that I am here,
Enamored of a music fitter
For a rarer, finer ear.

Thus, O catbird, you deceive,
And deceived I do not moan,
Though when you cease to sing you leave me
Like a lover here alone.
O that fortune would deliver
Me from toil and leave me free,
That I might rest beside the river
And listen all day long to thee.

MOSES TEGGART.

May 4, '93.

ONE CLERGYMAN AND ONE SUBURBAN SERVING-MAID.

Let no man cut these leaves, and no woman pass them uncut by, because of a misapprehension awakened by the title of the article; for be it known, the clergyman—Mr. Edward V. Angel—and the maid—Annie Sistant—never saw each other.

And yet fate brought those two into one trouble in a curious, almost an absurd way; and the same trouble came within one vote of severing pastoral relations between—

But I anticipate.

Bluff Heights—so called because it is level prairie—is one of the prettiest, though not most fashionable, suburbs of Milcago—far prettier than any belonging to the rival city of Chicwaukie—and can be reached, when the roads are dry, by a lovely drive; for, the moment you leave the shore of Lake Michigan and turn inland, the road runs quite level all the way.

Pedestrian enthusiasts have even walked the distance on a summer Sunday morning, arriving before the beginning of Mr. Angel's highly-prized sermon, and before the heat was oppressive; but of course the main access is by the N. E. & S. W. R. R., as many times a day, almost, as there are odd minutes; it being against good railway ethics to arrive at even hours or the larger subdivisions of an hour.

Trouble arose in the principal church of Bluff Heights through the utterance by its pastor—until then, its beloved pastor—of three words; just three, and monosyllables at that. They were not profane, in the Bible sense, nor scandal words—when he uttered them; nor where they ribald, at least in the meaning which the world generally applies to that adjective. They were not personally offensive—not meant to be so; nor were they words of vanity, though they led to vexation of spirit. They were good dictionary words, used in a manner grammatical though somewhat colloquial.

They were—But again I anticipate.

Mrs. Casanova was always glad to see Mr. Angel come whirling his little cane and striding along the plank walk that led past her front gate, because he might possibly be going to click the latch, open the gate, crunch with his footsteps the gravel in the path, fly up the steps at two skips, and touch the electric button, while she did the rest; that is, give a look in the glass, pull out her curly bangs, and see that her face, hands, collar and cuffs had no smoke-blacks upon them; all while the "second girl" was answering the bell. When he did not click the latch, et cetera, she went back to her reading or sewing or crochet, or what not, with proper resignation; but when he did she was radiant; for Mr. Angel was "very good form." He had come from "East," and knew the "best people," and showed his good breeding in every work and look; and, if you didn't mind his urgency as to church and Sunday school and poor-sisterhood things and all, that you got along with him very well, no matter if he was a little forgetful of the proper class distinctions. A great many of the very high-born people do have those fads, you know; they seem to be almost sick and tired of aristocracy. Think of it!

This very morning of all others, she wanted him to click the latch, et cetera; and he did it! She did all the rest in due order, except that for reasons soon to be told, he had touch the button twice, and then she opened the door herself.

"Oh, Mr. Angel, I am so glad to see you! It really seems like a special interposition; just when I need all the consolations of religion—every one!"

Mr. Angel laid his hat on the hall table, balanced his stick across it, and followed his welcoming hostess into the parlor with that quiet smile that seemed a part of his nature—a smile that might mean: "I have studied, toiled, lived to administer these consolations," or to a deeper insight might mean: "I observe that those consolations are often sought for just when the speaker is least deserving of them."

"You know, Mr. Angel, I told you about that treasure of a girl I had—Annie Sistant; so faithful, so cheerful, so intelligent, so industrious—above all, so obedient and respectful. Well, she's gone!"

His smile faded and his eyebrows rose in sympathetic surprise.

"Yes, gone! And you knowhow dreadfully heart-rending the servant-girl question is in these suburban places!"

He nodded gently, slowly and repeatedly; for he knew it but too well. She continued:

"It is perfectly outrageous; and I will tell you how it was. I went to town on the nine-six—no, I think I missed that through stopping for the mail and calling at the wretched meat market where they never have anything but a liver, the hock of a ham, fourteen old lamb-chops, and a part of a box of tomatoes brought from town a week or two ago—and so I was late, and took the nine-forty-seven. At any rate I was so late that I could not get through my shopping, and was forced to drop into Meadow's tea-room and get a cup of tea and a piece of custard pie and some macaroons and candy, and then, instead of getting back on the one-twenty-nine, I never got home until the three-thirteen; and as I came along, what do you think? I heard the piano going! Still I did not suspect anything—thought perhaps your wife had dropped in and was being so very kind as to sit down and wait for me, knowing that I was almost sure to come by that train, since the four-twelve had stopped stopping. But it wasn't Mrs. Angel—no indeed. You'll never guess! It was that girl Annie—done up her work, dusted the piano, and sat down to play on it!"

She took breath and looked at him, not at all surprised at his being struck speechless. Then she continued:

"She jumped up when she heard me, and turned as red as a boiled beet. I just said: 'Go and pack up your things and leave this house!' And she did—quick enough, I tell you! A servant playing on my piano!"

Then Mr. Angel, whether thoughtless or absent-minded or actually insane, uttered the three memorable words:

"Well, why not?"

It is needless to detail the rest of the interview; there being, in fact, very little more to tell. What could be said after such a break as that! Consolations of religion indeed!

Mrs. Casanova was perfectly bursting with the news when her husband came home; and perhaps there never was a worse quarter of an hour for him than that at the beginning of which he laughed at the hidecus story. The cook set the table, cooked the dinner, served it, waited on the table, cleared it off, washed the dishes, and made ready for next morning's breakfast; and, when she had gone to bed, tired out, had to get up and take off the pillow-shams and turn down the bed in her mistress' room. And all the while she was wondering at the gloomy silence that prevailed and the extraordinarily long time poor Casanova took to read his paper that night.

But, the next day, the news had got all over town. "Well, why not?" This was a revolutionary utterance that could not be suppressed. It really reminds one of Ravachol! Every wife stormed, and every husband laughed—except some old ones who had learned discretion by experience. "When anyone hires a servant, they expect them to know their place." (Inter arma silet grammar.)

Mrs. Casanova had the sympathy of everybody, of course. "I believe," said she, "that she did it a-purpose, because she knew how hard it is to get a girl to work out here! I s'pose she thought I'd overlook it! But she don't know me! I'll work my fingers to the bone first!" This was a slip of the tongue, probably; Mrs. Casanova must have meant the cook's fingers, as that person was at that identical instant catching a moment to make the beds and sweep and dust as well as she could while running down one pair of stairs every five minutes to see that the bread didn't burn.

"Suppose it should get round among the servants that you'd let your hired girl play on your piano, Mrs. Casanova; where would the rest of us, be?" asked Mrs. Venue.

"Down cellar, I expect, while the help was upstairs," interposed Mrs. Peter Nobscot, who was vaguely said to hail from New England.

"They'll be fetching their work up next, to sit and sew in the rocker on the stoop," exclaimed Mrs. Dutcher, from the Hudson.

"And what do you say Mr. Angel said:
Mrs. Casanova repeated the sad tale.
"Not 'Well, why not?' you don't mean?"
Alas, it was too true!

The regular weekly afternoon tea for married women chanced to be on that very day, and the doings were there pretty thoroughly settled; for "emancipated women," having achieved absolute individual freedom of thought and action, were not very likely to allow the entertaining by one woman of opinions not entertained by the others! Such persons as began to ask questions as to what, after all, ought to be one woman's treatment of another, and that other a servant, were reasoned with politely but firmly, and made to see that the true best interests of a servant required that "they should" be forced to know "their" place and keep it. "Contented with that station of life to which it pleased God to call them." Discontent must be put down—by the strong hand, if necessary. "Servants, obey your masters," was part of Holy Writ, and a part that might be disregarded, perhaps, by poor ignorant menials; but if any "lady" should try to dodge around it on grounds of new-fangled pretended philanthropy, she would show herself a heretic, if not a blasphemer, and would very soon find out where she would stand in "society."

"Why, when I was home I knew a lady—at least, she called herself such—that had a hired girl that she ate to sit in her pew in church, and she was heard to call her 'my dear'; and what do you think transpired? Why, that lady wasn't called upon nor invited! And when she made a call on a lady, no matter if they was home, she got 'not at home' right flat! She jest had to leave! Good riddance, too!"

This settled it, and the ladies—real ladies, every one of them—were all of one mind at parting, or at least of one voice.

Old Mrs. Venue, who husband had made a million by cutting up his 640-acre farm into Bluff Heights town lots, and who was therefore creme de la creme, said to her spouse—courting slumber, he was, at the time; "Why, par"—she always called old Venue "par"—"fust thing ye know, them servants 'll be a-puttin' on more airs th'n a two-year-old steer! Actin' jist 's if they wuz jist 's good as we be!"

"Par" knew too much to laugh; he only said: "Oh, shet up, ye ole fool!" And the peace of the nuptial couch was unbroken till early dawn, as far as articulate utterance was concerned.

All homes were homes of anger except one, and that covered only sadness. It was the Angel's.

"Oh, Edward! how could you? Just when we were so nicely settled! And I feel as if I couldn't move just now, dear—not before January!"

Angel laid down his paper, for he was a polite man, and he looked at his young helpmate with a sad quite smile; but he did not say, "Well, why not?" to her. because he knew.

"Couldn't you go to Mrs. Casanova, dear, and say you only meant 'Well, why not get another girl,' only she cut you off before you had finished?"

The minister shook his head with the old enigmatical smile; which, as his wife knew—and she alone—indicated an unspoken reference to the eleventh commandment, "Thou shalt not lie."

"I believe they will get up a church meeting to consider your conduct."

"Well, why not?"

Sunday arrived, and a reporter came out from town to "corral a few items about this ruction that Rev. Angel," as he called him, had stirred up. He called on "Rev." Angel, who didn't seem to "catch on to the snap of getting a boom and a free ad by whoopin' it up on these ducks who were tryin' to make it hot for him." Still, when the purveyor of fame wanted a look at the dis-course about to be slung at 'em, so that he could take the eleven-eleven back to town and get his few stickfuls of slush into the paper in good time, Angel good-naturedly consented, saying:

"Well, why not?"

Before service, a deacon or vestryman or elder or trustee, or whatever the church dignitary may have been, came up to the pulpit stairs, watched by curious eyes, and told Angel that the requisite number of members had signed and presented a request that a meeting should be called to inquire into certain grievances alleged against him, and that he had ordered the meeting, and asked that the usual notice be read among the other notices after the sermon.

"Well, why not?" assented the pastor, in a visible and audible whisper.

And the other squeezed his hand with a reassuring smile.

But, in the minister's pew, there were no smiles that day—tears, rather; either shed or so nearly shed as to be visible from the pulpit, all through the fine discourse on the need the world has, not for almsgiving, but for brotherhood—and sisterhood. Luckily I have the reporter's synopsis of it:

Gifts of goods were all very well in their place, and their place was in those rare cases where they did not tend to pauperize the receiver and give a false self-satisfaction to the giver, quieting his conscience as laudanum quiets pain without removing its cause. Gift of self, of heart and soul, of sympathy and encouragement, was the only safe outlet for the promptings of our religion and our better nature.

What does "do as you would be done by" mean? Does it mean anything? Does it mean that when one asks bread we shall give him a stone, merely because to part with the stone is easiest and lessens most our load of obligation?

As a general rule in ethics, that which is easiest to do is least worth doing. One may say over an Ave or a Paternoster so often that at last it doesn't interfere with thought, fancy, action, emotion, or even sleep; but our blessed Promises do no promise answers to such petition. There are nations where the pious votaries write their prayers on bits of paper and put them, by the hundred, into a calabash which they afterward turn over and over in order that the prayers may present themselves successively to heaven, even going so far as to connect them with a water-wheel that they may turn themselves! Do we laugh at this? What right have we to do so, when we try to make our acts of faith and duty of the least possible trouble to ourselves? When we desire to lull our consciences and please our self-conceit by a benevolent act, do we ask "what would be best for him or her?"

Do as you would be done by. Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you. But do not confuse and confound the two forms of the precious precept by making it read: "Do unto others as ye would that others should be done by."

Finally, what would be the conduct toward our humbler equals—man, woman, and child—of our great Exemplar?

Et cetera.

After service, the same friendly church dignitary walked home with Mr. and Mrs. Angel and talked cheerily of everything except the pending trouble, until they parted at the gate, when he said, with a troubled air and apropos of nothing:

"Ye see, Brother Angel, they're afraid that the piano would be only the entertaining wedge, as ye might say; and the next thing might be books out of the library, yesterday's paper, afternoon company, evening walk along the water-side, the sewing machine, the—the—the bathtub, maybe!"

"Well, why not?"

Again the other squeezed his hand, then departed.

The fateful evening arrived; the meeting convened—the pastor in the chair, as the church regulations required. The case was stated, and a resolution of censure offered and debated.

One shrewd sister, knowing the foolishness of the young workers of the church, who had been drawn into sundry schemes that seemed almost socialistic in their leveling tendencies, moved that only married people should vote on the resolution, and the motion was carried. Then the friendly old church dignitary before mentioned moved that the vote should be by secret ballot, yea or nay; and this was also carried.

The voting, then restricted, was confined to sixty people—thirty couples, including the minister and his wife. Sixty blank bits of paper were distributed, and pencils borrowed, until the ballots were all ready and the boxes being passed around to collect them. Angel had received enough handshakes and glances from the male members of his flock to let him know that he had at least a few friends, and he wondered what was before him.

Something he did not expect.

The chairman announced the vote: "Twenty-nine yeas and twenty-nine nays. It takes a majority to prevail, and the resolution is lost." Every woman had voted yea, and every man nay!

A shout went up from the excluded element, the young women and young men, "helpers" and "workers" and "brothers" and "sisters" of this and that friendly adjunct to the pastorate. It was unusual, perhaps irreverent—certainly irrepressible. Then one of the young parliamentarians moved that, the vote of censure having failed, a vote of confidence be offered; and, as the chair was an interested party, and so might not choose to put the question, he would do it himself. All in favor of the expression of confidence in the pastor should make it manifest by saying Aye.

And the words were scarcely out of his mouth before the roof rang with Ayes.

Contrary, No.

Not a voice was heard.

Just as the silence was becoming oppressive, it was broken by another storm of applause.

Mr. Angel rose to speak; when he had obtained the attention of the enthusiasts, he said:

"Well, why not?"—Joseph Kirkland.

HAVE FAITH IN BOYS.

Somewhat more than fifty years ago I was appointed a midshipman in the navy and sent to New York. I was only fourteen years old, and being of a delicate nature and small stature, did not look more than eleven. My previous life had been spent in the country, and I know nothing of city ways or business proceedings. Pay-day was the 30th of the month, but I wanted some money on the 20th, and passing through Wall street I went into a broker's office, and said:

"You lend money here, do you not?"

"Yes."

"I want to borrow $20 for ten days," I said.

I did not then understand the quizzical manner with which the broker looked at me for a few moments before replying:

"You shall have it, and I won't charge you interest, either."

He gave me the money and I signed the receipt; and, I need not add, the $20 were promptly returned at the expiration of ten days. I am sorry that I have forgotten the name of the broker. I mentioned the incident many years afterward to a gentleman who said it was the most extraordinary story he had ever heard of a Wall street broker, of all men.

I would rather have a bare coffin without a flower, and a funeral without a eulogy, than a life without the sweetness of love and sympathy. Let us learn to anoint our friends beforehand for their burial. Post-mortem kindness does not cheer the burdened spirit. Flowers on the coffin cast no fragrance backward over the weary days. —Henry Ward Beecher.

The Quiet House.

O, mothers, worn and weary
With cares which never cease,
With never time for pleasure,
With days that have no peace,
With little hands to hinder
And feeble steps to guard,
With tasks that lie unfinished,
Deem not your lot too hard.

I know a house where childish things
Are hidden out of sight;
Where never sound of little feet
Is heard from morn till night;
No tiny hands that fast undo,
That pull things all awry,
No baby hurts to pity
As the quiet days go by.

The house is all in order
And free from tiresome noise,
No moments of confusion,
No scattered, broken toys;
And the children's little garments
Are never soiled or torn,
But are laid away forever
Just as they were last worn.

And she, the sad-eyed mother—
What would she give to-day
To feel your cares and burdens,
To walk your weary way!
Ah! happiest on all this earth.
Could she again but see
The rooms all strewn with playthings,
And the children 'round her knee.

—Alma Pendexter Hayden.

GOING HOME.

A rich man who had almost forgotten his old father and mother tells how he came to make them a visit:

"How I came to visit my home happened in a curious way. Six weeks ago I went down to Fire Island, fishing. I had had a lunch put up for me, and you can imagine my astonishment when I opened the hamper to find a package of crackers wrapped up in a piece of the little patent inside country weekly published at my home in Wisconsin. I read every word of it, advertisements and all. There was George Kellogg, who was a schoolmate of mine, advertising hams and salt pork, and another boy was postmaster. By George! It made me homesick, and I determined then and there to go home, and go home I did.

"In the first place I must tell you how I came to New York. I had a tiff with my father and left home. I finally turned up in New York with a dollar in my pocket. I got a job running a freight elevator in the very house in which I am now a partner. My haste to get rich drove the thought of my parents from me, and when I did think of them, the hard words that my father last spoke to me rankled in my bosom. Well, I went home. I tell you, John, my train seemed to creep, I was actually worse than a schoolboy going home for vacation. At last we neared the town. Familiar sights met my eyes, and upon my word, they filled with tears. There was Bill Lyman's red barn just the same; but—great Scott! where were all of the other houses? We rode nearly a mile before coming to the station, passing many houses of which only an occasional one was familiar. The town had grown to ten times its size when I knew it. The train stopped, and I jumped off. Not a face in sight I knew, and I started down the platform to go home. In the office door stood the station agent. I walked up and said: 'Howdy, Mr. Collins?'

"He stared at me and replied; 'You've got the best of me, sir.'

"I told him who I was and what I had been doing in New York, and he didn't make any bones in talking to me. Said he: 'It's about time you came home. You in New York rich, and your father scratching gravel to get a bare living.'

"I tell you, John, it knocked me all in a heap. I thought my father had enough to live on comfortably. Then a notion struck me. Before going home I telegraphed to Chicago to one of our correspondents there to send me a thousand dollars by first mail. Then I went into Mr. Collins' back office, got my trunk in there, and put on an old hand me-down suit I used for fishing and hunting. My plug hat I replaced by a soft one, took my valise in my hand and went home. Somehow the place didn't look right. The currant bushes had been dug up from the front yard, and the fence was gone. All the old locust trees had been cut down and young maple trees were planted. The house looked smaller, somehow, too. But I went up to the front door and rang the bell. Mother came to the front door and said: 'We don't wish to buy anything to-day, sir.'

"It didn't take a minute to survey her from head to foot. Neatly dressed, John, but a patch and a darn here and there, her hair streaked with gray, her face thin, drawn and wrinkled. Yet over her eyeglasses shone those good, honest, benevolent eyes. I stood staring at her and then she began to stare at me. I saw the blood rush to her face, and with a great sob she threw herself upon me and nervously clasped me about the neck, hysterically crying: 'It's Jimmy! It's Jimmy!'

"Then I cried, too, John. I just broke down and cried like a baby. She got me into the house, hugging and kissing me, and then she went to the back door and shouted 'George!'

"Father called from the kitchen: 'What do you want, Car'line!'

"Then he came in. He knew me in a moment. He stuck out his hand and grasped mine, and said, sternly: 'Well, young man, do you propose to behave yourself now?'

"He tried to put on a brave front, but he broke down. There we three sat like whiped school children, all whimpering. At last supper time came and mother went out to prepare it. I went into the kitchen with her.

"'Where do you live, Jimmy?' she asked.

"'In New York,' I replied.

"'What are you wosking at now, Jimmy?'

"'I'm working in a dry goods store.'

"'Then I suppose you don't live very high, for I hear tell o' those city clerk swhat don't get money enough to keep body and soul together. So I'll just tell you, Jimmy, we've got nothing but roast spareribs for supper. We ain't got any money, now, Jimmy. We're poorer nor Job's turkey.'

"I told her I would be delighted with the spareribs, and, to tell the truth, John, I haven't eaten a meal in New York that tasted as good as those crisp roasted spareribs did. I spent the evening playing checkers with father, while mother sat by telling me all about their misfortunes, from old white Mooley getting drowned in the pond to father's signing a note for a friend and having to mortgage the place to pay it. The mortgage was due inside of a week and not a cent to meet it with—just $800. She supposed they would be turned out of house and home, but in my mind I supposed they wouldn't. At last 9 o'clock came and father said:

"'Jim, go out to the barn and see if Kit is all right. Bring in an armful of old shingles, that are just inside the door, and fill up the water pail. Then we'll go off to bed and get up early and go a-fishing.'"

"I didn't say a word, but I went out to the barn, bedded down the horse, broke up an armful of shingles, pumped up a pailful of water, filled the woodbox and then we all went to bed.

"Father called me at half-past four in the morning, and while he was getting breakfast I skipped over to the depot cross lots and got my best bass rod. Father took nothing but a trolling line and a spoon hook. He rowed the boat with the trolling line in his mouth, while I stood in the stern with a silver shiner rigged on. Now, John, I never saw a man catch fish as he did. To make a long story short he caught four bass and five pickerel, and I never got a bite.

"At noon we went ashore and father went home, while I went to the post office. I got a letter from Chicago with a check for one thousand dollars in it. With some trouble I got it cashed, getting paid in five-dollar and ten-dollar bills, making quite a roll. I then got a roast joint of beef and a lot of delicacies and had them sent home. After that I went visiting among my old schoolm

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 19, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.
To any one who is not now a subscriber to this paper, it will be sent three months on trial on receipt of 25 cents.

LOCAL NOTICES.

For sale.—Four second-hand carriages, all newly painted. O. C. MARCY.

PALMER NEWS.

Boundary Lines in Dispute.

It has generally been considered by those best versed in real estate matters in this village that the French property, so-called,—which formerly included the land now occupied by the memorial building, W. C. Dewey's house, the block of stores on Central street and the opera house block—included a narrow strip of land on the west side of Central street, about six feet wide on Pleasant street and running to a point nearly opposite the southern line of W. C. Dewey's house lot. Mr. French, of whom the land for the memorial building was purchased, considered that this was so, and not long ago gave the library association the right to the piece opposite the building, so that they could in a measure control building operations on the land beyond. But in view of later developments it seems that there is a question about any such strip, and it will very likely prove that none exists. The heirs of the late John Feeney have been looking up the bounds of the estate with a view to laying out the land on Central street into building lots. Previous to 1874, when Central street was laid out, there was a narrow lane running north from Main street at that point. Mr. Feeney owned this lane, subject to a right of way. When the street was laid out a part of his land was taken for the street, the balance being taken from the Major Morgan property on the other side, both being paid land damages by the town. The only original bound now remaining is the fence at the rear of Mrs. L. M. Shaw's lot fronting on Walnut street. By reference to the old deeds and measuring the distances given therein from this fence it brings the original line of the Feeney property on the outer edge of the sidewalk at Pleasant street, and about the middle of the walk opposite the southern end of Mrs. Shaw's line. A line drawn through these two points comes exactly to the corner of the Feeney building on Main street. When Walnut street was laid out 8½ feet were taken off the front of Mrs. Shaw's land for the street, and measurements on this basis bring the same result, so there is no probability that any one can control the right of way from Central street to the land of the Feeney estate opposite the memorial building.

The Facts About the Tuberculosis Story at the State Primary School.

A number of the daily papers this morning contained more or less sensational reports about tuberculosis among the cattle at the state primary school, some giving the impression that the present herd was affected, and that the milk of the animals was being used for food. The facts of the case are that about four months ago suspicions were aroused that tuberculosis existed among the animals, eight being suspected. Four of these were killed a number of weeks ago and two of them were found to be diseased, the other two proving to be perfectly healthy. In the herd were a number of cows which were too old to fatten with profit, and five of these, together with the four remaining original suspects, were sold to a supposedly perfectly reliable person, the suspected animals being pointed out to him and a strict promise exacted, before witnesses, that if they should prove diseased they were not to be sold for food or used for breeding purposes, but should be killed and used for manure. The price for the lot was made low, so that if any of the animals proved unfit for food the buyer could lose them and still not be out of pocket, thus having no temptation to sell them if they should prove to have the disease. This is the whole case as far as the state primary school is concerned; there is not an animal on the farm which is now suspected of having tuberculosis. It has been reported that the animals were all shipped to Brighton, but whether this is so or not, or if so whether any of them proved to have the disease, is not known. The comment has been made that the animals should not have been sold after being suspected, but in view of the strict promise exacted there was supposed to be no danger. The whole matter was laid before the trustees at their recent meeting, and the only comment made was that it was all right.

E. C. Butler has moved his family to Salem.

E. C. Gardner has a new wheel, a 30-pound Warwick.

G. W. Lyman has the contract to build a house at Warren.

Dr. William Holbrook is painting his residence on Main street.

A. L. Hills and wife left last Friday for a trip to the World's Fair.

Mrs. C. A. Royce has returned from a visit to her home in Vermont.

Thompson's Central street market is now lighted with electric lights.

G. E. Buck leaves next Monday for a fishing trip in the Adirondacks.

Charles S. Smith is taking a census of the school children of the town.

Thomas Blanchard is treating his Knox street house to a coat of paint.

Miss Ida Duplisses of Windsor, Vt., is visiting her parents in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Lawrence expect to start next week for the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Flynt are expected home from the World's Fair to-morrow.

W. R. Parks has returned from Hartford, where he has been spending the winter.

Mass will be at 9 o'clock next Sunday morning at St. Thomas's Catholic church.

Robinson & Taylor have bought of W. H. Brainerd a horse for their delivery wagon.

W. A. Fitzpatrick has left the employ of the Palmer and Monson Electric Company.

Miss Lewis of New London has been the guest of Miss Dora Chapman the past week.

A. H. Willis and Mrs. A. M. Smith are having their houses wired for electric lights.

W. W. Lloyd of North Grafton has bought the harness shop formerly run by C. L. Saunders.

The Juniors of Wilbraham Academy will have their class ride to Forest Lake Garden the 26th.

Mrs. Lizzie Rice has left Holden & Fuller's mill and is now engaged as housekeeper for Otis Rich.

J. P. Eastman now has charge of a large gang of men on the Boston and Albany road at Worcester.

In the Universalist church next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "Idleness vs. Industry."

Mrs. Maria Trumble suffered a paralytic shock Sunday evening, and is still in a critical condition.

G. W. Ely has the contract to furnish the poles for the electric company for the lines to the other villages.

D. B. Spaulding and wife of Stonington, Ct., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Gamwell the first of the week.

Dr. William Holbrook had three fingers on his left hand badly jammed Tuesday noon by a window falling on them.

The Taft & Fitch agency has paid M. J. Sullivan of Bondsville $1000 insurance on his recently burned buildings.

The shelves in the public library for the historical collection of Dr. Stowe have been finished by the carpenters.

Administration has been granted in the estate of Joseph W. Fitton, late of Palmer, J. W. Fitton administrator.

A young men's Bible class has been formed at the Congregational church, in charge of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Jenkins.

Superintendent of Schools Small has hired the A. E. Park house on Squier street, and will move his family to town in August.

Mr. Taylor, a brother-in-law of Martin Huggard, arrived Tuesday from England and has taken a position at the wire mill.

Enos Calkins and wife left to-day for New Haven, New Jersey, Chicago and Minneapolis, to be gone until about the first of July.

C. E. Fuller and W. W. Converse attended the exemplification of the three degrees of Odd Fellowship at Boston Tuesday evening.

An order of service has been prepared for use in St. Thomas's Catholic church, and is being printed for circulation among the church attendants.

Miss Dora Chapman has been ill for two weeks with the grippe, and her place in the store of S. H. Hellyar & Co. has been taken by Miss Hattie Paine.

W. H. Higgins, Jr., is the janitor at the passenger station, in place of M. J. Dawson, resigned to take a place as passenger brakeman on the Ware River road.

The Ladies' Social Union of St. Paul's Universalist church will hold its annual strawberry festival in the church next Wednesday evening, serving supper at 6.

The change of time announced for last Sunday on the Boston and Albany road has been postponed until the 28th, on account of the New York Central road not being ready.

A number of the young friends of Miss Anna Spaulding made her a surprise visit at her home on South Main street Monday evening, the occasion being her 15th birthday.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church is arranging for an entertainment next Friday evening in the vestry of the church, when a "Scotch Evening" will be presented.

A Worcester detective has been in town this week looking after a couple which had departed from that place. They had been here, but left some days before the arrival of the official.

A base ball league has been formed between the clubs of the Palmer, Ware and Warren high schools, and the Palmers will play the Warrens on the park here to-morrow afternoon.

The case of Leopold Desmarais of Three Rivers, for dispensing drugs and medicines without being under the supervision of a registered pharmacist, has been dismissed in the superior court.

The meat markets will commence next week to keep open until 9 o'clock evenings, with the exception of Tuesday and Thursday, when they will close at 6.30, with the other places of business.

C. A. Bogue has resigned his position in the store of C. D. Holbrook, and will go to Oakdale as station agent for the Boston and Maine road. His place here is filled by Edson Walker of Three Rivers.

R. B. Francis has the contract for the iron work for the new mill of Sayles & Jenks at Warren. Taking both wrought and cast iron there will be about 20 tons, and the contract amounts to something over $1000.

Only 101 dogs have been licensed, not half of the number in town. Owners of canines may find that neglect to attend to this matter will deprive them of a pet dog and subject them to a fine in the district court.

At the Baptist church next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "The Call of Christ to the Thirsty." The evening service will be one of praise, and the pastor will give the story of the hymns that are sung.

C. Julian Tuthill of Andover, whose home is in this place, has received a call to the Sayles Memorial church at Saylesville, R. I., at a salary of $1200, but has not yet given his decision, as there are several other places that want him.

Mrs. John Hennessey has traded her house at Tenneyville to William Dexter of Springfield for property in that place, and expects to move there about the first of June. Mr. Dexter will live here summers and in Springfield winters.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Baptist church held its monthly meeting Wednesday evening. A large number attended and a most excellent supper was served by Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Strong, Mrs, Wells and Mrs. Frost.

Rev. E. A. Perry of Fort Plain, N.Y., formerly pastor of the Universalist church here, will deliver the Memorial Day oration before the D. G. Farragut post of the G. A. R. at Gardner, Mass., in the forenoon of May 30th, and at Hubbardston in the afternoon.

There was a race on the park Tuesday afternoon between "Ironwood" and "Moxie," owned by H. P. Holden and Thomas Blanchard, to decide a dispute of long standing as to the speed of the animals. Three straight heats were won by "Ironwood."

Rev. C. B. Lynn of Boston, assistant secretary of the Universalist State Convention, preached an interesting sermon to young men in the Universalist church last Sunday evening, taking for his text "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation."

Miss Johnson and niece of Boston, on the way to their summer home in Montgomery by carriage, were guests of the Converse House Tuesday night. They have stopped at the house twice a year for several years, in the spring on their way to the hills and in the fall on their return to the Hub.

A horse belonging to S. Brown, the truckman, suddenly sank the length of its legs in the soil of School street Wednesday morning, and was taken out with considerable difficulty. The trouble was occasioned by the rain of the night before softening the earth in a newly-filled water pipe ditch.

There was a lively row on the lower end of Walnut street late Monday night which greatly disturbed the peace of residents in that locality. It is reported that there were several black eyes the next morning in consequence. Three offenders were brought into court yesterday and paid $5 each for their fun.

Trains from the west have been greatly delayed for a few days on account of the heavy rains and high water in that section of the country. At Cleveland the railroad tracks are under water and trains are compelled to make a detour of about 25 miles. The train which was due here at 1.23 Wednesday afternoon got in at 9.12 yesterday morning.

The senior class of the high school will give in the school rooms this evening the entertainment and social postponed from last week. The programme will be composed of musical and literary features, and admission will be free. Ice cream and cake will be served, for which charge will be made. All friends of the school are invited to attend.

Fred Coleman, whose arm was hurt between the deadwoods while coupling freight cars some weeks ago, is at the Homeopathic Hospital in Boston for treatment. The arm has not been doing as well as was wished lately, and was in danger of becoming stiff, so he was sent to the hospital by the kindness of Mrs. John Hennessey, who has a free bed there.

Quaboag Council of the Royal Arcanum was paid an official visit by Grand Regent F. W. Reynolds, Grand Chaplain S. M. Tourtelott, Grand Secretary H. A. Boynton and Grand Guide J. E. McKenna, with District Deputy Smith of Warren, Tuesday night. After the work the members served a collation in the hall, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

Palmer property owners are congratulating themselves that real estate in this place is taking an upward tendency. It may not be with the rapidity of a boom town, but the signs are sure. Within the past few days parties from Springfield have been looking over property in this village with the idea of buying residences, and one man has expressed his intention of making his home here.

The locating of the poles for the electric street lights in the other villages has commenced, and it is expected that the work of setting them will be begun about the first of June. The shafting for the plant at Blanchardville arrived yesterday. Work on the dam has again been suspended for the last three days on account of the high water, which rose fully two feet Tuesday afternoon.

There was a temperance meeting in the Congregational church Monday evening, at least arrangements were made for one, the speaker to be one of the attendants at the Sunday school convention held here last week. But through some oversight notice was sent to only one of the local clergymen, and he forgot to give it, and the attendance at the meeting was five, including the speaker and the janitor of the church.

A young lady of Thompsonville, Ct., who is attending school at Springfield, left a parcel containing dress materials in the waiting room at the depot in that city Wednesday evening while she went to the refreshment room for a moment. When she returned the package was missing, and the railroad employes think it was probably taken by mistake by some ladies who came east on the train reaching Palmer at 7.05. If any one in this vicinity has the package it can be left at this office and it will be returned to its rightful owner.

The 1.50 express for Boston yesterday afternoon was delayed some time by a cow belonging to Dr. Stowe, which attempted to cross the bridge over the Quaboag but missed her footing and got her legs down between the sleepers. Fortunately the animal was seen in time to flag the train before it reached the curve at the west end of the bridge. The animal was in the pasture near Marcy's lumber yard, but becoming frightened at something ran up the steep embankment to the tracks and in some way managed to get over the signal wires and out upon the bridge.

The exercises of Memorial Day will be much the same as usual. The Grand Army post and invited guests will assemble at the post headquarters in the morning and take carriages for the cemeteries in the other villages, visiting the cemetery here on their return. Dinner will be served for the veterans and guests in the memorial hall, after which James L. Bowen of Springfield will deliver the address. Music in the morning will be furnished by the Monson Band, and a male quartette will sing at the several cemeteries and in the hall. The post and Women's Relief Corps will attend services in St. Paul's Universalist church on the evening of Sunday, the 28th.

John Keefe of Monson was before the district court Monday for an assault on a boy named Lamonte, whose nose he had broken because of some difference of opinion on Sunday. He paid a fine of $20 and then settled with the boy. In the civil case of J. T. Stevens, Jr., against Dr. H. B. Otis and trustee, judgment was rendered for the plaintiff. In the cases of W. J. Houghton and Emma Houghton against the same judgment was reserved until to-morrow. Louis Duprez had recovered from his attack of the tremens sufficiently to be brought into court Tuesday noon, and was placed on probation. Yesterday Andrew Ryan of Southbridge was sent to the house of correction for thirty days on account of drunkenness.

Until the person who has charge of the highways in this district has done his spring work on the roads, and even after he has made his rounds, much could be done by individuals to benefit the appearance of Main street. As it now is the gutters are made the receptacle for banana skins and orange rinds, decayed fruit and vegetables, sweepings from the stores, and almost every kind of rubbish. This does not give the place a good odor among strangers visiting in town, or among traveling men and persons who are compelled to wait here for a train and visit the business part of the place. There ought to be some pride among the business men to keep the space in front of their places of business clean, and a little effort on the part of each would make an immense difference in the appearance of Main street.

Miss Wills of the Boston Cooking School will deliver a lecture on "Fancy Cookery" in the opera house next Monday at 2 p. m. Miss Wills comes from the highest authority on cookery, which is the Boston Cooking School, the mother of them all, and with Miss Parloa, Mrs. Lincoln and others has been the good samaritan for many of the most fashionable dinners in New England for several years, and their instruction has revolutionized the art of good cookery. Monday's lecture will be free, with no collection. Each lady attending the lecture will be presented with a desirable souvenir in the form of a Dainty Dessert Cook Book, written by Mrs. Dearborn, principal of the Boston Cooking School, Mrs. Lincoln, author of the Boston Cook Book, and Miss Anna Barrows, of the Y. W. C. A. All ladies are cordially invited to be present.

There was a meeting of Universalist ministers from this section at the Universalist church Monday, when the Massachusetts Universalist Ministers Meeting was reorganized as the Western New England Universalist Ministers Meeting, and these officers chosen: President, Rev. Mr. Farnsworth of Charlton; vice president, Rev. Mr. Druley of Stafford Springs; secretary and treasurer, Rev. Marion Crosley of Springfield; the same were made an executive committee. After the business meeting Rev. Mr. Farnsworth offered prayer, and Rev. Mr. Gleason of Warren spoke on "The Need of Doctrinal Preaching." Rev. Harry Blackford of Monson spoke on "The Importance of Church Membership," after which the subject was discussed by Revs. Lynn, Crosley and Farnsworth. Dinner was served at the Converse House. The organization will hold monthly meetings in this place.

A girl was struck by a bicyclist Wednesday evening while standing on the sidewalk in front of the Baptist church, and considerably hurt. The rider dismounted and angrily wanted to know why she didn't get out of the way when he rang his bell. He was informed by a bystander that wheelmen had no right on the sidewalk, which was warmly disputed. There seems to be an idea among some of the younger owners of wheels in the place that they have as much right on the sidewalks as pedestrians, or more, and that the latter must make room for the wheels. The courts have held that bicycles are vehicles, have the same right in the roads as a horse and carriage and no more, and are subject to the same rules of the road and liable to the same laws. Carriages certainly have no right on the sidewalks, and even on the roads are obliged to give way to pedestrians. Much complaint is being made about careless riding on the sidewalks and the impudent manner in which certain riders demand that all people on foot get out of the way when they approach, and it may result in the selectmen forbidding riding on the sidewalks altogether.

PALMER CENTER.

The King cottage has been let to Springfield parties.

Reuben Lamb is the proud owner of a new colt, after Blanchard's "Adell."

Mrs. Will Trumble, who has been seriously ill, is now considered out of danger.

School commenced Monday, after a two-weeks' intermission on account of the measles.

Mrs. J. B. Naylor is making extensive repairs on her building, J. C. O'Donnell doing the work.

The committee on lights must think Palmer Center a very "measley" place indeed, having giving us only one light. Very generous, gentlemen. Now take the guide-board out of the apple tree and put a new one at the forks of the Ware road and we will think we are in clover.

BONDSVILLE.

Jerry Shea has a new Victor bicycle.

Frank Lamb has taken a position with R. A. Bond.

Mrs. H. Fletcher had her millinery opening Tuesday and Wednesday.

The W. C. T. U. had their meeting this week Thursday at the church.

Miss Edith Hobson is visiting her friend, Miss Jennie Brainerd, of Palmer.

Miss Cora Carver of Northampton was the guest of Mrs. H. D. Shaw over Sunday.

Mrs. Hale's brother from Dorchester is making a visit this week at the parsonage.

Miss Katie Kirk, who has been on the sick list the last week, is so she is out again.

Mrs. Fred Getchell and child from Hyde Park are visiting her father, C. E. Getchell.

R. H. Arnold, from the Westfield Normal School, spent Sunday with his friend, H. E. Fuller.

Grise & Adams have bought a pair of new handsome bay hack horses weighing 2100 pounds.

Mrs. William Bishop and children of Gilbertville were the guests of Mrs. Richard Russell last week.

The Loyal Legion goes to Mittineague Saturday to a convention of the order. Mrs. O. A. Parent takes charge of the children.

Miss Burns, teacher in the intermediate school, was sick Wednesday and there was no school, so the little ones had a holiday.

Dr. and Mrs. Auger have left Richard Russell's, and will have rooms in the block where the doctor has his office, and take their meals at Mr. Carpenter's.

M. Collins took charge of a small boy the other day who came in on the morning train and stayed around the street till night, playing with the boys. He said he had a brother at Mr. Austin's, whom he came to see. He had a small satchel and three suits of clothes. Mr. Collins took him to the hotel and gave him his supper and lodging. They thought he had run away from home, and it was discovered that he had a brother at Mr. Austin's whom they had taken from the reform school. Mr. Collins bought the lad's ticket and sent him home to Boston.

The third annual picnic of Court Bondsville, 7880, A. O. F. of A., will be held Memorial Day in the Pleasant street grove. The sports of the day will consist of a 100-yards dash for professionals and one for amateurs, sack, wheelbarrow and potato races, three standing jumps, running high jump, hurdle race, throwing 16-pound hammer, and tug of war. The first heat of the races will be run at 10 a. m. There will be dancing from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m., with music by the Philharmonic Orchestra of Springfield, and W. G. Ryan as prompter. At 10 a. m. there will be a ball game on the depot grounds between the Bondsvilles and Warrens, during which the orchestra and the Bondsville Drum Corps will give a grand concert on the grounds. After the game there will be a parade of the members of the order, headed by the drum corps in its new uniforms. Refreshments will be served in the grove and on the ball grounds. Admission to the grove will be 15 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Entries for the sports should be made to M. J. Moriarty. The committee of arrangements is T. A. Quirk, J. Richards, J. P. Sullivan and T. R. Sullivan. The committee having charge of the sports is M. J. Moriarty, M. F. Collins, L. F. Sullivan, J. Hanifin, M. Moriarty, J. Austin and J. F. Luman.

THREE RIVERS.

George Orcutt is quite ill with erysipelas.

Clarence Percy of Hartford, Ct., spent Sunday with his parents in town.

Miss Jennie Kendrick spent a few days in Amherst this week, with her cousins.

Mrs. L. B. Kendrick has been spending a few days in Turner's Falls and Springfield.

Mr. Small, superintendent, of schools, made an official visit to the schools here Monday.

Rev. G. H. Butler exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Hatch of Monson last Sunday.

Mrs. Durand, who has been ailing for about three months, is seriously ill this week.

A. B. Brunette of Biddeford, Me., spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank White.

N. K. Rogers is improving the appearance of his residence on Main street by grading the lawn.

Mr. Ellsworth, of the Newton Theological Seminary, preached in the Baptist church last Sunday.

The cemetery at Four Corners is receiving attention this week in the form of a general trimming up.

Mrs. Elmer Barton and Miss Matilda McDougal have taken positions in the mill at Bondsville.

Charles Smith was called to Worcester this week by the illness of his brother, Elisha Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tarbox left Wednesday for Saco, Me, where they are to remain for some time.

Mrs. Green of West Randolph Vt., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kendrick Tuesday and Wednesday.

Last Friday evening the teachers of the public school indulged in a carriage ride, which proved to be very enjoyable.

Mrs. Monstello of New York, formerly Miss Mamie Pratt of this place, spent a few days with her parents here this week.

Franklin Barker's new tenement is being pushed toward completion by Charles Ruggles, and is to be ready for occupancy next week.

Samuel Holt has resigned his position in the cloth room in the mill, and is to be engaged in a greenhouse in Worcester in future.

Mr. Holt has resigned his position as second-hand of the machine shop in the mill, and is to take an extended vacation in order to recuperate his impaired health.

Edson Walker severs his connection with the Palmer Mill to-morrow, and will be employed in C. D. Holbrook's store in Palmer, in place of C. A. Bogue, resigned.

On Wednesday afternoon after school closed Miss Walker, teacher of the second intermediate, took her pupils for a walk in the woods, which proved to be enjoyable and instructive to all.

Next Friday afternoon memorial exercises will be held in the schoolhouse, to which every one is invited. An interesting program is being arranged, and those who can ought to favor the teachers and scholars by their presence.

Albert Barbour, who has been working in Joseph Belanger's carriage repair shop for some years, has resigned on account of ill health, and is to spend an extended vacation in New York state. His position is occupied by Mr. Senecle of this place.

One of the residents on Maple street was the recipient of a well-filled May basket the latter part of last week, but before the contents were fully examined the person who received it averred that there must be some mistake in the owner, as he did not wish to be considered such.

Hattie, the three-years-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ruggles, met with a severe and painful accident one day this week. As the little one was playing around the kitchen stove she slipped and fell and had her hand badly burned, but careful attention prevented any serious effects from the injury.

Mr. Desaulier is erecting a building on the lot between his drug store and Shaw Bros'. grocery store, in which he intends to open a restaurant. The building will be a one-story house with three apartments, one of which will be used as a restaurant, another as a barber's shop, the third having not been rented.

Mr. Coleman went into Shaw Brothers' store last Tuesday in order to get change for a $50 bill. Change was made by E. Shaw, who placed the bill in the safe, the door being left open. His actions were observed by a boy who frequently goes to the store on errands, and as Mr. Shaw went to another counter he noticed the boy leave the store rather quickly. Becoming suspicious he went to the safe and saw that the $50 bill was gone, and upon this discovery immediately pursued the young fellow, who had been into Desaulier's drug store to change the money, but failed to accomplish his object. Mr. Shaw had no difficulty in locating the thief and recovering the money. The boy is well known in this place, but owing to peculiar circumstances the firm does not care to give his name.

THORNDIKE.

Richard Shabbott is very ill at his home on Church street.

Eddie Vignaux is in town from New Hampshire for a few days.

Bennie Vignaux is to move to Montreal with his mother this week.

Freddie, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. LaFarar, is very ill with inflammation of the liver and bowels.

Daniel Crimins, formerly of this place, now of North Adams, spent a few days in town during the week.

Those who attended the musicale at Ware, given by pupils of M. J. Sullivan of Chicopee, speak well of the same.

Maurice Dowd received a compound fracture of the little finger of the right hand while playing ball this week.

The grammar school ball team will play at Bondsville this afternoon with the grammar school team of that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucas of West Springfield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Thomas for a few days recently.

A. P. Adams has just completed a large portrait of the late Jeremiah Kelley, which is considered a very true picture.

William Smith, Jr., has accepted a position at Palmer in McGilp's fish market, and expects to move his family there soon.

Mrs. Cornelius Kelliher, a former resident, now staying with her son, Dr. M. W. Kelliher, at Pawtucket, R. I., is visiting friends here.

The game of ball on Saturday afternoon between two picked clubs for a keg of spruce gum was quite interesting as well as amusing, from the fact that some had never been in a game before.

If the Palmer and Monson Electric Company were to run wires through this village for the incandescent lights there would no doubt be many individuals and places of business which would use them.

Nature has made a great change in the appearance of the village during the past week. The trees are in fine blossom, and the leaves have made their appearance wonderfully within three or four days. If there is no frost a good crop of fruit is assured.

In the game of ball between the grammar schools of Three Rivers and this place on Friday last a dispute arose, the Three Rivers refusing to play only six innings. Umpire Shugrue gave the game to the home team with a score of 9 to 0. The score stood 12 to 12.

Mr. Harvey, formerly a resident of this village, was brought here for burial on Monday from Springfield, where he died last week. Mr. Harvey was well known in town, and possessed a great deal of property in the shape of land. The avenue off High street, known as Harvey avenue, was called after his name.

The services held at St. Mary's church during the week were well attended notwithstanding the rainy weather. Masses were celebrated on Wednesday morning at 5 and 8, and several hundred persons partook of communion. Five or six out-of-town clergy assisted the pastor, Rev. F. J. Lynch, during the mission.

The vacant lot opposite the Catholic church is fast becoming a nuisance. All kinds of rubbish is being dumped there, which does not help the appearance of things in that locality. The persons who own it would confer a favor on the community if they would put a stop to the use of the land for such purposes.

Deming—Mooers.

The residence of A. B. C. Deming, paymaster for the Thorndike Company, was the scene of an event of a happy nature Thursday afternoon, the occasion being the marriage of his daughter, Emma F. Deming, one of Thorndike's accomplished and popular young ladies, to Charles F. Mooers, son of George D. Mooers and grandson of George Mooers, a family of long residence in town and highly esteemed. The wedding was strictly private, only the parents and relatives of the contracting parties being present. The bride was attired in white lansdown and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Bessie Edwards of Orange, cousin of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and A. R. C. Deming, brother of the bride, as best man. At the strains of Mendlessohn's wedding march, rendered by Mrs. D. W Mellen, the party formed in the reception room below, which was profusely decorated with apple blossoms and potted plants. Rev. E. B. Blanchard performed the marriage ceremony. Following this a reception was held and refreshments were served by a Springfield caterer. The happy couple were the recipients of a handsome array of presents:

From the grandfather of the groom a check for $500; from the grandmother of the groom, a quartered oak chamber set; to the bride from her parents, a handsome gold watch; from the parents of the groom, an onyx clock; from the groom to bride, a pair of diamond ear jewels; from Mrs. Sarah Woodward, an elegant banquet lamp; Mr. Mrs. F. S. Breard, silver soup ladle; G. M. Cooley, silver salad dish; Carrie R. Cooley, set of nut picks; Mrs. M. Emma Murdock, set of after-dinner coffee spoons; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibbs, French clock; Mrs D. G. Potter, gold-lined berry spoon; Mr. and Mrs. Haviland and Mrs. McClintock, individual silver salts; Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Cooley, silver cake basket; Mrs. D. Mellen, silver syrup pitcher; F. B. Edwards, set of silver fruit knives; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kincaid, landscape etching; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brackett, set of table linen; Mrs. Justin Spaulding, silver bon-bon dish; Bessie Edwards, sofa pillow; Mrs. F. A. Alden, bronze mirror; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Nason, Japanese screen; Emma Gibbs, set of damask towels; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clifford, marine etching; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Deming, set of table linen; Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, silver cheese knife; Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard, set of silver fruit knives; Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Carpenter, silver sugar spoon; Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gerald, set of damask towels; Mrs. N. Talmadge, brush and comb tray; Mrs. Geo. W. Lyman, gold-lined orange spoons; Dr. W. H. Stowe, individual silver salts; Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Wilcox, set of nut picks.

The bride and groom took the evening train en route for the World's Fair. Upon their return they will reside in this village, where they will have the best wishes of many sincere friends.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

BOSTON, May 17, 1893.

Representative Gage of Monson, with other members of the committee on manufactures, has been in a queer position to-day over the bill to authorize any gas company to increase its capital stock. They reported unanimously a bill for that purpose, but in the debate to-day it was attacked sharply all around, and no one had a word to say in its defense. It appeared that the committee was divided, and Mr. Gage was obliged to say, in his brief speech, that the committee did not care for the matter much, one way or the other. He did not even vote for his own bill, and it was rejected by a unanimous vote.

In consequence of a recommendation of the tax commissioner, there has been reported to the House a bill to provide uniform blanks to be filled out by persons to be taxed. The statements are to be made under oath, and are to cover all property on which taxes can be legally levied. It is the continued effort to reach more property, as well as the strong objections to some of our taxation laws, which reveals the unsatisfactory way in which taxes are collected. There would seem to be need of a thorough revision of the system, if only people could be agreed how to revise it.

Surely it cannot be out of place to say a word or two about the loveliness of the state house grounds as they have blossomed out under the sudden heat. They have a warm Southern exposure where grass starts the quickest and the flowers bloom the earliest of any place I know of. Like all other places, this has suffered from the late spring, but now the red and yellow mixed tulips, the pure reds and pure whites, besides the brilliancy of the white and red hyacinths, set in the thick green of the surrounding grass, make a most beautiful picture. From the state house steps across the lawn to the great English elms on the Common, it is a charming view.

The Senate has reversed the action of the House on the bill to reduce by one per cent the standard of milk solids. Sentiment was just as strongly against it in the upper branch as it was in its favor in the lower. Farmer Warner of Hardwick was not there with his inspiration to appeal for the farmers whose cows would not give milk up to the 13 per cent standard. Senator Green of Belchertown was the only one who took that side, and some half a dozen attacked the bill vigorously. So it is no wonder that it did not live.

Both branches are agreed on the bill to compel the use of wide tires on draft wagons. An effort to exempt Suffolk county had much support, but failed. Still, I fully expect to see the Boston teamsters at the state house next year asking for an exemption. They have a pretty plausible case and will be likely to push it hard.

The House has defeated by an overwhelming vote the bill to retire probate judges on a pension. The pension idea did not take the good sense of the House, for the more they thought about the bill, the fewer friends it had.

One thing is clearly evident by the attitude of the House on gas matters, and that is that the Boston gas ring is in bad odor and no man wants yet to be known as its friend. How it will be later, when the report of the gas investigating committee comes in and the question of justice toward Addicks and his fellows comes up, we must wait in order to determine. But now popular sentiment is moving hard against them. In the House on Wednesday the chairman of the judiciary committee, Mr. Parker of Boston, a Republican, and by virtue of his position the technical leader of the House, said that the gas commission was organized by the gas people for the sake of blinding the eyes of the people to make them think that they had somebody to look out for their interests, when really they had nobody; that from the beginning to the present this state gas commission had been owned by the Massachusetts gas companies, body, soul and breeches, and the gas companies own the commission to-day,—a majority of it. Mr. Hoar of Boston referred to the commission as being "owned," a majority of it, by the gas companies. Not a word was said in defense of the commission.

So it does not look as if the Bay State Gas Company had any grip on the Massachusetts House. Another heretofore powerful company seems to be in about as bad odor as the gas people, and that is the West End Street Railway Company. Perhaps its hand will appear in the contest over the rapid transit bill, but so far the mention of the West End company does not seem to carry that weight which it did three or four years ago. Its corrupt work has been so thoroughly advertised all over the state that its prestige with the Legislature is gone and a man must have a clear belief that the company is right before he is identified with its interests before the Legislature.

The fight is ended upon the proposed repeal of the law which taxes collateral inheritances, for by 59 yeas to 64 nays the House refused to pass it to be engrossed. It was a long and close struggle. On the first stages of the bill the friends of the repeal had a narrow majority, but they lost it at last, and an effort to reconsider the rejection had only 80 yeas to 104 nays.

The representatives and friends of the operatives in the cotton and woolen mills have been able to pass one stage in the House the bill to limit to 56 hours in a week the labor of women and minors in manufacturing and mechanical establishments. There was a strong move for 54 hours, and if the friends of that limit had been united they would probably have carried their point. But they feared, some of them, that they might lose everything, and so they took 56 as a conservative measure.

By 20 to 13, not two-thirds, the Senate on Tuesday refused to pass the Longmeadow division bill over the veto. On Wednesday, they reconsidered this refusal by a majority vote, which they could do, and then put the matter over to Tuesday, when they hope to get the two-thirds.

The storage battery people, having put their bill through the House, are anxiously awaiting the action of the Senate. The upper branch has voted to go to Milford Monday to see this wonderful system operate, and has put the bill over to Tuesday.

LANDON.

BORN.

At Ludlow, 15th, a son (12 lbs.) to EDWARD T. and BELLE S. POTTER.

At Ludlow, 16th, a daughter to F. G. and LEILA E. ATCHISSON.

MARRIED.

At Thorndike, 18th, by Rev. E. B. Blanchard, CHARLES F. MOOERS and EMMA F. DEMING.

DIED.

At Three Rivers, 6th, FRANCOIS CAMARLIN, 81.
At Monson, 17th, HIRAM STACY.
At Monson, 15th, CHARLES SQUIER, 50.
At Monson, 12th, Mrs. HATTIE M. ROGERS, 65.
At Brimfield, 16th, WALTER HAYNES, 10½y, 5m, 28d.
At Springfield, 12th, WILLIAM HARVEY, 83, formerly of Palmer.

WANTED.—Girl for general housework. MRS. C. B. FISKE.

FOR SALE.—Oak, hickory and chestnut cord wood. Also chestnut posts and ties suitable for electric car tracks. Orders by mail, box 408, King Farm, Palmer, Mass. 4⁶

GOOD PASTURAGE FOR COWS.—In the "Knox Pasture," so called, near the village. Apply to CHAS. B. FISKE. Palmer, May 12, 1893.

WANTED.—Situation by an experienced grocery and provision clerk. Also competent of taking charge of books. Best of recommendations. L. W. WILLIAMS. 4⁵ West Rutland Mass.

NOTICE.—All persons are hereby forbidden harboring or trusting my wife, Sarah A., on my account, as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, and I shall pay no bills of her contracting after this date. LOUIS BOSQUET. Palmer, Mass., May 5th, 1893. 3-5

NOTICE.—The subscriber will pay no bills for Julia Barney or anyone after the 25th of March, A. D., 1893. His JOHN D. x BARNEY. Holland, Mass. 3-6 Mark.

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.

I wish to call the attention of the horsemen of Palmer and the surrounding towns to the fact that I have opened a blacksmith shop in the rear of E. Goodes' shoe store, corner of Main and Thorndike streets, Palmer, where I am now prepared to do all kinds of wagon work, wood and iron. Particular attention will be given to shoeing difficult horses. I will do my work as cheap as any one in town, and as to the quality I shall let the work speak for itself. Give me a call. tf-1 JAMES HEALEY.

S. H. ELLERY,
BRIMFIELD,
Veterinary Surgeon & Dentist.
Late of Maryland Veterinary Hospital and Chicago Veterinary College. Treatment of all domesticated animals. Colts castrated. 13-6

WANTED.
RELIABLE PARTIES TO ACT AS AGENTS.
WE PAY SALARY OR COMMISSION.
Address at once,
THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
16-47nrm Rochester, N. Y.

FOR SALE—At reasonable figures, two well built modern houses of seven rooms each on one of the most desirable streets in the Town of Warren. A barn will be sold with one of them if desired. For terms, etc., address or see W. H. KELLEY, Agent for owner. 3 6 Warren, Mass.

TEETH FILLED WITHOUT PAIN.
Absolutely true. Don't suffer any longer when you have your teeth filled. Artificial plates that we warrant. Teeth extracted without pain. No gas, ether or chloroform. Absolutely no pain. Reception room 17. Lady assistant. Take elevator.
DR. W. L. ROBERTS,
Court Sq. Theater block, 4-7 Springfield, Mass.

LEONARD S. STEBBINS, D. D. S.
DENTIST.
Office Hours: Room 33,
8 A. M. to 7 P. M. 137½ State St.
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
TEETH FILLED WITHOUT PAIN.
Come and try our new anaesthetic for painless extraction of teeth. Artificial teeth without plates. 4-7ks Room 33. Take elevator.

Horses! Horses! Horses!
Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.
If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4

Journal.

EVENING, MAY 19, 1893.

HBORHOOD NOTES.

MONSON.

e to be taxed.

bert is quite sick.

has a new safety.

ey has a fine new horse.

Lanphear is ill with the grippe.

o T. Rogers is sick with a cold.

F. Lee has been to Maine this ylor will soon move his family to ckering is visiting her brother, s.

ment in front of the bank block is n.

in A. Gage is spending a few ston.

aw has taken the agency for the cles.

y spent Sunday with his mother, s Fay.

ara Wood spent Sunday at her

Springfield.

nnise Adams of Barre is visiting nda White.

Burdick is visiting friends in ld this week.

Clifford has added five new horses

ery this week.

s Buffington has taken the agency

Liberty bicycle.

race Blackford has returned after a d visit in Waltham.

Priestly and daughter Lillie visited n Holyoke last week.

Morris was the guest of his brother,

, Sunday and Monday.

Lizzie Davis of Cleveland, Ohio, is st of Mrs. Carlos M. Gage.

Royce and family of Wales spent sday with Mrs. R. C. Millar.

Parish of Pittsfield was the guest of Buscher a few days this week.

Cushman House has never before

s good a business as at present.

Idella Anderson, who is teaching at field, returned home ill last Friday.

ert F. McMaster has been suffering a sprained foot during the last week.

rge A. Harvey is making two quar-

oak book cases for Rev. F. S. Hatch.

s. W. H. Marble and Miss Emma Mar-ave gone to Templeton for the summer.

ss Clara A. Wood is attending the sutendents' convention in Boston to-day.

C. Howe spent Sunday in Fitchburg.

Howe covered the distance on his safety.

. S. Hughes has gone to Willimantic to r upon his new duties in a clothing store.

iss Augusta E. Fay gave a tea party day in honor of Miss Annise Adams of re.

harles Orcutt has the stakes driven for new laundry building on High Lawn rrace.

Mrs. W. H. Marble has a handsome hand-inted mirror on exhibition at Keeney's

ng store.

George W. Lyman & Co. have about comleted the contract for the repairs on Eugene osket's barn.

R. Clifford Millard was called to Phillipson Wednesday on account of the illness of his grandfather.

The bicycle meet which was to have taken place Tuesday evening was postponed on account of the rain.

Marsena Needham of Springfield has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Rogers, of North

Main street, this week.

Mrs. George H. Newton returned last week from a trip to Upton, bringing with her her little grandson.

The Sunday school of St. Paul's Universalist church of Springfield will hold a picnic on Flynt's Park July 6th.

Thomas Cowles of Westfield has been visiting the Misses Ross and Mrs. Mary Truesdell during the past week.

The Thursday evening prayer-meetings now commence at quarter of eight, instead of half-past seven, as formerly.

Mrs. Mary Lyman of East Hill was given a surprise Monday evening, the occasion being her sixty-ninth birthday.

Miss Nancy Shea returned home from Norwich last week after a month's stay with her sister, Mrs. Kate Powers.

The Hampden County Teachers' convention

meets in Springfield May 29th, and all the teachers in town are expected to attend.

H. T. Chapin took a trip to Boston last Friday on his wheel, and was the guest of Charles Ricketts at Tufts College over Sunday.

Frank Beckwith is to move at once from his present residence opposite the Cushman

House to a tenement at Rev. J. H. Tufts's farm.

Charles W. McMaster has left the employ of George A. Harvey and has gone to work for John Orcutt on Charles Orcutt's new laundry.

The W. N. Flynt Granite Company has a block of granite from its quarry on exhibition at the World's Fair, to illustrate the geological formation.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet Rogers, who died last Friday, was held at the Universalist church Monday afternoon, Rev. Harry

Blackford officiating.

Charles Squier, who has spent the greater part of his life in town, died at his home on

Moulton Hill this week, and was buried in the Moulton Hill cemetery.

Miss Joanna A. Leary will graduate from the Westfield Normal School June 20th, the subject of her essay being "Billows and Undercurrents in the Sea of Life."

The Monson Band will furnish music for the L. L. Merrick post of Palmer in the morning of Memorial Day, and in the afternoon for the Marcus Keep post of this town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Flynt, Mr. and Mrs.

Rufus Cushman, Mrs. Lyman Flynt, Mrs.

Fred Cushman and Miss Esther Holmes returned home Wednesday, after a visit to the World's Fair.

The meeting of the savings bank trustees is near at hand. Many are seeking the office of president, and an interesting time is expected, judging from the talk heard from many quarters.

The increased practice of Dr. Fuller compels him to increase his supply of horses, and Thursday he purchased the Duncan mare. She is considered one of the best all-around mares in town.

A sociable and entertainment will be given in the Universalist church next Tuesday evening, when the young people will present the farce, "An Economical Boomerang." Ice cream will be for sale.

Hiram Stacey, a life-long and respected citizen of Monson, died at his home in the western part of the town Wednesday night.

Mr. Stacey has been in feeble health of late.

One son, Charles, survives him.

The 4-o'clock freight ran into an open switch at South Monson Wednesday afternoon, striking a coal car. The engine was somewhat damaged and the car completely demolished, but no one was hurt.

The 'cycle club geology class, under the direction of Professor Burke, took a trip to Amherst College last Saturday instead of the trip to Mt. Tom. The several museums were visited and a very enjoyable time is reported by all.

Dr. N. W. Rand went to New York last week to attend the graduating exercises at the medical college of which Dr. Copeland was a member. Dr. P. R. Watts of Stafford Springs looked after Dr. Rand's patients during his absence.

The annual business meeting of the stewards and trustees of the Methodist church was held Monday evening, at which various committees were appointed to look after the temporal needs of the church. Adelbert

Ferry was elected sexton.

The Grand Army Post is to celebrate its tenth anniversary next Friday evening, and has invited the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans to participate. Refreshments will be served and a musicale and literary entertainment given.

A series of special meetings are being held every alternate Sunday at the Gage district school house by the Christian Endeavor society of the Methodist church. At the meeting last Sunday, which was led by the pastor, seven persons expressed a desire to lead Christian lives.

The gymnastic exhibition in Memorial

Hall last Friday was a grand success in every way but financially. This is another example of Monson people being "taken in,"

and of their lack of interest to support a first-class entertainment, while a cheap show would draw a crowded house.

Rev. F. S. Hatch attended the meeting of the General Association of Congregational churches in Boston this week. Mr. Hatch read a paper on the "Restriction of Sunday

Railroad Traffic," and was appointed chairman of this committee for the ensuing year.

The most eloquent discourse which was given at the meeting was that on "The Minister, a Student of General Literature," by

T. C. Pease, a brother of Miss Harriet Pease, whom many will remember as preceptress at the Academy.

The annual meeting of the Monson fire department, to reorganize for the coming year, was held Tuesday evening and the following officers were elected: Chemical No.

1—Foreman, C. A. Rood; first assistant, J.

W. Lyons; second assistant, Thomas Crowley; clerk and treasurer, R. C. Millard;

Chemical No. 2—Foreman, Joseph Fagan; first assistant, W. A. Needham; second assstant, D. B. Maney; secretary, C. C.

Keep; treasurer, N. A. Bugbee; Hook and Ladder—Foreman, H. C. Norcross; first assistant, John Lyons, Jr.; second assistant,

A. H. Shaw; secretary and treasurer, W. L.

Ricketts.

The following officers of the Y. P. S. C. E.

of the Congregational church were elected last Sunday evening: President, E. B.

Francis; vice president, James E. Closson;

secretary, Miss Ada L. Smith; treasurer, F.

E. Severy; lookout committee, L. H. Austin,

Myron E. Blanchard, L. A. Prouty, Miss

Florence J. Deverell, Miss Ethel E. Newton;

prayer meeting, Miss Esther Keep, Miss

Mary Anderson, L. R. Burrows, A. M.

Beebe, E. B. Flynt; social, C. C. Keep, Miss

A. L. Peck, Miss M. C. Alvord, Miss Minnie

L. Smith; Sunday school, Edward Morris,

Edwin White, H. L. Beebe, Miss Ethel

Newton, Miss Grace Webber; calling, Miss

Louise Morris, Miss Letha A. Potter, Miss

Grace S. Cushman, Miss Gertrude B. Gage,

Miss Mabelle F. Tucker; music, A. W.

Merchant, J. Hall, Miss Minnie L. Smith,

Mrs. F. S. Hatch, Mrs. D. M. Dustan; missionary, G. W. Brown, G. L. Phillips, J. W.

Chism, Miss Alma W. Bissell, Miss Elsie

Bradway; flowers, Miss Esther R. Holmes.

Academy Notes.

Milton M. Brown has severed his connection with the Academy.

As May 30th will be Memorial Day and

May 29th there will be a teachers' convention in Springfield, there will be no school at the Academy from May 27th to May 31st, inclusive.

The following persons stand the highest in the graduating class, and in order named take the honors of valedictory and salutatory: Anna Billings Converse, Frederick

Daniels Thayer, Archie Winthrop Merchant.

As it is rather inconvenient for some of the examining committee to visit the school as often as they wish, to find out the kind of work which is done there, the following scheme, which has been used successfully in many of the city schools, has been adopted:

The first two, the last two and the two medium papers in every examination will be sent to them for their inspection.

GLENDALE.

Mr. von Bast of Wesleyan Academy supplies the pulpit here until the arrival of Mr.

Pillsbury.

There will be an entertainment at the church Tuesday night. A quartette of singe ers from Wesleyan Academy will be present.

The Band of Mercy met at the house of Delos Seaver Friday night, and the following officers were chosen: President, Stella

Greene; vice president, Bernard Conner; secretary, Miss Bennett.

WEST WARREN.

Miss Jessie Sterling spent Sunday at her home in Springfield.

Oney St. Germain spent Sunday with friends in Springfield.

Mrs. John Shaw attended the Sunday school convention at Palmer, Friday.

Miss Canfield, one of the teachers in the brick school, is out sick, and the room is closed.

Anniversary services of the Epworth

League were held in the M. E. church Sunday evening.

Rev. H. G. Hale of the Congregational church in Warren will preach in the Methodist church next Sunday morning in exchange with the pastor. In the evening T.

Cherneff Radoslavoff, a student at Wilbra-ham Academy, will give an address on Bulgaria.

LUDLOW.

Auretia J. Clark has been appointed administratrix of the estate of George R. Clark, late of Ludlow.

The school committees of Ludlow, Wilbra-ham, Hampden and Longmeadow met in Springfield last Friday afternoon and made choice of Miss Mary L. Poland as superintendent of schools. Miss Poland is now employed at Brattleboro, and has had 23 years' experience in teaching. She will begin her duties at once, dividing her time between the towns according to the number of schools in each, Ludlow having 14, Longmeadow 11,

Wilbraham 10 and Hampden 6. Her salary is $1500, of which the state furnishes $750, and $500 which must go into a sinking fund.

Of the $750 Ludlow pays $256, Longmeadow

$201, Wilbraham $183 and Hampden $110.

The excess of taxation on the town over the receipts from the state are: Ludlow $85;

Longmeadow $67, Wilbraham $61, Hampden

$37.

WALES.

The lower story of Shaw's new block is raised.

The assessors are getting in the lists for taxing.

Joseph Lucy has commenced his summer job driving cows.

The most backward season known for years is the present.

Mrs. Vernon Arnold is recovering from an attack of the grippe.

The Excelsior mill was closed Wednesday to repair the flume and dam.

Horatio L. Baker has taken rooms in the old Hobbs house near the fountain.

The ladies of the Baptist church will hold their annual fair in the vestry next Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

T. C. Alden, the telegraph lineman, has gone to take charge of a gang putting up a new telegraph line near Providence, R. I.

H. E. Shaw of the Berkeley Woolen Mills has a fine line of samples of the goods manufactured by his mills on exhibition at the World's Fair, comprising over 100 varieties.

Miss Shea of Palmer opened a fine lot of millinery goods here Monday and Tuesday.

The rain prevented many from patronizing, and several came the day after she left.

Considering the elements she did exceedingly well, and all seemed pleased with her styles and goods, and for a wonder with the prices.

BELCHERTOWN.

There are many cases of measles in the town.

There is a scarcity of farm help in this vicinity, and high wages are paid for good help.

The Midnight Quartette has begun rehearsals for the Memorial Day exercises at Enfield.

There will be exercises commemorative of

Memorial Day at some of the schools on the day preceding.

A curbing has been placed in front of the Clapp homestead, Dr. Thompson's grounds and the Moody place.

Cephas Hyde, who has been confined to the house by illness for fourteen weeks, has recovered sufficiently to ride out.

Rev. J. F. Maile, secretary of the College and Education Society, will preach in the Congregational church next Sunday.

R. E. Fairchild, formerly station agent here, now of Norwich, Ct., has been presented with a valuable gold chain and charm, on one side of which was engraved a Masonic emblem, and on the other the inscription,

"From Belchertown friends."

G. W. Longley was chairman and H. A.

Hopkins secretary of a meeting held last

Friday evening relative to the organization of a village improvement society, and it was decided to call a meeting of the park association for this week with the hope of filling vacancies in the board of officers and obtaining new members.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Miss Rosa Dempsey has a Vose & Sons upright grand piano, bought of W. E. Stone of

Palmer.

A $60,000 Fire.

The mill of the Wilbraham Woolen Company, better known as "Ellis's Mill," about a mile east of this village, was burned to the ground early last Saturday morning. The fire was discovered in the center of the cards only a few moments after the machinery was started at 6.30, and when first seen the blaze was no larger than a man's head. There were half a dozen of the hands near, and they at once went to work with the fire pails, but the flames spread so rapidly in the grease-saturated room that their efforts were of no avail. The only fire protection was the force pump of the mill, which was started, but was not powerful enough to cope with the rapidly-spreading blaze, and the whole structure went, but little being saved with the exception of some of the cloth in the finishing room. The burned buildings consisted of a main mill 40 by 80, three stories, an ell 30 by 50, the office and a shed. The mill was a three-set mill, making cloakings and fancy cassimeres, but the spinning and carding were run extra, making the product equal that of a four-set mill. The mill was crowded with orders, and had an unusually large stock on hand, which made the loss heavy, fully $60,000, on which there was $30,000 insurance. About 40 hands were employed. The firm is composed of L. B.

Baker of Springfield, F. B. Baker of Stafford

Springs, Ct., and Thomas H. Mack of North

Wilbraham. The mill will probably be rebuilt, as the company owns a second water privilege above the one used at the mill, which would give them a large storage of water.

BRIMFIELD.

There will be a May party in the town hall next Friday evening, with music by the Fiskdale Orchestra, and John Bacon as promter. The managers are Dr. R. V. Sawin

F. L. Pierce, R. Shaw, A. Tarbell, E. Allen and E. Brown.

Death of a Centenarian.

Walter Haynes, who would have been 101 years old next November, died at his home

Tuesday evening. Mr. Haynes was born in Monson on the 18th of November, 1789, his parents being Daniel and Hannah Webster

Haynes. All of his ancestors were long lived, few dying under 80. When Walter was 18 months old the family moved to the farm in Brimfield which had been taken as wild land by his great-grandfather. He lived with his grandfather, Jonas Haynes, who gave the boy his liberty on his 18th birthday. He learned the clothier's trade and engaged in manufacturing at Norwich and Swansea, N. H., where he failed and lost all he possessed. In 1824 he went to Volney,

N. Y., built a log house 16 feet square and carried on a farm of 80 acres, besides doing carpenter work for others. He became quite a builder in New York state, putting up several houses and barns in what is now

Oswego, and one of the first business blocks in Syracuse. Forty-eight years ago Mr.

Haynes's uncle sent for him to return to the old home in Brimfield, and as he was then well along in years he decided to spend the remainder of his life on the old farm. He was twice married, his first wife being Sally, daughter of Oliver and Seba Rogers of Wales, whom he married in 1810. Seven children were born to them, three of whom are still living, a son, Daniel, at Brimfield, and two daughters, Orpha and Louisa at

Volney, N. Y. Mrs. Haynes died in 1830, and 13 years later he married Lucinda, daughter of Hezekiah and Hannah Ferry of Palmer. She survives her husband, and was 95 years old on the 18th of March. Although many years past the allotted three score and ten Mr. Haynes did not feel old, and only a month and a half ago remarked that his life seemed short, that it was only a little while since he had been a boy. For the past year Mr. Haynes has done little work, but previous to that time was quite active. In his 100th year he frequently drove to the village alone, and on one occasion went alone to Palmer. He has always been a Democrat, and was a great admirer of Grover Cleveland, for whom he voted in 1884 and 1888, but last year his friends thought he was not strong enough to go to the polls. As the United States government was only seven months old when Mr. Haynes was born he has lived under every president in the history of the country. In religion he was an Adventist, and one of the founders of the Advent society of Brimfield. He never used tobacco, and very rarely touched intoxicating liquors, believing that the world would be better without it.

WILBRAHAM.

Capt. A. S. Flagg has been invited to deliver the Memorial Day address at Somers,

Ct.

Rev. B. T. Russell preached at Glendale

Sunday for Mr. von Bast, the regular supply.

Albert Swanson has taken the place in the post office recently vacated by Mr. Foskit, who goes to Monson to take a position in one of the hat factories.

The academy ball term was successful in its game with the Wesleyan Freshmen at Middletown Saturday, the score standing 5 to 2. To-morrow the team plays the Worcester Academies on the home grounds.

The contract for carrying the mails was this week given to S. Hewett of this town.

The sum offered by the subcontractor was $240, and Liveryman Collins, who has taken the job for several years, supposing that he was the only one who would be consulted in the matter made his price $2 higher than the one offered, and so lost. He will probably, as he has before under like circumstances, give a bonus to the successful bidder and continue to operate the route between the two ends of the town.

The Postmastership.

Considerable interest has recently been aroused by the appearance of a dark horse candidate for the postmastership. As soon as it was known that a change of admistra-

tion would take place everybody expected that when the local appointment should be made the lot would fall to F. M. Green, the occupant under the former Cleveland regime; in fact he was supposed to be the only available Democrat in the district. But after two months Rev. L. White, who has lately moved into the Street from the north end has, through the medium of a petition circulated among the townspeople, signified his intention of becoming the next postmaster if he can. The contest has not yet reached a crisis, as neither Green's or White's petition has been very generally signed by the townspeople. As to the ability of either candidate to perform the duties required by the position, there is little doubt; however, it seems to be the sentiment of the citizens that if any change is to be made Mr. Green's experience and former satisfactory service, together with other personal considerations, would justify his appointment. Meanwhile

Mr. Pease, the present occupant, holds the fort, and while admitting that he does not intend sending a remonstrance or counter petition to headquarters, says he is willing to serve the public for another term. His admistration of affairs has been creditable and acceptable to the people, and as the present administration assays to make changes only for inefficient service, the change may be delayed indefinitely, and possibly not take place at all. There is one matter upon which all agree, and that is that the present location of the office should not be changed, and it is probable that whoever may be chosen to the position, the location will remain as at present.

WARREN.

Mr. DeLuce has moved into his new house.

Frank Strickland and family are spending a few weeks in town.

Col. Warriner of Springfield will deliver the address Memorial Day.

The McGibeney family will give a concert in the town hall this evening.

Mr. Curtis has purchased a tract of land on East Main street of Mr. Underwood.

The body of Mrs. Blackmer of Springfield was brought to town Tuesday and taken to Brimfield for burial.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nickerson has been appointed administratrix of the estate of the late Orrin Nickerson.

Victor Sherbern has purchased the Dr.

Jennings place and is making some decided improvements upon it.

The Odd Fellows attended the Universalist church last Sunday in a body, by special invitation from the pastor.

Rev. H. G. Hale will exchange with the pastor of the Congregational church at West Warren next Sabbath.

Mrs. George Delaval gave a tea from four to six Thursday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker of Boston.

The friends of James Gill will be glad to learn that he has successfully undergone a critical surgical operation at Portland, Or.,

and is now out of danger and will fully recover.

George L. Crosby of Amherst College has been chosen one of 15 from a class of 124 freshmen, to compete for the appointment to speak at the Kellogg prize exhibition on the

Monday evening of commencement week.

At an adjourned meeting of the selectmen

Monday Rev. Putnam Webber and C. O.

Walker of West Warren were chosen to fill the vacancies on the school board caused by the resignations of Dr. O. W. Phelps and

Joseph H. Hastings. W. B. Ramsdell was chosen to fill the vacancy on the board of health caused by the resignation of A. L.

Converse.

The funeral of Mrs. Eunice Cutter was held in the Congregational church last Saturday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Steele, Chaplain

Ball, Chaplain Simonds and Rev. H. G. Hale were present and took part in the service.

A male quartette sang, and there were many floral tributes from friends. The Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief Corps were present in a body. The bearers were from the Grand Army post: George Bliss, W. S.

Sterns, L. L. Gage and L. A. Powers.

A Double Funeral.

The funeral of Mr. Butterworth and daughter Emma, the victims of the tragedy last week Thursday afternoon, was largely attended at the Congregational church

Tuesday afternoon, as all wished to show their sympathy for the remaining friends in this their time of distress. The schools of the town were closed so that the teachers and scholars could be present, and the Masons attended in a body. It was regretted that the only sister of Mr. Butterworth could not be present, but she is traveling in California, and on account of the illness of her husband it was impossible. The platform and front of the church were trimmed with set pieces and cut flowers. Among the former was one from the family composed of white pinks surrounded by maided-hair ferns, with the words, "She hath done what she could," in purple immortelles. The King's Daughters sent a Maltese cross of English violets, and the Christian Endeavor society an emblem of white roses and yellow jonquils, besides which there were many other tributes from friends. The family pew was trimmed in lavender and white ribbon, entwined with smilax, roses and pinks, and the stand on which the caskets stood was covered with white roses and pinks set in a bed of evergreen. The center of the church was reserved for the mourners and Masons.

The services were opened with the singing of "When the Mists Have Rolled Away," by a male quartette composed of Fred

Kimball, Will Hitchcock, George Martin and J. Moody. Rev. D. O. Clark offered a short prayer after the singing. Rev. H. G.

Hale read the Scriptures, and two verses which Emma had cut from a paper a few days before her death:

Take me, O my Father, take me,
Take me, save me, through thy Son;
That which thou wouldst have me, make me,
Let thy will be done.
Long from thee my footsteps straying,
Thorny proved the way I trod;
Weary come I now, and praying,
Take me to thy love, my God.

He also read the hymn which the choir sang at Easter, because at that time Mr. Butterworth had expressed a great liking for it. It begins:

"Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept."

The quartette sang "Some Sweet Day, By and By," and Rev. Mr. Clark spoke a few words being followed in prayer by Rev. Mr.

Hale. The services closed with the singing by the quartette of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," to the tune of "Bethany." The services at the grave were short. The body of the daughter was lowered first and prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Hale. The Masonic rites over the body of Mr. Butterworth followed, conducted by Worshipful Master

Hitchcock.

SHORT NEWS NOTES.

The United States cruiser Atlanta sailed from

New York Saturday for Nicaragua.

Director of the Mint Leech has resigned, and will accept the cashiership of a bank soon to be started in New York.

The annual state convention of the Woman's

Christian Temperance Union will be held in Springfield October 3, 4 and 5.

A two-years-old child at Lynn was drowned

Monday afternoon by falling into a tub of rain water in the yard at its home.

The five-set woolen mills of Crossley Bros. at South Barre were burned to the ground Saturday afternoon, with their contents. Loss $50,000.

Harry and Fred E. Spooner, brothers, formerly of Springfield, met in the Boston and Albany depot in Boston Monday for the first time in ten years.

May 31st has been set apart as wheelmen's day at the World's Fair. There will be two parades, afternoon and evening, and it is expected 20,000 men will be in line.

Julius Lord, who has had violent attacks of hiccoughs for the past three years, puzzling the doctors, died from the trouble at his home in Williamstown Saturday.

Mrs. C. C. Robinson of Hinsdale was so badly burned by the explosion of a pan of soap she was heating Saturday evening that it is feared her eyesight will be impaired.

The jury at San Francisco in the case of Wesley

C. Ripley, charged with assault with intent to kill John W. Mackay, was unable to agree, and a second trial will take place in June.

Cornelius Shehan of Westfield dropped dead of heart failure the other day while engaged in a heated controversy with a neighbor over the boundary lines between their premises.

Mrs. Helen Faulkner of Pittsfield was taken to the almshouse last week while insane. Becoming violent Sunday she was strapped to her bed and left alone, and in the morning was found dead.

The Manhattan Life Insurance Co. of New York is to have a building 17 stories high—a stretch of 347 feet and 6 inches from the sidewalk to the roof of the top story. Above this will loom a tower.

A Bridgeport young woman chased a shopmate with a toy snake last week with the intention of "having some fun," which so alarmed the latter that she became insane and now lies in a critical condition.

G. W. Barber of Hartford, Ct., has presented the national conference of the Zion church with a farm of 310 acres at Granville, valued at $3000, to be used as a home for aged colored people and needy orphans of the church.

Ten men lost their lives in a shaft of the Calumet and Hecla mine, at Houghton, Mich., Saturday. The men were being pulled up in the cage to dinner, when the coupling pin broke and they were dashed downward over 3000 feet to the bottom.

William Laidlaw of New York, who was injured

by the bomb thrown at Russell Sage by Norcross in December, 1891, has brought suit to recover

$50,000 damages from Sage for injuries sustained.

He alleges the millionaire broker pushed him between the bomb-thrower and himself.

The governors of 26 states have responded favorably to the call of the governor of Minnesota for an interstate convention to be held at Chicago June 5th, to consider means of suppressing the coal combine and their extortions, Governor Russell being among the number.

George Mitchell, night telegraph operator in the Fitchburg depot at Shelburne Falls, after being forced to open the money drawer in the office by a masked burglar last Friday night, was locked in a refrigerator car, where he remained till 5 o'clock in the morning. The burglar secured about $7 in money from the pocket of Mitchell's overcoat.

Miss Elizabeth Sheldon of New Haven, Ct., has received notice from the board of managers of the Kentucky Women's department at the World's Fair that her design for the decoration of the Kentucky room in the women's building was the most acceptable one submitted, but owing to some misunderstanding the prize offered for the work goes to a Kentucky designer.

The will of Asuba P. Goddard, widow of Franklin P. Goddard, of Orange, gives $10,000 to that town, $2000 for the public library, $5000 for the worthy poor, $1000 for care of cemetery lot, and $1000 for care of Goddard park; also, $5000 to the New England home for aged couples, $5000 for the Baldwin place home for little wanderers, and the remainder to relatives. The estate is estimated at

$75,000 to $100,000.

CARD.—Our grateful thanks are extended to all who in the days of our recent affliction have shown so generously their neighborly kindness and Christian love. CHARLES W. KING, MONSON, May 18th, 1893. CHARLES H. ELDRED.

A CARD.—After more detailed examination of Hotel Endeavor, near the World's Fair grounds, I am satisfied that a remark of mine in a previous edition of the JOURNAL gave an erroneous impression, which has tended to injure the business of said hotel. This I had no intention of doing.
G. S. ROLLINS.

Strong Witnesses.

Among the thousands of testimonials of cures by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, is of Nathan Allisons, a well-known citizen of Glen Rock, Pa., who for years had shortness of breath, sleeplessness, pain in left side, shoulders, smothering spells, etc.; one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and one box of Nerve and Liver Pills, cured him. Peter Jaquet, Sr'..., N. J., is another witness, who for twenty years suffered with Heart Disease, was pronounced incurable by physicians, death stared him in the face, could not lie down for fear of smothering to death. Immediately after using the New Cure he felt better and could lie down and sleep all night, and is now a well man. The New Cure is sold, also Free Book, by LeGro & Lynde. (2)

A Great Benefactor.

"Educators are certainly the greatest benefactors of the race, and after reading Dr. Franklin

Miles' popular works, we cannot help declaring him to be among the most entertaining and educating of authors."—New York Daily. He is not a stranger to our readers, as his advertisements appear in our columns in every issue, calling attention to the fact that his elegant work on Nervous and Heart Diseases is distributed free by our enterprising druggists, LeGro & Lynde. Trial

Bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine are given away, also Book of Testimonials showing that it is unequalled for Nervous Prostration, Head

ach, Poor Memory, Dizziness, Sleeplessness

Neuralgia, Hysteria, Fits, Epilepsy. (2)

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation.

Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

"The flowers that bloom in the spring" are not more vigorous than are those persons who purify their blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The fabled

Elixer Vitæ could scarcely impart greater vivacity to the countenance than this wonderful medicine.

If ever a man feels like "a poor worm of the dust," it is when he suffers from that tired feeling. Ayer's Sarsaparilla removes this discouraging physical condition and imparts the thrill of new life and energy to every nerve, tissue, muscle, and fibre of the whole body.

Of the many ways a person can take to get rid of his money there seems to be one which while he rids himself of it he gets in return two dollars for every one he spends. That is done by dealing with Broadhurst Brothers, the shoe dealers, Main St., Springfield. Happen in when you need a nice fitting shoe.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See adv. 8-53

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

A Druggist Says.

Marvin C. Brown, Druggist, Meredith Village,

N. H., says: "I have sold your Sulphur Bitters for years, and contrary to most medicines, I never sold a bottle to anyone who said it did not help them. They cured me of those terrible sick headaches when every other remedy had failed."

Unable to Tell.

Yes, that was so. For years I suffered severely with scrofula; sores broke out all over my body, and I am unable to tell one half that I suffered.

I was not able to obtain relief until I used Sulphur

Bitters, which completely cured me.—C. B. Dale,

17 Allston street, Boston.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest United States

Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,

106 Wall St., N. Y.

HENRY'S
SHOE STORE,

Opera House Block,

Main Street, - Palmer.

You will find the Best $2.00 and $3.00 Shoe in town.

Best Bicycle Shoe $2.50 and $2.75.

Ladies' and Gents' Russet Shoes.

Kangaroo, Dongola and Fine Calf Shoes.

Children's Shoes in Russet.

WALL PAPERS,
Ceiling Decorations,
—AND—
PICTURE MOULDINGS
In Good Stye and Variety.

5,000 ROLLS OF WALL PAPER!

It is going fast but we want it to go faster and have just the styles and prices that will do it.

Can furnish a good paper hanger and house painter.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists,

Next to P. O. - - - PALMER, MASS.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

If you want a reliable dye that will color an even brown or black, and will please and satisfy you every time, use Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., May, 1893.

A bit of history about corsets, from the time of Rameses the Great down to the present day, will be sent free to all who write for it. The book is a handsome little thing, with pictures and prices of sixty or seventy of the leading corsets.

Fashions for May is the finest number yet. It is rich in illustration and story. Here's what the Springfield Homestead says of it:

"The June bride, the woman whose destination is the World's Fair, the swell society girl, the enthusiastic horse woman and cyclist, and the girl who has to work for her living, will find out if she reads the May Fashions just what she ought to wear if she would be up to the summer styles. A very interesting sketch with a fine portrait of Mary L. Booth will be eagerly read by the many who have followed the career of that talented woman. Octave Thanet's story, "A Student and His Sweetheart," increases in interest in every chapter, and last but not least is a delightful article from the little actress, Elsie Leslie, who tells in a fashion which is apt to make the eyes grow moist of the benefit she gave the Philadelphia newsboys, playing "The Prince and the Pauper," and of how they enjoyed it."

Fashions is a high-class literary and fashion journal, published at Springfield, Mass., at 50 cents a year.

The next eight numbers will be sent on receipt of 25 cents.

Forbes & Wallace, Publishers, Springfield, Mass.

Would you like to see a few hundred gambols of fashion? something smiling? jubilant? Then see the new parasols.

Right aisle.

We were lucky in getting the other day these green velvets at $1 a yard; moss, myrtle, hunter's green; reseda, serpent and olive. We have now nine shades of purple velvet at $1.50 and sixteen of green. Send us a sample of most any color, and ten to one we can match it.

Left aisle.

Just received drap de Paris, a beautiful dress stuff in beautiful colors, at $1.25; 48-inch.

Just received navy blue or black hop sacking, at 50 cents to $1.25 a yard; 48 to 56-inch.

Navy blue storm serge for mountain, sea or traveling, 50 cents to $1.25.

Black and colored broadcloth for capes, $1 to $2.

Let us send you samples of something or other.

Left aisle.

Dotted Swiss mulls, daintily printed with flowers and Dresden effects, 25 cents, down from 37½.

Right aisle.

A big jag of Willmantic spool thread, white, black and colors, 29 cents a dozen; by mail 36. The boxes became damaged somehow; but the thread is as perfect as that sold at 5 cents a spool.

FORBES & WALLACE
Main and Vernon streets.

SOLID COMFORT

Can be had by fitting your feet with a pair of our

$3.00

FOOT SHAPE SHOES!

We make a specialty of our $3.00 shoes for ladies and men.

JUST NOW

we are showing some fine lines in LADIES' OXFORD TIES. We give a pair of patent bow clasps with every pair.

FFFFFFFFF
FFFFFFFFF
FF ULLER'S
FF LEXIBLE
FF
FFFF INE
FF
FF ITTING
FF
FFFF OOTWEAR.

Monson, - - Mass.

HAYNES & CO.,

The Great Clothiers, Tailors, Hatters and Furnishers,

Growing Bigger every day.

Never in the whole course of our 42 years' experience was clothing of such quality offered at prices we now quote.

Reliable, Honest-Made Goods.

Do not be deceived. Take plenty of time, look the clothing market over, THEN DECIDE.

For suits, overcoats, hats, caps and furnishing goods. Boys' and Children's best styles.

Where is the best place to put your confidence and buy your goods? For the past ten days we have astonished the people in prices for fine made suits and overcoats. The best the country makes. Guaranteed reliable.

Leaders as prices marked in plain figures will show to be leaders. Do not pay fancy prices to small concerns who have no foundation.

$10, $12, and $14 will buy as good styles as any clothing house show for $14, $16, and $18.

Dress Suits and Business Suits.

Vacation Suits.

Overcoats from $6.50 to $20.00 that are just right.

PANTALOONS.

No house can show a better assortment and at prices that bar competition.

Don't fail to see us for boys' and children's goods. Suits for $2.20, $2.75, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.85 and $5.

Fine dress suits for boys. Thousands of pairs of odd short pants, all prices.

Waists and blouses—grand display. For best value see

HAYNES & CO.

THE LEADING POPULAR CLOTHIERS, SPRINGFIELD.

New Goods for Warm Weather!

Pampas Cloths . . .
Puritans . . . . . .
Fine Ginghams . . . .
Cambrics . . . . . .
Outing Cloths . . . .
Muslins . . . . . .
Underwear . . . . . .
Veilings . . . . . .
Gloves and Hosiery . .
Parasols and Sun Umbrellas.

A FINE ASSORTMENT OF

Fancy Groceries and Canned Goods.

A LIMITED AMOUNT OF

Canned Peaches or Apricots

At one-third reduction in price to close.

∴ ∴ ∴ J. B. SHAW.

Take Notice. This Ad. for Business.

SUMMER STYLES.

The best line of colored shoes in the city, for

Short-Sighted—the woman who doesn't use Pearline; the woman who fails to have her servants use Pearline.

She fails to see what is good for her; she fails to have what is best for her.

Without Pearline washing and cleaning is drudgery and toil, and wear and tear, and rub, rub, rub.

With it, there is no hard work, and no harm to the finest things; there is little or no rubbing.

Use Pearline, and rest from your labor; the rest of your labor—the hardest part—is done by Pearline.

Beware of imitations. 243 JAMES PYLE, N Y

PROVIDENCE HEALTHIER.

DR. HOLLAND'S ADVICE FOLLOWED BY MRS. A. J. F. LINCHESTER OF THIS CITY WITH THE HAPPIEST RESULTS.

George L. Claflin & Co. and Messrs. Blanding & Blanding interviewed.

We believe it was the eminent Dr. Holland who once said there were many proprietary preparations to be found upon the shelves of a drug store that would cure the diseases for which they were prepared better and quicker than could be found in the Materia Medica for the same complaints.

Many articles have appeared of late in the medical journals and daily papers about the success Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has met with in the cure of those diseases brought about by excess of uric acid in the blood. So many of the common sicknesses of to-day such as rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney and liver complaints, and the sicknesses women suffer from, come from this one cause, that we determined to investigate the subject and much to our surprise found we were totally ignorant as to the good Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has been doing right in our very city.

Perhaps Providence does not hold a more grateful person to-day than Mrs. A. J. F. Manchester, but it did not take us long to learn that Mrs. Manchester had every reason to feel that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had saved her life—to use Mrs. Manchester's own words, "I suffered terribly with my kidneys and I had from my childhood a bad humor that had caused great inflammation all through my body. I had used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy but a short time when the inflammation began to heal, my kidney trouble disappeared and it made a new woman of me."

Inquiring among Mrs. Manchester's friends shows she states nothing but facts regarding her case. Many other instances of the kind are widely talked of here in Providence where Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has effected cures after physicians had given up hope. In speaking with a member of the firm of Messrs. George L. Claflin & Co. and Messrs. Blandin & Blandin as to the merit of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy they confirmed what we have already said. "It has an enormous sale, increased no doubt from the fact that so many physicians were prescribing it in cases of rheumatism, dyspepsia, nervousness and other diseases instead of the old method."

A well known Providence physician said, "I obtain better results from Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in cases of rheumatism, scrofula, dyspepsia, nervousness and general tired feeling so often experienced in the spring—than from any known remedy. Any man, woman or child suffering from the diseases I have mentioned or any other brought about by impure blood or excess of uric acid, or acetic acid in the blood can be cured if they will but use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy according to directions."
—Providence, R. I. Telegram. 4

The Chilton Paint Co. does not make a fire-proof paint. If they did what a business they would do among the sinners. Fire-proof paint for outside work has never yet been a success. Many people are prejudiced against mixed paints, possibly right, too, at least they think so; but let them lay aside their prejudices, get a good painter, some Chilton Paint, and follow instructions. The stronger they were against us the better we like it, for once convinced of the superior qualities of the Chilton Paint, they will use no other. The instructions are, mainly, to have the paint applied to a dry surface. The painter who is not afraid of rubbing his paint out, stretching it, as it were, is the man who will do for you the best work, and use the least paint in doing it.

Sold by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.
Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

MRS. LOVINA PHILBRICK.

Still Another Victim of La Grippe cured by . .

Leon's Sarsaparilla!

Only one case among a thousand.

To Leon Sarsaparilla Co.:

Gentlemen:—After a very severe attack of La Grippe, I was much reduced in strength. My stomach was out of order, I had no appetite, and a severe cough set in. People told me that with the coming of warm weather I should get better, but as the summer passed, I found that unless I got relief, I should soon be a confirmed invalid. I became despondent, and entirely without energy. Early in the autumn I commenced to use Leon's Sarsaparilla regularly, and occasionally took the Liver Granules. After two months, I find their use has changed me completely. I now have a good appetite, my food digests well, my cough is all gone, my strength has returned, and I am helped in every way. I am well and able to work.

Yours very thankfully,
MRS. LOVINA PHILBRICK.

The Kind that Never Fails

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.

Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.

Ripans Tabules cure indigestion.

The Office Seeker.

It was a noble office seeker who went to Washington
To get rewarded for the work he'd been and gone and done.
And first of all he thought he would ask the President
To put him in the cabinet; but ere a day was spent,
Upon a circuit judgeship all his energies were bent.

The second week he thought that he would quite contented be
If he were made a consul in some town across the sea;
But when he found he could not have an office of that kind,
Unto a post-official place he turned his agile mind,
But not much to encourage him in this quest could he find.

Whereupon he said a clerkship in the War Department would Have features in it that he thought held quite a deal of good;
And added, if there were no place among the men of war,
He'd even serve his country as a public janitor,
Or as the keeper of some big official's office door.

When blust'ring March was over, he put in a new request;
A tradeship in Lo's supplies, he said, would suit him best.
And when his application for that office was denied,
He showed himself a person to arouse his country's pride,
For with a free pass to his home, he went there satisfied.

From which the world must gather that the office seeker's not
A creature to be laughed at by the unambitious lot;
For though his heart on lofty place the office seeker sets,
To settle up his party's and his nation's little debts,
He's apt to be quite happy over anything he gets.
—John Kendrick Bangs, in Harper's Weekly.

AMONG THE PARAGRAPHERS.

EXCUSE FOR KISSING.

A spooner and a spooness sat at eve beside a lake,
And he inquired upon what terms a kiss a spoon might take.
"In kissing, dear," the spooness said, "one mustn't go too far.
Suppose we say we'll have a kiss for every shooting star."
Alas! black clouds came drifting in and hid the stars from sight,
But the maiden counted fireflies, and at last a swinging light—
A lantern by a brakeman waved in signalling a train—
Was made to sanction kisses by the spoony lass and swain.
—Warren Tribune.

She—"How was your speech at the club received the other night?" He—"When I sat down they said it was the best thing I ever did."—Life.

New Yorker—"What makes Philadelphia so healthy?" Philatowner—"Well, you see, people there breathe so slowly that they never exhaust the oxygen as they do in New York!"—Vogue.

"Robbie, why are you searching through Mr. Dullpate's pockets?" Robbie—"'Cause you said you s'posed he'd entertain the company to-night with a lot more of his chestnuts."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Algy—"Weginald, what did you say, you know, when you were pwesented to the Pwince of Wales?" Reginald—"Why, deah boy, the first thing I did was to apologize for the Amewican Wevolution."—Life.

"I nebbah pays no 'tention ter a gossip," said Aunt Huldah. "Eh gossip ain' got time ter git at de facts, nohow, an' you gin'ly fin's dat her true news ain' new an' her new news ain' true."—Washington Star.

"The inventor of the alphabet must have been a modest man," said Hawkins. "Why so?" asked Hawkins. "Most men would have begun with I."—Harper's Bazar.

As William bent over her fair face he whispered: "Darling, if I should ask you in French if I might kiss you, what would you answer?" She, summoning her scanty knowledge of French, replied: "Billet-doux!"—Tid-Bits.

A Novel Sensation. Miss Centmilles—"No, Mr. Cashless. Why did you imagine I would marry you?" Charley Cashless—"I never thought so." Miss Centmilles—"Then, why did you ask me?" Charley Cashless—"I wanted to see how a man feels who has just lost a hundred thousand dollars."—Puck.

Mrs. Growler—"Now, Grocer, you have charged me for things I've never had. What do you mean by such items as one handful of raisins, one pocketful of almonds, two mouthfuls of brown sugar—eh?" Grocer—"It means, Mrs. Growler, that ladies what will bring their children with them when they do their marketin' has got to pay for all they gets."—Harper's Bazar.

"Have you a new kite?" asked Willie of Tommy, who was standing on the hilltop olding the end of a string. "Course I have," replied Tommy. "Is it a good one?" "You bet. It's out of sight."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Young Mrs. Fitts—"Aren't these lovely towels, dear? I got them for 9 cents, and the regular price is 11." Mr. Fitts—"That's right, pet. I am glad to see you are so economical. But what is the matter with your hat?" Mrs. Fitts—"Oh! It got smashed all to pieces in the rush at the bargain counter. I guess you will have to let me have the money to get a new one, dear."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE GOOD YOUNG WIFE.

There is a young married woman of my acquaintance whose first wifely experience with the needle resulted in a capital joke on her. She found what appeared to be two immense rips on the inside of the tails of her husband's frock coat, and while he was down town she carefully sewed them up. When the young man came home to lunch his wife met him, coat in hand.

"I've just mended it," she said; "there were two awful rips in the tails of it."

"Let me see," said the husband of the industrious young woman. "I didn't know there was a tear in it."

"Yes, there was; right there."

"But those are the ——"

The young man caught the look of innocent doubt on his wife's face and stopped.

"Yes, those were fearful rips; things were getting in them all the time."

And the young man went down to his office and picked out the threads in order to get at his bank book and a few letters that he had in those tail pockets.—Kansas City Times.

A CHARITABLE VIEW OF THE WEATHER.—Mammy Church is an old negress who washes for a living, and who in the delivery of her patrons goods, has a good deal of hobbling around to do in all sorts of weather. The present winter has overtaxed her patience, and the climax of her complainings was reached on Washington's Birthday, when the tremendous storm of that day evoked the exclamations: "Nebber see de like er dis winter sence I was bo'n! Hit do erpear ter me dat de Lor' done gittin' ol' an childish."—Boston Courier.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY, }

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

{ SEAL } A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Mrs. Permelia Saxton
Turners Falls, Mass.

I Would Not be Alive

But for Hood's Sarsaparilla

Erysipelas, and Kidney Trouble Cured, at 93 Years of age

"I commenced using Hood's Sarsaparilla seven years ago, at which time I was nearly helpless, suffering from Erysipelas, which covered nearly my whole body and made me

Blind in One Eye.

My sufferings were intense, being completely raw from the disease. I also had kidney complaint, and at the time of my husband's death was unable to stand on my feet without support. After using Hood's Sarsaparilla a short time I began to feel stronger, the sores began to heal, the kidney trouble abated. After using six bottles I was entirely free from both diseases. My appetite became much better and I grew stronger, and now at ninety-three years of age I am able to attend church and take quite long walks. Had it not been for this valuable medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, I should not be alive today to tell this story. I keep a bottle of it at hand constantly." MRS. PERMELIA SAXTON, Turners Falls, Mass.

"I can certify to the truth of this statement." MRS. H. EMERY, Turners Falls, Mass.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, cure headache. Try a box.

COLTON'S

PERFECTLY DELICIOUS PURE EXTRACTS OF CHOICEST FRUITS

SELECT FLAVORS

WHY GET THE BEST?

Perfectly Pure. Most Delicious. | Unequaled Strength. Most Economical.

alt.-5

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S

COUGH and LUNG BALSAM

SURE CURE. PRICE 35 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

I KEEP COOL

inside, outside, and all the way through, by drinking

HIRES' Root Beer

This great Temperance drink; is as healthful, as it is pleasant. Try it.

Pike's Peak,

DENVER, COLORADO SPRINGS,
MANITOU, TWIN LAKES.

And other Resorts of Colorado.

Full printed information in regard to these places or any others, and suggestions as to the ways of reaching them, including the time-tables of the different railroad lines you could use, sent free. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address The JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

WILLIAMS'

Here's Health!

ROOT BEER

Easily and cheaply made at home. Improves the appetite, and aids digestion. An unrivalled temperance drink. Healthful, foaming, luscious. One bottle of extract makes 5 gallons. Get it sure.

This is not only "just as good" as others, but far better. One trial will support this claim. SOLD EVERYWHERE

Williams & Carleton, Hartford, Ct.

NATURE'S REMEDY FOR LIVER COMPLAINT — SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE LIVER PILLS

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY.

OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by
21-41 R. J. HENRY, MAIN ST., PALMER.

Land Plaster

BY THE BAG OR TON.

C. D. HOLBROOK,

PALMER.

AGENT FOR

G. W. SIMMONS & CO.

—AND—

Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.

CLOTHING TO ORDER.

Spring samples ready for inspection.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

WE ARE IN IT!

SMITH & CO., PALMER.

W. H. SMITH,

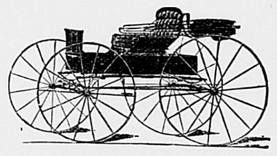
2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a large and complete line of fine and medium priced carriages. Fifty different styles in family carriages, top and open buggies, Concords, etc.

Good variety of top and open delivery wagons, road carts and farm wagons.

Novelties in buckboards and traps.

100 second hand carriages, all prices.

15-1 alt.

HAVE YOU VISITED THE

WHITE MOUNTAINS?

DO YOU KNOW THE RESTING-PLACES AMONG VERMONT'S GREEN HILLS?

ARE YOU ACQUAINTED WITH THE UNIQUE RESORTS IN THE VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS?

If you are looking for a place to spend your vacation in any mountain region, write us for any information you may desire, saying what sections you wish to know about and the price you desire to pay for board. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. Call for samples. 52-17

1893—SPRING—1893

CARPET : :

Department

(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN

65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN

35c to 50c.

HEMP

15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS

25c to 60c

(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS

15c to 40c

(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS

$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS

50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.

Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

DEAFNESS and Head Noises cured by Peck's Invisible Tubular Ear Cushions. Whispers heard. Comfortable. Successful where all remedies fail. Illustrated book and proofs free. 4-1 Address F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York.

Ripans Tabules prolong life.

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c, and $1.00 at Druggists

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Cough, Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Pain, Take in time. 50 cts.

KINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists, or HISCOX & CO., N. Y

WANTED—Salesmen; salary and expenses from start; steady work; good chance for advancement. BROWN BROS. CO., Nurserymen, 4-3 Rochester, N. Y.

Foulds' Wheat Germ Meal

(WHEAT GERM FOR SHORT,)

IS THE MOST DELICIOUS, NUTRITIOUS and VALUABLE

BREAKFAST CEREAL

ever introduced. It is steadily gaining in public favor.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

MRS. M. C. BROWN'S

METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY

Kills the Root of all Diseases.

THREE PREPARATIONS

which enter the system by absorption through

THE EYES, EARS AND SCALP.

NO DRUGS THROUGH THE MOUTH.

Three bottles in a set, put up in three sizes, and sold at $5.00, $2.50, $1.25.

Order of druggists, or enclose price to

METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY,

51 BOND ST., NEW YORK,

where please send 10 cents for pamphlet of 100 pages.

ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

Boston Depot—Wholesale and Retail, 26 and 28 4-5 Hanover Street.

BAKER BAY STATE & SPRINGFIELD HARNESS.

MANUFACTURED BY BAKER HARNESS CO. 289 MAIN ST. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

26-5

C. H. HOBBY, PIANO TUNER.

Orders for tuning may be left at O. P. Allen's drug store, Palmer; or may be sent to me by mail to Mansfield, Ct.

MILK

AND CREAM can be kept perfectly fresh and sweet five to seven days without using ice. Simple, cheap, unfailing. Sample free. Write THE PRESERVALINE MFG. CO., sole mfrs. and patentees, 10 Cedar street, New York. 4-5

Dr. Browning's Prescription prevents CHOLERA.

It is a good thing to have in the house for ready use when attacked with severe pains in the bowels, cramps or colic. It kills Cholera germs, something quite important this year. Only the purest of ingredients are used and great care is taken in its preparation. All like this Prescription upon the first trial. It saves much sickness and expense. 25 Cents per Bottle.

NO FREE SAMPLES.

52-5

Engraved Address Cards

Are the correct thing for ladies or gentlemen.

Correct sizes—latest styles of letters.

Call and see samples.

The PALMER JOURNAL.

SULPHUR BITTERS

THE GREATEST BLOOD PURIFIER KNOWN.

This Great German Medicine is the CHEAPEST and best. 128 doses of Sulphur Bitters for $1.00, less than one cent a dose. It will cure the worst kind of skin disease, from a common pimple on the face to that awful disease, SCROFULA. In all cases of such stubborn, deep seated diseases, Sulphur Bitters is the best medicine to use. Don't wait until tomorrow, try a bottle TO-DAY.

Don't ever take BLUE PILLS, or mercury, they are deadly. Put your trust in Sulphur Bitters, the purest and best medicine ever made. Is your TONGUE COATED with a yellow, sticky substance? Is your Breath foul and offensive? Your Stomach is OUT OF ORDER.

Use Sulphur Bitters immediately. If you are sick, no matter what ails you, use Sulphur Bitters. Don't wait until you are unable to walk, or are flat on your back, but get some AT ONCE, it will cure you. Sulphur Bitters is

THE INVALID'S FRIEND.

Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., for best medical work published

Job Printing

of all kinds

at the Journal Office

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

Ripans Tabules cure torpid liver.

POOR FORK VALLEY.

"I ain't much on the shoot now," said the old man, as he tenderly hung his squirrel rifle on the deer-horn hooks over the door, "but when I was a youngster there wasn't no man er boy in Poor Fork Valley that could shoot alongside of me. Nary a one," and the old man sighed heavily.

"But," he continued, "this gitting old knocks the edge off a man's eyesight, and makes his hand so trembly that he can't even take a drink of liquor without wastin' half of it; and as fer shootin', us old fellers might as well try to hit center with a maul at a hundred yards."

The visitor, to whom this desultory conversation was addressed, made a few desultory and incongruous remarks, and the old man resumed his talk, pretty much as if nothing at all had been said, which it was, mostly.

"I never got beat but once," he went on, with a good-humored reminiscent chuckle, "and that was by a feller that hadn't sense enough skeercely to go in out of the rain. Leastwise, that's what I thought when the match came off. He didn't live in my neighborhood, but he had a farm about twenty mile furder up the Fork, and I had a habit of goin' up thar to see a mighty likely gal, that was darter to the man that owned the place next to the chap that beat me at the shootin'.

"The old man's name was Squire Higgins, and the gal's name was Mary. Mary's a purty name and Mary was a purty gal. Nothin' on the Fork was a patchin' to that gal, and I wanted her bad enough to go up thar sparkin' about twict a week durin' of a mighty hard winter, when it was cold enough to freeze the knobs off a bureau. Mary kinder liked me, too. Liked me better'n any other young fellers that was hangin' round, exceptin' Ben Wilkins, and it was neck and neck betwixt me and Ben.

"Ben was her neighbor, and the same feller I had the shootin' match with. I never could see how she tuk to Ben, he was so doggoned freckle-faced and sunburnt and sandy-haired and ignorant-like and fooler than Thompson's colt, but you can't tell about a woman, and there wasn't no goin' back on the solemn fact, that ef Ben didn't get out of my way I was never goin' to git the gal, and it was most nigh as certain that ef somethin' didn't happen to me, Ben wasn't goin' to git her neither. It was close runnin', Mister, and the gal settin' on the fence, aggin' us on. That's another weakness women has; I mean these young women that has ther choice, like Mary Higgins. Wasn't no danger of her fillin' a maiden's grave, even of me and Ben both got out of the way.

"One mornin' when I was up on the road leadin' up the Fork, towards Squire Higgins' farm, I met Ben comin' down with a load of hay, an' I'd been goin' to see Mary then fur mighty nigh a year.

"'How'd'y, Ben?' says I, friendly enough.

"'How'd'y, Dan'l,' says he to me.

"'Fair to middlin',' says I.

"'Goin' up to the Squire's, I reckon?' says he, questionin'.

"'That's what,' says I, speakin' as if I had the right to.

"'Mary ain't home,' says he.

"'Who said anything about Mary?' said I, gittin' red 'round the years.

"'The way you're goin',' says he, with a grin.

"'What's that to you?' says I, not over pdlite I reckon.

"'Nothin',' says he; 'but ef you want to see her, you'd better go down to mother's. She's down thar to a quiltin'.'

"Ben grinned again and I got purty mad, but not enough to hurt anybody, and says I to him:

"'Ben Wilkins,' says I, 'have you got a gun?'

"'You don't want to fight, do you?' says he, backin' off, kinder, for I thought he was skeert, and mebbe he was.

"'No, says I, 'but I want Mary Higgins.'

"'So do I,' says he.

"'Then it cleared up a bit, and we both looked at each other sorter sheepish and grinned, fer before this we hadn't ever had no understandin'.

"'Now, as we know what we want,' says I, 'we orter have it settled on short notice who's to git it, and ef you air agreeable we'll settle it to the satisfaction of all parties at intrust, as the lawyers say.'

"'How?' says he.

"'We can't both have her, kin we?' says I.

"'Not accordin' to law,' says he.

"'Ner no way,' says I.

"'I reckon not,' says he.

"'Then s'posed we have a shooting match fer her,' says I.

"'I ain't agreeable to that,' says he.

"'Fer why?' says I.

"'You air handier than me with a gun, says he.

"'Some, mebbe,' says I, 'umble enough, 'but I'll give you twenty-five yards advantage, and that'l about make it even.'

"Well, after talkin' fer half an hour or more, we fixed up a shootin' match fer next day, on Ben's farm, for he was skeert to go anywheres else, and I rid back home, and next forenoon I was on hand feelin' slick as a whistle, fer I was gamblin' on gittin' Mary. Nobody was to know anything about our settlement, and when I seed Ben, he was settin' on the fence, about a quarter of a mile from his house, with his gun acrost his lap, lookin' lonsomer than a cat in a rain storm.

"Thar was an old frame barn standin' by itself in the field, and we went over to it to have a quiet place for the closing arrangements. It had a pile of loose straw in it, and as we sot there talkin', I seed a knot-hole in the plank about two inches acrost, and I ast him ef it wouldn't make a good enough mark with the straw inside to ketch the bullets. You see I was doin' most of the engineerin,' fer Ben was that shook up he didn't seem to know his head from a hole in the ground. He said he thought the knot-hole would do, so we went outside and it was like as ef it had been put there a purpose.

"We stepped off 100 yards fust, and druv a pin down, and then went on twenty-five yards and druv another, and me and Ben took our places. We was to shoot ten tiines apiece, me five and Ben five, turn about and neither of us was to go nigh the other, to flustrate him during the shootin'. I was feelin' in regular shootin' trim, and when I shot my five I knowed Ben was goin' to have to do some mighty tall shootin' er lose the gal. We went to the mark together and pegged up three holes, not half an inch from the knot-hole, and two bullets had gone smack through, leavin' no sign.

"Then Ben he took his turn, and I was shore I seen him shake when he sighted his gun, but he shot off his five, and we went up to see what he had done—and what do you think, Mister? There wasn't a sign of a bullet-hole anywheres!

"I looked at Ben and he looked at me.

"'You ain't shootin' very spry to-day,' says he, grinnin'.

"'You air, says I, lookin' ugly and feelin' my holt on Mary slippin'.

"Next round I was dead sot on doin' my level best and I put three balls through the hole and scraped the edges with the other two.

"Ben was lookin' peakid, and I seed his knees wabblin', but he braced up and went back to settle who should have the gal, and it' peared to me like as if he was takin' till Christmas to fire them five shots. He got it done at last, though, and we walked up to the mark kinder unsartin, both of us, but thar wasn't any need of it."

"Did you win?" broke in the visitor, in a high state of excitement and interest.

"Nary win, mister," chuckled the old man. "That sandy-headed, thumb-handed cuss had sent every one of his five bullets smack through the knot-hole and thar wasn't the sign of a scratch anywheres in sight.

"That ended it fer me, both fer shootin' and fer the gal, and I rid home feelin' like a saw log had fell on me butt end fo' most, and Ben went lopin' acrost the field tor'ds Squire Higgins's.

"About a month after the shootin' match Ben and Mary was hitched, and I was to the hitchin' feelin' a good deal pearter than the day Ben beat me, and gettin' some consolation out of a new gal just moved onto the Fork. But I couldn't quite git over Ben's beatin' me shootin'.

"Along about midnight I had to go home, and as I started to git on my hoss, Mary followed me out on the porch.

"'Dan'l,' says she, kinder cooin' and soft like, 'you won't git mad at me ef I tell you somethin', will you?'

"'Of course not, Mary,' says I. 'Nothin' you could say er do would make me mad at you.'

"'Well, then, Dan'l,' says she, shakin' some, fer I was holdin' her hand and knowed, 'when you and Ben hed the shootin' match fer me, Ben didn't have no bullets in his gun. They were just wads.'

"Well, sir, you could a-knocked me down with a splinter, and I got hot all over, but I shet my jaws down hard fer a minute and held in, thinkin' about those wads.

"'And he didn't beat me shootin' after all?' says I, feelin' mighty good over it, all at once.

"'No, he didn't,' says she, pattin' me on the arm like as ef she was my mother.

"'But he got you,' says I, droppin' back a peg or two.

"'Yes,' says she, 'but I put him up to it, Dan'l.'

"Then she smiled, till I thought the sun was risin', and I throwed my arms right 'round her and says I:

"'Mary,' says I, 'you've got more sense than Ben an' me put together, pertickerly me, an' I'm glad you've got the one you wanted,' and with that I jumped on my hoss and rid lickerty split for home, and when I got thar I hugged that rifle of mine as ef it had been Mary Higgins."

"Dan'l," called the old man's wife from the kitchen, at this point, "supper's ready."

"So air we, Lizzie," he said raising.

The visitor looked at him inquiringly as he rose to accompany him supperward.

"Yes," smiled the old man, "she's the same that was the new gal on the Fork the night Mary and Ben got hitched."—W. J. Lampton in Detroit Free Press.

THE KIND THAT CURES

VICTORIA H. JOHNSON, New Bedford, Mass.

HOPE HAD FLED!

Chronic Nasal Catarrh!

"People Say it is a Miracle!"

VICTORY FOR DANA'S!

Read this Wonderful Statement, sent us by Church & Hamlin, Pharmacists, Cor. Williams and Pleasant Sts., New Bedford, Mass.:

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.,

DEAR SIRS—I have had Chronic Nasal Catarrh for many years, and have been a great sufferer. Have had five Physicians who have told me my disease was so bad they could not help me. My throat was so bad I could eat only the softest food for six months. My nose was swollen out of shape. I could not drink two swallows of water at a time without it being forced through my nostrils. My throat was often away so badly that one Physician thought I must have a surgical operation. I had given up all hopes of recovery, but through the influence of friends I began using and with the first bottle began to improve. I have taken three bottles and can assure you I am wonderfully improved, physically and mentally. My throat is all healed. I can eat any hard substance, and people who know me say it is a miracle.

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

Respectfully yours,
VICTORIA H. JOHNSON.
No. 78 Merrimac St., New Bedford, Mass.

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

Ripans Tabules assist digestion.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE BEST

BRADLEY FERTILIZER.

C. D. HOLBROOK, Palmer.

AYER'S Hygienic Coffee.

A Health Drink, Nerve and Brain Food.

Contains all the elements one's system requires. Prepared by M. S. AYER, of Boston. A Vegetarian for many years.

Price, 20 Cents per Pound.

Directions. Prepare the same as Coffee, using not more than two-thirds as much for same amount of water, or one tablespoonful for a pint.

FOLLOW THE DIRECTIONS AND YOU WILL USE NO OTHER.

Send two 2-cent stamps for book on "Diet Reform."

M. S. AYER, 191 STATE STREET, BOSTON.

Sold by ROBINSON & TAYLOR, Palmer, Mass.

DO YOU COUGH

DON'T DELAY TAKE

KEMP'S BALSAM

THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1.00

AGENTS WANTED to canvass for the sale of our home-grown nursery stock. New profit-sharing system. Salary and expenses paid. W. & T. SMITH CO., The Geneva Nursery, Geneva, N. Y. Established 1846. One of the largest, oldest established and best known Nurseries in the United States. 4-5

Ripans Tabules—gentle cathartic.

BUILDING LOTS GIVEN AWAY.

For particulars inquire of

C. S. RUGGLES,
13-48 Three Rivers, Mass.

You and Your Children

It is a wonderful remedy, which is alike beneficial to you and your children. Such is Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It checks wasting in the children and produces sound, healthy flesh. It keeps them from taking cold and it will do the same for you

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

Scott's Emulsion

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 19, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 7.

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.
TINNERS, AND
STEAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls,
Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers,
Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business.
Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS,
VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices.
Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

---

HERSEY & SON,

GENERAL

House Furnishers.

385 MAIN STREET, - SPRINGFIELD, MASS.,
(Opposite Haynes Hotel.)

One of the largest and best equipped house furnishing establishments in Western Massachusetts.

Five Floors packed with Goods!

Including everything necessary for successful housekeeping, and all connected by our safety elevator.

OUR AIM IS

That our goods shall be reliable. Our prices low and our terms as easy and liberal as any house furnishing establishment in New England and we are confident that a personal inspection of our goods and a comparison of prices will justify our claim.

DON'T FAIL TO EXAMIN[illegible]

"SCHEPPS' PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD,"

A beautiful book containing over 250 views from all parts of the world.
One of these beautiful $5 books free to every purchaser of $50 worth or more of goods any time beetween this and Sept. 1st.

HERSEY & SON.

13-53

---

NEW UNDERTAKING
ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

---

FOR SALE.

GRASS SEEDS

OF ALL KINDS,

By the bag or bushel.

Palmer Grain Store.

---

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 30 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz.
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5-lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 30c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 35c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 17c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

---

CARRIAGES.

ALL KINDS AND PRICES.

I carry one of the largest and finest stocks to be found. SPRINGFIELD IS THE CARRIAGE CENTER of Western Mass.

When you have looked all the carriage stocks over, before you buy, come to my Repository and save from $10 to $30 on any kind you want. You can find nearly everything in the wagon line with me at a great saving to you. Also, Harness, Robes, Blankets, and all kinds of Horse Goods. My expenses are small, do my own work, and save you the expense of help. I can and will sell. Come and satisfy yourself at 60 Dwight Street, Springfield, Mass.

13-51 D. N. BUTTERWORTH.

---

SALESMEN!

We want more AGENTS

at home or to travel. Salary or commission. Cash advanced for expenses. Good territory for those who apply early. Write for terms.

R. G. CHASE & CO.,

8-52 23 Pemberton Sq., Boston, Mass.

---

A FULL LINE OF

Jas. H. Prince Paint Co's

English Tinted Ready-Mixed Paints

IN ALL THE POPULAR SHADES.

White Lead, Zinc, Oil, Japan and Varnish.

—:o:—

FERTILIZERS.

We shall have in stock Monday a full line of Stockbridge Manures of all grades for potatoes and vegetables. We have the best in the market.

Barb Wire and Poultry Netting.

—FULL LINE OF—

PLOWS, CULTIVATORS, HARROWS, SHOVELS, FORKS, RAKES.

BEST LINE AT BOTTOM PRICES.

C. A. BROWN CO.

---

New Grocery Store on Central Street!

Now open and ready for business

Every article in our stock is entirely new and fresh, and we shall take especial pains to see that every customer is satisfied.

Give us a trial order—you will never regret it.

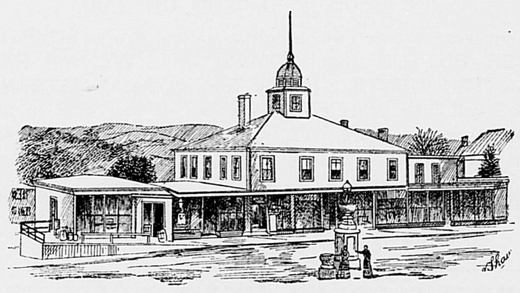
Will call for orders and deliver goods.

Give us a trial.

Thompson & Bannister.

H. W. THOMPSON.
C. H. BANNISTER.

---



Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown in

— MONSON. —

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of Jamestown, N. Y., 30 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM SERGE. Also 25 pieces (8-yard lengths—no two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SERGE.

GORDON DYE HOSIERY.

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hosiery to our customers as the best article for purity of dye and wearing quality ever offered to the public. A complete line of "Gordon Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls and Infants in black and all the fashionable colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED STAINLESS.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Now Complete.

The Columbus Boys' Suit goes ahead of everything. A Columbus Medal given with every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black and Fancy Cheviots and Black Worsteds. FINE ASSORTMENT OF SPRING SUITS FROM $8 TO $20.

☞ LATEST NOVELTIES IN NECKWEAR.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Have added to our large stock the latest styles in Ladies' and Gent's Shoes. Before you purchase don't fail to see the novelties we are offering.

Headquarters for Trunks, Bags, Etc.,

— AT —

W. N. FLYNT & SONS, Monson.

---

☞ NOTICE.

After a thorough, careful, painstaking and practical investigation, we, the undersigned, hereby certify to the public that the

Morrell Liquor Cure Co.,

a corporation located at Westfield, Mass., is now prepared to cure all persons afflicted with the LIQUOR, OPIUM AND TOBACCO HABITS, and to guarantee a cure or money refunded.

The features of this cure are:—

Absolute Privacy.
Treatment at Home.
No Unpleasant Effects.
No Loss of Time.
No Sore Arm.

Of more than 3000 patients treated, not one has failed of permanent cure.

Address all correspondence to MORRELL LIQUOR CURE CO., or Box 403, WESTFIELD, MASS.

JOHN R. REED, President The H. B. Smith Mfg. Co.
JAS. NOBLE, JR., Vice President Hampden National Bank.
W. A. LINCOLN, Treasurer Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Co.
REV. JOHN H. LOCKWOOD, Pastor First Congregational Church.
H. N. KINGSBURY, Secretary and Treasurer Odd Fellows Fraternal Accident Association.
A. S. ATKINS, President Vitrified Wheel Co.
R. W. PARKS, Secretary Bay State Association.
F. F. VAN DEUSEN, of E. R. Van Deusen & Son.
FRANK BOWLER, Director V. W. Crowson Waste Co.
GEO. W. WINSLOW, Principal School of Observation.
H. W. ELY, Esq., Attorney-at-Law.

13-53

Haunted Houses.

All houses wherein men have lived and died
Are haunted houses. Through the open doors
The harmless phantoms on their errands glide
With feet that make no sound upon the floor.

We meet them at the doorway, on the stair,
Along the passages they come and go;
Impalpable impressions on the air,
A sense of something moving to and fro.

There are more guests at table than the hosts
Invited; the illuminated hall
Is thronged with quiet inoffensive ghosts
As silent as the pictures on the wall.

The stranger at my fireside cannot see
The forms I see nor hear the sounds I hear;
He but perceives what is, while unto me
All that has been is visible and clear.

We have no title deeds to houses or lands;
Owners and occupants of earlier dates
From graves forgotten stretch their dusty hands,
And hold in mortmain all their old estates.

The spirit world around this world of sense
Floats like an atmosphere, and everywhere
Wafts through these earthly mists and vapors dense,
A vital breath of more ethereal air.

Our little lives are kept in equipoise
By opposite attractions and desires;
The struggle of the instinct that enjoys,
And the more noble instinct that aspires.

These perturbations, this perpetual jar
Of earthly wants and aspirations high,
Come from the influence of an unseen star,
An undiscovered planet in our sky.

And as the morn from some dark gate of cloud
Throws o'er the sea a floating bridge of light,
Across whose trembling planks our fancies crowd
Into the real of mystery and night—

So from the world of spirits there descends
A bridge of light, connecting it with this,
O'er whose unsteady floor, that sways and bends,
Wander our thoughts above the dark abyss.

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

IN HUSKING TIME.

Dick Merlin could husk eighty bushels of corn in a day. And he was looking forward to the time when he would be able to husk eighty-five, which would give him the championship of Nebraska, where everyone, almost, knows how to husk corn. For Nebraska is built of corn. Her cities prosper because of it. In summer her fields rustle with it from boundary to boundary, and in winter the snow falls on the dripping and faded bundles of stalks which stand among the stubble. Dick Merlin had been brought up among the corn. He played with the cobs when he was a baby, beside the hot cob fire; he ate the meal and the bread, and the sweet corn from the ear—and little else, if the truth is told, excepting salt pork, which he detested. And now it gave him his living. Not that he was a farmer. He was only a "hand." He might have had his farm as well as the rest. But he was too clever.

"I'll not sell myself to an eight-per-cent man," he declared. "I know when I'm well off. No interest for me, thank you. I prefer to work for the good of Dick Merlin, not for the good of the money-lender."

But he wasn't given to talking much, and he never harangued. Only once or twice, when his close friends tried to prove that it was a shame for a man of his abilities to be hiring out to farmers no older than himself as if he were a common laborer, he made that answer.

It is somehow difficult for a man who has assumed the responsibilities of a mortgage and a corn crop to feel any respect for a man less hampered. Dick got better wages than any other man in the country, for the simple reason that he did more work. He was in great demand. And the women, who play a very important part in the business of husking time, also liked him. He did not eat as did the other men at table, with such disregard for the labors of the cuisine. Sometimes he remembered to praise a dish. And he ate no more than he wanted. At harvest time and in the husking season some men give themselves up to gluttony which is little less than a debauch. The women talk this over among themselves, be sure, when they are alone together in the afternoon. But Dick was different. They all agreed that he was. And some hazarded guesses as to how much he had laid up in the bank. It seemed wonderful to these women, who faced an absorbing indebtedness, to think that one of their number had an account at the bank.

"If Dick Merlin was to get married," Kate McGoven said, as she washed the dishes after the noonday meal, "he would think nothing of taking his wife to Omaha for a month or two. He went there himself last year, and he told Ed, my brother, that he went to the theater every night."

No one replied. They were all very much impressed. And after the dishes were all washed, and the biscuits set for supper, the three girls who had come over to help Mrs. Catlin went to the barn door to watch the men work. There were fifteen men there, for the Catlins had an enormous crop this year, but the girls all looked at Dick Merlin. He sat with his shaggy hair falling over his eyes, his brown big arms bared to the elbow, and every sense concentrated on his work, while near him steadily rose the pyramid of red and yellow corn.

The man who shells fifty bushels of corn a day must deny himself pause or speech; he must recklessly toss from him the unaimed ears, and drop the husks with perfect disregard. To shell eighty bushels of corn requires not only a silence of the lips, but a terrible intensity of the mind. Fatigue must be triumphed over. The hands must be kept at their task by a compelling will. One may not see, hear, smell, anything but corn. In fact, no perfectly healthy or happy man can work like that. It requires the mad speed of one who is devil-driven.

"You're wearing yourself out for nothing," Kate McGoven called to Dick. "Don't make a goose of yourself. There's no use in working like that just for the sake of saying that you can husk more corn than anybody else. You'll get old before you've cut your wisdom teeth."

Dick smiled without pausing. "I'm not overdoing, I guess," he said. But though the girls lured him with further remarks he would not speak again, and they turned away at last discouraged.

Faster and more furious flew the ears from Dick's nervous hand. Now and then his lips moved as the lips of a man do who dreams in his sleep.

The truth is Dick was having it out with himself. That is to say, he was trying to obliterate a vision. He was trying to bury a memory under that enormous pyramid of corn. Yet, let the corn fly from his impelling hand as it would, let eyes, energy, mind, every sense, strive to concentrate themselves on his task, still before his burning eyes would come over and over again the same picture—a desolate stretch of sandhill country, with its little blue pones in the midst of the wind-beaten dunes, and a hut in the valley among the bunch-grass. This hut, standing in the very draught of the "draw," seemed to be a target for all the winds that blew from the west. Its siding gaped like the seams af a rotten boat high-pitched on the beach. The rain had left a streak of rust below each nail, and the weather had roughened the unpainted fibre of the wood, and the scant glass in the window-sashes was pieced out with shingles. Dick could even see the sag of the door, with the wooden latch and leather hinges. The interior was dim enough with smoke of bad tobacco and of griddlecakes to have become a most indistinct memory. Yet of all the rooms in the world it was the one in which Dick was forced to live in spirit, no matter where his body might be.

"It's easy enough," he muttered to himself wrenching the crisp covering from the brilliant ears, "to send our legs where we please. But to get a mind to do as as you like, that's quite another matter. It's like rounding up cattle on the range, only there never was a steer as wild as my mind."

Then, too, there were voices which he could not shut out of his ears.

"I'm not like the girls you know back east," one voice said. It had a timid way of speaking. Dick almost thought now, as he heard it here from the phonograph of his memory, that it had tears in it. "Remember, I've never been any further than the next town, Dick. Don't be thinking too bad of my ways. I've studied some. We had a good teacher once. He said I was a natural scholar. And he sent me books, which I read. Indeed there is nothing to do but to read them. Why, I do not know a girl of my own age. So few of the people around here have ever had children. Most of the men are not even married. They keep their stock here part of the year and 'batch it. Then they go to Salt Lake or to Denver or to Omaha for a while and do no good, I guess, from the way they look when they come home. I will not speak to them. When they come here I go up the ladder to my room. It is quiet there, and there is not so much smoke. I hate smoke. Mother is always cooking things in grease, and father is smoking. I have never had a worsted dress. Think of that, Dick. There's a girl in one of the books that teacher sent me who dressed all in faded silk. And, Dick, once a lover came and got her new dresses and took her to see the queen. Oh, but I wouldn't mind faded silk, not at all. That might be beautiful. But these prints always fade the first time they wash, and we never have starch to put in them. Say, Dick! If I was dressed like the girls you know east, would I look as well as they do? Am I bad to look at? And, Dicky, if I had a looking-glass, maybe I could do up my hair better. I might cut a lot of it off in front, and curl it over a slate-pencil."

Dick remembered how they were plodding through the sand together as they talked. The wind came nippingly through the draw and tossed her yellow straight hair about her face. Her rough shoes made her walk lumberingly, and her scant ill-made dress clung about her form in graceless folds. If it were only possible to forget what he said then!

"You are beautiful!" he cried; "and I would rather be with you than any girl I ever saw. Why, you can't imagine what nonsense they talk! And you talk so beautifully! And they have talked English all their lives, while it is only such a little time since you learned it. As for the looking-glass, I would rather you did not have it. Now there is no one but me to tell you how nice you look; and I never want any one else to tell you as long as I live. Do you hear, Maria? You must never let any other man tell you what I have told you just now. It wouldn't be right."

The girl stopped, and looked at him seriously, her blue eyes resting in perfect trust on his face.

"Wouldn't it?" she said. "Then I never will as long as I live! You may feel sure about that. But I think I ought to tell you something. That schoolteacher, you know, when he went away, he—well, he kissed me good-by—just once—and not on the lips. And he said something—but not like what you have been saying."

"What did he say, Marie? Look me in the face and tell me."

"Oh, I am always looking you in the face. I like to. You have a pleasant face. It is different from any other I know. Father and mother—but you know what they are like. They are never happy; at least they do not smile; sometimes they laugh. But happy people smile. It is different when you laugh. You may do that because someone is having a bad time. Father laughs when the men lose their cattle. And the teacher—his face was different from yours. He walked with his head down, and was taller than you, but not with big shoulders like yours. He was happy in a way, but not as you are. Why, even your ears laugh. It is possible to have a very nice time with you—"

"Marie, what did he say to you?"

"Who? Oh, Mr. Eckhart? He said, 'I do not know why God has placed you here in such a place; but I try to think that it is for some good reason, and that you are to find your work here.' And then he kissed me. That's all. Mother was there only she doesn't understand English well enough to know what he was saying. I used to hate English; I never learned it. But as he taught it, it was different from that I always heard. It was beautiful; I was glad to learn it. And now I can talk it to you. That is so nice. What if you had come, and I had loved you, and never been able to tell you of it?"

Dick turned red now as he remembered his reply.

"You would not need to speak," he said, "to let me know that you loved me."

They had been amazingly happy together. Dick had to admit that even now, when there were such terrible reasons for being ashamed of it all. Not that she was to blame. But he had been so weak, so—

It happened this way. For years that part of the country where Marie Hultz lived had been annoyed by some adroit "cattle-rustler." Let the herds be as well guarded as they might be, they could not be protected against the depredations of this successful thief. Up in the sand-hill country a murderer may be held in some esteem. That is to say, there is no strong objection to a man's taking the law into his own hands. If an injustice is done one, it is considered rather more honorable to settle the difficulty one's self than to pusillanimously take the matter to the courts. Such methods are thought well enough for city men, or for clerks, but they are at best effeminate. But while this leniency is shown toward the murderer, no quarter is given to the cattle-thief. For him there is a rope waiting.

It happened that Dick met one of the worst of the sufferers from the mysterious exploits of the rustler down in Nebraska city. Dick was out of a job. The man was willing to pay anything for his fill of revenge. He sent Dick up to get at the meat of the nut if he could. Dick liked the idea well enough. No Nebraska man has any compunction about hunting down a cattle-thief. Besides, he had never been up in the sand-hill country, and he wanted to see it. He had an idea he might go into the cattle business himself. For in this arid region nothing can be grown, or almost nothing; but in the hollows between the sandy hillocks there is a coarse grass on which cattle thrive surprisingly well. And over this far-reaching expanse, many miles apart, are scattered the farms of men who are perhaps, of all farmers in the west, the most abject. They are surrounded by a desert; they have no enjoyment whatever; there is little companionship among them; they have no ambitions; comparatively few of them have families. They maintain life by some means not distinctly preceptible to the ordinary man, and their reason for desiring to continue to exist must be inexplicable even to those who know them best. Only, it is a fact that the meanest worm will feign death to escape that which he feigns. Perhaps it is not surprising that a man's instinct for life should be at least as strong as that of a grub.

Dick spent three months up there. He made friends with every one. He pretended to be a buyer for a farmer in the eastern part of the state, who made a business of fattening cattle before they were driven into the great yards at South Omaha. He managed to get a reputation for being a hard drinker, though, as a matter of fact, he drank next to nothing, and, in common with many other men of his walk, was a prohibitionist in theory. But this reputation explained every inconsistency in his conduct. It even explained his sleeping in the day and disappearing at night. So it came about, after some patience, that Dick tracked the fox to his hole. In other words, he found that the seemingly poor, stolid, easy-going Peter Hultz, who appeared to have no thought beyond his pipe and his keg of beer, was in reality one of the most energetic, daring, and indefatigable cattle-thieves in the country.

And he was one of all others who had never been suspected. He had apparently an inveterate laziness. His little blue eyes were lost in the flesh of his cheeks. His great legs moved slowly. He drawled when he spoke, and he never spoke in English. His cattle were few and poor in number and poorly attended to. Such care as they received was given them by his daughter, Marie. Dick, watching this man drowsing over his fire, smoking, and growling in martial complacency at his wife, could hardly believe that this was the man he had seen ride out of the darkness into the midst of the cattle, lash up a few of them, and hurry them off, his gigantic form alert with ferocity, his eyes gleaming dangerously, the pistol in his belt ready for action. He had many confederates, that was evident. And they were men of ability. It was more than suspected that some of them were connected with the railroad, and managed to secure transportation for the cattle immediately. At any rate it was a well-known fact that no cattle taken away from that part of the country had ever been recovered.

Dick did not feel that there was any particular hurry about bringing matters to a focus. He argued that it would be better to wait and catch the rest of the gang. And he got down near the Hultz place in a shack with an unmarried man who had a place of his own. An hour's walking would bring him to the Hultzes'. And when he found there was a girl in the house he congratulated himself for having a reasonable excuse for visiting there often. Dick had seen a girl around there. But he had never particularly noticed her. He did not have a scruple about going up to "keep company" with her. For one thing a young man's attentions to a young woman are not necessarily taken seriously out in the West. And besides it is not likely that the daughter of a cattle rustler would be injured in any way by spending a few evenings and afternoons with a young man whose only attitude toward her was one of indifference.

In the grime, the smoke, the odors of this place, Dick made himself at home. The first evening he came he saw, over in one corner, reading by the light of the sputtering coal-oil lamp, the girl whom he had come to see. He had been talking in indifferent German to Peter Hultz, who watched him narrowly all the time, smoking as he watched. When Dick made sure that the girl was not likely to join them around the stove, he walked over to where she sat in her chilly corner.

"Do you also speak no English?" he said to her in German.

She looked up from her book and smiled—an innocent smile, such as any one might give who had received an unexpected kindness—not at all the sort of smile you would expect from a cattle rusher's daughter. "I speak English better than I do German," she responded, "and the reason of it is that I learned German from those who are no scholars, while my English was learned from one who spoke the tongue well. Only those who talk much in English tell me that I do not speak it as the folk do about this part of the country. And there are many words they speak which I do not know the meaning of."

"And you read in English?" Dick sat down by her.

"I have only six books. They were given me. They are in English. If ever I go down into the corn country to help at harvest-time and earn money for myself, I shall get more books."

"I thought girls liked ribbons better than books" said Dick in a flattering tone, thinking he was getting on famously. "If I was as pretty as you are I would want to get ribbons."

"Would you?" said the girl. Then she went on reading. Dick fidgeted. He was embarrassed. He took a more careful look at the girl. Her hands were clean; that in itself was a surprise. And there was a fold of white cotton cloth basted in the neck of her faded calico. Her hair was braided. Dick felt somehow, without being able to define it, that this girl had known some person other than those who surrounded her. She had received her bit of inspiration. Merlin did not try to put his impression into words. It was merely an emotion. But he knew the girl before him was not without self-respect, or at least not without self-consciousness.

"She may be the best working member of the whole gang," he said to himself. "Ten to one she's in the business somehow;" and he resumed his conversation. Old Peter nodded, or seemed to nod, over his pipe, his fat loathsome legs stretched out before him. The mother worked on in her mild way, talking to herself as she did it. No one seemed to be paying any attention to Dick and the girl. Yet the young man was conscious of a feeling every minute that any suspicious action on his part or an indiscreet word might cost him his life; for he knew what that swinish face by the fire was like when it was aroused.

A few nights after that Dick got the girl to go for a walk. It was a quiet evening, the sun looking near and familiar in the west, the sky quivering with arms of light that darted from the disappearing great disk as the electric light of the borealis does from its mystical focus. The wind whispering audibly, and on it was that indescribable perfume which belongs to the plains as distinctly as the salt does to the ocean, but for which there is no descriptive word. It is an invigorating perfume, and the nostrils open eagerly to receive it, and it fills the mind with a sense of vastness almost unbearable, yet very dear. For the might of the plains is as great as the sea. And he who has known either one or the other can never be content amid surroundings less majestic. Dick had never given himself leisure to think of any of this, though ha had felt it, as every plainsman must. But now, with the eyes of the girl turning from the wide-reaching west to him, full of strange passion, he had something the feeling that a young bison must have when, with exultant bellow, it puts its head low and rushes forward in the delicious madness of mere youth and strength over the solitary prairies.

"The world seems larger sometimes than it does others," he said, vaguely struggling against the new power that was making turbulence in his soul.

"It is large," Marie responded tensely, with the little German accent unusually distinct. "And the sky is large. And the wind is large at night when it blows. But also I—you—are large. We do not feel any weaker than the wind or the sky. A bird, he is part of the sky when he is in it. And it makes him very happy. It makes him sing. And when we are in the wind, we are part of that."

Dick said nothing. None of the girls he had known "back East," as his companion called the eastern part of the state, had ever talked like that. He could feel in his heart, but he could not quite understand in his mind, what she meant.

"I can sing also. Did you ever hear me sing?" she went on. "And I know some songs which were taught me by a good friend. And my mother, she used to sing, and I learned from her some songs. Some are of love. And others are to sing babies to sleep with. Mother never sings now."

"She doesn't seem very happy," Dick ventured. "Isn't your father's business good? Have you had hard times?"

Marie looked up at him with a puzzled expression.

"I do not know," she said slowly. "But if it had been good, do you think that would make us happy. Are you happy?"

"Why, yes. I guess so. I never thought about it. I have a pretty good time."

"Do you? Perhaps it's because you live in another part of the country. Here no one is happy. Mother says sometimes, if she had flowers maybe she could stand it better. One day father was going away to Nebraska city on business. And mother asked him if he would bring her a flower. And he forgot it. Mother tells me men always forget all they are asked to get. And mother went out back of the house and sat down on the banking and cried when she found he had come without it. That was a funny time. I kissed her. She was surprised. Since I got big I have never kissed her. Days and days we do not like each other very much. She talks all the time to herself, and her eyes frighten me. But this funny day when I kissed her she said: 'Where I lived when I was a maiden we had flowers all summer, and vines. We ate in a little house covered with vines. And my father, after supper, took his knife each night and went out to trim them. And all of us children followed. And in the winter there were pines with hoar frost. And here, Marie, there is nothing but sand, sand, sand!' I was astonished. I thought mother cared for nothing but to cook little cakes in grease. And that funny night, after she had cried some more, she took me by the hand, and without saying anything, showed me a little strange place back of the shed, where there is a bush that in summer has berries on it, and under this often I had noticed a little raised place covered with black dirt, and she said: 'That is a little baby that died before you were born. And I wish we were all there.'"

Dick and the girl walked on in silence. Dick had never imagined such possibilities of suffering as opened up before him. Neither before had he ever felt so like talking to any girl. They wandered on together down the road, and the red disk dropped, and the light faded out of the eastern sky, and a pallid moon became visible up above, and the wind rose and flirted scurries of sand over the tops of the dunes, and still they walked. There was a host of stars out when they parted at the door.

"Good night," Marie had said. "This has been a different day from most days." And she held out her hand.

"My God!" Dick groaned. He made an effort to wrench himself away, but the girl's exultant and womanly happiness held him fast. He struggled mentally and physically to free himself, and—he sank, rather than leaned forward, and his lips were on the lips of Marie.

"Do you love me?" he whispered. "I love you." He looked at her sternly. "I wish to God it was not so. But I love you." He said it as if he were admitting a terrible and irrevocable fact, and walked off down the road.

After that he was continually there. He no longer looked for the confederates of Peter Hultz. Certain facts were thrust upon him, but he tried not to understand their significance. One day he got a letter from the man who had sent him there, and he realized that it was a question of business faithfulness that confronted him. He wasn't much given to mental perplexities. Philosophy or moral responsibilities had never been taken into his cognizance. He had the morality of a healthy man. Nothing more. And now he saw without any struggle whatever that it was less culpable to break his word with the man in whose employ he was than to give up to certain death the father of the woman he loved. So he went down to see this man, and he told him that he had nothing to report, and so, refusing to take any money for the time he had spent, he went back to "the East," as Marie called it. When he had left her he expected to immediately return; but, once away, he took to himself the right to be alone for a while, and to think the matter over.

There is no prouder man on earth than your American farmer. His code may be a little peculiar from the point of view of the city man. He does not, in fact, think so much about "honor" as that quality is recognized by men of polite habits. But for an honest fellow to be obliged to realize the fact that he is certainly in love with the daughter of a "cattle-rustler" is a terrible position.

Dick went to work. He worked early and late. And he turned over and over in his mind this same question. He had reached an age when he realized the seriousness of life. And he thought far enough to ask himself if it "would pay," as he put it, to marry Marie, merely to satisfy this clamoring passion of his, and give to his children a mother whose antecedents were shameful. He asked himself again and again if he would not have to pay too high a price for his happiness.

The summer had come and gone while he waited, harvest was over, and the farmers had got to husking-time, with bad prices for a prospect, and a car famine in the bargain.

Dick, on his way through town to keep his engagement at the Catlin ranch had got a meaning paper. And in it he read the apprehension of the cattle-rustler Peter Hultz of Chase county, and six of his confederates. They were in jail, and there was talk of lynching. The only thing, the dispatch apologetically said, that restrained the mob was the presence in jail of two women, the wife and daughter of old Peter Hultz, the chief of the raiders. And that was why Dick succeeded that day in husking eighty bushels of corn. But after it was over he went to his room and threw himself on the bed. He would eat no supper, which made even the men commiserate him. Kate McGoven, tired as she was, brought up some toast and tea. She lingered a little after he had refused it, and put her hand on his head.

"Don't, please, Kate," he said gently. "I don't want any one to think me a good fellow to-night."

"What have you been doing, Dick?" she whispered apprehensively. "Can I help you out of any scrape? You ain't done anything to be ashamed of, I do hope."

Dick stared at her in perplexity.

"I'm blest if I know," he said at length.

That night the fellow who slept with Dick felt him creeping out of bed. But he was too dead with sleep to bring an inquiry to his lips, and he did not know until he was called in the morning that Dick had not returned. A little after breakfast a young man came down from town.

"Dick Merlin sent me out," he said, "to take his place. "He said he had a sudden call to the West—folks sick or somethin.'"

It was near the morning of the second day when Dick Merlin reached the town of Lamar—a little town, built of pine, and surrounded by nothing in particular. He went to the hotel for his breakfast, for which he had to wait a couple of hours, and while he was waiting he sat in the chilly office staring straight before him, and listening to every word that was spoken by the men who lounged about. There were only a few of them, travelling men principally, who had come in on the early train. The clerk was telling them the news.

"You ought to have been here last night," he said; "we had a lynching."

Dick sat inert. He did not even tighten the grasp of his hands on the arms of the chair.

"Yes. Great times we're having now. I don't want to see anything like it again. I wouldn't have missed it, though, for a thousand dollars. There were six men and two women in the jail. Only two men were strung up. The rest of the gang was let off. It's hard to tell why. There wa'n't no thought of hangin' th' women. It wa'n't known really if they had anything to do with the business. But folks suspicioned them. Letting the women off made the crowd milder someway. Two of the fellows was so young it seemed ridiculous to hang 'em—like stringin' up babies. It went against th' grain, that's all. They're in jail now. Two of th' fellows took leg-bail. Nobody knows how they got away. I guess they'd been in the midst of heavenly joys by this time if they hadn't lit out."

"Pretty big crowd?" inquired one of the traveling men, quite as if he were inquiring about the attendance at some evening entertainment.

"'Stonishing! Didn't know there was so many folks in th' county. They was quiet, too, but awful determined. I felt queer. I wasn't used to such things. Once I felt like hollerin'. I wanted to go away, and I didn't. I shook all over. It wasn't no fun, if that's what you're thinkin'."

Dick wondered if those men were never going to ask where the women were. What a fool he had been! What a coward! Would they never ask?

"The jail give way first blow. The sheriff didn't say nothin' except to ask if they was goin' to leave th' women alone. He's a fine fellow. He stood right up an' said 'See here, boys, don't none of you forget that we ain't hangin' no women!' The men laughed at him. 'What'd yeh take us fur?' they said. I tell yeh what, this community ain't so bad as it gets credit fur being. Folks think we ain't law-abidin'! Well, the fun didn't las' long. It was hard work gettin' the ole man up, though. He was a fat un. I was afraid th' rope was goin' to break.

Dick sprang to his feet. "Where are the women?" he shouted. "What did they do with them?"

It didn't take long to find any one in Lamar. They were in the sitting-room of the little milliner, and the wife of the man who had been hung was lying on the sofa looking at a red geranium which bloomed in the milliner's window.

Dick stopped in the door, and motioned Marie back as she rose to meet him.

"Before God," he said slowly, "no word of mine brought this on you! I never told a living soul!"

"You!" Marie moved toward him again, with her sad eyes growing luminous. "Do you think you need to tell that?"

But Dick still paused in the doorway, and held out no hand toward her.

"But I've been a sneak all the same. I have left you to stand all this alone. I don't suppose you'll ever forget that." He looked at her doubtingly.

Marie came closer.

"Did she know?" she whispered.

He nodded. A flush spread over the girl's face.

"But it didn't keep you from—"

The love that had restrained him until now made restraint impossible longer.

"I knew before I loved you. There is nothing that could keep me from loving you—nothing."

Though he had so much to think of, Dick could not help hearing some talk that was going about town. It had been started by the man who sent him out to the sand-hill country first.

"I thought it was mighty queer," this man said to a group of his friends about the station, "that he should be down there all that time and not find out anything. He wouldn't take any of my money—I'll give the devil his due. But it stands to reason that he must have been in with the gang. I guess he got enough out of it to make up for what he didn't get from me."

Dick heard all this, but he didn't tell Marie. He thought over what it would be best to do. There was no use in attempting a denial. Any one, even a fool, would deny a thing like that. But though the old pride of his honesty was still strong, it had given place to the courage to do the right thing regardless of appearances. He settled the matter dramatically.

They got married at the squire's. Then they took the train westward.

"You said the world was large," Dick said to Marie. "Let's go and see how large it is."

—Harper's Weekly.

COULDN'T TRUST THE BOY.

A Lewiston man with the colic went into a down town drug store Wednesday, where he had been accustomed to do business with the proprietor. A new clerk confronted him. "Where's Mr. B——?" said he to the clerk. "He's out. Anything I can do?" The gentleman hesitated and looked at the clerk. He was an immature youth with a self-confident look about him. If the gentleman were not generous and considerate he might term him "fresh." "Well, said the Lewiston gentleman, "I don't know. Do you know anything about the business? You see I've been accustomed to deal with Mr. B——. Fact is, I'm not feeling well. I have a return of a cholera attack. Mr. B—— usually gives me some hot drops. Do you know anything about it?" The youth looked at his first patient as though he had been in the business fifty years and had killed a regiment of patients. "Oh yes. Let's see. You've got a kind o' cholera infantum, ain't yer, way down low in yer stomach!" The Lewiston man looked at the youth as he handled the bottles, and he said: "You needn't mind, young man. You've located the pain all right, but I'm too old to be treated for that disease by a young man who is liable to be curled up with it at any moment." The clerk doesn't know now what the customer meant.—Lewiston Journal.

"What was your objection to my predecessor?" asked the missionary of the cannibal. "He was utterly devoid of taste," returned the cannibal, with a wry face.—Harper's Bazar.

"Johnny, what are you going to do when you get to be man?" "I'm going to be a boy preacher," replied Johnny confidently. —Washington Star.

Columbia's Emblem.

Blazon Columbia's emblem,
The bounteous golden corn!
Eons ago, of the great sun's glow
And the joy of the earth, 'twas born.
From Superior's shore to Chili,
From the ocean of dawn to the west,
With its banners of green and tasseled sheen,
It sprang at the sun's behest;
And by dew and shower, from its natal hour,
With honey and wine 'twas fed,
Till the gods were fain to share with men
The perfect feast outspread.
For the rarest boon to the land they loved
Was the corn so rich and fair,
Nor star nor breeze o'er the farthest seas
Could find its like elsewhere.

In their holiest temples the Incas
Offered the heaven-sent maize—
Grains wrought of gold, in a silver fold,
For the sun's enraptured gaze;
And its harvest came to the wandering tribes
As the gods' own gift and seal:
And Montezuma's festal bread
Was made of its sacred meal.
Narrow their cherished fields; but ours
Are broad as the continent's breast,
And, lavish as leaves and flowers, the sheaves
Bring plenty, and joy and rest.
For they strew the plains and crowd the wains
When the reapers meet at morn,
Till blithe cheers ring and west winds sing
A song for the garnered corn.

The rose may bloom for England,
The lily for France unfold;
Ireland may honor the shamrock,
Scotland her thistle bold;
But the shield of the great republic,
The glory of the west,
Shall bear a stalk of the tasseled corn,
Of all our wealth the best.
The arbutus and the golden-rod
The heart of the north may cheer,
And the mountain laurel for Maryland
Its royal clusters rear;
And jasmine and magnolia
The crest of the south adorn;
But the wide republic's emblem
Is the bounteous, golden corn!

—Edna Dean Proctor, in Century.

HIS MOTHER'S COOKING.

"I suppose you call these things doughnuts!" said Mr. Smith, picking up a curly brown edible on the extreme end of his fork, and eyeing it with an untranslatable expression of countenance.

"Yes, of course I do," said Mrs. Smith, a little timidly. "Aren't they nice? I made them myself."

Mr. Smith laid the curly brown edible down again, and pushed the plate back.

"Nice?" he repeated, "I don't say they're not nice enough in their way. But I wish you could have eaten my mother's doughnuts."

"How were they different from these, John?" Mrs. Smith ventured deferentially to inquire.

Mr. Smith moved fretfully in his chair.

"In every way," said he. "Women nowadays don't know how to cook."

"Won't you eat one, John?"

"Thank you, my dear, one mouthful is enough," sarcastically answered her lord and master. "I've a lingering respect left for my digestion. Joanna, make me a piece of toast. Stale bread, mind, and brown it a very little. I don't care to load my stomachh with charcoal."

It was perhaps a good thing for Mr. Smith that he was too much occupied with the columns of the morning paper to observe the expression of Joanna's face as she whisked off into the kitchen to execute his order.

"I'd like to shake some of that nonsense out of him," muttered Joanna to herself, as she shut two slices of bread into the toaster, and held it over the fire. "Of all fools, give me a man! And she as patient and sweet as new milk over it!"

Joanna Johson was no ordinary "hired help." She was a grim, straight-backed, lantern-jawed, New England woman who had taken care of Allie Alston as a child, and who, sooner than desert her nursling when she married, joined her establish-ment in the humble capacity of general house-worker. She did twice what any Celt or Teuton would have accomplished, and for half the wages, although no earthly power would have induced her to call herself a "servant," or wear a frilled cap like the other house-maids in the block.

Mrs. Smith was very quiet all that day. Joanna watched her with wistful eyes, as a dog watches his master.

"She ain't happy," pondered Joanna, "and it's because he's pickin' at her all the time. Women don't know how to cook, don't they? Well, if I was to write down in a book all that men don't know I'd have to build a house to keep the volumes in, I guess."

"Joanna!" said Mrs. Smith, in the afternoon.

"Ma'am!" responded Joanna.

Joanna was particular to accord Mrs. Smith all the honorary tributes of mistresshood, as a general thing. It was only when they were quite by themselves that she indulged in the sweet usages of the past, and called her "pet" and sweetheart," and "her own little Allie," as if they were nurse and baby again.

"I wish you'd get me Mr. Smith's little brown valise. I want to pack it."

"Eh?" said Joanna. "Mr. Smith going away again?"

"Yes," the young wife answered with something of defiance in her manner. "It's nearly three months since he went away before, and business is business, you know."

"Yes," Joanna laconically answered, "I know."

Mr. Smith was to take the night train. He came home to an early supper, but he would not eat much of the nice fried oysters and apple fritters which Alice had prepared for him.

"Joanna," sighed the young wife, when her husband had gone, "I'm not much of a cook."

"Them oysters was beautiful, deary," said Joanna, "an' the fritters was as light as a feather."

"John couldn't eat them."

"That's all his cantankerousness, dear."

"Joanna, you shouldn't speak of my husband in that way!" cried Alice, firing up.

"I won't again, dear," said the New Englander, covered with confusion. "It kind o' slipped out. But," she persisted, in a low tone to herself, "it's true, all the same."

"And," added Alice, "John thinks so much of nice things to eat and drink. All men do."

Joanna muttered a grunt which might be translated "yes" or "no" according to pleasure."

"I've almost a mind to write to his mother," observed Alice, "and ask her good advice. Don't you think it would be a good plan, Joanna?"

"It mightn't be a bad one," said the noncommital daughter of Cape Ann.

She went back to the kitchen, and stirred up batter for the morning's buckwheats, her face full of a new resolve.

"I ain't much of a hand at pen and ink," said Joanna to herself. "But if there's any letter-writin' done to his mother, I guess I'll take a hand in it, too!"

And so effectual was the work of her gray goose quill—for Joanna never could accustom herself to any of the new steel and oreide abominations—that within the week, and before Alice had quite decided what to say when she should get ready to write to her mother-in-law, there came a pleasant little note from Mrs. John Smith, the elder, saying how long a time it was since she had had a visit from Allie.

"Can't you come now," she wrote, "while John is away travelling? I should not at all wonder if he stopped here on his way home, and what a pleasant surprise it will be to him to find you here!"

Alice's face brightened. She ran to show the letter to Joanna.

"Won't it be nice?" said she, like a delighted child.

"It just will!" said Joanna.

Mrs. John Smith the elder was not in the least like the conventional idea of a mother-in-law. She was a comfortable, pillowy old lady, with twinkling gold spectacles, a frill of real lace around her neck, and a black silk dress that rustled softly as she walked. Just the kind of a woman to confide in, and in less than twenty-four hours she and Alice had talked the whole matter over, and Alice had prepared sundry test dishes in the kitchen.

"My dear," said the old lady, "you are a better cook than I ever was."

"But, mother, John doesn't think so."

"John must be made to appreciate his blessings, my dear," said Mrs. Smith the elder.

Of course Mr. Smith was pleased to find Alice there when he stopped for a flying visit on the way home. It was just at dinner time when he arrived, and he ate like a starved wolf.

"Ah-h-h!" said he, helping himself a second time to the flaky chicken pie and sending his coffee cup for a replenishment. "This is something like! The people out West don't know what cooking means. I see, mother, you haven't forgotten your old skill. Another croquette, please. And pass the doughnuts. Now, look here, Allie—eat these, if you want to know what doughnuts really are. Why, I used to take these to school in my lunch box when I was ten years old! I haven't eaten such a dinner as this since I was at home before. I do wish, mother, you could give Allie a few points in these matters."

Mrs. John Smith the elder looked across the table to where Alice's fair head drooped over her plate.

"Don't mind him, Allie," said she encouragingly. "You may show him to-morrow what you can do."

At breakfast the fish balls were pronounced too dry."

"Don't you like them?" faltered Allie, with an apprehensive glance at her mother-in-law.

"Do I like sawdust? What's that you've got there? Broiled chickens! How came you to scorch them so? And half raw in the middle! Call these rolls? Why, they're heavy as lead! Boil me an egg, can't you? Luckily, nobody can spoil a boiled egg."

Dinner was no better. The roast grouse was overdone; the oyster pie was pronounced "soggy"; the pudding like lead.

"No wonder," groaned Mr. Smith, "that dyspepsia is the great American disease!"

"Why, John," chirped the cheery old lady, "what ails you?" You never used to grumble so at what you ate and drank."

"It's Allie's vile cooking!" groaned the young man.

"No, it isn't," said Mrs. John Smith the elder. "It's mine."

"What!" shouted her son, dropping his knife.

"I've done all the cooking to-day," said Mrs. John Smith the older. "Exactly as I used to do it when you lived at home, and sulted you to a T."

"And—and who cooked the dinner yesterday?" stammered John.

"Alice! Everything on the table! I always told her that she was a better cook than I was. And you will believe it now!"

John sat for a moment or two in silence; then he whistled a low, long whistle.

"I give up beat!" said he. "Alice, we shall have to hand over the first prize to you. Come around here my girl, and kiss me."

And Alice obeyed, stopping on the way to give her mother-in-law a loving little hug.

Joanna Jonson was on the alert to catch every word and look when the young couple returned home, and apparently the result of her observations was satisfactory.

"I kind o' thought it would work," said she to herself, with a grim smile. "Them doughnuts she fried last night, he said he hadn't never tasted no better. They was like thistledowns."

Just then Alice came in, all radiant.

"Joanna," said she, "did you hear what Mr. Smith said about my cooking?"

"Yes, dear, I did," smiled Joanna.

"He likes my cooking now."

"He'd be a strange person if he didn't, dear," observed the "help."

But Alice kept the story of the little stratagem to herself. She was too loyal a wife to betray John's discomfiture even to faithful Joanna; and on her side the lank New Englander never let Alice know of the letter she had surreptitiously written to Mrs John Smith the elder, suggesting this very plan.

"It takes a good deal of machinery to get ahead of a man," said Joanna to herself, "but I guess we did it this time."—Helen Forrest Graves, in Saturday Night.

MAKING A RAISE.

There's a certain business man in Chicago who is as cranky as he can well be, and is at the same time very careless in his business affairs. But he is very rich and has a big establishment, and not an employe likes him. About a year ago one of his clerks, getting $1000 a year, approached him on the subject of an increase of salary. The old man got hot in a minute.

"How much are you getting now?" he asked.

The clerk was about to tell him when a happy thought struck him.

"Two thousand a year," he replied firmly.

"Um-um," he said, "you are a good clerk and I'll see what can be done for you."

Then he dismissed the clerk and called in the manager.

"Make Jones's salary $1800 a year," he said.

The manager was about to offer an explanation.

"Do as I tell you," said the old man. "I'll teach the young upstart to come in here dictating to me how much money to pay my people."

By this time the manager had comprehended the situation, and he forthwith put Jones on the $1800 list, and six months later, when the old man found out how he had been worked, he called Jones in and told him he would restore him to the $2000 list, and Jones was shrewd enough to take the twinkle in the old man's eye in good faith and say nothing.—Detroit Free Press.

RATHER ROUGH ON HIM.

It was a pretty little country girl who rode down in a Madison avenue car. The city bred youth who escorted her was evidently proud of his charming companion, but there was a shade of embarrassment because she frequently betrayed her verdancy. You could have told she was a country girl by her manner. The city was new to her, and everything she did not understand she asked about.

As the car passed the Tombs she cried delightedly:

"Oh, there is that lovely museum I read about. So they keep it open Sundays, do they?"

"Yes," replied the young man dryly, "they keep it open Sundays."

"I remember you wrote and told me you were there twice."

There was a ripple of laughter in the car. —New York World.

IMPATIENT OF RESTRAINT.

"Do away, Dod; do away! Don't bodder me now."

And then he threw another stick. That one failed to bring down an apple. As he raised his hand and took aim again he said:

"Do away, I say! Tan't 'oo wait a minute?"

His mother called him to her and said:

"Baby, to whom were you talking?"

"Dod," he replied in the most matter-of-fact tone.

"God?" said the shocked mother. "Why, my child, where was He?"

"He was whispering to me."

"What did He say?"

"He said 'Baby! baby! don't frow stone; 'oo will hit the poor little birdies."

And the mother had nothing to say. Faith and conscience were taking care of the little soul, and teaching their lessons better than it was possible for her to do.—Chidago Inter-Ocean.

ONLY A CONVICT.

A sharp turn in the railroad track, a rocky mountain side, a group of whitewashed cabins clustered at the top. Half way down the steep bank a guard is pacing back and forth on a ledge of rock, keeping watch over the gang of men who are working below with pick-axe and shovel. One of the latter rests for a moment upon his pick and glances expectantly up the bank. He is only a convict. His stripes proclaim it loudly. After a time a little child makes her way down the path. As she catches sight of him she stops and laughs gleefully. "Dack; baby find 'oo, Dack!" and she scrambles down till Jack reaches up and swings her to the track. Jack resumes his labor and the child stays contentedly by, now picking up a bright flower for him to look at, or putting her little ear to the track to see if she can hear the "big horse" coming, and again coming to the man to pat his hand confidingly. "Oo dood, Dack; baby love 'oo."

Tears are in the man's eyes as he answers the little one: "No, Jack is not a good man, baby; he's a bad man, a very bad man." But no amount of persuasion can convince the child, and she continues her allegiance to him, while he is her loyal vassal.

Jack had been one of the roughest and most unruly in the crew till Baby Bess, the daughter of one of the keepers, had come. She seemed to take a peculiar fancy to him from the first, and one of the first words in her lisping vocabulary was "Dack." On his off hours he constituted himself her nurse and guardian, and many and wonderful were the toys which he whittled for her amusement. As soon as she could walk she would toddle to where he was at work, and at sundown he would carry her up the bank. Before they reached the top she would oftentimes be sleeping peacefully on his shoulder, and a strange end they made to the procession of striped criminals.

One afternoon the men were moved further up the road, and when Bess came down she failed to find Jack, but she soon spied the whereabouts of the men and started on her way to them. "Baby see 'oo, Dack; baby tummin'." And the little feet went running over the ties, her yellow hair flying in the wind. The evening express whistling in the distance had given its warning and the men had stopped their work to gather their implements from the track when Jack heard her call, "Baby tummin'." With the rumble of the train growing louder in his ears he sprang forward to meet her. The guard, thinking that he saw one of his men making a dash for liberty, cried "Halt!" but Jack was deaf to the order. Every force was centered in an effort to reach the child. She seemed delighted when she saw him running toward her and stopped short, clapping her hands. Jack only feared that she might turn and run from him after her wont. "Come on, baby, come on!" he called, but he could scarcely speak above a whisper. The "big horse" came thundering around the curve, the whistle shrieking and the bell clanging. Baby seemed to hear nothing, but stood with her little feet planted squarely on the track. With arms outstretched, the man in stripes threw himself forward and swept her from the rails.

The child thought he was still carrying out his part in the play, when he lay so quiet and motionless. She put her little arms about his neck and cried "Baby love 'oo, Dack; 'oo dood, Dack."

Gasping for breath the man smiled upon her. "Jack'll—be—good. Always—good."

She patted his face and kissed the closed eyes, and when the others came to them she was whispering softly, "Dack, 'oo dood, Dack."—Detroit Free Press.

SEIZING AN OPPORTUNITY.

Many laughable things have happened in Sunday schools, but few superintendents or teachers can ever have been taken more completely aback than was Bishop Cheney on one occasion. He was to superintend his own school, says American Youth, and as he entered the church he met a little group of street gamins—ragged, dirty and unattractive.

"I stopped to speak with them pleasantly and told them that I would put them in classes after I was through with the opening exercises. At this one of them thrust his hand deeply into his pants pocket and pulled out an old jack-knife.

"'Mr. Cheney, I wish you would keep that until after the Sunday school is over.'

"Why he wanted me to keep it I did not know then. I do not know now; but I took it, put it without thought into my pocket, took my place upon the platform, struck the bell that called the school to order and was about to give out the opening hymn when my attention was diverted by the patter of little feet coming up the broad aisle.

"It is a long church, and a little girl was coming from the extreme opposite end. She came slowly, but with an expression in her face that showed she had a most important message to communicate, and so all exercises were suspended.

"Every eye was upon her and upon me as she climbed up the chancel steps. With a face and voice expressive of intensest eagerness she said to me:

"'Say, Mr. Cheney, Johnnie wants his knife. He's got a chance to trade.'"

HIS FINANCIAL PROGRAMME.

He was a beggar with the old worn clothes, unbrushed shoes. He waded up to the counter of the Lindell late last night, and told between his sobs, tears, groans, and sighs, how his stomach yearned for a sandwich. Clerk Sumner went to the safe, threw open its massive doors, and from its inner receptacles drew forth a new and shining five cent piece, which he laid kindly and gently into the quivering and blackened beggar's hand.

"Now, my poor friend, what do you propose to do with that money?" seriously inquired the serious clerk.

The beggar looked down at his soiled and tattered garments. He scanned his benefactor curiously for a moment, and then in a tremulous tone said:—

"Young man, you see me as I am, wearing the habiliments of an outcast. Yet I am honest, and I will give you a truthful answer. I shall first go and buy me a good supper, then I will take a bath and a cocktail, and mayhap after that adorn this handsome form with a new suit of clothes. If there is any of it left after that I shall, upon my word, deposit it in the bank. I am exceedingly obliged. Good day."—St. Louis Republic.

A LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE.

A steam packet company of Liverpool desired to enlarge their premises and decided to purchase the piece of land adjoining, and which belonged to a maiden lady. The lady was willing to sell, and at so low a figure that the directors were astonished. She had a clause inserted in the deed to the effect that during the term of her natural life she and a companion should at any time travel free in any of the company's vessels. The directors were delighted with their bargain and readily agreed to this.

On the following day the lady sold her furniture, rented her house and went on board the first outward bound vessel belonging to the company, without troubling herself as to its destination. Since that time, now twenty years ago, she has always lived on one ship or another, and is generally accompanied by some lady traveller for whom she advertises. She is believed to have made more than ten thousand dollars by the transaction, and the company has offered her this sum to get rid of her, but without success, as she is earning more in this than she could in any other.

Not His Size—Newly Elected Congressman (from Kansas)—"I'd like to have my picture taken." Photographer—"Cabinet" Newly elected Congressman (blushing)—"No; just a plain, every-day congressman."—Puck.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS!

Qood Quality! Choice Variety!

——:x:——

PLOWS, WHEEL BARROWS, ∴ ∴
∴ ∴ CULTIVATORS, ∴ ∴ ∴ FARMING IMPLEMENTS OF ALL KINDS.

——:x:——

AGENT FOR WALTER A. WOOD NEW STEEL MOWER.
YANKEE HORSE RAKES.
CHAMPION HORSE RAKES.
TAYLOR HORSE RAKES.
SPICER HAY TEDDERS—BEST MADE.

LAWN MOWERS.

"The Best," 12-inch, - - $4.50
14-inch, - - $5.00
16-inch, - - $5.50
Also the "Granite State" and "Hercules."

GARDEN HOSE!

Cotton and Rubber—all sizes.
LAWN SPRINKLERS.

E. A. BUCK & CO.

Palmer, Mass.

WON'T YOU NEED US DURING THE SPRING OF 1893?

——: WE HAVE :——

Every Thing to Sit on,

Lounge on—Sleep on—Walk on—Stand on—Hang on—Cook on—Eat on!

ALL THINGS

For convenience, comfort, adornment or necessity required for home or home furnishing.

SETS.

In this line it is timely to look at parlor, library, chamber and dining-room sets.

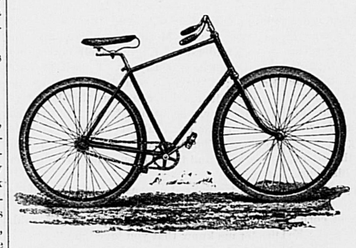
We have them in all makes, woods, styles and finish. They are splendid in looks and are built to stand a life of service and moving. You can afford them at our prices and on our liberal terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Credit Given if Desired.

E. A. BUCK & CO., ∴ BICYCLES.



| | |
|---|---|
| The Rambler, Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Cleveland, Ladies and Gents, | $160 |
| Warwick, | $150 |
| Road King, | $150 |
| New Mail, | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, | $115 |
| Duke, | $100 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $50 |

E. A. BUCK & CO., - PALMER, MASS.

Did you know

THAT YOU CAN FIND

a fine line of footwear

Including SLIPPERS, etc., at LUMAN'S?

He also wishes to announce to the people of THORNDIKE and vicinity that he has added a line of PATENT MEDICINES, etc., to his stock. . . . . The only place in the village where you can get a full line of Lazell's NEW YORK PERFUMES. Don't buy cheap colognes when you can get the very best for a trifle more. . . Call and examine whether you wish to purchase or not.

At J. F. LUMAN'S.

GO TO A NEW PLACE THIS SUMMER.

And have the JOURNAL help you find it. Write, stating the kind of place you desire and the price you wish to pay, and about the section you think you would like to visit. The suggestions will come by return mail. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

JUNE IN THE ALLEGHANEY AND VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Alleghany Springs, | Staunton, |
| Blue Ridge Springs, | Variety Springs, |
| Buffalo Lithia Springs, | Stribling Springs, |
| Charlottesville, | Sweet Chalybeate Springs, |
| Graham, | WEST VIRGINIA. |
| Hot, Warm, and Healing Springs, | Yellow Sulphur Springs. |
| Luray Caves, | Aurora, |
| Max Meadows, | Berkeley Springs, |
| Natural Bridge, | Red Sulphur Springs, |
| Rockbridge Alum Springs, | Salt Sulpher Springs, |
| Rock Enon Springs, | Sweet Springs, |
| Shawsville, | White Sulphur Springs. |

Printed matter describing any of these resorts may be had free by mail, by special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, Clinton Hall, N. Y., by addressing the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

NEW DENTAL OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental Office formerly occupied by Dr. Hill, I should be pleased to see any who are in need of my services.
All operations performed in the best possible manner.

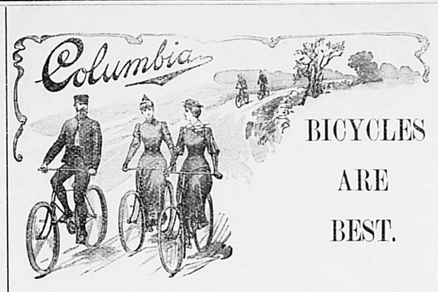
E. S. BRYANT, D. M. D.

HATCH BLOCK, PALMER. tf-29

World's Fair.

Printed matter describing the Fair, and full printed information as to reaching Chicago from your home, including the time-tables of the railroads and sailings of the steamers you would use, may be had FREE by arrangment with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, if you address

THE JOURNAL,
Palmer, Mass.



BICYCLES ARE BEST.

Their tires are guaranteed against puncture.

Can you ask more?

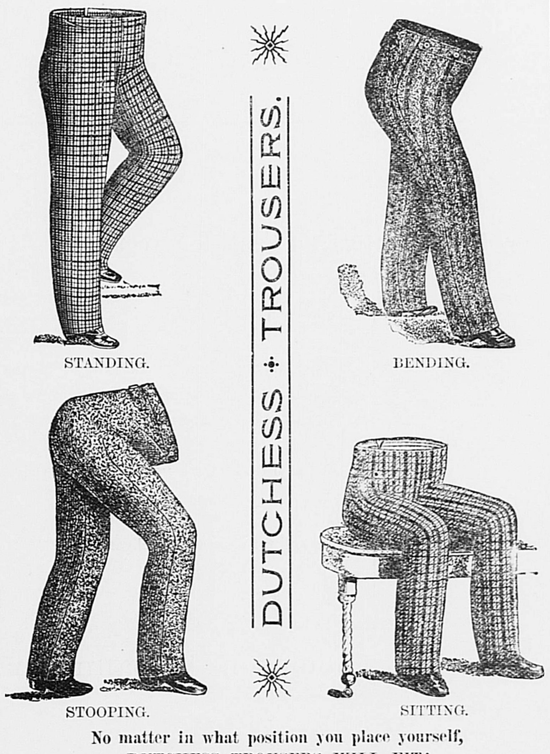
Prices from $110 to $150.

Catalogues free.

CHANDLER BROS.,

AGENTS FOR THE TOWN OF PALMER.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.



STANDING. BENDING.

STOOPING. SITTING.

No matter in what position you place yourself,
DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers

AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,

And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR

BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

GREAT SPEAR HEAD CONTEST.

CHEW

SPEAR HEAD

THE P. J. SORG CO.

AND

SAVE THE TAGS.

One Hundred and Seventy-Three Thousand Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, $173,250.00

In valuable Presents to be Given Away in Return for

SPEAR HEAD TAGS.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1,155 | STEM WINDING ELGIN GOLD WATCHES | $34,650 00 |
| 5,775 | FINE IMPORTED FRENCH OPERA GLASSES, MOROCCO BODY, BLACK ENAMEL TRIMMINGS, GUARANTEED ACHROMATIC | 28,875 00 |
| 23,100 | IMPORTED GERMAN BUCKHORN HANDLE, FOUR BLADED POCKET KNIVES | 23,100 00 |
| 115,500 | ROLLED GOLD WATCH CHARM ROTARY TELESCOPE TOOTH PICKS | 57,750 00 |
| 115,500 | LARGE PICTURES (14x28 inches) IN ELEVEN COLORS, for framing, no advertising on them | 28,875 00 |
| 261,030 | PRIZES, AMOUNTING TO | $173,250 00 |

The above articles will be distributed, by counties, among parties who chew SPEAR HEAD Plug Tobacco, and return to us the TIN TAGS taken therefrom.

We will distribute 226 of these prizes in this county as follows:

To THE PARTY sending us the greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS from this county we will give.....1 GOLD WATCH.
To the FIVE PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each, 1 OPERA GLASS....5 OPERA GLASSES.
To the TWENTY PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 POCKET KNIFE.....20 POCKET KNIVES.
To the ONE HUNDRED PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 ROLLED GOLD WATCH CHARM TOOTH PICK.....100 TOOTH PICKS.
To the ONE HUNDRED PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 LARGE PICTURE IN ELEVEN COLORS.....100 PICTURES.

Total Number of Prizes for this County, 226.

CAUTION.—No Tags will be received before January 1st, 1894, nor after February 1st, 1894. Each package containing tags must be marked plainly with Name of Sender, Town, County, State, and Number of Tags in each package. All charges on packages must be prepaid.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

DON'T SEND ANY TAGS BEFORE JANUARY 1, 1894.

PRINTING

done in the very best manner and on short notice.

We are alive to the wants of our patrons and will do your printing well and reasonably if you order from us.

C. B. FISKE & CO.,

PALMER, MASS.

FLYNT

Building and Construction Co.

GENERAL OFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

We contract to perform all labor, and furnish all material of the different classes, required to build complete.

CHURCHES, HOTELS, MILLS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND RESIDENCES.

Also for the construction of

RAILROADS, DAMS AND BRIDGES.

We solicit correspondence with those wishing place the construction of any proposed new work under one contract, which shall include all branches connected with the work.
To such parties we will furnish satisfactory references from those for whom we have performed similar work.

GRANOLITHIC.

We are the New England Agents for Stewart & Co's. Patent Granolithic for sidewalks, floors, steps, etc.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R.

SOUTHERN DIVISION
(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)
CORRECTED TO MARCH 26, 1893.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.18 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.
FOR Worcester—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.25, 4.45, 6.25 p. m.
FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.
FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43, 7.52 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.
FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.52 p. m.
THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILROAD.

NEW LONDON DIVISION.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3d, 1892.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Leave Brattleboro, 5.45 and 10.25 a m and 4.25 p m for New London, connecting at Millers Falls with Fitchburg R R, at Belchertown with Central Massachusetts R R, and at Palmer for Worcester Boston, Springfield, etc.
Leave Amherst, 7.05 a m, 12.14 and 5.53 p m.
Leave Palmer, 6.40 and 8.40 a m, 1.55 and 7.10 p m.
Leave Willimantic for New London, 8.00, 10.17 a m 3.25, 6.35 and 8.45 p m.

GOING NORTH.

Leave New London, 5.25 and 7.45 a m, 2.30 and 5.20 p m.
The 5.25 and 7.45 a m and 5.20 p m run through to Brattleboro and make connections for the north.
Leave New London for Palmer, 2.30 p m.
Leave New London for Willimantic and interme diate stations, 10.05 a m.
Leave Palmer for Brattleboro, 8.35, 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m, the 11.00 connecting with express for Montreal and the White Mountains. Also Grand Trunk R. R. for the West.
Leave Palmer for Amherst, 8.35 and 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m.

D. MACKENZIE, Supt.,
New London, Ct.

THE BEST BICYCLES ON EARTH are COLUMBIAS.

SEE THE GUARANTEE MADE ON THEIR TIRES.

FROM $110 TO $150.

SOLD BY

CHANDLER BROS.,

PALMER.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, PALMER, MASS.

Hours from 9 a. m. to 12 m., 1 to 3 p. m.

JAMES B. SHAW, President.

ENOS CALKINS of Palmer,
GEORGE MOORES of Thorndike,
T. D. POTTER of Springfield,
Vice Presidents.

W. W. LEACH, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

Enos Calkins, R. C. Newell,
James B. Shaw, F. F. Marcy,
Geo. Moores, H. Wald,
H. G. Loomis, W. W. Leach,
T. D. Potter, C. H. Hobbs,
H. P. Holden, C. E. Getchell,
E. G. Hastings, Geo. E. Buck,
C. L. Gardner, A. L. Hills,
Wm. Holbrook.

BOARD OF INVESTMENT.

Enos Calkins, T. D. Potter James B Shaw,
Geo. Moores, H. G. Loomis, E. G. Hastings,
C. E. Getchell.

AUDITORS.

C. H. Hobbs, A. L. Hills.

H. W. McGREGORY, Treasurer.

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 26, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 8.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. A discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $10; one-half inch one week, 75 cents; each additional week, 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," "To Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; no charge less than 50 cents. Notices in local column, 15 cents per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best styles, promptly and at reasonable rates.

C. B. FISKE. L. E. CHANDLER.

[Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Coffins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m..

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. B. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street.
H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street.
G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

Cures Others

Will cure You is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend and try to impose upon you as "just as good as Ayer's." Take AYER'S Sarsaparilla and AYER'S only, if you need a blood purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation and made a record for cures that has never been equaled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and in a short time the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William street, New York city.

Will Cure You

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREEN'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POILSH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT IS A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LEGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.
WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,
NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.

If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half-mile in public in stud season in 1.07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2.52 1-2, trial 2.44.

For Speed! Speed! Speed!

Breed to "LENOX B," son of ALCYONE and IDLEWOOD, 2.29 1-4, trial 2.18. ALCYONE sired Martha Wilkes 2.08, McKinnay 2.12 1-2, Alcryon 2.15, Bush 2.16.

For particulars see or write to

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

NEW BARGAINS.

A new two-tenement house to rent at $10 each tenement, or will sell for $100 down and balance may be paid in monthly payments as rent.

Farm of 17 acres, 2 miles from village on main road; good house and barn, $1000.

Farm of 50 acres. New house, barn with cellar; 4 miles from Enfield, Mass. $800.

House of 6 rooms, barn with cellar, 5 acres of land; 2 miles from village; buildings new and all right. $1000.

D. F. HOLDEN,

Palmer, Mass.

STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

DRY GOODS,
CARPETS,
GROCERIES,
SHOES.

LARGE STOCK. LOW PRICES.

INGRAIN CARPETS, 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, 75.

Floor oil cloths, 25 to 60c square yard.
Oil cloth mats for stoves.
Zinc binding for oil cloth carpets.
Smyrna rugs, door mats.
Carpet linings, Straw mattings.

DRAPERY POLES, BRASS RODS.
Curtains 25 to 65c, plain and fringed.

SALT MACKEREL, SALT HERRING.
Genuine Oregon Salmon.
Salmon Trout. Boneless Cod, 3 lb. boxes.

PRINT REMNANTS, 6c. GINGHAM REMNANTS, 8c.

BROWN, TAN, GRAY AND DRAB DRESS GOODS, 12½c to $1.00 per yard.
Cambrics,
Silicias,
Crinolene canvas.
Percalines,
Braids,
Spool silk,
Twist,
Whalebone,
Dress shields,
Hooks and eyes.

LADIES' BLACK HOSE, 10, 15, 25, 29 and 50c.
Ladies' tan and drab hose, 19 and 20c.
Children's black hose 10 to 20c.
Men's cotton hose, 3 pairs for 25c.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT.

MAPLE SYRUP.

100 gallons just coming in from the Deerfield Valley.

Extra heavy, pure, fine flavor. Better put in your year's stock. $1.00 gallon cans.

TWO BARRELS COOKING MOLASSES, 29c gallon. Just in
One hogshead strictly fancy molasses just in.

COFFEES—FRESH ROASTED EVERY WEEK.
Chase & Sanborn's Old Government Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Old Homestead Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Crushed Coffee.
Chase & Sanborn's "Red Seal" Mocha and Java—2 lb. cans. This is the World's Fair Coffee.
Sleeper's Old Government Java.
Spurr's "Revere." This is a rich, smooth—drinking coffee. 500 lbs. just received. Try it.
Heywood Breakfast Coffee—10c pound packages.
Rio Coffee.
Mocha Coffee.

TEAS.
We are headquarters.
All grades.
29c to $1.00 per pound.
Try our 50c and 60c Black Tea.

MORE OF THOSE NICE BOSTON CRACKERS, 4 lbs. for 25c. Just in.

KENNEDY'S OCEAN SPRAY, SALT AND PLAIN.
Kennedy's Grandmother's Cookies.

MORGAN'S SAPOLIO, 10c.
Bon-Ami, 10c.
Kleenaline, 5c.
Grandpa's Wonder Soap.
Castile Soap, white and mottled.
Everything in soaps and soap Powders.

BELLS' POULTRY DRESSING.
Slade's Spices,
Puddine,
Nonesuch Mince Meat,
New England Mince Meat.

CANNED PEACHES, PLUMS, CHERRIES, PEARS, APRICOTS.
These are the Golden Gate goods.

BUTTER—BELCHERTOWN CREAMERY.
Butter—Brimfield, Wilbraham, Monson Dairies, Fresh every day.

LARD.
Squire's pure lard in bulk.
Naphey's gold brand in pails.
Cottolene in pails and tubs.

POTATOES, BERMUDA ONIONS, ORANGES, LEMONS, BANANAS, JUST RECEIVED.

WASH TUBS.—INDURATED FIBRE.
Water pairs—Indurated fibre.

EVAPORATED FRUIT.—APPLES, PEACHES, APRICOTS.

RAISINS. 3 LBS. FOR 25 CENTS.

CIGARS.
Winthrop.
Winthrop Ponies.
A. & N. Genuine 10c.
A. & N. Rose 5c.
Whitcomb's U. S. A. and Hand-made.
W. E. S.
Pennant.
Cigarettes and Tobacco.

LARGEST STOCK of goods we ever had. Will give you good service. Try us.
W. E. STONE, Palmer, Mass.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.

CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

Truth.

There's a hand on the rudder that will not flinch,
There's no fear in the pilot's face
As he guides the worlds, like boats in a storm,
Through the rocking seas of space;
And whether they make the harbor at last
Beyond the shoals and the swell,
Or sail forever a shoreless sea,
I know that all is well—
And I learn these things from the heart of the wood,
From the solemn soul of the sea—
For never a bird in a wire-bound cage
Told all these things to me.

And the soul of man is a sunward bird
With wings that are made for flight,
To pierce to the fount of the shining day
And float through the depths of night;
And I read these things in that Bible of God
Whose leaves are the spreading sky,
And the legible face of the dark green sea,
With the eye behind the eye.
For truth is not closed in the lids of a book,
For its chainless soul is free:
And never a bird in a wire-bound cage
Told all these things to me.

For truth surges into the open heart
And into the willing eye,
And streams from the breath of the steaming earth,
And drops from the bending sky;
'Tis not shut in a book, in a church, or a school,
Nor cramped in the chains of a creed,
But lives in the open air and the light,
For all men in their need!
But the fish that swims in a goldfish vase
Knows not of the salted sea,
And never a bird in a wire-bound cage
Told all these things to me.

'Tis the voice that comes from the gilded peaks,
From the hills that shoulder the sky,
Through the topless heights of a man's own dreams
This voice goes wandering by;
And who roams the earth with an open heart,
With an ear attuned to hear,
Will catch some broken chord of the sound
Whenever the voice comes near.
But not past the prison of custom and creed
Will the voice or the vision flee;
And never a bird in a wire-bound cage
Told all these thing to me.

—Sam Walter Foss in Yankee Blade.

AN OLD MAID'S MARRIAGE.

Miss Mattie was in a dilemma. A chill gleam of April sunshine shot across the table and lit dancingly on Miss Mattie's face. Miss Mattie was not averse to sunshine ordinarily, but this intrusive and irresponsible beam annoyed her; besides, it made the flame of the fire look sickly, and disturbed maiden meditations. She put on her spectacles, carefully adjusted her cap, and prepared for the worst. Then she rang the bell for Prudence, her handmaiden, who appeared in Quaker gray and a snowy cap. Little rebellious curls danced out from beneath the cap in a frivolous fashion which nothing could restrain. Even now, as she came in she made an attempt to reduce them to order, but in vain.

"Prudence," said Miss Mattie, "what did the doctor's boy say?"

"That worldly youth, mistress, attempted to pass the time in vain discourse concerning certain maidens who attire themselves in blue raiment and smite a heathen instrument called the tambourine—"

"Yes, yes, Prudence," interrupted Miss Mattie, "I dare say. But what did he say about the letter?"

"He said, mistress, that he was to take back an answer; and I have entreated him to much profitable conversation until the answer be written."

Miss Mattie looked perplexedly at the grave, serene-eyed little Quaker maid. "How old are you child?" she asked.

"Twenty, mistress," said Prudence.

Miss Mattie gazed at the unopened letter on the table, and then at Prudence. "Prudence, you are young," she said, "but wiser than your years. Have you—have you ever had a sweetheart?"

Prudence looked a little unprepared for this remark. But she was conscientious. "Truly," she said, "there is one stalwart youth, a carpenter, who has flattered me many times when going to meeting, but to whom I have not been drawn."

"Oh, you—you weren't drawn to him?" asked Miss Mattie.

"Nay, mistress; whereat he is much provoked, and threateneth to—"

"To what?" asked Miss Mattie.

"To fare forth to foreign lands and forget me," placidly answered the little maid.

Miss Mattie still struggled with a certain shameful consciousness that she had wavered. What a tower of strength Prudence was! "Did you—did you—did he ever kiss you?" she asked, in a whisper.

Prudence opened her blue eyes widely. "Surely, mistress, it is the manner of young men to indulge in such unseemliness unless discouraged."

"And—and did—you—did you discourage him?" asked Miss Mattie.

A faint color stole over the pretty little maid's face. She looked distressfully at the carpet. "The youth was strong and I but slight," she answered in confusion; "and he was about to depart and—and—"

"W-what did he do?" asked Miss Mattie, eagerly, still holding the letter in her hand.

"He saluted me, mistress," answered Prudence. A faint smile played over her lips at the recollection.

"Sit down, Prudence," said Miss Mattie. "I want to ask your advice, child. You know more about men than I do."

Prudence sat down. Miss Mattie regarded her as a daughter, although Miss Mattie herself was only forty-five. But people in Little Bingleton rather prided themselves on looking old. It was thought to savor of flightiness if folks adopted modern fashions or traveled often to town. Miss Mattie was the only daughter of the late Dr. Sewell. Ever since her father's death, which had happened about ten years ago, she had lived in her own pretty cottage on the outskirts of the town. People who remembered her fifteen years back said that Miss Mattie was then very handsome. She was still a sweet-faced woman, with rich auburn hair and placid blue eyes. There had been whispers of a girlish romance a long time ago; but by and by people looked upon her as a confirmed old maid. The years passed, and still Miss Mattie lived her quiet uneventful days, until Dr. Slurke, the one practitioner in the place, suddenly discovered that Miss Mattie was wasting her life. "You've a mission to fulfill," he had said. "What is it?" placidly demanded Miss Mattie. "I will go home and write it to you," retorted the doctor, attacked by a sudden fit of shyness. His manner had occasioned Miss Mattie some misgivings, but she had concealed them under her usual placid exterior until the arrival of the fatal letter.

The letter lay upon the table. Miss Mattie dared not open it. It seemed as if the occasion demanded a solemn and formal ceremony of some sort—a ceremony with witnesses. "Open it, Prudence," she said suddenly, turning to the little maid.

Even Prudence could not conceal something which approached to worldly curiosity. She took the letter in her hand and opened it with her usual deliberation. "The man has a concern to marry thee, mistress," she said, after a steady perusal of the letter.

No woman likes to have a proposal of marriage put before her in so boldly prosaic manner as in this instance. Miss Mattie felt that the occasion was not being treated with sufficient solemnity. "Read it aloud, please, Prudence," she said; and Prudence read it:—

DEAR MADAM: I never proposed to any one before—haven't had either the time or the inclination—and I have vainly consulted all the literature on the subject. Most of it seems to me to be rubbish. You are a sweet, amiable woman, of rather a melancholy disposition; I am bustling, savage, irritable, loud and overbearing. Don't you think that we each have what the other lacks. 'Tis tired of living alone, so must you be also. Couldn't we join forces and travel together? You must be very solitary, and it is always so comforting to have a man in the house in case of burglars or fire, or anything of that sort. Will you marry me? If so, kindly return a note in the affirmative by bearer, and I'll come up this evening to talk it over. If my letter is lacking in delicacy, remember that doctors are accustomed to come straight to the point. You want rousing; so do I. Which shall it be? Yes, or no? I shall be walking impatiently up and down my garden—an exceedingly rash thing to do in this east wind—until I receive your reply. Yours very faithfully,

SILAS SLURKE.

"Is that all?" demanded Miss Mattie, who had faint hopes that the missive would be couched in all the long-winded eloquence of Miss Austen's heroines.

Even Prudence seemed to have found it disappointing. She inwardly contrasted it with certain vain but impassioned utterances of the young carpenter, and then rebuked herself for instituting worldly comparisons.

"Is there nothing more in the letter, Prudence? Nothing about love?"

"The letter lacketh worldliness of that kind," answered Prudence, seriously scanning the page.

Miss Mattie had not lost all sentiment. She recalled that episode of her vanished youth when Reuben Rountree had declared that he worshipped her. Reuben was only a farmer's son—a struggling farmer—and Miss Mattie's exalted position had been declared a fatal obstacle to Reuben's pretensions. Whereupon Reuben had uttered wicked words, shaken his fist at Mattie's white-haired old father, and departed to lands unknown in search of fortune. He had taken a lock of Miss Mattie's fair hair with him, and she still cherished in secret a little black daguerreotype of the departed swain. All this had happened a quarter of a century ago. At first the faith of love had kept Miss Mattie's heart warm. But hearts grow cold and faith wavers and dies when the years pass and absent lovers make no sign.

Miss Mattie drifted placidly down the stream of time, distributing little gifts to her neighbors on the banks and winning the love of all. But she found life rather dull. Her old schoolfellows had large families, who called Miss Matilda "Aunt Mattie" and confided all their troubles to her sympathic ears. Miss Mattie also found, to her very great surprise, that men rather disturbed her. She liked her little nap after dinner, her game of backgammon with Prudence in the evening, her regular, quiet life. If she had married Reuben all these things would have become impossible.

Miss Mattie did not like to be hurried. And yet—and yet. As she sat there holding Dr. Slurke's letter in her hand her youth came back. How the poor boy had loved her! She recalled his foolish speeches, his fondness for her yellow locks and blue eyes, and all the thousand and one little tricks and jests with which he had beguiled her into loving him. Dr. Slurke's letter had unsettled her. Though she felt she could not marry a man who never wiped his boots on the mat and believed that a congested liver was answerable for all the sorrow in the world—yet there might be hidden depths of love within him. He was a doctor, too. That was another recommendation.

Prudence still waited, the letter in her hand.

Miss Mattie temporized. "I—I will ask him to tea, Prudence," she said as she sat down to her desk and wrote in an elegant Italian hand that she must have further time in which to consider Dr. Slurke's flattering proposal. "And, Prudence," she said, as she sealed the letter—Miss Mattie always used a seal—"see that your pickelets are plentiful and of the best. Nothing comforts a man so much as a good tea."

Miss Mattie was a little bit ruffled by the events of the day. She went up stairs and looked long and lovingly at a certain little tin portrait. Then she put on her best lavender silk dress, removed her cap, and went down stairs to her cosy sitting room.

A man's step crunched the gravel outside, and the next moment an unknown voice demanded if Miss Matilda Sewell lived there.

Miss Mattie thrust the daguerreotype into her bosom and went out. "What is it, Prudence?" she asked.

"A wayfarer from over the seas who would have speech with thee, mistress," said Prudence, quietly, as she went back to her pickelets.

"Miss Mattie felt an odd sensation at her heart. It fluttered and leaped. What if this burly stranger brought her news from the unforgotten Reuben?

The stranger held a letter in his hand. "I've just come down on the cars with a letter from an old friend," he said.

"On the what?" asked Miss Mattie, in bewilderment.

"On the cars. Oh, I forgot. You call them trains. May I come in?"

"With pleasure," said Miss Mattie in a fluttered, odd little tone. "May I offer you a dish of tea?"

The stranger seemed puzzled. "We generally drink it in mugs," he said.

He took off his hat and coat and carefully hung them on a peg in the hall. The passage seemed to shrink when he walked along it, and his head hit against the low little portal as he followed Miss Mattie into her small sitting room, full of delicate china and gay with samplers and quaint old mirrors on the walls.

The stranger sat down in an armchair by the fire. He seemed to swell over the sides of it. The cat jumped on to the colossal knee and went to sleep there.

Miss Mattie sat facing the window and feeling reassured. She trusted that cat's instinct almost as much as she did the wisdom of Prudence. And the cat did not know young carpenters.

As the stranger glanced round the room, the ancient figures on the samplers caught his eye. He studied the impossible peacocks spreading their tails under equally impossible trees, and his eyes twinkled. "My! Ain't they real pretty!" he said. Then he looked at another sampler. "I like that picture of Noah and his sons sitting on top of the Ark," he observed, genially.

Miss Mattie felt distressed. She did not like to interrupt his flow of art criticism by admitting that the Ark was meant for the roof of a house, and Noah and his sons were only four ravens perched on the ridge.

"Excuse me," said the stranger, handing her a letter. "Won't you read this first, and then we'll talk."

Hospitality was a sacred rite with Miss Mattie. "I trust that you will partake of my poor hospitality first, M-Mr.—?" she said, with a stately bend of the head.

"Alphæus P. Winterbottom. I'd be sorry to go away without doing so," answered the stranger heartily, as Prudence appeared with the pickelets.

"Prudence," said Miss Mattie solemnly, "make some more."

"You're right, ma'am," said the stranger, surveying the little dish. "I was just thinking I could eat the whole lot of those cunning little cakes."

And Miss Mattie actually laughed. Her tea parties were usually very solemn and stately affairs. Mrs. Pennifather, the rector's wife, always came in a copper-colored silk. Miss Twinkleton, too, invariably donned her best old yellow lace ruffles for the occasion. The stranger, however wore garments of a transatlantic cut, and had a pointed beard. He was a fine, handsome man of about forty-five. As Miss Mattie handed him a fragile cup, the last of the pickelets had disappeared.

"My! Miss Sewell," he said, "I'm quite forgetting the little men up there on the walls. There won't be a crumb left for 'em at this rate."

Miss Mattie laughed again. Another step sounded on the gravel path outside.

"It's Dr. Slurke," she said, uncomfortably. "I—I had quite forgotten him."

Dr. Slurke opened the door and recoiled in angry amazement. There was Miss Mattie—his Matilda, as he was wont to call her in dreams—when he did dream, which was but seldom—chatting genially away with some foreign ruffian whom he had never before heard of or known to exist. It was indecorous; it was vulgar; it was unfeeling; it was aggravating; it was unprofessional, and the kind of thing which he (Dr. Slurke) was not going to put up with from any lady, however nice she might be under ordinary circumstances. So he pulled his stubby beard and glared at the stranger. But, unfortunately for the doctor, Mr. Alphæus P. Winterbottom was not overwhelmed.

Miss Mattie half rose from her chair. "Good evening, Dr. Slurke. Won't you come in?" she inquired, with the sugar tongs poised in her white hand.

This was another insult. She was pouring out her best tea and giving it to the man in the chair. Dr. Slurke did a very foolish thing—a thing he had often done before, but never without experiencing disastrous results. He lost his temper. He drew himself up to his full height—five feet three—and scowled on the Pirate King in the armchair—this ruffian who stole people's hearts by nursing their objectionable old Persian cats.

"Won't you come in?" tremulously repeated Miss Mattie.

Dr. Slurke bowed sarcastically. "I thank you; no, madam," he said. "I only came in to inform you that I had caught a cold in my garden while awaiting your pleasure."

The other man looked quietly up. "I guess you ought to be proud of it," he said, in his objectionable American way.

Dr. Slurke bowed to him with withering irnoy. "I—ch—was not aware that I was asking a conundrum," he said. "May I inquire whom I have the pleasure of addressing?"

The stranger smiled. "My name's Winterbottom—Alphæus P. Winterbottom."

Miss Mattie let fall the sugar from the tongs. "Oh, Dr. Slurke," she said, with tears in her voice, "I am so sorry. You see it was rather a difficult question to answer, and—"

"I will thank you to be good enough not to discuss it before this gentleman," the doctor ejaculated at a white heat.

"But I—I really—" and poor Miss Mattie felt inclined to cry.

Mr. Winterbottom was moved by Miss Mattie's distress. "Shall I make him shut the door from the outside?" he asked, quietly caressing the cat. "I think, madam, you'd feel more comfortable if this turkey-cock sort of person had gone home to roost."

"I was not speaking to you, sir," said the doctor. "My remarks were meant for the lady."

"I could just drop him into a nice soft flower bed, if you'd only say the word, madam," quietly continued Mr. Winterbottom.

"Madam, I take my leave," said the angry doctor. "As for you, Mr. Winterbeans, you shall hear from me."

"Not professionally, I hope," said the imperturbable stranger. "Don't distress this lady any more, or I'll really have to come and reason with you."

The doctor withdrew, speechless with rage. Poor Miss Mattie began to cry softly into the teapot.

The stranger put the cat down, and gently approached the table. "Madam," he said, "that extremely ill-tempered person will be better to-morrow. If he ain't, I guess I'll have to reason with him—near a pond."

"Oh, please don't," said Miss Mattie, feeling comforted by the stranger's vast bulk. "I—I kept him waiting for an answer to—to an extremely delicate matter this evening, and—and he's cross with me."

The stranger led Miss Mattie to the armchair. "Now, you sit there, madam," he said in his gentle, kindly way. "I'll brew this tea for you. You just assimilate those cunning little cakes of yours, and you'll feel better. One lump of sugar, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Miss Mattie, feeling that support from conscious strength which delights most women.

"And the cream?" said the stranger, holding up the dainty little cream ewer admiringly. "My! Ain't that little pitcher pretty! And the fire! Beats our stove hollow." He handled the dainty equipage with jealous care, and waited on Miss Mattie so nicely that all her fears vanished.

"A gentle lady like you didn't ought to be bothered," the stranger said reflectively, when Prudence had cleared away the things—"didn't ought to be bothered by a grasshopper like that. I dare say he means well, but he don't collusciate worth a cent. That's what the matter with him. Now just tell me if you feel downright chipper again, and if so, we'll go into this business, or, if you prefer it, I'll come again to-morrow."

"I thank you, Mr. Winterbottom," said Miss Mattie, in her simple, friendly way. "It—it was foolish of me to—to be so frightened. The doctor has been very kind to me."

"Then I'll let him off the pond," said Mr. Winterbottom, as if making a concession to sentiment. "You're like one of those pretty wind-flowers we have in our country—you want sheltering from all the storms that blow."

Miss Mattie smiled a pleased little smile. She had never been compared to a wind-flower before.

Mr. Winterbottom took up the letter with his customary deliberation. "Now, madam," he said, "I'll read it to you, and when I'm bumping over a cahot, you tell me to pull up, and I'll drive quietly!"

Miss Mattie did not understand what a cahot was. The stranger explained that it was a hole in the road in winter, and that a sleigh had to glide gently over and not take it flying, for fear of bumping the bottom out.

"Is—is the letter from Mr. Rountree?" asked Miss Mattie, with quivering lips.

The stranger looked at her admiringly. "Now, madam," he said. "I never did see your like for coming straight to the point. You've fine instincts. That's what the widower said when he was telling me about it."

"The—the—. Did I understand you to say widower? To—to allude to Mr. Rountree?" inquired Miss Mattie. She felt crushed. Reuben had not been true to her; he had forgotten his youthful love; all these years she had allowed her heart to remain in the keeping of a man who did not want it.

"I'd better read this letter," said Mr. Winterbottom. "His wife wished it, you know."

"I—I don't know," said Miss Mattie, trembling; "I don't know. But, oh, Mr. Winterbottom, you have been so kind to me that I would rather hear it in your own words, please."

Mr. Winterbottom looked gratified. "So you shall, madam," he said—"so you shall. You see, Reuben settled down in Ontario five and twenty years ago."

"Yes," said Miss Mattie.

"And then, when he was doing pretty well, he married old Deacon Tucker's oldest."

Miss Mattie was but human. "Was Miss Tucker comely?" she asked.

"Sort of apple-cheeked," said Mr. Winterbottom. "The girls are more like Reube."

"The—the what?" gasped Miss Mattie.

"The girls."

"Are—are there many?"

Mr. Winterbottom reflected. "Well, there's Samanthy, and Delia and Lelota, and Theresa, and the twins."

Every fresh name made the matter worse. The stranger saw it. "I can't remember the names of the others," he said comfortingly; but there aren't many—seven or eight, maybe."

"Is he happy?" inquired Miss Mattie, still clinging to her romance as only a woman can. She would not be harsh or unjust to Reuben. While she staid at home and dreamed her life away, he had gone into that vast new country and won a living from the soil. He had worked out the grief from his heart, and—and forgotten her. She might have known that his strong, loyal nature could not fail to find an appreciative helpmate. This Canadian girl who had loved him had not staid to think of social position; she had grasped the substance instead of the shadow. Poor Miss Mattie's tears flowed freely. Perhaps Reuben's grief when his wife had been called away had prompted him to think of her, Miss Mattie.

"Wh—what is his message to me?" she inquired.

Mr. Winterbottom came a little nearer to Miss Mattie. "Well, you see," he said gently, "she was kind of jealous of you, madam. Reube told her you'd always be first in his heart, and so, when she was called away, she asked him to send for you to—to look after him."

"And—and what did he say?" asked Miss Mattie.

"Well, you see, Reube hadn't the heart to tear you from your old surroundings, even if you'd been willing to come. So he sent me. 'Tell her,' he said, 'tell her all my life I've turned to her in sorrow and joy alike; all my life she's been my guiding star. In the woods I've seen her walking before me clearing the way, and everywhere she stopped the corn grew greenly. Tell her,' he said, 'in all that coarse, rude, rough life, with its struggles and trials and pains and successes, she's never left my side for one moment. She's been the angel of my life, the pure, sweet English girl, who I know has been true to me all these years. The—' "

"Stop!" said Miss Mattie, quivering with excitement, as the tears streamed down her cheeks. "Please stop, Mr. Winterbottom—stop. To say this to me means that he was disloyal to her. Don't let me think the man I loved all my life could have been false to us both. Please leave me that. Don't take that away from me. It—it has been the only thing which has sustained me in my loneliness. I have lived a quiet, faithful, uneventful life, keeping and guarding the love which God put into our hearts. Don't tell me that now, after all these years, he could send me such a message as that. It must be some dreadful mistake—some dreadful mistake—" in her excitement she laid her hand on Mr. Winterbottom's arm—"some dreadful mistake. It is natural that he should turn to me now; but he must have loved her while she lived. It is only his sorrow which makes him seem to forget. Tell him I will be a mother to his children—go to them—cherish them; but unsay those words which have destroyed my ideal, the ideal which I have taken to my heart all these years. The sacredness of love must not be broken like this. Tell me!—tell me! Oh, I would rather be the humblest beggar that ever craved charity than believe the man I loved could win some other woman's heart and profess to have loved me too."

Mr. Winterbottom gently took her hand. "My dear madam," he said; "my dear madam, I know he never loved any woman but you."

Miss Mattie buried her face in her hands. Disillusioned by both the men who had loved her—disillusioned in one evening! Well, she had had five and twenty years of trustful, loving faith and hope, and now she must hide her grief and try to live it down. She wanted to get away to her own room—to be alone—to think over this shock. And all the time she grieved the stranger's gentle pressure grew firmer still. It comforted her. She experienced a strange thrill—a thrill which she had never expected to feel again. And then she strove to withdraw her hand, and accused herself of immodesty.

"Mattie!" the stranger's voice sounded in her ears—"Mattie, don't you know me? I am Reuben! I have never married—never loved any one but you; and I have come home to stay, to comfort your life, to give you back the years you have spent without me, to guard and love you with the firm, strong love of manhood, and to atone to you for all the sorrow of the past. Look up, dear; look up. Say to me—"

She looked up through a mist of happy tears as he caught her to his heart. "What can I say to you?" she whispered. "Oh Reuben, Reuben, I have waited so long! I have doubted the goodness of God. And now he brings

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 26, 1893.

Three Months for 25 Cents.

To any one who is not now a subscriber to this paper, it will be sent three months on trial on receipt of 25 cents.

A BILL restoring the death penalty has passed the lower branch of the Michigan Legislature, and is likely to become a law. The occasion is the rapid increase of the crime of homicide in that state.

THE name of Zimri Dwiggins may not be a particularly euphonious one, but it will probably go down to history as a record-breaker and remain unchallenged for some time. As the builder of some 80 odd banks, all of which went down in a crash together under his system of mismanagement, he probably stands without an equal. Chicago claims him, among other equally undesirable curiosities.

THE national government is having a little insight into the cost of royalty these days. The Duke of Veragua was entertained during the opening of the World's Fair, and now it has the Infanta Eulalia to do the honors to. The Duke of Veragua cost the government $2500 during the first week he was here, and that was only for showing him the sights. If the country had to support entirely a few royal highnesses it would find that royalty indeed comes high.

IT seems quite likely that the grounds of the World's Fair will be opened on Sundays, though the buildings will be closed. The managers have decided to do this and return to the government the money which was given on condition that the fair should not be opened on the first day of the week. During the preparation of the buildings and grounds an admission of 25 cents was charged on Sundays, and thousands of working people who could get no other time to see the wonderful things being prepared passed through the gates and spent the day quietly and orderly inside. Now that it is completed they are more anxious than before to spend the only day they have for recreation on the grounds. Failing to get inside, the crowd which assembled last Sunday on the supposition that the gates would be open passed the day in the saloons and side shows near by, which were wide open, and drunkenness and rowdyism was rampant. Rev. Dr. Barrows, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Chicago, says:—

Let us see what is already open on Sunday in our cosmopolitan city: Six thousand saloons; the theaters and vile houses are in full blast on Sunday. And here, side by side with them, is the most magnificent exposition the world ever saw closed and barred. A noble educational institution must be shut up to thousands of people while the bad places profit by it. What foreigners cannot understand is that things they have brought here to be put in a grand fair must be covered up, while the basest of things are allowed to be opened outside.

THERE seems no likelihood that the firm of Forbes & Wallace at Springfield is to be greatly inconvenienced by the boycott declared against it by the striking bricklayers; on the contrary it is quite likely to do more business on account of it, the injustice of the demand made upon it and the intent to damage its business will naturally arouse the sympathies of the thinking people toward the house to an extent which will more than counteract any trade which the strikers may succeed in influencing. Briefly the case is:—The bricklayers of Springfield, already working less hours a day than the majority of the craft through the state, and getting more pay for their nine hours than the others were getting for ten, struck for a decrease in hours to eight and an increase in wages, which the contractors declined to give on the ground that the men were already working less hours than the average, and that the demand for an eight-hour day was local, not general. Forbes & Wallace were erecting an addition to their store, the masons and bricklayers employed on it working nine hours a day. The strikers went to the firm and requested that the contractor be instructed to employ none but eight-hour men, which the firm declined to do, as the contract for the building had been signed and the matter had passed out of its hands as long as the work was being satisfactorily done. Hence the "withdrawal of patronage" from the firm by the strikers, which thus far has resulted in increased sales.

THE charter of Noah L. Farnham post of the Grand Army at New York has been annulled by the national headquarters for a violation of the rules of the order in passing resolutions and sending the same to the president of the United States, members of Congress and posts of the order without the approval of the department and national commanders. It was given an opportunity to retract, but declined to do so. The resolutions were adopted March 8, and are as follows:

Whereas, it is apparent to this post that some recent ill-considered speeches made in Congress in regard to the pension laws are calculated to do serious injury to the reputation of old soldiers and sailors and to the Grand Army of the Republic; and

Whereas, the only veterans entitled to pensions are those who, by wounds or disabilities incurred in the service of their country, are prevented from earning a living in their respective callings, as they might have done had such wounds or disabilities not been incurred, and whose circumstances are such as to justify them in calling on the country for aid or support; and

Whereas, the Grand Army of the Republic is an association organized for the purpose of enabling old soldiers and sailors to take care of themselves and each other; and

Whereas, as much real patriotism may be shown by refraining in time of peace from inflicting unnecessary burdens on the country as by coming to her defence in time of war; therefore, be it

Resolved, That any old soldier or sailor who applies for or accepts a pension, except under the conditions above set forth, is, in the opinion of the post, guilty of conduct calculated to injure the good men who were and are willing to give their lives for their country without any reward save the approval of their own conscience and that honorable fame that is due to every patriot.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the president of the United States, to the United States senators from this state, and to the representatives in Congress from this city, accompanied by a letter from the commander of the post, urging upon them to use their best endeavors to have the pension laws so revised as to make them applicable only to such soldiers and sailors as are indicated in the preamble to this resolution, and to such persons as were immediately dependent upon such soldiers or sailors during, or within 10 years after, the expiration of their term of enlistment.

Resolved, That this post urgently requests all posts in the Grand Army of the Republic to take, as soon as may be, similar action to this, to the end that the reproach may be taken away from the Grand Army that it is a charity-seeking organization and a tool in the hands of the claim agents.

The post numbered 252 members, including 45 of the famous Ellsworth zouaves, nearly all of whom went to the front at the earliest call for troops, and will have many sympathizers throughout the country who feel that the present pension laws are very loose in many respects. The post reorganized Wednesday night as an independent organization.

SHORT NEWS NOTES.

Lieut. Perry's Arctic expedition is expected to start from St. John's, N. F., June 15th, and is to be gone two years.

There was a $245,000 fire in Providence, R. I., Sunday, starting in the old skating rink and spreading to other buildings and factories.

Saginaw, Mich., suffered sadly from fire last Saturday, several factories and about 300 dwellings being burned, the loss being over $1,000,000.

A large quantity of land in the vicinity of Stafford and Union, Ct., was burned over the first of the week, much wood and timber being destroyed.

Out of 376 steerage passengers brought to New York last Sunday by one steamer 200 were detained as undesirable on account of their destitute condition.

There have been severe wind and rain storms in the west this week, Cleveland, O., Detroit, Mich., Louisville, Ky., and other places suffering severe property loss, with some loss of life.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Radishes, string beans, top onions, native asparagus and other good things for your Sunday dinner at Thompson's Central Street Market.

A Rare Business Opportunity—Having decided to engage in other business, I offer my shoe store for sale. This is an established stand, doing a cash business, with a clean stock of goods, which can be reduced to any amount necessary.
W. R. Milligan.

PALMER NEWS.

Special Features in this Week's Journal.

The JOURNAL has been giving its readers an unusually large amount of interesting reading during the past few weeks, both in miscellany and local matter, and this week presents a specially interesting paper. Besides the news from this and surrounding towns there is on the fifth page a cut and description of the New York, the latest addition to Uncle Sam's navy and the most formidable war vessel afloat; a review of William Morton Fullerton s new book, which will be interesting to Palmer people because of the early life of the author in this village; also a few notes from the World's Fair by a Palmer man whose graphic descriptions of his travels have appeared before in these columns. Farmers will be interested in the review of the state of New England crops for the week ending Monday, which will be found on the sixth page. In addition to this there are two good stories. Special matters are in preparation for next week which will make that issue one of particular interest. There are many former residents of Palmer and surrounding towns who would be glad to receive a copy of the paper in their present homes, and copies will be sent to any address from this office for five cents each. Send your former neighbor one and see if he don't appreciate it. Nothing else can give him so true an insight into the doings of the community as the local paper.

Rather a Tangled Mess.

J. Pinkoffsky, the promotor of clothing clubs, was arrested Monday on complaint of Harry E. Magrath of Springfield for obtaining money under false pretenses. Magrath was hired some time ago as bookkeeper for the Palmer Tailoring Company, of which Pinkoffsky was the proprietor. For the faithful performance of his duties he was asked to deposit a surety of $150. He offered to give a bond for that amount, but this, was declined, the cash being demanded which was finally deposited with Pinkoffsky. Later the business fell off and there was nothing for Magrath to do, and when he left he naturally demanded his money, but Pinkoffsky had spent it and it was not forthcoming, hence his arrest. He secured bail in the sum of $400, and left for Boston, where, according to letters which he showed, he has a position as manager of a large clothing store, trial being set for to-day. Pinkoffsky has an appealed case in the superior court of this county for disposing of goods by lottery, and the grand jury of Worcester county has just found three bills against him for the same offense. He did not appear for trial this morning, sending a telegram saying that he was sick and unable to be here. It is probable that his bondsman, Rev. A. W. Weeks, will give him up.

Skipped His Board and Rent.

An upholsterer giving the name of John Edmons has been doing business for a few weeks in the room on Central street formerly occupied by Laird's fish market, but he has not been seen since Monday noon, and Albert A. Coe of South Main street, with whom he boarded, is out a week's board and Mrs. Mary Connor is out two weeks' rent of the room. The man was well appearing and seemed to be having considerable work to do, so much so that he employed a woman boarding at the same place to assist him. Monday after dinner he walked into the parlor of his boarding place and then went out, not having been seen since. A dictionary which was on the parlor table is missing and he is supposed to have taken it. There was a report yesterday that the woman who worked for him had gone with him, but this is not likely, as she received a letter saying that her mother was dying in Boston, and was accompanied to the station by members of Mr. Coe's family, where she bought a ticket and took the 9.43 train for that city.

F. H. Caryl has a new Union safety.

John French is confined to the house with the measles.

George E. Bennett is clerking in the store of W. E. Stone.

Dr. G. H. Wilkins is painting his house on Pleasant street.

Franklin Blanchard is confined to his house by illness.

Mrs. G. B. Kenerson spent part of the week in New York.

Oliver Patrell of Springfield spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mrs. H. A. Northrop has been visiting friends in Boston this week.

Rev. J. A. Day of Conway, formerly of Bondsville, was in town to-day.

The house of Thomas Roach on Pond street is receiving a coat of paint.

C. G. Harrison of Brimfield spent Sunday with his brother, F. W. Harrison.

Roy Wells has given up his place as night watchman at the passenger station.

The Palmer Water Company has extended its pipes to the head of School street.

Mrs. Rufus Baker of West Warren is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Rhodes.

George A. Moore was called to Norwich last Saturday by the death of his sister.

Several of the young men of the place will attend the ball at Brimfield this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Brown of New York spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. William Holbrook.

W. R. Milligan has decided to go out of the shoe business, and is closing out his stock at low prices.

Tuesday was the banner day of the season, as far as heat was concerned, the mercury touching 95°.

New signs are displayed by F. L. Pierce, the harness maker, and H. G. Loomis, dealer in furniture.

M. E. Holdsworth, wife and child, of Turners Falls, spent part of the week with his mother here.

Joseph Provost has bought of Lambert Ferry a promising young colt sired by "Independence Day."

The house of O. C. Marcy on the corner of Pleasant and Walnut streets is being touched up by the painters.

A fine large dapple gray horse now draws the Converse House carriage to and from the railroad station.

The contract for supplying the schools of town with coal for the coming year has been given to J. F. Holbrook.

Visitors from this section to the World's Fair will find the JOURNAL on file at the Massachusetts building.

District Deputy C. E. Fuller and G. H. Bray paid a visit to Ware lodge of Odd Fellows Tuesday evening.

E. Gibson has moved from the shoddy mill on the Monson road to Mrs. Wilcox's house on the corner of Park and Pearl streets.

The bill boards of the town have been covered this week with the paper of the Barnum circus, which visits Springfield next Friday.

Mrs. S. W. Stanchfield and Miss Nettie Coleman, were back in their old places in the choir of the Congregational church last Sunday.

Miss Mary Morris, who has been spending the winter in the family of Rev. H. F. Moulton, is to return to her home in Scarboro, Me.

A musical will be given soon by the pupils of Mrs. Helen Warren Auger, assisted by eminent vocal artists. The programme will be announced next week.

The Palmer Tennis Club was organized last Friday evening with these officers: President, Clarence Wing; secretary, Ralph LeGro; treasurer, E. S. Gardner.

A phonograph was exhibited on the sidewalk in front of the post office last evening, and the crowd which it drew was a great inconvenience to would-be passers-by.

A row over family affairs resulted in a lively "scrapping match" in Marcy's lumber yard Tuesday evening by two young men, during which one of the combatants received a severe pounding.

John Coles is the winner in the Herald's voting contest for the trip to the World's Fair, the final count standing 6024 for the winner, 5718 for Rev. Mr. Moulton and 5345 for Harvey Chapman.

The county commissioners meet in this village next Wednesday for a hearing in the matter of changes asked for in the highway from Shearer's Corner to Overlook Farm, on the road to Wilbraham.

As usual, the attendance at the annual strawberry festival of the ladies of St. Paul's church was well attended Wednesday evening, and about $50 will be added to the treasury of the ladies' society.

The lecture on "Fancy Cookery" by Miss Wills in the opera house Monday afternoon was well attended. Sample dishes were cooked by the lecturer and passed among the audience for inspection.

A petition is being circulated asking for the pardon of Edward McDonald, who was sent up by the superior court at the September term for breaking and entering the place of Caryl Bros. on Commercial street.

The probate court has granted administration in the estate of Mary Walsh, late of Wilbraham, Michael H. Walsh administrator. An account has been rendered in the estate of Harriet Booth, late of Ludlow.

The schools of the town will be closed next Monday in order to allow the instructors to attend the meeting of teachers in Springfield, and as Tuesday is Memorial Day the scholars will have a vacation of two days.

The marriage of Luther B. Goldthwaite of Alameda, Cal., and Miss Helen L. Cobb of this place will take place in the Congregational church at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 7th, to which all friends are invited.

R. A. McQuaid has been promoted to a division superintendency on the Boston and Albany road, and will have charge of the division between Pittsfield and Albany. He will move his family from Palmer about the first of September.

The 46th annual meeting of the Hampden County Teachers' Association will be held in the high school hall at Springfield next Monday, with forenoon and afternoon sessions. Round-trip tickets will be sold from Palmer for 50 cents.

T. J. McCarty, for some time employed by the Flynt Building and Construction Company, has gone to Holyoke, where he has received an appointment as engineer on a line of sewers to be built there this season, the work lasting probably six months.

The entertainment by the senior class of the high school in the school rooms last Friday evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed. All the numbers on the programme were well rendered. The class netted a neat sum from the sale of ice cream and cake.

The watering cart will start on its rounds to-morrow morning, greatly to the satisfaction of the majority of the merchants who have stocks which were being badly damaged by the clouds of dust which have sifted in with the high winds of the past week.

The season of 1893 at Forest Lake Garden will be opened next Tuesday, Memorial Day. There will be dancing afternoon and evening, with music by Stone's Orchestra of Brookfield, with boating, bowling, roller skating, etc. A fine dinner will be served at the restaurant.

Hitchcock & Blanchard have taken a contract for plumbing for the Palmer Mill at Three Rivers which includes the taking out of those now in use and the putting in of 21 closets in the mill. The cost will be something like $700. They are also doing work for E. H. Baker of Ware and Rufus Flynt of this place.

The New London Northern road is selling round-trip tickets to the World's Fair for $29.-60, unlimited. Commencing with next Monday a Pullman sleeping car will run from St. Albans to Chicago, connecting with the train leaving Palmer for St. Albans at 11 a. m. Persons leaving Palmer at 11 a. m. by this route arrive in Chicago at 9.30 the next night.

The employes in the JOURNAL composing room were given an opportunity last Friday to sample some of O. F. Benedict's famous russet apples, and found that they were as firm and juicy as if the season were January instead of the latter part of May. The "sample" was generous, and the boys are hoping that his trees will have something besides blossoms on them this year.

Regarding the tuberculosis scare of last week in connection with the state primary school it has been discovered that the animals which were reported shipped to Brighton are still in the hands of the purchaser, and are feeding in his pasture. He says that he bought the animals with a full knowledge of the matter, and that so far as he is concerned no diseased animals shall be used for food.

Walter Winter has bought of the Knox estate the right to certain springs of water which formerly supplied many families in the section between Thorndike and Squier streets, but which had fallen off by reason of the pipes becoming obstructed. He has cleared them sufficiently to supply all present patrons with plenty of water, and expects to have a still greater supply soon. The springs are considered among the best in the village.

Next Tuesday will be Memorial Day. The mills and banks will be closed all day, and most of the business places will probably close at noon. The programme to be observed by the Grand Army post will be practically the same as last year. The Monson band will furnish music for the parade, and a male quartette will sing in the different cemeteries. The flower committee requests all who have flowers which can be spared to send them to the Memorial hall on Monday.

The high school ball team played the school team from Warren on the park last Saturday afternoon and defeated them by a score of 13 to 12. Yesterday afternoon they played the Wares on the same grounds, the game resulting in a kick in the fourth inning when the score stood 5 to 3 in favor of Ware and the Palmers had the bases full. They claimed that the Ware pitcher made a balk, which was not allowed, and the Palmers refused to play, the game being given to the Wares, 9 to 0.

An examination for candidates who wish to enter West Point will be held in Springfield to-morrow, in the common council room, at 10 a. m. Any resident of this congressional district between the ages of 17 and 22 may appear, and will be examined in reading, writing, grammar, arithmetic, geography and American history, and the one passing the best examination and physically competent will be nominated for the place. Dr. R. V. Sawin of Brimfield will be one of the examiners.

A corresponden: sends the JOURNAL the following: "Would it not be a good idea for the town fathers to ride over the different sections of road in the town and then offer a reward of say $1 for the best, 75 cents for the second and 50 cents for the third best pieces of road, to stimulate the repairers to greater exertions? The writer, having had occasion to travel over a large portion of the different roads, noticed that the ones in best condition were those about Forest Lake, being free from stones, well hardened, and ditches in good order."

There were two runaways Sunday. A Stafford man was leading a horse behind his carriage, and in crossing the Main street bridge over the tracks the led horse became frightened at a train and managed to get one foot over the axle of the carriage. This frightened the other horse and it ran, smashing the carriage on Thorndike street, while the other animal was captured only after a long chase. Then a horse hitched in the rear of the Nassowanno House became frightened at a piece of paper and broke away, doing considerable damage to the carriage.

John Sullivan of Monson was before the district court last Saturday for imbibing too much hilariousness, and was sent to the house of correction for two months in an endeavor to get his system straightened out again. Monday David E. Crittenden was placed on probation without date for drunkenness. Saturday was civil entry day, and the case of M. E. Delavel vs George Robillard and trustee was entered, Taft for the plaintiff and Gardner for the defendant. Judgment in the suits of J. T. Stevens, Jr., W. J. Houghton and Emma Houghton against Dr. H. B. Otis, was rendered for the plaintiffs.

Ralph LeGro met with an accident in Springfield last Saturday afternoon which gave him several bad bruises and badly damaged his wheel. He was passing between two teams which were going in the same direction as himself, when another came rapidly in between from in front, crowded him against one of the wagons, throwing him off and sending the wheel under one of the wagons. The fault was that of the driver of the approaching horse, and the thing was evidently done on purpose, at least so it seemed to several witnesses. The man who caused the trouble drove away so rapidly that it could not be determined who he was.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church will give a "Scottish Evening" in the vestry of the church this evening with the following programme, which will begin at 8 o'clock:

Chorus—"Bonnie Doon." "My Heart's in the Highland".....
Vocal Duet. "O, Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast."....Mrs. Flynt, Mrs. Rafter
Reading—followed by living pictures.....
"Bonnie Leslie," "Highland Mary," Maid o' Dundee."
Violin and Piano.....Misses Allen
Recitation. "Green Grow the Rashes".....
Solo.....Mrs. Flynt
Burlesque. "Young Lochinvar," "Fair Helen," "Annie Laurie".....
Flute Solo. "The Minstrel Boy".....Albert Shaw
Solo.....Mrs. Rafter
Nursery Drill.....By Highland Lads
Chorus. "Highland Laddie." "Auld Lang Syne".....

The Boston Journal has the following concerning the Boston and Albany road and a shorter time between Boston and New York:

It is claimed by officials connected with the Boston and Albany that at the time the 12 o'clock fast train was added to the service between Boston and New York, via Springfield, President Bliss assured the New Haven officials that his road was, or would be, in condition to contribute 41.8 per cent, or their proportion of a 5-hour service between the Hub and Gotham.

The 95-pound rail will be no unimportant factor in this rapid service. Engineers claim that the passage from the 72 to the 95-pound rail is at once notable for the gain in speed, and that, while a 72-pound rail requires a snow plow for four inches of snow that depth does not impede in the least while upon the 95-pound rail owing to its increased height.

The same road proposes to construct a new station at East Brookfield similar to the one at Brookline Hills. The latter is claimed to be one of the handsomest stations upon the line of this road.

The change of time which was announced for the 14th on the Boston and Albany road and then postponed on account of the New York Central, takes effect next Sunday, when the 10.59 a. m. express for the west will have a Chicago sleeper attached which will go via the Michigan Central road, reaching Chicago at 1.30 the next afternoon. The 5.28 p. m. western express, which now runs six days in the week, will then run every day, having a Chicago sleeper attached which will reach that city at 9 the next evening via the Lake Shore road. Going east the 1.50 p. m. express will stop at Warren, a new departure. The train leaving at 8.36 will leave at 9.13, and will run every day in the week. This gives Palmer people two trains west Sunday evening, for the far west at 5.28, and for New York at 6.06; also three for Boston, at 6.08, 7.55 and 9.13.

The school committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon and decided to make a new departure in the graduating exercises this year. There will be no essays or orations, but Rev. A. E. Winship of Boston will deliver and address in the opera house, at the close of which the diplomas will be awarded. Mr. Breckenridge, chairman of the school committee, Superintendent Small, and Principal Knox of the high school were appointed a committee to arrange a programme. The exercises will be held the 21st of June. A class of sixteen will graduate this year: Jennie E. Brainerd, Lottie L. Bray, Edith I. Hobson, Bessie Moore, Ora W. Parent, Maude L. Parker, Alice L. Thompson, Jennie C. Twiss, Lizzie A. Twiss, Edwin S. Gardner, Charles D. Holden, Michael R. Lyons, Henry C. Newell, Daniel B. Sullivan, Byron C. Shanks. The customary reception will be held in the opera house immediately after the graduating exercises. On a report of Superintendent Small's that all schools of a similar grade were not equal, some teachers having nearly four times the pupils which others receiving the same pay had, it was voted to have the grades rearranged by the superintendent.

Among the Churches.

BAPTIST.

The subject of Rev. Mr. Frost's discourse Sunday morning will be "The war cry of Gideon."

It is probable that the evening 7 o'clock service will be omitted, in order to allow all who wish to attend the memorial services in St. Paul's church.

ST. THOMAS'S CATHOLIC.

Mass next Sunday will be at 10 a. m., when the regular Pentecost collection will be taken.

Monday an anniversary requiem mass will be sung at 8 a. m. for the late Rev. P. T. O'Reilly.

There were special services at 5.30 and 8 a. m. Tuesday, in order that parishioners might comply with their Easter duty.

A class has been formed and is being regularly instructed for the reception of first communion, which will occur in a short time.

ST. PAUL'S UNIVERSALIST.

The church will be lighted with electricity for the first time next Sunday evening.

The pastor, Rev. H. F. Moulton, will preach next Sunday morning on "The folly of a pride of honor, and the contentment of light esteem."

The members of L. L. Merrick Grand Army post and the Woman's Relief Corps will attend religious service in this church next Sunday evening, when the pastor, Rev. H. F. Moulton, will deliver the memorial sermon, taking for his subject "Heavenly Citizenship." Seats will be reserved for both organizations, and the public is cordially invited to attend the service.

CONGREGATIONAL.

R. E. Dickson, in the employ of the Home Missionary Association, who has been laboring among the mountain whites of the South, spoke of the work last Sunday morning.

The subject for the morning sermon will be "Aggressiveness the method of success in Christian life and work." The 7 o'clock evening service will be omitted on account of the memorial service at St. Paul's church.

A meeting of the parish is called for next Tuesday evening at 7.30 to take action in regard to the removal of the fence about the church and parsonage grounds. It will probably be removed, improving the appearance of the property.

Responsive readings will be a part of the morning service in the near future, and a new singing book, the "New Laudes Domini," has been adopted, the old books being exchanged for the new. The matter is in the hands of a committee consisting of Dea. W. A. Breckenridge, H. B. Knox and Dr. G. H. Wilkins. New singing books have also been introduced in the Sunday school.

State Primary School Notes.

Miss Mudge spent Sunday in Bedford.

Mrs. Clark of West Springfield spent Sunday at the school.

Mr. Keith was in Springfield Wednesday, taking examinations for the railway mail service.

Mr. Ray of Springfield has accepted the position of supervisor, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Moore.

Miss Freeman of Boston and Mr. Fullington of Cambridge Junction, Vt., visited with Miss E. M. Fullington the last of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward started Tuesday for a six-weeks' trip to Wisconsin and the World's Fair. They stopped in Washington, D. C., one day, and returning will visit Niagara Falls.

THORNDIKE.

Miss Mary Flynn is spending a few weeks at Millbury.

John Murphy and wife of Monson are visiting friends in town this week.

Marshall L. H. Hitchcock of Lynn was in town for a few hours on Wednesday.

Michael McAuliff of Boston is visiting his parents on Main street for a few days.

Mrs. H. T. Bishop has returned after spending a few days with her son Walter in Millbury.

The culvert near the grammar school building is being repaird. It was sadly in need of attention.

Joseph Smith and family of Southbridge were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. McGilp during the past week.

Mrs. John Molloy, Sr., and daughter, Mrs. T. J. Clifford, spent part of the week visiting friends in Clinton.

Daniel Lawlor is to return from Palmer to this village and have his undertaking business here as formerly.

Richard Shabbott, who has been quite ill for the past week or more, has recovered so far as to be about again.

The Columbian brass band will give an open air concert next Thuasday evening in the lot near the school house.

The grammar school ball nine of this place defeated their Bondsville brothers at Bondsville last Friday. The same two clubs play here this afternoon.

The Daughters of Ruth will hold a fair in the Congregational church vestry this evening. Fancy articles, etc., will be offered for sale. All are invited; admission free.

Several from this place will attend the picnic and field day which will be held at Bondsville on Memorial Day, under the auspices of the Foresters of that place.

The term of Postmaster Adams expires the first of June, and a change in the administration is looked for soon after that date, though who the lucky one will be is still a subject for speculation.

Dentist M. W. Flynn and brother Daniel were called home from Pittsfield this week on account of the illness of their mother, Mrs. Edward Flynn, who remains very low at her home on Church street.

The Thorndike Drum Corps has organized a ball team and will probably play the first game here with the Warren high school team to-morrow. The club is composed entirely of the members of drum corps.

The watering tub near the Hendricks property in this village is being neglected. There has been no water in it for about six months, and travelers are every day stopping there only to use language which is more forcible than elegant.

The following programme was rendered this afternoon by the school children in commemoration of Memorial Day.

Song—"Come with the Flowers".....School
Declamation—"A Tribute to our Honored Dead".....John Roche
Recitation—"The Children's Decoration".....Edna Bedford
"Hurrah for the Flag".....
Masters Charles Walker, Wilbur Crown, Joseph Lefarr, Stephen Healy.
Recitation—"Grandma's Story".....
Annie Bedford, Ruth Williams, Sarah Keefe.
Song—"Bring Forth the Flowers".....School
Recitation—"Black, Blue and Gray".....Emma McFarlane
Declamation—"The Unknown Dead".....Nicholas Guillow
Recitation—"Memorial Day".....
Misses Sullivan, Morse, Thetreault, Keefe and Gingraw.
Recitation—"What I am Going to Do".....Kitty Holden
Song—"Tribute to the Brave".....School
Declamation—"Speech for Decoration Day".....Arthur Johnson
Recitation—"Gather the Flowers".Agnes Murphy
Recitation—"Under the Sod"....Louisa Longtine
Recitation—"Memorial Offerings".....
Mary Holden, Salina Chicoine, Annie Luman, Lillia Bermth.
Song—"Honor the Brave."
Recitation—"Only the Old Flag".....Ethel Miller
Recitation—"Sleep, Comrades, Sleep".....
.....Blanche Murdock
Declamation—"For my Country"..Stephen Healy
Song—"America".....School

BONDSVILLE.

Miss Jessie Ryther is in Springfield for a few days.

Louis Katz has taken a position in Jerry Shea's store.

Austin Bond of Amherst visited friends here last week.

Dr. H. A. Smith starts for the World's Fair a week from Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Bowen of Lawrence was the guest of Wm. O'Regan Wednesday.

Mrs. Merrick Whitney of Malden called on some of her old friends Thursday.

The North Wilbraham ball team will play here to-morrow with the Bondsvilles.

Mrs. Samuel Sharrett, who has been sick for the past three weeks, is out again.

Miss Minnie Shepard of Montague was the guest of Miss May Martin over Sunday.

Will Whiting of Thorndike has moved into one of Miss Bridget Leary's tenements.

Mrs. George Stevens of Ware spent Monday with her sister, Mrs. Vincent O'Regan.

Miss Edith Hobson has returned home from Palmer, where she has been staying the last two weeks.

Harry Dudley of Montague was the guest over Sunday of his sister, Miss Minnie Dudley.

Miss Laura Palmer of Lowell is spending her vacation with her mother, Mrs. Luther Collis.

Morris Dalton and Miss Annie McNavey of Worcester were the guests of Miss Mary Ryan over Sunday.

John Sullivan and Mr. Johnston of Holyoke spent Sunday with friends here, riding out on their wheels.

Marshall Stebbins and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Little of Springfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shumway.

Mrs. James Paige and daughter of Amherst were the guests of her mother, Mrs. Richard Russell, Friday and Saturday.

The school teachers will all go away for Memorial Day; the grammar school teacher, Herbert Fuller, will visit in Springfield.

Rev. Mr. Hall and family are visiting in Fitchburg this week, at Mrs. Hall's home. They will go from there to Dorchester, to his home.

George Roberts has moved his meat market to the Langlier block. He is putting in a new refrigerator, and will keep all kinds of meat and vegetables.

One of the members of the Woman's Relief Corps of Palmer was in town Tuesday soliciting articles for the dinner to the veterans after the decorating of the graves next Tuesday. The ladies in this place have never been solicited before, but responded generously. It is requested that the promised articles be left with O. A. Parent early next Tuesday morning.

Clifton, the youngest son of Henry Hobson, who has just gotten over the scarlet fever, now has the measles. Three children of Michael Collins are down with the measles, and one of Thomas Bruce's children has them, also a son of George Moores. Two more new cases of measles Tuesday, George Lee, clerk in the office of the Boston Duck Co., and Bernice, daughter of W. O'Regan.

Mrs. Thankful Smith, widow of the late Lucius Smith, died Monday morning. She had not been feeling well for some time. At 1 o'clock Sunday night she was given medicine and went to sleep; at 4 she was sleeping quietly, so was not disturbed. When she was visited at 6 o'clock she was dead. She lived with her son by a former husband, Benjamin Parsons, and besides him leaves a daughter, Mrs. Hendrick, of Palmer.

THREE RIVERS.

O. J. Senton has purchased a new Victor bicycle.

Ed. Brown has taken a position in the belt shop in the mill.

Shaw Bros'. store is being improved in appearance by a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Percy enjoyed a carriage ride to Ware last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fillmore are rejoicing to-day in the birth of a daughter.

Mrs. Heman Fish spent this week in Lowell with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fish.

Dr. Bliss has purchased a new carriage, through the agency of John F. Twiss.

Mrs. Sibley Warner of Sunderland visited Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kendrick this week.

Miss Rebecca Parks of Boston spent a few days in town this week with her sisters.

The Howard block is being improved in appearance this week by a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodgeny will give a reception to-morrow evening to a number of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Arnold of Ware spent Sunday with Mr. Arnold's mother at this place.

John Pearline is improving the external appearance of Arthur Grise's residence by a coat of paint.

Charles Alden has been appointed second-hand of the machine shop, in place of Mr. Holt, resigned.

Several persons have planned to attend the missionary convention at Saratoga, N. Y., next week.

A. A. Warriner has bought a house in Palmer, where he intends to remove with his family at an early date.

F. A. Ruggles shipped thirty of his cultivators to different parts of the country, twelve of them to Chicago, this week.

Joseph Henrichson, who received severe injuries by falling from a scaffold in the dye house a few weeks ago, is improving rapidly.

Mr. Verrill, second-hand of the weaving room in the mill, has moved into the tenement lately vacated by Thomas McDougal.

Mr. Desaulnier's new restaurant is to be dedicated this evening by a dance, when ice cream and other refreshments are to be served.

The "Bee and Butterfly" society that has been organized by the pupils of Miss Walker's school is to hold a picnic in Aldrich's grove Memorial Day.

On Memorial Day a company of bicycle riders who think they can "get there" intend to ride to Springfield, in order to see who can cover the distance, 16 miles, in an hour.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Union church held its semi-annual meeting Tuesday evening and reelected all the former officers excepting secretary, Mr. Brown taking Mrs. Tarbox's place.

Mrs. Hanley, proprietor of the Riverside Hotel, called for F. W. Lavene to evict a tough, who broke some lights of glass and made things generally disagreeable in the building, one day this week.

Last Monday afternoon the teachers of the public school enjoyed a carriage ride to the state primary school at Palmer, and were greatly interested and much pleased with their visit to that institution.

Miss Della Gage intends to leave here to-morrow for Springfield, where she will join friends and start for a trip to the World's Fair, staying there a few weeks, then going to Southern Michigan to spend some time among relatives and friends.

A week from to-morrow the game of ball between the overseers of Ware and those in this place will be played. It is expected that the overseers from Ware will be accompanied by their wives, and preparations are being made to give them a reception at the company's boarding house after the game.

A company of five ladies went to Palmer Monday in order to obtain some benefit from the instructions that were being given in cooking at the opera house, but found to their disappointment that advertising goods was the prime factor in the instruction they sought. After walking home in a hot sun, and being asked by their husbands if they felt paid for their walk, complete reticence was judged by them to be the most expedient.

This afternoon the following programme was rendered in the public school:

Song, "Lovely May".....2d and 3d schools
Recitation, "A Joke".....Leon Twogood
Song, "The Little Fairy".....Lillie Ives
Dialogue, "The Metals".....4th school
Recitation.....George Strickland
Song, "The Birds' Ball".....4th school
Recitation.....Primary pupils
Dialogue, "Borrowing".....5th school
Recitation, "A Mortifying Mistake".Mary Freak
Recitation, "Mrs. June's Prospectus".Jennie Allen
Recitation, "An Awakened Conscience".....Mabel Russell

MEMORIAL.

Song, "America".....All
Recitation, "Words of Welcome".....Lena Lavene
Recitation, "Children's Memorial".Nellie Conroy
Recitation, "Forget-me-not".....Effie Brown
Song.....5th school
Recitation, "Hurrah for the Flag".....Ida Smith
Flag exercise.....3d and 5th school
Recitation, "Under the Sod".....Morton Twogood
Dialogue, "The Children's Plan".....3d primary
Song, with Flag.....2d primary
Recitation, "Grant's Resting Place".Delia Roberts
Decoration Exercises.....Grammar school
Song, "Come with the Fragrant Blooming Flowers".....5th school
Song, "Rally Round the Flag".....All

Last Friday evening a number of people were greatly alarmed by the antics of a vicious dog. His first performance was to attack and bite Mr. Dean, principal of the school at Thorndike, next he went for Henry Ferrel, who was riding his wheel on Main street, and bit him on the leg; then the animal retruned from East Main street and went through the common, meeting George Roberts, whom he seized by the arm and bit severley, so that the wound needed a doctor's attention most of this week. The canine then finished up by pulling Thomas Frame off his bicycle and biting him through his shoe. As the news spread through town the general impression was that a mad dog was abroad, but nothing more was seen of him until Wednesday evening, when Charles Clark says that he saw him near St. Anne's church, and that the brute tried to bite him. It was rumored during the week that he had been shot, but Mr. Clark's statement seems to prove the contrary.

DIED.

At Bondsville, 22d, THANKFUL SMITH, 82.
At Ware, 23d, SUSANNAH, 64, widow of Albert M. Akers.
At Ware, 18th, MICHAEL M. NORTON, 53.

FOR SALE—Combination Pool Table, 4½ by 9. 2-8 JOHN RILEY, Thorndike.

TENEMENT TO RENT, on South Main street. tf-8 A. W. WEEKS.

FOR SALE OR TO LET—Good pasture of 54 acres in Monson, well watered. 2-8 J. H. KEITH, Palmer.

WANTED—A girl who understands sewing to assist in dressmaking. Call at corner Main and Thorndike streets. 2-8

PASTURAGE—Horses or cattle. Large run, pure water, high ground, good feed. A. D. NORCROSS.
Monson, May 25, 1893. 2-8

LOST—A large English Greyhound, without collar. Color blue. Not been seen since Monday. Information regarding him will be gratefully received by F. A. MOORE, Monson, Mass.
1-8

WANTED.—Girl for general housework. MRS. C. B. FISKE.

FOR SALE.—Oak, hickory and chestnut cord wood. Also chestnut posts and ties suitable for electric car tracks. Orders by mail, box 408, King Farm, Palmer, Mass. 4-6

GOOD PASTURAGE FOR COWS.—In the "Knox Pasture," so called, near the village. Apply to CHAS. B. FISKE.
Palmer, May 12, 1893.

WANTED.—Situation by an experienced grocery and provision clerk. Also competent of taking charge of books. Best of recommendations. L. W. WILLIAMS,
4-5 West Rutland Mass.

NOTICE.—The subscriber will pay no bills for Julia Barney or anyone after the 25th of March, A. D., 1893.
His
JOHN D. X BARNEY.
Holland, Mass. 3-6 Mark.

FOR SALE—At reasonable figures, two well built modern houses of seven rooms each on one

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 26, 1893.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

MONSON.

Daniel Scanlon is improving in health.

Solomon Squier has gone to the World's Fair.

A. D. King of Worcester spent Sunday in town.

Dr. Copeland is the guest of Dr. N. W. Rand.

Stephen Newton has a new horse and carriage.

Who is to be our next Savings bank president?

John Connell has been visiting friends in the East.

H. N. Butler is out with a newly-painted baker's wagon.

Mrs. F. S. Hatch left Wednesday to attend the World's Fair.

Hiram Penn has purchased Mr. Spurr's horse and roadcart.

Miss Clara A. Wood spent Sunday at her home in Springfield.

Miss Carrie Tucker went to Hartford Saturday to visit friends.

The second bicycle parade was held Tuesday with 40 'cyclers in line.

Charles Rickets contemplates visiting the World's Fair next months.

Mrs. Priestly has put in a bank wall north of her house on Pearl street.

Phillip Taylor was the guest of his father-in-law, J. C. Maguire, Sunday.

E. H. Bruce has purchased a horse and carriage of Liveryman Clifford.

The Misses Eaton expect to go to the World's Fair in the near future.

Several from here attended the races at Rockville Wednesday of this week.

George C. Flynt spent Sunday and the first part of the week in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Miss Julia E. Smith of Springfield is the guest of her sister, Miss Eliza Smith.

Harry T. Chapin has severed his connection with the Springfield Republican.

Representative Alvin A. Gage is distributing seeds sent out by the government.

The grounds about the Congregational church are sadly in need of attention.

The annual visitation of St. Patrick's parish by the clergy will soon be made.

Warren Dame and family spent Sunday with Mr. Dame's parents at Wilbraham.

Miss Carrie Gates of Hartford was the guest of Miss Candace Gates over Sunday.

Mrs. Dr. Green and daughter Marion spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. George E. Fuller.

The 10th anniversary of the organization of the Grand Army post takes place this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wales of Windsor, Ct., were the guests of their father, E. L. Wales, Sunday.

The granite posts at the entrance to the Academy are to be set in place at an early date.

Arthur King of the Worcester School of Technology has been in town during the past week.

Nine hundred and thirty-eight pennies were found in the weighing machine at the depot.

William Gifford, superintendent at Heimann & Lichten's, is the owner of a fine new turnout.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coltman of Westboro spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Rogers.

The entertainment at the Universalist church Tuesday evening was a success in every way.

Rev. W. H. Marble will address the G. A. R. post in Memorial Hall Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Mary Fuller has finished work at the south straw shop, and is soon to go to the World's Fair.

Mrs. Fernando Strong and daughter, Florence, have been visiting Mrs. Harriet Fenton this week.

George A. Harvey is making two bookcases to be placed in the assessors' room in Memorial Hall.

The meeting at Silver Street will be omitted Sunday on account of the G. A. R. address in Memorial Hall.

The entertainment at the Universalist church Tuesday evening was well attended and much enjoyed.

W. H. Pease has had a few men helping him at the cemetery this week, and now has it in fine condition.

Saving bank meeting next Wednesday. There is to be a full attendance, and lively times are expected.

Lyman C. Flynt will leave to-morrow for the Adirondacks, where he will join a party for a week's fishing.

R. Clifford Millar and family went to Phillipston Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mr. Millar's grandfather.

Arthur Maguire, who has been so very ill at his home in Brooklyn, is now visiting his father, J. C. Maguire.

The watering cart made its appearance for the first time this season on Saturday, painted bright yellow and red.

A horse driven by Arthur Johnson last Sunday became unmanageable and smashed the carriage somewhat.

On account of the memorial services on Sunday the meeting in the Gage district will be postponed one week.

Ralph Clifford has the misfortune to lose his fighting bull terrier "Zellah" last week, she being run over by the cars.

Isaac Ramsdell has the contract for painting the house recently purchased by Mrs. George C. Flynt on High Street.

Rev. James Tufts attended the Congregational convention in Boston last week, stopping at Wellesley on his way there.

A. D. Ellis has bought a half interest in the mill of his Uncle, J. T. Ellis, at Stafford, and makes almost daily visits there.

Mrs. Ellen Chapin attended the funeral at Worcester, Tuesday, of Simon Newton, who was a partner of the late Henry Chapin.

A concrete walk is being placed in front of the new bank building and is being extended in front of the wooden block at the south.

The wind was so strong last Monday that it blew down the flag pole on the No. 1 schoolhouse, from which the flag was floating.

Dr. Hanley is to have charge of the patients of Dr. Fuller during his absence at the convention in Milwaukee and at the World's Fair.

The marriage of James Grogan and Miss Hannah Bramnick will take place in St. Patrick's church next Wednesday evening at 6.30.

Rev. F. S. Hatch is giving a series of Bible readings to the young people of his church Sunday evenings at 6 o'clock in the small chapel.

Miss Debro Bailey, who has been spending the past two weeks with her cousin, Mrs. L. C. Flynt, left for her home in Providence Wednesday.

Charles Webber has the finest year old colt in town. He stands 14½ hands, and weighs 650 pounds, perfectly gaited and well broken.

Miss Maggie Ryan of No. Monson expects to leave town to-morrow for Millbury. From there she goes to Pittsburg, and later to the World's Fair.

The selectmen have hired Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Dewey of Pittsfield as warden and matron of the town farm, and they begin their labor next Monday.

Misses Lora and Minnie Webber with friends, also a sister of Mrs. Webber from Vermont, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Webber over Sunday.

Business at the Monson Creamery continues to improve, and the farmers are happy. Let some other new industry start in town and people will all help it along.

Ralph Clifford has decided to go into the coal business, and says he proposes to give his personal attention to the business and endeavor to please his customers.

A ball team has been organized among the employes at Ellis's mill, and they have chosen D. Healy captain. They would like to meet any other mill team in town.

Circulars as to the care of lots in No. 1 cemetery have been sent out by the commissioners, and many lot holders have already availed themselves of the opportunity afforded.

Stocks are going down, but it is noticed that meal has advanced. Who was the first one to raise the price? It is said that a reward of $1 is offered for a correct answer to the question.

The lawn party at the residence of G. L. Keeney last Wednesday evening was much enjoyed by all present. It was given under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Methodist church.

Many here are favored by receiving invitations for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Rogers at Wales, which occurs tomorrow evening from 6 to 10.

Next Sunday being the anniversary of Bishop O'Reilly's death, special prayers will be offered by the people of St. Patrick's parish. The anniversary service will be held Monday morning at 8 o'clock.

J. T. Sullivan, who left Monson 17 years ago, spending 7 years south and the past 10 years at Buffalo, where he has accumulated quite a little fortune, has been spending the past week with relatives in town.

In another column will be found the coal advertisement of R. M. & T. Reynolds, the prices being extremely low, ranging from $4.45 to $5.70 per ton. This is for July delivery. Good men will be furnished to put the coal in bins at the actual cost of their labor.

The Palmer and Monson Electric Company started painting their poles through the village this week. A dark green is the color, and adds much to their appearance. Provided there are no more hard rains they expect to get their plant at Blanchardville completed in two weeks.

Dr. G. E. Fuller, wife and daughter, Mrs. Merchant, start next week Saturday for the medical convention in Milwaukee, to which he is a delegate. After remaining there one week they go to Chicago for a week's stay at the fair, where they are to be joined by Mr. Merchant.

A very pleasant birthday surprise party was given Miss Mary, Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy and the boarders at the Monson House Monday evening. T. H. Booth, in behalf of those present, presented Miss McCarthy with a gold watch. Supper was served and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Memorial Day services will be as follows: 11 a. m., decorating graves at Moulton Hill; 1.30 p. m., exercises in Memorial Hall, which will be as usual, singing, prayer, oration, etc., with an original poem by Mrs. Charles G. Thompson. All flag defenders are cordially invited to participate in the exercises of the day.

The following pupils from intermediate No. 1 have been neither absent nor tardy during the second month of the spring term: Freola Osborne, Susie White, Mary Moore, Nora Looney, Mary McPherson, Katie Savage, Jennie Beckwith, Caroline Flynt, Carl Grant, Albert Stewart, Hampton Nichols, Ralph Needham, Frank Maguire, Jesse Maguire, Charles Drain, Harry Leahy, Thad Miller, John Joyce.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Webber were agreeably surprised by a visit from their many friends, the occasion being their 40th wedding anniversary. During the evening the couple were presented with $75 in money, besides many other useful articles, among them being two willow rocking chairs and a silk dress. Ice cream and cake were served, and the occasion was greatly enjoyed by all present. Six daughters were present, and Mrs. Webber's only sister, Mrs. P. T. Wyman, of Peru, Vt.

These children in the Green street primary school have been present every day during the past month: Vertene Aldrich, Nellie Beckwith, Lizzie Bradway, Grace Ferry, Ruth Graves, Gertie Hanley, Mamie Leary, Lottie Nason, May Needham, Kittie O'Brien, Mary Robbins, Grace Thayer, Arline Tryon, Mattie Webber, Ernest Aldrich, Eddie Bradway, John Cantwell, Peter Kearns, Fred Darling, Dwight Ellis, Arthur Graves, Frank Holloway, Eddie Lambert, Willie McGuire, Ralph Rathbun, Charlie Robbins, Lennie Shannon.

Provided enough persons in Monson can be found to guarantee running a special train to Amherst on June 10th, the day of the athletic meet, one will be secured. The events will probably not close in time to catch the last train down, so a special train is almost imperative. All from this town who intend going will confer a favor by immediately notifying E. B. Francis or A. F. Warren, box 895. It is hoped that a large number of the people will interest themselves to go. Other places send large delegations to cheer on their team, and why should not Monson?

Academy Notes.

School will reopen next Wednesday morning at 8.45.

The catalogue for 1892-93 is being printed at the JOURNAL office.

George H. Stone has discontinued his relations at the Academy.

Misses Lulu C. Vaille and Myra E. Fiske have been ill with the grippe the past week.

Theo. W. Buscher has been chosen to represent the senior class at the alumni dinner.

Principal Dustan will open the discussion on "Criticism of Massachusetts High Schools" at the convention in Springfield, Monday.

B. Flint was the guest of his brother, George Henry Flint, at Yale on Sunday. Mr. Flint, who was formerly a teacher at the Academy, recently graduated from the divinity school with honor. Mr. Flint's thesis was on "Thus saith the Lord," its meaning and significance in the Old Testament.

In accordance with the vote of the trustees, the following persons will take part in the graduating exercises at Memorial Hall June 20th. The first three mentioned are chosen by rank: Valedictorian, Miss Anna Billings Converse, "Gold lies deep in the Mountains;" salutatorian, Frederick Daniels Thayer, "Education and Morals;" Archie Winthrop Merchant, "The Uses of Imagination." The three chosen by the class are: George Linnaeus Thompson, "The Heritage of New England;" George Marquis Converse, "The Nation's Trust;" Arthur Simpson Tucker, "Pathfinders." These three were elected by the faculty: Dennis Joseph McCarthy, "The True Function of Organized Labor;" Annie Regnia Parker, "The Mission of Poetry;" James Edward Closson, "National Holidays." A. N. Gaouette has been elected class photographer. The class motto is "Non solem nobis."

Two weeks from to-morrow—June 10th—the athletic teams from Springfield, Holyoke, Westfield, Amherst and Monson will meet in the inter-scholastic games at Amherst Monson last year, it will be remembered, took the banner, but that does not neccessarily necessitate the banner's coming here this year. Of last year's team the only prize-winners that have been lost are Bissell, who holds the pole-vault record, and Crowdis, who took second in putting the shot. This year's team has recently met with two losses, Stone, who took third in the ½-mile run last year and a running high jumper with, record of 5 feet 6 inches, and Brown, who was hurdling, as they have left the Academy. A preliminary meet was held on the Palmer track last Saturday and the following persons (possibly with one or two exceptions) will make up the team: 100 yards dash,—Converse '93, Lord P. G.; 220 yards dash—Converse '93, Lord P. G., Buscher '93; ½-mile run—Lord P. G., Thompson '93, Burrows '94; ½-mile run—Burrows '94, King '96, Nelson '95; mile run—Merchant '93, Bissell '93, Walker '93; 220 yards hurdle—Lord P. G.; putting shot—Austin '94, Converse '93, Griggs '94; throwing hammer—Austin '91, Griggs '94, Prahn '93; running broad jump—Convers '93; standing broad jump—Converse '93, Tucker '93, Buscher '93; running high jump—Chism '94; standing high jump—Tucker '93; pole vault—Walker '93, Bennett '96, Phillips '96; throwing base ball—Thayer '93, Buscher '93. The wheel races are the only events in which Monson will start no one. The result will be close, but there is no reason why Monson should not stand an even fighting chance.

WARREN.

Mr. and Mrs. Rand from Springfield spent last Sabbath with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shumway have been spending a few days in Nashua, N. H.

The building boom still continues and a number of new houses will be erected this summer.

The Methodists have in contemplation the building of a parsonage as soon as the necessary funds are raised.

Mrs. Minnie Whitney, Mrs. Rice and Miss Fannie Strickland of Warren and Miss Emory of Springfield leave Monday for a trip to Chicago.

Memorial Day will be observed in the usual manner. It is hoped that those who have flowers will contribute, as the season has been so backward there is a scarcity.

WEST WARREN.

Mrs. Putnam Webber is out again after a long illness.

George Barton moved his family to Millbury last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown have been visiting friends in Ipswich.

J. E. Lombard has returned from Saratoga-Springs, somewhat improved in health.

Mr. Rodoslavoff, a Bulgrian student, at Wilbraham Academy, lectured in the M. E. chuch Sunday evening.

The literary committee of the Epworth League will give a reception in the vestry next Thursday evening.

Rev. Harris G. Hale, of the Warren Congregational church, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Putnam Webber of the M. E. church last Sunday.

F. Bemis will open his Central street ice cream room next Tuesday, and will thereafter be prepared to supply picnic parties, church fairs and families at short notice.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Miss Kate Buckley has returned to her work after a short visit in Springfield.

The house being built by Marshall Wright for himself on Maple street is fast nearing completion.

Mrs. William Turner of Westfield, a former resident of this vicinity, visited her parents the past week.

H. C. Scott has severed his connection with the Collins Mfg. Co. and accepted one in South Hadley Falls.

J. W. Baldwin will be the next postmaster at this place, his appointment having been officially announced.

Mrs. P. M. Brigham of Worcester is taking care of her sister, Mrs. E. W. Wall, who is confined to the house with a severe attack of neuralgia and rheumatism.

No services will be held in Grace church next Sabbath; instead a free 'bus will leave this place in time to convey any who wish to attend the memorial services at Wilbraham. Rev. William Rice Newhall will occupy the pulpit for the occasion.

Petty robberies have been and are carried on in this village in a very systematic manner, greatly to the annoyance and discomfort of the citizens. The last on the list was the robbery of victuals from the house of the deputy sheriff, and that of one of his neighbors, who lives close by. One or two clews has been found which may lead to the conviction of the guilty ones. The stealing of coal from the coal sheds at the depot is another of the freaks of these midnight prowlers, who find it so convenient to live on goods obtained in such manner. It is to be hoped that strict measures will be taken to punish the parties concerned.

BELCHERTOWN.

Miss Jennie Bridgman has gone to Nyack, N. Y., to be cashier in a restaurant.

Clinton Dyer of Worcester was in town a few days ago for the purpose of engaging a house for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Snow started Monday for New Hampshire. During Mr. Snow's absence his drug store will be in charge of H. E. Barton.

City people are beginning to appreciate the benefits of the fresh air of the country, even for a few hours. The Belcher House entertained over 50 guests Sunday.

The programme for the observance of Memorial Day has been arranged as follows: Memorial Day services on Sunday, the 28th, will be held at Enfield M. E. church with preaching by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Adams. On the morning of Memorial Day the decoration of graves in the Belchertown cemeteries will be attended by the Belchertown members of the post. At 10.30 the post will meet in Enfield and form their line in this order: Ware Cadet Band, Post No. 97, Bethel Lodge F. and A. M., town officers of Belchertown, Enfield and Granby, public schools, and all who wish to take part. Refreshments will be served at the town hall. Decoration ceremonies begin at 1 p. m. The Belchertown people who assist in this exercise are: Rev. H. G. Alley, who offers prayer, the Midnight Quartette sing, Rev. W. S. Woolworth offers prayer, and Rev. F. F. Thayer speaks in memory of the dead in unknown graves. At the town hall the memorial service will be held, in charge of E. H. Moore, commander. The address will be given by J. W. Hersey of Springfield. E. J. Griggs post has members from Belchertown, Enfield and Granby, and the memorial services are held at Belchertown two years, and at Enfield and Granby the next two consecutive years.

WALES.

The highways are being repaired.

Miss Fiske, who has been sick for two weeks, is improving.

B. S. Baker has started his ice cart, and is prepared to keep things cool.

Mrs. H. A. Chilson and Misses Alice and Maggie Keefe spent last Sabbath in town.

P. H. O'Keefe and wife have been visiting out-of-town friends for a few days this week.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Rogers will be celebrated to-morrow evening at their home.

Will Moran has a new safety. Lucky for him that it is low down, or his head would have a great fall, as he is fully six feet tall.

The building in which William Harris had ice stored has blown down, and he has put up a temporary one for the summer. He will furnish ice cream as usual.

H. A. McFarland lost a valuable cow with milk fever Saturday, and in removing her from the barn he received a severe sprain in his back which has confined him to his home all the week thus far.

Complaint has been made against several parties for drunkenness and desecration of the Sabbath May 14th. One or two more names are wanted, when action will be commenced, and some people will be surprised at that time.

Two new and taller telegraph poles have been set in front of Shaw's new block, as, the building being about five feet nearer the highway than the old, it comes in contact with the wires, and either the building must be moved back or the poles set further into the road, the latter being more easily done.

The ladies of the Baptist church held their annual fair Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Wednesday evening Miss Alice Osden of Westfield gave select readings, and music was furnished by the Springfield guitar, banjo and mandolin club. Ice cream and strawberries were served after the entertainment. Thursday evening there were select readings by Miss Osden and a supper to close. A large variety of fancy articles were on sale each evening.

The agent of the long-named society has not seen any such abuse of animals as reported last week. If the reporter will enter complaint the agent will be very glad to prosecute. There are many tender-hearted people who are like the monkey that put the cat's paw into the fire for chestnuts, they can grumble but never come to the front with complaints. "Oh, no, no! don't mention my name. Somebody would be mad. You do it!" So also complaints are made about drunkenness on the streets Sundays. When asked to testify against parties it is, "Oh, no! I don't want to mix up in it." Officers cannot enforce the law unless respectable people are willing to testify.

WILBRAHAM.

The Misses Pierce of Holyoke spent Wednesday in town.

Dr. Colt and daughter of Brooklyn are spending a few days in town.

Mrs. Rockwell of North Adams is stopping at R. R. Wright's for a few weeks.

Mrs. R. A. Cooper and son will leave tomorrow for Delaware, where they will spend the summer.

There was a general good time of an informal character at Prof. Ellis's residence last night. Music was furnished by the school quartettes, and declamations by Miss Haige.

An entertainment will be given in Fisk Hall this evening for the benefit of the base ball association. Miss Marion Sterns of Springfield will give readings, assisted by the male quartette of Wesleyan Academy.

The local grand army post will observe Memorial Day with services at the South church in the morning, including an address by Rev. Mr. Howard and special music appropriate to the occasion. At the conclusion of these exercises the Hazardville band will march with the veterans to the two cemeteries, where the graves of the comrades of former years will be decorated with flags and flowers. A union service is to be held next Sunday in the Congregational church, when Rev. W. R. Newhall will preach to the soldiers.

Wesleyan Academy.

E. C. Goldsmith of Springfield has been selected by the senior class as class photographer, and will take all groups and pictures of academy grounds, disposing of the same through his agent, A. L. Squier.

The following students have been chosen for the junior prize declamations commencement week: B. G. Barton, G. W. Giddings, W. J. Oliver, A. L. Squier, Misses Dyer, Henderson, Russell, Thompson and Stevens. For the second and first years — C. H. Phillips, J. A. Parker, R. H. Paige, R. H. Jones, F. J. Stokien, Misses Clark, Holden, Fordham, Alden and Surry.

The ball team defeated the Homesteads of Springfield in a well-played though not particularly interesting game of ball on the town grounds Saturday, the score being 11 to 4; Clow and Lombard were the battery. To-morrow the Delphians of Springfield cross bats with the school team, and Memorial Day the Holyoke high school team is booked for an afternoon game.

The programme for commencement week at Wesleyan Academy—June 16-22—has been arranged as follows:

Friday, June 16, 7.45 p. m.—Prize declamations, second and first years.

Saturday, 9—11 a. m.—Written examinations; 7.45 p. m., principal's reception to senior class.

Sunday, 10.45 a. m.—Baccalaureate sermon by Rev. Dr. Charles H. Payne; 7.45 p. m., Academy sermon by Rev. Dr. William R. Clark.

Monday — Oral examinations throughout the day; 2 p. m., annual meeting of the board of trustees; 7.45 p. m., annual concert.

Wednesday, 10. a. m.—report of annual committee, with award of prizes; 2 p. m., class day exercises by seniors; 7.45 p. m., annual address before the alumni, by Dr. Benjamin F. Kidder, '77; 9—10 p. m., art reception in the studio of Fisk Hall, under the direction of Miss Wyman.

Thursday, 9. a. m.—Exercises of graduating class; 7.45 p. m., annual interview.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

BOSTON, May 24, 1893.

The Senate treasury committee has reported as was expected, two to one against the bill for a union passenger station at the north end of Boston. This scheme was connected with the rapid transit plan, but is not an essential part of it.

Insinuations continue to be made against the state gas commission. On the floor of the House on Friday Mr. Parker of Boston said that if he had known weeks ago what he knew then he should have moved for a committee of investigation. As it was he preferred to await the action of the gas investigating committee. The House so voted. No definite charge has been made against the commission, and yet the House seemed disposed to believe it ought to be investigated.

By a unanimous vote on Thursday, without a word of debate, on the first call of the calendar, the House accepted the adverse report on the proposed impeachment of Judge Dunbar. Stillman made a personal matter of it, but wholly without success.

The New York and New Haven railroad will get off easily after its trouble with the New York and New England road, if the report of the railroad investigating committee is accepted by both branches. The report of the committee is unanimous that the New York and New Haven road has done nothing wrong, but the statement is made that two of the committee have reserved the right to dissent.

The growing tendency to limit the powers of corporations appears in several bills which have been reported by the committee on rules, to apply to all railroad, street railway, gas and electric light and water companies. They prevent the issue of any stock or bonds by any corporation of these classes, unless they have been approved by the commission which is in charge of such corporations.

The committee to investigate the condition of the prisons of the state reports that a new state prison should be built some 15 or 20 miles out of Boston, with a separate portion for the incorrigibles, that there should be thorough reform in the method of appointing officers so as to secure full accountability, with more power to the warden, and that all the prisoners be kept well at work.

The gas investigating committee is thoroughly split up as to what should be done with the Addicks ring, which has grossly violated the laws of the state. It is to be noticed that the special committee to investigate the gas companies is, in the main, in favor of a severe course toward the ring, while the House members of the committee on manufactures, who were added to the special committee, are in favor of a lenient course. Seven of the committee think a way should be open for the erring to return, putting mercy before justice and that, too, without the first sign of penitence or worthiness of forgiveness on the part of the offenders. These seven are Messrs. Joy of Winchester and Galloupe of Beverly of the special committee, and Messrs. Ackley of Fitchburg, Kohlrausch of Billerica, Whitney of Royalston, Gage of Monson and Hammond of Quincy of the committee on manufactures.

Six of the committee believe that the offense of the ring is so great that it can be atoned for only by forfeiture of the charter of the Bay State Gas Company. These six are Messrs. Lyford of Springfield, chairman, Malone of Greenfield, Moriarty of Worcester, Rosnosky of Boston and Meyer of Boston of the special committee, and Mr. Hall of Woburn of the committee on manufactures. Two of the committee on manufactures do not stand with either of these groups. Mr. O'Neil of Chicopee would make a special effort to save innocent bondholders from loss, and favors a consolidation of the different gas companies. Mr. McLoughlin of Milford has not been heard from, but is supposed to sympathize with the Lyford-Malone report. Neither part of the committee has reported a bill, but bills can be offered from the floor upon these reports.

The fate of the rapid transit bill is much in doubt. Many people would be glad to defeat it altogether. Mr. Charles Carleton Coffin is author of a bill offered by Mr. Perkins of Boston, which has material modifications of the committee's bill. It has nothing of the elaborate and expensive street widening scheme which is proposed. It allows consequential damages (which the other bill forbids), but only after waiting two years in order to see whether the road is a damage or a benefit, and it makes the city the constructor and operator of the road, instead of the proposed construction company.

Though the storage battery bill passed the House by overwhelming votes, yet it could not pass the Senate. Once more is illustrated the great truth that when great corporations have a really serious measure to defeat, they make their best fight in the Senate. Once more is proved the truth that a large body is more faithful to the rights of the people. The more numerous branch always takes more time for action. It is more unwieldy; it is more likely to pass bungling legislation, but, at the same time, it is never as much under the influence of great corporations as the Senate. Before the vote was taken on the storage battery bill, one of the West End lobby said his road had 25 senators who would vote against the bill. The roll call showed only five yeas to 30 nays on ordering the bill to a third reading, though the House had given it a good vote on each of the three stages. But the battery is becoming better known, and so is the West End street railway.

Both branches are again agreed on the bill to wind up the assessment endowment orders, and it looks as if their end were near at hand.

LANDON.

MASSACHUSETTS MATTERS.

A branch of the Keeley cure for drunkenness is to be established in Springfield.

The Atlantic Tannery property in Salem was burned Tuesday night, the loss being $250,000.

The Holyoke Democrat has been sued for $5000 by Col. James E. Delaney of that city, and an attachment put on the plant.

It is expected that the trial of Lizzie Borden for the murder of her parents at Fall River last August will begin at New Bedford next Monday.

The house, barn and sheds of John Hale at Westfield were burned early last Friday morning by an incendiary fire, the loss being about $3000.

There was a 75,000 fire in Douglass last Saturday evening, when a part of the works of the American Ax and Tool Company were destroyed.

Rev. Edward Fairbank was ordained at Amherst Tuesday and will be supported by the undergraduates of Amherst College as a missionary to India.

The constitutionality of the interchangable mileage ticket act was argued before the full bench of the supreme court Monday, and an early decision on the matter is expected.

Charges of bribery and selling liquor licenses have been brought against the selectmen of West Springfield by parties who say they were promised licenses which were afterward granted to others.

Another of the convicts who escaped from the Charlestown state prison by crawling through a sewer has been found. He was shot in Lancaster, Pa., the other day while burglarizing. This leaves only two of the escapes to be accounted for.

John Jennings, a freight conductor on the Boston and Albany road, was shot in the wrist Tuesday evening by a tramp whom he was ejecting from a car. The man who did the shooting was caught the next day at Northampton.

John McLoughlin was killed on the track of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road near Westfield Tuesday night, and John King was killed on the track of the Holyoke and Westfield road near Holyoke the same night. Both men were drunk.

Admitted the Facts.

Newspaper editors have to be very careful in opening their columns for statements. But aware that the Dr. Miles Medical Co. are responsible we make room for the following testimonial from R. McDougall, Auburn, Ind., who for two years noticed a stoppage or skipping of the pulse, his left side got so tender he could not lie on it, his heart fluttered, he was alarmed, went to different doctors, found no relief, but one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure cured him. The elegant book, "New and Startling Facts," free at LeGro & Lynde's. It tells all about heart and nervous diseases and many wonderful cures. (3)

How to Become Fleshy.

Dr. Miles' Nervine not only cures all nervous diseases, headache, blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits and hysteria, but also builds up the body. "I am pleased to say that after years of intense suffering with nervous disease, headache and prostration, I tried Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and in two weeks gained eight pounds in weight. I could not lie down to sleep, but now sleep perfectly easy, and am still improving wonderfully. Cannot say enough for the Nervine.—Mrs. L. B. Millard, Dunkirk, N. Y." "One customer used Nervine and gained fifteen pounds in flesh," say Brown & Maybury, Cortland, N. Y. Trial bottles and elegant book free at LeGro & Lynde's. (3)

Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 50 doses 25 cents. Samples free at LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store. 52-17

The vast facilities of the J. C. Ayer Co., of Lowell, Mass., enable them to place The Superior Blood-purifier—Ayer's Sarsaparilla—within easy reach of the poorest invalid. Don't be induced to take a "cheap" substitute. Always remember that the best is the cheapest.

In all cases where a mild but effective aperient is needed, Ayer's Pills are the best. They improve the appetite, restore healthy action, promote digestion, and regulate every function. No pill is in greater demand, or more highly recommended by the profession.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

A Druggist Says.

Marvin C. Brown, Druggist, Meredith Village, N. H., says: "I have sold your Sulphur Bitters for years, and contrary to most medicines, I never sold a bottle to anyone who said it did not help them. They cured me of those terrible sick headaches when every other remedy had failed."

Unable to Tell.

Yes, that was so. For years I suffered severely with scrofula; sores broke out all over my body, and I am unable to tell one half that I suffered. I was not able to obtain relief until I used Sulphur Bitters, which completely cured me.—C. B. Dale, 17 Allston street, Boston.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

HENRY'S
SHOE STORE,
Opera House Block,
Main Street, - Palmer.

You will find the Best $2.00 and $3.00 Shoe in town.
Best Bicycle Shoe $2.50 and $2.75.
Ladies' and Gents' Russet Shoes.
Kangaroo, Dongola and Fine Calf Shoes.
Children's Shoes in Russet.

WALL PAPERS,
Ceiling Decorations,
—AND—
PICTURE MOULDINGS
In Good Stye and Variety.

5,000 ROLLS OF WALL PAPER!
It is going fast but we want it to go faster and have just the styles and prices that will do it.
Can furnish a good paper hanger and house painter.
LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists,
Next to P. O. - - - PALMER, MASS.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

Have you tried Ayer's Hygienic Coffee that is being introduced in your locality? If not, hadn't you better? Follow directions and not make it too strong. See adv. 8-53

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

If you want a reliable dye that will color an even brown or black, and will please and satisfy you every time, use Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers.

Forbes & Wallace's.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., May, 1893.

We have great satisfaction of asking attention to cream dress fabrics for graduation day. The collection is especially large and rich this season. Samples will be sent when requested.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Plain India silk | | $0.69 and $0.95 |
| Brocaded India silk | | 1.00 |
| Japanese Habutai silk | | .55 |
| Plain surah silk | | .50 and .75 |
| Nun's veiling, all wool, | | .75 |
| Cashmere | .25 .37½ | .50 and .75 |
| Henrietta | | .75 and 1.00 |
| Serge | | .50 and .75 |
| Bedford cord | | .50 and .75 |
| Velour | | 1.00 |
| Poplin | | 1.00 |
| Epingle | | 1.25 |
| Lansdowne | | 1.25 |
| Silk warp sublime | | 1.00 |
| Brilliantine | .29 | .50 and .75 |
| Crepon | | .75 |
| Flannel | | .75 and 1.00 |
| White India mull | .30 | .37½ .50 |
| White dotted Swisses | | .25 to .50 |

Left aisle.

There are a few—and only a few—sets of the master-writers of English that you'll be surprised to see sold at a loss. And you will be astonished at the prices!

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Dickens, | 15 volumes, | $2 | 15 |
| Eliot, | 6 " | 1 | 50 |
| Shakespeare, | 4 " | 1 | 60 |
| Shakespeare, | 3 " | 1 | 90 |
| Thackeray, | 10 " | 2 | 15 |
| Hugo, | 6 " | 2 | 75 |
| Bulwer, | 13 " | 4 | 60 |
| Dickens, | 15 " | 4 | 63 |
| Cooper, | 16 " | 6 | 75 |
| Knight's England, | 8 " | 4 | 75 |
| Irving, | 8 " | 4 | 87 |
| Thackray, | 10 " | 6 | 75 |
| Dumas, | 15 " | 7 | 75 |
| Scott, | 12 " | 4 | 67 |
| Shakespeare, | 6 " | 5 | 00 |
| Shakespeare, | 8 " | 2 | 67 |
| Dumas, | 4 " | 2 | 67 |
| Tom Brown, | 2 " | | 90 |

Sets in fine presentation binding.

| | Published at | price |
|---|---|---|
| Last Days of Pompeii, 2 vols., | $6 00 | $3 60 |
| Rienzi, 2 vols., | 6 00 | 3 60 |
| In the Levant, 2 vols., | 5 00 | 3 15 |
| Carlyle's French Revolution, 3 vols., | 8 00 | 5 00 |
| Art and Criticism, Child, | 6 00 | 3 60 |
| Modern Art and Artists. | 6 00 | 2 00 |

Oxford Bible (S. S. Teacher's edition), size and style of the London $4 edition, with all the maps, references and concordances—price $1.50 and $2—the latter kid lined. Price by mail 15 cents extra.
South store.

Do you remember the girls' jackets and children's reefers we had lately at $4, $5 and $6? They're at $2.50 now—all of them.

Do you remember the cape jackets and capes, for women, we had lately at $5 to $35? Similar garments have come from the makers at $2. to $18 each; and you can't tell which is which.
Second floor.

FORBES & WALLACE
Main and Vernon streets.

NEW DENTAL
OFFICE.

Having purchased the Dental Office formerly occupied by Dr. Hill, I should be pleased to see any who are in need of my services.
All operations performed in the best possible manner.

E. S. BRYANT, D. M. D.
HATCH BLOCK, PALMER. tf-29

PALMER IRON FOUNDRY
AND MACHINE SHOP.
At the junction of B. & A. and N. L. N. Railroads. West of Depot.
MACHINERY CASTINGS MADE & GENERAL JOBBING DONE
At short notice and reasonable prices.
52 35 R. B. FRANCIS.

NOTICE.

After a thorough, careful, painstaking and practical investigation, we, the uncersigned, hereby certify to the public that the

Morrell Liquor Cure Co.,

a corporation located at Westfield, Mass., is now prepared to cure all persons afflicted with the LIQUOR, OPIUM AND TOBACCO HABITS, and to guarantee a cure or money refunded.

The features of this cure are:—

Absolute Privacy. Treatment at Home.
No Unpleasant Effects. No Loss of Time. No Sore Arm.

Of more than 3000 patients treated, not one has failed of permanent cure.

Address all correspondence to MORRELL LIQUOR CURE CO., or Box 403, WESTFIELD, MASS.

JOHN R. REED, President The H. B. Smith Mfg. Co.
JAS. NOBLE, JR., Vice President Hampden National Bank.
W. A. LINCOLN, Treasurer Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Co.
REV. JOHN H. LOCKWOOD, Pastor First Congregational Church.
H. N. KINGSBURY, Secretary and Treasurer Odd Fellows Fraternal Accident Association.
A. S. ATKINS, President Vitrified Wheel Co.
R. W. PARKS, Secretary Bay State Association.
F. F. VAN DEUSEN, of E. R. Van Deusen & Son.
FRANK BOWLER, Director Y. W. Crowson Waste Co.
GEO. W. WINSLOW, Principal School of Observation.
H. W. ELY, ESQ., Attorney-at-Law. 13-53

HAYNES & CO.

Have just received from market, the Clothing Market, and to prove the fact offer to the PEOPLE

Six Hundred (600) Men's and Young Men's World Fair Suits.

Double and Single Breast, elegant styles. Suits that have never retailed for less than $15, $16 and $18 by any Clothing House in the country. 16 styles to select from. Black and Blue Cheviots and Whipcords, light and medium light Fancy Cassimeres and Cheviots.
CHOICE IN THE ENTIRE LOT FOR

$9.85 $9.85 9.85 per Suit.

Including a souvenir WORLD'S FAIR and COLUMBUS SPOON. Don't fail to see these, the greatest bargains Springfield ever saw. They are just what we advertise—$15, $16 and $18 suits.

CHOICE FOR $9.85. —:o:— CHOICE FOR $9.85.

Half Price. Keep in mind the place and price. $9.85 FOR CASH only, but can be returned in 5 to 10 days. If not pleased we refund the money. HAYNES & CO'S. will be the only place to find such value.

We offer more of those LEADING BLACK CHEVIOT SUITS, Double Breast, for $8.50.

The exitement on Double Breast Suits at $8.85 still keeps up. There are but

Quick as a wink the clothes are washed, the paint scoured, the dishes washed, the house itself and every thing in it made bright and clean.

Not with soap—you know better than that. But with Pyle's Pearline. Dirt leaves, and the work is done—easily, quickly, safely, thoroughly.

You save time with Pearline—but you save more than that. You're spared the endless rub, rub, rubbing, that tires you out and wears out what is rubbed.

It's money in your pocket to use Pearline. If it cost more than soap, if it were dangerous—then you might hesitate. But you needn't. It's as cheap as any soap, and just as harmless.

Beware of imitations. 244 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

Rheumatism's Awful Work.

RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY DISEASE AND DYSPEPSIA BEING CURED DAILY.

Many Residents of Springfield and Vicinity Benefited.

Few people outside of the medical profession have any idea how many of the diseases we hear people suffering from are traced to the one source, excess of uric acid in the blood. "To find a dissolvent for this acid" said one of Springfield's most conservative physicians the other day, "seems to have been left to that hard and patient student, Dr. David Kennedy of Rondout, N. Y. In his preparation, Favorite Remedy, he has solved the mystery and to-day Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is being used by physicians and practitioners of medicine the world over for rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney, liver and urinary troubles, scrofula, eczema and the sicknesses women suffer from. Favorite Remedy dissolves the excess of acid in the blood, thus curing these dreadful and often times fatal diseases."

Perhaps no man ever suffered more with rheumatism than Mr. E. P. Tayer of East Nassau, N. Y. In a letter written by Mr. Tayer he says, "I was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for fifteen years so severe that I was supposed to be a cripple for life. I took many different remedies, and the best physicians I could find prescribed for me, but I grew worse, and I had about given up all hope of ever being cured, when Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was brought to my notice. I began its use with little faith that it would do me any good, but how different was the result, for I began to grow better slowly but surely and it was but a little while after I began its use that I was a well man. I have never had a pang of rheumatism since."

Mr. Tayer's recovery fairly electrified the little village of East Nassu, and to-day there is hardly a home there in which Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cannot be found.

No more glowing tribute was ever written of the merit of a preparation, than that of Lyman Crawford, our popular Main street druggist. In writing of Favorite Remedy, Mr. Crawford says, "For years I was afflicted with kidney disease in its most acute form. I tried different kinds of treatment and spent a great deal of money, only to find myself worse than ever. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy—I say it with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me—is the only thing that did me the slightest good. It gave me permanent relief. I am now well and strong. I have recommended this medicine to many people for kidney and urinary troubles and they all agree with me in saying that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has not its equal in the wide world for these distressing and often fatal complaints."

Scores of prominent men and women everywhere are as equally enthusiastic as Mr. Crawford. Commander James S. Dean of General Grant Post G. A. R., Rondout, N. Y., was declared to have chronic dyspepsia, and was cured by Favorite Remedy.

Rev. T. W. Hill, pastor of the Methodist church, Accord, N. Y., lends his name and testimony to its curative powers.

W. H. Morse, M. D., of New York city, and the Sisters of Charity, St. Mary's Female Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., say that they have realized the most satisfactory results from its use.

One of Dalton's most prominent physicians wrote that "in cases of persons recovering from the effects of la Grippe and for that run down and tired out feeling so often experienced in the spring, I have found no better tonic for brain, muscle and nerve, than Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy."

No more forcible remark was ever uttered as to the merit of an article than that of Mr. J. T. Harris, of Southboro, this state, at the Massasoit House the other evening in which he said, "I have struggled with dyspepsia for nine years. Up to the time I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, I tried any number of sarsaparillas, nervines and compounds, but they were no good. From the first dose of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I felt better, and it knocked dyspepsia right out of me, and I've not felt a trace of it since."—Springfield, Mass., Republican. 5

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

LANE'S MEDICINE

All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1.00 per package. Buy one to-day. LANE'S FAMILY MEDICINE MOVES THE BOWELS EACH DAY. In order to be healthy, this is necessary.

NATURE'S REMEDY FOR LIVER COMPLAINT — SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE LIVER PILLS

Ripans Tabules cure indigestion.

"Hours Not Numbered Except Serene."

Two lovers and a summer day.
A long green land; a blooming meadow,
A quaint old dial in the way,
That marked the time with shine and shadow.

The sun across the dial's face
Flung his long line of parting glory,
Around the disk the lovers traced
The Latin line from Virgil's story.

No record of the darksome days,
Of leaden hours by care encumbered;
Only the golden moments traced,
Only the hours serene are numbered.

What we call darkness is God's light,
When larger, clearer sight is given;
It must be, for there is no night
Marked by the horologe of heaven.

So, happy lovers, go your ways
And con the text upon the dial,
Remembering always love's bright days,
Forgetting always night and trial.
—Lizzie Zork Case, in the May New Peterson.

AMONG THE PARAGRAPHERS.

PHILOPENA.

We had both of us said we would rather
It be "give or take" philopena—
Whatever one gave to the other,
In any way during that e'en,
The other should surely repay,
A gift and a keepsake to be:—
She meant in good faith I will say,
But I—well, who could have blamed me?
For soon as our compact was sealed
I gave her a kiss on the cheek.—
"Philopena" I cried, "you must yield,
And pay me another next week."
She had promised, she knew she was caught,
And the bright color mantled her brow,
And she said, "I will pay if I ought,
But—let it be over with—now!"
—Yankee Blade.

"Now for stern duty," said the mother as she prepared to castigate her wayward boy. —Somerville Journal.

Phassemus—"Do widows' weeds ever bloom?" Sardonicus—"Certainly; they produce orange blossoms."—Vogue.

Alice—"When we go out will you remind me that I must get some gloves?" Maud—"Yes, if you remember to remind me to remind you."—Texas Siftings.

A German student wrestling with the English language rendered a text as follows: "The ghost is willing, but the meat is feeble."—Educational News.

"Hello, Charlie, not at work? What's up?" "Oh, we're out on strike." "What's the trouble?" "Don't know; but we'll not give in till we get it."—Boston Beacon.

In the Stable. "Look here; I won't have things done so! Do you think I'm a fool?" "Axin' yer pardon, sor, Oi can't say;—Oi only come yisterday."—Life.

Sympathizing Friend—"You ought to ask old Skinflint to keep one thing in mind—" Discouraged Debtor—"Oh, he'd charge me for storage."—Detroit Tribune.

"Well, here is your cell," said the warden. "Please don't call it a cell," said the gentlemanly embezzler. "Why not call it a stateroom?"—Indianapolis Journal.

The engaged girl is seldom known by the company she keeps. As a rule, he does not get thoroughly acquainted with her until after they are married.—Buffalo Courier.

Doctor—"I really believe you have some kind of poison in your system. "Patient (Gloomily)—"I shouldn't wonder. What was that last stuff you gave me?"—Judy.

Mrs. Speinheim—"Baby shboke he's first vorts to-day, Lonny." Mr. Speinheim—"Ish dot so? Vat he say?" Mrs. Speinheim—"How much?" Yoosd as blain as day."—Judge.

Jones—"I saw a fellow yesterday with a cool thousand." Brown—"How did you know it was cool?" Jones—"It must have been. 'Twas in a draft."—Binghamton Leader.

Lady (on leaving a crowded car)—"Well, I'm glad to get out of this crowd. I've had to stand on one foot all the way." Voice from the corner—"Yes, and that one foot was mine."—Harvard Lampoon.

"Look here," said the man in the restaurant, "Can't you tell me of some way to get fewer bones with my fish?" "Yes sir," replied the waiter. "How?" "Come off the perch."—Washington Star.

Hotel Clerk (to new bell-boy)—"Did you wake up No. 44?" Bell-boy—"No, sah. Cuddent wake him up, sah; but I did the best thing I cud, sah." "What was that?" "I waked up No. 45, sah."—Harper's Bazar.

He—"Jerusalem! What made you offer prizes? They'll cost a fortune." She—"Pshaw! we won't have to get any; they were to be given to the woman who didn't ask what's trumps."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Wife—"I've an awful cold, and you don't show the least sympathy." Hubby—"You shouldn't have walked down stairs last night in your stocking-feet when you thought I was in the kitchen with the servant girl."—Truth.

At Central Office. First telephone Girl—"Then Charley came along and—" Second Ditto—"What number? Line's busy—There I've got rid of him. Charley came along and said—go on Lil; I'm just dying to hear it."—Boston Transcript.

Stage Manager—"I thought I told you to hire only handsome men as supes?" Assistant—"Well, so I did." "Why, three of them have carroty hair and the rest turn-up noses." "Well, they're vegetable supes, you know."—Kate Field's Washington.

Bride (just after the wedding)—"Fred, you promised to give me a grand surprise after we were married. What is it?" Bridegroom (who is a widower)—"I have six children, my pet, all boys." Bride—"How delightful, dear! I have four daughters. Shan't we all be happy together, love?"—Tid-Bits.

Salesman—Can I show you any other glassware, madame—sherry or port wine glasses? Here's something very handsome in a champagne goblet." Mrs. Lately Inuit—"No; we never use any. But—er—if you, have a nice claret cup, I might take half a dozen."

"I was in a railroad accident once," said the man in the smoker to a group of listeners, "and had both legs and both arms broken." "Did you retain your presence of mind?" inquired one of the listeners." "No." "No? What did you do?" "I retained a lawyer and got $10,000 damages."—Detroit Free Press.

"Willing to Condense. "I—I must not listen to you, Mr. Capphead," protested the blushing girl, with eyes downcast. "You are only trifling, and—and, besides, it is getting late." "Please hear me out, Miss Helen!" pleaded the infatuated young reporter. "I'll cut it down to 250 words!"—Chicago Tribune.

Over in the private part of the mansion could be heard the merry prattle of a childish tongue. Baby Ruth was having fun with her nurse. Up and down she tramped the length of the big hall with such persistency that it provoked comment. "What is the game the baby is playing?" was asked. "The Office-Seekers' March," was the promptreply."—Atlanta Constitution.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY, }

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

{ SEAL } A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hood's Cures

It Has No Rivals

Makes Pure Blood—Gives Life to Numb Limbs, Cures Constipation.

A Popular Poetess Proves Its Merit

Mrs. Mary F. Toms
Niantic, Conn.

The following is from a lady very well-known in Connecticut, being the author of a very handsome volume of poems entitled "Sacred Gems":

"I can truly say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is all that it has ever been recommended to be. It cannot be praised too highly. Having a very troublesome fibroid tumor, besides seven fatty tumors on my left arm, I find that for feeling of deadness in the limbs, constipation and poor circulation of the blood, Hood's Sarsaparilla has no rival. My blood was in very poor condition, it seemed to be watery, and when the skin was broken, only a very light red water or matter would ooze out. Since resorting to Hood's Sarsaparilla, I have good and do not bloat as I used to. Many good medicines are abused simply because they are not given a fair trial. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved its merit to me, as it will do all who take

Rich Red Blood

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

it fairly. I mean to make it my constant companion and earnestly recommend it to suffering humanity." MARY F. TOMS, Box 294, Niantic, Conn. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

It is very probable that some comma-shaped microbes may be found in the United States this year. The comma-shaped fellows mean cholera. The surest preventive of cholera is cleanliness. House cleaning this year should be most thoroughly done, and we suggest to the good housewife that a coat of chilton Paint for inside work will not only beautify the home, but will kill any stray comma-shaped microbe that by any misfortune may find its way into the house. We suppose that almost any kind of paint would kill cholera microbes, and perhaps if that were the only object in painting, some of the cheap paints that contain benzine in such liberal quantities would be as good, but we think that while you are using paint as a preventive of cholera, it is well to use the Chilton, not because it will kill more microbes than any other paint, but because it will last longer, keep brighter, and look better than any paint you can use. Get a pound can and see for yourself.

Sold by LeGRO & LYNDE, Palmer. Chilton Paint Co., New York and Boston.

GOOD AS GOLD.

And More Useful when suffering with a Cough or Cold.

DR. HOUGH'S
COUGH and LUNG BALSAM
SURE CURE. PRICE 35 CENTS.

Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers, and Wholesaled by LEGRO & LYNDE, Palmer.

I KEEP COOL
inside, outside, and all the way through, by drinking
HIRES' Root Beer
This great Temperance drink; is as healthful, as it is pleasant. Try it.

AGENTS WANTED to canvass for the sale of our home-grown nursery stock. New profit-sharing system. Salary and expenses paid. W. & T. SMITH CO., The Geneva Nursery, Geneva, N. Y. Established 1846. One of the largest, oldest established and best known Nurseries in the United States. 4-5

Not how much, but how good.

Williams' Root Beer.

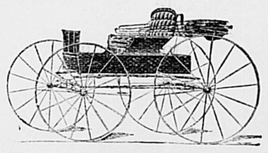
Greatest temperance drink on earth. Has the best flavor and body, combining elements that quench the thirst and strengthen the system. One bottle extract makes 5 gallons of "the kind that suits."

This is not only "just as good" as others, but far better. One trial will support this claim. SOLD EVERYWHERE.
Williams & Carleton, Hartford, Ct.

BUILDING LOTS GIVEN AWAY.

For particulars inquire of
C. S. RUGGLES,
13-48 Three Rivers, Mass.

W. H. SMITH,
2 Park Street, - - Springfield.



Has in stock a complete line of family carriages, road wagons, delivery wagons, road carts, farm wagons, etc., etc.
Novelties in buckboards and traps.
Open buggies from $35 up.
Top buggies from $50 up.
100 second hand carriages. 15-1 alt.

Land Plaster
BY THE BAG OR TON.
C. D. HOLBROOK,
PALMER.

AGENT FOR
G. W. SIMMONS & CO.
AND
Bunker Hill Custom Pant Co.
CLOTHING TO ORDER.
☞ Spring samples ready for inspection.
W. E. STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

WE ARE IN IT! * * * * * * * * * *

* * * * * * SMITH & CO., PALMER.

Ripans Tabules—gentle cathartic.

HAVE YOU VISITED THE
WHITE MOUNTAINS?
DO YOU KNOW THE RESTING-PLACES AMONG VERMONT'S GREEN HILLS?
ARE YOU ACQUAINTED WITH THE UNIQUE RESORTS IN THE VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS?

If you are looking for a place to spend your vacation in any mountain region, write us for any information you may desire, saying what sections you wish to know about and the price you desire to pay for board. By special arrangement with the Recreation Department, The Christian Union, New York. Address the JOURNAL, Palmer, Mass.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A new and complete treatment, consisting of suppositories, ointment in capsules, also in box and pills; a positive cure for external, internal, blind, bleeding, itching, chronic, recent or hereditary piles. This remedy has never been known to fail. $1 per box, 6 for $5, by mail. Why suffer from this terrible disease when a written guarantee is given with 6 boxes to refund the money if not cured? Send stamp for free sample. Guarantee issued by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. Call for samples. 52-17

IT IS A DUTY you owe yourself and family to get the best value for your money. Economize in your footwear by purchasing W. L. Douglas Shoes, which represent the best value for prices asked, as thousands will testify.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,
THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY.
OTHER SPECIALTIES in footwear are of the same high grade, and represent a money value far beyond the prices charged. See that name and price are stamped on bottom of each shoe.
TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.
W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by
41-21 R. J. HENRY, MAIN ST., PALMER.

1893—SPRING—1893
CARPET : :
Department
(2d floor).

ALL-WOOL INGRAIN
65c and 75c.

UNION INGRAIN
35c to 50c.

HEMP
15c to 28c.

OIL CLOTH CARPETS
25c to 60c
(Largest stock ever shown in Palmer.)

STRAW MATTINGS
15c to 40c
(Plain and Fancy.)

SMYRNA RUGS
$1 to $5.

DOOR MATS
50c to $1.50.

CARPET LINING.
Corrugated, 5c per yard; Sewed, 8c per yard.

W. E. STONE,
LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

NEW LIFE.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses. A month's treatment $1, 6 for $5, by mail. We guarantee six boxes to cure. Each order for 6 boxes with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued only by LeGro & Lynde, druggists and sole agents, Palmer, Mass. 52-17

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c, and $1.00 at Druggists

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE
Use Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cures the worst Cough, Weak Lungs, Debility, Indigestion, Pain, Take in time. 50 cts.
HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. 15c. at Druggists, or HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

Ripans Tabules prolong life.

Foulds'
Wheat Germ Meal
(WHEAT GERM FOR SHORT,)
IS THE MOST DELICIOUS, NUTRITIOUS and VALUABLE
BREAKFAST CEREAL
ever introduced. It is steadily gaining in public favor.
SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

MRS. M. C. BROWN'S
METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY
Kills the Root of all Diseases.
THREE PREPARATIONS
which enter the system by absorption through
THE EYES, EARS AND SCALP.
NO DRUGS THROUGH THE MOUTH.
Three bottles in a set, put up in three sizes, and sold at $5.00, $2.50, $1.25.
Order of druggists, or enclose price to
METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY,
51 BOND ST., NEW YORK,
where please send 10 cents for pamphlet of 100 pages.
ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.
Boston Depot—Wholesale and Retail, 36 and 38 Hanover Street. 4-5

BAKER BAY STATE & SPRINGFIELD HARNESS.
MANUFACTURED BY
BAKER HARNESS CO.
289 MAIN ST. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
26-5

Dr. Browning's Prescription prevents CHOLERA.
It is a good thing to have in the house for ready use when attacked with severe pains in the bowels, cramps or colic. It kills Cholera germs, something quite important this year. Only the purest of ingredients are used and great care is taken in its preparation. All like this upon the first trial. It saves much sickness and expense. Prescription
NO FREE SAMPLES. 25 Cents per Bottle.
52-5

MILK
AND CREAM can be kept perfectly fresh and sweet five to seven days without using ice. Simple, cheap, unfailing. Sample free. Write THE PRESERVALINE MFG. CO., sole mfrs. and patentees, 10 Cedar street, New York. 4-5

COLTON'S
DELICIOUS EXTRACTS OF ABSOLUTELY CINNAMON CLOVE NUTMEG CELERY PEACH WINTERGREEN
CHOICEST FRUITS PURE VANILLA LEMON ORANGE ALMOND ROSE CINNAMON GINGER
SELECT FLAVORS
GET THE BEST AND WHY?
Perfectly Pure. Most Delicious. | Unequaled Strength. Most Economical.
alt.-5

C. H. HOBBY,
PIANO TUNER.
Orders for tuning may be left at O. P. Allen's drug store, Palmer; or may be sent to me by mail to Mansfield, Ct.

SULPHUR BITTERS

Ladies:—
The Secret
Of a Fair Face
Is a Beautiful
Skin.
Sulphur Bitters
Will give you
A lovely Complexion.

Send 3 2-cent stamps to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., for best medical work published

THE BEST
BRADLEY FERTILIZER.
C. D. HOLBROOK, Palmer.

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

Ripans Tabules cure torpid liver.

If I Should Die To-Night.

If I should die to-night
And you should come to my old corpse and say,
Weeping and heartsick o'er my lifeless clay:
If I should die to-night,
And you should come in deepest grief and woe,
And say "Here's that ten dollars that I owe,"
I might arise in my large white cravat
And say, "What's that?"

If I should die to-night,
And you should come to my cold corpse and kneel,
Clasping my bier to show the grief you feel;
I say if I should die to-night,
And you should come to me there and then,
Just even hint 'bout paying me that ten,
I might arise the while,
But I'd drop dead again.
—Ben King, in the Journalist.

WONDERFUL STRENGTH.

Venetinello, the Italian rope walker, although a man of short stature, was celebrated throughout Europe as the strongest man of the sixteenth century. He daily performed with a hard wood beam twenty feet long and a foot square. This beam was a heavy load for two men of average build, yet this Lilliputian prodigy would walk about his exhibition grounds with it standing upon end on his shoulder, juggler fashion, and shift it from one shoulder to the other without the aid of his hands.

Nicholas Klunher, another sixteenth century athlete, living at Misnia, Thuring, brought from a cellar a cask or hogshead of wine containing 252 gallons, without the aid of pulleys or ropes, and afterwards deposited it in a wagon.

George Le Feur, the German writer, mentions this extraordinary feat in his writing, and even says that the affidavits of persons who witnessed the removal of the cask were then extant.

"I have seen a man," says Mayolus, the Italian bishop, "in the town of Acte, who in the presence of the Marquis of Pescara, handled a pillar of marble three feet long and one foot square, which he cast high in the air, then received it upon his arms, then threw it up again as easily as if it had been a cotton ball."

Hermann Maurice, Count of Saxe, of whom Frederick the Great wrote: "I have seen the hero of France; a man of whom all the generals of Europe could learn the art of war," was a man renowned for many feats requiring great muscular strength. While waiting at the village smithy for his war horse to be shod, his favorite pastime was that of pulling horseshoes in two and twisting off large bars of iron.

Leebelski, the author, who was at Constantinople during the celebration in honor of the birth of Mohamet, son of Amurath, the Turkish emperor, in 1581, saw a man who lifted with ease a beam of hewed wood three feet in diameter, and so long and heavy that ten men were unable to remove it from its resting place. The same man permitted a stone of 1200 weight to be placed upon his chest, while eight men who placed it there with levers and ropes seated themselves on the top of it. Leebelski adds: "Of this he made light jest."

Thomas Topham, the wonderful strong man of the past century, performed many astonishing feats of strength. He was born at London in 1710. On the 28th day of May, 1841, when Topham was 31 years of age, he gave the most wonderful exhibition when, at Cold Bath Fields, near London, he lifted three hogsheads of water, weighing 1836 pounds, in the presence of thousands of people.

Dr. Desaguliers, the expert, called to witness his feats, says in his report: "With his fingers he rolled up a very strong pewter dish in the same manner and with as much ease as an ordinary man would a sheet of paper. He struck an iron poker, a yard long and three-fourths of an inch thick, across his bare arm, between the cibow and wrist, until the instrument was bent so as to nearly form a right angle. Taking another poker of the same kind across the back of his neck, he bent it in the form of a horseshoe, and then made it straight with his bare hands. He broke a hempen rope two inches in thickness, the same with which two horses had pulled a stone roller weighing 800 pounds, and afterwards lifted the roller itself with nothing but his hands and a chain fastened in a large ring in the side of the column."

John Bray, a Cornishman, who lived about the same time, for a small wager, carried six bushels of wheat and the miller, seated on top of the sacks, a distance of 500 yards. In our own country W. B. Curtiss of New York city lifted (in harness) 3239 pounds Dec. 20, 1868. H. Loussing lifted 1384 pounds with the hands alone, at Cincinnati, in 1880. Three years later D. L. Dowd of Springfield, Mass., beat the Cincinnati man's lift 584 pounds.

Sterns Carpenter, an old man living at Granite Corners, N. Y., in 1883, claimed to have shouldered a cannon weighing 1400, and to have once carried a box of scrap iron weighing 1900 pounds. At the age of 80 years, in 1883, he could grasp a 20-foot railroad rail in each hand and walk off with it.

At Berthierville, Canada, October 1, 1888, Louis Cyr crept under some trestles upon which 3536 pounds of pig iron rested upon heavy timbers and succeeded in raising that enormous weight more than two inches from its resting place upon the trestles.

At Lynn, Mass., Dec. 13, 1884, C. O. Breed lifted a barrel of flour 240 times with one hand in one minute. The total weight lifted in that 60 seconds amounted to 56,690 pounds, over 28 tons. It is doubtful if this has ever been excelled. All the above remarkable facts have been placed on record.—John W. Wright, in St. Louis Republic.

A CLEVER THIEF.

There was a robbery in Washington a few weeks ago that was not reported to the police, and there is also a colored man who is sleeping softer on the strength of his nerve. The victim tells it on herself, and is inclined to regard it as a joke.

The scene was a house in the Northwest, where, after breakfast one morning, the front door was left standing open by the mistress of the house while she was engagad elsewhere. Coming back to the front door a few minutes afterward, she saw a colored man going up stairs with a mattress on his shoulder. She asked him what he was doing and he, with the guileless suavity of his race, asked her, giving the correct number of the house, "ef dis warn't de place wha' de gent'man done ordered de wire mattress sent up?"

He was assured that no wire mattresses had been ordered "sent up," but the darky was quite sure about the number and was anxious to leave the burden and retire. He was finally persuaded, however, that he was in the wrong house, and, again shouldering the mattress, he went away.

Later in the morning it was discovered, much to the surprise of the mistress of the house, that her room was in disorder and that the wire mattress was missing from the bed. Other rooms had been ransacked without the thief finding anything apparently that he cared to appropriate, but the wire mattress which she had insisted on the polite colored man taking away was the one off her own bed and no other.—Washington Post.

SMOKELESS COAL COMBUSTION. An ingenious German has invented a process for removing the element of smoke from the combustion of coal, and that by an entirely different principle from any of those before known. The tests are said to have been very satisfactory, and contracts have been entered into with several large manufacturing concerns. The coal is first finely powdered by special machinery and is then injected into the furnace by an automatically regulated current of air. The carbon is entirely consumed, there is no smoke, and no ashes precipitated. The fire is under perfect control and can be started or cut off at a moment's notice. Should this process accomplish what is claimed for it, it is indeed valuable. —The Engineering Magazine.

LARGEST CHEESE IN THE WORLD.

"The Canadian mite," the largest cheese ever made in the world, arrived at the Exposition grounds and was put in place yesterday. It forms part of the Canadian dairy pyramid in Agricultural building. The mammoth cheese was made under the direction of Professor Robertson, the Dominion dairy commissioner, at one of the government dairy stations in Ontario. Two hundred and seven thousand two hundred pounds of milk were used in making it. That is equal to the milk for one day in September, when the cheese was made, of 10,000 cows. The cheese itself weighs 22,000 pounds and measures twenty-eight feet in circumference by six feet in height.

The mammoth cheese stands on a Brobingnagian truck, which has been built out of Canadian oak for transporting it through Great Britain after it leaves Chicago. The case of the cheese was beautifully painted when it started on its journey, but by the time it reached the Fair grounds it bore 10,000 autographs. There was not a spot on the twenty-eight by six feet surface two inches square which did not carry some name or names. The boys and girls fairly besieged it at the railway stations, and, despite all protests, inscribed their names on its surface.—Chibago Herald.

HE FORGOT HIS LITTLE STORY.—It is the Irishman s boast that he is never at a loss for an answer. He can always say something, and very often something bright. A newly landed son of Erin enlisted in Uncle Sam's army. He had not been in the service very long before he was put out on picket duty. He marched back and forth with his gun on shoulder, and kept repeating the sentence which he was to say if anybody tried to pass the line—"Advance and give the countersign, advance and give the countersign"— he recited over and over to hisself.

Suddenly a man appeared, coming through the bushes. The Irishman leveled his gun at the intruder and shouted "Halt!" The man stopped. "Don't move, yez ould ribil, phat are yez doin' here? Advance an' give the-er-er, phat is thot yez hov to give? Advance an' give the-er-er—Oh, phat is thot Oi want to say? Never mind, begorra, jist advance an' give me a chew o' terbaccer, an O'll call it square an' lave yez pass!"

THE KIND THAT CURES

WILLIAM I. ASH,
Malden, Mass.

"Heavy Deathly Feeling!"
A REMARKABLE CURE IN MALDEN, MASS.
"FROM THE FIRST DOSE I FELT BETTER!"

The following from one of Malden's reliable citizens, and certified to by the Manufacturing Firm of H. A. & F. L. Miner, that owns the TWO LARGE STORES at No. 29 and No. 225 Pleasant St., reads like a fairy tale. "YET 'TIS TRUE, EVERY WORD OF IT."

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.,

GENTLEMEN,—About a year ago I was troubled with HEAVY DEATHLY FEELING in my stomach, everything I ate caused severe distress.

I noticed your ad. in a Bangor paper and being a native of that place, and reading of the benefit old acquaintances had received from it, I secured a bottle of

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA

at Miners' Drug Store in this city, they being the only ones that kept it in stock at that time. Strange to say, it FROM THE FIRST DOSE I FELT BETTER and continued to improve and after taking two bottles I had a hearty appetite and could digest almost anything I ate. Have recommended it to at least a dozen friends, and all I have heard from, have derived great benefit from it.

Very truly yours, WM. I. ASH.
No. 1 Rockland Place, Malden, Mass.

We hereby certify that we sold Mr. Ash DANA'S SARSAPARILLA, and his statement we know to be true in every particular.

Very respectfully, H. A. & F. L. MINER.

Dana Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Maine.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

E. R. PACKARD.

La Grippe has Slain Thousands

LEON LAYS THE MONSTER LOW.

The Kind that Never Fails

During the winter of 1890 and 1891 I had a severe attack of La Grippe. It left me with a bad cough, and greatly reduced physically. I took two bottles of Leon's Sarsaparilla. It loosened my cough immediately. I began gaining in flesh, and in a short time I was cured.
E. R. PACKARD.

In almost every family some one is still suffering from the effects of La Grippe. The fatality following this dread disease is perfectly appalling. Leon's Sarsaparilla is the finest preparation in the world to slay the ravages of disease. Try a Bottle.

EACH BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
Leon's Sarsaparilla Co., Belfast, Me.

D. W. FOSKETT,
Grain Dealer
FOSKETT'S MILLS,

Has just received a full line of AGRICULTURAL TOOLS, which he proposes to sell at lowest prices.

—o—

MOWING MACHINES!
THREE KINDS OF BUCKEYES.

In the "Adriance II." Buckeye there is no loose pitman, and you can lift the cutting bar with ease with one finger, or with the foot.

—o—

HAY TEDDERS.
MUDDETT, THOMAS, BULLARD, GARFIELD.

—o—

HORSE RAKES.
YANKEE, TAYLOR, ROYAL, HOLLINGWORTH

—o—

Shovels, Forks, Rakes, Hoes,

Of the best makes for the least money. Anything in the line of Agricultural Implements not in stock we will procure for you at short notice.

CALL AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

It Will Build You Up

Are you all run down? Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will build you up and put flesh on you and give you a good appetite.

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

Scott's Emulsion

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 26, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 8.

Hitchcock & Blanchard

PRACTICAL PLUMBERS.

TIN[illegible]RS, AND

[illegible]EAMFITTERS.

We have in stock Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron, and will make to order anything in this line.

PLUMBING GOODS

Bath Tubs, Marble Slabs, Wash Bowls, Copper and Galvanized Iron Boilers, Closets, Seats, Tanks, Traps, Lead Pipe,

Copper and Iron Pumps.

On any work in this line we guarantee good work and special attention.

STEAM, WARM AIR, AND

HOT WATER HEATING

We make our special business. Can furnish anything in the heating line.

PIPE AND FITTINGS, VALVES, RADIATORS, ETC.

RANGES.

We have the BEST at the lowest prices. Call at our place of business.

CENTRAL ST., PALMER

W. H. HITCHCOCK.—W. H. BLANCHARD.

—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. & S.—
—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. H S.—

HERSEY & SON,

COMPLETE

House Furnishers.

385 MAIN STREET, - SPRINGFIELD, MASS., (Opposite Haynes Hotel.)

CHAMBER SETS.

A carload just in that beats them all. They are beauties and no mistake, and you'll be surprised at the price, considering the quality and style. Don't fail to see them.

REFRIGERATORS.

An elegant line to select from. All styles and prices. The "Celebrated EDDY." We have the exclusive sale of this celebrated Refrigerator for this city, and there's none better made.

BARGAINS, BARGAINS, BARGAINS,

For the people of moderate means, in Second-hand House Furnishings, in a department entirely by itself. We are headquarters in this line of goods, and as we get overstocked at this season of the year the prices will amaze you.

HERSEY & SON.

—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. & S.—
—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. & S.—H. & S.—

13-53

NEW UNDERTAKING ROOMS.

Having purchased the stock of J. J. Moynahan of Palmer, I shall continue the business at the old stand on South Main street.

Having been engaged for some time with F. J. Crosby, one of the leading undertakers of Boston, I am prepared to give satisfaction in every detail of the business.

Particular attention given to embalming.

D. J. LAWLOR.

52-25

FOR SALE.

GRASS SEEDS

OF ALL KINDS,

By the bag or bushel.

Palmer Grain Store.

Bananas, 20c doz.
Florida oranges, 20 and 35c doz.
Honey in comb, native and extra fine, 25c lb.
Valencia oranges, 20c doz.
Lemons, 25c.
Choice figs, 20c.
Hens eggs, fresh, 20c. doz.
5 lb. box fancy cluster raisins, 80c.
Larger raisins, 15c lb.
Loose muscatels, 10c lb., 3 lbs. 25c.
Choice potatoes, 20c peck.
Evaporated apples, fancy, 15c lb.
Canned apples, gallons, 35c.
Kibbe Bros. mixed candies, 20c lb.
Kibbe Bros. chocolate drops, 25c.
Sage cheese, 17c.
Cream cheese, 16c lb.
Edam cheese, new, $1.00 each.
Pine apple cheese, 60c each.

W. E. STONE,

LAWRENCE BLOCK, - - PALMER.

CARRIAGES.

ALL KINDS AND PRICES.

I carry one of the largest and finest stocks to be found. SPRINGFIELD IS THE CARRIAGE CENTER of Western Mass.

When you have looked all the carriage stocks over, before you buy, come to my Repository and save from $10 to $30 on any kind you want. You can find nearly everything in the wagon line with me at a great saving to you. Also, Harness, Robes, Blankets, and all kinds of Horse Goods. My expenses are small, do my own work, and save you the expense of help. I can and will sell. Come and satisfy yourself at 60 Dwight Street, Springfield, Mass.

13-51 D. N. BUTTERWORTH.

F. F. MARCY, PALMER, MASS.
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

ALL KINDS OF LUMBER AND SHINGLES

Windows, doors, blinds, mouldings. Carpenters' and joiners' work done to order.

Also FIRE BRICK and CLAY for sale.

Yard and shop at junction of B. & A. and N. L. N Railroads—west of Depot.

At Central St. Grocery.

All Brands of Flours, Canned Goods and Pickles.

ALSO,

Cleaned Currants,
Dwight's Cow Brand Soda,
Armour's Canned Beef,
Quaker & Pettijohn's Cereals,
Slade's Pure Spices,
Preserves and Jellies.

Thompson & Banister.

Central Street.

A FULL LINE OF——

Jas. H. Prince Paint Co's

English Tinted Ready-Mixed Paints

IN ALL THE POPULAR SHADES.

White Lead, Zinc, Oil, Japan and Varnish.

——:o:——

FERTILIZERS.

We shall have in stock Monday a full line of Stockbridge Manures of all grades for potatoes and vegetables. We have the best in the market.

Barb Wire and Poultry Netting.

——FULL LINE OF——

PLOWS, CULTIVATORS, HARROWS, SHOVELS, FORKS, RAKES.

BEST LINE AT BOTTOM PRICES.

C. A. BROWN CO.

Largest Line of Dress Goods ever shown in MONSON.

Just received from the celebrated BROADHEAD WORSTED MILLS of Jamestown, N. Y., 30 pieces of PLAIDS AND STORM SERGE. Also 25 pieces (8-yard lengths—no two alike) of IMPORTED FRENCH SERGE.

GORDON DYE HOSIERY.

We recommend the "Gordon Dye" Hosiery to our customers as the best article for purity of dye and wearing quality ever offered to the public. A complete line of "Gordon Dye" Hosiery for Ladies, Men, Boys, Girls and Infants in black and all the fashionable colors, now on sale. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED STAINLESS.

Men's and Boys' Clothing Now Complete.

The Columbus Boys' Suit goes ahead of everything. A Columbus Medal given with every suit. SPRING OVERCOATS in Black and Fancy Cheviots and Black Worsteds. FINE ASSORTMENT OF SPRING SUITS FROM $8 TO $20.

☞ LATEST NOVELTIES IN NECKWEAR.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

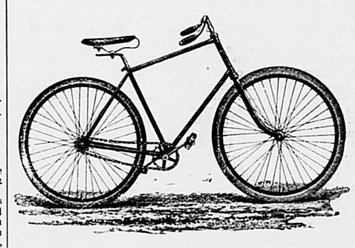
Have added to our large stock the latest styles in Ladies' and Gent's Shoes. Before you purchase don't fail to see the novelties we are offering.

Headquarters for Trunks, Bags, Etc.,

—— AT ——

W. N. FLYNT & SONS, Monson.

E. A. BUCK & CO., ∴ BICYCLES



| | |
|---|---|
| The Rambler, Ladies and Gents, | $150 |
| Cleveland, Ladies and Gents, | $160 |
| Warwick, | $150 |
| Road King, | $150 |
| New Mail, | $125 |
| Lovell Diamond, | $115 |
| Duke, | $100 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $65 |
| Boys' Pneumatic, | $50 |

E. A. BUCK & CO., - PALMER, MASS.

H. C. MOORE.

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHER,

GILL'S ART BUILDING,

SPRINGFIELD.

Largest and finest gallery in the city. Everything first-class. Instantaneous pictures of children a specialty.

C. W. CROSS,

DENTIST.

DR. H. H. EAYRS as associate.

OFFICE HOURS,

8.30 a. m. to 12 m. 1.30 to 5.30 p. m.

PAINLESS DENTISTRY.

LAWRENCE BLOCK. tf-5

A BROKEN PAROLE.

"Yes," said my friend the general, "you may boast of the forms and solemnities of your civil tribunals, of your oaths and affidavits and rigid cross-examinations. What are they but retrenchments which prove that perjury is an active foe? Now in the army it is pride, not fear, that is the safeguard. The word of an officer on his honor as a soldier and a gentleman is never doubted."

"Yet an officer is human?"

"There are men and men, sir. It is a matter of education, which becomes an instinct. A soldier's word is a sacrament, and is so recognized by the army regulations."

"Oh, well, the Roman soldiers did sometimes desert their standard, turn their backs on the enemy and abandon their general. Catiline and Antony lived as well as Brutus and Scipio. Come now, did you never know an officer to break his word?"

"Hum!" The general looked serious and even sad. "I do remember one case; but it was excusable, sir, most excusable. Poor young fellow, so handsome, so gallant! After all these years I can see him as he sat erect and manful on his horse, his face livid, his lips bitten, the drops of agony streaming from his brow. He was tempted beyond mortal strength and he yielded—a grievous fault, for which he woefully atoned."

"Tell me about it, pray; not as it impressed you, but from the beginning."

"From the egg to the apple, eh? You see, we old soldiers are not forgetful of our Latinity. Well, I will, though the task is a melancholy one. During one of the latter years of the rebellion I was stationed in a southern Atlantic state and had command of the outpost. On either side of us was a river; beyond these, dense morasses. In front, about seventeen miles distant, was a city, held by the enemy and filled with military stores. And twenty-five miles beyond was another hostile town. A railway ran between the rivers, and furnished communication between these two places."

"Does an outpost require any definite force?"

"No. That depends on the extent of the country to be guarded. In this instance my front covered five miles, and I had a brigade—two regiments of infantry, a regiment of cavalry and four pieces of artillery—a fine command. I also had a few men from the engineer corps, and one of these—at the peril of his life, too, for he would have been shot if captured—had drafted a topographical map of the surrounding country. From this I planned an exhibition on the enemy's outpost.

"I detailed an officer of tried intrepidity, Captain Brown, to make a detour with his company to the right flank and rear. All night they marched through the swamp and impenetrable thicket a distance of over twenty-five miles, and yet kept a reserve of strength and pluck for the morrow's fighting. It was most gallantly achieved. Meanwhile I set out two hours before daybreak with 1500 men, marching in three columns along the three practicable roads. Everything transpired in accordance with my fondest anticipations. As soon as we engaged the enemy Captain Brown seized the bridge in their rear and advanced boldly, making a tremendous noise."

"A la Chinese?"

"The Chinese are no fools with their kettledrums, sir. Warfare is a royal game, in which finesse often wins. Captain Brown left a portion of his scanty command in the rear, which assumed the appearance of a reserve to the bewildered foe. They believed that they were surrounded and by an overwhelming force, and so they yielded. When the captain joined me we found that we had bagged a Southern brigadier general, with his staff, several pieces of artillery, fifty horses, among which was a famous black stallion renowned from the James to the gulf, at least a hundred men, besides an immense quantity of military stores. We dismantled the bridge as well as we could, and then we made off, and quickly too."

"Why so?"

"Because reënforcements had been telegraphed for to that farther city on our approach and were hurrying thither as fast as steam could urge them. We had done too well to ask a Pyrrhic victory. Well, before we started Captain Brown brought the brigadier general before me, a fine appearing fellow, splendid with a new regalia.

"'I am sorry for you, general,' I said. 'Tis the fortunes of war.'

"'Rather malignant ones for me,' he replied, with a grim smile. I had just won my star. Still'—

"'We will make your comfort our pleasure,' I protested. 'If you and your staff will give me your parole you shall know no restraint. He laid his hand on his sword. 'No, no!' I continued. 'Keep your side arms and your horses.'

"'I pledge you on my word on my honor as an officer and a gentleman that I will not attempt to escape,' said the captive chieftain, and so likewise repeated each one of his staff.

"'Tis sufficient, gentlemen,' I replied. 'We must now ride briskly to camp.'

"At this juncture Captain Brown advanced with another prisoner who had been held by his reserve guard.

"'Good God, Macrane,' exclaimed the brigadier, 'did they take you? My poor fellow, how unfortunate, how terrible!'

"'Yes, general. The clergyman had just finished his prayer. I had just kissed my wife for the first time," said the young officer as he sat erect and soldierly, as I have recalled him, but the personification of despair.

"His commander looked at me wistfully, as if tempted to make intercession. Then his face grew stern. 'Tis the fortunes of war," he repeated bitterly. 'Give your parole, Macrane.'

"The young officer placed his hand on his sword, but threateningly. He glanced about him. There was no lane of escape through the masses of blue.

"'I pledge my word, on my honor as an officer and a gentleman, that I will not attempt to escape,' he said, and as he spoke his face grew even more ashen.

"'En avant, messieurs,' and away we rode.

"After a little I beckoned Captain Brown to me and talked with him apart.

"'Where did you get this Macrane, captain?' I asked. 'He wasn't with the others'.

"'No, indeed, general. It's quite a story, and I wish for one that it hadn't happened. Last evening, just after sunset, as we were winding our way through the swamp, some times sinking waist deep, as you may judge from the appearance of my men, we came unexpectedly upon solid ground and a clearing. Before us stretched evident signs of civilization. We cautiously advanced through what had once been a well ordered plantation and neared an old-fashioned, widespread mansion, comfortable with the outhouses about it, like a hen with her brood.

"'The house was aglow with light and the air wafted from it fragrant with flowers. At the rear a lot of negroes were peering so intently through the blinds as not to notice us. I led a file of my men stealthily along the broad veranda and stationed them by the open windows on the front and side. I gazed into the parlor. There was an affecting sight. The company was gathered together, mostly of women, and aged ones, too. Every head was bowed.

"Opposite to me stood a gray haired clergyman, his trembling hands spread in benediction over the heads of a young couple kneeling before him—a Confederate officer in full rig and as fair a girl as I have ever seen. The prayer ended. The happy pair arose and embraced. Friends flocked around them in congratulation. I stepped forward with revolver in hand, and as I did so a soldier advanced through each window and stood as motionless as a statue of fate.

"'You must surrender!' I cried as I covered Macrane.

"'There was an agonizing scream. The sweet faced bride sank senseless in her husband's arms, restraining him through her clinging from any rash resistance. Ah, it was pitiable, but what could I do, and what could he do? Despite the wailing, the entreaty, the awful malediction, I led him away. He never spoke. I heard his voice for the first time just now, when he gave his parole. And, general, I have been sorry ever since. Though I'm proud of our success, I wish that this raid had never occurred.'

"'Tut, tut, man,' I remonstrated, 'you are nipped and fagged out, and no wonder. Get a good night's rest and you'll be far less morbid. Warfare at best is an unspeakable horror, but we must keep our eyes fixed on the glorious goal of peace and not heed the specters that throng the pathway.'

"The captain saluted and withdrew to his post, but I could see that he was dejected and distressed. A brave heart is ever a tender one. On we rode. Our way led us past a crossroad which sprang from a wood. There was a slight elevation to its left and this presented a startling spectacle to us. A young woman, clad in white, with a long veil floating in disorder about her, and with orange blossoms still clinging to her dark tresses, all disheveled, was watching our approach intently, with hand shading her eyes.

"By her side, supporting her and seemingly dissuading her stay, was an aged man, whose venerable locks strayed from his shoulders like another veil. As our captive brigadier general and staff pranced by they exchanged anxious glances and gallantly doffed their caps. By no look or gesture did the young woman heed their courtesy. But when Macrane appeared by the side of Captain Brown, with bowed head and melancholy bearing, then a clear, thrilling note penetrated the air:

"'Ralph! Ralph! Oh, my husband!'

"Quick struck the spurs, and away to her side dashed the young officer. I saw him bend tenderly over her. I saw her face light with hope, with rapture. Their lips met and lingered, and then Macrane joined us transfigured, for his cheeks were glowing and his eyes were a-sparkle. His bride, yielding to the urgency of her companion and upheld by him, disappeared within the windings of the wood."

My friend, the general, paused and puffed thoughtfully on his cigar.

"I suppose you anticipate the sequel and wonder why I didn't suspect," he observed.

"Naturally."

"Well, I am looking back, and the light now is very clear. The lamp of the future has its forward slide closed, you know, and even what we see we do not comprehend. Besides, Macrane had given his parole, and its sanctity was a shield from shameful conjecture. I thought he had whispered some cheer of a speedy exchange, which would have been realized, too, had I but had a chance for intercession. But to continue. When we reached our camp the paroles were reduced to writing by the adjutant and signed by the respective prisoners, and after this formality was concluded we considered them our guests.

"The different members of the staff were allotted to different ones of my officers for entertainment, Macrane continuing with Captain Brown, while I made the brigadier my especial charge. And well they all fared, you may be sure. I knew their leader did, for after an elaborate dinner, of which my colored boy never thereafter ceased to boast, as he toasted 'better days' in a glass of champagne he gravely remarked that it was the first time he had dined since the outbreak of the war.

"He meant it, too, poor fellow; even the most distinguished southern officers were forced to content themselves with a Spartan fare, and scanty at that—a fact which should mitigate our indignation over the privations which our captured soldiers endured.

"It was early the next morning that Captain Brown came to my quarters pale and anxious.

"'General,' he said 'Lieutenant Macrane is missing. He has escaped.'

"'Escaped! Impossible! Why, he gave his parole.'

"'He has broken it, sir; there can be no doubt about it. The black stallion is also gone.'

"The famous black stallion which I had ordered picketed apart, and on which I had hoped to witch the world with my noble horsemanship! How vexatious! For a moment my vanity made me oblivious of what had really happened; but for a moment only.

"'When did you miss Macrane?' I asked sharply.

"'Last evening, sir.'

"'Then why didn't you report his absence at once to me?'

"'I didn't have the heart, sir. I——'

"'Stop, Captain Brown. Not another word or I shall be compelled to demand your sword, sir. I understand—that is, I would understand were I not bound to ignor my suspicions on account of your gallant conduct yesterday. Take a file of men, surround that old mansion and do your utmost to recapture the fugitive. Be as vigilant as you have been remiss.'

"'General, you may depend on me.'

"He hastened away. I soon heard the tramp of the men announcing his departure. But his mission proved fruitless, as I believed it would. At noon Captain Brown returned and reported that he had approached the house stealthily and thrown a cordon about it; that no living sight or sound greeted him. The outhouses were empty, the chimneys smokeless, the windows boarded, the mansion abandoned.

"When I reported this escapade to the brigadier he looked both chagrined and relieved.

"'I am mortified, of course" he said, 'but not as indignant as I ordinarily would be at such a breach of faith. I can't help it. My sensibilities appland even while my judgment condemns. They were so very fond of each other. They had been lovers since they were little children, and had wandered hand and hand through this woodland like Paul and Virginia. Agnes—that is the girl's name, God bless her, I love her as my daughter—is an orphan and practically homeless.

"'Their marriage had been the plan and dream of months, and had at length seemed feasible. For while, of course, we had heard of you, general, and warningly, we did not anticipate so darng a foray. Poor Macrane! He was crazed with despair. Had the foul fiend offered him freedom in exchange for his soul he would have jumped at the bargain.'

"'Ah, I thought to myself, 'the foul fiend did tempt and the unfortunate young man did yield. Too late will he learn that the stains of dishonor are indelible.'

"Time passed by rapidly, as it always does in warfare. Perhaps it is the presence of death that makes it so fleet. The brigadier was exchanged. Whether he satisfactorily explained his capture so soon after promotion I never heard. The following spring brought me on official business to the fortress, which was the department headquarters. As I concluded the matters required of me the general commanding said: 'By the way, we have had a curious courtmartial case here lately, concerning which you must know something.'

"'What is that, pray?'

"'A young southern officer has just been tried and condemned as a spy. His nane is Ralph Macrane.'

"'Macrane! A spy!'

"'Yes, he was captured leading his men in a desperate—a forlorn charge. "Tis a marvel he was taken alive. He seemed to court death. No wonder, though, he must have appreciated the consequences of arrest. He had broken his parole and returned to open warfare, and you know this rendered him liable to be treated as a spy under the articles of war of every civilized nation, and I suppose the confederacy is as much civilized as it is a nation.'

"'Yes, but'—

"Oh I know. You will claim that they were extraordinary and mitigating circumstances; that private matters and not fanaticism were the cause of his dishonorable conduct. So I thought at first; but nothing of the sort. We were about sending for you when he saved us from further trouble and uncertainty, too, by openly avowing that he gave you his parole with the deliberate design of breaking it; that he had used his eyes to an advantage while at your camp, and had furnished valuable information to our enemy. You had a sharp engagement three days after his escape, did you not?'

"'Yes, indeed. Almost a surprise.'

"'It would have been a complete surprise for any officer except you,' said the department commander graciously. 'Well, he admitted that the tidings he brought were the case ouf it.'

"'Impossible! The villain!'

"'Ah, you see. After this what could we do but condemn him. Our findings have been approved, and he dies to-morrow at daybreak.'

"Here my friend the general paused again and puffed as if his cigar was a true consoler.

"'I don't like your articles of war,' I protested. 'They are a Procrustean bed in which one is either hewed or stretched. I can easily imagine how a heedless young fellow who broke his parole but gave no comfort nor assistance to the enemy might be condemned unjustly.'

"Had such been the case Macrane undoubtedly would have been reprieved, but he pleaded guilty. And I believe even in your civil tribunal the judge dons the black cap when this occurs. No, no; the articles of war are blameless. They could not provide against the agony of a bruised heart."

Despite my horror at his conduct, from a sudden impulse I asked the commander if I could see the condemned. He acquiesced at once and sent me to him under the direction of his orderly.

"I shall never forget the expression of the young officer's face as I entered. He was standing by a small grated window gazing up into the western skies all radiant with the glories of sunset. That look so ethereal, so exalted, was so pitiable in the intensity of its yearning that the tears coursed down my cheeks as I spoke.

"'Macrane, Macrane!' I cried. 'What have you done? Why have you destroyed yourself?' He turned. He grasped my hand. He smiled. And my tears gushed forth anew.

"'Agnes is dead," he said.

"'You never played the spy. You never betrayed my post,' I protested.

"She is dead,' he repeated. 'My fair one, and we were so happy together. I sought death at the head of my command and it fled from me. Yet even through its escape shall I find it again.'

"'It shall not be.'

"'Good-bye, general. I reiterate my treachery to you. And, remember, too, that tomorrow I shall go to my death as blithely as I rode to my bride on the fiery black stallion through the mazes of the woodland, for there also she awaits me.'

"He turned once more to the window, and in the ruddy glow of the sunset, which always seems a pledge of returning day, I saw him for the last time. What could I do? I had no proof. My suspicions would be laughed to scorn. After a sleepless night an hour before dawn I mounted my horse and rode rapidly from the fortress. Yet, just as the east was repeating the glow of the west and announcing the beneficent promises fulfilled, I heard the sharp crack of musketry, and I knew that Macrane once more had been faithful to his tryst.

"'Twas the fortune of war,' quoth my friend, the general, 'for love is the conflict in which the vanquished never breaks his parole.'"—New York Times.

THE U.S. CRUISER NEW YORK

The latest addition to the United States navy, the armored cruiser New York, is one of which the country may well feel proud, as it is the most formidable battle ship afloat, and on her trial trip Monday attained a speed of 21.09 knots over an accurately measured course of 41.65 nautical miles, which was gone over twice, and this may be slightly increased when the allowances for the currents are figured out. The speed stipulated in the contract was 20 knots, with a premium of $50,000 for every quarter knot above, so that the builders will get at least $200,000 above the contract price.

The New York was built by Wm. Cramp & Sons of Philadelphia, the keel being laid September 30th, 1890, and the vessel launched October 1, 1891, being completed in January of this year. She is 380 feet, 6½ inches long, 64 feet 10 inches beam, with a draught of 23 feet 3½ inches. Her coal capacity is 1500 tons, or 13,000 miles. The engines are vertical triple expansion, the horse power being 61,500. The armament consists of six 8-inch and twelve rapid-fire 4-inch guns, eight six-pounder and four 1-pounder rapid-fire guns, and six gatlings. The four broadside 8-inch guns and the 6-pounder are protected by two inches of armor, and four of the 8-inch guns are in barbettes of ten inches thickness, the conical revolving shields being seven inches thick. The 4-inch guns are in sponsons four inches thick, and protective shields cover the ports. Her frecboard is about 20 feet, and her 8-inch guns are twenty-five feet above the water line. She has six torpedo tubes above water, one each at bow and stern and two on either broadside. There are two military masts with double fighting tops. The protective deck has a six inch slope, and there is a total of five inches of armor between the protective and berth decks. Of her six 8-inch guns four can be turned either ahead, abreast or astern. She is expected to carry 480 men, but can carry double that number, or even 1000.

Compared with the most formidable of foreign vessels, England's Blake, the New York can deliver aft a weight of 1000 pounds of projectiles, while the Blake can deliver only 380. The Blake's broadside is 760 pounds, while that of the New York is 1250 pounds. The armor plates are of hardest nickel steel, superior to any other armor made in resistance to shots. The water line is protected by a layer of cellulose, which, if the hull should be penetrated by a shot swells by the action of the water and fills the hole.

An especial source of pride is that the vessel is entirely of home manufacture, ingenuity and skill. Every pound of iron and steel which has entered into the construction of the hull of the New York, every part of her engines, every pound of shafting, her monster propellers, every rivet and bolt and screw in the great ship is of American manufacture, the product of American industry.

blemishes as well as the glory of the vigorous republic of the west. England comes in for a share of kindly criticism and praise, for such is the true province of the critic. England counts her past off the dial of centuries, and can afford to go slow in the matter of treating new questions and reforms which knock at her doors for recognition; in fact she does go slow, but in the supreme moment she takes the advice of wisdom, then settles down into well-earned peace, until another disturbing element arises. Magna Chartas, corn laws, and reforms have been granted always in time to save the nation. No small degree of pride may be denied to a people whose empire belts the globe; whose flag is feared and honored on every sea. And it need not seem strange if she receives her son from the American states as a boy whose ways seem a little brusque, and sometimes amusing to the parent of the insular home. It was the rich heritage of Saxon and Norman blood bequeathed the Pilgrim and the Puritan of New England which made success possible in the changed environment of the New World.

But our author notes with alarm the increasing admixture of so many discordant elements into the body politic of our fast developing empire of states; will there be enough of the original English element to unify and amalgamate the cosmopolitan mass, or will disintegration take place, as was the result in the old Roman world consequent upon the invasion of the Gothic hordes? This is a question which only the future can answer. Turning to the social qualities of the English, the fact is noted, how much at home the guest is made to feel at the English county seat. The guest is let alone and made to look upon himself as one of the family; while in America he is constantly assisted to enjoy himself, until he reaches a point where he is compelled to admit himself a burden. The former habit comes from the long-inherited attention to the quiet influence of cultured association; and the lack of the same condition is incident to a people passing through the throes of rapid development. Our author also notes the fact that "there is a higher average of individual development in America than in any other country in the world, but that the highest quality is much rarer than in England." This result is attributable to the fact before noted, namely, the relative duration of development of the two countries.

Our author looks upon England as the most beautiful country in the world, beautiful in the sweep of its adorned landscapes and winding streams, and stretch of oak-shaded parks, rich with historic scenes enacted in the long ago, while castle and cathedral lend an interest, and the romance and mystery of two millenniums add wonderful touches of color. Many of these things are lacking in America. While she has landscapes which charm and mountain scences which entrance the beholder, and rivers which stretch out their arms for thousands of miles inland, yet they all have not the impress which the classic past imparts.

The third paper is a review of a new volume published last year by Laveleye of Paris, entitled "Le Gouvernment dans la Democratie," which work is a study of the present tendency of the Democratic institutions. The present feeling of a large class is that of restless restraint under existing forms of authority, the outcome of which the prophet of the future trembles to disclose, making him for the time a pessimist, in seeming. Through the forecasting shadows of the coming storm our author would point out a way of retreat, and a solution of the difficulties which environ the self-governing portions of the masses, namely, the approximation of equality among the masses, that it may bring some degree of satisfaction, at least, to the aspiring portion of the community. He closes the paper with the thought that all the past has been but "an overture in the great opera of our common progress," soon to give place to sterner if not to more harmonic realities.

Let every thoughtful reader buy the book and enjoy its carefully written theories for himself.

O. P. ALLEN.

Palmer, May 26, 1893.

PEN PICTURES OF THE GREAT FAIR.

CHICAGO, May 20, 1893.

The descendants of Christopher Columbus have planned a big thing in the way of "shows," for the World's Fair is a "whopper." The Fair lacks completeness in many details, but there is more than enough already, and the earlier people come the better for their comfort. To see the whole thing in detail is beyond the endurance of ordinary mortals; there is too much of a good thing; in fact there is no end to it.

There is no truth in the reports of outrageous charges for meals on the grounds; a person can get along as economically as one can live at first-class New York, Boston and Springfield restaurants.

There will be plenty of room for all who come; street cars will be crowded, but such a thing is of common occurrence in eastern cities. A person can spend five dollars a minute or a good deal less. With present rates of fare a Palmerite can easily take in the Fair six days for from $50 to $75 and get along comfortably.

No pen can do justice to the magnificence and grandeur of the Fair buildings and grounds. I noticed a California redwood board 16 feet wide, 12 feet long and five inches thick, and a cheese which weighs eleven tons, which was made in Canada, and if it gets lively this summer will probably have strength enough to walk away with the big Agricultural Building, in which it is located.

The Massachusetts Building, a fac-simile of the old Hancock house, a Boston landmark, attracts as much attention as any of the state buildings, and it is creditable to the Bay State people that it is all finished, while a number of the state buildings are in various stages of completeness. New York state planned a magnificent building, and the builders and frescoers are still puttering away on it. Probably they wish to show the visitor to the Fair the way the capitol building at Albany was built and never finished.

The old liberty bell in the Pennsylvania Building is carefully guarded by Philadelphia police, and attracts much attention.

The Midway Plaisance is a regular Coney Island avenue. To take in all the shows and catch-penny devices it is said would cost $35 to $40. The Irish villages are interesting, and old Vienna, with its shops, makes one feel as though one had crossed the briny deep. The German village has a splendid display of tables, and beer is king.

The Liberty glass works of Toledo have a magnificent exhibit, a complete glass factory in which are 300 employes; 5000 visitors may be accommodated at once, and 2000 electric lights, with an electric fountain form a brilliant scene. One of the curiosities is the weaving of glass cloth, which is made into various things.

In the Woman's Building is an opera cloak make from prairie chickens' feathers. It took ten years to make it; value $5000.

Dollars and dollars are thrown around in buildings, exhibits, landscape effects and a thousand and one different directions as though there were no end to them.

The promoters of this great fair have a "nerve" that is truly wonderful. One would

(Continued on sixth page.)

MR. FULLERTON'S NEW BOOK.

"Patriotism and Science, Some Studies in Historic Psychology," is the title of a recent volume from the pen of William Morton Fullerton. The book is made up of three papers, viz:—On a Certain Danger in Patriotism at the Present Time; English and Americans; Democracy, with Reference to a Recent Book.

The first two articles appeared in the Fortnightly Review in 1890-91. The searching, yet discriminating and kindly critical spirit in which they were written quickly introduced the young writer to the discerning English public of letters, and if I am not mistaken, paved the way to the present enviable position which Mr. Fullerton holds. When a subject is treated as the title of this book implies, it is not to be read like a novel or a book of travels, to give amusement to a leisure hour and then be dismissed as a trifle, but it must be studied like a text-book, for the author is a careful dissector of individual as well as of national traits. In the first paper the English and French are contrasted, the former with their love of institutions grown old with accumulated centuries, and forms stereotyped by the approbation of names historic, with the latter who think spontaneously, and overthrow to-day that which was honored yesterday.

Then is propounded the thought that we are entering upon a new era, when to die for one's country will no longer excite that thrill of approbation which once obtained; and this feeling will come about, not because the calm, thinking man loves his own the less, but because of that newer growth of thought, excited and energized by the cosmopolitan feeling of the enlarged unity of the race. That danger in Democracy then, which has so long obtained and still obtains to a great extent, is the obligation which would limit our interest within a narrowed circle, and would curtail its growth and free expansion for the ultimate benefit of all.

In "English and Americans" the author has described the idiosyncracies which distinguish the two peoples with such a nicety of detail that it must appeal at once to every truth-loving reader as a faithful picture. Our author does not forget that he was born an American, but he is not slow to see the suppose that years instead of months had been spent in the construction of the buildings and grounds, and it is surprising that so much has been accomplished.

(Continued from fifth page.)

The only criticism one can make is that there is altogether too much to see. The grounds are over 600 acres in extent. It is the hardest kind of work to "do" the Fair, and rather discouraging because there is such an endless amount of "plunder" to look at.

The government exhibit is particularly attractive to the Westerners and second only to a trip to Washington. To-night comes the electrical exhibit, and it promises to make fairy land out of the whole scene.

Chicago is a second World's Fair in itself. The growth of the city in the past few years is astonishing. Most easterners find it interesting to visit the stock yards. Thousands and thousands of cattle, horses, sheep and hogs are passing in an endless procession, and the journey from the farm to the refrigerator cars and the eastern markets is a quick one.

The weather was cold in the early part of the week, but has improved every day and is now perfect.

A. L. H.

THE TRAGEDY OF GALLATIN VALLEY.

As the hot summer sun was sinking behind the rugged tops of the western mountains, and its last rays were absorbed in the mellow gold of the sky, a soft twilight settled over the Gallatin Valley. Two travellers, wearily plodding along the trail, simultaneously took off their broad slouch hats and wiped the perspiration from their brows. The heat of a sultry afternoon gave way reluctantly to the feeble breeze which struggled up the valley. It had been a hot day in the hot month of August, 1863. Nature seemed to gasp for breath, and be in sympathy with the two wayfarers, as they cast off their packs and threw themselves on the ground by the roadside to rest and enjoy the first refreshing breeze, which sprang up as sunset drew near.

Jim Parker, the elder, was first to speak.

"Wouldn't mind getting a lift just now; what do you say, Jack?"

"Well, it wouldn't be out of order," replied the younger man, already, at one and twenty, a fine specimen of stalwart manhood. His companion was fully ten years his senior, hardly above medium height, rather slightly built, with light brown hair and eyes and a full beard. By many he might have been considered a handsome man, for his features were as delicately chiseled as a woman's but the close observer would have noted that the general contour of his face was weak, while that of the beardless youth at his side was all character and strength.

Jack sat with his hands clasped around one of his knees. He was a handsome lad, with strong, well-cut features, large, firm mouth, and black eyes now flashing with spirit and intelligence, and again melting into a liquid softness as some tender memory crossed his mind and stirred his heart. The dark, curly hair was cut close, displaying to advantage the broad, intellectual forehead.

Both were evidently men of gentle birth, who had seen better days, though now through adverse circumstances were following the tide of Western emigration. They would make or be unmade according as fortune should decree. Like hundreds of others they were trusting to that fickle lady, for she held out such tempting opportunities, satisfying the expectation of the few, and offering no solace to the dissappointment of the many.

Jack Greene heaved a weary sigh, as he roused himself from his reverie, and said to his friend. "This prospecting round these mountains in an indefinite search for gold is not all it's cracked up to be."

"Well, hardly," said Jim; "let's pull up stakes and go home."

"Wait a bit," said Jack, "we may strike it next turn. I don't like to go home sucking my thumbs. But this waiting game is tough. Starting one new lead after another, visions of satisfied longings beckoning from valley to hilltop and from hilltop to valley, only making keener the inevitable dissappointment, is about played out."

"I think you are right, Jack, but what a serious man the lad has grown to be. Your mother will hardly recognize the heedless, devil-may-care youth who left home so full of Western adventure three long years ago."

"My mother, my mother," said Jack softly, the sweet, sad look coming into his eyes. "If we ever live to reach home, Jim," he continued.

"That's very well put, Jack, 'if we ever live to get home;' those Vigilants are daily growing more reckless and a man's life is not worth the toss of a copper once they black-list him."

"Yes," answered Jack, "I understand they are tolerably fresh in this valley. But look how dark its getting; we must push on until we find water, and make our camp for the night. Home! Home! how dear the word rings in my heart to-night!"

They had just started on the road again when the rumbling of a wagon was heard. This brought them both to a standstill, and drew from Jack an exclamation of joy.

"Well, I call that luck! I'll strike that fellow for a ride, sure. Hello, there!" he cried; "give us a lift?"

"Git in if yer wants ter, but don't lose no time 'bout it."

Wearied and footsore, Jim and Jack were nothing loath to obey the summons, and the wagon was again on its way down the valley.

The driver, a rough, surly man, with a hard face, replied curtly to all questions put to him, and he evidently did not care to talk. An hour's ride brought them to a lovely spot on the bank of one of the many delightful streams that abound in the Gallatin Valley, where they were. All hands decided to camp for the night. Supper was soon over, and all three "turned in" and were soon fast asleep.

Down the moon-lit valley, following the trail the wagon had taken, a body of horsemen quietly passed, each armed and mounted on a stout broncho. Determination was stamped upon the faces of these rude dispensers of justice. The Vigilants had at last struck the right trail, and rode steadily onward to entrap the unwary wrongdoer.

The wagoner rolled and tossed restlessly, failing to soothe his anxiety in sleep. More than once he resolved to hitch up and move on, leaving Jim and Jack sleeping. No visions of the shadow of the terror which was closing around them disturbed the slumbers from which they were startled by the then familiar cry:—

"Turn out! Hold up your hands!"

Startled and dazed, they roused themselves from a heavy sleep to find their camp surrounded by a body of masked men, heavily armed with rifles and revolvers.

The wagoner stood in the center of the group, with a sullen and, at the same time, defiant expression on his countenance.

Jim rose trembling and took hold of Jack's hand, as he whispered. "The Vigilants, Jack!"

"I know," said the lad in a low voice; "be firm and don't let them see you are afraid."

His words fell on deaf ears. Jim's naturally weak nature must assert itself, and, pale and trembling, he was bound and tumbled unceremoniously into the wagon with the wagoner. Jack's manner and appearance commanded a certain respect. There was no trepidity or flinching; head erect and eyes flashing with indignation, with his hands bound behind him, he walked to the wagon and proudly took his place with the other prisoners, and the cavalcade retraced their steps toward Helena.

At the stage station, a few miles east of Helena, they halted. "Judge Lynch's court" was quickly convened and the trial begun. Our pedestrians now discovered the cause of their summary treatment, and for the first time learned that they had been traveling in company with a horse thief, who had stolen the wagon and team from one of the Vigilants, and were adjudged parties to the theft.

Fifteen minutes after the court convened judgment was passed and the three men were informed that one hour would be given them to prepare for death.

Jim was too nervous and trembling to speak, but Jack obtained permission to address the court, and with his accustomed bravery and firmness spoke as follows:—

"Gentlemen, my comrade and I plead 'not guilty' to your charge. We were traveling on foot from Bitter Root Valley and rode but for one hour in company with that man," pointing to the wagoner.

"Hear the youth, he pleads for his life," came from the crowd. "Prove your assertion, it's too thin."

"My word is my proof," said Jack, well knowing that it was useless to talk.

"Hear him now," came from the crowd. "His word, ha-ha! What's a man's word good for in this country? That thing there'd as well say he never saw this team or e."

"What have you got to say, partner?" said one of the crowd addressing the wagoner.

The man made no motion to speak and remained stolid and indifferent as he had from the start.

"Anything more, lad, any more fairy tales for yourself and friend?" said the man to Jack.

Jim stood pale and trembling a little distance off.

"Only this," said Jack in a firm, loud voice that reached the farthermost man in the crowd, "we deny the charge."

"Run him off! Hang him now!" were the cries that greeted Jack's ears.

Time sped swiftly by and the hour was drawing to a close, when one of the Vigilants, who had been particularly impressed with the young man's brave, defiant manner, came to Jack in a rude though kindly way and offered to attend to any matters Jack cared to leave under his charge. Smarting under the injustice and swiftness of the sentence, Jack curtly refused this well-meant offer, and took his position in the procession that was forming for the place of execution. This was to be in a grove of trees, which since has become historic as the trysting-place of the dreaded 3-7-77.

The condemned three walked at the head of the procession guarded on each side by the Vigilants, the remainder of the crowd following with slow and measured tread. The rustling of the withered leaves under their feet was the only sound that broke the solemn stillness, as the three condemned men walked forward to their doom. They mounted the blocks, Jack in the center, Jim and the wagoner on either side, the ropes were thrown around their necks ready to tighten in the death clasp the moment the blocks were shifted from beneath their feet. All was ready, and for the last time they were asked, "If they had anything further to say?"

Still the wagoner remained dogged and indifferent, still Jim shook in fear, as his face blanched to an even more deathly pallor and his trembling voice refused to carry to the crowd the message in his heart for those at home, the words dying unspoken on his pallid lips.

Jack was again the only spokesman, his proud, pale face showing all the bravery of his character and sending a thrill of awe through his self-constituted judges.

Again his clear, manly voice rang out on the still night air as the moon cast its light across his face.

"Is there a man among you who will pledge his word to a dying man to fulfil his last request?"

"Yes! Yes!" rang from a dozen voices in the crowd.

Straightening himself upon the block, the next movement of which was to send him into eternity, the young man said:—

"My name is John Greene. I have a dear old mother living in Grenada, Mississippi. My last request is that the men who have made me this promise will go to her and say: 'Your son, John Greene, was murdered by the Vigilants of Montana, August, 1863.'"

The words had hardly escaped him when a burly member of the company kicked the block from beneath his feet, and as other men performed the same office for the two remaining victims, three bodies swung from the rope ends. Blind justice had condemned the souls of both guilty and innocent to pass into the shadow of the great beyond, whose lights and shades we can none of us know.

The rope had hardly tightened when a bullet whizzed through the air above the heads of the crowd and Jack's body fell quivering to the ground.

Seeing that his shot had taken good effect, the man who fired it sprang quickly into the tree from which Jim Parker's body was suspended, and quickly cut the rope which was strangling him.

Instantly every Vigilant in the crowd had covered the man in the tree with a rifle or revolver.

A stern "Hold on, boys!" and every rifle and every revolver was lowered. They had recognized the voice as that of their leader, a man born to command and accustomed to be obeyed.

"Hold on, boys," said he, "I don't mind helping to swing a thing like that," pointing to the now lifeless body of the wagoner, "but I feel confident these two men are innocent of the charge. No guilty boy could die with such a message on his lips. I for one am for letting them go," and "I," and "I," and "I" rang as a unit through the crowd with that spirit of revulsion of feeling so common in assemblages where passion holds the dominant hand.

"Let them go! Let them go!" echoed the crowd, as they worked busily to revive the two men, now as eager to save their lives as they were anxious to take them but a few moments before. Though half strangled the two men were soon resuscitated and on recovery from their own surprise were overjoyed to find themselves alive and lions of the crowd, of which but a few moments before they had been their prey.

But to this day, though now their hair is whitened by the snows of many winters, they say in moments of sudden alarm or excitement they can still feel the rope tightening round their necks.

CROPS IN NEW ENGLAND.

Report of their Condition for the Week Ending May 22d.

The week has been too wet and cloudy for the growth of most crops and for farm work in general over the northern part of New England; farther south it has been warmer and more sunshine has been experienced. The railfall during the week was from one-half to three-fourths in Northern Vermont, Northwestern New Hampshire, in extreme Southeastern Massachusetts and in Southeastern Maine, and from one and one-half to over three inches throughout the central districts. The following are some of the amounts noted in inches: Kingston, R. I., 1.73; Vernon Centre, Conn., 1.21; Ipswich, Mass., 2.12; Leominster, Mass., 2.07; Provincetown, Mass., 0.75; Northfield, Vt., 0.77; Manchester, N. H., 1.45; West Milan, N. H., 0.82; Lewiston, Maine, 3.79; Mattawamkeag, Me., 0.40; Eastport, Me., 0.72. In Southeastern Maine the rain was needed and none too much fell, but generally it came on ground already filled to overflowing and served only to delay all work on anything but the driest ground.

In the South all cherries and most apple, pear, peach and other fruit trees are in full bloom, and if the blossoms are any guide a good fruit year is promised; but unfortunately other conditions come in later which will determine the crop. Many potatoes have been planted and some fields of corn, but there are many more fields to be planted yet. The grass is showing wonderful growth and a fine crop is promised.

In the central and most favorable sections of the northern counties much plowing and some planting has been done; but in the colder towns of the northern states reports indicate that almost nothing has been done on the land. It is from one to two weeks late in all farm-work, although the grass is starting well, and stock has generally been turned to pasture.

Reports indicate that the amount of old hay on hand is unusually small; the price is quoted from $16.00 to $22.00 per ton. Potatoes are also scarce, and the price varies from 75c. for planting potatoes to $1.00 and $1.25 per bushel for the best; their quality is very good. The response has not been very general as to the number of acres that will probably be planted. Several in Massachusetts and Connecticut report that the acreage varies very little from year to year. A correspondent from Peabody, Mass., (Eastern part,) reports a much less acreage than usual because of the scarcity of good farm help. One man writes from Alfred, Maine, (Southwestern part,) that the acreage of potatoes will be less because farmers are plating more sweet corn for the cannery. One from Caribou, Aroostook Co., Maine, says there will be a large acreage of potatoes planted. This man reports that grass was winter-killed very badly in spots in that vicinity; clover was especially injured. The correspondent at West Levant, Maine, says that farmers are losing sheep at a fearful rate, but he does not state the disease. Tent caterpillars are hatching out in large numbers in the Southern States. Some damage was done to fruit treets by the high winds.

SELECTED REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS.

MAINE.—EASTERN MAINE—Princeton: Misty and rainy every day this week; it will take two or three warm, sunny days to put the ground in shape. Caribou: Grass was winter-killed in spots; clover quite badly. A large acreage of potatoes will be planted. Eastport: Only 4 or 5 hours of sunshine during the entire week; temperature 12 degrees below the normal. Mars Hill: We need warm, dry weather to start vegetation; buds of fruit trees begin to burst open.

Central Maine.—Mattawamkeag: Past week cloudy and cold; rivers very high; plowing about all done but very little planting as yet. Palermo: Farm work retarded by wet weather. West Levant: Wet weather has stopped all farming; many farmers are losing sheep; there seems to be some disease among them; potatoes $1.00 per bushel. Western Maine.—Alfred: Farmers are getting their potatoes planted, but not so large an acreage as last year. Lewiston: Heavy rainfall on the 17th, 2.59 inches. Farmington: Road much washed by excessive rain on 17th.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—NORTHERN NEW HAMPSHIRE—Stratford: Potatoes on uplands about one-half planted. West Milan: Never saw grass grow so fast as in the past week; it is early to predict a good hay crop, but grass has a fine start. Littleton: High winds on the 17th did no damage in this vicinity; grass is starting well. Central New Hampshire.—Newton: Planting, backward, on account of the late cold and wet weather; corn not planted yet but will be this week. Intervale: 1.66 inches rain on the 17th and 18th. Canterbury: Weather has been wet and cool; grass is starting well. Hay is scarce and is worth $20.00 at the barn. Southern New Hampshire—Alstead: Potatoes scarce and worth $1.00 per bushel. Strafford: Pasturage is good for the season; the heavy rains have been beneficial to grass. Deerfield: Very little farm work has been done yet. Hillsboro Upper Village: Gardens are being planted; heavy soil is too wet as yet to be worked. Contoocook: The past week has been beneficial to vegetation. Manchester: Some planting done; cherry and plum trees in full bloom; season very nearly two weeks backward. Derry Depot: Not more than hay enough to carry through; potatoes are also short; grass looking well. Brookline: A great deal of land is too wet to work; on the night of the 16th, 2.09 inches of rain fell inside of eight hours.

VERMONT.—Northern Vermont—Burlington: Very little hay on hand. Central Vermont—Northfield: No damage to seed in ground; nothing up yet. West Fairlee: Grass doing finely; no complaint of winter-kill; potatoes scarce. Hartland: Tent caterpillars have appeared. Hartland Four Corners: About the usual acreage of crops is being planted.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Eastern Massachusetts—Concord: More corn and potatoes will be planted than usual; potatoes short: $1.30 to $1.40 per bushel; high winds on the 16th and 21st slightly injured asparagus. Ipswitch: Tent caterpillars are very prevalent; early vegetables growing finely. West Newbury: Farm work is behind; most of the ground is too wet; potatoes mostly planted. Amesbury: Season yet late but is rapidly coming forward; 2.34 inches rain on the 17th. Winthrop: The season is about up to the average, peach trees in blossom. Marshfield: The warm weather of the last few days has started everything along finely. Middleboro: Pear trees are blooming fairly well; the bloom on apple trees is not large. Peabody: Acreage of onions and potatoes considerably below the average owing to land being too wet to plant. Great complaint of the scarcity of farm help, also as to the quality of the same. Central Massachusetts—Amherst: Grass is looking excellent in this vicinity. Springfield: Total rain fall during week—1.03 inch. Winchendon: Hay $20.00; potatoes $1.25 per bushel; both scarce; not much planting done yet except on dry ground. Spencer: A very small stock of hay on hand and the price ranges from $18.00 to $22.00 per ton whether in barn or delivered. Leominster: The wet cold weather will prevent some from planting as much as was intended, but a week of favorable weather will alter the case. Warren: Farmers are buying baled hay; potatoes sell from $1.00 to $1.25 per bushel. South Royalston: Grass is doing finely; but little planting done yet. Southbridge: Too wet and cold. Western Massachusetts—Turners Falls: Pear trees are in full bloom and all farm work has been well advanced this week. Total precipitation—0.58. Northfield: It has been a week of very fine growing weather; grass is looking finely, but little winter-killed. Blanford: All farm work is at a standstill owing to wet weather. Light frost on the 20th. Hadley: Grass and rye look well; the usual acreage of crops planted, except onions, 15 per cent larger than last year.

RHODE ISLAND.—Kingston: The ground is still very wet; potatoes have staated well and grass is going ahead finely.

CONNECTICUT.—EASTERN CONNECTICUT—Voluntown: Everything is late except grass, which promises well. Vernon Center: Nearly all fruit trees in bloom. Central Connecticut—Storrs: Very little corn planted as yet; prospect for farmers, excellent, South Manchester: Everything is coming along finely now. Stevenson: Sunshine needed. Falls Village: The cold, wet weather has delayed planting; grass and rye look well. West Simsbury: Crop acreage, potatoes and tobacco, above the average; corn and small grains about normal. Grass booming. Western Connecticut—Milford: Farm work about two weeks late; garden truck is much behind; corn is being rushed in. Greenfield Hill: Four out of five farmers are buying hay for horses and working cattle; plenty of potatoes on hand for home use and planting.

The Brooklyn Eagle is of the opinion that A. W. Washburn of Shipton, Pa., has performed the difficult feat of doing an original thing. It cites in support of its proposition these facts: "He attended a party on Saturday night in honor of his daughter, who was about to depart for Europe. Then he went to his place of business and wrote a notice offering a reward of $500 for his own apprehension, dead or alive. He tacked this on the outside door. Then he wrote a check for $500 payable to the man who should find him, and put it in his safe. He has not been seen since the party. No one knows what has become of him or why he disappeared.

FOR BILIOUS AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

☞No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow the taking of ONE or more of "Beecham's Pills" with a glass of water immediately on rising in the morning.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

PAINLESS EFFECTUAL

BEAUTIFULLY COATED.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."

SOLD ALL OVER THE WORLD.

TASTELESS—SOLUBLE.

In many towns where this wonderful medicine has been introduced, and given a fair trial, it has abolished the family medicine chest, and been found sufficient to cure nine-tenths of the ordinary complaints incident to humanity; and when diseases of months and years are thus removed or palliated in a few days, it is not surprising that Beecham's Pills should maintain their acknowledged popularity in both hemispheres. They cost only 25 cents, although the proverbial expression is that they are "worth a guinea a box," for one box will oftentimes be the means of saving more than one guinea in doctor's bills. They

CURE

SICK HEADACHE

What a world of Misery is embodied in Sick Headache! Physical and mental anguish combined! Why will people suffer from this evil when they can free themselves from it permanently by the use of Beecham's Pills, which also cure

Constipation
Weak Stomach
Loss of Appetite
Impaired Digestion

DISORDERED LIVER AND ALL KINDRED DISEASES.

Prepared only by THOS. BEECHAM, St. Helens, Lancashire, England. B. F. ALLEN CO., Sole Agents for United States, 365 Canal St., New York, who (if your druggist does not keep them) will mail Beecham's Pills on receipt of price, 25c.—but inquire first. 2s

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS!

Good Quality! Choice Variety!

—:x:—

PLOWS, WHEEL BARROWS, ∴ ∴
∴ ∴ CULTIVATORS, ∴ ∴
∴ FARMING IMPLEMENTS OF ALL KINDS.

—:x:—

AGENT FOR WALTER A. WOOD NEW STEEL MOWER.
YANKEE HORSE RAKES.
CHAMPION HORSE RAKES.
TAYLOR HORSE RAKES.
SPICER HAY TEDDERS—BEST MADE.

LAWN MOWERS.

"The Best," 12-inch, - - $4.50
14-inch, - - $5.00
16-inch, - - $5.50
Also the "Granite State" and "Hercules."

GARDEN HOSE!

Cotton and Rubber—all sizes.
LAWN SPRINKLERS.

E. A. BUCK & CO

Palmer, Mass.

FOR TIRED MORTALS.

SOMETHING TO LIE ON.

The Favorite, $ 7.65
The Wellesley, 10.30 } BEDSTEADS.
The Pavonia, 9.80

ALL BRASS TRIMMED AND WARRANTED.

SOMETHING TO SIT IN.

SOLID OAK ROCKER, plush seat and back, . . . . . $2.84

There is ease for yourself and your pocket book at such a price.

Different styles, but always full value, from . . . . . $2.16 to $10

ALASKA REFRIGERATORS

Chilly things for hot weather.

EVERYTHING FOR HOUSE FURNISHING.

You make the terms.

E. LUTHER & CO.,

OPPOSITE COURT SQUARE, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

CREDIT GIVEN IF DESIRED.

Did you know

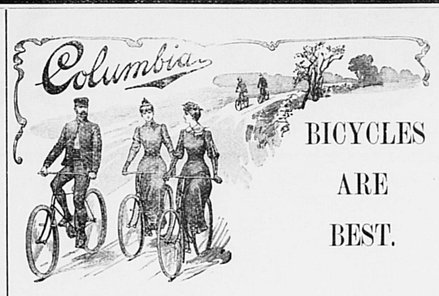
THAT YOU CAN FIND

a fine line of footwear

Including SLIPPERS, etc., at LUMAN'S?

He also wishes to announce to the people of THORNDIKE and vicinity that he has added a line of PATENT MEDICINES, etc., to his stock. . . . . The only place in the village where you can get a full line of Lazell's NEW YORK PERFUMES. Don't buy cheap colognes when you can get the very best for a trifle more. . . . Call and examine whether you wish to purchase or not.

At J. F. LUMAN'S.



BICYCLES ARE BEST.

Their tires are guaranteed against puncture.

Can you ask more?

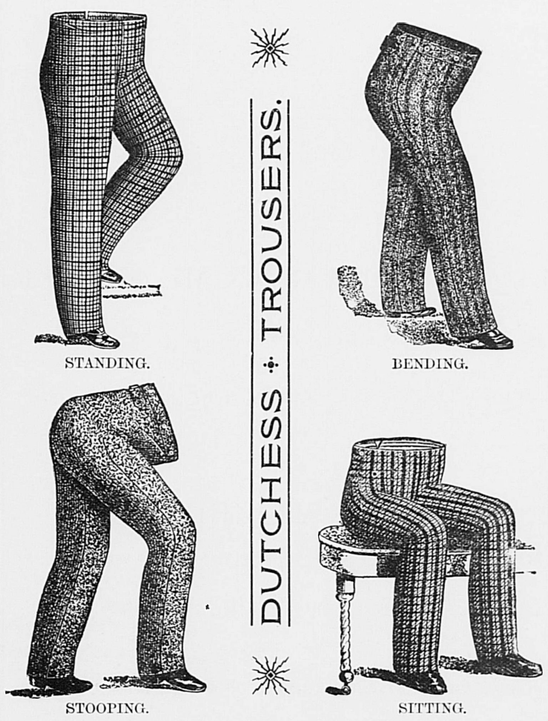
Prices from $110 to $150.

Catalogues free.

CHANDLER BROS.,

AGENTS FOR THE TOWN OF PALMER.

Just what you've been looking for, Gentlemen.



No matter in what position you place yourself, DUTCHESS TROUSERS WILL FIT!

WARRANTY.

You may buy a pair of Dutchess Wool Trousers

AT $2.00, 2.50, 3.00 OR 4.00,

And wear them Two Months. For every SUSPENDER BUTTON that COMES OFF, WE will PAY you TEN CENTS. If they RIP at the WAISTBAND WE will PAY you FIFTY CENTS. If they RIP in the SEAT or elsewhere, WE will PAY you ONE DOLLAR or GIVE YOU A NEW PAIR

BEST IN THE WORLD. TRY A PAIR.

Sold by C. K. GAMWELL, Palmer.

GREAT SPEAR HEAD CONTEST.

CHEW

SPEAR HEAD THE P. J. SORG CO.

SPEAR HEAD THE P. J. SORG CO.

SPEAR HEAD

AND

SAVE THE TAGS.

One Hundred and Seventy-Three Thousand Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, $173,250.00

In valuable Presents to be Given Away in Return for

SPEAR HEAD TAGS.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1,155 | STEM WINDING ELGIN GOLD WATCHES | $34,650 00 |
| 5,775 | FINE IMPORTED FRENCH OPERA GLASSES, MOROCCO BODY, BLACK ENAMEL TRIMMINGS, GUARANTEED ACHROMATIC... | 28,875 00 |
| 23,100 | IMPORTED GERMAN BUCKHORN HANDLE, FOUR BLADED POCKET KNIVES | 23,100 00 |
| 115,500 | ROLLED GOLD WATCH CHARM ROTARY TELESCOPE TOOTH PICKS | 57,750 00 |
| 115,500 | LARGE PICTURES (14x28 inches) IN ELEVEN COLORS, for framing, no advertising on them | 28,875 00 |
| 261,030 | PRIZES, AMOUNTING TO | $173,250 00 |

The above articles will be distributed, by counties, among parties who chew SPEAR HEAD Plug Tobacco, and return to us the TIN TAGS taken therefrom.

We will distribute 226 of these prizes in this county as follows:

To THE PARTY sending us the greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS from this county we will give.....1 GOLD WATCH.

To the FIVE PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each, 1 OPERA GLASS....5 OPERA GLASSES.

To the TWENTY PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 POCKET KNIFE.....20 POCKET KNIVES.

To the ONE HUNDRED PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 ROLLED GOLD WATCH CHARM TOOTH PICK .....100 TOOTH PICKS.

To the ONE HUNDRED PARTIES sending us the next greatest number of SPEAR HEAD TAGS, we will give to each 1 LARGE PICTURE IN ELEVEN COLORS .....100 PICTURES.

Total Number of Prizes for this County, 226.

CAUTION.—No Tags will be received before January 1st, 1894, nor after February 1st, 1894. Each package containing tags must be marked plainly with Name of Sender, Town, County, State, and Number of Tags in each package. All charges on packages must be prepaid.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

DON'T SEND ANY TAGS BEFORE JANUARY 1, 1894.

SPRINGFIELD'S

CLOAK

AND

SUIT HOUSE.

Outing and traveling suits are among the special attractions this month. The best styles and materials are the first to go and if you wait till next month we cannot promise as good a choice. You may have a good, well-made all wool suit for $7.50, or as much better as you wish. They are all here with waists to match. Any sort of a style you'll find here from 50 cents up.

The cape season is now at its height. We have every grade and color that's made, whether cloth, silk, satin or lace. Don't fail to see the capes before you purchase.

Jas. McKeon & Co

309 MAIN ST., SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 16-51

FLYNT

Building and Construction Co.

GENERAL OFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

We contract to perform all labor, and furnish all material of the different classes, required to build complete.

CHURCHES, HOTELS, MILLS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND RESIDENCES.

Also for the construction of

RAILROADS, DAMS AND BRIDGES.

We solicit correspondence with those wishing place the construction of any proposed new work under one contract, which shall include all branches connected with the work.

To such parties we will furnish satisfactory references from those for whom we have performed similar work.

GRANOLITHIC.

We are the New England Agents for Stewart & Co's. Patent Granolithic for sidewalks, floors, steps, etc.

BOSTON & MAINE R. R.

SOUTHERN DIVISION

(CENTRAL MASSACHUSETTS)

CORRECTED TO MARCH 26, 1893.

TRAINS LEAVE WARE:

GOING EAST

FOR Boston—6.00, 6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19, 8.18 p. m. Sundays, 6.00, 6.55 a. m.

RETURNING—leave Boston 8.00 a. m.; 1.30, 4.00, 5.50 p. m. Sundays, 1.30, 5.50 p. m.

FOR Worcester—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

RETURNING—leave Worcester 8.50 a. m.; 2.25, 4.45, 6.25 p. m.

FOR Oakdale, Hudson and Waltham—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

FOR Gilbertville, Barre and Coldbrook—6.55, 9.11 a. m.; 3.19 p. m. Sundays, 6.55 a. m.

GOING WEST

FOR Bondsville, Pansy Park, South Amherst and Hadley—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.43 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.

FOR Belchertown, Amherst and Northampton—7.30, 10.35 a. m.; 4.30, 6.45, 7.52 p. m. Sundays, 4.45 p. m.

FOR Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, via Poughkeepsie Bridge Route—7.52 p. m.

THROUGH PULLMAN SLEEPING BUFFET CARS.

D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l. Pass'r. Agt.
JAMES T. FURBER, Gen'l Mgr.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILROAD.

NEW LONDON DIVISION.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3d, 1892.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Leave Brattleboro, 5.45 and 10.25 a m and 4.25 p m for New London, connecting at Millers Falls with Fitchburg R R, at Belchertown with Central Massachusetts R R, and at Palmer for Worcester Boston, Springfield, etc.
Leave Amherst, 7.05 a m, 12.14 and 5.53 p m.
Leave Palmer, 6.40 and 8.40 a m, 1.35 and 7.10 p m.
Leave Willimantic for New London, 8.00, 10.17 a m 3.25, 6.35 and 8.45 p m.

GOING NORTH.

Leave New London, 5.25 and 7.45 a m, 2.30 and 5.20 p m.
The 5.25 and 7.45 a m and 5.20 p m run through to Brattleboro and make connections for the north.
Leave New London for Palmer, 2.30 p m.
Leave New London for Willimantic and intermediate stations, 10.05 a m.
Leave Palmer for Brattleboro, 8.35, 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m, the 11.00 connecting with express for Montreal and the White Mountains. Also Grand Trunk R. R. for the West.
Leave Palmer for Amherst, 8.35 and 11.00 a m, and 8.00 p m.

D. MACKENZIE, Supt.,
New London, Ct.

THE BEST BICYCLES ON EARTH are COLUMBIAS.

SEE THE GUARANTEE MADE ON THEIR TIRES.

FROM $110 TO $150.

SOLD BY

CHANDLER BROS.,

PALMER.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, PALMER, MASS.

Hours from 9 a. m. to 12 m., 1 to 3 p. m.

JAMES B. SHAW, President.

ENOS CALKINS of Palmer,
GEORGE MOORES of Thorndike, } Vice Presidents.
T. D. POTTER of Springfield,

W. W. LEACH, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Enos Calkins, | R. C. Newell, |
| James B. Shaw, | F. F. Marey, |
| Geo. Moores, | H. Wald, |
| H. G. Loomis, | W. W. Leach, |
| T. D. Potter, | C. H. Hobbs, |
| H. P. Holden, | C. E. Getchell, |
| E. G. Hastings, | Geo. E. Buck, |
| C. L. Gardner, | A. L. Hills, |
| | Wm. Holbrook. |

BOARD OF INVESTMENT.

Enos Calkins, T. D. Potter James B. Shaw
Geo. Moores, H. G. Loomis, E. G. Hastings,
C. E. Getchell.

AUDITORS.

C. H. Hobbs, A. L. Hills.

H. W. McGREGORY, Treasurer.

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME XLIV. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 2, 1893.---SIX PAGES. NUMBER 9.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY EVENING
—BY—
C. B. FISKE & CO.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—Two dollars a year. A discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES.—One inch (or twelve lines of this type solid) one week, $1; each subsequent insertion, 25 cents. One inch one year, $10; one-half inch one week, 75 cents; each additional week, 15 cents. Short advertisements, "Wanted," "To-Let," etc., 10 cents per line, cash; no charge less than 50 cents. Notices in local column, 15 cents per line. Liberal rates to yearly advertisers.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds executed in the best styles, promptly and at reasonable rates.

C. B. FISKE. L. E. CHANDLER.

[Entered at Post Office as second class matter.]

LOCAL BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

ALLEN, O. P., Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Bookseller.

BARTON, F. D., dealer in Watches, Clocks and Jewelry, Main street.

BILLS, G. A., Fresh and Salt Beef, Pork, Ham, Lard, Tripe, etc.

BROOKS, EDWIN E. Graduate Optician. With E. S. Brooks, Jeweler, Main street.

BROOKS, E. S., Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Solid Silver and Plated Ware, Main street.

BROWN, C. A. & CO., Hardware, Furnaces, Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils and Glass.

BROWN, S. H. Trucking, light jobbing, piano moving. Order box cor. Main and Walnut streets. Orders can also be left at Smith's store.

CARPENTER, Mrs. L. E., Millinery and Fancy Goods. Also dealer in human hair goods.

CHANDLER BROS., Bicycles and Tricycles of all kinds.

CLARK & HASTINGS, Wholesale Dealers in Armour & Co's. Dressed Beef, Provisions, Main St.

EAGER, F. M., Boot and Shoe Manufacturer to Order, and Dealer in Leather and findings.

FISKE, C. B. & CO., Publishers PALMER JOURNAL and WARE STANDARD. Fine Book and Job Printers and Bookbinders.

FRANCIS, R. B., Iron Foundry and Machine Shop.

GAMWELL, C. K., Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings, etc.

GARDNER, CHAS. L., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Church street.

GOODES, E., Palmer Boot and Shoe Store, corner Main and Thorndike streets.

HOLBROOK, C. D., Flour, Grain, Feed and mason's supplies, Main street.

HOLBROOK, J. F., Dealer in all kinds of Coal. Agent for National and White Star line of steamers. Drafts on Foreign Banks at lowest rates.

LASALLE, OLIVER, Barber, Undertaker and Embalmer. Main street.

LEACH, W. W., Attorney at Law.

LEGRO & LYNDE, Druggists and Newsdealers, Paper Hangings, Shades, Lamps and Fixtures.

LOOMIS, H. G., Dealers in all kinds of House Furniture, Collins and Burial Caskets.

MARCY, F. F., Dealer in Lumber, Shingles, etc., wholesale and retail. West of B. & A. R. R. depot.

MARCY, OSCAR C., Livery and Feed Stable, rear of Converse House.

PALMER WATER CO. Office Lawrence Block. Office hours to October 1, from 8.30 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3 p. m..

RANDALL, GEO. W., Auctioneer.

SHAW, J. B., Dealer in Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., opposite the depot.

TAFT, S. S., Attorney at Law. Office in Allen's Block, Church street.

WHITE, C. W., Marble and Granite Works. No. 1 Thorndike street.

WOOD, E. J., Decorative Paper Hanger, Dealer in Wall Paper and Oil Stoves, Church street.

WOOLRICH & CO., Manufacturers of Ridge's Food, Thorndike street.

THORNDIKE.

ADAMS, A. P., Druggist, Toilet Articles Confectionery and Cigars.

BOND, A. M., Stoves, Ranges, Hardware, Furniture, etc.

LAWLOR, D. J., Dry and Fancy Goods, Shoes, Groceries, Crockery, Grain and Baled Hay.

BONDSVILLE.

GOSSELIN, OMER, Livery, Board and Feed Stable.

HOLDEN, C. L., Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc.,

MORIARTY, M., Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Coal. Agt White Star and Anchor S. S. Co's

SHUMWAY, CHARLES E., Carriage and Sign painting.

WARE.

ALBERTINE, J. A. Choice Fruits, Tobaccos, Cigars and Confectionery. Low prices.

DAVIS INSURANCE AGENCY represents the best companies and gives lowest rates.

DONNELLY, J. H. Stoves, Plumbing. Heating by steam or hot water a specialty.

EDDY, C. W. Job and Fine Art Printer.

EDDY, MISS MATIE K. Teacher of Oil Painting and Crayon. Sketching or Art Work completed to order.

GREEN, J. B. Steam Heaters, Stoves, Furnaces, Tinware. Repairing promptly done. North St.

HARLOW, A. B., Photographer. Instantaneous process only. Opposite the Bank.

HITCHCOCK, C. & CO. Most complete line of Carpeting and Draperies in this vicinity.

HOSMER, F. N., Clothier. Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishing Goods, etc. Sandford's Block.

LANE, M. L. Groceries, Crockery and Glassware. Plain and Sage Cheese a specialty.

MARSH, F. E. Gold, Silver and Nickel Plater. Replating tableware a specialty. 7 Bank street.

PRIEST, J. E. Ware Steam Laundry. Carpet cleaning. Office at H. M. Clark's.

RICHARDSON, A. F. Dealer in Boots, Shoes and Rubbers of all kinds. Sagendorph's Block.

ROBINSON, JOHN F. Furniture, Sewing Machines, Pictures, Hardware, Paints and Farming Tools.

SIBLEY, J. B. Hardware, Tools, Agricultural Implements, Paints, Oils and Artists' materials.

SMITH, G. H. W., Jeweler. Watches, Clocks and Spectacles. Repairing in the best manner.

SMITH, H. A. & CO. Hitchcock's Block. Desirable Dry Goods. Started 1884—still growing.

TURNER, H. H. Bookseller and Stationer, and dealer in Paper Hangings, Musical Instruments and Sheet Music.

WINTER, G. L. Harness, Sadlery, and everything for horse, carriage or stable use.

MONSON.

GROUT, GEO. E. Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, etc. Towne's Block.

NEWTON, GEO. H., Law Office, Notary Public, Insurance, etc., near Gage's store.

SQUIER & CO., Dealers in Lumber and Building Materials, Doors, Windows, Blinds, Mouldings, etc.

WARREN.

KELLEY, W. H., Attorney and Counsellor at Law. Quaboag Block, Warren, Mass.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

PALMER.

L. L. MERRICK POST, No. 107, G. A. R. Meets second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month in G. A. R. Hall, Central street.
H. H. PAINE, Com. A. B. C. DEMING, Adj.

PALMER LODGE, No. 190, I. O. O. F. Meets every Friday evening in Commercial Block, Main street.
G. H. JUSTIN, N. G. G. H. BRAY, Rec. Sec.

DINNERS IN SPRINGFIELD—Ladies and families wishing a quiet and pleasant place to take dinner or lunch while in the city should visit THE VENDOME, centrally located on Vernon St., just off from Main. Choice bill of fare, good service, and reasonable prices. Mrs. A. F. BLACKMAN, formerly of the Blackman House.

Ayer's Pills

Are better known and more generally used than any other cathartic. Sugar-coated, purely vegetable, and free from mercury or any other injurious drug, this is the ideal family medicine. Though prompt and energetic in their action, the use of these pills is attended with only the best results. Their effect is to strengthen and regulate the organic functions, being especially beneficial in the various derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ayer's Pills

are recommended by all the leading physicians and druggists, as the most prompt and effective remedy for billiousness, nausea, costiveness, indigestion, sluggishness of the liver, jaundice, drowsiness, pain in the side, and sick headache; also, to relieve colds, fever, neuralgia, and rheumatism. They are taken with great benefit in chills and diseases peculiar to the South. For travelers, whether by land or sea,

Ayer's Pills

are the best and should never be omitted in the outfit. To preserve their medicinal integrity in all climates, they are put up in bottles as well as boxes.

"I have used Ayer's Pills in my Family for several years, and always found them to be a mild and excellent purgative, having a good effect on the liver. It is the best pill used."—FRANK SPILLMAN, Sulphur, Ky. *

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowe'l, Mass.
Sold by Druggists Everywhere.

Every Dose Effective.

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Will you raise a Colt? a good one! It costs no more to raise a good one than to raise a common one.

If you want size with standard breeding, use "BOYCOTT," sired by Jefferson Prince, who was 16 1-4 hands high and trotted a half-mile in public in stud season in 1.07 1-2. BOYCOTT'S mother is also dam of "ALCOVE," with a two year record of 2.52 1-2, trial 2.44.

For particulars see or write to

D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer, Mass.

NEW BARGAINS.

A new two-tenement house to rent at $10 each tenement, or will sell for $100 down and balance may be paid in monthly payments as rent.

Farm of 17 acres, 2 miles from village on main road; good house and barn, $1000.

Farm of 50 acres. New house, barn with cellar; 4 miles from Enfield, Mass. $800.

House of 6 rooms, barn with cellar, 5 acres of land; 2 miles from village; buildings new and all right. $1000.

D. F. HOLDEN,

Palmer, Mass.

THE CLIMAX COUGH CURE

—IS WHAT—

You Want to Cure that COUGH

Or that bad feeling in your throat.

TRY IT—for it will please you.

CALL FOR IT at

ALLEN'S
Opera House
Drug Store.

CIGARS.

Winthrop.
Winthrop Ponies.
A. & N. Genuine 10c.
A. & N. Rose 5c.
Whitcomb's U. S. A. and Hand-made.
W. E. S.
Pennant.
Cigarettes and Tobacco.
W. E. STONE, Palmer, Mass.

LeGro & Lynde's Drug Store.

We keep

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA,
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA,
BROWN'S SARSAPARILLA,
ALLEN'S SARSAPARILLA,
BEEF, IRON AND WINE,
GREENE'S NERVURA,
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND,
and all the leading SPRING MEDICINES.

AGENTS FOR

Lothrop's FURNITURE POILSH

and DEGRAFF'S

Carpet Bug Destroyer.

IT'S A FACT that for Patent Medicines, Plasters, Syringes, Nipples, Hot Water Bottles, Trusses, etc., we carry the largest stock, and it will pay you to buy them, as well as Perfumes, Toilet Soaps, Tooth Brushes, Combs, etc., of us.

Use LEGRO'S TOOTH POWDER

IS NOT INJURIOUS.
WILL BEAUTIFY THE TEETH.

Prescriptions compounded with care from the best and purest drugs—by

LeGro & Lynde,

DRUGGISTS,
NEXT TO POSTOFFICE, PALMER, MASS.

STONE, LAWRENCE BLOCK, PALMER.

DRY GOODS,
CARPETS,
GROCERIES,
SHOES.

LARGE STOCK. LOW PRICES.

INGRAIN CARPETS, 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, 75.

Floor oil cloths, 25 to 60c square yard.
Oil cloth mats for stoves.
Zinc binding for oil cloth carpets.
Smyrna rugs, door mats.
Carpet linings, Straw mattings.

SALT MACKEREL, SALT HERRING.

Genuine Oregon Salmon.
Salmon Trout. Boneless Cod, 3 lb. boxes.

PRINT REMNANTS, 6c. GINGHAM REMNANTS, 8c.

BROWN, TAN, GRAY AND DRAB DRESS GOODS, 12½c to $1.00 per yard.

Cambrics,
Silicias,
Crinolene canvas.
Percalines,
Braids,
Spool silk,
Twist,
Whalebone,
Dress shields,
Hooks and eyes.

LADIES' BLACK HOSE, 10, 15, 25, 29 and 50c.

Ladies' tan and drab hose, 19 and 20c.
Children's black hose 10 to 20c.
Men's cotton hose, 3 pairs for 25c.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT.

MAPLE SYRUP.

100 gallons just coming in from the beautiful Deerfield Valley.
Extra heavy, pure, fine flavor. Better put in your year's stock. $1.00 gallon cans.

TWO BARRELS COOKING MOLASSES, 28c gallon. Just in
One hogshead strictly fancy molasses just in.

COFFEES—FRESH ROASTED EVERY WEEK.

Chase & Sanborn's Old Government Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Old Homestead Java.
Chase & Sanborn's Crushed Coffee.
Chase & Sanborn's "Red Seal" Mocha and Java—2 lb. cans. This is the World's Fair Coffee.
Sleeper's Old Government Java.
Spurr's "Revere." This is a rich, smooth—drinking coffee. 500 lbs. just received. Try it.
Heywood Breakfast Coffee—10c pound packages.
Rio Coffee.
Mocha Coffee.

TEAS.

We are headquarters.
All grades.
29c to $1.00 per pound.
Try our 50c and 60c Black Tea.

MORE OF THOSE NICE BOSTON CRACKERS, 4 lbs. for 25c. Just in.

KENNEDY'S OCEAN SPRAY, SALT AND PLAIN.

Kennedy's Grandmother's Cookies.

MORGAN'S SAPOLIO, 10c.

Bon-Ami, 10c.
Kleenaline, 5c.
Grandpa's Wonder Soap.
Castile Soap, white and mottled.
Everything in soaps and soap Powders.

BELLS' POULTRY DRESSING.

Slade's Spices,
Puddine,
Nonesuch Mince Meat,
New England Mince Meat.

CANNED PEACHES, PLUMS, CHERRIES, PEARS, APRICOTS.

These are the Golden Gate goods.

BUTTER—BELCHERTOWN CREAMERY.

Butter—Brimfield, Wilbraham, Monson Dairies, Fresh every day.

LARD.

Squire's pure lard in bulk.
Naphey's gold brand in pails.
Cottolene in pails and tubs.

POTATOES, BERMUDA ONIONS, ORANGES, LEMONS, BANANAS, JUST RECEIVED.

WASH TUBS.—INDURATED FIBRE.

Water pairs—Indurated fibre.

EVAPORATED FRUIT.—APPLES, PEACHES, APRICOTS.

RAISINS. 3 LBS. FOR 25 CENTS.

LARGEST STOCK of goods we ever had. Will give you good service. Try us.
W. E. STONE, Palmer, Mass.

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS

Is what we are talking of now. And the price—$25 to $30—with a discount of 5 per cent for cash. Can any one do better for goods made to order? Our line of suitings is large, varied and elegant. Step in and see them. They will be sure to suit you.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS

In all the latest styles and novelties. Stock all new within a few days, so you may be sure of getting the very latest things in the market. It will do you good to call and see them. Prices are right.

F. J. WASSUM, : : : : Palmer, Mass.

"Decoration Day."

"You ask me, boy, why I should leave
Each thirtieth of May
My work, and don the dark blue suit,
Adorned with buttons gay;
Why I should give the honored badge
Such a conspicuous place,
And once again fall into line
With the old-time soldier pace.

"Well, Harold, climb you to my knee
And put your hand in mine,
And let your frank and loving eyes
With hero worship shine!
That's right,—now you shall hear a tale,
Told in my plain rough way,
A story sad of old war times
And a Decoration Day.

"My boy, near thirty years ago,
In a pleasant country town,
There stood a dear old-fashioned house
With gray roof sloping down;
There lived, in peace and plentitude,
Twin brothers of one blood,
Good types of old New England stock,
Of sturdy strong manhood.

"No lagards they, when duty called,
For blood must have its way,
And all the seed in childhood sown,
Bore fruit that sunny May,
So when the ringing summons came
That roused a nation's life,
They were the first ones to respond
With hope and courage rife.

"How fresh it all comes back to me!
The drums, the clanging bell,
The fragrant flowers thrown in our way,
The flags, the music's swell,
The blushing girls with dewy eyes,
Sweet in their conscious grace,
But dearer still than all beside,
Our mother's loving face.

"Together through each dreary month
We kept our place in line,
And 'neath the changing southern skies
We watched the bright stars shine,
We slept beneath the same white tent,
And nightly every thought
Turned toward our dear New England home,
With peace and beauty fraught.

"We fought through terrible Bull Run
Unscathed, yet stained and grimmed,
And Benny proudly bore the flag,
Its colors all undimmed.
All through the seige of Yorktown
We kept together still,
And met the foe unfalteringly
At Fair Oaks and Malvern Hill.

"But when September breezes shook
The tassels of the corn,
And nature poured her garnered wealth
The cultured fields upon;
When all the southern landscape fair
Was bathed in golden light,
The angel came in battle's stress
And bore him from my sight.

"O'er fair Antietam's ridge and plain,
Swift came the ruthless foe,
And wood-crowned hill and peaceful field
Were scenes of blood and woe.
We slowly backward pressed the gray,
And victory crowned us then,—
But peaceful there, with upturned face,
Lay Benny with the slain.

"I gently laid him down to sleep
Beside a bowlder gray,
And o'er him strewed the autumn flowers,
That bloomed along the way.
Within the City of the Dead
That crowns Antietam's crest,
He sleeps with heroes, ivy-wreathed,
My hero, loved and blest.

"So when I hear the muffled drum
And see the blossoms bright,
The yoke of time slips quickly off,
And vanishes from sight.
I see a lonely new-made grave
In fair old Maryland,
Covered with fading autumn flowers
Strewn there by loving hand.

"And so each year when springtime fills
Her lap with fragrant flowers,
And blushing summer conscious stands
Within her rose-hued bowers,
I take my place, with faithful heart,
Amid the thinning line,
Who soon among their laurel wreaths
The cypress must entwine.

"Now, Harold, never wonder more
Why I should don, that day,
The army blue, and walk in line
With comrades growing gray.
As long as memory holds its own,
We'll tread the sacred way,
And deck each lowly emerald grave
The thirtieth of May."

—Helen N. Packard, in Springfield Republican.

A GOLDEN ALLY.

Mr. Samuel Slikens walked down the main street of Aberdeen one morning with downcast mien. Perhaps he was studying the probable durability of his shoes, for his mind was occupied with ways and means.

It is said that the stomach influences the brain. If so, little wonder was there in his case that his thoughts were serious. He had had no breakfast; his regimen the day before had comprised a few greasy potato chips.

"There ought to be some one who would go at least a soup ticket on me," he murmured; but even as he did, a long line of forbidding faces answered, "No one."

And yet there were few young men on the street of finer appearance that Samuel Slickens, few indeed of a more harmless and amiable disposition. He was one of those unfortunates of whom his friends say, with a shrug, "He is his own worst enemy," and find this a precedent for their own treatment of him.

It had not been always thus, however. When he first came to Aberdeen, after graduating from the law school, he was regarded as the possessor of unbounded possibilities. He was an orphan. He had inherited a snug fortune, which fame had made snugger; he had a bright eye, a winsome smile, an engaging manner. Who was there so apt of anecdote, so quick at repartee, so tuneful of voice as he? To know Samuel Slickens was a distinction, to visit at his rooms an event.

One, two, three, four, the years had glided away, and at the beginning of each Sam had regretfully said: "I wish I were as well off as I was twelve months ago," and then had thought no more about it. But Fortunatus without his purse is Fortunatus no longer, so now his friends agreed that it was a wonder that he had kept going so long. Perhaps it was, but no such forboding had troubled them over his dinners and cigars.

This walk down street on this particular morning was chiefly induced by habit, for his extensive law offices were now confined to his hat; his elegant apartments for a week and more had been within one of the city's parks. It was a lonely walk, too, interrupted by no hearty greeting or vigorous slap upon the back. For some reasons his friends preferred the other side of the street, and their gaze was concentrated upon the architectural beauties of the buildings that lined it.

"I swear!" resolved Sam, "I'll call upon Campbell. He's a crank, so he's sure to differ from all the others."

Now, Lionel Campbell was an unpleasant enigma to the average citizen, who could not understand exclusiveness towards his affable self. His wealth required millions to calculate, and engrossed his entire attention. Since he minded his business, and barely vouchsafed a surly nod to the gilded youth whom he might meet, he was popularly voted "the meanest man." His father had left his son the gross results of a life-time of thrift and energy, less the pittance which bare existence had cost him. People said that in Lionel his subtlety and avarice were intensified. In reality they knew little about him, for he had led the life of a recluse, and returned with interest the dislike which he engendered.

Sam entered the vast general with clerks busied with the affairs for the Campbell estate, and diffidently gave his name to an usher.

"I'll take it in," this functionary said, dubiously, "but it's no use I reckon. They yonder be waiting to see him," and he designated with his finger a portly group, among whom Sam recognized a railway magnate, an insurance president, a promoter of national reputation, and the pastor of the United Presbyterian church; but to his surprise Mr. Campbell returned word that he would see Mr. Slikens immediately.

As Sam passed this group they all bowed respectfully, an amenity which they had neglected upon his entrance. When he was inclosed within the handsome office Campbell grasped him cordially by the hand.

"Hallo, Sam!" he cried. "Glad to see you. This is something like old times at Harvard! Why have you kept away so long?"

Now Sam did not care to give his reason—which had been a careless acquiescence with the popular judgment, so he feebly said that he didn't know.

"Well, I can guess," replied Campbell. "You always float with the tide. You've gotten among the breakers, too, I hear, and no life-boat has put out for you."

"No," said Sam, with a faint smile. "My friends are all too busy. One has married a wife, another has purchased a yoke of oxen, don't you know?"

"Oh, yes, I know. I could have weighed them all for you long ago in a two-penny balance. Now, I needn't ask you what you want. You are hard up. How much, old fellow, how much?"

"I am hungry."

"Now, look here, Sam. This sort of thing won't do. You did me many a favor at Harvard with your aptitude for Greek and Calculus, though you've forgotten all about it by this time, I suppose; but I don't forget. I would give you half my income willingly, but it wouldn't benefit you, you are so deucedly impracticable; besides, you don't want to be a dependent, do you?"

"Indeed, I don't. I tell you I'm hungry."

"You want to rehabilitate yourself, now don't you? You want to be respectable in this blessed burgh, and have your fellow-citizens speak of you as our promising young townsman?"

"I want something to eat worst of all; but of course I do."

"Well, look here. I'm a philosopher, and I have my theories of life. I'd like to exploit one, if you've no objection. Follow my advice and I'll make an orthodox model of you. Here's five hundred dollars. I lend this to you for three months, on interest, mind. Go and appease that yearning stomach. Buy new clothes and shoes first of all, hire your old apartments and offices, then come to me to-morrow morning. By this time my theory will be formulated and ready for practice. Good-day."

Sam rushed from top to bottom of a neighboring restaurant's bill-of-fare. The next morning he called upon the young millionaire, and was ushered at once into his presence.

"Just look over this package," said Campbell, carelessly.

Sam gingerly fingered the crisp contents.

"Fifty one-thousand-dollar bills!" he gasped.

"I thought so. That's right. Now I'll explain what you are to do. Have you a bank account?"

"I had one."

"Well, go to the bank and deposit these bills to your credit. Do it in the most matter-of-fact way. Make no explanations, answer no impertinent questions. Let it stay there. Live on the five hundred dollars, stick conscientiously to your office, and six months will settle the business, I wager."

"But—" began Sam.

"There is no but. I don't give you one cent of it; I expect it back when I ask for it. You are trustworthy, aren't you? Why, of course. Now do as I say."

And Sam, nervously buttoning his coat over the precious bundle, hastened away as if each shadow were a lurking robber.

He went straightway to the Lockit Bank. As he entered, the bookkeeper called sharply to him:

"Mr. Slikens, your account is overdrawn sixty-nine cents. The president wished me to direct your particular attention to it."

"Very well," replied Sam. "I'm just going to make a deposit."

She clerk rolled his tongue in his cheek and winked toward his admiring associates.

Sam made out his deposit-slip with the deliberation of a capitalist, and then handed the book and the money to the teller.

"Well, I'll be blanked!" muttered the surprised official as he wet his fingers thrice in his count.

"Did you speak?" questioned Sam, severely.

"Oh, no, sir; not at all."

"Are you quite sure?"

"I beg pardon, sir, but I just rubbed my favorite corn; it's enough to make a cherub swear. Will you draw against this to-day, sir?"

"Oh, no; it's not necessary."

"Very good, sir. Good morning, sir. But, beg pardon, by the way, wouldn't you like to step behind and see our new time-lock? It's really wonderful."

"Not now, young man, I'm busy," said Sam, grandly, as he walked toward the door.

On the porch he met Mr. Cashleigh, the bank president, entering. That dignitary looked upon him with an unfriendly eye.

"Morning," he grunted in reply to Sam's polite salutation.

"Old Bricks and Mortar will never weaken," mused Sam, as he sauntered toward the office. "Poor Agnes! Poor me! There is no hope in that quarter."

Now the Agnes to whom he referred was the only daughter of Mr. Cashleigh. He had formed her acquaintance three years before through these somewhat unusual circumstances. It was one blustering day that Sam had strutted up Main street with all the importance that weighty legal matters demands. He was, in fact, going to get shaved, but why advertise it? He gazed upon houses and wayfarers, and seemed to see the homes and the persons of future clients. But a little distance ahead of him there tripped a dainty figure that soon concentrated wandering eyes and thoughts. Surely, if outlines told the truth, this young girl embodied a poet's dream of grace. She was richly clad in dark gray vesture, and she sheltered herself from the eager sun rays with a large, heavily-fringed parasol. Anticipations assured Sam that her face was lovely; he hastened his steps to realize them.

Down the street there was approaching a conveyance known to its owner and his admiring friends as "a right slick buggy." It was drawn by a high-stepping, rat-tailed nag. Underneath the rear axle ambled a bandy-legged bull-dog. The driver sat upon his lofty seat in all the glory of a Sunday suit and the most precious heirloom of his race, a fuzzy "beaver," which the event of coming to "teown" had caused him to don.

He was a young man of ungainly figure and mammoth hands, upon whose vermillion face self-consciousness and its resulting irritability could plainly be read. Perhaps he thought he would make an impression; for as he drew near he reigned his Pegasus into a walk. Alas! the impression was made, but not by him.

A gust of wind swept around the corner. It wnirled the parasol from the young lady's grasp; it sent it hurtling through the air like a missile from a catapult. It struck the venerable hat with its lance-like point; it spitted it, and dashed it prone in the dust.

"Geewhitaker!" snarled the driver as he leaped from his perch to rescue this precious memento of grandfather. "I wudn't hev hed thet happen for a gud deal."

He recovered possession; but he recovered a wreck, rent and ruined, unfit for future descendants. He turned toward the helpless maiden in a rage.

"Gol darn ye!" he shouted. "Ye did thet a purpose. I'll hev the law on ye. You jest cum along with me to the 'squire."

"Don't lay a finger on that lady," said Sam, coming up at this critical moment.

"Who's to prevent, thet's what I wanter know? D'ye think I'm agoin' to hev my valluble property spiled by any sech"——

Whang! Sam struck with such effect that the speaker stumbled back over his dog and rolled with him in a disorderly mass through the muck.

"Come!" cried Sam. He half lifted the bewildered young lady in the "slick buggy," he whipped up the rat-tailed nag. Away they sped down the street.

In their hasty passage to her home he learned that her name was Agnes Cashleigh; he also learned that she had, for him, the most beautiful face, the most charming manner in the world.

The adventure caused a certain sensation. The driver of the buggy threatened arrest. He began five distinct suits for damages—to his hat, his horse, his buggy, his dog and himself! The first three were against Mr. Cashleigh, the others against Sam. But they served no other purpose than to awaken a general laugh and to deepen the acquaintance into intimacy.

They loved, more readily, perhaps, since circumstances were so forbidding. For the stouter Sam's affections grew, the slimmer grew his purse. But they hoped; that is to say, they unwittingly courted disappointment.

When Father Cashleigh perceived the situation he did what irate parents seem to consider a mighty achievement, though babies acquire it; he put his foot down. He informed Sam that his absence would be deemed his most delectable quality. He sent his daughter incontinently to boarding-school. So no wonder it was that Sam murmured "Poor Agnes! Poor me!"

He now entered his office and strove to impart an air of business to it. He spread his few books with open pages upon the desk; he bound together folds of blank paper with pink tape, and indorsed them with titles of suppositious cases; he thrust a quill over his left ear and soaked his right forefinger in the ink.

While he was thus laudably engaged the door opened and the bank messenger came in; he who erstwhile would present an impossible draft to him with such haughty mien. He doffed his hat, he bowed low. "From President Cashleigh," he said, proffering a bulky package. He withdrew amid the throes of a salaam.

Sam examined the bundle. It contained several legal documents and a note, with an inclosure,—ah, unusual inclosure! The missive read as follows:

"My Dear Sir:—I beg to send herewith papers in the suit of the Shaken Railway Company against the Lockit Bank, which I desire you to defend. I enclosure cheque for $250 retaining fee, trusting that your engagements may yield us your valuable service.

Very respectfully yours,
CALEB CASHLEIGH.

"P. S.—Drop around to the house, my boy, some day this week in a friendly way. Agnes returns to-morrow. C. C."

Sam stayed within his office until late that night, working upon the case until the wide-spread books, the thoughtful quill, the inked fingers were an unconscious reality. When he retured to his rooms the floor seemed covered with drifted snow; it was bestrewn with visiting cards. All his old friends had called. "So sorry, old friend, to miss you." "Be at the club to-morrow night." "Sister is anxious to see you." "Can you lend me a twenty until Saturday?" were a few of the indorsements; Sam carefully tore them into shreds.

The succeeding weeks always seemed hereafter to Sam like the pleasant stages of a dream of good fortune. Social and professional demands were constantly made upon him. The former, with a single exception, he ignored; the latter he assiduously accepted. He worked as he had never worked before, and perhaps his success was due more to his industry than to Campbell's talisman; but that at least gave him the opportunity; he was wise enough to improve it.

The most extravagant stories were widespread about him. He was the sole heir of a millionaire uncle recently deceased in England. He had drawn the principal prize in a lottery. He owned a gold mine in Mexico. He had written a novel. Alas! has vain imagining no bounds? But he preserved a discreet silence and wooed Themis untiringly.

Nor were all his pains lavished upon that frigid virgin. He called upon the Cashleighs, yes, again and again, and they received him as if he were a long-lost son returning in honor. As for pretty Agnes, delight overwhelmed surprise. He whom she so fondly loved had come back to her. She was content. How it had happened she cared not a whit; for of course he could do everything.

His practice speedily increased from nothingness into mammoth proportions. He was especially consulted regarding investments, and in this way found fertile fields for the results of his industry. The fifty thousand dollars still remained on deposit; but this no longer was a conspicuous sum, for it had plenty of company.

He called upon his friend Campbell, and explained the pleasant situation to him. "Return ten thousand dollars a month to me," he directed. At the expiration of six months Sam repaid the full amount, and still had at the bank a balance to his credit that required more than four figures to express it. He was counsel for nearly all the business corporations of Aberdeen. His tin box was filled with crisp shares and debentures. His engagement with Agnes had been announced; their marriage was the anticipation of society.

Filled with gratitude and delight, he sought the one whose faith and shrewdness had saved him, and begged him to act as his best man.

"Oh, yes," replied Campbell, "I'll be there; it will amuse me. There are nice people in Aberdeen, aren't there? They will dance as readily at your bridal as they would have jumped upon your grave."—Frank Leslie's.

BITTERSWEET. — "Mamma, aren't you sleepy?" tenderly inquired the beautiful young maiden, and the heart of the young man who was making a Sunday evening call leaped for joy, as he thought he detected a covert intention on the part of the young woman to rid the little parlor of the presence of "ma," that he and she might be alone.

"Oh, no, I am not a bit sleepy," answered the mother, and the young man's heart began to sink from deferred hope.

"I thought you would be," spake the maiden. "I know I am so sleepy that I can hardly see." And the young man's heart dropped with a soul-sickening thud.—Indianapolis Journal.

The Peace Bells of Brookline.

Our hearts were waiting, bleeding, waiting,
With trembling, longing, hope and fear,
Our very breaths in silence bating,
And while we prayed, "God's hand be stayed;
Let war be over, peace appear!"
Through all the air, with cadence fine,
Came pealing bells from fair Brookline:
"Peace is signed at Appomattox!
'Mattox! 'Mattox!
Peace is signed at Appomattox!"

From spire to spire the tidings spring,
As sunbeams flash o'er peaks of snow;
While strong men weep, or pray, or sing,
And each man's mood to all seems good,
For in that happy, golden glow
To God all grateful hearts incline,
While shout the bells of fair Brookline:
"Peace is signed at Appomattox!
'Mattox! 'Mattox!
Peace is signed at Appomattox!"

'Twas children rang that glorious peal
In lightsome glee that war was o'er,
As men and women now they feel
How blest were they that happy day
To ring the bells which tidings bore
That brother brother fought no more!
And still they'll thrill in life's decline
When sound the bells of fair Brookline;
For ne'er in memory's dreams shall cease
That peal seraphic, ringing "Peace!
Peace was signed at Appomattox!
'Mattox 'Mattox!
Peace was signed at Appomattox!"

—Helen Evertson Smith, in Harper's Bazar.

The news of the Peace of Appomattox was first received in Brookline, Massachusetts, through a private dispatch in cipher. In response to this, the children of Miss Margaret Littell's school in that place flew to set all the church bells ringing. The whole country was in a state of expectancy, and when the neighboring towns heard the bells of Brookline pealing, they all "with one accord" began to ring their own, so almost before the intelligence could be confirmed it had spread throughout Eastern Massachusetts.

PEN PICTURES OF THE GREAT FAIR.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 24, 1893.

Fairyland hardly describes the first successful illumination at the World's Fair, Chicago, last Saturday evening. The administration building was ablaze with brilliant lights, inside and out. The Electricity, Liberal Arts, Music Hall, Casino, Agriculture and Manufactures buildings formed a parallelogram grouped about the water, with rows of incandescent lights at the water's edge and another row upon the buildings, search lights flashing here and there, the electric fountains giving forth showers of light of all the colors of the rainbow. Continuous music by excellent bands, electric boats, gayly-colored gondolas and steam launches plying here and there, and 60,000 people grouped about made an indescribable scene. The only thing to mar the fairyland effect was the screeching of the whistles of the steam launches—heavy as the steamer Puritan or Pilgrim of the Fall River line—which, bellowing forth in the middle of some choice tune, did not prove a great addition to the grand effect intended.

Now is the time to see the Fair in comfort. Much complaint is made of the size of the grounds, and there is some talk of putting on omnibus lines to run up and down the avenues. Roller chairs with a man to propel the same cost $6 a day, a most outrageous price. Without the man $3.50, which leaves $2.50 as the price of a Chicago man. As soon as the "old maids" of New England hear that they can get a man for $2.50 it is expected there will be a grand rush for Chicago.

While it is hardly just to criticise the Fair when so very much has been accomplished in so short a time, it would have been much better if quality instead of quantity had been considered, half as large an area been prepared, and not had so many really duplicate exhibits. There is such a bewidering quantity of stuff to select from that one soon tires of the whole business and gives it up as a bad job.

The Sunday opening agitation has come up simply because the attendance so far has been light and expenses are away ahead of receipts, and the Sunday receipts are badly needed. Chicago and the West generally has no practical knowledge of a Puritan Sabbath, in fact the Puritan Sabbath in even New England has become badly adulterated. Liquor saloons, theaters, ball games, horse trots and anything else that wishes are as wide open in Chicago Sundays as any other day. Workingmen who are clamoring for an open Fair are simply helping along that time, soon to be here, when there will be no Sunday so far as work is concerned. Riding through Illinois Sunday afternoon farmers may be seen plowing, and industries in full force, unconscious of any day of rest. In the mining region in the city of LaSalle, every few doors is a liquor saloon, and every one wide open Sundays. Yankees should be more surprised that there was ever any idea of having a closed Fair in this part of the country.

Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis, 500 miles, is but a step nowadays. Wagner and Pullman have made it possible to ride in palaces fit for a king. What a contrast with travel in "ye olden time!" St. Paul is getting ready to celebrate in royal style the completion of the Great Northern road to the Pacific coast. Summit avenue, the abiding place of the nabobs of the capital city, is one of the handsomest avenues in the country. The electric road connecting St. Paul and Minneapolis, a dozen miles long, is the model electric road of the country. I noticed 175 fares "rung up" on one trip of the mammoth cars used on this road. Minneapolis covers all out doors, with an area sufficient to hold New York and Brooklyn, together with only one-fourteenth of the population. It is a handsome city, and electricity has made it possible for the business men to live in the country with abundance of elbow room, and still be only a few minutes, ride 'rom the busy streets. The falls at St. Anthony are still here, and wheat has made Minneapolis one of the gem cities of the world. Rev. Picasant Hunter, Jr., whose first field of usefulness was Palmer, is located here, and the clerk of his parish informs me that his church has over 1600 members, 75 being admitted a Sunday or two ago. The receipts of this church are $80,000 per annum, and a recent Sunday collection amounted to $8000. Mr. Hunter's pastorate is so successful that the church, located on one of the best corners on Nicollet avenue, is not large enough, and it is proposed to dispose of the site and build larger. The site is estimated to be worth $250,000. Palmer has given a number of preachers a good start. Dr. Eaton of New York is another successful divine whose first field was Palmer.

Warm weather isn't troubling this Minnesota country yet, and furs are not uncomfortable.

Returning to Chicago on the "cannon ball limited" of the famous Albert Lea route through Iowa, a model farming country, is passed. Northern and central Iowa and Illinois is fast becoming the garden spot of America. The farms are the richest soil in existence. Handsome horses, sleek cattle and valuable swine swarm over these broad acres. These farmers are prosperous, and now that they are get

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 2, 1893.

It is not probable that Dr. Graves will ever be tried again for the murder of Mrs. Barnaby at Denver, and he is out on $50,000 bail.

The body of Jefferson Davis has been removed this week to Richmond, Va., with military escort, salutes, etc. Large crowds visited the casket as it lay in state.

A Temporary injunction has been granted at Chicago restraining the managers of the World's Fair from closing it on Sunday, and a suit has been commenced to compel the closing of the gates. What the result will be remains to be seen.

There are rumors of another labor war in Pennsylvania this summer which possibly will eclipse that at Homestead last year. Employers of 100,000 men have given notice of a reduction of 20 per cent in wages, to go into effect the first of July, and the men will resist, it is said.

The almost daily reports of the cyclones, tornadoes and floods with which the South and West are visited each year during the summer season, with the suffering and death which accompanies them, should appeal strongly to northern people and make them grateful for the freedom from such visitations with which this section of the country is favored. During the past two weeks the storms in those sections have been unusually severe, causing much property loss and suffering.

Under the new law which went into effect in South Carolina yesterday the period of time mentioned in that traditional remark of the governor of North Carolina to the governor of South Carolina will be just twenty-four hours, unless they adjourn over the borders into some other state. The law provides for the sale of all intoxicants by the state dispensaries, and only one drink can be sold each day to the same person, who must sign his name to an application. From the view of the governor aforesaid there is one redeeming point, however, the "drink" may be as large as five gallons, though he must take it away from the place of sale.

The work of the Massachuaetts Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals is not confined to its own state, as is shown by the following, sent out by President Angell:—

Whereas, some 300 or more western cowboys propose to start on Sunday, June 25, from Chaldron, Neb., for a race of about 700 miles to Chicago for money, no man being allowed more than two horses, I do hereby offer, in behalf of the American humane education society and the Massachusetts society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, a prize, as may be preferred, of $100 in money or a gold medal costing that amount, to the man or woman who shall do the most to prevent this terrible race, which, if accomplished, will be, in the view of all humane people of the world, both Christian and heathen, a national disgrace.

Another murder, similar in many respects to that of Mr. and Mrs. Borden, was committed at Fall River Tuesday morning, the victim being Miss Bertha Manchester, 22, who lived with her father and brother on a farm on the outskirts of the city, and the head being crushed with an ax. Her father is a milk peddler, and with his son was absent on his rounds, returning in the afternoon to find the body of his daughter on the floor of the kitchen in a pool of blood with evidences of a hard struggle about. There is little on which to work in looking for the guilty person, though the murder was committed in broad daylight and in the neighborhood of other houses.

A Heavy blow at one class of pension frauds has been struck by the secretary of the interior in a decision which says that in order to get a disability pension the pensioner shall be "suffering from a mental or physical disability of a permanent character, not the result of his own vicious habits, which shall incapacitate him from the performance of manual labor in such a degree as to render him unable to earn a support. Under the previous custom a veteran suffering from any disability, no matter how slight or whether it interfered with his earning a living or not, could obtain a pension, but the new ruling holds that in order to receive the aid of the government his disability must be sufficient to prevent him from earning a living.

Bicycle prices took a tumble last Saturday, at least as far as the Warwick company of Springfield was concerned, when the price of their $150 machine was knocked to $85. There has been a feeling that the prices of these machines was out of all proportion to the cost of manufacture, and that the companies could well afford to lower the price and make up the loss in profits in increased sales. That sales would inevitably increase in such event is shown by the rush which has been made for the Warwick wheels, and whatever may have been the cause or whatever may be the effect on other manufacturers, the fact remains that hundreds of persons will now own one of these health-giving machines who were before unable to do so.

Many holders of certificates in the "busted" endowment orders have recently received postal cards from certain persons offering to buy their certificates for a mere nothing, the highest price offered being about $10. Insurance Commissioner Merrill strongly advises those holding certificates to keep them, as it is probable that much more than the sum offered will be realized on them. The purchasers know this, and taking advantage of the long wait since the concerns went into the hands of the receivers and the uncertainty of it all, word their offers so as to make certificate holders think that they may get nothing in the end, and had better take the small percentage offered than run the risk of getting more. Mr. Merrill says that four million dollars—the sum which these orders cost, about half of it stolen outright—is enough for any company of swindlers to take out of Massachusetts in four years. For example—the Royal Ark once had 18,000 members; 8500 received $100 each for from $42 to $72 paid in; 7000 lapsed and received nothing; there are 3013 good claims against the concern, and the holders will receive 5½ per cent of the amount they have paid in, or from 22 cents to $3.85 each.

Prof. Clarence D. Warren of the Massachusetts agricultural college will accompany Lieut Peary on his second expedition to the North. He will act as meterologist and be second in command, with the title of Second Lieutenant.

J. G. Potter, 55, of Florence, a Grand Army veteran, was killed while walking on the railroad Tuesday evening. He had taken part in the memorial exercises at Northampton during the day.

A train conveying Walter Main's circus was wrecked on a Pennsylvania road Tuesday, and five persons were killed and ten wounded.

Mrs. Marie Nevins-Blaine, the divorced wife of James G. Blaine, Jr., was married to Dr. W. T. Bull at New York Tuesday.

Henry Heath, one of the leading business men of Huntington, committed suicide by shooting himself Tuesday afternoon.

C. J. Aldrich's shoddy mill in the northern part of Spencer was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon.

A fire in a wooden district in New Bedford caused a loss of $70,000 last Sunday.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Fresh bread every day at Smith & Co's.

New potatoes, spring lamb and string beans at Thompson's Central Street Market.

You can buy one or both of those two building lots on Knox street at a less figure than you would take were you the owner. Apply to W. R. Milligan.

Have a pneumatic-tired safety bicycle, but little used, for sale cheap. F. D. Barton, the Jeweler.

Your opportunity. Don't spend all your days as a clerk when you can step into an established business like Milligan's shoe store for the small amount of capital required and be your own employer.

New potatoes, green peas, string beans, cucumbers, spinach and dandelions. Truesdell & Brown.

Milligan's going-out-of-business sale of boots and shoes is an event that will probably never occur in Palmer again. See to it that you get your share of the many bargains offered. Draw a few dollars from the bank, if necessary.

PALMER NEWS.

The Observance of Memorial Day.

Clear skies and an absence of rain did much to make the observance of the day enjoyable, and the exercises passed off satisfactorily, the only hitch being the non-arrival of the band on time, occasioned by a wreck on the railroad delaying the train, teams being used to bring the musicians from Monson. However, the start was not long delayed. The Grand Army post formed at the quarters on Central street, and preceded by the Monson band and escorted by the military company of boys from the state primary school marched through Main street to the Point of Rocks, where carriages were taken for the other villages. At the cemetery in Three Rivers Rev. Mr. Moulton offered prayer, Rev. Mr. Blanchard at the Four Corners cemetery, and Rev. Mr. Jenkins at the one in this village. A quartette composed of E. B. Taylor, W. A. Weld, C. H. Clark and A. S. Campbell sang at each cemetery, and in the hall for the exercises of the afternoon. After the graves in this village had been deorated the company marched to the memorial hall, where the participants in the parade sat down to a dinner served by the Woman's Relief Corps, about 120 being served. After dinner came the address of the day by James L. Bowen of Springfield, which will be found in full on the fifth page. The sermon by Rev. Mr. Moulton to the post will be found on the sixth page.

The Masons to Have a Hall of Their Own.

For several years the Masonic orders have been endeavoring to secure quarters which should be more convenient than those occupied by them, and many plans have been suggested, only to be abandoned for one cause or another. The scheme seems probable of fulfillment at last, however, as at the last meeting of the order it was voted to purchase the block of W. H. Hitchcock on Central street for that purpose. A second story will be added, giving ample space for lodge, regalia and banquet rooms and kitchen, all well lighted, airy and arranged to suit the needs of the order.

James Stevens has a position at the Weeks House.

Ethel, daughter of L. W. Caryl, has the measles.

Mrs. H. Atkins has returned from a visit at Boston.

The watering cart started on its rounds Tuesday.

J. C. Burnham has bought the Stevens house at Tenneyville.

G. E. Buck has returned from his fishing trip in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. S. C. Hunt is building an addition to her house on Pine street.

Mrs. A. M. Smith and daughter Effie spent Memorial Day in Holden.

S. H. Hellyar is building a barn on his Thorndike street property.

S. H. Hellyar & Co. have new awnings over their store windows.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cady will leave for the World's Fair about the 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Knox spent Memorial Day with friends in Holyoke.

C. L. Alexander has been appointed a special police by the selectmen.

W. R. Milligan offers two building lots on Knox street for sale at low prices.

Mrs. Bertha Hyde of Gardner is the guest of her brother, Dr. G. H. Wilkins.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hills have returned from their trip to the World's Fair.

The selectmen will meet next Monday for the regular monthly payment of bills.

Miss Elsie Loomis of Ashland has been visiting the family of Rev. S. T. Frost.

Miss Ruth Willis came home from Wellesley Saturday, returning Tuesday night.

C. G. Gardner attended the banquet of Beta Theta Pi at Amherst Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Lou French of New Haven spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Albert Loomis.

Mrs. S. D. Thorpe of Northampton was the guest of Mrs. E. N. Fay the past week.

John Smith has left the Converse House and is now employed at the Nassowanno hotel.

G. M. Atkins and E. W. Burns are riding Warwick bicycles, purchased of F. D. Barton.

Mrs. F. D. Barton and children spent the first of the week with friends in Stafford Springs.

W. C. Dewey has moved his family to Springfield, where he has taken a house for the present.

Mr. Page is building extensive greenhouses in the rear of Andrew Pinney's house on Maple street.

Miss Clara Watson was made a surprise visit last Friday evening by about 30 of her young friends.

The carpet mill did not start until Wednesday of this week, giving the employes a two-days' vacation.

Mrs. Oliver Thompson of Fitchburg, formerly of Palmer, visited friends in town Memorial Day.

W. E. Breckenridge, who graduates this month from Yale, will teach next year at Newberg, N. Y.

A number of Palmer people attended the convention of the Home Missionary society at Westfield to-day.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Baptist church will have a strawberry festival next Friday evening.

A. N. Southwick of Boston was the guest of his brother-in-law, G. F. Sedgwick, a few days the first of the week.

Daniel Manning is officiating as clerk at the Converse House during the absence of James Fenton at Chicago.

Dunton has opened a bakery and lunch room in one of H. W. Munger's buildings on South Main street.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church cleared about $25 by its Scotch Evening last Friday night.

Rev. E. A. Perry of Fort Plain, N. Y., formerly pastor of the Universalist church here, was in town Tuesday.

C. Julian Tuthill has accepted the call to the church at Saylesville, R. I., mentioned in these columns a few weeks ago.

A gang of men was employed all day Sunday at the passenger station putting in new ties for the Boston and Albany road.

O. L. Slader of Providence, R. I., formerly proprietor of the depot dining rooms, was in town Wednesday, calling on old friends.

The crowd at Forest Lake Tuesday was a large one for the opening day, showing that this resort has lost none of its popularity.

F. D. Barton has sold his house on the corner of Squier street and Highland avenue to Mrs. Minnie McGregory of Springfield.

The work of preparing the hat shop buildings for Rogers & Osgood of Barre, who are to move here this summer, has commenced.

Mrs. L. B. Fish and Mrs. C. P. Stone of Springfield, former residents of this place, were in town Memorial Day, calling on friends.

A meeting of the committee appointed to look after the preservation of shade trees is called at the court room next Tuesday evening at 7.30.

A handsome oak bookcase has been placed in the study of the Congregational church parsonage, the gift of a few of the ladies of the church.

About 25 members of Thomas Lodge of Masons went to Ware Wednesday evening to take part in the exemplification of the work of the order.

Rev. H. F. Moulton, G. C. Stanchfield and Edwin Brooks were delegates to the convention of the Universalist Y. P. S. C. E. at Worcester to-day.

The examinations for admission to the high school will be held in the grammar school building in this village on the 19th and 20th of this month.

Henry Day has left his position as clerk at Robinson & Taylor's and returned to his father's farm in Wilbraham. He is succeeded by Daniel Buskey of Three Rivers.

William Roach of this place will graduate June 30th from Childs's Business College at Springfield, and will have a position with the R. F. Hawkins Iron Works of that city.

A number of Palmer people attended the entertainment given by the children at the state primary school Tuesday evening by invitation of the superintendent, Mr. Wheeler.

Misses Effie and Anna Shaw left yesterday for the World's Fair, intending to stop a few days in Washington on the way and also on their return. They will be gone three or four weeks.

A hearing was held in the district court Monday in the matter of the liquor seizure at C. Consigny's at Three Rivers some weeks ago, and the stuff ordered forfeited to the commonwealth.

Only one of the Boston and Albany's tracks between this station and North Wilbraham was in use Wednesday, as the stringers for the bridge at Butler's crossing were being put in.

At the Baptist church Sabbath morning the pastor will preach on "The Lord's Supper, its Object and its Subjects." The evening service will be a prayer meeting. Subject, Matt. 25: 31-46.

In the examinations at Springfield last Saturday for recommendation to the appointment to West Point, C. J. King of South Amherst was the successful applicant, with R. W. Drury of Athol second.

Principal Knox of the high school has received an official notice from Amhest College that scholars from the Palmer high school will be admitted to the college upon certificate without examination.

D. W. Northrop of Boston, son of A. J. Northrop of this place, has purchased an elegant residence in Brookline. The house has 12 rooms and there is about 18,000 feet of land. The price paid was about $15,000.

The Boston and Albany road has decided that it will not stop the 6.06 train for New York at Palmer Sunday nights nor the trains from that city, as the train which precedes the former and follows the latter are scheduled to stop.

W. J. Keith has been confined to his room most of the time since last Saturday by a badly-swelled hand, having been bitten by some insect on that day, blood poisoning ensuing. The hand swelled to nearly twice its natural size.

The American Express Company has established a money order office with R. J. Henry, the opera house shoe dealer, where persons can get money orders without the trouble of going to the office of the company at the railroad station.

The drop in the price of the Warwick bicycles from $150 to $85 last Saturday has resulted in the sale of about 20 of those wheels in this village, and doubtless others will follow. It is almost impossible for the dealers in other makes to make a sale.

Mrs. J. M. Converse, Mrs. L. M. Burleigh, Mrs. L. M. Shaw, J. F. Fenton and Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard Lawrence started Tuesday evening for the World's Fair. The party will be gone about a month, and will stop at the Christian Endeavor hotel.

Hitchcock & Blanchard have the contract to do the plumbing in the new house which the Thorndike Company is building for its agent at Thorndike. They also have the contract to do the slating on the new barn of the W. N. Flynt Granite Co. at Monson.

A number of people in Palmer, Monson and Warren have received invitations to the wedding the 14th, at Saginaw, Mich., of Miss May Converse, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Converse, former residents of Palmer, to F. C. Roberts, of that city.

Monday morning a high mass was sung at St. Thomas's Catholic church im memory of the late Rt. Rev. P. T. O'Reilly. Tuesday at 8 a. m. a requiem mass in memory of the dead soldiers was sung, the attendance being large. Mass next Sunday will be at 9 a. m.

J. Pinkoffsky has made arrngements with A. E. Fitch whereby all claims against the former will be settled by the latter. Pinkoffsky is to forward from Boston a certain amount each week for that purpose, and all claims should be left with Mr. Fitch at once.

Thomas Ashton, who has been an inmate of the town farm for six or seven years, being somewhat insane, died last Friday. His wife has taken the remains to Rhode Island for burial, and reimbursed the overseers of the poor for the funeral expenses.

A meeting will be held in the Masonic rooms next Wednesday evening for the purpose of conferring the degree of the Eastern Star on the 40 or 50 candidates who are to apply for a charter here. Members of the Adelph chapter of Springfield will confer the degree.

The marriage of Miss Helen L. Cobb, until recently a teacher in the high school, and Luther B. Goldthwaite of Alameda, Cal., will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Congregational church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Jenkins. All friends are invited to attend.

Prosecuting Officer Houston, assisted by Constable Griffin and Special Officer Thomas, made a raid Sunday on Michael St. John of Palmer Center and found a gallon and a half of whisky in a jug and bottle in the pantry. There will be a hearing in the matter the fourth Monday of this month in the district court.

Judge Robinson goes to-morrow to Minneapolis as the delegate of the Grand Council of Massachusetts to the meeting of the Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum at that city, which meets next Thursday. After the meeting his daughter, Miss Helen, will meet him in Chicago, and they will visit the World's Fair.

Much might be done to improve the appearance of the streets of the village and make pedestrianism more enjoyable by trimming up the trees in certain localities where the branches now hang so low that a person can hardly pass on the sidewalk without coming in contact with them in dry weather, the nuisance being much greater in rainy times.

On account of a freight wreck on the New London Northern road at South Coventry Tuesday morning the train from the south did not get in until 10.57, nearly two hours late. The Monson band, which was to play for the Memorial Day exercises here, was obliged to come by team, the start of the procession being slightly hindered by the delay.

An entertainment consisting of a lecture upon Japan, illustrated by colored views, will be given in the Baptist church next Monday evening by Rev. O. C. Sargent. A collection will be taken to defray expenses. The Ladies' Mission Circle, under whose auspices the lecture is given, will serve ice cream and cake before and after the entertainment.

A horse owned by J. F. Loftus of Thorndike and driven by John Casey became frightened on North Main street Monday evening at a horse and bicyclist which were racing, and turning around started to run. The carriage was tipped over and the four women occupants thrown out, but they received no more serious damage than a shaking up.

Mrs. E. Brown has received word of the death of her sister, Mrs. S. S. Johnson of San Diego, Cal., at Trinidad, Col., Tuesday, while on a train on her way east. Her son is sheriff of Essex county and has been sick all winter, and it is supposed that she was on her way to him. Mrs. Johnson was in Palmer last fall, and many people here will remember her. She was 82 years of age.

The following from one of the Waterville, Me., papers, concerning Cyrus Stimson of this place, in connection with the presentation of the comedy of "The Rivals" at that place May 23d, will interest his friends here: "The bright particular star of the evening was Mr. Stimson, and his rendition of the irate and violent Sir Anthony, always working himself into a fury, would have done credit to almost any stage." Mr. Stimson graduates from Colby College this year.

The school committee will hold a meeting next Thursday evening for the appointment of teachers for the fall term of the school. At that time the principal of the high schools is to present a report of the efficiency and standing of each scholar in the three junior classes, and those who do not come up to the standard will be compelled to make up the deficiency before being promoted. The subcommittee on rules held a meeting at the residence of Rev. W. H. Hart last evening.

The thick ice of last winter got down to the strainer which surrounds the entrance to the mains of the Palmer Water Company at the reservoir, and damaged it so badly that the water in the reservoir must be drawn off to make repairs. The upper reservoir will be drawn off and cleared out, then refilled and connected with the main pipe while the strainer is being repaired. In making the change it is expected to have to shut the water off one day, but due notice will be given.

A good story is told of one of Palmer's business men whom no one would suspect of an attempt at horse stealing. He drove his horse up in front of the post office the other day and went inside for his mail. Before his return another business man drove up between his carriage and the sidewalk. The first comer soon came out deeply engaged in the contents of a letter, climbed into the nearest carriage and started to drive off, but was hailed by the owner of the team, who objected to swapping horses on those terms and without being consulted in the matter. It is not thought that any arrests will be made.

The contract for furnishing the schools with coal was given J. F. Holbrook on condition that he furnish with each load a certificate of its weight. It seems that there is on the statute books a law that in sales of over 100 pounds of coal the seller shall furnish a certificate of weight, the weigher to be a person appointed by the selectmen or aldermen, and sworn to the faithful performance of his duty; and in cases where it is requested the weigher shall be a person not in the coal business. There is a penalty for each neglect to comply with the law. It might be interesting to Palmer people to know who the sworn weighers are in this town.

The county commissioners visited Palmer Wednesday and viewed that section of the Wilbraham road which lies across the flat north of the bridge over the Quaboag in this town. Every spring the road is rendered impassable at times by the high water and ice, and the petitioners wished the commissioners to take some action toward remedying the trouble. It was thought that by raising the highway about three feet the trouble would be avoided, and this the selectmen expressed a willingness to do, in which event the commissioners decided to delay action on the petition, awaiting the result. It is thought that with the new dam of the Palmer and Monson Electric Company at Blanchardville there will be little trouble from ice in the future.

John Sullivan of Holyoke, Loriston Moulton of Stafford and John McDermott of North Monson were probated yesterday until the 30th of this month for drunkenness. This morning Alexander Gibbons of Monson was probated until the 30th for drunkenness. Bridget Chamberlain had her case of drunkenness continued until to-morrow. She had been sent out last night for a can of beer, but the temptation was too much and she disposed of the drink before her return, and as a consequence fell down a 10-foot wall on her way back. Charles M. Jones of Three Rivers was fined $10 for disturbing the peace and placed under $200 bonds to behave himself for six months. He was also charged with an assault on Henry Ferrill yesterday in the mill at that place, having struck him with his fist and then attacked him with an oil can. Later he drew a knife on him outside of the mill. He pleaded not guilty.

State Primary School Notes.

George Adams is taking a vacation of three or four days in the eastern part of the state.

The schools closed Monday so that the teachers could attend the convention at Springfield.

Memorial Day, 1893, at the state primary school will not soon be forgotten, for it was probably one of the pleasantest and certainly the most enjoyable day in recent years. A company of the boys did escort duty to L. L. Merrick Post, G. A. R., of Palmer, and did credit to themselves, their instructor Mr. Wetmore, and the school. Mr. Wetmore had about two weeks to drill them in the necessary movements, and their positions and marching that day showed that he had given a great deal of time and attention to them. The exercises at the school began in the morning by the firing of a salute of five guns. Mr. Wheeler promised the children that, but he was obliged to take a very early ride that morning to keep his promise, for late the evening before it was found that the cannon loaned last fall for election purposes had not been brought back. But he returned in time, and the boys had their salute. Immediately after breakfast the line was formed and the boys marched to the carriages, being then taken to the memorial hall to await the moving of the post. They escorted the post while they decorated the graves in the different cemeteries, took dinner with the Grand Army, and then attended the exercises at the hall. Returning to the school they were met by Mr. Wheeler and given a treat. At sunset a salute of five guns was the closing of the exercises of the evening, which consisted of a Memorial Day service given in the chapel with the following programme:

Song, "Red, White and Blue".....School
Recitation.....Willie Smith
Recitation, "Bring the Sweet Flowers"....
Patrick Brady, Patrick Delaney
Recitation, "Our Native Land".....Harry Whiston
Song, "Our Native Land".....School
Recitation, "Memorial Flowers".....Four Boys
Recitation, "Mustered Out".....John Finnegan
Recitation, "Unknown Graves".....
Clarence Swanburg
Song, "Marching Thro' Georgia".....School
Remarks by H. H. Paine.....
Song, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching".....School
Remarks by Dr. William Holbrook.....
Remarks by Mr. Wheeler.....
Prayer.....
Song, "America".....

Editor of the Journal:—It is an interesting fact that journalism has made many rapid strides during the present century, but when one considers the news of the Palmer Herald it must once more be admitted that there are exceptions to every rule. Can it be possible that its readers will fully appreciate the glowing account of the exercises of Memorial Day published in its last issue? We would be very sorry if we thought there was another periodical in the state that could not devote more than two inches of space in describing to its readers how the day was observed in its own town or city. From the item contained in the Herald one might think that Palmer was not a very patriotic town, but the L. L. Merrick Post 107 and the G. A. R. hall would be a credit to a town of many times its population. The once noble (?) paper does not even give the Woman's Relief Corps the credit of having served dinner to the veterans after they returned from decorating the graves at the different cemeteries, but simply remarks that they served dinner, and that "several of the inmates of the state primary school dined at the hall." I am sure it would have added to the valuable information the writer wished to impart had he named the inmates to whom he referred. It is true that Supt. Walter A. Wheeler and wife were honored guests of the Post. It is also true that the military company of the school and the officer in charge were honored with a special invitation to participate in the exercises of the day, as guests of the Post, and after the marching and decorating were concluded sat down to partake of the rich repast provided by the Woman's Relief Corps. Surely it cannot be that it was for this reason that the writer of the Herald item displayed so much ignorance in so small a space. It is to be hoped that should the Herald continue to live until another 30th of May it will have respect enough for its readers to report the exercises of so memorable a day it their right light. Justice.

BONDSVILLE.

Jerry Shea has opened a meat market in his block.

Michael Collins's little girl is very sick with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgan spent Sunday with friends in Ware.

Miss May Martin has gone home to Westfield until school opens again.

The friends of Thomas Kirk are congratulating him on the advent of a girl baby.

Richie Russell of Indian Orchard spent Memorial Day with his father and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Storrs of Springfield are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Shaw.

Amos Slate of Springfield is taking a vacation, and is here this week visiting friends.

John Richards went to Fitchburg as a delegate to the Foresters' convention last week.

Harry Sedgwick sings in the M. E. church choir in the place of Dr. Auger, who has resigned.

Miss Cora Carver of Northampton was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Shaw over Sunday.

The schools closed Wednesday night for the rest of the week on account of the measles.

The ladies of the M. E. society gave a strawberry festival Wednesday evening and took in $15.

Fred Gegenheimer returned home from Millbury Tuesday, where he had been visiting for a few days.

Harry Sedgwick went to his home in Athol to visit his parents Monday, and returned Wednesday night.

Miss Edith Hobson was the recipient of a gold watch and chain Tuesday as a graduation day present from her father.

The little village of Bondsville in Palmer bought seven Warwick bicycles on Friday and Saturday.—Springfield Republican.

John Fitzgerald and Miss Katie Fitzgerald, with Miss Kennedy of Springfield, were the guests of their cousin, Miss Mary Woods, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Childs of Clinton, who formerly lived here, have been visiting Mrs. Mary Clark, Mr. Childs's sister, this last week. They are taking a carriage ride and calling on friends in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

The bicycle fever has struck the village hard, and seven new wheels were bought last Friday and Saturday. Among others Charles Armstrong and Wallie Knowlton have Warwicks, and Harry and Leon Ryther each a New Mail.

The Warren ball team played here Tuesday with the Bondsvilles, defeating them by a score of 12 to 10. During the game the Bondsville drum corps and the orchestra from Springfield gave a concert, and refreshments were served on the grounds.

Memorial Day was too much for some residents; it took them all the next day to get straightened out. Two of the weavers in the mill got so thirsty that they climbed out of the weave room window and went down the track to the hotel to quench their thirst. One came back to work, but the other did not show up again that day, while the one who did return did not stay long; he went out so quick that he thought there must be a small earthquake around.

THORNDIKE.

Miss Russell of Fitchburg is visiting friends in town.

William Smith, Jr., moved his family to Palmer this week.

Mr. Munson, from the West is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Murdock for a few days.

William Carroll, formerly of this place now of Colorado, is visiting friends in town.

William J. McCormick, who has been very ill during the past week, is now recovering.

Miss Maggie Joyce of South Hadley is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Loftus for a few days.

Mr. Shields returned on Wednesday after spending a few days with his family in Pittsfield.

Miss Mary Flynn returned on Saturday from Millbury, where she had been for two weeks.

Michael Riley is very ill at the residence of Morrieli Prescott with inflammation of the bowels.

Dentist Flynn, after spending a few days in town, returned to Pittsfield Saturday evening.

Mrs. Edward Lyons of Springfield is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Riley, for a few days.

Rufus Knowlton of Connecticut is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bishop and Mrs. D. B. Bishop.

Miss Minnie Bennet of West Warren spent part of the week in town as the guest of the Misses Hartnett.

The Drum Corps has organized a ball team and would like to hear from clubs in the neighboring towns.

Rev. C. H. Hanks of Springfield, formerly of Thorndike, was in town Monday, visiting for a few hours with friends.

A number from this village attended the entertainment given at St. Anne's church in Three Rivers Tuesday evening.

The Columbian Band gave an out-door concert Thursday evening, which was listened to by a large number of people.

William Whiting has moved from this place to Bondsville, where he will continue in the livery business the same as heretofore.

Misses Mary and Lucy Nolan of Ware spent part of the week in town, the guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. McCormick.

Mrs. Albert Akers, who died in Ware on the 23d and was buried last week, was well known in this village, having lived here many years.

Cornelius Leary and wife have moved to the village again, and are living in their Church street residence, formerly occupied by William Whiting.

The Foresters of Court Hampden from this place attended in a body the picnic at Bondsville on Tuesday, and made a very creditable appearance in the parade.

Edward McKnight and John Moran of Spencer were in town on Saturday, spending the day with their parents. John Moran was home from Hartford, Conn.

The King's Daughters will have a strawberry supper in the vestry of the Congregational church next Tuesday evening. All are cordially invited to be present.

New windows are being cut in the lower room of the brick part of the No. 1 mill, which will let more light into the room, and when finished will be a great improvement.

Mrs. Joseph Naylor has gone to Pittsfield, nursing, under Dr. Waite of that city, having sold the grass land and rented the old homestead in Palmer Center to out-of-town parties.

The exercises given by the schools last week in commemoration of Memorial Day were well attended and the programme well rendered, reflecting much credit upon the teachers and scholars.

The entertainment given in the Congregational church by the Daughters of Ruth on Friday evening of last week was a grand success financially and otherwise. The participants appeared in old-fashioned costumes.

The wedding of Bartholomew Sullivan and Miss Minnie Ronan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ronan of Church street, will take place next Tuesday at St. Mary's Catholic church. The ceremony will be preformed by the pastor, Rev. F. J. Lynch.

The game of ball between the Bondsville and Thorndike grammar school teams did not take place on Friday last, owing to the fact that several of the Bondsville players were sick with the measles. The club expects to play the Palmers at Palmer tomorrow.

Memorial Day passed off very pleasantly, with nothing to mar the occasion. All the flags in town were hung at half mast, and many of the people attended the exercises at Palmer. Some attended the attractions at Forest Lake, while others went to Bondsville to the picnic.

THREE RIVERS.

F. A. Ruggles spent a few days this week in Hardwick.

H. M. Allen moved into Franklin Barker's new tenement yesterday.

Miss Carrie Johnston spent a few days in Amherst during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt of New Bedford are the guests of Mrs. Durand.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Percy spent Memorial Day in Ware with relatives.

H. Bliss of Collinsville, Ct., visited his son, Dr. Wilber Bliss, Wednesday.

Mrs. Hills of Palmer has been the guest of Mrs. Avery Green for a week.

Mrs. N. A. Coles is spending a few days at Worthington, among relatives.

Miss Abbie Barton of Palmer spent Memorial Day with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Talbert visited friends in Springfield and Boston during this week.

Mrs. Charles Hillman visited friends in Belchertown and Enfield Memorial Day.

Miss Rosa Blanchet and Miss Mattie Goshen spent Memorial Day in Holyoke.

Mr. McInness of Amherst College supplied the pulpit of the Baptist church last Sunday.

Miss Clara Green spent a few days during the week at the home of her parents in Brimfield.

Moses Teggart of Springfield, a former resident here, made a flying visit to town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Forte were called to West Newton this week by the death of a relative.

Edson Walker has moved his family to Palmer, where he is engaged in business at present.

F. E. Webb and family of Springfield spent Memorial Day with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Warriner.

Charles Ruggles and Louis Barker attended the Masonic meeting at Ware Wednesday night.

Several persons in this place purchased Warwick bicycles at the clearance sale in Springfield last week.

H. N. Cross, principal of the grammar school, has been called to Gouldsville, Vt., by the illness of his father.

Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Butler and several others are attending the missionary convention at Saratoga this week.

The ball game between the overseers of this place and Ware has been postponed until a week from to-morrow.

Charles Clark intends to take a trip to the World's Fair, to be gone about three weeks, leaving here the latter part of July.

Mrs. Heman Fish, who has been spending three weeks in Boston and Lowell, is expected to return the first of next week.

Two Italians are preparing an apartment in N. K. Rogers's block on Main street, where they intend to open a fruit stand.

Mrs. E. Milliken, a former resident of this place, now of New Hampshire, spent a few days the beginning of this week with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Buskey are about to leave this place and move to Palmer, where Mr. Buskey has a position in Robinson & Taylor's store.

J. J. Carroll, who has been quite ill for several weeks, has recovered sufficiently to attend to his duties as second-hand of the carding room in the mill.

After a four-years' stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burlingame, Mrs. Strickland, with her husband and children, will soon go to housekeeping in Livonia, N. Y.

Thomas Ashton, a former resident here, and brother of Mrs. Rossbottom, who died recently at this place, was buried at the Catholic cemetery in Palmer this week.

Mrs. David Milliken of Lowell spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs Charles Murdock, returning to her home yesterday, in company with Mrs. Orcutt of Baptist Hill, who is to be her guest at Lowell for several days.

Felix Mason, a boy about fifteen years of age, had his hand so badly injured in the spinning room of the mill Wednesday that amputation of four fingers of his right hand was necessary. Dr. Holbrook of Palmer performed the operation.

The cemetery at Four Corners was profusely decorated with flowers and other emblems of respect to the departed soldiers on Memorial Day. The procession was about as large as in preceding years, the only deficiency apparent being in the service rendered by the band. Many of the citizens and old soldiers who live along the usual route of the procession, and who hoisted flags for the occasion, felt injured when those tokens of patriotism were wholly ignored by the musical part of the company.

Last Friday afternoon, while a company of local bicyclists were taking an outing, two of them received injuries which could not be called slight. As James Trickett and Harry Newell were riding in close proximity Mr. Trickett dropped something from his wheel and turned around short in order to recover the article, and being unaware that any of the others were so near to him had no time for second thought till Harry Newell struck him at right angles, and as they were riding fast the hardness of heads and the pachydermic qualities of shins were tested. Both wheels were badly damaged, Newell's so badly that he had to send it to Springfield for repairs.

A company of ten local wheelmen made arrangments to ride to Springfield on Memorial Day, but when the time for starting arrived F. W. Lavene, James Trickett and Mr. Allen were the only ones to report. They started from the Company's office at exactly 6 o'clock a. m., and rode to Court Square in Springfield, making the distance, 16½ miles, in 64 minutes. Mr. Lavene's watch was seen by parties here as the riders left, and was also seen by persons in Springfield when they got there, so that no mistake in the time was possible. The most amusing feature of the race was that Mr. Nichols, who intended to be one of the company on that journey, declined to start when the others did, as he wished to hadicap himself from ten to fifteen minutes, and accordingly left in about that time after the trio, his plan being to go another road, as he thought unknown to them, which is somewhat longer but more level than the regular route. Although he failed to make the distance in the time the others did, he asserts that his record is 66 minutes 10½ seconds, but the first three riders say that they did not see him for at least 25 minutes after they got there. In any event Mr. Nichols has proved his powers of endurance, as he rode back to this place and sought some one to race with him to the city again, in order to lower the 64 minute time. Finding no one who dared attempt it he went in on the 5 o'clock train and tried to find his competitors, Lavene, Trickett and Allen, but they had started for home before then, so he gave them chase from the city here, but failed to catch them.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

Boston, May 31, 1893.

The fate of the proposed union station at the north end of Boston was so utterly destructive that this quotation might well be applied to this much-elaborated bill:

"Since so soon I'm done for,
I wonder what I was begun for."

The vote, after over a day of talk, was two senators for the bill and 30 against it, and one pair. The two were the chairman of the committee which reported it, and one of the members of the treasury committee which a hearing on it—Senators Kittredge of Suffolk and Stevens of Worcester, respectively.

The bill to levy a tax on direct inheritances has been ruled out of order by President Pinkerton of the Senate on the ground that it was a money bill, and money bills must originate in the House.

Last year one of the prominent graduates at Amherst College was a colored man named Lewis. He entered Harvard Law School in the fall, and soon became, as he was in Amherst, one of the popular men of the class. Lately a barber has refused to serve him, basing his discrimination on Lewis's complexion. His student friends have raised a stir about it and the matter has been brought to the Legislature, where it is proposed to amend the law of 1885 so as to include barbers' shops and other places which are kept open to render service for hire or reward. This law was passed at the time of the skating rink craze, when a proprietor in Boston refused to admit a colored person to his rink. Lewis was on the floor of the House when the matter was presented. He is an unusually athletic and brainy looking man, of no darker complexion than many who pass for white. He is not at all of the Ethiopian type, and looks as if he had as much white as dark blood in his veins.

After the most stubborn opposition the Senate has finally voted by 15 to 10 in favor of the bill to permit the use of the McTammany voting machine in any town where the selectmen vote that it may be used.

It takes a bright man to steer clear of jealousies among the members, and so it is that the members of the Senate and House who will go to Chicago to represent the state on Massachusetts day, June 17, have not been announced. Yet is said that they have been selected and have been notified privately. Those who have applied for a chance to go—and rumor puts the number at 142 in the House alone—but who have not received an answer to their application, do not know that they are shut out. Hence it is evident that the presiding officer who would keep the peace will not announce the committee till quite late in the session.

The House has adopted, with only one dissenting vote, a resolution urging our members of Congress to use their influence for a modification of the Geary law so that it will not work injustice to citizens of China residents in this country. The resolution was offered by Mr. Rivers of Milton, and

The Journal.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 2, 1893.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

MONSON.

L. F. Fossy of Brockton was in town this week.

Edward White spent last Sunday with his parents.

James Gordon of Hampden was in town this week.

George W. Bardick is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Miss Joanna Leary is home from Westfield Normal School.

Frank Bradway of Meriden, Ct., was in town over Tuesday.

George Newton has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Morris have returned from the World's Fair.

W. T. Hughes of Willimantic, Ct., spent Memorial Day in town.

Rev. F. S. Hatch has been in Hartford two or three days this week.

Thomas Sault began peddling ice for Herbert Smith last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Flynt are at Saratoga Springs for a month's stay.

Rufus Stebbins, of the School of Physical Culture in Boston, is in town.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wyle have guests from Gilbertville and Stafford.

John Kershaw has moved into Mahlon Cushman's house on Pearl street.

Senator S. F. Cushman is slowly recovering from his recent severe illness.

Mrs. Juliet Needham spent a couple of days this week in Manchester, Ct.

Rogers and Co's. horse "Dick" has been sick with pneumonia, but is better.

Johnnie Nelligan has purchased a "Fleetwing" bicycle of Charles R. Buffington.

Mrs. Harriet Nelson has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. C. B. Jones, this week.

S. S. Swett, one of the Grand Army veterans, is confined to his house by illness.

Dr. George E. Fuller is building a fence between his property and Calvin Pease's.

Master Dwight Ellis has been confined to the house for a few days with a severe cold.

A very enjoyable dance was held on Flynt's Park last evening, many being present.

Joseph Mumford has moved from Pearl street to the Johnson Stacy farm on East Hill.

Miss Mabelle Flynt of Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Ct., has been at home this week.

Nearly all the manufactories shut down for Memorial Day, though some ran a part of the day.

Mrs. Levina Reynolds Pomeroy and son of San Jose, Cal., are the guests of Miss Esther Holmes.

The school committee will meet in Memorial Hall this evening to transact important business.

Rev. D. W. Ferry of Stuyvesant, N. Y., occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church last Sunday.

Tyler Smith injured his foot quite badly Sunday morning by stepping on a rusty nail, but is out again.

Mrs. Henry Moore and Mrs. Arthur Moore of Springfield spent Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Stebbins.

Miss Helen Thresher has returned home from the South, where she has been teaching for the past year.

Mrs. E. F. Morris and Miss Louise Morris left Monday for the World's Fair, going on one of the Cook tours.

John Lewis has put a curbing in front of Harrison Howe's and Edward Pease's houses on Washington street.

William Bugee, his son Nelson and grandson George went trouting Memorial Day and caught ninety-one.

Johnson Stacy has removed the fence from around his premises, thereby greatly improving their appearance.

Solomon Squier has returned from the World's Fair. He reports having dined with the Turks and Laplanders.

Frank Blanchard, who has been with Dr. Greene of Nervura fame, is home for a few months' stay on his father's farm.

The selectmen have replanked the Reynolds bridge, and will next give their attention to the bridge at Ellis's mill.

Miss Hannah Brunswick and James Grogru were married in St. Patrick's church last Wednesday evening at 5.30 o'clock.

Frank Holmes of Somersville, Ct., spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Olive Holmes. He goes to the World's Fair June 8th.

Wednesday was visiting day at the new bank block, and many availed themselves of this opportunity to see the fine building.

A number of the shopmates of Tyler Smith gave him a purse of about $15 last Friday, the occasion being his seventieth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alanson N. Chaffee took a carriage ride to Springfield Thursday, to visit Mrs. Chaffee's sister, Mrs. L. S. Munn.

Charles R. Buffington, Fred R. Bradway, Ralph Clifford, Charles Darling and others attended the Masonic gathering at Ware Wednesday.

C. A. Nordstrom of North Wilbraham, who is doing the work in G. L. Fuller's shoe repair shop, has moved into W. G. Meacham's house.

G. M. Converse of the Academy spent the short recess in Springfield as the guest of H. L. Smith, who is training those entered for the athletic meet.

Charles May of North Brookfield will have charge of the bakery cart run by H. N. Butler while Mr. McNulty, the present driver, visits the World's Fair.

The poem written by Mrs. C. G. Thompson for Memorial Day, dedicated to Marcus Keep post of the Grand Army, will be found on the fifth page of this paper.

The W. N. Flynt Granite Co. announces in another column that they will deliver rubble stone, suitable for cellar walls, at 50 cents per ton, the former price at the quarry.

Rev. George L. Walker of Hartford will preach the annual baccalaureate sermon before the senior class of the Academy in the Congregational church Sunday, June 18th, at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Welcome Converse, who spent the past winter in Rochester and Brooklyn, with her daughters, and who attended the World's Fair during the month of May, has returned for the summer.

The Young People's Christian Union chose the following persons as delegates from the Universalist church to the annual convention at Worcester to-day: Miss Lena Babbitt, Miss Grace Blackford, C. W. King, W. L. Ricketts, H. T. Chapin.

The following officers of the Monson Savings Bank were elected Wednesday morning: President, Edward F. Morris; vice presidents, Rice M. Reynolds and Daniel G. Potter; clerk, Frank E. Morris; trustees, Solomon F. Cushman, Rice M. Reynolds, Edward F. Morris, Daniel G. Potter, Frank E. Morris, Alvin A. Gage, Arthur D. Norcross, Lyman C. Flynt, Gilbert W. Farrington, George H. Foskit, Purline W. Soule, Fred W. Ellis and Edward D. Cushman. At a subsequent meeting of the trustees, Rice M. Reynolds and Lyman C. Flynt were chosen auditors, Rice M. Reynolds, Daniel G. Potter and Arthur D. Norcross a financial committee, and Frank E. Morris treasurer.

The Ladies Benevolent Society of the Congregational church will conclude their sociables this year with a pink supper, which will be given in the parlors next Wednesday evening. Refreshments will be served from seven till nine. All are cordially invited.

There has been at different times in the past talk of the Boston and Albany road building a branch from Palmer to the quarry of the W. N. Flynt Granite Co. for freight purposes. The route is an easy one up the valley past the state primary school, directly to the quarry at an easy grade, and would give quick and convenient shipment for stone. The matter is being again revived, though whether it will amount to anything or not is uncertain. It is understood that the Boston and Albany road has signified it willingness to do something in this line, and the present may be considered a suitable time. The Flynt company is not satisfied with the service it is getting from the New London Northern road, and unless satisfactory arrangements can be made with that corporation the company will make a push for the line from Palmer direct to the quarry. The company pays the New London Northern road large amounts yearly in freight, and feels that it should receive better service than it is getting.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

